PREFACE.

THIS is the first Etymological Dictionary that has appeared of any modern Celtic language, and the immediate cause of its appearance is the desire to implement the promise made at the publication of Dr Cameron's Reliquiæ Celticæ, that an etymological dictionary should be published as a third or companion volume to that work. Some learned friends have suggested that it is too early yet to publish such a work, and that the great Irish Dictionary, which is being prepared just now by a German savant, should be waited for; but what I hope is that a second edition of this present book will be called for when the German work has appeared. Celtic scholars, if they find nothing else in the present Dictionary, will, at least, find a nearly pure vocabulary of Scotch Gaelic, purged of the mass of Irish words that appear in our larger dictionaries; and, as for my countrymen in the Highlands, who are so very fond of etymologising, the work appears none too soon, if it will direct them in the proper philologic path to tread. With this latter view I have prefaced the work with a brief account of the principles of Gaelic philology.

The words discussed in this Dictionary number 6900: derivative words are not given, but otherwise the vocabulary here presented is the completest of any that has yet appeared. Of this large vocabulary, about two-thirds are native Gaelic and Celtic words, over twenty per cent. are borrowed, and thirteen per cent. are of doubtful origin, no etymology being presented for them, though doubtless most of them are native.

The work is founded on the Highland Society's Gaelic Dictionary, supplemented by M'Alpine, M'Eachan, and other sources. I guarded especially against admitting Irish words, with which dictionaries like those of Shaw and Armstrong swarm.

Shaw, in 1780, plundered unscrupulously from Lhuyd (1707) and O'Brien (1758), and subsequent dictionary-makers accepted too many of Shaw's Irish words. Another trouble has been the getting of genuine Irish words, for O'Reilly (1823) simply incorporated Shaw's Dictionary and M'Farlane's Scotch Gaelic Vocabulary (1815) into his own. For genuine modern Irish words I have had to trust to Lhuyd, O'Brien, Coneys, and Foley. For early Irish, I have relied mainly on Windisch, Aseoli, and Atkinson, supplementing them by the numerous vocabularies added by modern editors to the Irish texts published by them.

For the etymologies, I am especially indebted to Dr Whitley Stokes' various works, and more particularly to his lately published Urkeltscher Sprachschatz. I have, however, searched far and wide, and I trust I have not missed anything in the way of Celtic etymology that has been done for the last twenty or thirty years here or on the Continent. In form the book follows the example of Mr Wharton's excellent works on Latin and Greek philology, the Etyma Latina and the Etyma Græca, and, more especially, the fuller method of Prellwitz' Etymologisches Wörterbuch der Griechischen Sprache.

The vocabulary of names and surnames does not profess to be complete. That errors have crept into the work is doubtless too true. I am sorry that I was unable, being so far always from the University centres, to get learned friends to look over my proofs and make suggestions as the work proceeded; and I hope the reader will, therefore, be all the more indulgent towards such mistakes as he may meet with.

ALEXANDER MACBAIN.

OUTLINES OF GAELIC ETYMOLOGY.

INTRODUCTION.

GAELIC belongs to the Celtic group of languages, and the Celtic is itself a branch of the Indo-European or Aryan family of speech ; for it has been found that the languages of Europe (with the exception of Turkish, Hungarian, Basque, and Ugro-Finnish), and those of Asia from the Caucæsus to Ceylon, resemble each other in grammar and vocabulary to such an extent that they must all be considered as descended from one parent or original tongue. This parent tongue is variously called the Aryan, Indo-European, Indo-Germanic, and even the Indo-Celtic language. It was spoken, it is believed, some three thousand years B.C. in ancient Sarmatia or South Russia ; and from this as centre the speakers of the Aryan tongue, which even then showed dialectical differences, radiated east, west, north and south to the various countries now occupied by the descendant languages. The civilization of the primitive Aryans appears to have been an earlier and more nomadic form of that presented to us by the Celtic tribe of the Helvetii in Cæsar's time. Here a number of village communities, weary of the work of agriculture, or led by the desire of better soil, cut their crops, pulled down their lightly built houses and huts, packed child and chattel on the waggons with their teams of oxen, and sought their fortune in a distant land. In this way the Celts and the Italians parted from the old Aryan home to move up the Danube, the former settling on the Rhine and the latter on the Gulf of Venice. The other races went their several ways—the Indians and Iranians eastward across the steppes, the Teutons went to the north-west, and the Hellenes to the south.

The Aryan or Indo-European languages fall into six leading groups (leaving Albanian and Armenian out of account), thus :—

I. INDO-IRANIAN or ARIAN, divisible into two branches :

- (a) Indian branch, including Sanskrit, now dead, but dating in its literature to at least 1000 B.C., and the descendant modern (dialects or) languages, such as Hindustani, Bengali, and Mahratti.

(b) Iranian branch, which comprises Zend or Old Bactrian (circ. 1000 B.C.), Old Persian and Modern Persian.

II. GREEK or HELLENIC, inclusive of ancient and modern Greek (from Homer in 800 B.C. onwards). Ancient Greek was divided traditionally into three dialects—Ionic (with Attic or literary Greek), Doric, and Æolic.

III. ITALIC, divided in early times into two main groups—the Latin and the Umbro-Oscan. From Latin are descended Italian, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Rhoeto-romanian and Roumanian, called generally the Romance languages.

IV. CELTIC, of which anon.

V. TEUTONIC, which includes three groups—(a) East Teutonic or Gothic (fourth cent. A.D.) ; (b) North Teutonic or Scandinavian, inclusive of Old Norse and the modern languages called Icelandic, Norwegian, Swedish, and Danish ; and (c) West Teutonic, which divides again into High German (whence modern German), the Old High German being a language contemporary with Old Irish, and Low German, which includes Old Saxon, Anglo-Saxon, English, Dutch, and Frisian.

VI. BALTO-SLAVONIC or LETTO-SLAVONIC, which includes Lithuanian, dating from the seventeenth century, yet showing remarkable traces of antiquity, Lettic, Old Prussian of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, now extinct, Old Bulgarian or Church Slavonic, into which the Bible was translated in the ninth century, and the Slavonic modern languages of Russia, etc.

These six groups cannot, save probably in the case of Latin and Celtic, be drawn closer together in a genealogical way. Radiating as they did from a common centre, the adjacent groups are more like one another than those further off. The European languages, inclusive of Armenian, present the three primitive vowels a, e, o intact, while the Indo-Iranian group coalesces them all into the sound a. Again the Asiatic languages join with the Balto-Slavonic in changing Aryan palatal k into a sibilant sound. Similarly two or three other groups may be found with common peculiarities (e.g., Greek, Latin, and Celtic with oi or i in the nom. pl. masc. of the o-declension). Latin and Celtic, further, show intimate relations in having in common an î in the gen. sing. of the o-declension (originally a locative), -tion- verbal nouns, a future in b, and the passive in -r.

The Celtic group at present comprises five living languages; last century there were six, when Cornish still lived. These six Celtic languages are grouped again into two branches, which may be named the BRITTONIC and the GADELIC. The former includes the Welsh, Cornish, and Breton; the GADELIC comprises Irish, Manx, and (Scotch) Gaelic. The main difference between these two branches of the Celtic group consists in this: the velar guttural of the Aryan parent tongue, which we represent here by the symbol q, when labialised, that is when the sound w or u attaches itself to it, becomes in Brittonic a simple p and in Gadelic a c (k, Ogam qu). Thus the Welsh for "five" is pump, Cornish pymp, and Breton pemp, Gaulish pempe, whereas the Gaelic is cóig, Manx queig, and Irish cúig: the corresponding Latin form is quinque. Professor Rhys has hence called the two branches of the Celtic the P group and the Q group (from Ogmic qu = Gaelic c). The distinction into P and Q groups existed before the Christian era, for the Gauls of Cæsar's time belonged mainly, if not altogether, to the P group: such distinctive forms as Gaulish petor, four (Welsh pedwar, Gaelic ceithir), epo-s, horse (Welsh ebol, Gaelic each), and pempe, five, already noted, with some others, prove this amply. At the beginning of the Christian era the Celtic languages were distributed much as follows: GAULISH, spoken in France and Spain, but fast dying before the provincial Latin (and disappearing finally in the fifth century of our era); GALLO-BRITISH or BRITTONIC, spoken in Britain by the conquering Gaulish tribes; PICTISH, belonging to the Gallo-Brittonic or P group, and spoken in Scotland and, possibly, in northern England; and GADELIC, spoken in Ireland and perhaps on the West Coast of Scotland and in the Isles. The etymology of the national names will be seen in Appendix A. Our results may be summed in a tabular form thus:—

Celtic	Q Group	{	Gâdelic	{	Irish Manx Gaelic
						Dialects in Spain and Gaul (?)
	P Group	{	Gallo-Brittonic {	Brittonic . .	{
						Gaulish—various Pictish

There are no literary remains of the Gaulish language existent; but a vast mass of personal and place names have been handed down, and also a few words of the ordinary speech have been recorded by the Classical writers. The language of Brittany came from Britain in the fifth and sixth centuries, and it may have found remains in Brittany of the kindred Gaulish tongue. The Brittonic languages—Welsh, Cornish, and Breton—appear first in glosses as early as the eighth century. These glosses are marginal or super-linear translations into Celtic of words or phrases in the Latin texts contained in the MSS. so “glossed.” The period of the glosses is known as the “Old” stage of the languages—Old Breton, Old Cornish, Old Welsh. Real literary works do not occur till the “Middle” period of these tongues, commencing with the twelfth century and ending with the sixteenth. Thereafter we have Modern or New Breton and Welsh, as the case may be. In this work, New Breton and New Welsh are denoted simply by Breton and Welsh without any qualifying word.

The Gaelic languages—Irish, Manx, and Scotch Gaelic—have a much closer connection with one another than the Brittonic languages. Till the Reformation and, indeed, for a century or more thereafter, the Irish and Scotch Gaelic had a common literary language, though the spoken tongues had diverged considerably, a divergence which can be traced even in the oldest of our Gaelic documents—the Book of Deer. In the eighteenth century Scotch Gaelic broke completely with the Irish and began a literary career of its own with a literary dialect that could be understood easily all over the Highlands and Isles. Manx is more allied to Scotch Gaelic than it is to the Irish; it is, in fact, a remnant of the Gaelic of the Kingdom of the Isles.

The oldest monuments of Gaelic literature are the Ogam inscriptions, which were cut on the stones marking the graves of men of the Gaelic race. They are found in South Ireland, Wales and Eastern Pietland as far as the Shetland Isles, and belong mostly to the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth centuries. The alphabet, which is formed on a proto-telegraphic system by so many strokes for each letter above, through, or below a stem line, is as follows:—

b,	l,	f,	s,	a;	h,	d,	t,	c,	q;
- / - / - / - / - / - / - / - / - /
m,	g,	ng,	z,	r;	a,	o,	u,	e,	i.

Examples of Ogam inscriptions are:—

Sagramni maqi Cunotami

“(The stone) of Sagramnos son of Cunotamus.”

Maqi Deceddass avi Toranias

"Of the son of Deces O' Toranis."

Cunanettas m[aqi] mucoi Nettasegamonas

"Of Cunanes son of the son of Nettasegamon."

Tria maqa Mailagni

"Of the three sons of Maolan."

These examples show that the state of declensional inflection was as high as that of contemporary Latin. The genitives in i belong to the o declension; the i, as in Old Irish, is not taken yet into the preceding syllable (maqi has not become maic). The genitives os and as belong to the consonantal declension, and the hesitation between a and o is interesting, for the later language presents the same phenomenon—the o in unaccented syllables being dulled to a. The Ogam language seems to have been a preserved literary language; its inflections were antique compared to the spoken language, and Old Irish, so near it in time as almost to be contemporary, is vastly changed and decayed compared to it.

Irish is divided into the following four leading periods:—

- I. OLD IRISH: from about 800 to 1000 A.D. This is the period of the glosses and marginal comments on MSS. Besides some scraps of poetry and prose entered on MS. margins, there is the Book of Armagh (tenth century), which contains continuous Old Irish narrative.
- II. EARLY IRISH, or Early Middle Irish: from 1000 to 1200 A.D.—practically the period of Irish independence after the supersession of the Danes at Clontarf and before the English conquest. The two great MSS. of Lebor na h-uídre, the Book of the Dun Cow, and the Book of Leinster mark this period. Many documents, such as Cormac's Glossary, claimed for the earlier period, are, on account of their appearance in later MSS., considered in this work to belong to this period.
- III. MIDDLE IRISH: from 1200 to 1550 (and in the case of the Four Masters and O'Clery even to the seventeenth century in many instances). The chief MSS. here are the Yellow Book of Lecan, the Book of Ballimote, the Leabar Breac or Speckled Book, and the Book of Lismore.
- IV. MODERN or NEW IRISH, here called IRISH: from 1550 to the present time.

As already said, the literary language of Ireland and Scotland remained the same till about 1700, with, however, here and there an outburst of independence. The oldest document of Scottish Gaelic is the Book of Deer, a MS. which contains half a dozen entries in Gaelic of grants of land made to the monastery of Deer.

The entries belong to the eleventh and twelfth centuries, the most important being the first—the Legend of Deer, extending to 19 lines of continuous prose. These entries form what we call OLD GAELIC, but the language is Early Irish of an advanced or phonetically decayed kind. The next document is the Book of the Dean of Lismore, written about 1512 in phonetic Gaelic, so that we may take it as representing the Scotch vernacular of the time in inflexion and pronunciation. It differs considerably from the contemporary late Middle Irish; it is more phonetically decayed. We call it here MIDDLE GAELIC, a term which also includes the MSS. of the M'Urich seanachies. The Fernaig MSS., written about 1688, is also phonetic in its spelling, and forms a valuable link in the chain of Scotch Gaelic phonetics from the Book of Deer till now. The term GAELIC means Modern Gaelic.

Scotch Gaelic is written on the orthographic lines of Modern Irish, which in its turn represents the orthography of Old Irish. The greatest departure from ancient methods consists in the insistence now upon the rule of "Broad to broad and small to small." That is to say, a consonant must be flanked by vowels of the same quality, the "broad" being a, o, u, and the "small" e and i. Gaelic itself has fallen much away from the inflexional fulness of Old Irish. Practically there are only two cases—nom. and gen: the dative is confined to the singular of feminine nouns (a-declension) and to the plural of a few words as laid down in the grammars but not practised in speech. The rich verbal inflexion of the old language is extremely poorly represented by the impersonal and unchanging forms of the two tenses—only two—that remain in the indicative mood. Aspiration, which affects all consonants now (though unmarked for l, n, r), has come to play the part of inflection largely; this is especially the case with the article, noun, and adjective. Eclipsis by n is practically unknown; but phonetic decay is evidenced everywhere in the loss of inflection and the uniformising of declension and conjugation.

There are two main Dialects of Gaelic, and these again have many sub-dialects. The two leading Dialects are known as the Northern and Southern Dialects. The boundary between them is described as passing up the Firth of Lorn to Loch Leven, and then across from Ballachulish to the Grampians, and thence along that range. The Southern Dialect is more Irish than the Northern, and it has also adhered to the inflections better (e.g., the dual case still exists in feminine a nouns). The crucial distinction consists in the different way in which the Dialects deal with é derived from compensatory lengthening; in the South it is eu, in the North ia (e.g., féur against fiar, breug against briag, &c.) The sound of long ao differs materially in the two Dialects, the Southern having the sound opener than the Northern Dialect. The Southern Dialect is practically the literary language.

Modern Gaelic has far more borrowed words than Irish at any stage of its existence. The languages borrowed from have been mainly English (or Scotch) and Norse. Nearly all the loan-words taken directly from Latin belong to the Middle or Old period of Gaelic and Irish; and they belong to the domain of the Church and the learned and other secular work in which the monks and the rest of the clergy engaged. Many Latin words, too, have been borrowed from the English, which, in its turn, borrowed them often from French (such as prìs, cunntas, cùirt, spors, &c.) Latin words borrowed directly into English and passed into Gaelic are few, such as post, plaid, peur, &c. From native English and from Scotch a great vocabulary has been borrowed. In regard to Scotch, many words of French origin have come into Gaelic through it. At times it is difficult to decide whether the Teutonic word was borrowed from Scotch (English) or from Norse. The contributions from the Norse mostly belong to the sea; in fact, most of the Gaelic shipping terms are Norse.

I. PHONETICS.

Under the heading of Phonetics we deal with the sounds of the language—the vowels, semi-vowels, and consonants, separately and in their inter-action upon one another.

§ 1. ALPHABET.

The Gaelic alphabet consists of eighteen letters, viz., a, b, c, d, e, f, g, h, i, l, m, n, o, p, r, s, t, and u. Irish, Old and New, have the same letters as the Gaelic. As this number of letters in no way adequately represents the sounds, signs and combinations are necessary.

Firstly, the long vowels are denoted by a grave accent : à, ì, ù, è, ò, the latter two having also the forms é, ó, to denote sounds analogous to those in English vein, boar. Whereas à, ì, ù, which have only one sound, represent corresponding Indo-European sounds (ā, ī, ū), none of the long sounds of e or o represent a simple corresponding I. E. sound.

The Gaelic vowels are divided into two classes—broad and small. The broad vowels are a, o, u; the small, e, i. The Gaelic diphthongs represent (1) simple sounds, (2) real diphthong sounds, or (3) modification of the consonants and carrying out of the law of “broad to broad and small to small.” They are as follows:—

ai , ao	ài
ia , io , iù , iù	ìo
oi	òì
ua , ui	ùì

Here ea, ei, eu represent O. Ir. e, é, and are practically simple sounds, as certainly is ao whether long or short. The forms ia, ua are genuine diphthongs, as are usually the long vowel combinations. The rest may be diphthongs, or may be a trick of spelling, as in the word fios (O. Ir. fis), where the o shows that the s has its normal sound, and not that of sh, as fis would imply.

Triphthongs occur in the course of inflection, and in the case of ao otherwise. These are—aoi, eo, iai, iui, uai, edi, ivi.

The consonants are classified in accordance with the position of the organs of speech concerned in their utterance :—

I. LIQUIDS.—The liquids are l and r, with the nasals n and m. In writing, m only is “aspirated,” becoming to the eye mh, to the ear a v with nasal influence on the preceding vowel. The other liquids, l, n, and r, are really aspirated in positions requiring aspiration, though no h is attached to show it. There is, however, only a slight change of sound made in these letters by the aspiration—a more voiced sound being given them in the aspirating position.

