NOTICE.

Communications concerning the contents of "Hart's Army List" should be addressed

The EDITOR of HART'S ARMY LIST,
15, Strand, LONDON, W.C.

War Services should be sent so as to reach the Editor not later than the end of the second month of the Quarter preceding that in which publication is desired.

More detailed accounts of war service than those already in the book will always receive the Editor' careful attention.

A Quarterly Edition of "Hart's Army List" is published on the 1st of January, April, July, and October, in each year, price 10s. 6d.

INTRODUCTORY.

THE issue of the present edition of "Hart's Army List" embodying, as the work does, the changes consequent upon the conclusion of a great war, appears a favourable occasion for the insertion of something in the nature of prefatory matter.

The first "Annual" volume of "Hart" was published in 1840, and contained 500 pages: in the "Annual" volume for 1903 there are, allowing for supplementary sheets, about 1,400 pages. This increase shows the growth of the military forces of the Crown, just as successive editions record the passing changes in their personnel. When the first volume appeared, Her late Majesty Queen Victoria had been barely three years upon the Throne, and the birth of King Edward had yet to be announced. Only a quarter of a century had passed since Waterloo, and the great Duke of Wellington was a hale veteran of seventy, having amongst his brother Field Marshals the father of the present Duke of Cambridge, whose son, Prince George, the present Duke, was then a colonel under a commission dated 3rd Nov. 1837. There was yet to be a Crimean campaign and an Indian Mutiny, foreign possibilities had yet to lead to the evolution of the volunteer force as we now know it, a great Continental campaign was many years later to inspire a Cardwell to propose a scheme of military re-organisation on Prussian lines, and the abolition of purchase was as yet undreamed of.

The Army Estimates of 1840 provided for an expenditure of £6,890,267, and an establishment of 93,471; the corresponding estimates for 1899-1900, before the outbreak of the late war, were for £20,617,200 and 184,853 men, while early last year the Secretary of State estimated his financial requirements at £69,310,000, and the number of men to be voted, at 420,000—219,700 of the personnel being for ordinary services, and 200,300 for the war; and the estimated expenditure being respectively apportioned at £29,310,000 for ordinary, and £40,000,000 for war services, including China. These figures show a decrease as compared with the previous year of £375,000 on ordinary services, and £23,230,000 for war services, and the total personnel being 420,000 as compared with 450,000 for 1901-02. The total estimated expenditure for 1901-02, including a large supplementary estimate, was, however, £92,915,000 being, as explained above, £23,230,000 more than the estimate for the current year. "War Services," it should be borne in mind, include the cost of the operations in China as well as those in South Africa. As regards the latter, the provision proposed in March was estimated to be sufficient to maintain the field force at their present strength for between eight and nine months of the financial year—that is, up to the end of November or December last, and the conclusion of peace, according to more recent official figures, appears to have affected the details rather than the total of the estimates. There was an increase for South Africa from a net sum of £39,650,000 to £40,250,000, though it was expected in November that this net excess over the amount provided could be met before the end of the financial year by savings on normal services, mainly arising on the votes for Militia and Yeomanry pay, &c., and on transports and remounts. The principal increase in the above revised war estimates are the additions of £4,700,000 to the Army pay vote, £350,000 Militia pay, &c., and £400,000 non-effective charge (officers); against this and other items, amounting in all to £6,000,000, are to be set reductions of £3,150,000 for transport and remounts, £1,250,000 provisions, forage, &c., £500,000 clothing, and £500,000 stores. According to information furnished from the Treasury on April 24, the total estimated cost of the war in South Africa, including interest on a debt and civil charges, would be £222,974,000, and of the operations in China £6,010,000, making a grand total of £228,984,000 but this comprised a sum of £17,000,000, which Sir M. Hicks-Beach included in his Budget, but which after the definite conclusion of peace he thought in June he might be able to dispense with. These figures are quite independent of the civil grant of £8,000,000 voted in November for repatriation and other purposes.

