WILLIAMSON'S
D I R E C T O R Y

FOR THE

CITY OF EDINBURGH, CANONGATE,
LEITH, AND SUBURBS,

FROM THE 25TH MAY 1773, TO 25TH MAY 1774,

BEING THE FIRST PUBLISHED.

REPRINTED IN EXACT FACSIMILE,

WITH A PREFATORY NOTE.

WILLIAM BROWN,
26 PRINCES STREET, EDINBURGH.

1889.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

THERE has long been considerable dubiety, even in the minds of those most intimately acquainted with the history and antiquities of the city, as to the year in which the first Edinburgh Directory appeared. This has been partly due to the extreme rarity of the volume in question, and partly to the ambiguity of the advertisement on the cover of the Directory for 1775-6—itself very rare—in which it is stated that “the Edinburgh Directory has now been published for three years,” without its being made clear whether or not the issue of that year is taken into account.

It therefore seems fitting to preface this facsimile reprint of the first edition by a few words as to the discovery of its original, the evidence of its being the first, and the circumstances connected with the publication of the book by Peter Williamson in 1773.

The original volume, which is here reproduced by photo-lithography, was purchased by me in London in the present year at the sale of the library of a Scottish collector. It was found in excellent preservation, with the original blue paper covers, and containing the autograph signatures of two such noted bibliographers as the Rev. Dr John Lee and Dr David Laing—the former having apparently become its possessor in 1824, the latter in 1863, as these dates follow their respective names. Curiously enough, neither of these gentlemen noted upon the book the fact of its being the first edition ; perhaps neither felt sufficiently sure of its being so.

On securing it, the first question that arose was, whether or not one had become owner of the much sought for "editio princeps," and an enquiry through the columns of The Scotsman fortunately produced the desired information. Mr John Glen, of Edinburgh, having been engaged in searching the file of The Caledonian Mercury in the Advocates' Library, in another connection, had come upon the earliest advertisements of Peter Williamson in regard to his venture, and luckily had carefully noted their dates. After a little correspondence, he very courteously placed his memoranda at my disposal, and I was thus enabled to settle definitely that the first "City Directory" was that for the year 1773-4, which I had in my possession. Williamson's advertisements ran as follows ; first in The Caledonian Mercury of 6th June 1773—

"In the press and will be published at Whitsunday week, The Edinburgh New Pocket Companion or City Directory, distinctly pointing out every householder's name, place of abode, trade, and traffic, within the city and suburbs, Leith, Canongate &c.—Gentlemen who are to flit this term, will please send their names and place of abode to PETER WILLIAMSON, Printer, head of Forrester's Wynd, who will insert them in this directory."

And again on June 30th of the same year—

“ This day was Published, Price 1s.

WILLIAMSON'S DIRECTORY

For the City of Edinburgh, Canongate, Leith, and Suburbs. From the 25th of May 1773, to the 25th of May 1774.

CONTAINING

An ALPHABETICAL LIST of the Names and Places of Abode of all the Members of the College of Justice, public and private Gentlemen, Merchants, and other eminent Traders, Mechanics, and all persons in public business. Where, at one view, you have a plain direction, pointing out the streets, wynds, closes, lands, and other places their residence in and about this Metropolis. Together with Separate Lists of the Magistrates, Court of Session, and Court of Exchequer; the Constables of Edinburgh, Canongate, and Leith; Carriers, &c.”

A search through the file for the preceding year having revealed no notice of any such publication, it must be concluded that the “three years” referred to in the volume for 1775-6 include the issue of that year, and that the above are the first announcements. Interesting confirmation of this is obtained, however, by reference to the advertisement appended to the volume here reprinted, for it will be seen that it is not only couched in language suitable to a first venture, but that in it the publisher apologizes for omissions, due to many having "scruples of giving information, as they imagined it was for another purpose he was taking up their names,"—such scruples being of course much less likely to exist after the nature and purpose of the publication had been made manifest by its appearance before the public.

It may be stated, in passing, that the entire population of the city and Leith about this date has been estimated at fully 80,000; more than usually accurate data having been obtained for the enumeration from a survey taken in 1775 in connection with the Road Tax; and also, that the unpopularity of the visitation made in this connection no doubt served to augment the difficulties experienced by Williamson.

The long sought for Directory having been found, the possibility of obtaining the Appendix, promised to subscribers in the supplementary advertisement above quoted, next came under consideration. It seemed almost hopeless to look for it, as the volume itself had been so hard to find; but just then one of those pieces of good fortune happened, which at rare intervals come to book-collectors. The Library of James Cadell, Esq., at Carron Park, West Lothian, being under arrangement by one of my assistants, a second copy of the Directory, in perfect preservation, and with the desired supplement, was found on the shelves. It had been placed there by William Archibald Cadell, grand-uncle of the present owner, and by him carefully cased in cloth, and dated; and its owner, immediately on its discovery, most kindly consented to lend the valuable little volume, that the Appendix might be reproduced along with the book. The reprint is therefore placed before the reader complete, as at first published.

The following facts regarding Peter Williamson, to whose enterprise the city first owed this useful publication, may be of interest. He was a man of very varied experience, and of much energy and versatility, and has left the record of his Life and Curious Adventures, penned by himself.

