Preface to 1900-1901 Edition.

THROUGH the courtesy of Advertisers, we are again enabled to place another issue of the Local Directory before the public.

It is 500 years since Rothesay—which bulks so very largely in this publication—was erected into a Royal Burgh. That it has greatly progressed everybody knows. It would be interesting to know how, say, its officials and traders now compare with those at the beginning of the past centuries, but the burgh records before 1657 were carried away by Cromwell's governor, and the incalculable boon of printing was then unknown here.

We will not anticipate any of the tit-bits which those eminent in official or business circles will doubtless produce at the forthcoming quincentenary celebration proceedings further than to indicate that the native born inhabitants and the settlers live most amicably together. The latter were ever welcome, and the kindly feelings are reciprocated for the public good. Our Royal Burgh has been first in Scotland in more achievements than one. Within the last hundred years the place has undergone a revolution in its means of existence. In the early part of 1800 Rothesay was a great fish-curing and shipping port, and little or nothing frequented as a watering-place. Cooperages, coopers, mill spinners, handloom weavers, tan works, candle factory, ship building, and shipping made it a busy town. Gradually it declined as a fishcuring port, and became reduced to a creek, and for forty five years it has been without a Custom-house, and almost no shipping. Even the cotton mills and steam looms have decayed, and the only mill then existing now left is the good old Corn Mill—in these latter times beginning to be known again by its former name "The King's Mill"—established 1480.

Steam, gas and electricity have all been discovered and applied during the 19th century, and they have worked wonders. Railways have not yet quite become an institution in Bute, but the finest fleet of pleasure steamers for speed and safety, ply on its waters. The last execution for witchcraft here was in 1673, but superstition did not die then, for when the first steamer, "Comet," arrived in Rothesay Bay in 1812, some of the inhabitants fled at the approach of what they considered was the devil. The Rothesay gas company was projected in 1840, and the installation of the electric light is so recent as to be within the recollection of the youngest inhabitant.

A reference of our trades section shows many handicrafts in our midst now which were unknown 100 years ago. It would take up more than the Spartan brevity we desire to practice here were we to comment on them, but the list will provide food for reflection during the quiet months of winter. There are more public officials now than there was 100 years ago, and the pluralists in that department are not now in evidence. Though there were less churches and public boards then than now, the duties of the old officials could not have been quite the sinecures which some at this time of day seem to think. To name only one—the Rev. Dr Maclea, parish minister from 1765 till 1822—what a power for good that terror to evil doers must have been, as his sense of order was such that he is still known as “Rothesay’s only policeman.” The retrospect is interesting, and we may put in permanent form a local business history of the nineteenth century.

The enterprise of Rothesay’s present inhabitants is unabated. Its great attraction now is as a holiday resort, and Where in broad Scotland is there anything to compare with it? We would go further, and ask Where in the wide world is there such varied and beautiful scenery as in the County of Bute and Environs, and such unapproached means for visiting the same comfortably and cheaply?

We know that very many persons preserve their copies of the Directory, and in their leisure moments find not a little pleasure in refreshing their memories with the names of those who were the life of the place in the past. In like manner—only very much more carefully—will the present volume be preserved, not alone to refresh in the years to come the memories of those now living, but also to inform succeeding generations, as to who was who at the beginning of the 20th century—the sixth of Rothesay’s existence as a Royal Burgh. Advance Rothesay! What will our trim and hopeful little town be like at the turn of the next century?

We respectfully tender our acknowledgments to all who have assisted in this compilation.

HIGGIE & CO., Publishers.

COUNTY OF BUTE.

The County of Bute comprises the seven islands in the Firth of Clyde, viz. :—BUTE, the most populous; ARRAN, the largest; the GREAT and LITTLE CUMBRAES, off the Ayrshire Coast; HOLY ISLE and PLADDA, off Arran; and INCHMARNOCK, off Bute.

The total Area of the County (land and water, exclusive of tidal water) is 140,307 acres, of which 53,423 are mountain and heath lands used for grazing. There are about 25,605 acres under all kinds of crops, bare fallow, and grass, which is a gradual inroad on the mountain heath and hitherto uncultivated land.

The principal Industries are agriculture, horticulture, and fishing. The islands possess great and varied natural attractions, and are in the front rank of watering-places.

The Population of the County (including the burghs) in 1891 was 18,404—8,211 males and 10,193 females.

The Coast Guide, Diary and Register.

Opinions of the Press, 1900.

"This is one of the most useful pennyworth's ever issued in connection with the Clyde and its numerous summer resorts. It is replete with the information that one is in search of who contemplates a day or a more lengthened holiday at the coast. It is handy for the pocket, and gives all the needful particulars about the routes, excursion fares, &c., and, what is of equal importance, in a way that he who runs may read. There is nothing intricate or difficult to follow in this booklet, and to the working man, as well as to the regular tourist, it will prove an indispensable vade mecum for all the information requisite regarding any place on the Clyde and West Coast. It may be fairly described as supplementary to that other useful publication of Mr Higgle's known now by the travelling public as 'The Health, Profit and Pleasure Resorts of Bonnie Scotland.' It is only a journalist such as Mr Higgle who could have devised two publications so cheap and useful as those alluded to. We hope the Coast Guide will prove as successful in every respect as 'Bonnie Scotland.'"—Scottish Trader.

