AN ACCOUNT OF THE
FAMILIES OF BOASE OR BOWES, ORIGINALLY RESIDING
AT PAUL AND MADRON
IN CORNWALL;
AND OF OTHER FAMILIES CONNECTED WITH THEM
BY MARRIAGE, &c.

Privately Printed

(Seventy-five Copies only.)

FOR CHARLES WILLIAM, GEORGE CLEMENT, AND FREDERIC BOASE, BY WILLIAM POLLARD, PRINTER, NORTH STREET, EXETER.

P R E F A C E.

The following account of the Boase family and of persons with whom they have been and are connected in marriage is now printed for family use only; and with the twofold object of preserving the information collected by the compilers of this work, and of eliciting from the various heads of families further and more accurate details about their own branches. This must therefore be considered in the light of a preliminary sketch to be filled up more fully on a future occasion.

The difficulties of writing even a short work of this nature will be known to all who have been engaged in similar pursuits; no apology is therefore offered for the occurrence of a certain number of mistakes which were unavoidable, since almost every line contains a fact or a date.

Mr. George Bown Millett of Penzance is now engaged in editing the earliest register of the parish of Madron, a work which will be useful to place beside this family history, as by its use it will be possible to verify many of the dates here mentioned and add further particulars.

The Compilers desire that their relatives will kindly supply an account of errors and omissions, with additional matter respecting intermarriages and the pedigrees of families with which such marriages have taken place.

It is hoped that this work may serve to keep up a feeling of relationship between families now scattered far and wide over Great Britain, but all tracing their original descent to the county of Cornwall.

INDEX.

The letter p in italics following after a name denotes that the reference is to the folding Pedigree sheet at the commencement of this volume. The figures refer to the columns of the text. It is also to be noted that in this Index all Christian and Surnames are spelt in one way only, notwithstanding the various spellings which are to be found elsewhere, and that as a rule one reference only is given to each page, although the name may occur more than once on the same page.

THE FAMILY OF BOASE OF PAUL AND MADRON IN CORNWALL.

THE FAMILY OF BOASE (or Bowes) was settled in the parishes of Paul and Madron at the end of the sixteenth century. Ursula, daughter of William Bowes, was buried at Madron, 14 Dec. 1578; Joan, daughter of Edward Bowes, was buried at Paul, 16 Feb. 160 $\frac{1}{2}$; and Cresten, daughter of Richard Bose, was baptised 27 Feb. 160 $\frac{1}{2}$, at Paul. The earlier registers at Paul unfortunately perished when the Spaniards burnt the place 23 July 1595. The name was at first usually spelt Bowes, but it is also spelt, like most other names at that time, in a variety of ways; and the spelling Boase became the common one in the eighteenth century. Two entries at Paul about the same person run thus: "Arthur, son of John Boase, bap. 1 Nov. 1652;" "Arthur Bowes married Florence, 18 June 1686." The present account is taken from a pedigree entered at the Herald's Office 1810 by Henry Boase, Esq., and duly recorded by Sir Isaac Heard, Garter King at Arms. It reaches from 1681 to 1809, and has been supplemented from family information, from wills, and from the registers. The following notes supply additional particulars taken from these sources. The five marks * † ‡ § mean throughout "at Paul, Madron, Penzance, London, Dundee" respectively.

SIMON BOWES m. * 8 July 1676 Sara Shutford. He was probably son of the Simon who d. 1697. Administration of his effects was granted at Bodmin, 31 Aug. 1723, to his daughter Sarah, wife of John Bramble, yeoman. The will of his son John is dated at Chioon (in Paul) 9 Oct. 1721, and the probate at Bodmin 1 Oct. 1722. By it he leaves to his sisters Sarah Bramble and Phillis Berryman equal shares of his lease lands, &c.; to his sister Ursula Boase £20, to be paid to John Boson, gentleman, her trustee, within six years, the executors meanwhile paying him 20 shillings yearly for her; the executors are his brothers-in-law, John Bramble and John Berryman; his aunt, Blanch Shutford, he leaves to the care of his sisters; the witnesses are Roger Roberts, Relvisa Maddern, Jane Tonkin. Blanch Shutford may have been Blanch Sampson of Penzance, who married Robert Shutford 1 May 1704, if Robert was brother of Philip Shutford, the father of Sara Shutford, who was mother of John Bowes. The Bosons were then the leading people in the place, and John Boson was probably the well-known Cornish scholar, the correspondent of William Gwavas and others (see Bibliotheca Cornubiensis, under Boson and Gwavas). Juliana, who married John Bowes, * 30 Ap. 1686, was probably the daughter of George Boson, Esq., and this alliance may be the reason of John Boson becoming trustee for one of the family (see Boson pedigree). Another Simon Bowes, probably connected with this one, m. * 3 March 1767, Penelope Ladner of Paul ("with her father's consent," i.e. she was under age: witnesses, Thomas Hoskin, Stephen Barnes).

JOHN BOWES, of Tredavo in Paul, who died 1681. There was a family tradition that he came over from Holland and founded the family in Paul. This must be incorrect, but he may have been in Holland, and come back in later life to his native parish. Richard Daniell, one of the chief landowners in the district, was Governor of Middleburg, under Sir Robert Sidney 1612-14; and, through his connections (he married twice there), the Daniell family may have been able to forward the interests of a countryman. This conjecture rests on the fact that in a rent roll (printed further on) of Richard Daniell, in 1657, John Boos appears as holding Tredavo under him at a conventional rent of £5—the highest rent given. The administration of John Bowes' property was granted at Bodmin, 21 Nov. 1681, to his son Robert, Jane the widow having renounced. Robert probably moved to Penzance, having married Mary Rawling of that place (see below under Boase of Madron and Penzance). It is to be noted that there was probably another John Bowes living at this time in Paul, for an obscure entry in the register seems to read "(Cisley?) wife of John Bowes, buried 11 April 1661." If so, some of the later children (after Robert and Arthur) here assigned to John Bowes, who died 1681, may be really children of this second John Bowes. At the death of the first John Bowes in 1681, Robert seems to have been the eldest son living. William, perhaps son of this second John Bowes, was baptised * 23 July 1648, † buried * 28 July 1689, having had a son, William, baptised * 2 April 1678. John, another son (? of the John who died 1681) died 1734, and administration was granted at Bodmin, 17 July 1734, to his son William, and daughter Jane, wife of Thomas John.

RICHARD BOASE of Newlyn, was witness to his brother Arthur's marriage in 1760, and Arthur's daughter, Anno's, marriage in 1783, and died in 1788. Administration was granted at Bodmin 23 September 1788, to his widow Sarah. The witnesses to their marriage in 1754 (by licence) are John Tonkin and Arthur Boase. Both Richard and his widow Sarah Berryman, were buried in Paul Church, and a mortuary paid for them, of 10s. 6d. and a guinea respectively. The will of their son John is dated 13 December 1794. He leaves to his daughter Phillis £500 to be paid her at the age of 21, or on her marriage, if she marry before that age, four per cent. interest being allowed her meanwhile: the same to his daughter Elizabeth Harvey, both sums being charged on his real estates. His only son John is made executor and residuary legatee. The witnesses are Harry and Mary Tonkin and James Pascoe. On 2 February 1795 administration was granted at Bodmin to George Glasson, uncle-in-law and guardian of John Boase, the executor, power being reserved to grant the like administration to John Boase when of age. Stamp £11 10s. John Boase's seal is attached.

It is possible that Richard Boase, who died 1788, had married a first time when very young, for this entry occurs at Paul, "William, son of Richard and Isabella Boase, baptised 6 September 1747," and the following entry possibly refers to the children of this William. His wife Grace may be Grace, daughter of John and Elizabeth Boase, baptised * 6 December 1747 (same year as her husband).

1789, October 18, baptised Charles and Mary, son and daughter of William and Grace Boase.

The following entries refer to the children of another William Boase living at the same time (unless Richard's son William married Joan, and Grace was the wife of the other William.)

1790, January 25, baptised William son of William and Joan Boase.

1791, July 24, baptised John, son of William and Joan Boase.

1794, April 27, baptised Simon, son of William and Joan Boase.

1797, July 16, baptised Joan, daughter of William and Joan Boase.

1799, July 7, baptised Thomasin, daughter of William and Joan Boase.

1801, March (? April) 12, baptised Charles, son of William and Joan Boase.

1803, April 9, baptised Eliza, daughter of William and Joan Boase.

1805, December 15, baptised Anne, daughter of William and Joan Boase.

1807, September 6, baptised Mary, daughter of William and Joan Boase.

1811, June 9, baptised Richard, son of William and Joan Boase.

John Rowe, who married Elizabeth Harvey Boase in 1810, took out several patents (see Bibliotheca Cornubiensis sub Rowe).

The William, son of John, who married Margaret Martin in 1717, was probably married previously, as there is an entry at Paul, William, son of William Boase, baptised 1 August 1714.

The following entries also occur at Paul:

Marriages—

1632, April 16, William Bawse and Anne.

Baptisms—

1665, October 27, Richard, son of Richard Bowes.

1678, April 2, William, son of William Bowes

1695, February 25, Mary, daughter of Richard Bowes.

1746, August 3, Elizabeth, daughter of John and Elizabeth Boase.

1747, December 6, Graee, daughter of John and Elizabeth Boase.

1804, October 7 Richard, son of Richard and Jane Boase.

1806, February 22, Elizabeth Lawrence, daughter of Richard and Jane Boase.

1807, May 21, Joannah, daughter of Sampson and Margaret Boase.

1809, March 12, Elizabeth, daughter of Sampson and Elizabeth Boase.