At the commencement of the year 1902 it was apparent that the case of the Boers was rapidly becoming hopeless. Lord Kitchener's reports announced week by week losses of the enemy and capture of their stores and stock, and although Lord Methuen sustained on March 7, near Tweebosch, between Vryburg and Lichtenburg, a severe reverse at the hands of the forces under Delarey, the detailed losses of the Boers continued, and on the 23rd of the month Delarey was in turn defeated, many captures were made, and the guns lost at Tweebosch regained. The Boers were now making overtures, and after a prolonged conference with their leaders at Vereeniging, the terms of surrender were signed by them and by Lord Milner and Lord Kitchener at Pretoria on May 31st. The news was communicated to Parliament by Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour on June 2nd, and Lords Tweedmouth and Rosebery in the one House, and Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman in the other, conveyed their congratulations to the Government upon the announcement. On Thursday, June 5th, Mr. Balfour moved a vote of thanks to the officers and men of the Navy, Army, and Royal Marines, the Militia, the Imperial Yeomanry, the Volunteers, and the Colonial and Indian Forces for the energy and gallantry with which they executed the services which they were called upon to perform during the prolonged campaign in South Africa. The resolution, proposed by the Leader of the House, also acknowledged with admiration the distinguished valour, devotion, and conduct of those officers and men who had perished during the campaign in South Africa in the service of the Empire, and expressed deep sympathy with their relatives and friends. The vote was seconded by Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman, and carried on a division. A similar resolution was proposed in the Upper House by Lord Salisbury, warmly supported by Earl Spencer, and agreed to unanimously. Lord Kitchener was raised a step in peerage, becoming Viscount Kitchener of Khartoum and of the Vaal River, and of Aspell in the County of Suffolk, and he received from Parliament a grant of £50,000 in recognition of the eminent services rendered by him in South Africa. The noble lord took up the Indian command on November 28th, in time to be present at the great Durbar, held to proclaim King Edward of England as Emperor of India.

Owing to the war and the Coronation, the number of honours conferred has been almost, if not quite, unprecedented. Among the foremost of these distinctions may be mentioned the barony granted to Sir Francis Grenfell, a former Sirdar of the Egyptian Army, and now Governor of Malta, and the Grand Cross of the Bath bestowed upon Lord Methuen, whilst the highest promotions known to the service brought Sir H. Wylie Norman and the Duke of Connaught into the small circle of Field Marshals. The necrology of 1902 includes Field Marshals Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar and Sir Neville Bowles Chamberlain.

The multitudinous changes of the year have evolved much official labour; but in its accomplishment the Editor has been greatly assisted by many regimental officers, of whose efforts special acknowledgment should be made in the case of Colonel Stuart, Adjutant of the Royal Company of Archers, the King's Body Guard for Scotland, a complete list of which we are enabled to publish; it possesses no small interest in view of their Majesties' forthcoming visit to Scotland. It is only by such aid that "Hart" can retain its old reputation for the fulness and accuracy of its information, and the Editor trusts that he may continue to deserve as well as to receive it.

INVEST or SPECULATE in MINING SHARES

by the

"NEW METHOD."

By depositing a margin of 20 per cent., Mining Shares can be purchased and can be carried over at 6 per cent. per annum. This system is already adopted by the leading American and Colonial Banks. It is free from commissions, and obviates the heavy contingencies usually charged. Small operators can by this means secure profits which under existing circumstances are almost impossible.—Apply for particulars, Colonel); was awarded the Victoria Cross for the following service:—"On the occasion of the action at Korn Spruit on the 31st March 1900, a British force, including two batteries of the Royal Horse Artillery, was retiring from Thabanchu towards Bloemfontein. The enemy had formed an ambush at Korn Spruit, and before their presence was discovered by the main body had captured the greater portion of the baggage column and five out of the six guns of the leading battery. When the alarm was given, Q Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, was within 300 yards of the spruit. Major Phipps Hornby, who commanded it, at once wheeled about and moved off at a gallop under a very heavy fire. One gun upset when a wheel horse was shot, and had to be abandoned, together with a wagon, the horses of which were killed. The remainder of the battery reached a position close to some unfinished railway buildings and came into action 1,150 yards from the spruit, remaining in action until ordered to retire. When the order to retire was received Major Phipps Hornby ordered the guns and their limbers to be run back by hand to where the teams of uninjured horses stood behind the unfinished buildings. The few remaining gunners, assisted by a number of officers and men of a party of Mounted Infantry, and directed by Major Phipps Hornby and Captain Humphreys, the only remaining officers of the battery, succeeded in running back four of the guns and the distance considerable. In consequence all concerned were so exhausted that they were unable to drag in the remaining limbers or the fifth gun. It now became necessary to risk the horses, and volunteers were called for from amongst the drivers, who readily responded. Several horses were killed, and men wounded, but at length only one gun and one limber were left exposed. Four separate attempts were made to rescue these, but when no more horses were available the attempt had to be given up and the gun and limber were abandoned. Meanwhile the other guns had been sent on, one at a time, and after passing within 700 or 800 yards of the enemy, in rounding the head of a donga and crossing two spruits they eventually reached a place of safety, where the battery was re-formed. After full consideration of the circumstances of the case the Field Marshal Commanding in Chief in South Africa formed the opinion that the conduct of all ranks of Q Battery, Royal Horse Artillery, was conspicuously gallant and daring, but that all were equally brave and devoted in their behaviour. He, therefore, decided to treat the case of the battery as one of collective gallantry under Rule 13 of the Victoria Cross Warrant, and directed that one officer should be selected for the decoration of the Victoria Cross by the officers, one non-commissioned officer by the non-commissioned officers, and two gunners or drivers by the gunners and drivers. A difficulty arose with regard to the officer, owing to the fact that there were only two un wounded officers—Major Phipps Hornby and Captain Humphreys—available for the work of saving the guns, and both of these had been conspicuous by their gallantry and by the fearless manner in which they exposed themselves, and each of them nominated the other for the decoration. It was ultimately decided in favour of Major Phipps Hornby as having been the senior concerned."