II. MUTES AND EXPLOSIVES.—These all suffer aspiration when intervocalic. They are classified as follows :—

	Tenues.	Mediae.	Aspirates.
Labials	p	b	ph , bh
Dentals.....	t	d	th , dh
Gutturals	c	g	ch , gh

The dentals d and t become spirants when in contact with, or flanked by, the “small” vowels e and i. The other mutes are not affected by such contact. The aspirate sounds are—ph=f, bh=v, th=h, dh and gh=y, ch=German and Scotch ch.

III. THE SPIRANTS.—These, outside the above spirant-made mutes, are f and s. The sound sh is represented by s flanked with “small” vowels. The aspirate forms of these are—fh (=the Greek open breathing or nothing practically), sh (=h).

Celtic Alphabet.

The Celtic alphabet, as deduced from the Neo-Celtic dialects, checked by Gaulish, possessed the following sounds :—

I. VOWELS :—

Short—i, u, e, o, a

Long—ī (= ī, ē), ū, ē (= ei), ō (= au), ā (= ō, ā)

Diphthongs—ei, oi, ai, eu, oi, au

II. LIQUIDS—r, l, m, n

III. SPIRANTS—(h), s, j, v

IV. EXPLOSIVES :—	Tenuēs.	Mediæ.
Labials.....	—	b
Dentals.....	t	d
Gutturals.....	k, kv (p)	g, gv (b)

It has to be noted that Indo-European p initial and intervocalic is lost in Celtic. Before another consonant, it manifests its former presence by certain results which still remain. Thus I. E. septn is G. seachd, supno-s becomes suan.

Indo-European Alphabet.

By a comparison of the six Indo-European or Aryan language groups, the sounds possessed by the parent tongue may be inferred. The following is the form of the I. E. alphabet which is used in the present work :—

- I. VOWELS : Short—i, u, e, o, a, ə
 Long—ī, ū, ē, ō, ā
 Diphthongs—ei, oi, ai, eu, ou, au
ēi, ōi, āi, ēu, ōu, āu
- II. SEMI-VOWELS : î, û, represented in this work always by j, v. See the spirants.
- III. CONSONANT-VOWELS : ɾ, l̥, ɲ, ɳ, ɹ̥, l̥̄, ɲ̄, ɳ̄
- IV. LIQUIDS AND NASALS : r, l, m, n
- V. SPIRANTS : j, v, s, z
- VI. EXPLOSIVES :—
- | | Tenuēs. | Mediæ. | Aspirates. |
|--------------|----------|----------|---------------|
| Labial..... | p | b | ph, bh |
| Dental..... | t | d | th, dh |
| Palatal..... | k | g | kh, gh |
| Velar..... | q | g | qh, gh |

§ 2. VOWEL MODIFICATION.

In Gaelic the vowel or vowel combination of a syllable may undergo “mutation” (German umlaut) in the course of inflection or word-building. This mutation is caused by the influence exerted backward by the vowel of the next syllable now or previously existent. There are three classes of mutation in Gaelic caused either by a following (1) e or i, (2) a or o, or (3) u.

Mutation by “e” or “i.”

- a* becomes (1) ai : cat, gen. cait, damh, g. daimh.
 (2) oi (with double liquids usually) : dall, pl. doill, clann, g. cloinne.
 (3) ui (with liquids) : ball, pl. buill, allt, g. uillt.
 Also where Irish shows o : balg, O. Ir. bolc, pl. builg ; so clag, falt, gal, fuil, car.

- (4) i : mac, g. mic. Dialectically ai becomes ei, especially with liquids, and in ordinary G. eile represents O. Ir. aile; so seileach, too.

o becomes (1) oi : sgoltadh, sgoilte.

- (2) ui : bonn, g. buinn, post, g. puist.

u becomes ui : dubh, comp. duibhe.

e becomes ei : beir for bere*, catch thou.

à, ò, ù become ài, òì, ùì : làimhe, dìge, dùin.

ao, eo, iù, ua become triphthongs.

ea becomes (1) ei : each, g. eich.

- (2) i : ceann, g. cinn; the usual mutation.

eu, with liquids, becomes eòì : beul, g. beòil. It sometimes becomes ao : eudann, aodann.

ia is restored to éi : fiadh, g. féidh; irregularly—fiar, crooked, comp. fiaire, biadh, g. bìdh.

io becomes i : fionn, g. finn.

Mutation by "o" or "a."

o becomes a, a mutation of principal syllables rare in Irish : cas, Ir. cos, original coa*; cadal for codal.

u becomes o : sruth, g. srotha; nuadh, nodha.

e becomes ea : cearc from cerca.

i becomes ea : fear from virc-s*.

éi becomes ia : the stem féidh becomes fiadh in the nom. (veido-s*).

ì becomes ìo : fìor from vîro-s*.

Mutation by "u."

A succeeding u affects only i or e; it is a mutation which does not now operate. Thus fiodh comes from vidu-* (O. Ir. fid); bior from beru* (O. Ir. bîr); sliochd from slektu-; cionn from the dat. cennū*, from cennō*.

§ 3. INDO-EUROPEAN AND GAELIC VOWELS.

The representation in Gaelic of the I. E. vowels is very complicated owing to the principles of mutation discussed above.

I. E. i.

- (1) Gaelic i, O. Ir. i, W. y.

bith, world, O. Ir. bith, W. byd, Br. bed : bitu-s*, root gi. So ith, fidir, nigh, fîr (gen. and pl. of fear, as also nîd from nead, etc.).

- (2) G. ea, O. Ir. e.

beatha, live, O. Ir. bethu : bitûs*, stem bitât*, root gi. S eadh, it, fear, geamhradh, meanbh, nead, seas, seasg, sleamhuinn sneachd.

(3) G. io, O. Ir. i.

G. fiodh, wood, O. Ir. fid, W. gwydd, Br. gwez : vidu*-. So fios, iodh-. The io of fionn, O. Ir. find is due to the liquid and medial mute, which together always preserve the i and even develop it from an original ɲ or en (ɲb, ɲd, ɲg).

(4) G., O. Ir. iú.

This is a mutation by u : fiuch, wet, from vliqu*-; tiugh, tigu*-s.

I. E. u.

(1) G., O. Ir. u, W. w (o).

G., O. Ir. sruth, stream, W. frwd : srutu*-s. So bun, dubh, guth, muc, musach, slugadh, smug, tulach. Here add G. ui : cluinn, luibh, uisge.

(2) G., O. Ir. o.

bonn, bottom, O. Ir. bond, W. bon, bundo*-s. So bothan, con, dogs', do-, so-, domhan, dorus, tom, os, trod.

I E. e.

(1) G., O. Ir. e, W. e.

Simple e is rare in G. : leth, side, O. Ir. leth, W. lled, letos*. So teth, hot.

(2) G. ea, O. Ir. e.

G. each, horse, O. Ir. ech, W. ebol, Lat. equus. So numerous words—eadh, space, bean, beart, cearc, ceart, dearc, dearg, deas, fearg, geal, geas, meadhon, meamna, meas, neart, reachd, seach, seachd, sean, searg, teach, teas, treabh.

(3) G. ei, O. Ir. e.

G. beir, take, O. Ir. berim, W. adfer, Lat. fero. So beil (meil), ceil, ceirtle, ceithir, creid, deich, deis, ready, meirbh, seinn, teich, teine.

(4) G., O. Ir. i.

G., O. Ir. fine, tribe, root ven, O. H. G. wini, Ag. S. wine, friend. So cineal, gin, ite, mil, misg, sinnsear, tigh.

(5) G. io, O. Ir. i.

G. bior, spit, O. Ir. bir, W. ber, Lat. veru. So iol-, sliochd, smior, biolaire, ciomach, tioram.

(6) Compensatory long vowels in G. and O. Ir. These arise from loss of one consonant before another, one of which must be a liquid.

a. ent becomes G. eud, O. Ir. ét. G. ceud, first, O. Ir. cét, W. cynt. So seud, journey. Similarly enk; G. breug, lie, O. Ir. bréc, brenká* : enkt ; G. euchd, E. Ir. écht (Cf. creuchd, crempt*-?) : ens ; G. ceus, crucify. Parallel to these forms in ent, enk are those in nt, nk, such as ceud, one hundred, O. Ir. cét, W. cant, Lat. centum (so deud, eug, geug).

- b. *eb*l : in G. neul, cloud, O. Ir. nél, W. niwl.
egr : in G. feur, grass, O. Ir. fer, W. gwair. egn : in G. feun, O. Ir. fén : vegno*-s. etl : in G. sgeul, O. Ir. scél, W. chwedl.
etn : in G. eun, O. Ir. én, W. edn.

- c. G. eadar and thig show short vowels for original enter* and enk. This is due to sentence accent in the case of eadar and to the word accent in the case of thig or to both.

For ceum, leum, etc., see under u.

I. E. o.

- (1) G., Ir. o.

G. co-, comh-, with, O. Ir. co-, com-, W. cy-, cyf-, kom*-; so ro- (= Lat. pro), fo (= Gr. ὑπό), nochd, naked, night, ochd, mol, bodhar, gonadh, gort, roth.

- (2) G., O. Ir. u, ui.

G., O. Ir. muir, sea, W. môr, Br. mor, from mori*. So druim (dros*-men), guidhe, guil, guin, squir, suidhe, uidhe, uileann, nircean, gu, to, cu-, fu-, fur- (for = vor*).

- (3) G. a, O. Ir. o.

G. cas, foot, O. Ir. cos, W. coes, corá*. So amh, balg, call, falt, gart, garadh, calltuinn. So, too, compounds. With con as in cagnadh, cadal, cagar, caisg, as against coguis (O. Ir. conculus), with its u sound terminal.

- (4) Compensatory long vowels.

G. dual, lock of hair, doglo*-, Got. tagl, Eng. tail. So òl (potlo*-), buain, (bog-ni*- or bongni*-), cluain, cuan, bruan, sròn, còmh-.

I. E. a.

- (1) G. a, ai, O. Ir. a, W. a.

G., O. Ir. can, sing, W. cana, Lat. cano. So many words, such as abhainn, ad-, agh, air, altrum, anail, anam, cac, damh, gad, mac, maide, marc, nathair, salann, &c.

- (2) G. à before rd, rn, m.

Sec àrd, bàrd, bàrr, càrn, sgàird, càm. àm, màm.

- (3) G. i.

In two cases only : mac, g. mic ; sile, saliva, O. Ir. saile.

(4) G. u, ui.

This happens in contact with liquids. The prep. air becomes ur-, uir-, vireasbhuidh, urchar. So muigh from magesi*. Common in oblique cases: allt, g. willt, ball, buill, &c.

(5) G. ea, ei for e.

G. seileach, willow, E. Ir. sail, W. helyg, Lat. salix. So ealtuinn, eile, eir- for air-, eilean, training, deigh, ice.

(6) G. oi.

This change of I. E. a into Gaelic oi is due mostly to a liquid followed by a "small" vowel.

G. oil, rear, E. Ir. ailim, Lat. alo. So oir for air-, coileach, goir, troigh, coire, loinn, &c., and goid, oide.

(7) Compensatory lengthenings in G.

a. As à, ài :

G. dàil, meeting, O. Ir. dál, W. dadl, where -atlo- is the original combination. -agr- appears in nàire, sàr, àr.

b. As eu, ao, ia :

It has been seen that ceud, hundred, corresponds to W. cant, Lat. centum. The Celtic, in these cases, is regarded as having been *nt, nk, (knto-n). See under n.

An undoubted ease of a landing by compensation into eu (=ê) is deur, tear, O. Ir. dér, O.W. dacr, I. E. dakru. Prof. Strachan has extended this analogy to words like meur, breun, léine, sgeun, mēanan. The case of deur seems rather to be an anomaly.

I. E. ə.

This is the I. E. "indefinite" vowel, appearing in Celtic as a, in the Asiatic groups as i, and generally as a in Europe (Greek showing also ε). Henry denotes it by ä, a more convenient form than Brugmann's ə. Some philologists refuse to recognise it.

G. athair, father, O. Ir. athir, I. E. pəter-, Gr. πατήρ, Skr. pitar.

It is common in unaccented syllables, as G. anail, breath, W. anadl, anə-tla*, Gr. ἄνεμος. In the case of syllables with liquids it is difficult to decide whether we have to deal with a, ə, or a liquid vowel; as in G. ball, member, bhal-no-*, root bhəl, whence Gr. φάλλος, Eng. bole.

I. E. Long Vowels.

I. E. ī and ū are so intimately bound with ei and eu (ou) that it is difficult to say often whether we have to deal with the simple vowel or the diphthong as the original. For ī see lì, sì, sgùth, brìgh; for ū, see cùl, dùil (element), dùn, cliù, mùch, mùin, rùn, ùr. The W. in both cases (ī, ū) shows simple i.

I. E. ē appears in Celtic as ī, G. ì : as in G. fìor, fìr, true, O. Ir. fír, W. and Br. gwir, Lat. vérus. So lìon, mial, mìos, rìgh, sìth, sìol, sìor, tìr, snìomh.

I. E. ō and ā appear both as ā in the Celtic languages—Gaelic á, W. aw, Br. eu. For ō, see blàth, gnàth, làr, dàn, snàth. For ā, see bàn, bràthair, cnàimh, càr, clàr, dàimh, fàidh, gàir, màthair, sàth, tàmh..

I. E. Diphthongs.

I. E. ei appears in G. in two forms—as éi and ia. Thus—

a. G. éi, O. Ir. éi, W. wy, Br. oe, oa. See féith, géill, méith, réidh, séid, sméid.

b. G. ia, O. Ir. ia. This is due to the influence of a succeeding broad vowel. See cia, ciall, cliathaich, criathar, fiadh, fianuis, giall, iarunn, liagh, riadh, riar, sgiath, sliabh. Consider these—feuch, léan, glé, and, possibly, gèadh.

I. E. oi. This consistently appears in G. as ao long, O. Ir., ái, ói, later oe, ae, (óe, áo), W., Br. u. See caomh, claon, fraoch, gaoth, gaol, laogh, maoin, maoth, taobh.

I. E. ai can with difficulty be differentiated from oi; certainly not on Celtic ground, nor, indeed, outside Greek and Latin. The following are real cases: G. aois, caoch, saothair, tais.

I. E. eu and ou are also confused together in the modern Celtic languages. They both appear as either G. ua or ò.

a. G. ua, O. Ir. úa, W., Br. u.

G. buaidh, victory, O. Ir. buaid, W. bud, Gallo-British Boudicca, "Victoria." See also buachaill, chuas, luath, ruadh, ruathar, truagh, tuath, uasal.

b. G. ò; as bòidheach from buaidh, tròcair from truagh, lòchran, còs for cuas.

I. E. au appears in G. as ò or ua, much as do eu, ou. Thus—G. gò, a lie, O. Ir. gó, gáu, W. gau, Br. gaou. Also dìgh, virgin, from augi-, fuachd, uaigneach.

§ 4. I. E. SEMI-VOWELS AND CONSONANT VOWELS.

The semi-vowels are denoted by Brugmann as i and u, by Henry as y and w; and these forms are used by them not merely for intervocalic semi-vowels but also for the diphthongs which we have printed as ei, oi, ai, eu, ou, au, which Henry, for instance, prints as ey, ew, etc. In this work Fick is followed in the forms of the diphthongs, and also, where necessary, in his signs for the semi-vowels, viz., y and v, with j and v as signs for the spirants.

I. E. y, j, v.

I. E. y and j disappear in Gaelic, but are preserved in the Brittonic as i. Thus ìoc, heal, O. Ir. iccain, W. jach, I. E. yakos, Gr.

ἄκος, Skr. yákas; see deigh and òg. For I. E. j, compare G. eòrna, for eò-rna, jevo-*, Gr. ξεία, spelt, Skr. yáva; also eud, jealousy, jantu-*, Gr. ξῆλος, zeal, Skr. yatná.

I. E. v is thus dealt with:—

- (1) Initial v: G., O. Ir. f, W. gw, as in G. falt, hair, Ir. folt, W. gwalt; also faidh, Lat. vâtes, feachd, fear, Lat. vir, fiadh, fichead, fine, fiodh, with succeeding consonant in flath (vlati-*), flurich, fraoch, fras, freumh, etc.
- (2) Intervocalic v. This disappears in G. leaving the vowels to coalesce with varying results, thus:—
 - a. -ivo- produces eò, as in beò, givo-s*, Lat. vivus, or ia in biadh (bivoto-n*), dian.
 - b. -evo- produces eò, as in ceò, skevo-*, Eng. shower, deò, W. dywy, devo-*, Lat. fūmus, eòrna. Stokes gives clìù as klevos*, Thurneysen as kloves.
 - c. -ovi- gives nuadh, novios*, -ovo- in crò (krovos*), -ovn- in òg.
 - d. -avi- in ogha (pavios*), dàth (daviò*), -avo- in clò.
 - e. -eivi- in glé, -eivo- in dia.
- (3) Post-consonantal v.
 - a. After liquids it becomes bh. See garbh, marbh, searbh, tarbh, deallbh, sealbh, meanbh, banbh.
 - b. After explosives. It disappears save after d, (gv): feadhbh, widow, O. Ir. fedb, faobh, baobh. For gv, see g below.
 - c. After s, it sometimes disappears, sometimes not. Thus piuthar is for svesór*, O. Ir. siur, whereas in searbh (svervo-s*), solus (but follas), seinn, etc., it disappears.

The Consonant Vowels.

These are r, l, n, m; r̄, l̄, n̄, m̄. The regular representation of r, l in G. is ri, li (mutated forms being rea, rei, lea, lei). See the following regular forms: bris, britheamh, fri, lit; also the modified forms—bleath, bleoghainn, breith, cleith, dreach, leamhann, leathan (?), sreath.

The numerous Gaelic a forms of I. E. e roots containing liquids fall to be noticed here. Some of them Brugmann explains as glides before sonants, somewhat thus: G. mar, remain, O. Ir. maraim, would be from m̄ra-, root mer, Lat. mora; so sgar from sker; garbh, marbh.

Add the following:—alt, carbad (Lat. corbis), bàrr, bàrd, cairt, garg, mall, dall, sgàird (Lat. muscerda), tart, tar; fras, flath, fraigh, graigh, braich. With modified vowels in—coille (caldet-*), doire, foil, goile, goirid, sgoilt.