1811, August 4, William Henry, son of Richard and Jane Boase.

1811, October 13, Eliza, daughter of Sampson and Margaret Boase.

Burials—

1689, July 28, William Boase.

1753, July 1, Richard Boase.

1812, July 26, Thomas Boase, age four months, of small pox.

1814, January 23, Elizabeth Boase, age 5 years.

In Burian we find—

William Boase of S. Levan (? moved thither from Paul), married at Burian, 30 May 1737, Alice Taylor of Burian, (? buried 5 April 1784). Their son Charles, baptised 27 December 1737 at Burian, married * 23 April 1766, Elizabeth Uren of Paul, spinster; witnesses, John Gwennap, Philip Madern (? Elizabeth buried 28 January 1794), and had by her Phillis, baptised 11 May 1767, at Burian.

Others occur at Burian—

1782, January 16, buried daughter of William Boase.

1786, August 9, buried Thomasine, wife of William Boase.

1795, January 2, buried John Boase.

1796, February 22, buried William Boase.

1809, December 4, buried Elizabeth Boase, age 25.

At Sennen—

1747, January 6, baptised William, son of William Boase.

1750, June 9, baptised John, son of William Boase.

HENRY BOASE, who died 1827, left behind him an autobiography, from which the following notices of his life have been mainly taken.

Henry Boase, the fourth son of Arthur Boase of Madron, by Jane, daughter of Henry Lugg of S. Keverne, was born at Madron on the third of June 1763, and baptized at the parish church on Midsummer day. As to his family connections he says himself in his autobiography "My paternal grandfather farmed his own little property in the parish of Paul, my maternal grandfather was a Lugg of S. Keverne, where his ancestors were freeholders of old times, and where his family still remain. He purchased some lands both freehold and leasehold in Madron, where he came to reside, and married a Miss Paul, by whom we are related with Luke, Hosking, Wallis, Woodis, and other families. Miss Paul's sister married Hosking of Landithy, and her daughters were married, one to Wallis, another to Thomas Woodis of Alverton. These with the father of Mr. Edmund Paul, surgeon, were first cousins of my mother. Mr. Luke and Dr. Luke are my cousins in the second degree by their mother, a Trewavas; and Mr. Luke's children are doubly related to us, that is by their grandmother, a Trewavas, and by their mother, a Woodis, who was the elder sister of Mrs. John Jones Pearce." He was of weak health, and studious habits, and early gained some knowledge of the classical languages and of French, though the means of instruction within his reach were very small. His father Arthur had been fairly educated, and was a member of the Bowling green and Sporting clubs of the neighbourhood, and was constantly Churchwarden, an office of some note in those days, and which after the squire and the vicar distinguished a chief man in the parish. He was a reader and a politician, and then, what was far from common, had a share of a weekly newspaper, (taken in by several in rotation), the Sherborne Mercury, the only paper published at that time in the Western counties. This newspaper was accompanied by a little Weekly Miscellany, from which its readers gained small scraps of literary information, and to which Henry Boase afterwards contributed. The Cornish language had not yet wholly died out. "In my father's early years not a few of the previous generation spoke Cornish, of which he retained many phrases. I remember he used to teach us the Lord's Prayer, sundry proverbs, the numerals &c., in that language."

In 1779 he became a clerk in Mr. Luke's office at Penzance, and gained better opportunities for self instruction than were available at Gear in Gulval, to which his father had removed from Madron in 1774. "Soon after I came to reside at Penzance I had the good fortune to obtain some favour in the sight of a very eccentric man of the name of Hewett, who kept a small, and at that time, the only bookseller's shop in the town. Monthly Magazines were then getting into fashion, about half a dozen of which came to his shop every month, and it was to me a great treat to be permitted to peep between the un-cut leaves, before they were sent home to their owners. With intense anxiety I have often watched the arrival of the monthly wagon, and the removal of my friend's package to his shop, and then passed by the door or made some excuse to go in and see whether it was opened, an operation which the old gentleman, to my great mortification, would sometimes postpone for several days. I reckon it one of the most fortunate circumstances of my life to have fallen into the good graces of the old bookseller, for at that time Penzance afforded very little help towards the acquisition of knowledge,—no book clubs, no public library, no reading rooms, no scientific institutions of any kind; and except a little occasional stir by the novel introduction of Methodism there was nothing to disturb the long established smoking, drinking, and gaming-clubs, of which there were some for all ranks, and for almost all ages. These were distinguished by many ridiculous names, but all agreeing in drunkenness, profanity, and card playing; hard drinking, gaming and swearing, were then considered gentlemanly accomplishments, and destroyed the health and fortune of very many. To the wonderful change which took place soon after the breaking out of the late war, I ascribe much of the increase of population which has since taken place. From the pernicious influence of such society, I was in a great measure preserved by a weak state of health, and a fortunate poverty, which left me very little to spend, and much less than I was anxious to invest in books. This is a sad picture of Penzance, such as it was before I knew it and when I lived there from 1779 to 1784. When I visited it in 1792, I did not observe much difference; but when I again saw it in 1806, I was astonished at the change. Much of the moral change we have seen may be traced to the spread of Methodism, which, while it operated powerfully on the labouring classes, reflected a benign influence on the higher orders of society. Smuggling with its concomitant vices of drunkenness and swearing was virtually encouraged by the upper ranks, and was the bane of the miner and the fisherman. Against these especially, Wesley and Whitfield levelled their powerful denunciations, and although their followers were for a long time few and obscure, the evils they condemned were too flagrant to admit of defence. So uncivilized were our miners down to a period so recent as to be within my memory, that one of the terrors of the nursery to quiet froward children was to tell them that the Tinnars were rising. When these men felt or fancied some public grievance, they collected in great bodies, and laid the devoted towns and markets under such contributions or restraints as the barbarous multitude thought proper to impose. Among these men Wesley and Whitfield operated a change of incalculable importance not only to the miners but to the community at large."

In 1781, being then clerk to Mr. Luke, he went on business to Falmouth, and as he was very fond of drawing, amused himself with taking sketches of the harbour, and at length wandered within the lines of Pendennis castle, not knowing that it was forbidden ground, it being a time of war, and of great terror about spies; he was consequently arrested and dismissed with a reprimand for the trouble his ignorance had occasioned.

In 1782 he went on horseback to Plymouth on business. Plymouth had hardly yet recovered from the panic occasioned by the combined fleets of France and Spain, which had menaced its destruction three years before, in the month of August 1779. "Of that alarm I have still a vivid recollection, caused probably by the violence of the original impression, when the enemy with apparently an overwhelming force was in sight. Early one beautiful morning the alarm was given that the grand fleet of England, chased by the combined fleets of France and Spain was off the Western Coast. Everybody ran to the hills, from which could be seen at once the British fleet, under Sir Charles Hardy, 38 ships of the line and a very few frigates, crowding sail to the eastward, and leisurely pursued by the combined fleet, under Count D'Orvilliers, composed of about 70 ships of the line, with a cloud of frigates and smaller vessels. The day was nearly calm, with now and then a little breeze to the northward, so that for the long space of a summer's day the Mount's Bay exhibited the uncommon scene, first, of more than 100 ships of the line assembled, and secondly, of the British Channel fleet flying before the enemy. With the close of the day we lost sight of the fleet off the Lizard, and the second day after, the enemy paraded triumphantly before Plymouth, whence he drew off on the third night, alarmed by a threatening storm with heavy thunder from the south-east. I was told at Plymouth that a single ship might have silenced all the batteries, so wretchedly unprepared were they to sustain any attack."

On the restoration of peace it occurred to him that if he could learn to speak and write French with facility it would be a recommendation, as that was an attainment becoming more necessary in commercial affairs, and far from common among clerks in those days. "So scanty however were my resources at this period, that the expense, though trivial, was a formidable obstacle; but as I could pass over by one of our Mount's Bay boats for nothing, and contemplated only a short stay, it was at length determined that I should go." In the spring of 1785 therefore he landed at Roscoff in Brittany, with the express object of improving his knowledge of modern French, and resided for sometime with a French family at Morlaix, to which he had been introduced by Mr. M'Culloch (father of Dr. M'Culloch, the geologist), a merchant whose acquaintance he had made at Penzance during the war. "Here I was treated very kindly, and passed about nine of the pleasantest months of my whole life. Though Morlaix was a large town, living was then cheap there. My board and lodging were thought liberally paid at the rate of 400 livres, or about £16 a-year. Hairdresser, fencing master, dancing master, and washerwoman, all important personages, and indispensable, were paid 3 livres, or half-a-crown a month each; and an excellent ecclesiastic, L' Abbé Le Roux, gave me instructions in French, in return for my help to a young man, his nephew, whom he wished to learn English. Before the close of the year I found a passage free to Wales in a British vessel, to whose captain I had rendered service as an interpreter at Morlaix, and from Swansea I got a passage home with a captain I had formerly known, so that the whole of this expedition, which was eventually the source of all my success in life, cost less than twenty pounds."

On his return from France, after a brief attempt at setting up in business at Newlyn, he in 1788 went to London, where his knowledge of French proved all-important to him. He became junior corresponding clerk in the bank of Messrs. Ransom, Morland, and Hammersley, in Pall Mall—one of the leading West end firms—and it fell to his lot to conduct much of the correspondence of the emigrants who fled to England during the revolution. To several of these he was able to do much friendly service, and on their return to France, after the peace of Amiens, the Bishop of Troyes and others wrote him very grateful letters.