"THE PLEASURE SEEKERS' COMPANION.—This is the alluring title of No. 19 of Messrs Higgle & Co's. publishers, Glasgow & Rothesay, Coast Guide, Diary and Register, a handy little vade mecum for the tripper. For one penny one gets quiet a lot of nice descriptive matter anent coast and country health and pleasure resorts; a general survey of the principal railway lines in their relation to scenery, an A B C Coast Guide, a diary, which includes a page wherein to mark the cash one hasn't got left after doing a month at, say, Rothesay, and a great many 'useful hints' ranging in importance from information as to the proper time to post letters to why one must not sit in a draught. No home should be without it."—Hamilton Herald.

"COAST GUIDE.—The Coast Guide, Diary and Register, issued by Messrs Higgle & Co. Rothesay, is out again for the season, and, as usual, is full of the most useful information for tourists and coast dwellers. The time of trains and steamboats, the best hotels, the handiest places for making purchases—all find a corner in this compact little gazetteer. Miscellaneous hints are also given regarding fishing, golf, swimming, rowing, camping out, etc., and the Guide, concludes with a chapter of advice on how to preserve the health."—Govan Press.

"COAST GUIDE.—Messrs Higgle & Co., Rothesay, have just issued a small penny guide to the coast which should prove both useful and interesting for the holiday season. Besides giving rail and steamboat connections to the principal places on the Clyde, short descriptive notes of the principal places of interest are given."—Wishaw Press.

"Messrs Higgle & Co., Glasgow and Rothesay, publish an A B C Coast Guide, Diary and Register, of a very comprehensive kind, and wonderful value for the modest penny charged for the little volume. It is issued monthly during the tourist season, and gives all the train and steamer regular runs to the West of Scotland."—Stirling Sentinel.

"THE COAST GUIDE.—Messrs Higgle & Co., publishers of Glasgow & Rothesay, have issued a handy little guide to the coast which only costs one penny. It gives interesting notes on each of the chief resorts, with tables of fares and the best means of getting to the various places, and is altogether a handy little guide."—Evening Citizen.

"THE A B C COAST GUIDE, DIARY AND REGISTER—monthly, one penny, published by Higgle & Co., Glasgow and Rothesay—meets a felt want and is a veritable multum in parvo of useful information, clearly and concisely brought together. Excursionists will find it very serviceable."—Kilmarnock Standard.

"The Coast Guide, Diary and Register, (Higgle & Co., publishers, Rothesay), will give the sea-loving visitor ample information about the west coast of Scotland steamer sailings. Much useful information is included in the guide, and all for the moderate sum of one penny."—Highland News.

"The Coast Guide, Diary, and Register, published by Messrs Higgle & Co., Glasgow and Rothesay, and sold for a penny, is a handy little volume containing much valuable and necessary information for the guidance of tourists and visitors to the West Coast resorts."—Weekly News.

"THE COAST GUIDE, DIARY AND REGISTER is again published by Higgle & Co., Rothesay, and contains full information as to the various pleasure resorts, railway and steamboat connections, &c."—Buteman, Rothesay.

"The A B C Coast Guide published by Higgle & Co., is again being issued this season and contains a large amount of information of value to holiday makers, particularly in the Clyde districts."—Rothesay Chronicle.

"A concise and comprehensive pennyworth of information is the A B C Coast Guide, Diary and Register. (Higgle & Co., Rothesay)."—Faisley Gazette.

"A very handy little booklet. It will be found exceedingly serviceable. . . These cards should be much prized, as undoubtedly they will, by the Scot abroad."—Peeblesshire Advertiser.

"A booklet of some 130 pages, crammed full of information, and certainly is an admirable epitome of the subject. . . A variation on the ordinary Christmas card. Also ready a special Scotch Christmas card of four pages with a sprig of real heather."—Northern Newsagent.

"Higgie & Co. of Glasgow and Rothesay, an enterprising firm of publishers who lately achieved some success by the issue of a cheap guide entitled 'Bonnie Scotland's' Resorts, have now hit upon another good idea—that of preparing Christmas and New Year cards suitable for sending from the Old Country to Scots abroad, or for the latter to import in quantities and send to one another."—Scottish American, U. S. A.

"Messrs Higgie & Co., Rothesay, are prepared to furnish on order unique Christmas cards. The card itself is not gaudy, but plain and somewhat rough—just like oor 'auld country'; but it improves on acquaintance—like oor ain folk. On the front page is a representation of the Scottish Cross, with St Andrew in the centre, and appropriate mottoes on our Caledonian blue; while the back page takes in the whole of our glorious Empire's Union Jack (the red, white and blue 'flag that whips the seas.') The second page is reserved for the Season's Greetings, and on the third page is fastened a dainty sprig of oor ain native heather over an expressive verse of poetry; while those two inside pages are surrounded with mottoes every one of which breathes a true Scottish sentiment of good will to absent relatives or acquaintances. Personal photographs, local views, or a bit o' the tartan may be added with great effect, by the individual sender."—Oban Express.

They're faur, faur awa', but their hearts are kind and true—