The long vowels r̄ and l̄ appear regularly as rā (?), lā. See làn (p̄l̄-no-*, Skr. pūrmas), slàn, tlàth, blàth. Long r̄ seems to appear as ār in dàir, màireach, fàireag (?).

Vocalic n and m may be looked for in G. samhail, which Brugmann explains as sm̃lli-s, in tana, thin; reversed in magh and nasg.

Compensatory n plays a great part in G., appearing usually as eu (ao). We have ceud, hundred, W. cant, deud, W. dant, teud, eud, eug, eudann, éiginn, geug. The negative n appears before vowels as an, before c, t, and s, as eu, éi: eutrom, éislean, &c. The most curious result arises from -ngm-, which ends in G. as eum-; see ceum, W. cām, leum, W. lām, and add teum, W. tām, from tnd-men*.

Before the medials b, d, g, both n and m become in (ion), im (iom), and original in retains its i (cf. fionn). Thus we have im-, iom- from m̃bi, Lat. ambi, also im, ionga, imleag, ciomach.

I. E. "r" and "l" Liquids.

Gaelic r and l represent the I. E. liquids r and l. Initially we may select ràmh, reachd, ruadh, rùn, loch, laigh, labhair, leth; after p lost—ro, ràth, làmh, làn, làr. Medially r and l are "aspirated," but the sounds have no separate signs—dorus, tulach, geal, meil, eile, seileach, etc. Post-consonantal r and l appear in sruth, srath, etc., chuinn, fiuch, slugadh, etc. In -br, -tr, -dr, the combinations become -bhar, -thar, -dhar, while in -cr, -gr, -bl, -tl, -dl, -cl, -gl the respective explosives disappear with lengthening of the preceding vowel. For -sl, see below (-ll).

Ante-consonantal r and l preserve the explosives after them—àrd, bàrd, ceart, neart, dearg, dearc, allt, calltuinn, gill, balg, cealg, olc, etc.

Gaelic -rr arises from -rs; see bàrr, earr, carraig; from the meeting of r with r, as in atharrach; from rth, as in orra from ortha, Lat. orationem. Again -ll comes from -sl, as in uaill, coll, ciall, etc.; especially from -ln-, as in follas, ball, feall, etc.; from -ld-, as in call, coille, and many others.

I. E. "n" and "m" Nasals.

I. E. n and m appear normally in G. as n and m, save that I. E. terminal m in neuter nouns, accusative cases, and genitives plural, became in Celtic n. (1) Initial n appears in nead, Eng. nest, neart, neul, nochd, naked, night, nathair, nuadh, nasg, na, not, etc. (2) After an initial mute, n appears in cnàimh, cneadh, cnò, gnàth, etc. After s, in snàth, snìomh, snuadh, snigh, sneachd. After b it changes the b into m (m̀natha for bnás*). (3) Intervocalic n is preserved—bean, làn, maoin, dàn, rùn, dùn, sean, etc. (4). Pre-consonantal n is dealt with variously:

- a. Before the liquids, n is assimilated to m and l, and disappears before r.

- b. Before the labials, n becomes m in modern Gaelic, though words like inbhir show the old phonetics. Before t, c, the n disappears with lengthening of the previous vowel, as in ceud, first, breug, cóig. Before d and g, it is preserved, as in cumhang, fulaing, muing, seang, but it assimilates d—fionn (vindo-s*), bonn, inn-, bin-. For -ngm, see under n and g.
- c. Before s, n disappears as before t and c. Compare mìos, feusag, grìos, sìos.
- (5) Post-consonantal n disappears after l, leaving ll (see under l), but is preserved after r, as in càrn, eòrna, tighearna, etc.
- a. After s, that is, -sn becomes -nn; as in dronn for dros-no*-, donn, uinnsean, cannach, bruinne, etc.
- b. The mutes, t, d, c, g, p, disappear with compensatory lengthening of the previous vowel: -tn-, as in eun, buan, ùin; -dn-, as in bruan, smuain; -cn is doubtful—cf. tòn, also sgeun, breun, leòn; -gn-, as in feun, bròn, uan, sròn; -pn-, as in suain, cluain, cuan.
- c. After b, that is, bn changes into mh-n, as in domhan (dubno*-), sleamhuinn.

The G. combination -nn arises therefore from (1) n before n, (2) n before d, and (3) from -sn; or (4) it is a doubling of n in an unaccented syllable at the end of a word (tighinn, etc.), or, rarely, of a one-syllable word like cinn, chuinn, linn.

Initial m appears in mìos, muir, mil, maide, etc. Before the liquids r and l, the m becomes b, as in braich, brath, brugh, blàth, bleath, bleoghairenn. Intervocalic m is always aspirated—geimheal, amhuil, like, cruimh, amh, damh, cnàimh, làimh, caomh. In combinations with other consonants, various results occur:—

(1) Pre-consonantal m.

- a. Before liquids, m is preserved in an aspirated form (geamh-radh, etc), but there are no certain ancient cases. Of course, m before m results in preserved m (cf. amadan, comas, comain).
- b. Before s, m should disappear, but no certain Celtic cases seem to occur. In the historic language, m before s results in mp or p as usually pronounced, as in rompa for rom + so, that is, rom-sho*; so iompaidh, umpa.
- c. Before the explosives. Original mb is now m, as in the prefix im-, iom-, in imleag, tom. I. E. m before t and k (q) became n (as in ceud, breug), and disappeared with compensatory lengthening. Compare also d'idean, eridinn. Prehistoric mg, md fail us; in the present language both appear aspirated (mgh, mhdh).

- (2) Post-consonantal m. After the liquids r, l, and n, the m is preserved. Whether an intermediate s is in some cases to be postulated is a matter of doubt (as in gairm, from gar-s-men*? W. garm). See cuirm (W. cwrw), gorm, seirm, deilm, calma, ainm, meamna, anmoch.

After s, m becomes in the older language mm, now m; druim comes from dros-men*. But s is very usual as an intermediate letter between a previous consonant and m: many roots appear with an additional s, which may originally have belonged to an -es neuter stem. We actually see such a development in a word like snaim, which in E. Ir. appears as snaidm (d. snaidmainm), from a Celtic snades-men*. In any case, a word like ruaim postulates a Pre-Celtic roud-s-men*. See also gruaim, seaman, réim, lom, trom.

After the explosives the m is aspirated and the explosive disappears, as in the case of freumh (vrdmā); but seemingly the accented prefix ad- preserves the m: cf. amas, amail, aimsir.

Preserved G. m, intervocalic or final, may arise from (1) m or n before m, (2) s before m (also -bsm, -tsm, -dsm, -csm, -gsm), (3) -ngm or -ngm, as in ceum, leum, benm, geum, or -ndm as in teum, (4) ng becoming mb as in im, tumadh, tom, etc., or (5) -mb (-mbh), as in im, iom.

§ 5. VOWEL GRADATION OR ABLAUT.

The most characteristic roots of the I. E. languages are at least triple-barrelled, so to speak: they show three grades of vowels. The root pet, for instance, in Greek appears as pet, pot, pt (πέτομαι, fly, ποτάομαι, flutter, πτερόν, wing). The first grade—e—may be called the “normal” grade, the second the “deflected” grade, and the last—pt—the “reduced” or “weak” grade. The reason for the reduced grade is evident; the chief accent is on another syllable. Why e interchanges with o is not clear. The leading I. E. series of vowel gradations are six in number, as follows:—

	Normal.	Deflected.	Weak.
1. e -series	e	o	nil
but	ei	oi	i
2. ē -series	ē	ō	ə
3. ā -series	ā	ō	ə
4. ō -series	ō	ō	ə
5. a -series	a	ā	(a)
6. o -series	o	ō	(o)

Corresponding to the e, o, nil series are the two “strong” vowel grades ē, ō, as in sed, sit, sod, sēd, sōd, si-zd, found in Latin sedeo (sed), G. snidhe (sod), G. sìdh, peace (sēd), Eng. soot (sōd), Lat. sēdi (si-zd).

The e-series in full is as follows :—

	Normal.	Deflected.	Weak.
e simple	e	o	nìl
ei	ei	oi	i
eu	eu	ou	u

To all these correspond “reduced” long forms—to ei belongs ī, to eu belongs ū, and to the consonant-vowels correspond the longs ī, ū, ū, ū. We may also here add the triple ve, vo, u (vet, vot, ut, as in G. feitheamh, uine, uiridh).

Some Gaelic examples will now be given.

- (1) The e-series. G. eadh, uidhe from pedo*-, podio*-; tigh, tugha from tegos*, togio*-; geas, guidhe from ged, god; cleachd, cleas, cluich, etc. In ei we have the complete set meit, moit, mit in mèith, maoth, meata or miosa; further cliathach, claon from klei, kloi; fianuis, fis from veid, vid; gaoth, geamhradh from ghoi, ghi; and others. The diphthongs eu, ou cannot be differentiated, but the short form of the root occurs, as in ruadh, roduidh from roud, rudd; buail, buille from bhoud, bhud; cluas, cluinn from kleu, klu; nuadh, nodha (?). The liquids show the changes also: beir, breith from ber, br, and in the sense of speech we have also bràth, judgment (bṛtu-). The root pel is especially rich in forms: iol (pelu*-), uile (polio*-), lìon (plēno*-, Lat. plēnus, from plē), làn (either plōno*, plō, Eng. flood, or pī-no*-, from pī-), that is, root forms pel, pol, pl, plē, plō, pī, meaning “full.” In n we have teann, tana (tendo*-, tṇavo-, according to Brugmann), and teud; from gen we get the long forms gnē in gnòmh and gnō in gnàth. In nem we have nèamh, heaven, O. Ir. nem, and nàmhaid, foe, from nōm (Gr. νομός).
- (2) The ē and other series. One of the best examples of the ē series is snē, snō (snā), spin, which gives snìomh (snēmu*-) and snàth, thread (snātio*-). From sē come sìol (sēlo*-) and, possibly, sàth, transfix (sōto-). The ā-series is not differentiated in G. nor is the ō-series; but from a short we get, among others, the root āg, lead, in aghaidh, etc., and āg in àgh, success, àghach, warlike. The diphthong ai has as its “reduced” grade i. The name Aoidh in Maekay represents O. Ir. Aed, aed, fire, Gr. αἴθω, I burn.

§ 6. THE SPIRANTS.

The I. E. spirants were j, v, s, and z. We have already discussed j and v under the heading of semi-vowels, from which it is difficult to differentiate the consonantal j and v. Here we deal with s and z, and first with s.

- (1) Initial s. Before vowels and the liquids, I. E. s remains intact in Gaelic. In Brittonic s before vowels becomes h, before l, n, and m, it disappears, while before r it or its resultant effect is preserved (see sruth, srath, sròn).
 - a. I. E. sv appears in Gaelic as s usually, more rarely as f and p or t; in W. the form is chw. See searbh, seal, sia, sibh, séid, etc. The G. piuthar appears in Ir. as siur, fiur, from svesōr*, while pill (svelni*-) gives fill and till; compare also séist and téis.
 - b. I. E. sp (sph) is treated in Celtic much as sv. And spr appears as sr; cf. sròn, straighlich.
- I. E. st appears in Gaelic as t, as in tigh, tà, tighinn, taois. But str, stl, become sr, sl, as in srath, sreothart, sreang, slios, slat, sloinn, slaid. Some hold that st may appear as simple s, which is the case in Welsh, but the instances adduced can be otherwise explained (cf. seirc, sàil).
- I. E. sq, sqh appear in Gaelic as sg, O. Ir. sc, as in sgàth, sgath, sguir, etc. The W. precedes the sg with a y as in ysgwyd, Ir. sgiath, G. sgiath, shield: I. E. sqv is in W. chw, as G. sgeul, W. chwedl, sgeith, W. chwyclu.
- (2) Intervocalic s. This becomes h and disappears; compare tagh (to-gusó*), do-, chì, etc.
- (3) Terminal s disappears altogether; but in closely connected combinations of words its former existence is known from the so-called euphonic h, as in the article genitive feminine and nom. plural before vowels (na h-àighean = sendás aigeis*), and it may be the origin in most cases of prothetic s.
- (4) Pre-consonantal s. A pre-historic case of -sr is not forthcoming, but éirich comes from ek-s-regó*. Before l, m, and n the s disappears, and the liquid is doubled (m of Gaelic being for older mm), as already shown under these letters. Medial sv appears as f in the older language (see seinn), and it is still seen in tabhann (to-sven-*), feabhas.

Before the explosives, s is preserved before the tenues, which in the modern language become mediæ. The combination -sp is not certain; but -sc becomes -sg (see fsgadh, seasg, measg, etc.), st becomes s (older ss) simply, as in seas (= sisto-*), fois, fàs, dos, etc. Before the medials s becomes z, which see for the results in Gaelic.

- (5) Post-consonantal s. After the liquid r the s is assimilated to the r, and the result is rr, as in barr, earr, etc. From -ls seemingly s results, at least in the later language; -ms, -ns become s with compensatory lengthening for the previous vowel. For m-sh = mp, see under m.

The explosives combine with the s and disappear into O. Ir. s, now s, as in uasal (= oups*- or ouks*-), lus, leas (led-so*-), lios, as. out (= eks), and many others.

Gaelic preserved s intervocalic, therefore, arises from (1) st, as in seas; (2) from -ms, -ns, as in mios; and (3) from -ps, -ts, -cs. Gaelic -st arises from this s by a sort of modern restoration of previous st, only, however, x may also become modern st (as in aisde, out of her).

I. E. z.

Even in I. E. this is assured only before the medial explosives. Thus G. nead, nest, is from I. E. nizdo-s; so maide, brood, cead, gad, séid. Again -zg seems to have developed in G. into g; compare beag, biog, méag, griogag, eagal (= ex-gal-).

§ 7. THE EXPLOSIVES OR MUTES.

The I. E. explosives formed a possible sixteen in number between tenués, mediæ and the double set of aspirates (ph, bh, th, dh, kh, gh, qh, gh). The tenués aspirate were "rare and of no importance" in the resulting languages, save only in Sanskrit and Greek. The mediæ aspirates are the predecessors of aspirates of the modern languages. But in the Celtic languages these mediæ aspirates were merged into the mediæ themselves, so that b and bh appear in Celtic as b, d and dh as d, g and gh as g, and g and gh as g. The Balto-Slavonic, in this matter, shares the peculiarity of the Celtic.

All the explosives, when intervocalic, are "aspirated" in Gaelic — p to ph, b to bh (= v), t to th (= h), d to dh (= y), c to ch, g to gh (= y); the corresponding Welsh changes are the tenués to mediæ, and the mediæ to f, dd, and nil in the case of g. Intervocalic preserved explosives in Gaelic arise from a doubling of the explosive, the cause of which in many cases is obscure. The following are the leading cases and causes of intervocalic G. mutes:

- (1) Doubling of the explosive in the course of inflection or word-building.
- a. Inflection. The participle passive in -te preserves the t or d of the root as t; thus caith gives caite, bàth (for bàdh) gives bàite, ràdh gives ràite, etc.

- b. Word-building. The prepositional prefixes which end or ended in a consonant preserve the succeeding explosive; even vowel-ending prepositions like air (are*), aith (ati*) do the same, if the accent is on the preposition. Thus—abair is for ad-ber, aitreabh is for ad-treb, aidich is for ad-dam, faic for ad-ces-, agair for ad-gar. In the way of affixes, we have ruiteach from rud-t and ruicean from rud-c, creid from cred-dhó*; compare the compounds boicionn, laó'cionn, and craicionn.
- (2) After sunk n or m. Thus deud comes from dnt, and so with ceud, teud; ceud, first, from cento*-, so seud; eug from ṇko-, etc.
- (3) After sunk spirant z. This is assured for zd, as in brod (broz-do*-, Norse broddr), cead, gad, maide, nead; but zg giving g is doubtful—eagal seems for es-gal* or ex-gal*-, beag for gvezgo-s (Lat. vescus), mèag for mezgo-.
- (4) Cases corresponding to double explosives in other languages: cat and Lat. catta (borrowing?), cac and Gr. κάκκη. Compare also slugadh.
- (5) Doubtful cases. Many of these cases can be satisfactorily explained as due to suffixes immediately affixed to consonant-ending roots. Thus brat may be for grat-to-, trod for trud-do-, ìoc for yak-ko*-, breac for mrg-ko-. Even suffixes in -bho- and -go- are not unknown, and they might account for reub (reib-bo*-, reib-bho*-, Eng. reap, rip), slug for slug-go-, etc. Dr Whitley Stokes has given a different theory founded on the analogy of a Teutonic phonetical law, stated thus by Brugmann: "bn, dn, gn became bb, dd, gg before the principal accent in primitive Teutonic, thence pp, tt, kk (by Grimm's law), which were further treated just the same as pp, tt, kk, which had arisen from pn, tn, gn, and from I. E. bhn, dhn, ghn, ghn. . . . O. H. G. sluccho, slukko, glutton [sluk-no*-], M. H. G. sluchen, gulp, have hiccup, allied to Gr. λύζω, λυγγανάουμαι, I have hiccup." These last words are allied to G. slugadh, which Dr Stokes refers to a pre-Celtic slug-nó*-, the accent being on the suffix -no-. The weakness of this hypothesis lies in the fact that uniform results are not found from it. Thus breac, from mrg-nó-, should be breag, not breac, on the analogy of slug.

I. E. p.

Initial and intervocalic I. E. p disappears in Gaelic, as in athair, Lat. pater, eun for pet-no*-, eadh for pedo-, iasg against Lat. piscis, ibh against bibo (for pibo), làr against Lat. plenus, làr and Eng. floor, etc. For intervocalic p, see fo (upo*), for, teth, caora (kaperax*), saor (sapiros*), etc.

Lat. and G. agree in the initial of the numeral five—quinque and cóig, though the I. E. was penqe. In feasgar the G. gutturalises an original vesperos without Latin countenancing it. Initial sp appears as s; see sealg, spleen, sonn, sliseag, sine.

When p appears before the liquids and t, c, or s, it is not lost in G.; it leaves its influence either in a new combination or in compensatory lengthening. Thus sudain is for supno-s, and see cluain, cuan. G. dias seems from steip-s-a*, W. twys, and uasal may have had an original form like ὑψηλός, Eng. up. In seachd, Lat. septem, the p is gutturalised; we may add here neachd*, O. Ir. necht, Lat. neptis, Eng. niece; creuchd, reachd. Possibly leac may be for lep-ká.