In 1792 he re-visited Cornwall to see his aged mother, to whom he had for some time sent liberal help. He met his elder brother Arthur (then in the bank at Tiverton, of which he was afterwards a partner), by appointment at Exeter; and they rode on horseback to Penzance, arriving on the evening of the fifth day from his leaving London. It was a tedious journey at that time, in a heavy stage coach, called "The Fly," above forty hours on the road to Exeter, while the only means of travelling further West was on horseback. Of his eighteen days holiday, ten were spent in toilsome travelling.

In 1792 also he became chief clerk, his services having been highly appreciated; and on the first of January 1799

he was admitted as partner in the firm, the business of which had much increased owing to that of Lockhart and Co. being now transferred to it. On Sunday the 26th of October 1794 he had married, at St. Andrew's, Holborn, Anne, the only child of Matthew Craige, of Walsall, by Anne daughter of John Mason. He had known his future wife for several years. Her father died when she was very young, and she had lived first with her mother's father, and then with her mother who had married secondly Mr. Thing, one of the senior clerks in Ransom's bank. The young couple lived first in Air street, Piccadilly, then from 1795 to 1807 at Knightsbridge, (where eight of their thirteen children were born), and finally at No. 127, Sloane street, Chelsea, which had then an open prospect over what were called "the Chelsea Five Fields," (now Belgrave Square, &c.), and here they remained from 1807 to 1810.

In the terrible winter of 1799-1800, the communication with Hamburg was stopped for three months, and the wreck of the "Lutine" frigate on the coast of Holland, which was carrying over a great number of merchants and traders, and above half-a-million sterling, brought on a crisis in the business of Northern Germany. The firm of Carpzov of Bremen was one of those which failed, and Mr. Boase went over as soon as the ice broke up, and succeeded in saving part of the amount due to the bank: it was then a common practice on the continent to give up a bankrupt's effects to the home creditors and cheat the foreign ones.

In 1804 he went to Scotland to examine into the affairs of the Dundee New Bank, which was afterwards reconstructed under the proprietorship of Lord Kinnaird and Messrs. Morland, Boase, Baxter and Roberts, and became the parent of the Glasgow Bank: this ultimately led to two of his sons becoming managers of the Dundee Bank; and one of them, Mr. C. W. Boase, has written a very instructive History of Scotch Banking. Mr. Boase had himself written a number of tracts on the famous 'Bullion Question,' which are enumerated in the Bibliotheca Cornubiensis.

His health was now so seriously affected by the London winters, that at the close of 1809, he resolved to retire from the business and spend the rest of his life in his native air at Penzance. After a preliminary visit with his wife to make the necessary arrangements, he finally took up his residence there. He resided first in Chapel street, and then on the South Parade; but having purchased about two acres and a half of ground on the west, or Alverton, side of the town for £1000, he built a house there which cost him £3,500 more. It is called Alvern hill, and has a pleasant garden in which the well-known spring, called Alverton well, takes its rise. Not wishing entirely to give up work, he became a partner in the Bank of Messrs. Batten, Oxnam, and Carne, at Michaelmas 1810, and remained so until Lady Day 1823; soon after which he took over the Penzance Union Bank from Mr. William Dennis, and with his two elder sons and Mr. Trevenen James started a new firm on May 1 1823, which was joined by Mr. George Grenfell in 1824. During his residence in London he was well acquainted with Granville Sharp, Robert Owen, and other men, eminent for their philanthropic exertions; was a leading member of the London Missionary Society; and took a considerable part in the foundation of the Bible Society, in conjunction with the Rev. Thomas Charles of Bala, with whom he had become intimately acquainted whilst engaged in distributing, as Mrs. Palmer's banker, her donation of £1000 to the poor beneficed clergymen of Wales. He was also much interested in the formation of schools on the new system of Joseph Lancaster. His correspondence, part of which is preserved in the British Museum (Additional MSS. 29281) gives some interesting details on these matters.

He had originally sympathised with the great French movement of 1789; but, like most Englishmen, recoiled from the atrocities committed by the revolutionists, and attached himself to the policy of Mr. Pitt. In the years 1803-5 he was senior captain of the Volunteer Corps at Knightsbridge, and spent much time on his duties and on the management of the companies. In the 18 years during which his life was prolonged at Penzance, he returned with fresh zeal to his literary pursuits, corresponded much with Sir Humphrey Davy, and Dr. Edmund Davy, Davies Gilbert, &c., and in 1814 helped Dr. Paris and Mr. Ashhurst Majendie to found the Royal Geological Society of Cornwall; his eldest son Henry afterwards became well known in connection with it by his "Treatise on Primary Geology," and the detailed geological description of every Cornish parish which he contributed to Davies Gilbert's "Parochial History of Cornwall." In 1817-18 he furnished Sir Thomas Bernard with valuable evidence as to the pernicious effect of the Salt laws. He also took an active share in establishing the Public Library at Penzance in 1818, feeling deeply of what value such an institution would have been to himself 40 years previously. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature in 1821. He was much esteemed by his fellow townsmen; was elected Alderman, and Mayor in 1816, and took a leading part in Penzance for some years, where he organised a savings' bank, over the interests of which he kept a careful watch. He died 8 April 1827, the long continued cast wind of that inclement spring having fatally intensified a chronic disease of the organs of respiration, and was buried in St. Mary's churchyard on the thirteenth of that month. His autobiography, of which much use has been made in this sketch, supplies an excellent instance of the pursuit of knowledge under great difficulties by a poor friendless boy, who won his way in life literally by self help.

His brother Arthur, mentioned in the life, became partner in the Tiverton Bank, 19 April 1808; see also Harding's 'Tiverton,' part i, p. 238.

Notices of Henry Boase occur in Davies Gilbert's "Parochial History of Cornwall," C. S. Gilbert's "Historical Survey of Cornwall," and Lake's "Parochial History." The arms of the family are given in C. S. Gilbert, plate 25. They are: Ar. on a chevron engrailed gules 5 bezants between an anchor in base, and 2 birds in chief with wings erect, Or: crest, a demi-lion charged with 3 bezants on the shoulder, and a star on the hip, holding in the fore-paws 5 arrows, 4 in saltire, and 5 in fess on the top. The motto is "Per varios casus."

Of his children, the elder ones born in London were baptised privately by his friend, the Rev. John Townshend, who founded the Deaf and Dumb Asylum in 1792, and died in 1826, and whose memoirs were published in 1828. George was baptised by Mr. Edgcumbe, curate of an Episcopal Chapel in Knightsbridge. The three youngest were baptised at Penzance by the Rev. C. V. Le Grice.

HENRY S. BOASE.

HENRY SAMUEL BOASE, eldest son of Henry Boase, was b. at No. 6 Knightsbridge, London, 2 Sep. 1799, and privately bapt. by the Rev. John Townsend on the 7 Nov. After attending Messrs. Watson's School 32 Sloane street, Chelsea, he proceeded to the Tiverton Grammar School then under the mastership of William Richards LL.D., and in 1815 he was sent to Dublin to study under Edmund Davy, M.D., Professor of Chemistry etc. to the Royal Dublin Society. After some stay in Dublin he gave up his intention of making chemistry his profession, and removing to Edinburgh took up the study of medicine, and going through the usual routine was admitted M.D. in 1821, publishing for his diploma thesis an essay entitled "Dissertatio Medica Inauguralis de Contagio." He now commenced practice as a physician at Penzance, but the profession was so very uncongenial to his taste that he gave it up after a very short trial. He next turned his attention to Geology, and in 1822 was appointed Secretary to the Royal Geological Society of Cornwall in succession to Mr. John Forbes, M.D. (afterwards Sir John Forbes) which place he held until 1829. His first paper in this science was "On the Tin Ore of Botallack and Levant," read at the annual meeting in Oct 1822. During 1829-31 he was employed in ascertaining the nature and boundaries of the Cornish rocks in order that their geographical relation might be accurately delineated in a map. On this work he employed two years and walked 1200 miles, visiting every part of Cornwall and collecting specimens of the rocks, which were deposited in the Geological Museum at Penzance, and form a very valuable series. An account of the journey (with a coloured geological map of Cornwall on the scale of 5 miles to an inch) was published in the Geological Transactions, iv. 166-474. The Geological notices of the Cornish parishes in Davies Gilbert's History of Cornwall as well as in many of the more modern histories are taken from this account. In 1834 he published "A treatise on Primary Geology," a book which still holds its place as a standard work. During some years of the period already spoken of he had been a partner in the Penzance Union Bank, with which establishment he remained connected until its dissolution in Apr 1838. In 1837 he removed to London and took up his residence in Burton Crescent, and on the 4 May of the same year was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society.

In 1838 he left London and went to Dundee when he became managing partner in the firm of Turnbull Brothers, of the Claverhouse Bleachfield; in connection with these works in 1855 he took out a patent for "Improvements in the process of drying organic substances." More recently the Messrs. Turnbull having died and Dr. Boase and his second son having the larger share in the business, the firm has become Messrs. Boase & Co. In Apr. 1870 Dr. Boase came into Dundee to reside, and in 1871 retired from taking any active share in the business. He has published "The Philosophy of Nature 1860" and "An Essay on Human Nature 1865." For an account of his other writings see Bibl. Cornub. i. 29-30. He m. at Madron 11 Decr. 1824 Elizabeth Valentina, eld. dau. of Will. and Mary Stoddard; of his issue of ten children we shall now speak of, (a) Henry, (b) Alfred, (c) Arthur, (d) John, (e) Samuel.