¹ The Duke of Cambridge commanded the 1st Division of the Eastern Army throughout the campaign of 1854, including the battles of the Alma, Balaklava, and Inkerman (horse shot), and siege of Sebastopol (mentioned in despatches, received the thanks of the House of Commons, Medal with four Clasps, and Turkish Medal).

² Sir Lintorn Simmons was employed for three years in the disputed territory on the N.E. frontier of the United States in constructing works for its defence and in making military explorations. Happening to be in Turkey in 1853 he was specially employed by Lord Stratford de Redcliffe on several important services; joined Omar Pasha in March 1854; escorted the new Governor into Silistria after the former one had been killed, and was present during part of the siege of that fortress; laid out and threw up the lines of Slobodzie and Georgevo on the Danubus, having entire charge of the operation with 20,000 men of all arms under his command, a Russian Army of 70,000 men being within seven miles; was present during the occupation of Wallachia and had frequent charge of reconnaissances upon the enemy's rear. Went to the Crimea in Dec. 1854, to concert with the allied Commanders in Chief as to the movements of the Turkish Army; was present at the battle of Eupatoria, laid out and threw up the entrenched camp round that place; afterwards was before Sebastopol from April 1855 until after its fall, and then went to Mingrelia and was present at the forced passage of the Ingur, where he commanded the Division which crossed the river and turned the enemy's position, capturing his works and guns; Omar Pasha in his despatch attributed the success of the day chiefly to Lt. Colonel Simmons. He served as Her Majesty's Commissioner to the Ottoman Army throughout the war and was employed in all the negotiations having reference to the movements of Omar Pasha's Army. Has received the Crimean Medal with Clasp, the Turkish Gold Medal for the Danubian campaign, the Order of Medjidie 3rd Class, and a Sword of Honor from the Turkish Government; also the 4th Class of the Legion of Honor. Was Her Majesty's Commissioner for laying out the Turco-Russian boundary in Asia, and granted the 2nd Class of the Medjidie by the Sultan, but was refused permission to accept it.

⁵ Sir Edward Williams served as Adjutant of Engineers with the expedition to Pegu in 1852, and was present at the bombardment and capture of Martaban and Rangoon (slightly wounded), capture of Proms and occupation of Meadya (mentioned in despatches for "gallant conduct," Medal with Clasp).

⁶ Sir James Browne served for nearly six months in the Trenches before Sebastopol; was present at the repulse of sorties on 22nd March and 5th April; was Senior Officer of Engineers at the capture and defence of Quarries on 7th June, for which service he was honourably mentioned in despatches, and received the Brevet of Major. Succeeded Colonel Tylden as Directing Engineer of the Right Attack, and in the execution of the duties of that appointment was severely wounded by a rifle-ball on 24th August, which broke the left arm, passed through shoulder, and injured jaw (Medal with Clasp, Brevets of Major and Lt. Colonel, Knight of the Legion of Honor, Sardinian and Turkish Medals, and 5th Class of the Medjidie).

⁷ General C. A.