G. intervocalic p is, of course, due to some combination. In leapa, genitive of leabaidh, it arises from leb-tha*; and we must explain similarly tap (tabaidh* becoming tab-tha*); so raip, streap.

For t taking the place of p through an initial h compare the derivations offered for torc, turlach, tuil, tlàm, tlùs for lùths.

I. E. b, bh.

These two become b in Gaelic and the other Celtic languages. I. E. b is rare in any language; in G. it appears in ibhim (piβō*), treabh, domhain and drùchd (dhreub-tu*).

- (1) Initial I. E. bh, G. b. See beir, balg, ball, bàn, blàth, bloom, bragh, bruthainn, buidh.
- (2) Intervocalic I. E. bh, G. bh (= v), O. Ir. b, W. f. See abhainn, cràbhach, dubh, gobhal.
- (3) Pre-consonantal bh or b.
 - a. Before r it remains—abhra, gabhar, dobhar, Gaul. dubrum.
 - b. Before l it disappears with compensatory lengthening—neul for neb-lo-s.
 - c. Before n it becomes mh now—sleamhuinn is for slibno-s*, Eng. slippery; so domhain. These are I. E. b.
 - d. Before t, I. E. b becomes ch as in drùchd.
- (4) Post-consonantal b, bh. It is preserved after the liquids r and l—carbad, cearb, earb, gill, sgolb. After m it preserves the m, as in im-, iom- from mbi, ambi. After s it is preserved in ebair; after d in abair, leòb, faob, aobrann; perhaps after g in leabaidh, leg-butì* (?).
- (5) Gaelic intervocalic b. In reub and gob we seem to have a suffix -bo-, reib-bo-*, gob-bo; also cliob from clib-bo-, root qlg, Gr. κολοβός, stumpy (?). Oftenest b is produced from a previous d, especially of the prefixes—as abair, abadh, faob, etc. (see the paragraph above).

I. E. t.

Initially this is Celtic t; intervocalic, it is aspirated, and otherwise it is variously modified.

- (1) Initial t, G., O. Ir., W. t. See, among many, tiugh, tar, teth, teich, tais, tora, tlàth, tnùth, tri, treabh.
- (2) Intervocalic t, G. th (= h), O. Ir. th (d), W. d. See athair, mathair, ith, roth, ceithir, leth, etc. Sometimes in non-accented syllables it appears as dh, as in biadh from bivoto-s*, and this is always the case with the infinitives in -atu- (glan-adh). Irregularly fàidh for fàith.
- (3) Pre-consonantal t not initial. Before r it is preserved, as in criathar, briathar, etc. Before l it disappears with compensatory lengthening—sgeul, W. chwedl, òl, beul, etc.; so before n, as in eun. Before s the t disappears and the s is preserved, as in miosa, ris, sàs. Words like fios are from vid-s-tu, formerly explained as from vid-tu. Before another t, t is preserved in the resultant t of G., as in ite, etc.; -td- seems to become -dd-; -tc- becomes O. Ir. cc, G. c, as in freiceadan; -tg- becomes gg, that is g, as in freagair.
- (4) Post-consonantal t. After r and l it is preserved, as in beart, ceart, ceirtle, alt, falt; after n and m it sinks to d, as in ceud, etc. As seen -bt becomes -chd, as in drùchd, while -pt is in seachd. After c or g, the t sinks in G. to d, preserving the guttural as an aspirate: ochd, nochd, bochd, reachd. O. Ir. has -cht here and W. th.
- (5) Gaelic intervocalic t. The t of a root is preserved when the suffix begins in t, as in caite, spent, in ite, O. Ir. ette, pet-tid*, lit, plt-tion*-. The d of the prefixes preserves it, as in aitreabh, taitinn, ruiteach. The t of the following does not belong to the ultimate root: ciotach, squi-tto-*, Eng. skew, croit, root kur, lot, root lu.

I. E. d, dh.

This is a uniform Celtic d initial; Gaelic dh between vowels and W. dd.

- (1) Initial d, dh. See deas, dearc, deich, druim, dùn, damh, etc., for d; for dh, dubh, domhan, dearg, dorus, dall; also dlighe, druim.
- (2) Intervocalic d, dh. See fiodh, vidu-*, eadh, suidhe, fiadh, guidhe, etc.
- (3) Pre-consonantal d, dh non-initial. Before r, l, n, the d disappears with compensatory lengthening, as in àireamh (ad-rim*-), àros, àrach, buail (boud-lo*-), but buille is for bud-s-lìo*-; smuain for smoud-no-. Before m it sometimes disappears, as in freumh, vrđ-má*, but with an accented prefix the d and m become n, as in aimsir, amal. With s it coalesces into s, as in musach, or in uisge for ud-s-qio*-, or fios for vid-s-tu*-. Before the explosives, with b it coalesces to bb, now b, as in abair, etc. So with t, as in aitreabh; with d, as in aidich; with c, as in faic; with g, as in agair.

- (4) Post-consonantal d, dh. The liquid r preserves a following d, as in àrd, bàrd, sgàird, ord, etc. It assimilates with l, as in coille, call, moll, mullach; and with n, in fionn, O. Ir. find, bonn, O. Ir. bond, binn. For zd, see next paragraph. The explosives before d are unusual, save t and d, for which see next paragraph.
- (5) Intervocalic G. d. There are three sources at least for this d:—
- The d from nt in ceud, teud, beud, etc.
 - The d arising from the spirant z before d, as in brod, brozdo*-, cead, gad, maide, nead, druid.
 - From -dd- as in creid, goid, rodaidh, trod, etc.; also aidich, ad-dam*-.

I. E. "k" and "q."

These appear in G. uniformly as c; but in the Brittonic languages q, if labialised, becomes p as in Greek.

- (1) Initial k. See chuinn, cù, ceud, hundred, cac, cridhe, caomh, corn.
- Initial q simple. See caraid, W. câr, ceud, first, W. cynt, coille, W. celli, cas, W. coes, coileach, W. ceiliog, etc.
- Initial q labialised, that is, qv : casd, W. pâs, ciall, W. pwyll, ceithir, W. pedwar, ceann, W. pen, coire, W. pair, co, W. pa, cruimh, W. pryf.
- It seems clear that G. g at times represents I. E. k, q, as W. has the latter. Compare G. geug with W. cainc, Skr. çaiñku; but W. ysgaint shows the reason for the anomaly—an s initial has been dropped, and in dropping it the G. reduced c to g. Further compare garmainn, giomach. Cf. dias.
- (2) Intervocalic k, q. The G. is ch, W. g, b. Compare cruach, W. crûg, fichead, deich, loch; also each, W. ebol, seach, W. heb, etc.
- (3) Pre-consonantal k, q. Before r, l, n, the c disappears with compensatory lengthening as in deur, Lat. dacrima, meur, dual, muineal, tôn; and compare Prof. Strachan's derivations for mèanan, breun, càin, lèana. With s, the result in G. is s, O. Ir. ss, W. ch, as in usal, W. uchel. Before explosives, cb, cd, cg do not appear; ct becomes chd, for which see under t (4); for c-c, see paragraph (5) here.

- (4) Post-consonantal k, q. After r and l, the guttural appears as c, as in cearc, uircean, malc, olc, falc, etc. After n (m), it sinks to g, with a preceding long vowel, as in eug, breug, already discussed. After s, the c is preserved, but in G. it is written as g, as in measg, nasg, teasg, etc. After explosives, the t and d of the prefix or root preserves the c following, for which see under t and d pre-consonantal. For c or g before c, see next paragraph.
- (5) Intervocalic Gaelic c. It may arise from -tk, -dk, -kk, -gk. From -tk in freiceadan (frith-com-ét-án*); -dk in faic, acarach, ruicean, acuinn; -kk in nuc, mukkus*, cac, craicionn, loc, leacainn; from -gk in bac, boc, breac, cnoc, gleac. The word mac, son, postulates a Gadelic makko-s as against the Ogmie maqvi (gen.) and W. mab; it is difficult to account for the G. form.

I. E. g, gh; g, gh.

These consonants all, save in one case, appear in G. as g, aspirated to gh, and W. shows g and nil in similar circumstances. The exception is in the case of g, which, when labialised, becomes G. and W. b. But gh, whether labialised or not, becomes g in G.

- (1) Initial I. E. g: in guth, gin, gnàth, geimheal, gò. I. E. gh is in geamhradh, gabh, gàg, geal, white. I. E. g simple appears in geal, leech, goir, goile, gearan, guala, gràdh; I. E. gh in gar, grian, gaol, guidhe, geas, guin. Labialised g appears in bean, Eng. queen, bior, bèd, bò, brà, quern, bràghad.
- (2) Intervocalic Celtic g. See deigh, aghaidh, greigh, truagh, bleoghainn, tigh, bragh, etc.. In the termination of words it appears often as ch: teach (tegos*), mach (magos*), imlich, imthich, éirich, fuirich. Intervocalic g labialised does not seem to exist in modern G.
- (3) Pre-consonantal Celtic g. Here -gr, -gl, -gn become -r, -l, -n with vocalic lengthening, as feur, vegro*, àr, nàir, fiar, àl, fual, feun, vegno*, sròn, uan, tàin, bròn, etc. Before m, g is found in the combination ng-m, which results in m with a preceding long vowel, as in ceum, leum, geum. Before s it becomes x and modern s, W. ch, as in uasal, W. uchel, as for ex, os, deer, W. yeh, cas, las, uiseag. Before explosives the g is variously preserved: -gb, -gd may be passed over; -ct, -gt appear as chd, as in seachd, bliochd, smachd, nochd, sneachd, etc.; -gk ends in -kk, now c, for which see post-consonantal k; -gg appears as g, as in slug, bog, clag, lag, slige, smugaid.
- (4) Post-consonantal Celtic g. After r and l the g is preserved in G., but often in W. becomes y; see dearg, fearg, searg, garg, lorg, balg, cealg, dealg, tulg. After n ordinary g is preserved, as in cumhang, long, muing, seang, fulaing. But labialised g became b, and then coalesced with the n into mm, now m, as in im, butter, Lat. unguentum, tum, cam, tom, ciomach, and in modern times cum, keep, from congv* in congbhail. For ng-m see the foregoing paragraph. For sg see the next paragraph. After the explosives, the g is preserved in the combinations -tg (freagair), -dg (agair) and -gg, which see below.

- (5) Intervocalic Gaelic g. It arises from -sg firstly, which in pre-Celtic times was -zg, as in beag, mogul, griogag, nèag, eagal, etc., which see under I. E. 2 above. From the explosive combinations we have tg in freagair, frith-gar-*, eagna, eagar; dg in agair, agus. The -gg must arise from a suffix in -go-, which was operative in early Gadelic, if we discard Dr Stokes' view already set forth. For this -gg see paragraph third above.

Intervocalic g may arise from a lost n before c, as in breug, geug, eug, etc. The previous vowel is lengthened save in a few cases where the word—or sentence—accent has brought about a short syllable. Thus thig has short i, and in G. leig is short. This is regularly the case with the results from the prefix con, confused with cos, as in cogais, O Ir. conculus, cadal, cagar, cogadh, etc.

§ 8. ACCENT.

In Gaelic, only the stress accent exists, and it is placed always on the first syllable. The accent of the Old Gaelic was likewise on the first syllable, save in the case of the verb. Here in the compounded verbs the stress accent rested on, as a rule, the second syllable; but the imperative placed the accent on the first syllable, and this also took place after the negative and interrogative particles and after the conjunctions gu'n and na'n (da'n). Thus faic, see thou, is for f-aid-c, with accent on the preposition ad, for it is imperative; the future chì stands for the old present at-chí, videt, where the accent is on the root cí. Again in cha'n fhaca the negative brings the accent on the prefix ad, that is, f-ad-ca. When the accent is on the prefix, its ending consonant and the initial consonant of the root coalesce and result in a preserved G. intervocalic consonant, but the root suffers truncation: when the accent is on the root, these consonants are aspirated, and the root is preserved. The ten irregular verbs in G. present sufficient illustrations of this rule. The preposition con, when accented, was always con, when unaccented it was com (comh). In the unaccented syllables, long vowels become short (àireamh from ád-rim*, anail for O. Ir. anál), and in many cases change completely their grade, as from small to broad (e.g. comhnadh, O. Ir. congnam, from gnìomh, and the compounds in -radh and -lach).

II. WORD-BUILDING.

Word-building consists of two parts—composition and derivation. The first deals with the compounding of separate words; the second deals with the suffixes (and prefixes) that make up the stem of a word from its root.

- (1) The compound may be two stems welded together: righ-theach, palace, rígo-tegos*, “king’s house;” righ-fhàidh, royal prophet —“king who is a prophet;” cean-fhionn, white-headed, Penno-vindo-s; ceithir-chasach, four-footed; dubh-ghlas, dark-blue; crannchur, lot, “casting the lot.” These are the six leading relationships brought out in compounds. In Celtic the first stem is nearly always in o-, as Teuto-bōdiaci, G. sean-mhathair (but Catu-slógi, Mori-dilnum, G. Muirgheal). Consider the following compounds: iodhlann, mialchu, òircheard, buarach, ceardach, clogad, bàthach, eilthire, gnath-fhocal, moirear, leth-chas, leth-trom, etc.

The following are common prefixes: ath-, re-, ath-ghlac, recapture; ban-, she-, ban-altrum, bantrach; bith-, ever-, bith-bheò, bith-bhuan; il-, iol-, many; ion-, fit; sìr-, sìor-, ever-, fìr-, fìor-, very, saobh-, pseudo-.

The following suffixes belong to this branch of word-building:—

-lach, from slougo-*, now sluagh; seen in teaghlach, dòrlach, òglach, youth, etc.

-radh, from rēda*, W. rwyd (see réidh); seen in reabhradh, madraidh, dogs, digridh, youth, macraidh, sons, righre, kings, gnìomharra, deeds.

-mhor, -or, from mór, great; it makes adjectives from nouns, etc.: lìonmhor, etc.

-ail, -like; from samhail, amhail: rìoghail for rìogh-amhail, king-like.

-an, diminutive masculine, O. Ir. án, Ogmic -agnos, for apogno-s*, root gen, bear (Stokes): as in fearan, truaghan, etc.

-ag, diminutive fem. in G., O. Ir. -óc (masc. and fem.), from óc, óg, young: seen in caileag, etc.

-seach. This feminine termination has been explained by Stokes as from O. Ir. es, a fem. form, with the adjectival addition igā*, and this es he deduces from W. es, which comes from Lat. issa.

- (2) The compound may be one noun governing another in the genitive: mac-leisg, and all the personal names in mac, gille, maol.

(2) Uninflected prefixes :

a. Negative prefixes—I. E. n, G. an before vowels, aineol, ion-, in- before b, d, g (iongantas), eu- (ao-) before t, c, s (aotrom for é-trom, n-trommo-s*).

To this negative add also mi-, neo-, as- (eas-), di- (der- = di-air-).

b. Prefixes of quality : do- (do-char), and so- (so-char) ; and the intensive ro-.

(4) Old adverbial forms and all prepositions. These prepositions are often combined with one or two other prepositions.

Stem Suffixes.

The following are the most important suffixes used in Gaelic for stem formation :—

1. o-, d-, as in *cùl (*cùlo-), aitreabh, cas (coxá).
2. tro-, tlo-, trá-, tlá- : *criathar, krei-tro-, anail (ana-tlá), sgeul, cineal.
3. jo-, já-, ijo-, ijá- : *eile, suidhe, (sod-i-on). See no-, ro-, tjo-, sqio-.
4. vo-, vá-, uvo-, uvá- : *tarbh (*tar-vo-), each (ek-vo-), beò (bi-vo-).
5. no-, ná-, ŋno-, eno-, ono- : làn, slàn, duan, domhan, lethan (letano-s). It is secondary in iarunn ; cf. *tighearna (teger-nio-).
6. mo-, mǎ- : trom, lom, caomh.
7. ro-, rá-, rro-, etc. : siòr, mór, làr, àr, bodhar. Here comes the Gaelic numeral stem -áro-n, as aonar, one person, cóignear, five persons ; it is allied to Lat. -árius, -árium, Gaelic -air, -eir, denoting agents or doers—clàrsair, harper, etc.
8. tero-, ero- : in sinnsear, uachdar, eadar.
9. lo-, lá-, llo-, etc. : *coll (cos-lo-), sìol, neul, ciall, giall.
10. dhro-, dró-, dhlo-, dlo- : odhar, uallach.
11. bho-, bhá- : *earb, gob (gob-bo-).
12. to-, tá-. This is the participial termination in most I. E. languages. In G. it is used for the past passive. Also in the adjectives nochd, bochd, gnàth, etc. ; nouns dligheadh, dearmad, gort.
13. tjo-, tjá- : Gr. ἀμβρόσιος. This forms the passive participle in G. : briste, caite, etc.
14. tá- of abstract nouns : lobart, now lobairt.
15. to- comparative. This appears in the ordinal numerals : deicheamh, O. Ir. dechmad, for dekηmeto-*.
16. ko-, kǎ- : òg, young, juvη-ko-.
17. go-, gǎ-, gio-, āgo- ; sùileach for sùli-go-s* ; cuimhneach, creidmheach. Especially the adjectives and nouns in -ach, as marcach, buadhach. Further, the form iche (-iqio-s) denoting agent ; maraiche, etc.
18. sgo-, sqio- : as in measg, seasg, uisge.
19. go-, gǎ- : see muing, Danish mauke.