(a) Henry Boase, eld. child of H. S. Boase of Claverhouse, was b. Chapel St. Penzance, 5 Oct 1825, and privately bapt. by the Rev. C. V. Le Grice. At an early age he was adopted by his great uncle Mr. Robert Richards of The Thorns, Alverton, Penzance, with whom he resided many years. He was first educated at the Grammar School, Penzance, under the Rev. George Morris, and afterwards at The High School, Dundee, and then took a situation under Messrs. Turnbull Brothers, at the Claverhouse Bleach Field. There he remained until 1 Jan 1865, when in conjunction with Mr. George Ireland he became the purchaser of the Wellfield Works, Lillybank, where under the firm of Ireland and Boase they became Flax and Jute spinners and manufacturers of hessians, tarpaulings, sacking, etc. On the death of Mr. Ireland on the 4 Dec 1871 H. Boase purchased from his Trustees the other moiety of the business, becoming by this transaction sole proprietor of the works. Mr. Robert Richards dying 11 Nov. 1844, H. Boase became owner of The Thorns, Penzance, subject to the life interest of Miss Richards, and on the decease of that lady, 20 Feb. 1862, he sold that property by auction. He m. 15 Sep. 1853 at Clepington near Dundee, Mary, third dau. of James Thoms by his wife Margaret Jobson, and has issue.

(b) Alfred Boase, second son of H. S. Boase, was born at Penzance 20 July 1829, and privately bapt. by the Rev. W. W. Harvey. After being educated at Penzance and at the High School, Dundee, he in the year 1845 entered the service of the Messrs. Richard and Henry Green, shipowners of Blackwall, as a midshipman, and in that capacity made several voyages to the East Indies, Australia and other places. In 1852 the state of his health obliged him to leave the sea, and he entered the Claverhouse Bleach fields (Messrs. Turnbull Brothers) then under his father, as managing Partner, to learn the bleaching business; in course of time he rose to be acting manager, and when in the year 1870 Dr. Boase retired from the direction of the works, Alfred became sole manager with a share in the business, the firm consisting of H. S. Boase and Alfred Boase under the name of "Boase & Co., Yarn millers and calenderers, Claverhouse Bleach field, Trottick mills and St. Andrew's street Dundee." He m. 7 May 1853, at Falmouth, his first cousin, Ellen Bradley, eldest dau. of William Millett Boase, M.D. and has issue.

(c) Arthur Boase, third son of H. S. Boase, was b. Penzance 21 June 1833, and privately bapt. by the Rev. Thos. Vyvyan. He was educated at Glenalmond College, Perthshire, but his health soon commenced failing and he died of consumption at Claverhouse, Dundee, 8 July 1852, and was buried in the church yard at Mains.

(d) John Boase, fourth son of H. S. Boase, was b. Burton Crescent, London, 4 Nov 1837, and bapt. St. Paul's Dundee 1838. After being educated at Glenalmond College he entered the establishment of the Messrs. Veitch, Horticulturists, Exeter, to learn ornamental and scientific gardening, but after studying for some years and finding no opening for his labour in England, he sailed for New Zealand where he died of fever at Christ Church 6 Feb. 1865. He m. June 1863 Sarah Jane Knowles and had issue.

(e) Samuel Stoddard Boase, fifth son of H. S. Boase, was b. Claverhouse 19 May 1847. After being educated at Glenalmond College he entered the Lillybank Foundry under his cousins, Pearce Brothers, to learn machine making and mechanical drawing. However in 1870 seeing an opportunity of entering into business he in Dec., in conjunction with Patrick Spence Mudie, son of R. A. Mudie, shipowner, Dundee, took the Bank Mill works, where he now carries on jute spinning, &c., under the firm of Boase and Mudie. He m. at Newcastle-on-Tyne 6 June 1872 Elizabeth, second dau. of James Spence, ship-agent.

JOHN J. A. BOASE.

JOHN JOSIAS ARTHUR BOASE, second son of Henry Boase, was b. 23 June 1801 at No. 6 Knightsbridge, London, and privately bapt. by the Rev. John Townshend on 30 July. He was first educated at Messrs. Watsons' School at 32 Sloane street, and afterwards at the Tiverton Grammar School (then under the Mastership of Dr. Richards) from Aug. 1809 to Christmas 1814. He then, after accompanying his younger brother Charles William for a short time to the Grammar School, Helston, was placed in the Bank of Messrs. Batten, Carne and Carne at Penzance where he remained until Midsummer 1817. His father now sent him to France, and during a residence of fifteen months at St. Pol de Leon in Brittany he obtained a good knowledge of the French language. On returning to England in Sep. 1818, he the following Christmas entered the banking-house of Messrs. Ransom and Co London where he staid until May 1824. He then after spending six months on the continent went down to Penzance and took an active part in the recently established Bank of Messrs. Henry Boase, Sons & Co., which consisted of his father Mr. Henry Boase, his brother Mr. H. S. Boase, Mr. Trevenen James and himself, and was called The Penzance Union Bank. However on 30 Dec. 1831 Mr. Trevenen James retired and soon after Mr George Grenfell and his son Mr Pascoe Grenfell joined the firm, which then took the name of Messrs. Boase, Grenfell, Boase & Co., and J. J. A. Boase and his elder brother became at the same time partners in the Tin smelting firm of Mr. George Grenfell, which then became known as Grenfell and Boase. These two firms were dissolved by mutual consent 21 Apl. 1838, the business of the Penzance Union Bank being sold to the Western District Banking Co., Mr. Boase remaining Manager of the new Company. This arrangement however did not continue many years as in 1844 the business was transferred to Messrs. Ricketts, Enthoven, Turner, Mason, and James, and the old name of the Penzance Union Bank was restored; another rapid change followed, on the 25 Apl. 1846 the firm became Messrs. Ricketts, Enthoven, and James, and in Nov. 1846 the business was dissolved and wound up, and Mr. Boase who had remained Manager throughout the various changes finally retired from business.

Mr. Boase was an Assistant of the Old Corporation of Penzance, which consisted of Aldermen and Assistants, and when the Municipal Act came into operation in 1835 was elected a member of the New Town Council for the West Ward. At the first meeting of the Council he was chosen one of the Aldermen for the same ward. He has been a J. P. of the borough for a very long period, having been appointed in 1836 jointly with Mr. Joseph Carne the first borough magistrates. He was also in 1838 elected a Guardian of the Poor for Penzance.

He succeeded the Rev. C. V. Le Grice as President of the Gentlemen's News Room in January 1859, and held that position until 1864, when it was converted into the Public News Room of which Institution he was then elected President. He was also connected with the Penzance Public Library for many years and was elected President in 1858 in the place of Joseph Carne, Esq. On his resignation of the Presidency in 1874 he was unanimously chosen an Honorary Life Member. Besides the foreign residence before alluded to, Mr. Boase has travelled a great deal, and a portion of his leisure time has been devoted to writing an account of his journeys. This work in MS. occupies twelve volumes folio bound in Russia, and is illustrated by several thousand engravings. For an account of his contributions to various Literary Journals, see Bibl. Cornub. i, 30.

For many years he was employed in numismatic researches, and at one time was the owner of a cabinet consisting of several thousand coins and medals both ancient and modern, but in 1860 he parted with the greater portion of his collection which was sold by Messrs. Sotheby and Wilkinson in London, on the fourth of April and the following days. After the death of Mr. Joseph Carne 12 Oct. 1858, he at the request of Miss Elizabeth Carne, consented to unite with her in carrying on the Penzance Bank jointly with Mr. Philip Marrack and Mr. Thomas Hacker Bodilly, and having an equal share therein; but the partnership was dissolved on the part of Mr. Boase the 30 June 1859.

He m. 4 July 1827 at St. Clement's near Truro, Charlotte second dau. of Robert Sholl by Mary Beard Milford. She was b. Rosewin row, Truro, 30 Oct. 1802, and d. Alverton Veau, Penzance, Wednesday 10 Sep. 1873, bur. the Cemetery 15 Sep. Of his issue we shall now speak of: (a) Charles William, (b) George Clement, (c) Edward Ley, (d) Frederic.

(a) Charles William Boase, eldest child of J. J. A. Boase, was b. Chapel street, Penzance, 6 July 1828 and bapt. by the Rev. W. W. Harvey at St Mary's 19 Sep. He was educated at the Grammar School, Penzance, under the Rev. Geo. Morris, and at the Grammar School, Truro, under the Rev. Dr. Tancock 1841-46. Here he gained Lord Falmouth's medals 1841 and 1842, Dr. Cardew's Exhibition prize 1843, and Lord Falmouth's prize of books in the same year. He next obtained the Elliot Scholarship of the value of £30 per annum, which he held at Exeter College for four years 1846-49. He matriculated at Oxford 4 June 1846, and in the following year gained an open

Scholarship at his College tenable for three years 1847-50. He obtained a second class in the final classical school Trinity term 1850, took his B.A. degree 18 May 1850, and his M.A. 27 Jan. 1853, was elected Cornish Fellow of his College 30 June 1850, Assistant Tutor 1853, Tutor 1855, Lecturer in Hebrew 1859-69, and has been Librarian since 1868. He was ordained 4 Mch. 1855, at Cuddesdon by Bishop S. Wilberforce, but has not proceeded to priest's orders. In 1851 he was proximè accessit for the Arnold Historical Essay on "Carthage," and received a prize of books. He was Master of the Schools 1856, Examiner in Modern History and Law 1857, 1858, 1865, 1866, 1867, 1869, 1870, in Final Classical Examination for honors 1862, 1863, in Modern History 1872 and 1873, for the Pusey and Ellerton Hebrew Scholarship 1861, in the new Combined Examinations for the Pass Schools 1874, 1875. He is known as being one of the joint translators and editors of Ranke's History of England for the Clarendon Press in 1875, and he has contributed numerous articles to The Academy and other literary journals. The account of the Deeds and Writs 1306-1836 in the Dawson Collection in the Penzance Public Library was compiled by C. W. Boase, and is reprinted from The Cornish Telegraph in the Catalogue of the Books of the Penzance Public Library (1874) pp. 336-43.