From it we gather that he was born about 1730; that he was a native of the parish of Aboyne, Aberdeenshire; and that, while a mere child, he was kidnapped at Aberdeen and carried to America, where he was sold as a slave and subjected to the most cruel hardships. He relates in his book, at considerable length, the story of his misfortunes, and especially of his terrible sufferings at the hands of the Indians, and at the same time conveys to the reader much interesting information regarding scenes and people but little known in his day. On his return to his native land in 1756, the publication of his Curious Adventures brought him into collision with the Magistrates of Aberdeen, he having charged the “worthy merchants” of the town with engaging in the infamous trade of kidnapping children. On being brought before them he was forced to declare his statement untrue, but soon found that his having done so did not prevent his being both fined and expelled from the town. He appealed to the Court of Session, however, and was there exonerated, his charge being only too true, and received £100 in damages from the Magistrates. He then settled in Edinburgh, where he for some time carried on the business of a vintner; but, as will be seen by reference to the note on page 91 of the Directory, he ultimately relinquished it for the more congenial employment of a printer, and from his press, in addition to the series of Directories and his volume of Adventures, issued a weekly paper named The Scots Spy, and several excellent books, including more than one edition of the Scottish version of the Psalms.

One would think that Williamson's share of misfortunes had been ample, and that his later years would have been left undisturbed; but it was not so, for in 1789 we find a volume appearing entitled “The Trial of Divorce at the instance of Peter Williamson, printer in Edinburgh, against Jean Wilson, daughter of John Wilson, bookseller, Edinburgh, his spouse.”

It will be noted that the said John Wilson's name appears on the title-page which follows this preface.

Perhaps that which as much as his Directory displays the versatility of Williamson, and proves him to have been ahead of his time, is his having successfully organised a system of penny postage for letters and parcels throughout the city, and Leith.

On the appearance of his second Directory, which, by the way, he says, "contains 4000 names more than last year's, and is upon an entire new plan," he adds:—

"N.B.—The public may depend, that Letters, &c., will be regularly sent by the Penny Post, to Leith, or any place within an English mile of the cross of Edinburgh, every hour thro' the day, a number of hands being kept for that purpose; and the different offices for taking in Williamson's Penny Post letters, are all inserted in the Directory."

From the wording of this advertisement, it is evident that the system was already, to some extent, known to the citizens, and it is likely that the visitation for the first Directory suggested the idea to him. His scheme succeeded, and, as usual in such cases, his success brought competition into the field, for he states on the cover of the Directory for 1775-6 that he "did not long continue without many rivals," and that "The multiplicity of penny post-offices, which were constantly starting up, distracted Public attention," and he therefore requests the citizens to entrust him alone with their correspondence, giving the following information and directions:—

"Peter Williamson thinks it a duty he owes himself, to inform the public, that all the offices belonging to him, are mentioned in the last page of this Directory, and that every letter, delivered by any of his men, is stamped with these words: Penny Post Paid; or, Penny Post not Paid. If any letter shall be offered by the Penny Post, without such stamp, they are entreated not to pay for it, as such a practice might encourage the men to circumvene their master, who is obliged to pay them their wages weekly, whether the office yields himself so much or not, which he is sorry to say, is some weeks the case. By perseverance, however, he still hopes to succeed. He begs leave to assure the public of the safety and expedition of letters or parcels intrusted to his care; or to any of the offices he has appointed in different parts of the town for the conveniency of the Public: as, if properly directed, they cannot fail of being speedily delivered."

Amidst much discouragement, Williamson continued both this service and the issue of his Directories for several years, and it is satisfactory to be informed that he received a small pension from Government on its taking over the postal arrangements of the city. His death occurred early in 1799.

Before concluding these brief notes, I desire to express my thanks to Mr Cadell and Mr Glen, before mentioned, and also to Mr Wm. Cowan, the present owner of the first discovered copy of the Directory, for their aid in bringing together the materials for this reprint, and the facts connected with its original publication.

The Publifher of this work takes this method to acquaint his friends and well-wifhers, that he has entirely left off the bufinefs of a vintner, and embraces this opportunity of returning his hearty thanks to all his customers, in hopes they will continue their favours to his fucceffor George Honey, who has provided himfelf with all neceffaries fuitable to accommodate the public.

The Publifher has laid in an affortment of new types, in order to carry on the printing bufinefs in all its various branches. He will make it His ftudy to give all fatisfaction to his employers, and will print on the moft reasonable terms, and thankfully acknowledge the favours of thofe who fhall think proper to employ him.

A D V E R T I S E M E N T.

TH E Publisher of this Directory has endeavoured to supply the frequent complaints of strangers, as well as the Citizens, in taking upon him the arduous task of compiling a Complete Guide, for the easy finding out every inhabitant, of the least note, in this metropolis and suburbs.

But, as the difficulty of a private person's knowing every one and his connections, without the assistance of the people themselves, must be apparent to every one; it cannot be expected, but that some errors and omissions will appear, which he hopes the indulgent public will excuse; notwithstanding, the publisher did make an actual survey of almost every house in Edinburgh, with a view to be as exact as possible, but many had scruples of giving information, as they imagined it was for another purpose he was taking up their names.

Therefore, to render this Directory complete, there will be an Appendix printed, and given gratis to the purchasers of this, about the first of August next, rectifying the mistakes (if any be) wherein the names of those that have been omitted in this shall be carefully inserted, and the publisher will take it kind to have written information on this occasion, that the Appendix and the subsequent editions may be as complete as possible.

As this Directory will annually require reprinting, on account of removals, deaths, new partnerships, and other accidents, the publisher hopes, that those who are to move will give him proper notice thereof, before the first of May next, that they may be inserted accordingly.

N. B. Those marked thus † in the Appendix, are mistaken in the Directory.

As the Appendix is now published, which renders the Directory complete, so far as information could be got. The Publisher will always be glad of new information in time coming, that he may be able to make this work as useful to the public as possible, and he hopes the inhabitants will not think a shilling ill laid out upon a performance calculated, at a very great expence and trouble, for the benefit of this metropolis.