20. Stems in i : dird, muir, maith, deigh. In nì, tàin, cluain, buain; in mì, cruimh, cnàimh; in lì, samhail, dùil; in tì, fàith, féith, breith, bleith, etc.—a form in which some infinitives appear.
21. tàti-, that is, Celtic tât-, tūs : beatha, life, bitūs*, g. bi-tât-os*.
22. Stems in u : tiugh, fliuch, dub, loch. In nu-, linn, O. Ir. lín, lénu ; in tu- there are many—bith, iodh-, fios (vid-s-tu*-), guth, cruth ; especially reachd and its like in chd. Here come the infinitives in adh (-ātu-).
- In G. -eas, as of abstract nouns, the form arises from tu- being added to an -es stem : aois, aiv-es-tu* ; so dorus, follus.
23. Stems in -n : cù, àra, ìm, ionga. In -ien, there is 'Eire, 'Eireann. The stems in tió are very common ; the oblique cases are in -tin- ; see eiridinn, faotainn, etc. : common in infinitives. Similarly common is -men-, -mon-, in ainm, cuirm, druim, leum ; and masculine in britheamh, ollamh, talamh.
24. Stems in -r ; only the family names athair, màthair, etc.
25. Stems in -t-, -nt : nochd, night ; caraid, friend—a participial form.
26. Stems in k or q : G. nathair, g. nathrach, so làir, lasair, cathair, etc.
27. Neuter stems in -es : teach, leth, magh, gleann.
28. Comparative stems in -jes, -is-, -jós : mó, greater mā-jós*, sine, Skr. san-yas-.

Two or three stems peculiar to Gaelic may be mentioned. Adjectives in -idh, O. Ir. -de, as diadhaidh, come from an original -dio-. Endings like maireann, frionn have been correlated with the Lat. gerund, itself a much disputed form. The preserved d in words like flichead, moisture, O. Ir. fliuchaidatu, has been variously referred to -antu*- or -ato-tūt ; possibly the latter is its origin.

ainnis, ainniseach, needy: an + díth, want?

air, on, upon. This prep. represents three Irish ones:

(a) air = O. Ir. ar, air, ante, propter, W. ar, er, Br. er, Gaul. are-, Celtic ari, arei; Gr. παρά, παρά, by, before; Lat. prae; Eng. fore, for. This prep. aspirates in Irish, and in Gaelic idioms it still does so, e.g. air chionn.

(b) air = O. Ir. for, "super," O. W. and O. Br. guor, Br. voar, oar, Gaul. ver-; Gr. ὑπέρ; Lat. super; Eng. over. This prep. did not aspirate; it ended originally in r in Gaelic; as an inseparable prefix (vero-, viro- in Gaul.) it aspirated, as in the modern form of old names like Fergus, now Fearghuis or Fear'uis (gen. case).

(c) air = O. Ir. iar n-, after, pre-Celtic eperon; Skr. aparām, afterwards, aparena, after; Got. afar, after, Eng. af-ter. Further come Gr. ὀπί, behind, ἐπί, to, Lat. ob-, op-. See iar. This is the prep. that is used with the inf. to represent a perfect or past participle in Gaelic—Tha mi air bualadh: "I have struck."

airbhinneach, honourable; air + beann?

aire, distress, so Ir., O. Ir. aircur, pressura; cf. Lat. parcus, sparing.

aire, the Ark, Ir. aire; from Lat. arca.

aircill, to watch, listen, Ir. aircill; see faircill.

aireleach, a cripple; aire-lach*, from aire, q.v.

aird, point (of the compass), Ir. áird, E. Ir. aird; Gr. ἄρδης, a point. Hence Sc. airt, àirde, height, Ir. áirde, E. Ir. arde ; see árd.

àirdeil, ingenious :

aire, heed, Ir., O. Ir. aire, Old Brit. Areanos, native watchers who gave intimation to the Romans (Ammianus), pre-Celtic parjá, par, seek ; Gr. πείρα ; trial, Lat. ex-perior, Eng. experiment.

àireach, keeper of cattle. There is confusion in Gaelic between àircach and O. Ir. aire(ch), lord ; the bó-aire, cow-lord, was the free tenant of ancient Ireland. For O. Ir. aire, see airidh. G. àireach owes its long vowel to a confusion with àraich, rear. See airidh for root.

àireamh, number, so Ir., O. Ir. áram, W. cirif, ad-rim-*, Celtic rímá, number ; Ag. S. rím, number, Eng. rhyme ; Gr. ἀριθμός, number.

†airfid, music, harmony ; see oirfid.

airgiod, silver, so Ir., O. Ir. arget, W. ariant, Br. arc'hant, Gaul. Argento-, Argento-corus (a Caledonian prince) ; Lat. argentum ; Gr. ἄργυρος. Eng. argent is from the Lat.

airidh, hill pasture, sheiling (airghe, in Lh. for Gaelic) ; cf. E. Ir. airge, áirge, place where cows are, dairy, herd of cattle ; E. Ir. airgech, herdswoman (of Brigit) ; Ir. airghe, pl. áirghe (O'B.), a herd of cattle ; airgheach, one who has many herds ; ar-egia* ; Lat. armentum ? But see àraich, rear.

airidh, worthy, Ir. airigh (Ulster), airigh, nobleman (O'B.), O. Ir. airc(ch), primas, lord ; Skr. árya, good, a lord ; árya, Aryan, áryaka, honourable man.

airilleach, a sleepy person ; from †aireal, bed, M. Ir. aircl (O'C.) :

airleag, lend, Ir. airligim, O. Ir. airliciud, lending ; from leig, let, which is allied to Eng. loan, Got. leihvan, Ger. leihen. See leig.

airleas, pledge, earnest, arles ; from Sc. arles, older erles, which, through O. French, comes from Lat. arrhula*, dim. of arrha, pledge. Eng. earnest, whence W. ernes, is probably from the same origin. See eàrlas.

airleig, a strait :

airmis, hit ; see eirmis.

airne, a sloe, so Ir., M. Ir. arni, sloes, W. cirin, plums, Br. irinenn sloe, Celtic arjanio- (Stokes) ; Skr. arani, tinder-stick " prenna spinosa," aranka forest.

airneach, murrain in cattle :

airneis, furniture ; Ir. áirneis, cattle, goods, &c., M. Ir. airnis, tools, furniture. The word can hardly be separated from the Romance arnese, accoutrements, armour, whence Eng. harness, armour for man or horse. The word is originally of Brittonic origin (Br. harnes, armour), from eisarno-*, iron ; see iarunn.

airtein, a pebble, so Ir., E. Ir. artcini (pl.), O. Ir. art ; possibly Gaul. arto- (Arto-briga), Artemia, name of a rock.

airtneal, airsneal, weariness :

ais, back, backwards ; so Ir., E. Ir. aiss, daraiss, backwards ; Gaelic air ais. The forms ais, rithisd (ris), thairis, seem compounds from the root sta, sto, stand ; cf. fois, bhos, ros ; ais may be for ati-sta- or ati-sti-. Ascoli refers ais to an unaccented form of éis, track, which is used after tar and di (di a éis, post eum ; see déis) for “after, post,” but not for “back,” as is air ais, with verbs of rest or motion.

aisead, delivery (obstetrical), E. Ir. asait, vb. ad-saiter, is delivered ; ad-sizd*- ; Lat. sido, assidere ; a reduplication of the root sed, of suidhe, q.v.

aiseag, a ferry, Ir. aiseog (Fol.) :

aiseal, axle ; it seems borrowed from Eng. axle, Norse öxull, but the W. echel, Br. ahel, aksila*, makes its native origin possible, despite the absence of the word in Irish.

aiseal, jollity (Sh., Arms.) ; see aisteach.

aisean, rib, Ir., E. Ir. asna, W. eisen, asen, Cor. asen ; cf. Lat. assula, splinter, asser, beam (Stokes). Formerly it was referred to the same origin as Lat. os, ossis, bone, Gr. ὀστέον, but the root vowel and meaning are both unfavourable to this etymology.

aisearan, weanling (Argyle) ; from ais ?

aisg, a request (Sh.), E. Ir. ascid ; ad-skv*-, root seq-, as in sgeul, q.v.

aisgeir, a ridge of high mountains, Ir. eiscir, aisgeir (Lh. for latter) ; ad-sker*-(?), as in Eng. skerry, G. sgeir, q.v.

aisig, restore, so Ir., E. Ir. assec ; possibly = as-ic*, “out-bring,” ic = enk ; see thig, come.

aisir, aisridh, passage, path ; see astar.

aisith, strife ; as-sith, as-, privative, and sith, q.v.

aisling, a vision, dream, so Ir., O. Ir. aislinge ; possibly ex-ling-ia*, “a jump out of one-self, ec-stasy,” the root being leny of lenm, q.v. Nigra suggested the root sil or sell of seall, see, q.v. ; he divided the word as *as-sil-ing*e, Stokes as ad-sell-an-gia (Beiträge, Vol. VIII.).

aisneis, rehearsing, tattle, E. Ir. same, O. Ir. áisnǵis ; aisnédim, I relate, as-ind-fiad-im, O. Ir. in-fiadim, I relate ; fiad = veid, know ; see innis.

aisteach, a diverting fellow, Ir. aisdeach, witty :

ait, glad, Ir., E. Ir. ait, O. Ir. ait, euge ! adverbium optantis :

áite, a place, Ir., E. Ir. áit. Possibly pre-Celtic pōd-ti-, root pōd, ped, Lat. oppidum, Gr. πέδον, ground, Skr. padám, place ; as in eadh, q.v. Stokes has referred áit to the root that appears in Ger. ort, place, Norse oddr, O. Eng. ord, point, Teutonic uzd-, I. E. uzdh- ; but this in Gaelic would give ul or od.

àiteag, a shy girl; see fàiteas.

aiteal, breeze, ray, small portion. In the sense of "ray," cf. Gr. ἄκρίς, ray; in the sense of "quantulum," it may be divided as ad-tel, O. Br. attal, an equivalent, root tel, weight, money; see tuarasdal.

aiteam, a people, a tribe (Arms.):

aiteamh, a thaw; aith-tā-m*, W. toddi, melt; Lat. tabes; Gr. τήκω, melt; Eng. thaw. The Ir. word is tionadh (O. Ir. tinaid, evanesceit), Manx tenne, the root of which is ten, Lat. tener, Eng. thin.

aith-, "re-"; see ath-.

aitheamh, fathom, O. W. atem, filum; *(p)etemā; Eng. fathom; I. E. pet, extend, Lat. pateo, &c.

aithinne, fire-brand, Ir., O. Ir. aithinne: aith-tén-io-*? Root of teine? The root and, kindle, as in O. Ir. andud, accendere, adandad, lighting up, is also possible, aith-and-io-* being the form in that case.

aithis, a reproach, affront, so Ir., O. Ir. athiss; ati-vid-tu-*; Got. idveit, Eng. twit; root vid, wit, know.

aithlis, a disgrace; cf. leas in leas-mhac.

aithne, knowledge, so Ir., O. Ir., aithgne, W. adwaen: ati-gn-io- for Ir.; I. E., gen, gnā, gnō, to know; Lat. cognosco; Gr. γινώσκω; Eng. know.

àithne, command, Ir., O. Ir. aithne, depositum, command; immánim, delego, assign; W. adne, custody; the root seems to be ān or an, judging from the verbal forms, though these scarcely agree with the noun forms. See tiomnadh further.

aithreach, repentant, so Ir., O. Ir. aithreach, Corn. edreck, repentance, Br. azrec (do.), ati-(p)reko-, ati-(p)rekiā; root preh, Lat. precor, Ger. fragen, ask, &c. Ascoli makes the root reg, come (see rach).

aithris, tell, so Ir., ati-ris*, E. Ir. ris, a story, ṛt-ti-*, rat, rēt, Ger. rede, speech, Got. rathjo, speak, Lat. ratio.

àitidh, damp:

aitionn, juniper, Ir. aiteann, O. Ir. aitenn, W. aith, eithin, Cor. eythinen, O. Br. ethin (gl. rusco), akto-*, I. E. root ak, sharp, Lat. acidus, Eng. acid, edge, Gr. ἄκρος, extreme, &c. The nearest words are Lit. ákstinas, sting, Ch. Sl. ostinu. Also aiteal.

aitreabh, a building, Ir. aitreibh, E. Ir. aittreb, W. adref, home-wards, Gaul. Atrebat; ad-treb-*, the Celtic root treb corresponding to Lat. tribus, Eng. thorpe.

àl, brood, Ir. ál, W. ael, al: *(p)aglo-; cf. Lat. propāgo, Eng. propagate. Hence àlaire, brood mare,

- álach, nails : āl-lach*, āl- from (p)agl-, Lat. pālus, stake ; root pag, pāg, fasten, whence Gr. πήγνυμι, Lat. pango, fix, Eng. page.
- alachag, alachuin ; see ealachainn.
- álainn, beautiful, Ir. áluin, O. Ir. álaind ; ad-lainn* ; see loinn.

- alladh, fame (either good or bad), Ir. alladh, excellency, fame, E. Ir. allud ; see above.
- allaidh, fierce, wild, Ir. allta, O. Ir. allaid ; possibly from all-, over, the idea being "foreign, barbarous, fierce ;" cf. W. allaidl of like meanings, from W. all, other. See next.
- allmharach, a foreigner, foreign, fierce ; Ir. allmharach, foreigner, transmarine ; E. Ir. allmarach. From all-, beyond, and muir, sea, "transmarine" (K. Meyer).

- allsmuain, a float, great buoy :
- allsporang, cow's throttle (M'A.) ; see abhsporag.
- allt, a stream, Ir. alt, height, (topographically) glen-side or cliff, O. Ir. alt, shore, cliff, O. W. allt, cliff, Cor. als, Br. aot, shore ; all allied to Lat. altus. The Gaelic form and meaning are possibly of Pictish origin.
- alm, alum ; from the English.
- alp, ingraft, join closely together :
- alt, joint, Ir., E. Ir. alt, *(p)alto-s ; root pel, whence Eng. fold, Norse, faldr, Ger. falz, groove ; Gr. -λάσιος, doubled, for πλάσιος.
- altach, a grace (at food), Ir. altughadh, O. Ir. attlugud, rendering thanks, atluchur bude, I give thanks : ad-thukôr*, root, tlug ; Lit. tulkas, interpreter ; Lat. loquor for tloquor.

- àm, time, Ir. am, pl. amanna, E. Ir. am, ammen-, from at-s-men-, root at, Got. apn, year ; possibly Lat. annus (at-s-no-).
- am-, privative prefix ; this is the labialised form of an-, q.v. ; and being labialised, it is also aspirated into amh-. The forms before "small" vowels in the subsequent syllable are aim-, aimh-.
- amach, vulture, so Ir. :
- amadan, fool, Ir. amadán : am + ment-, "non-minded," Celtic root ment (dearmad, farmad, &c.), mind ; Lat. mens, menti-s, Eng. mind, &c. The shorter root men is found in meanmna.

amail, mischief ; E. Ir. admillim, I destroy : ad + mill, q.v.

amal, swingle-tree ; ad-mol* ; mol, a beam, especially "a mill shaft," E. Ir. mol :

amar, channel, mill lead ; E. Ir. annor, ammbur, a trough, amb-or*- ; Gaul. ambes, rivos, rivers, Ambris, river name ; Lat. imber ; Gr. ὄμβρος, rain ; Skr. ambu, water. Zimmer considers the Ir. borrowed from Ag. S. amber, amphora, Ger. eimer ; but the Gaelic meaning is distinctly against his theory. A borrowing from Lat. amphora is liable to the same objection.

amarlaich, blustering (M'A.) :

amas, hitting, O. Ir. ammus, an aim : ad-mes*- ; see eirmis.

amasguidh, aimsgith, profane, impure ; ad-mesc-id*-, "mixed ;" see measg.

a mhàin, only, Ir. amháin, E. Ir. amdáin ; cf. O. Ir. namdá (W. namyn, but ?) = na-n-má, "ut non sit major" (?). The main root is má or mó, more, with the negative, but the exact explanation is not easy ; "no more than" (?).

amhainn, river ; better abhainn, q.v.

amhare, looking, seeing, so Ir. :

amhaltach, vexing ; see aimheil.

amhartan, luck, Ir. amhantur, abhantur ; from Fr. aventure, Eng. adventure.

amharus, suspicion, so Ir., O. Ir. amairress, infidelitas, am + irress, the latter meaning "faith ;" O. Ir. irress = air-ess, and ess* is from sistá*, standing, root stá, stand, reduplicated ; cf. Lat. sisto, &c. The whole word, were it formed at once, would look like am-(p)are-sistá*, or am-are-sistá*.

amhas, amhusg, wild man, beast-man ; Ir. amhas, a wild man, madman ; E. Ir. amos, amsach, a mercenary soldier, servant. Conchobar's amsaig, or mercenaries, in the E. Ir. saga of Deirdre, appear misunderstood as our amhusgan, monsters ; there is probably a reminiscence of the Norse "bear-sarks." Borrowed from Gaul. Lat. ambactus (= servus, Festus), through ambaxus* ; Caesar says of the Gaulish princes : "Circum se ambactos clientesque habent." The roots are ambi- (see mu) and ag, go, lead (see aghaidh). Hence many words, as Eng. ambassador, Ger. amt, official position, &c.

amhghar, affliction, Ir. amhgar ; am- (not) + gar ; cf. O. Ir. ingir, tristitia, from gáire, risus. See gàir, laughter, for root.

amhuilt, a trick, deceit (H.S.D. àmhuilt) :

àmhuinn, oven, Ir. óigheann ; borrowed from Eng. oven.

amlach, curled, amlag, a curl, M. Ir. amlach ; from the prep. ambi-, as in mu, q.v.

amraidh, cupboard, Ir. amri (O'B.), W. almari ; all borrowed from Eng. (Gaelic from Sc. aumrie ?) ambry and M.E. almarie, from O. Fr. almarie, from Lat. armarium, place of tools or arms, from arma.

an, a', the, Ir. an, O. Ir. in (mas. and fem.), a n- (neut.) ; a t-appears before vowels in the nom. masc. (an t-athair), and it is part of the article stem ; a Celtic sendo-s (m.), sendâ (f.), san (n.). Sendo-s is composed of two pronominal roots, dividing into sen-do ; sen, judging by the neuter san, is a fixed neuter nom. or acc. from the Celtic root se (I. E. sjo, beside so-), allied to Ag. S. se, the, seó, now she. The -do- of sendo-s has been referred by Thurneysen and Brugmann to the pron. root to- (Eng. tha-t, Gr. τό) ; it is suggested that to- may have degenerated into do- before it was stuck to the fixed form sen. Sen-to- could not, on any principle otherwise, whether of accentuation or what not, produce the historical forms. It is best to revert to the older etymology, and refer do- to the pronominal root appearing in the Latin fixed cases (enclitic) -dam, -dem (qui-dam, i-dem, &c.), the Gr. δέ, -δε (as in ὁ-δε, this), Ch. Sl. da, he. The difference, then, between Gr. ὁ-δε and Gaelic sen-do-s is this : the Gr. inflects the first element (ὁ=so) and keeps the δε fixed, whereas Gaelic reverses the matter by fixing the sen and inflecting the do- ; otherwise the roots are the same ultimately, and used for almost similar purposes.

an, in, Ir. a n- (eclipsing), O. Ir. i, i n-, W. yn, Br. en ; Lat. in ; Gr. ἐν ; Eng. in, &c. Generally it appears in the longer form ann, or even as ann an ; see ann.

an, interrogative particle, Ir. an, O. Ir. in ; Lat. an ; Got. an.

an-, negative prefix, Ir. an-, O. Ir. an-, in- ; W., Cor., Br. an- ; Celtic an, I. E. n-, Lat. in-, Gr. ἀ-, ἀν-, Eng. un-, Skr. a-, an-, &c. It appears before labials and liquids (save n) as am-, aspirated to amh- ; with consequent "small" vowels, it becomes ain-, aim-, aimh-. Before g, it becomes ion-, as in iongantais. Before c, t, s, the an- becomes eu- and the t and c become medials (as in beud, breug, feusag). See also next word.

ana-, negative prefix, O. Ir. an-, sometimes aspirating; G. anacrepidimh, disbelief, O. Ir. ancretem, but ainfhior, untrue; M. Ir. ainfhír. This suggests a Celtic anas- for the first, and ana- for the second, extensions of the previous an-; cognate are Gr. ávis, ávev, without; Ger. ohne, Got. inu, without.

ana-, an-, ain-, prefix of excess; Ir. an-, ain-, M. Ir. an-; Ir. aspirates where possible (not t, d, g), Gaelic does so rarely. Allied are Gr. áva, up, Got. ana, Eng. on. Hence ana-barr, excess; ain-neart, violence; ain-teas, excessive heat, &c.

anabas, dregs, refuse :

anabhiorach, centipede, whitlow :

anacail, defend, save; Ir. anacail, protection, E. Ir. anacul (do.).

ann, ann an, in, Ir. ann, E. Ir. ind, O. Ir. ind-ium (in me), Celtic endo (Stokes); Lat. endo, indu, into, in; Gr. ἐνδο, within, ἐνδοθεν; Eng. into. The roots are en (see an), in, and do (see do), to. In ann an, the two prepositions ann and an are used. The form anns is used before the article and relative; the -s properly belongs to the article; anns an, in the, is for ann san.