(b) George Clement Boase, second son of J. J. A. Boase was b. Chapel street, Penzance, 20 Oct 1829, and privately bapt. by the Rev. W. W. Harvey 18 Nov. He was educated at Regent's House Academy and the Grammar School Penzance, and for a short time in 1844 at Bellevue House Academy, Penryn. At the age of 15 in 1844 he entered as a clerk in the Western District Banking Co. Penzance, and continued there when that company was transferred to Messrs. Ricketts, Enthoven, & Co. In 1847 he went to London and engaged himself to Mr. Nehemiah Griffiths, Ship and Insurance Broker, 2 White Hart Court, Lombard street; here he remained for more than three years, and at the end of that period entered the employment of Messrs. Ransom & Co. Bankers, 1 Pall Mall East. On the 29 Apl. 1854 he sailed from Liverpool in the "Great Britain" and landed at Melbourne, Australia, where his first employment was acting as a corrector of the press on "The Age" newspaper; after this he proceeded to the Gold Diggings at Simpson's Ranges, but not meeting with much success and the season proving too dry to admit of gold washing, he was for some time engaged in a general store. On returning to Melbourne he agreed with Thomas Darchy Esq. of Gelam Station, Murrumbidgee River, New South Wales, to become tutor to his family. Accordingly in August 1855 he took up his residence on the Murrumbidgee, and here and on the Lachlan river where Mr. Darchy also owned stations he continued to reside until 1864. During the long period of his residence here his occupation was varied by his acting as paid correspondent of the "Sydney Morning Herald" in the Lower Murrumbidgee and Lower Lachlan districts.

In 1864 he sailed from Melbourne in the "Yorkshire" Capt. Reynell, and landed at Falmouth in a pilot boat on Midsummer eve in the same year. In 1865 he became manager for Messrs. H. M. Whitehead & Co. Australian Provision Merchants, London, with whom he remained until Midsummer 1874, when he retired from business and has since devoted his time to the collection of materials for the second volume of the "Bibliotheca Cornubiensis," the first volume of which in connection with Mr. William Prideaux Courtney he had brought out in Dec. 1873.

(c) Edward Ley Boase third son of J. J. A. Boase was b. Chapel street, Penzance, 26 May 1836, bapt. S. Mary's by the Rev. Thomas Vyvyan 22 July, and was educated at Bath under Mr. Shaw, and at Caen in Normandy in 1853. He went to Australia with his brother G. C. Boase in 1854 and was first employed in an office in Hobart Town, Tasmania. After holding various situations for some years both in Victoria and New South Wales, including taking part in the collection of the census of the former colony in 1857, he about 1866 opened a store of his own in Pall Mall, Sandhurst, where he still continues, and has built himself a residence in the vicinity of the town. He m. 1867 Jane Millar and has issue.

(d) Frederic Boase fourth son of J. J. A. Boase was b. at Lariggan, near Penzance, 7 Oct. 1843, and bapt. at S. Mary's 17 Nov. by the Rev. E. Shuttleworth. He was educated at the Penzance Grammar School 1855-57, at Bromsgrove Grammar School, Worcestershire, under the Rev. J. D. Collis, D.D., Aug. 1857, to Dec. 1859 and at Probus under the Rev. Samuel Stead 1860-61. Being articled to Messrs. Rodd and Cornish, Solicitors, Penzance, 24 Dec. 1861, he passed his intermediate examination in London Nov. 1864, and his final examination Jan. 1867, and was admitted an attorney and solicitor 30 Jan. 1867. Since that time he has followed his profession in Exmouth and in London.

CHARLES W. BOASE.

CHARLES WILLIAM BOASE, third son of Henry Boase, was b. No. 6 Knightsbridge, London, 8 June 1804, and privately baptised by the rev. John Townshend, 26 July, removed to Penzance with his father in 1810, and was educated at the Helston Grammar School under Rev. William Stabback. After this he went to France and resided for some time at St. Pol de Leon and obtained a fair knowledge of the French language. On his return he proceeded to Portsmouth where he studied in order to qualify himself for becoming an engineer, but after a time abandoning this intention he with the view of learning Scotch banking entered the Dundee New Bank, in 1821 and after passing through various grades of service, on the retirement of Mr. William Roberts, who went to Glasgow, became manager of the Union Bank, and died 14 Apr. 1832, was appointed manager of the bank. In 1837 he was invited to take the management of the Dundee Bank, and this proposal led to the amalgamation on the 31 Jan. 1838 of the Dundee New Bank with the Dundee Banking Co., established in 1763, Mr. C. W. Boase assuming the management on the 13 March under the title of Cashier. In 1840 the Directors to relieve themselves of some of their duties appointed Mr. C. W. Boase manager; and his brother, Mr. G. C. Boase, became cashier. This position he held till Feb. 1864, when the Dundee Bank was merged in the Royal Bank of Scotland, but he still continued to manage the business till 21 Dec. 1867, when he retired on a pension. On the 10 Jan. 1851 he was presented by the Directors with the sum of two hundred guineas "in consideration of his valuable and efficient services for the past thirteen years." And on the 9 Mch. 1857 he was presented with £300 "in token of their satisfaction at the result of the past year's business." Shortly after he came to Dundee he took a deep interest in promoting the establishment of the Watt Institution, and in 1824 the year when it was called into existence he was elected Secretary and Treasurer which appointments he held until 1828. He arranged the museum of the Institution, occasionally delivered lectures to its members and until its dissolution was one of its warmest supporters.

In 1842 when the town of Dundee became bankrupt, C. W. Boase was one of the trustees elected by the creditors. At one period he was a director of the Public Seminaries, and he also took part in the discussion relative to the improvements of the harbour, his financial knowledge of the business of the town rendering his opinion of considerable value.

In 1836 Mr. Boase became "a believer in the restoration of Apostles to the Church," and one of a small company of like faith worshipping in a room in Whitehall Close under the care of the Rev. G. Crosbie. Soon after he at his own cost erected an elegant little chapel in Bell street to which the congregation removed, and continued there until 30 Nov. 1867 when the present church in Constitution road was opened for service. "Mr. Boase was ordained to the Priesthood in Oct. 1836 and to the Episcopate in Aug. 1851, and after his retirement from business in 1867 had charge of the Evangelistic work throughout Scotland, in consequence of which he removed in Nov. 1870 to Drummond-place, Edinburgh." As a preacher he had a popular style and a happy knack of making himself perfectly understood, so that on occasions when it was announced that he was going to preach many of the outside public attended the church. He originally resided in Meadow Place, Dundee, having a country house at Newport in Fife, but about 1859 went to reside at Balgay House, Dundee. With the intention of providing illustrations of the Scriptures for the members of his own congregation and others, he employed Mr. John Alexander and other artists to make for him copies of many of the most celebrated paintings of the old masters existing in foreign collections; for the proper exhibition of these paintings he built a special gallery at the rear of his house in Meadow Place, and with the hope of encouraging a taste for art in Dundee, these paintings were on more than one occasion lent for public exhibition. One of these pictures, a copy of Leonardo da Vinci's great painting of the Last Supper he presented in 1870 to the Albert Institute, Dundee, the others were removed to Edinburgh, and the collection has now been dispersed.

As an author he has published several works on controversial theology, for which see Bibl. Cornub. i. 28, but the publication by which he will be chiefly remembered is entitled "A Century of Banking in Dundee," a mass of facts and figures extending over nearly four hundred pages, and affording most useful information to all persons interested in banking statistics. C. W. Boase died rather suddenly on Friday the 7th June 1872, while staying at Albury, Surrey, "attending a Council of Ministers of the Catholic Apostolic Church;" his remains were interred in the burial ground of the parish church on the 12 June. He m. 9 Dec. 1832 at Dundee Helen, fifth dau. of William and Alison Lindsay, and had issue seven children; of these we propose to speak of two (a) Edward (b) Clement.

(a) Edward Boase, second son of C. W. Boase, was b. Dundee 16 Dec. 1841, educated at Gothic House, Rottingdean (Mr. Arthur Orlebar's), and at Glenalmond College, Perthshire. He entered the 93rd Sutherland Highlanders in 1860, purchasing his Ensignship 21 Dec. 1860, and his Lieutenantcy 10 July 1863. He served in India for some years, and after his return, namely in the commencement of 1868, sold out his commission. Soon after retiring from the army he entered into partnership with Messrs. Robert and Henry Small and his cousin W. L. Boase, under the names of Messrs. Small and Boase, Hemp spinners, twine makers, and manufacturers, having places of business at Rockwell Works, Dundee and Hawkslaw Works, Leven. On the death of Mr. Henry Small in 1869 Mr. Robert Small retired from the firm, and the business was continued by Edward Boase and W. L. Boase under the same title of Small and Boase, until 1 Dec. 1875. At that date they sold the Rockwell Factory and business to W. L. Boase. Shortly after, they took a partner, Mr. George Shann; and Edward Boase, W. L. Boase, and George Shann carry on at Leven the business of Hemp Spinners under the name of Small and Boase. He m. 31 Oct. 1871 Emilia only dau. of the late John Bell, solicitor, Dundee.

(b) Clement Boase, third son of C. W. Boase, was b. Dundee 13 May 1846, and educated at Glenalmond College, Perthshire. In May 1864 he entered the Dundee Bank and served as an apprentice until about the end of 1867, when he determined to devote himself to the ministry; accordingly in 1870 he was admitted to the Deaconship in the

C. A. Church, Dundee, but was removed in Jan. 1872 to the Church in Edinburgh, where he still remains. He m. 4 Apl. 1872 Charlotte Hannah, second dau. of Charles D. Young, engineer, Perth.

GEORGE C. BOASE.

GEORGE CLEMENT BOASE, fourth son of Henry Boase, was b. at 127 Sloane street, Chelsea 25 Aug. 1810, and privately bapt. by the Rev. C. Edgecombe; he was educated at the Exeter Grammar School then under the Mastership of Dr. Collins, from thence he proceeded to Queen's College, Cambridge, where he resided 1828-29 but not sufficiently long to take a degree. He then went down to Dundee to visit his elder brother Charles, cashier of the Dundee New Bank, the result of which was that in the summer of 1830 he became a clerk in the Bank, and in August 1832 the directors deeming it desirable to have a confidential clerk to take the cashier's place in his absence, he was offered the appointment and became also a partner in the Bank. As before stated, under C. W. Boase, the Dundee New Bank was amalgamated with the Dundee Banking-Co. in January 1838, and the Dundee Bank Directors wishing to relieve themselves of part of their duties, resolved in April 1840 to make C. W. Boase, manager, G. C. Boase succeeding him as cashier, a position which he held until the amalgamation in February 1864 of the Dundee Bank with the Royal Bank of Scotland, when he became sub-manager, (George Mackenzie, accountant, being made cashier), and so continued until 21 Dec. 1867, when he retired on a pension. Like C. W. Boase, he, in the commencement of 1836, joined the body now generally known as the Catholic Apostolic Church and was ordained to the Priesthood in October of that year. About twelve months after giving up business, that is in the autumn of 1868, he removed to Brighton to take the charge of the Church there. G. C. Boase is the author of several theological tracts, etc., and has been the composer of many fugitive poems. An account of some of his writings will be found in the Bibl. Cornub. i. 28. He m. 22 Dec. 1835 at Carolina Port, Dundee, Jane Smyth, fourth dau. of William and Alison Lindsay. Of his issue we propose to speak of (a) George William, (b) William Lindsay.

(a) George William, eldest son of Geo. Clement Boase, was b. Dundee 6 Feb. 1837, and began his education under the Rev. Alexander Sterling, Tay square, Dundee, subsequently attending for a short time a private school kept by the Rev. T. G. Torry Anderson, in Hawkill place, and afterwards the Dundee Public Seminaries or High School from 1847 to 1850. He went to Gothic House, Rottingdean, (Mr. Arthur Orlebar's) in September 1850, but from bad health had to leave at Midsummer 1851. He then attended the higher classical and mathematical classes at the High School, Dundee, during 1852 and 1853, and on the 12th September in the latter year entered the Dundee Bank as an apprentice, and after passing through the ordinary routine was appointed secretary 14 April 1862, and in February 1864, on the occasion of the amalgamation of the Dundee Bank with the Royal Bank of Scotland became cashier, which position he still holds, (Mr. Mackenzie, cashier, having been promoted to be manager on the retirement of Messrs. C. W. and G. C. Boase in Dec. 1867.) He m. 2 Dec. 1874 at St. Mary Magdalen Church, St. Leonards, Sussex, Florence second dau. of the late Rev. Cuthbert Orlebar of Nottingham, sometime Vicar of Podington, Bedfordshire, by Eleanor, eldest dau. of John Kingston, of the Stamp Office.

(b) William Lindsay Boase, second son of Geo. Clement Boase, was b. Dundee 2 May 1841. He was educated at the High School, Dundee, until 1856, when he went for a year to Luxembourg, and in 1857 to Gothic Hall, Clapham.

In 1858 he entered the office of the late James Bayford, Esq., Proctor, Doctors Commons, and in the same year obtained a clerkship in the Probate Office, where he remained until the spring of 1861. In May 1861 he purchased from Alexander Easson, Esq., a factory at Johnshaven, Kincardineshire, for the manufacture of hemp sacking by hand looms, and subsequently from the same gentleman, the Maxwelltown Factory, Dundee. In 1868 he joined the firm of Boswell and Co., hemp spinners, Leven, and in 1869, when Edward Boase was admitted a partner, the name of the firm was altered to Small and Boase. On 1 Dec. 1875 he purchased from Small and Boase their factory and business at Rockwell Works, Dundee, and carries on these works, and also the factories at Johnshaven and Maxwelltown, in partnership with Mr. Thomas Murdoch who was admitted a partner in 1871, under the firm of W. L. Boase and Co. He m. at St. Andrew's 14 Mch. 1867, Eliza Russell, twin-daughter of Leslie Meldrum, Esq., of Devon Iron Works, and has issue.

JOHN BOASE.

JOHN BOASE the sixth child of Arthur Boase (who d. 1780) was b. Madron 24 Feb. 1771, and bapt. 2 Apl. He was educated and brought up as an architect and a builder, and was the designer and builder of the residences known as Herbiere House, Alverne Hill, and a considerable portion of Wellington Terrace, Penzance, etc. Mr. John Boase was a class leader and lay preacher amongst the Wesleyan Methodists until 1835, when he joined the C. A. Church and became the Minister of that denomination at Penzance. He d. Herbiere House, Penzance, 23 Mch. 1850 and was bur. St. Mary's churchyard 27 Mch. He m. at Penzance 16 July 1795 Jane, dau. of James Millett, of Helston and had three children, of whom the only survivor

(a) William Millett Boase second son of John Boase was born at Penzance 30 Mch. 1802, and bapt. at St. Mary's chapel 28 July. After being educated at Tiverton Grammar School and at Queen's College, Cambridge, where he kept three terms, he proceeded to Edinburgh in 182— where he studied medicine; on taking his M.D. degree in 1823 he published as his diploma thesis Disputatio Medica inauguralis quædam de Phrenetide complectens, Edinburgh, J. Moir, 1823, 8vo. In 1827 Mch. 28, he m. at Madron his first cousin Jane Lydia, 4th dau. of Hen. Boase, and shortly afterwards took up his residence at Falmouth where there was an opening for a physician, owing to the recent death of Richard Edwards, M.D. During 1828-29 he assisted in editing the third and fourth volumes of The Selector, or Cornish Magazine, a periodical to which he contributed various articles. During 1835 he published a pamphlet entitled Hints on the exercise of the elective franchise. This work was in reference to the contested election for Penryn and Falmouth in January 1835, when Jas. Will. Freshfield, (of the firm of Messrs. Freshfields' solicitors to the Bank of England) Robt. Monsey Rolfe, (Solicitor-General, afterwards Lord Chancellor Cranworth), and Lord Tullamore, (afterwards the Earl Charleville), were the candidates, the two former being elected. In the same year he became a member of the C. A. Church, and soon after was appointed a minister of the chapel belonging to that denomination on the Moor Falmouth. In 1857 he left Falmouth and took up his residence at 52, Torrington place, Plymouth, where he still lives. He has for many years past relinquished his professional practice, and is now Minister of the C. A. Church, Plymouth. His only surviving son,

(a) George Clement Boase, second son of Will. Millett Boase, was b. Falmouth 25 Aug. 1838 and bapt. at the C. A. Church by Mr. John Clark 7 Nov. in the same year; after being educated at the Falmouth Classical School he entered the Royal Marine light infantry, Plymouth division, became Second lieutenant 17 Aug. 1855, First lieutenant 14 Apl. 1859, and Captain 3 Aug. 1867. He m. at St. James's, Piccadilly, London, 22 Oct. 1863 Grace, dau. of James Bone of Budock, and has issue.

The members of the Oxenham family at one time called themselves Oxnam, but the original form of name was resumed about forty years ago.

John Oxnam, gent., of Newlyn East, 1811 gave a school house and garden for the education of poor children in that parish. He also endowed it with £6 5s per an. for teaching the children and for the necessary repairs of the building.

In 1843 two Acts of Parliament were passed authorising leases and setts to be granted of and in an estate in the parish of Newlyn, devised by the will of John Oxnam deceased to John Oxnam for his life.