† annaid, annoid, a church, M. Ir. annóit, O. Ir. andóóit, mother-church. Stokes refers it to L. Lat. antitas, for antiquitas, "ancient church." In Scottish place-names it appears as Annet, Clach na h-Annaid, &c.

annaladh, era, calendar, Ir. analach, chronicle; from Lat. annalia.

annamh, rare, M. Ir. annam, E. Ir. andam; an-dam*-, "non-tame;" root dam, home, &c.; Eng. domestic, tame. Hence annas, rarity.

annsa, dearer, better liked, so Ir., M. Ir. andsa, preferable:

ao-, privative prefix; for eu-, that is, for an- (not), before c and t. See an-.

aobhach, joyous; see aoibhinn.

aobhar, cause, Ir. adhbhar, O. Ir. adbar, ad-bero-n*; root ber, I.E. bher, whence Lat. fero, Eng. bear, &c.

aobrann, ankle, O. Ir. odbrann, W. uffarn: od-bronn*, ud-brunn*-, "out-bulge;" ud = Eng. out, and brunn-, see brù, belly. Stokes (Academy, June, 1892) makes od- to be for pod, foot, Gr. πούς, ποδός, Eng. foot, &c.

aodach, clothes, Ir. eulach, O. Ir. étach, ant-ac-os*; root pan, as in anart, q.v. Cf. Lit. pinti, plait, twine, Ch. Sl. pěti, wind, Lat. pannus, &c. Strachan cfs. Alb. ent, int, weave, Gr. ἄττομαί, weave.

bat, bata, a stick, Ir. bata ; from M. Eng. batte, stick, now bat, which comes from O. Fr. batte, from Gaul. Lat. battuere, as under bàs, q.v. The Br. baz seems borrowed from the Fr., though it may be native.

bàta, a boat, Ir. bád, M. Ir. bát, W. bád ; all from Ag. S. bāt, Eng. boat, Norse bátr (Stokes). K. Meyer takes Ir. and G. from the Norse.

batail, a fight ; see baiteal.

bàth, drown, Ir. báthaim, O. Ir. bádud (inf.), W. boddi, Br. beuzi ; I. E. gādh, sink, Gr. βαθύς, deep, -βδύω, sink, Skr. gāhás, the deep.

bathar, wares; from the Eng. wares.

† beabhar, beaver, Ir. beabhar (Lh.), Cor. befer, Br. bieuzr, Gaul. Bibrax; Lat. fiber; Eng. beaver, Ag. S. béofor. Gaelic and Ir. are doubtful.

beach, a bee, so Ir., O. Ir. bech, W. begegyr, drone, biko-s*; a root bi- appears in Eng. bee, Ag. S. beó (= bija*), Ger. bienc (= bi-nja*), Lit. bitis. Stokes makes the Celtic stem beko-s, but does not compare it with any other language.

beachd, opinion, notice, Ir. beacht, certain, E. Ir. becht, bechtain, I certify:

beadaidh, impudent, fastidious, Ir. béadaidh, beadaidh, sweet-mouthed, scoffing:

beadradh, fondling, caressing, beadarrach, pampered:

beag, little, Ir. beag, O. Ir. becc, W. bach, Cor. bechan, Br. bie'han, bian, bezgo-*; Lat. vescus (= gvesgus)? Some have connected it with Gr. μικρός, Dor. Gr. μικκός, and Dr. Cameron suggested Lat. vix, scarcely.

beairt, engine, loom; see beart.

bealach, a pass, Ir. bealach, pass, road, E. Ir. belach; cf. Skr. bīla, gap, mouth. See bile.

bealaidh, broom, Ir. beallji (Lh. Comp. Voc.); cf. Br. balan, M. Br. balazn, O. Fr. balain; also Fr. balai, a broom. This might be referred to the common root bhel, bloom (prolific as a root, like the corresponding root of broom, as in W. balannu, to bud), but the W. for "broom" is banadl, Cor. banathel, which M. Ernault has compared with Lat. genista, broom (root gen, beget?). The Br. might be a metathesis of W. banadl (cf. Br. alan v. anail). It is possible that Gaelic is borrowed from the Pictish; the word does not appear in the Ir. Dictionaries, save in Lh.'s Lat. Celt. part, which perhaps proves nothing.

bealbhan-ruadh, a species of hawk (Sh., O'R.); for bealbhan, cf.

† bealbhach, a bit, from beul, mouth?

bealltuinn, May-day, Ir. béaltcine, E. Ir. beltene, belltaine, belo-te(p)niá* (Stokes), "bright-fire," where belo- is allied to Eng. bale ("bale-fire"), Ag. S. bacl, Lit. baltas, white. The Gaul. god-names Belcnos and Belisama are also hence, and Shakespeare's Cym-beline. Two needfires were lighted on Beltane among the Gael, between which they drove their cattle for purification and luck; hence the proverb: "Eadar dà theine Bhealltuinn"—Between two Beltane fires.

bean, wife, so Ir., O. Ir. ben, W. ban, benyw, Cor. benen, sponsa, Celtic benā, g. bnās, pl. n. bnās; Gr. γυνή, Bæot. Gr. βανά; Got. ginō, Eng. queen, Sc. queyn; Skr. gnā.

bean, touch, Ir. beanaim, beat, touch, appertain to, O. Ir. benim, pulso, ferio, Br. benā, to cut, M. Br. benaff, hit; bina*, root bin, bi (O. Ir. ro bi, percussit, bithe, percussus), from I. E. bhi, bhei, hit; Ch. Sl. bija, biti, strike; O. H. G. bihal, axe; Gr. φίπρος, log. Further is root bheid, split, Eng. bite. Usually bean has been referred to I. E. ghen ghon, hit, slay; Gr. φεν, slay, ἐπεφνον, slew, φόνος, slaughter, θείνω, strike; Skr. han, hit; but gh = G. b is doubtful.

beann, top, horn, peak, Ir. beann, O. Ir. benn, pinna, W. ban, height, peak, M. Br. ban, also benny, horn, pipe (music), Gaul. canto-bennicus mons, "white peak" mount; proto-Gaelic bennā; root gen-, gn-, as in Eng. knoll, Sc. knowe. In Scotch Gaelic, the oblique form beinn has usurped the place of beann, save in the gen. pl.

beannachd, blessing, so Ir., O. Ir. bendacht, W. bendith; from Lat. benedictio, whence Eng. benediction.

beannag, a skirt, corner, coif, Ir. beannóg; from beann.

beàrr, shear, Ir. béarraim, O. Ir. berraim, O. W. byrr, short, Cor. ber, Br. berr, short, berso-*; Gr. φάρος, any piece cut off; root bhera, as in bearn.

beart, a deed, Ir. beàrt, load, action, E. Ir. bert, bundle, birth; Gr. φόρτος, burden; root, bher, in beir, q.v. Also beairt, engine, loom. It is used in many compounds in the sense of "gear," as in cais-bheart, foot-gear, shoes; ceann-bheart, head-gear, helmet, &c.

beartach, rich; from beart.

beatha, life, so Ir., O. Ir. bethu, g. bethad, Celtic stem bitāt, divided into bi-tāt; see bith (i.e., bi-tu-) for root. It is usual for philologists to represent the stem of beatha as bivotāt, that is, bi-vo-tāt, the bi-vo- part being the same as the stem bivo of beò. While the root bi is common to both beatha and beò,

- the former does not contain -vo-; it is the O. Ir. nom. beothu (bi-tús*) that has set philologists wrong. Hence G. and Ir. beathach, animal.
- beic, a curtesy; from Sc. beck, curtesy, a dialectic use of Eng. beck, beckon. Hence beiceis, bobbing, &c. (M'A.).
- beil, grind; a very common form of meil, q.v.
- beil, is; see bheil.
- beilbheag, corn-poppy; see mealbhag. Also bailbheag.
- béileach, a muzzle, Ir. beulmhach, a bridle bit; from beul.
- béilleach, blubber-lipped, béileach (H.S.D.); from beul. The first form suggests a stem bél-nac-. Cf. béilean, a prating mouth. Also méilleach.
- beilleag, outer coating of birch, rind; also méilleag, q.v.
- beince, a bench; from Sc. bink; Eng. bench. Cf. Ir. beinse, W. mainc, Br. menk.
- beinn, hill, ben; oblique form of beann (f.n.), used as a fem. nom., for beann sounds masculine beside ceann, &c. See beann.
- beinneal, binding of a sheaf of corn, bundle; from Sc. bindle, a cord of straw or other for binding, Eng. bundle; from bind.
- beir, catch, bring forth, Ir. beirim, O. Ir. berim, W. cymmeryd, to take, accept, Br. kemeret (= com-ber-); I. E. bher, whence Lat. fero, Gr. φέρω, Eng. bear, Skr. bharami.
- beirm, barm, yeast; from Sc. barm (pronounced berm), Eng. barm; Lat. fermentum.
- béist, a beast, Ir. bíast, péist, O. Ir. béist, W. bwystfil; from Lat. bestia (Eng. beast). Also biast.
- beith, birch, so Ir., O. Ir. bethe, W. bedw, Br. bezuenn, Celtic betvd; Lat. betula, Fr. boule.
- beithir, a serpent, any wild beast, monster, a huge skate, Ir. beithir, wild beast, bear, E. Ir. beithir, g. bethrach. In the sense of "bear," the word is, doubtless, borrowed; but there seems a genuine Celtic word betrix behind the other meanings, and the beithir or beithir beinneach is famed in myth. Cf. Lat. bēstia, for bet-tia?
- beitir, neat, clean (M'F.):
- beò, living, Ir., O. Ir. beò, W. byw, Br. beu, livo-s*; Lat. vivus, living, vita; Gr. βίος, a living; Eng. quick; Skr. jívá, living; I. E. gei-, gi-, live. See also beatha, bith.
- beòir, beer, Ir. beór; from Ag. S. beór, Norse bjór (Eng. beer).
- beòlach, ashes with hot embers (M'A.); from beò + luathach, "live-ashes." Another beòlach, lively youth, hero, stands for beò-lach; for -lach, see òglach.
- beuban, anything mangled:
- beuc, roar, Ir. béic, O. Ir. béccim, W. beichio, baich, beikkió*; Cor. begy, Br. begiat, squeal, baeguel, bleat, baikió* (Stokes). The difficulty of the vowels as between G. and W. (é should give wy) suggests comparison with creuchd, W. eraith, crempt-* (Strachan). Thus beuc, baich suggests benk-ko-, further gnk-ko-, root gem, Lat. gemo, &c. The same result can be derived from the root geng- of geum, q.v.

beud, mischief, hurt, Ir. béad, E. Ir. bét, bento-n*; allied to Eng. bane.

beul, mouth, so Ir., O. Ir. bél, bet-lo-*, I. E. get-, whence Eng. quoth, Got. githan. The idea is the "speaker." Some connect W. gweſt (= vo-bel), but this is probably vo-byl*, byl, edge (Ernault).

beulaobh, front, E. Ir. ar-bélaib, O. Ir. bélib; dat. pl. of beul; also mixed with this is the O. Ir. ace. pl. béulu.

beum, a stroke, cut, taunt, Ir. and O. Ir. béim, nom. pl. bémen, blow, from the root beng, bong, which appears in buain; cf. ceum from ceng-men, leum from leng-men. This agrees with Cor. bom, blow. Some suggest beid-men or beids-men, root bheid, Eng. bite, which suits G. best as to meaning. The favourite derivation has been ben-s-men*, root ben of bean.

beur, beurra, beurtha, sharp, pointed, clear; cf. Ir. béarrtha, elipped, from bearr; from berr-tio-s, with i regressive into berr, giving beirr.

beurla, English, language, Ir. beurla, speech, language, especially English; O. Ir. bélre; bél + re, bél, mouth, and the abstract termination -re (as in luibhre, buidhre, &c.).

beus, conduct, habit, so Ir., O. Ir. bés, Br. boaz, beissu-, beid-tu-, root beid, I. E. bheidh, Gr. πειθω, persuade, Lat. fides, English faith. Others derive it from bhend, bind, giving bhend-tu- as the oldest stem. Windisch suggests connection with Got. bansts, barn, Skr. bhāsa, cowstall. The Breton oa seems against these derivations.

bha, bhá, was, Ir. do bhámar, we were (bhá-), do bhí, was, M. Ir. ro bóí, was, O. Ir. bói, bái, búi, a perfect tense, bove(t)*, for bebove; Skr. babhūva; Gr. πέφν-κε; I. E. root bheu, to be, as in Lat. fui, was (an aorist form), Eng. be.

bhàn, a bhàn, down; by eclipsis for a(n) bh-fàn, "into declivity," from fàn, a declivity, Ir., O. Ir. fán, proclive, W. gwaen, a plain, planities montana, vag-no-*, root vag, bow, &c., Lat. vagor, wander, Ger. waekeln, wobble. Ir. has also fán, a wandering, which comes near the Lat. sense. In Sutherlandshire, the adj. fàn, prone, is still used.

bheil, is, Ir. fuil, bh-fuil, O. Ir. fail, fel, fil, root vel (val), wish, prevail, Lat. volo, valeo, Eng. will.

bho, o, from, Ir. ó, ua, O. Ir. ó, úa, ava*; Lat. au-fero, "away"-take; Ch. Sl. u-; Skr. ava, from.

- bhur, bhur n-, your, Ir. bhar n-, O. Ir. bar n-, far n-, svaron* (Stokes), s-ves-ro-n*. For sves-, see sibh. Cf. for form Got. izvara, Lat. nostrum (nos-tero-, where -tero- is a fuller comparative form than Celtic -(e)ro-, -ro- of sves-ro-n, svaron).
- bi, bi, be, Ir. bí, be thou, O. Ir. bíu, sum, bí, be thou, O. W. bit, sit, bwyf, sim, M. Br. bezaff. Proto-Celtic bhv-ijô, for O. Ir. bíu, I am ; Lat. jiô ; Eng. be ; I. E. root bheu, be. See bha. Stokes differs from other authorities in referring bíu, bí, to Celtic beiô, root bei, bi, live, as in bith, beatha, Lat. vivo, &c.
- biadh, food, so Ir., O. Ir. biad, bivoto-n*, whence W. bywyd, vita, Cor. buit, eibus, Br. boed, food. Bivoto-n is a derivative from bivo- of beò, living, q.v.
- bian, a hide, Ir., E. Ir. bían, beino-* ; root bhei-, as in Eng. bite, Lat. findo. For force, cf. Gr. déppa, skin, from der, split, Eng. tear. Cf., for root, bean, hit.
- biasgach, niggardly ; from biast. In some parts biast is applied to a niggardly person. H.S.D. refers it to biadh + sgathach, catching at morsels.
- biast, a beast, worthless person ; see béist. The word biast, abuse, is a metaphoric use of biast.
- biatach, a raven (Sh.) ; cf. biatach, biadhtach, a provider, farmer, from biadh.