- (2) John Jones Pearce was b. at Tredinney, Buryan, 15 Apl. 1795, entered the Royal Navy in 1804, was gazetted Lieutenant 1814, and on the conclusion of peace was placed on half pay. Being desirous of employment he took the command of the "Tulloch Castle" and traded backwards and forwards to and from the West Indies and London. From over exertion in the discharge of his duty in 1823 at Kingston, Jamaica, he fell into a consumption, from the effects of which he never recovered. In 1831 he finally left the sea, and retiring to his native county took up his residence at Burlton Castle, Newlyn. It was here during the terrible outbreak of cholera which devastated Newlyn in 1832 when so many persons ran away from the danger, that he and his wife remained at their post, aiding their neighbours by their precept and example, and administering to their wants with money, food and medicine to the utmost of their means. During the remaining months of his life he was quite an invalid, the consumptive symptoms returning with great violence. It was during one of his rides that in passing Hea Moor, Madron, he was particularly struck with a view of the mount from a plot of ground belonging to Mr. Batten. It was not long before he made up his mind on the matter. He purchased the ground, and commenced building himself a house, afterwards known as Polmenna; he did not, however, live to inhabit it, for after much suffering, he died at Burlton Castle 10 July 1833, and was interred in the burial ground at the east end of Madron Church 13 July, where a tombstone has been erected to his memory. He married Anna Maria Henrietta eldest child of Henry Boase and Anne Craige, who was b. at No. 1, Knightsbridge, London, opposite the Chapel, on Monday morning 18 Jan. 1796, and was privately bapt. by the Rev. John Townshend on Thursday 4 Feb. She was educated at the Misses Babington's School, Sloane street, Chelsea, and joined her parents at Penzance in 1811. She took a considerable share in the education of her sisters, and was for some years a companion to her father. On the 20

Nov. 1821, she was married at Madron by the Rev. George Treweeke to Lieut. John Jones Pearce, R.N. From 1825 to 1831, during her husband's voyages to the West Indies, she resided at Greenwich. A few months after his decease, she removed from Burlton Castle to Polmenna, a country house which her husband during his life had commenced building. Some time after, in 1835, she erected another house on an adjacent plot of ground. In 1836 she and her family joined the C. A. Church. She left Polmenna in 1845, and went to Dundee, first residing at No. 1, then at No. 2, Nelson street, afterwards at 37, Constitution road, and No. 2, King street. She now, 1876, lives at Eden grove, Arbroath road. In 186— she sold both her houses at Polmenna for the sum of £1600, although the land and the buildings had cost upwards of £2,500. She enjoys a Lieutenant's widow's pension from the Admiralty. Her children were—

- i John Jones b. Blackheath, Kent, 12 Oct. 1822, bap. at Lea, d. Alverne Hill, Penzance 5 Meh. 1823, bur. St. Mary's churchyard.
- ii Henry Jones Pearce b. Wellington place, Penzance 14 July 1824, bap. by the Rev. M. N. Peters, at St. Mary's on the 6 Aug. He was placed under the Rev. George Morris, at the Penzance Grammar School, where he remained from 1835 to 1839. In 1840 he took a situation in the Western District Bank at Penzance and remained with that firm and with their successors Messrs. Ricketts, Enthoven, and Co. until April 1844. He then went to Dundee, where after sometime he joined Alexander Brown Glenday (previously a clerk in the Dundee Bank) in a shipping business, but this not proving profitable, he in Nov. 1848 entered the banking house of Messrs. Ransom and Co., No. 1, Pall Mall East, London. Here he got on very well, and would, if he had remained, have been high in the office, as within a very few years the whole of the staff with the one exception of Mr. Cox the cashier died or left the establishment; but hearing of a vacancy in the Dundee Bank which he thought would suit him, and being desirous of being near his mother, he left London in Sep. 1850 and joined the Dundee Bank in the same month. There he continued until 31 March 1862, when he and his brother William Alfred Pearce under the name of Pearce Bros., took over the Lillybank foundry, which W. A. Pearce had previously conducted with William Wylie Neish under a five years partnership which expired at this time. This establishment they still carry on.
- iii William Alfred Pearce was b. at Park Row, Greenwich, 13 May 1826, and bap. at St. Alphage, Greenwich, June 1826. He was educated from 1840-41. at Penair House Academy, Penzance, then under the management of the late Mr. John Barwis. In 1841, he was sent to Tuckermill and placed under the care of Mr. John Phillips to learn mechanical drawing, and at the 1842 Exhibition of the Royal Cornwall Polytechnic Society he obtained a prize for a drawing of a stationary steam engine. After this, in May 1843, he proceeded to Dundee, and there bound himself an apprentice for five years to Messrs. Kinmonds Hutton, and Steele, Wallace Foundry, where he practically learnt the business of machine making in all its various details. On the expiration of his apprenticeship, he worked as a journeyman for some months, then entered the Drawing Office of Messrs. Fawcett, Preston and Co., engineers, Liverpool, from which he obtained the situation of chief draughtsman with Messrs. Martin Samuelson and Co., Hull, where he remained a year, and then seeing no prospect of advancement or improvement he left them and went across to Caen in Normandy (where his cousins G. C. and E. L. Boase were then residing) with the intention of studying the French language, but in about two months hearing of a situation in the Drawing Office at H.M. Dockyard, Portsmouth, he returned to England and obtained the place of draughtsman at the Steam factory there. In 1857 Lilly Bank Foundry, Dundee, being to let, he in conjunction with Wm. Wylie Neish took it and entered into partnership as machine makers under the title of Pearce and Neish for five years from 31st March, at the expiration of which time the partnership was allowed to run out. On 31 Mch. 1862, he joined his brother H. J. Pearce, and under the title of Pearce Brothers, steam engine and boiler makers, millwrights, etc., the firm still continues. W. A. Pearce m. firstly at St. Paul's Dundee, 14 June 1853, his first cousin Anna Maria; eld. dau. of H. S. Boase, m.d. She was b. Chapel street, Penzance, 26 Aug. 1827, and d. "Pandora." Married 8 Oct. 1835 at Budoek Church, Falmouth, paid a short visit to Paris, and then was in practice a short time in Bristol, where he had not the pleasure of a single patient. April 1837 appointed to H.M.S. "Sappho" in the West Indies. 1839 published a letter in the Falmouth packet "On the importance of sending educated black missionaries to Africa." The same year published "An address to the blacks on mission work." 1842 commenced practice in Penzance. Health failed, and in 1845 came to Plymouth and commenced practice. June 1 1847 appointed to H.M.S. "Odin," Captain the Honble. F. Pelham. 20 Oct. 1849 he brought out his signal night lights for ships, printed his first book at Malta. 1851 printed his second book on night signal lights. 1852 sent a proposition and plan after a meeting with Lieut. Lambert of H.M.S. "Odin" to Sir Edward Parry for united action in H.M. service for prayer. Out of this originated the Royal Naval Scripture Readers' Society, which now employs fourteen readers, and has an income of £2,000 a-year. This year he published his third book on night signals under the authority of and paid for by the Admiralty. Was ordered to sea by the Admiralty and worked them with success for five months. 1853 invented a slush lamp for decks, ordered by the Admiralty to test the plans on board the flagship "Royal Adelaide" at Plymouth. Offered to light all ships with his slush lamps. All ships in H.M. service are now lighted on his plans. Printed and published "Night signals for merchant ships." Appointed to the "Russell" coast-guard ship at Falmouth in 1854, then to the "Royal William," taking in her 1,100 French troops to the Baltic during the Russian war. Was present at the attack on Bomarsund. Brought home 700 Russian prisoners, of these 200 fell ill with cholera, twenty five died; none of the crew however suffered. He received the war medal. In 1856 he once more commenced to practice at Plymouth, being put on half-pay, and so continued for four years. During 1860 he was appointed to the "Royal Adelaide," then to the "Wellington," and then to the "Impregnable" training ship for boys at Devonport. An attack of inflammation of the lungs in 1862, being thirty-six years after his first entering the navy, incapacitated him for further service afloat, and he took his retirement. In 1863 he received the Greenwich Hospital pension. He is the author of "Tabular instruction for schools," and "Tabular chronology," and "Tabular chronology for England, Scotland, &c. without the use of figures," "Tabular teaching of Scriptures for schools and families," etc. Was president of the Penzance Institute Oct. 1845, and on leaving the town received a present of a silver inkstand. In 1860 he was surgeon to the "Pride of Devon" lodge of Odd Fellows; whilst practising in Plymouth on being appointed to a ship he resigned and received a testimonial of a piece of plate. The following are the titles of some of his works:—"System of general night signals for the use of H.M. ships and squadrons," G. Muir, Malta, 1850, 2s.; second edition of same, F. Nicholson, Plymouth, 1852; third edition, 1852; "Code of night signals on a system wherein colored lights are introduced, arranged for the use of Her Majesty's navy by order of the Lord Commissioners of the Admiralty August, 1853."

His wife Grace Lucilla, sixth dau. of Hen. Boase and Anne Craige, was b. 127, Sloane street, Chelsea, 27 Mch. 1809, and privately bapt. by the Rev. John Townshend. She came to Penzance with her parents in 1811. In 1833 she went to Falmouth, and resided with her sister Laura Elizabeth Boase until 8 Oct. 1835, when she was m. at Budock church by the Rev. Geo. Kempe to Mitchel Thomson, surgeon R.N. as before mentioned. The issue of this marriage were (1) Arthur Henry, (2) Lewis Charles, (3) Alfred Mitchell, (4) Eustace Boase, (5) Lionel, (6) Sidney Lambert, (1) Jessie Anna, (2) Lucy Emily.

(1) Arthur Henry Thomson was b. Queen square, Bristol, 5 Jan. 1837, and bapt. at Bridge street Chapel by the Rev. Henry Roper. He went to Penzance with his parents in 1837, and in Oct. 1845 removed to Plymouth, his education was received at the Plymouth Grammar School under Mr. Bennett, head master, and at Mr. Weymouth's Portland Grammar School. Leaving school at the age of fifteen he entered as a clerk in the accountant's office of the South Devon Railway. On the 8 Dec. 1855 he was appointed to a clerkship in

H.M. Dockyard, Devonport, here he gradually rose until he had become Store Keeper at Keyham, and had good prospects of further advancement, ill health however obliged him to quit the service, and he retired on a pension 8 Dec. 1873. He m. 11 June 1867 Caroline, b. 23 Jan. 1837, dau. of Henry and Emma Steele, and has by her i. Archibald Steele b. 20 June 1868; ii. Arthur Leonard b. 6 Aug. 1869; i. During 1872 and 1873 she nursed her mother with the greatest care and kindness, and continued her attention to her until her decease 10 Sep. 1873. She m. Lewis Charles Thomson, as before mentioned: the issue of this marriage is a son Charles Bertram b. 14, Seaton Terrace, Mutley, Plymouth 19 May 1875, bapt. St. Andrew's, Plymouth 28 July.