- biatsadh, provisions for a journey, viaticum ; formed from biadh, with, possibly, a leaning on viaticum.
- bicas, viscount (Arm.). Founded on the Eng., and badly spelt by Armstrong : either biceas or biocas.
- biceir, a wooden dish ; from Sc. bicker, Eng. beaker. Also bigeir, bigein.
- bid, a very small portion, a nip, a chirp. In the sense of "small portion," the word is from the Sc. bite, bit, Eng. bite, bit. In the sense of "chirp, a small sound," O'R. has an Ir. word bíd, "song of birds." See biog. Hence bidein, diminutive person or thing. Cf. W. bidan, of like force.
- bideag, a bit, bittie ; from Sc. bittock, dim. of Eng. bit.
- bidean, a fence (Stew.), bid (Sh.), Ir. bíd, bídeán (O'R.), W. bid, quickset hedge, bíden, a twig ; bíd-do-*, root bheid, split ?

binn, melodious, so Ir., O. Ir. bind, bendi* ; Skr. bhandate, joyful, bhand, receive loud praise, bhandána, shouting (Stokes, who adds Lat. fides, lyre). The idea may, however, be "high," root of beann, peak, binneach, high-headed. See next also.

binn, sentence, verdict ; bendi-, benni- ; cf. E. Ir. atboind, proclaims, bonnó*, I ban. Cf. Skr. bhan, speak, Eng. ban. It is clear that Gaelic has an ablaut in e:o connected with the root bha, speak.

binndich, curdle ; from binid, q.v.

binnein, pinnacle ; from beann, q.v.

biòball, pioball, Bible, Ir. biobla, W. bebil ; from Lat. biblia, Eng. bible.

brat, a mantle, Ir. brat, O. Ir. bratt, W. brethyn, woollen cloth, Br. broz, petticoat, bratto-, brat-to-. For root brat, brant, see bréid. Ag. S. bratt, pallium, is borrowed from the Celtic. Hence bratach, flag.

bratag, the furry or grass caterpillar, Ir. bratóg : "the mantled one," from brat: Cf. caterpillar = "downy cat," by derivation.

brath, information, betrayal, Ir. brath, E. Ir. brath, treason, and mrath also, W. brad, treachery, Cor. bras, Br. barat, O. Br. brat, mrato-*; Gr. ἀμαρτάνω (-μαρτ-), sin, miss, ἡμβροτον (past tense). Cf. mearachd.

Br. breut, Gaul. bratu-, brātu-; brá, bera*, judge, decide, from I. E. bher, in the sense of "say," as in abair. The Ir. barn, judge, and W. barn, judgment, are hence, and may be compared to Gr. φρήν, φρένες, soul, phrenology. Hence also breath or breith (brt-*), q.v. The sense "conflagration" given in the Dict. is due to "Druidic" theorisings, and is imaginary.

bráthair, brother, Ir. bráthair, O. Ir. bráthir, W. brawd, pl. brodyr, Cor. broder, pl. bredereth, Br. breur, breuzr, pl. breudeur, brátér*; Lat. fráter; Eng. brother; Skr. bhrātā; &c.

breab, a kick, Ir. preab, M. Ir. prebach, kicking ; perhaps from the root form of the following word.

breaban, a patch of leather, Ir. preabán, parcel, piece, patch ; from, or allied to, O. Fr. bribe, a piece of bread, alms, Sp. bribe, alms ; also O. Ir. mrecht, W. brith, of like meaning and origin, viz., mr̥k-to, from mr̥g-to-. Hence breac, small-pox, W. breeh, and breac, trout, W. brithyll.

The Skr. being allied to Gr. γρόνθος, fist, seems against this derivation (Stokes), not to mention the difficulty of Gr. θ and Skr. th corresponding to Celtic t. Possibly from root bhera, cut, Gr. φᾶpos, cloth (Windisch).
- breisleach, confusion, delirium, nightmare, Ir. breisleach (O'R., Fol.), breaghaslach (Lh.), from breith-, bret*, bhre-t*; bhre, mind, as in Gr. φρήν, mind?

briathar, a word, so Ir. and O. Ir., brêtrâ* (O. Ir. is fem.; G. is mas., by analogy ?), brê*, ablaut to brâ- of brâth, q.v. Bezzenberger would refer it to O. H. G. chweran, sigh (see gerain) and even to O. H. G. chrâjan, Eng. crow.

brib, a bribe, Ir. brîb; from the Eng.

bricein-, a prefix to certain animal names; from breac.

† brideach, a dwarf (Arm., Sh.), Ir. brideach (Lh., O'B.). See brideag, little woman. Shaw also gives it the meaning of "bride," which is due to Eng. influences.

brideag, a little woman, Ir. brideag, a figure of St. Bridget made on the Saint's eve by maidens for divination purposes. See Brighid in the list of Proper Names. Shaw gives bridag, part of the jaw, which H.S.D. reproduces as brideag.

brideun, a little bird, sea-piet (M'A. for latter meaning): seemingly formed on the analogy of the two foregoing words.

brig, a heap (H.S.D., M'A.): "brig mhóine," a pile of peats; cf. Norse brík, square tablet, piece, Eng. brick.

brigh, pith, power, Ir. brígh, O. Ir. bríg, W. bri, dignity, rank, Cor. bry, Br. bri, respect, brîgá*, brîgo-*; Gr. $\beta\rho\acute{\iota} = \beta\rho\iota\alpha\rho\acute{o}s$, strong, mighty, $\beta\rho\acute{\iota}\mu\eta$ (i long), strength, anger; Skr. jri, overpower, jayas, extent; an I. E. gri-, grî-, grei-. Bezzenberger suggests Ger. krieg, war, striving: greigh*? This may be from the root brî above.

brimin bodaich, a shabby carle; for breimein, a side form of braman; root breg, brag? But cf. Norse brimill, phoca fetida mas.

brionglaid, a confusion, dream, Ir. brionnglóid, a dream; from brionn, a dream, a lie. In the sense of "wrangling," brionglaid is purely a Scotch Gaelic word, from Sc., Eng. brangle, of like force.

bris, break, so Ir., O. Ir. brissim, bréstō*, I break, root bres, bhres ; O. H. G. brēstan, break, Ag. S. berstan, Eng. burst, Fr. briser, break. Distantly allied to berso-s*, short, G. beàrr. Brugmann has compared the Gaelic to Gr. πέρω, destroy, from bherdho-, giving a Celtic stem brd-to-, and brd-co- for briscg.

briscg, brittle, Ir. briosg, E. Ir. brisc, Br. bresq : bres-co-* ; root bres of bris above.

Thurneysen cfs. the Lat. broccus, having projecting teeth, whence Fr. broche (from Lat. brocca*, a spike, &c.), a spit, Eng. broach, brooch ; he thinks the badger was named broccos from his snout, and he instances the Fr. brochet, pike, as parallel by derivation and analogy. If Gr. βρῦκω, bite, is allied to Lat. broccus, the underlying idea of broc may rather be the "biter," "gripper." Bezenberger suggests Russ. barsúkū, Turk. porsuk, Magyar borz ; or brokko-s*, from bhrod-ko-s*, Skr. bradhna, dun.

brocach, greyish in the face, speckled, Ir. brocach, broc, W. broc, grizzled, roan ; from broc.

- broit, the bosom; properly the breast covering (H.S.D., for latter meaning); cf. G. brot, O. Ir. broiténe, pallium. The word appears to be from brat, mantle, with a leaning for meaning on bruinne, breast.

S. bryttian, deal out, Norse bryti, a steward (cf. Gr. ταπίας, steward, “cutter”), brytja, chop, Eng. brittle, Teut. brut, chop; perhaps Lat. frustum, bit.

brosdaich, stir up, Ir. brosduighim, E. Ir. brostuagud, inciting. The word is from the root bros- in brosdo- of brod, q.v., being here bros-to-, which becomes brosso-, and later reverts to brost, brosd, or remains as in brosnaich. Stokes says it is founded on Low Lat. brosdus, brusdus, broidery, “done by a needle” or brosd, which is of Teutonic origin and cognate with G. brod, already given as the root. Hence brosgradh, stimulation, &c. The Ir. brosna, O. Ir. brosne, faggot, may be hence; the root bhrud, discussed under bronn, has also been suggested.

Stokes refers it to the root bru, to swell, Gr. βρύω, am full, ἐμ-βρυον, embryo (whence Eng. embryo), or to Skr. bhrūná, embryo. See bruinne.

bruach, a bank, brink, Ir., O. Ir. bruach : brou-ko-*, I. E. bhrū, brow, Gr. ὀφρύς, eyebrow, Eng. brow, Lit. bruvis, O. Ir. brúad, (dual). Also E. Ir. brú, bank, border. Stokes suggests either the root of brùth, bruise, or Lit. briau-nà, edge.

- brucach, spotted in the face, smutted, Ir. brocach : “badger-like ;” see broc. The Sc. broukit, brooked, is of uncertain origin (Murray). Hence brucachadh, irregular digging, brucanaich, the peep of dawn (M‘A.), &c.
- brucag, bruchag, a chink, eylet (Sh.), dim candle light (H.S.D.). Sh. gives bruchag, H.S.D. brucag, which appears only to apply to the “dim candle light ;” from brucach.

- bruid, captivity, Ir. bruid, M. Ir. brat*, g. braite, E. Ir. acc. broit, braddá*. For root, see bradach.
- bruid, bruidich, stab, goad, Ir. bruidighim : the verb from brod, a goad.
- brùid, a brute, Ir. brúid ; from Eng. brute.

E. grendh, swell, be haughty, Gr. βρέμθομαι, strut, bear oneself loftily, Lat. grandis, Ch. Sl. grǫdĭ, breast. Usually correlated with Got. brunþō, breastplate, M. H. G. brünne, N. brynja, coat of mail, M. Eng. brynne, Sc. byrnie: a satisfactory enough derivation, and ultimately from the same root as the first one given above (I. E. bhru). Indeed Stokes says the Teut. is borrowed from the Celtic.
- brúinneadh, the front (Dialectic), O. Ir. brúinech, prow, Cor. brenniat, prow, bronjo-*, to which Bez. compares Ger. grans, prow (I. E. gh = G. b?). From root of brúinne.

cairt, a card, so Ir. ; G. is from the Sc. carte, which is direct from the Fr. carte. The Eng. modifies the latter form into card. They are all from Lat. charta, paper. E. Ir. cairt meant "parchment."

cairt, cleanse, Ir. cartaighim, E. Ir. cartaim, W. carthu, purge, kar-to-. The root idea is a "clearing out ;" the root ker, kur, separate, is allied to sker in ascart, and especially in sgar.

caisil-chrò, a bier, bed of blood, M. Ir. cosair chró, bed of blood—to denote a violent death, E. Ir. cosair, bed. The expression appears in the Ossianic Ballads, and folk-etymology is responsible for making G. casair into caisil, bulwark. The word cosair has been explained as co-ster-, root ster, strew, Lat. sternere, Eng. strew.

caisleach, a ford, footpath ; from cas-lach, rather than cas-slighe, foot-way.

caislich, stir up, caisleachadh, shaking up, &c. ; from cas, sudden. caismeachd, an alarm (of battle), signal, march tune. The corresponding Ir. is caismirt, alarm, battle, M. Ir. caismert, E. Ir. cosmert.

caith, spend, cast, Ir., O. Ir. caithim, katjô*, I consume, castaway ; Skr. çatayati, sever, cast down, destroy, çât-ana, causing to fall, wearing out, root çat. Allied to the root of cath, war.

caithream, shout of joy, triumph, Ir. caithréim ; from cath, battle, and réim, a shout, E. Ir. réim. This last word, Strachan refers to the root reg (rec-m* or rec-s-m*), Ch. Sl. reka, speak, Lith. rekiù.

More probably the Celtie root is gel, qal, hide, as in Eng. hollow, M. Eng. holh, hollow, eave, also Eng. hole, possibly. The root of cladh, has also been suggested.
- caladair, a calendar, Ir. calaindeir ; from M. Eng. kalendar, through Fr. from Lat. calendarium, an account-book, from calendæ, the Calends or first of the month.

The main root is gel, qlá, hit, break ; see claidheamh, cladh. The Caledonian hero Calgacus derives his name hence. Hence calg-dhireach, direct, “sword-straight” to a place.
- call, loss, Ir. caill, E. Ir. coll, W. coll, Corn. colled, jaectura, M. Br. coll, koldo-* ; Eng. halt, Got. halts, O. H. G. hals, lame ; root gel, as above in calg, q.v.

The aspiration of the mn of imb is unusual, but the history of the word is also unusual, for it actually appears as claemchlól in E. Ir. oftener than once, and Ir. claochlólh, claochladh.
- caod Chaluim-chille, St John's wort (Sh.) :

- caoimheach, a bedfellow (Sh.), Ir. caoimhthech, E. Ir. com-aíthech, neighbour ; see aítheach. Also caomhach, friend, bedfellow. The latter seems from, or influenced by, caomh.
- caoimhneas, kindness. This word is supposed by folk etymology to be from caomh, kind, whereas it is really allied to O. Ir. coibnes, affinitas, co-ven-estu-*, root ven of fine, q.v. The ao is short in caoimhneas and long in caomh.
- caoin, kind, mild, so Ir., O. Ir. cáin, kind, beautiful [W. cain ?] : koini-*, root koi, kei of caomh, q.v. Stokes gives base as kaini-, and Bezzenberger compares Gr. καίνισθαι, excel, Ch. Sl. sinati, gleam forth. If the base idea were "beauty," Eng. shine might be compared.

The root skei of Eng. shine, Got. skeirs, clear, has been also suggested.
- caoirean, a plaintive song ; also caoi-ràn, moaning (H.S.D.). The root word is caoidh ; possibly ràn, roar, forms the latter part.
- caoirnean, a drop of sheep or goats' dung, a drop or globule ; cf. Ir. caoirín, a little berry, little sheep, from caor, berry, caora, sheep. The two ideas seem confused in Gaelic.

Ir. anich, protect, aingim, I protect (a-nak), root nak and nank, as in adhlaic, thig, etc. The form nak is more particularly allied to Skr. nācati, reach, Lit. nezù, draw. The G. verb may have been com-anich*-. It is possible to derive it from caomh with caomhuin as an inf. form which usurped the place of the present stem.

- caor, berry of the rowan, a mountain berry, Ir. caor, O. Ir. cáer, bacea, W. cair, berries, ceirion, berry, kairá*. It is seemingly the same word as caoir, blaze, the idea arising probably from the red rowan berries.

The connection with O. H. G. tanna, fir, oak, M. H. G. tan, wood, Ger. tanne, fir, Eng. tan, tanner (Gr. θάμνος, bush ?) is doubtful ; it would necessitate the idea of borrowing, or that the Celtic word was dann.

càpa, a cap ; from the Eng. cap.

capull, a horse, mare (more commonly), so Ir., E. Ir. capall, Br. caval ; from Lat. caballus, whence Eng. cavalry, etc. caple (M. Eng. capil, from Celt.). Norse kapall, nag, seems borrowed from Gaelic. The W. is ceffyl, with remarkable vocalisation.

Lat. carpentum (Eng. carpenter, etc.), seems borrowed from Gaulish. The root idea is "wicker," referring to the basket character of the body of these chariots.

- càrn, a horning. The G. seems a confusion between còrn, horn, Eng. horn, put to the horn, and càrn. M'F. gives air chàrn for "outlawed," càrn-eaglais, excommunication.

- carragh, a pillar stone, Ir. carrthadh, cartha, E. Ir. corthe. The root, despite the vocalic difficulty caused by the E. Ir. form, is likely the same as in carraig ; yet cf. kor of cuir, set.

- casag, a cassoek, Ir. casóg; from the Eng. The E. Ir. word is casal, from Lat. casula.
- casaid, a complaint, accusation, Ir. casaoí, O. Ir. cossóit. The word is a compound, beginning with con, and seemingly of the same origin as faosaid, q.v. Stokes thinks that the word is borrowed from the Lat. causatio; this is not likely, however.
- casair, sea drift, Ir. casair, a shower, E. Ir. casair, hail, W. cesair (do.), Br. kazerc’h (do.), kassri*-, kad-tri*-; from root cad as in Lat. cado, fall. The Ir. and G. (?) casáir, phosphorescence, seems to be the same word.

It is a word of doubtful origin ; possibly, however, Celtic, and applied first to the wild cat, then to the tame Egyptian cat introduced in the early centuries of the Christian era.

cata, càta, sheep-cot, pen ; from Eng. cot.

catadh, catachadh, taming, càtadh (M'F.) ; cf. tataich.

See calum.

catluibh, eudwort ; see cadhluibh.

cè, cèath, cream, M. Ir. ceó, milk ; cf. Br. koavenn, which suggests a form keivo- (cf. glé from gleivo-), root kei, skei, shade, cover, as in Gr. σκιά, shadow, Ger. schemen (do.)? The Br. koavenn has been referred to co* + hufen, W. hufen, cream. Cf. ceò, mist, "covering."

cé, the earth, used only in the phrase an cruinne cé, the (round) earth, Ir., E. Ir. cé, for bith ché, on this earth. The cé is supposed to be for "this," from the pronominal root kei, Gr. κείνος, he, Lat. ce, cis, Eng. he. The root kei, go, move (Lat. cio, Gr. κίω) has also been suggested.

ceann, head, so Ir., O. Ir. ceud, cenn, W., Br. penn, Gaul. Penno, genno*-. Perhaps for gen-no-, root gen (labialised), begin, Ch. Sl. koni, beginning, as in ceud, first. The difficulty is that the other labialising languages and the Brittonic branch otherwise show no trace of labialisation for gen. Windisch, followed by Brugmann, suggested a stem kvindo-, I. E. root kvi, Skr. cvi, swell, Gr. Πίνδος, Pindus Mount; but the root vowel is not i, even granting the possible labialisation of kvi, which does not take place in Greek.

ceannach, a purchasing, so Ir., E. Ir. cennaigim, I buy, O. Ir. ceunige, lixa, caingen, negotium:

ceannairc, rebellion, turbulence, so Ir.; ceann* + arc; for root arc, see adharc. For meaning cf. Eng. headstrong, W. penffest (do.).

ceap, a block, so Ir., E. Ir. cepp, W. cyff, Br. kef; from Lat. cippus.

ceap, catch, stop. This word seems borrowed from the Sc. kep, of like meaning, a bye-form of Eng. keep. The Ir. ceap, bound, bind, stop (?), seems from ceap above.

† ceapach, a tillage plot, Ir. ceapach. This Stokes refers to a Celtic keppo-, garden, root kep, kāp, Lat. campus, Gr. κήπος, garden, Ger. hube, piece of land. Satisfactory though the meaning be, the derivation is doubtful as involving the preservation of p, even though flanked by a second p (or -nó-, i.e., kep-nó-, which is still more doubtful). Perhaps from ceap, a block, in the sense of a "holding." Hence the common place-name Keppoch.

ceapag, a verse, an impromptu verse, carelessly sung verse, E. Ir. cepóc, a chorus song: a rare word in Ir., and said to be Sc. Gaelic for Ir. aidbsi, great chorus. From ceap, catch? cf. Eng. catch, a chorus verse. Zimmer suggests that it stands for Ce Póc, "kiss here (?)", sung by the girls as a refrain at gatherings!

ceapaire, bread covered with butter, etc., Ir. ceapaire; from ceap, a block. Cf. ceapag, a wheel-barrow wheel.