(3) Alfred Mitchell Thomson was b. 26 Clarence street, Penzance, 10 Apl. 1845, and bapt. at the Independent Chapel by the Rev. John Foxell; came with his parents to Plymouth in 1845, and was educated at Mr. Greave's, Mr. Weymouth's, and the Rev. Dr. Holmes' Schools. In Oct. 1863, at eighteen years of age, he went with his brother Eustace to the University of Glasgow to study medicine, and took his M.B. and M.Ch. degrees in 1869. He then acted as Assistant to Mr. Alfred Prideaux, Liskeard; to Mr. John C. Duke, Lewisham road, Greenwich; and to Mr. George P. Goldsmith, Bedford. After that he went as Surgeon in the "Ottawa" Allan's Line of Steamers to the United States and Canada, and remained in that Company's service ten months, when he left and joined the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., and was appointed to the "Mersey" trading between the West India Islands. He was, however, lost overboard off Demerara, 27 Nov. 1872, during the night, and his remains were not recovered.

(4) Eustace Boase Thomson was b. 11, Frankfort street, Plymouth, 6 Apl. 1846, and bapt. at Norley Independent Chapel by the Rev. Ebenezer Jones. After being educated at Dr. Weymouth's and the Rev. Dr. Holmes' Schools, at the age of seventeen, in Oct. 1863 he went with his brother Alfred to the University of Glasgow to study medicine, took his M.B. and M.Ch. degrees in May 1867, and then went as an Assistant to Henry Barber, M.D., Ulverstoue, Lancashire, for twelve months. He then acted as locum tenens for Amos Beardsley, M.R.C.S., Grange-over-sands, Lancashire, then as locum tenens for Augustus Johnston, M.B., Hawkshead, Lancashire, for six weeks; then as Assistant to Daniel Wheeler, M.R.C.S., Chelmsford, for twenty months; then as locum tenens for Henry Clothier, M.R.C.S., Haslemere, Surrey, then as locum tenens for Mr. Muriel, Whitehaven, for three months. His next appointment was that of House Surgeon at the Essex and Colchester Hospital, Colchester, where he remained two years and a half. He took his M.D. degree in Glasgow 1872, and was registered in England on the 21 July of the same year. In Nov. 1873 he returned to his native town, and commenced practice as a physician and surgeon.

INSCRIPTIONS ON SEPULCHRAL MONUMENTS.

In St. Mary's Church-yard, Penzance.

(1)

In this vault are deposited the remains of Henry Boase, Esq.,
of this Town,

Who died on the 8th of April 1827, aged 63 years,
Leaving a wife and twelve children to deplore their loss.
He was a dutiful Son, an affectionate Husband, and a good Father.

The Integrity and Liberality of his Social and Public
Character rendered him universally esteemed.
All the days of his life he walked in the fear of the Lord,
And he that giveth all things rewarded him abundantly.
On his deathbed he was calm and resigned, having a confident hope of Salvation through the Redeemer's Atonement.

Life how short, eternity how long.
Sacred to the memory of Jane daughter of John and Jane Boase of this town who died Sunday April 28
1799 aged three years.

That life is long which answers life's great end.
Also of John their son who departed this life on Sunday
March 6, 1808.

NOTE.—The above headstone was formerly the first on the right hand as you entered at the North Gate, near the top of the steps against the wall. It fell down in 1867 and was completely destroyed.

(3)

Upper Surface—

Sacred
To the memory
of

Jane Boase,
Who died 12th Jan. 1821,
Aged 91 years.

Also of
Lieut. William Millett,
R.N.,

Who died the same day,
aged 58 years.
They were lovely and pleasant
in their lives,
And in death they were not divided. (David.)

West End—

In memory of
Jane Millett,
Widow of the late John Boase
Who died Feby. 16th 1861,
Aged 93 years.
May she rest in peace and
Awake to a joyful resurrection.

South Side—

In memory of

Three beloved children of William Millet Boase and Jane Lydia his wife:

Jane Lindsay, died March 18th 1841, aged 7 months.
Emily Wilmot, died April 25th 1842, aged 11 years.

They faded in the fair Spring time,
When bursting into bloom ;
All nature spoke of life and joy,
And nothing of the tomb.

But these new rising from the grave
With lustre brighter far shall shine,
Revive with never-ending life
The resurrection life divine.

North Side—

Sacred to the memory of
John Boase

Of Herbiere House in this town,
Who died March 23rd 1850, aged 79 years.
Through a long life he was righteous in his conduct towards man
And devoted in his service to God,
By whose grace he was enabled to yield up his spirit “In the sure and certain hope of a joyful resurrection,” believing that “Those who sleep in Jesus,
God will bring with him.” (1 Thes. iv, 14.)

Text—

Col. 1. The following curious early notice of the name of Boase occurs in Hector Boethius' History of Scotland, lib. 12, Fol. 266, line 65 (ed. Paris, 1527.) After speaking of the families which came over with Queen Margaret from Hungary, he adds:—"Other families came over at different times from France, as Frascir, Sinclair, Bosual, Montalith, Montgomerie, Cambell, Boas, Bctuin, Taillefer, Bodenai." The author of The Norman People, 1874, derives the name Bowes from Hugh de Boves (from Boves in Picardy), King John's Admiral, who perished in the great storm 26 Sep. 1215. (See Rymer's Fœdera, i, 134, Rot. Pat. i, 144, Wendover, iii, 287.) This is merely conjecture. John however did give lands near Penzance to another of his chiefs, Henry le Tyes (Teutonicus), a military engineer from Germany.

Col. 1. Blanch Shutford, bur. * 4 Nov. 1722.

Col. 1. John Bremble had a son John bap. * 1 May 1706, who m. Cecilia, and had by her John bap. * 8 Jan. 1749.

Col. 3. John Rowe's son by Elizabeth Harvey Boase, also called John, b. Carhayes 28 Jan. 1811, now living at Frogmal House, Hampstead, m. Mary Ann dau. of John May Andrew of Tregarden, widow of William Warne b. 26 May 1812. (See Sir J. Maclean, ii, 530.) It was this son who took out the patents.

Col. 4. John Hewett published a new edition of Carew's Cornwall in 1769. In the Madron register we find:—"1754 Nov. 20. John Hewett m. Jane Adams, both of Penzance." H. Boase adds:—"The monthly publications did not reach us at soonest before the fifteenth of the month: there was no coach westward of Exeter, the mail which was forwarded thence to Penzance three times a week on horseback was in all five days coming from London. But even then the change which had taken place within the memory of aged people was thought wonderful. At the beginning of the last century only one newspaper, and that once a-week, reached as far as Godolphin, whither it was sent by the Lord Treasurer Godolphin, and laid on the table of the Great Hall for the accommodation of the gentlemen of the district, who rode over occasionally to learn the news."

Col. 7, line 9. She m. (3) Mr. Gilson.

Col. 7. H. Boase's house was at first called Prospect Place.

Col. 8. The arms are wrongly described. Read:—"Argent, on a chevron engrailed Azure (between two Cornish choughs wings elevated proper in chief, and an anchor erect in base Sable) five bezants; and for crest on a wreath of the colours, a demi-lion Sable sem e of bezants and mullets Or, alternate, holding between the paws a sheaf of five arrows, barbed and flighted proper, banded Gules."

Col. 9. H. S. Boase on leaving Penzance received a testimonial of a silver salver from the members of the Royal Cornwall Geological Society.

Col. 9. Read: 'Turnbull and Co.'

Col. 9, line 17 from bottom. Read: 'He erected the Wellfield Works.'

Col. 9, line 8 from bottom. Read: 'Miss Elizabeth Richards.'

Col. 10. Arthur Boase was trained in the mechanic's shop of Messrs. Baxter Brothers and Co.

Col. 11. J. J. A. Boase and Charlotte Sholl m. by Rev. Francis Jenkins.

Col. 12. C. W. Boase wrote the articles on Cornish Saints in Smith's Dictionary of Christian Biography, Literature, and Doctrines, 1876.

Col. 18, line 35. Read: Manager of the Bank 1 Apl. 1829.

Col. 14. Edward Boase saw service in the North-West of India with the 93rd Highlanders.

Col. 15. G. C. Boase bap. by J. Ouseby chaplain of the Lock Hospital. At the age of eight and a half, he was placed under the care of William Whitehead, curate of Mylor. W. M. Boase his cousin was also educated by Rev. W. Whitehead, when the latter was curate of St. Keverne.

South Side.

Within this tomb
 By the side of her husband's remains,
 After a widowed separation of 36 years,
 Reposes the body of
 Anne Craig,
 Wife of the late Henry Boase of Penzance,
 Who departed this life on the 7th February 1863,
 In her 88th year.
 Ten surviving children
 Hold in affectionate remembrance
 Her motherly care and personal worth,
 And looking forward in faith as she did to the resurrection of the dead,
 They humbly hope for a joyful reunion
 Through the merits of our Lord and Saviour
 Jesus Christ.

In Chatham Churchyard.

Sacred to the memory of Richard Sholl, Esq., R.N., who after serving his country 35 years in various parts of the globe, departed this life December 17, 1836, in the fifty-first year of his age, being then Purser of the Ordinary at Chatham. His excellency as an officer is testified by all with whom he sailed, his warm and generous affection for his family by their deep regret at his loss, and his worth as a friend by all that knew him. Requiescat in pace.

NOTE.

Mabel daughter of Lewis Charles and Julia Thomson was born at 14 Seaton Terrace, Mutley, Plymouth, 5 June 1876 at 5.45 p.m.