- ceart, right, so Ir., E. Ir. cert ; Lat. certus, certain, sure, cerno, discern ; Gr. κρίνω, judge, κριτής, a judge, Eng. critic.
- ceasad, a complaint (M'F.), Ir. ceasacht, grumbling, M. Ir. cesnaighim, complain, ces, sorrow, ges-to-* ; Lat. questus, queror, I complain, querela, Eng. quarrel.
- ceasnaich, examine, catechise, Ir. ceasnaighim ; from Lat. questio, questionis, Eng. question. Stokes (Bk. of Lis.) has suggested that the Lat. and Gadhelic are cognate ; though possible (qais, gis may become by umlaut ces in G.), it is improbable from the stem form in n persisting in the G. verb.
- ceathach, mist ; this is really the old stem of ceò, mist, E. Ir. ciach, q.v. Ir. ceathach, showery, is from cith a shower.

céile, spouse, fellow, so Ir., O. Ir. céle, socius, W. cilydd (y gilydd = a chéile of G. = eguille of Br.), keiljo-* "way-farer," from kei, go (Lat. cio, move, Gr. κίω, go, κινέω, move, kinetics). The idea is the same as in Ir. sétig, wife, from sét, way. Strachan thinks that G. and W. demand a stem cegljo-; and Dr Stokes thinks that, if céle, servus, is different from céle, fellow, it must come from kak-ljo- (better keklio-), and be allied to Lat. cacula, a servant. Hence céilidh, a gossiping visit or meeting.

ceileach, martial (H.S.D.), Ir. ceallach, war, M. Ir. cellach, war; Teut. hildi-, war, Lat. per-cellere, hit.

ceís, a case, hamper; from Eng. case. Ir. ceis, basket, M. Ir. ceiss, is a different word, possibly allied to, if not borrowed from, Lat. cista (Stokes). From Ir. ceis comes ceis-chrann, poly-pody, given in H.S.D. from O'R.

ceisd, a question, so Ir., E. Ir. ceist; from Lat. quæstio. Hence ceisdein, a sweetheart, founded on "ceisd mo chridhe"—darling (i.e., question, anxiety) of my heart.

ceòb, a dark nook, corner :

ceòban, small drizzle : ceò + boinne or -bainne, "mist-drop." The Ir. is ceòbhrán, for ceò + braon. This last is G. ciùran, q.v. Hence ceòpach (for ceòbnach ?). Also ceòpan.

ceùl, music, Ir., E. Ir. ceól, g. ciùil, kipolo*-, a Gadelicised form of pípulo* ; onomatopoeitic root píp, Lat. pípilo, chirp, pípilum, outcry, pípo, chirp, Ag. Some again have compared Teut. hind as in Eng. hindmost.

- core, oats, Ir. coirce, M. Ir. corca, W. ceirch, Br. kerc'h, korkjo-*. Bezenberger suggests connection with Lettic kurki, small corn. Possibly for kor-ko-, where kor, ker is the root which appears in Lat. Ceres, Eng. cereal, Gr. kópos, satiety, Lit. szerti, feed. The meaning makes connection with Gr. kórkopos, pimpernel, doubtful.
- corcur, crimson, Ir. corcur, scarlet, O. Ir. corcur, purple, W. porphor; from Lat. purpura (Eng. purple).
- còrd, a rope, Ir. corda; from Eng. cord, Lat. corda.

- corr, a crane, Ir., E. Ir. corr, W. crychydd, Cor. cherhit, O. Br. corcid, ardea, korgsá*, korgjo-s; Gr. κέρχω, be hoarse, κέρχυνη, a hawk, O. Sl. kraguj, sparrow-hawk. Cf. W. cregyr, heron, "screamer," from cregu, be hoarse; Ag. S. hrágra, Ger. reiher, heron, Gr. κρίξω, κρίκε, screech.
- còrr, excess, overplus, Ir. corr: G. corr, odd, Ir. cor, corr, odd; also Ir. corr, snout, corner, point, E. Ir. corr, rostrum, corner.

The E. Ir. corr, rostrum, has been referred by Zimmer and Thurneysen to corr, crane—the name of “beaked” bird doing duty also for “beak.” The modern meanings of “excess, odd” (cf. odd of Eng., which really means “point, end”) makes the comparison doubtful. Refer it rather to kors-, stick out, point, head; Gr. κόρση, head; stem keras-; Lat. crista, Eng. crest; further is Gr. κέρας, horn, Lat. cerebrum, Norse hjarsi, crown of the head; and also corn, horn, q.v.

E. qerpo, cut, from the same root, which gives Lat. carpo, eull, Gr. καρπός, fruit (Eng. harvest), Lit. kerpu, eut, Skr. kṛpana, sword. G. may be from a korps-, korso-. Pruss. kirno, shrub (Bezzenberger). Windisch correlated Lat. quernus, oaken, but this form, satisfactory as it is in view of the Welsh, rather stands for quercnus, from quercus, oak.

"the splittable," root krei, kri, separate ; as tree of Eng. and its numerous congeners in other languages is from the root der, split ; and some other tree words are from roots meaning violence of rending or splitting (κλάδος, twig, e.g.). For root kri, see criathar.

for σκαπῶω, root sker in σκαίρω, spring, Ger. scherz, joke. This would suit G. crith, W. cryd and ysgryd.

crè, elay, Ir., O. Ir. cré, g. criad, W. pridd, Cor., Br. pry. Its relation to Lat. crēta, which Wharton explains as from crētus, "sifted," from cerno, is doubtful. If cerno be for crino*, Gr. κρίνω, we should have the root kri, krei, separate, as in criathar, and it is not labialised in any language (not grei). The Celtic phonetics are not easily explained, however. Stokes gives the stem as greid-, but the modern G. has the peculiar è sound which we find in gnè, cè. This points to a stem grē-já, root gré, which is in agreement with Lat. crēta without doing the violence of supposing crino to give cerno, and this again crētus. Cf. O. Ir. clé, left.

crè, creubh, body ; see creubh.

creach, plunder, so Ir., E. Ir. crech, plundering, hosting ; cf. Br. kregi, seize, bite, catch (as fire). From the root ker, cut, ultimately. See corc, knife, and creuchd.

Ir. is also creinim, W. cnithio, noi (which also means "gnaw"): from knet, knen, knō, ken, bite, scratch, as in cnámh, q.v. The n of kn early becomes r because of the m or n after the first vowel.

creubhaidh, tender in health; seemingly from creubh.

creuchd, wound, Ir. créachd. O. Ir. crécht, W. craith, scar, creithen, M. Br. creizenn (do.), crempio-*; root kerp, ker, Lit. kerpi, cut, Skr. kṛpana, sword (Strachan). Stokes gives the Celtic as krektō-s, and Bez. cfs. Norse hrækja, worry. This neglects the é of Gadelic.

creud, what, Ir. creud, créud, E. Ir. crét; for ce rét. See co and rud.

creud, creed, Ir. créidh, M. Ir. credo, W. credo; from Lat. credo, I believe; the first word of the Apostles' Creed in Lat.

- erilein, a small creel (M'E.), a box, small coffer (H.S.D.), erilein (Arm., M'L.), a box, Ir. erilín, E. Ir. eriol, coffer. Stokes gives the stem as krépo-, and Bez. adds Skr. çárpa, winnowing basket (Cf. for phonetics lion, and Skr. pârna, full). Sc., Eng. creel, which appears about 1400, is usually derived hence; but as the G. form itself is doubtful, and, from all appearance, taken from Lh., it is best to look elsewhere for an etymology for creel, as, through Fr., from Lat. craticula. The G. eriol exists only in Sh., who found it in Lh.
- crioch, end, Ir. crioch, O. Ir. crích, kríka*, from the root krei, separate, as in criathar, q.v. Stokes and Bezzenberger join W. crip, a comb, and compare Lit. kreikti, strew, and, for sense, appeal to the Ger., Eng. strand, "the strewed," O. Slav. strana, side. Stokes allies it to Skr. grāma, cooked, crá, cook, possibly a form of the root kerá, mix, Gr. κέραμαι, mix.
- crioncanachd, a strife, quarrelsomeness, Ir. críoncánachd: an Ir. word from Lh., apparently. Perhaps críon-cán, "small reviling."

- Criosdaidh, a Christian, Ir. Criosduighe, M. Ir. cristaige; from the G. Críosd, Ir. Críosda, Christ; from Lat. Christus, Gr. Χριστός, the Anointed One.

cròid, a sumptuous present (Heb.) ; see cròid.

cròidh, pen eattle, house eorn ; from crò. Dialectic for latter meaning is cródhadh.

crois, a cross, so Ir., E. Ir. cross, W. croes ; from Lat. crux.

croistara, cranntara, also -tàra, -tarra, the fiery cross : crois + tara ; see crois above. As to tara, cf. the Norse tara, war (Cam.).

croit, a hump, hillock, Ir. croit, W. croth, a hunch, harp, croth, a protuberant part (as calf of leg), crotti*- ; from krot, kurt, root kur, round, as in cruinn, cruit, q.v.

croit, a croft ; from the Eng. croft. In the sense of "vulva," cf. W. croth, Br. courz, which Stokes refers to cruit, harp ; but the G. may be simply a metaphorical use of croit, croft.

cròlot, wound dangerously ; crò + lot, q.v.

crom, bent, Ir., E. Ir. crom, O. Ir. cromm, W. crum, Br. krom, O. Br. crum, krumbo*- ; from the same root as cruinn ? The Ag. S. crumb, crooked, Eng. crumple, Ger. krumm, have been compared, and borrowing alleged, some holding that the Teutons borrowed from the Celts, and vice versa. Dr Stokes holds that the Celts are the borrowers. The Teutonic and Celtic words do not seem to be connected at all in reality. It is an accidental coincidence, which is bound to happen sometimes, and the wonder is, it does not happen oftener.

cromadh, a measure the length of the middle finger, Ir. croma ; from crom.

cron, fault, harm, Ir. cronaim, I bewitch ; cf. M. Ir. cron, rebuking. The idea is that of being "fore-spoken" by witchcraft. See next.

crónan, a dirge, croon, purring, Ir., E. Ir. cronán. O'Curry (Mann. and Cust. III., 246) writes the Ir. as crónán, and defines it as the low murmuring or chorus to each verse of the aidbsi or choral singing. Se. croon, croyn (15th century), corresponds to Du. kreunen, groan, M. Du. krönen, lament, M. Low G. kronen, growl, O. H. G. chrónan, M. L. G. kroenen, chatter (Murray, who thinks the Se. came from Low Ger. in M. Eng. period). It seems clear that the Gadelic and Teutonic are related to each other by borrowing ; seemingly the Gadelic is borrowed.

crosach, crossing, thwarting, Ir. crosanta ; also G. crosan (and crostan), a peevish man ; all from cros, the basis of crois, cross, q.v.

croda, perverse, irascible, so Ir. ; from the G. base cro of crois, cross.

crotal, lichen, especially for dyeing, cudbear : crottal* ; krot-to*, from krot ; cf. Gr. κροτώνη, an excrecence on a tree. Hence Sc. crottle. M. Ir. crotal means "husk" (which may be G. crotal above), "kernel, cymbal." In the last two senses the word is from the Lat. crotalum, a rattle : the Irish used a small pear-shaped bell or rattle, whence the Ir. Eng. crotal (Murray).

cruach, a pile, heap, Ir., E. Ir. cruach, W. crug, Cor. cruc, O. Br. cruc, krouká* ; Lit. kráuti, to pile, krívi, heap ; Norse hrúga, heap. Others have compared the Norse hraukr, a small stack, Ag. S. héac, Eng. rick.

cruachan, cruachainn, hip, upper part of the hip, E. Ir. cruachait ; from cruach, heap, hump. Stokes translates the Ir. as "chine," and considers it, like the corresponding Ger. kreuz, derived from Lat. crūcem, cross. The Gaelic meaning is distinctly against this.

cruaidh, hard, Ir. cruaidh, O. Ir. cruaid, kroudi-s* ; root kreva, to be bloody, raw, whence crò, blood, q.v. ; Lat. crūdus, Eng. crude. Hence cruailinn, hard, rocky.

crùb, squat, crouch, Ir. crúbadh, to bend, crook ; also G. crùbach, cripple, Ir. do. ; from Norse krjúpa, to creep, kneel (Eng. creep, etc.), kroppinn, crippled, root kreup, krup, as in Eng. cripple, Sc. cruppen together, contracted, bowed. Cf. W. crwb, bent.

crùban, the crab-fish, Ir. crùban, W. crwban. From crùb above.

cruh, a horse's hoof, Ir. crobh, paw, hoof, E. Ir. crù, kruvo*, hoof ; Zend grva, gruva, nail, horn ; further Gr. κέρας, horn, and corn, q.v. (Stokes).

cruinn, round, so Ir., O. Ir. cruind, W. crwn, Br. krewn, krundi-s* ; root kuro-, eirele, turn, as in car, q.v. Cf. Lat. curvus ; Gr. κυρτός, bent, κορώνη, ring, Lat. corona, Eng. crown. Bezzenger efs. the form crundi- from kur to Lat. rotundus from rota.

crùisgein, a lamp, jug, Ir. crùisgín ; from M. Eng. cruskyn, from O. Fr. creusequin, from Teut. krūs, whence Eng. cruse.

crùisle, cruidse, a mausoleum, hollow vault of a church ; from M. Eng. cruides, vault, crypt, crowd, by-form of Eng. crypt.

cruit, a harp, so Ir., O. Ir. crot, W. crwth, fidicula, Late Lat. (600 A.D.) chrotta, krotta* : krot-ta-, from krot, kurt, root kur, as in

- (ġ. cruinn, round, q.v., Gr. κυρτός (do.) : "the curved instrument." Stokes refers it to the root krot, strike, as in Gr. κροτέω, rattle, clap. Hence Eng. crowd.
- cruithneachd, cruineachd, wheat, Ir. cruithneachd, O. Ir. cruithnecht : krt-on-*, root kert, ker, cut, "that which is cut;" Lit. kertù, cut; Gr. κείρω, Lat. curtus, etc. (Rhys). It has been compared to the Lat. Ceres, Eng. cereal, and Lat. cresco, creo, as in cruth.

- cuach, a cup, bowl, Ir. cuachóg, O. Ir. cúach; Lat. caucus, Gr. καῦκα; Skr. koṣa. It is generally held that cuach is borrowed from the Lat., though phonetically they may be cognate. The W. cawg is certainly borrowed.
- cuach, curl, so Ir.; from the above.
- cuag, an awkward curve, kink, an excrescence on the heel; also guag (Dialectic) : kouggá*, kouk-gá*; root geuq, bend; Skr. kuc, bend, Lit. kuku, hook?

Gr. κόχλος, a spiral-shelled shell-fish, κοχλίας, spiral-shelled snail, Lat. cochlea. As the Gr. may be for χόχλος, the derivation is uncertain. Ir. cuaillín, a bundle, faggot, suggests that a similar derivative from cual was used metaphorically for a "bundle or cord of hair."

cuaille, a club, bludgeon, Ir., E. Ir. cuaille, kaullio*-; Gr. καυλός, stalk; Lat. caulis, stalk; Lit. káulas, a bone (Stokes). It may, however, be for coud-s-lío*-, from goud, Lat. cúdo, strike. cuairsg, roll, wreath, so Ir.; from cuairt, with the termination -sgó.

cutach, bobtailed, so Ir., E. Ir. do-chotta, they eut short, W. cwta. The relationship, if any, existing between cut, cutach, and Eng. cut, is one of borrowing ; the history of Eng. cut is obscure, and the Celtic words mean "short, shorten," not "to cut" with a knife. Besides, the E. Ir. appears a century and a half earlier than the Eng. (1139 v. 1275). Stokes has suggested a borrowing from Fr. couteau (= cultellus, knife) for the E. Ir. form.

W. dauu, aliens, W. daw (dawf), son-in-law, M. Br. deuff, Br. den (do.) ; but these words may be allied to Gr. δάμαρ, spouse, and be from the root dam, dom, house.

N

n-, from, in a nuas, a nios, Ir., O. Ir. an- ; see a number 5.

E. nē, Lat. nē, Gr. νη- ; shorter form Lat. nē, Got. ni, Eng. not (ne-á-wiht), etc. ; further I. E. n-, Gr. άν-, Lat. in-, Eng. un-, Gaelic an-. See nach, which is connected herewith as Gr. οὐκ, οὐ ; the W. is nac, nag, with imperative, Br. na.

na, or, vel, Ir. ná, E. Ir., O. Ir. nó, W. neu : nev* (Stokes, who allies it to Lat. nuo, nod, Gr. νέω, Skr. návate, go, remove ; but, in 1890, Bez. Beit.¹⁶ 51, he refers it to the root nu, Eng. now). It can hardly be separated from neo, otherwise, q.v.

na, than, Ir. ná, M. Ir. iná, E. Ir. inda, indás, O. Ir. inda as, indás, pl. indate (read indáte) ; from the prep. in and tá, to be (Zeuss², 716-7, who refers to the other prepositional comparative conjunction oldaus, from ol, de). The use of in in O. Ir. as the relative locative may also be compared.

na, what, that which, id quod, M. Ir. ina, ana, inna n-, E. Ir. ana n- : "the that," the article and relative. In O. Ir. the rel. an is regularly used for id quod.

Ir. nach, W. nac, nag, not, Br. na : nako*, from na, not, which see above, and ko or k as in Gr. οὐκ against οὐ (Stokes). The ko has been usually referred to the same pronominal origin as -que in Lat. neque ; it does appear in neach.

Ir. -nascim, appears in Br. as naska. The root nedh is in Skr. nahyati. Others make the root negh of Lat. nexus, etc., and the root snet of snàth, q.v., has been suggested. See snaim further.

THE NATIONAL NAMES.

ALBION, Great Britain in the Greek writers, Gr. Ἀλβιον, Ἀλβίων, Ptolemy's Ἀλουίων, Lat. Albion (Pliny), G. Alba, g. Albainn, Seotland, Ir., E. Ir. Alba, Alban, W. Alban: Albion*- (Stokes), "white-land;" Lat. albus, white; Gr. ἀλφός, white leprosy, white (Hes.); O. H. G. albiz, swan.

ARMORIC, belonging to Brittany, Lat. (Cæsar) Armoricus, Aremoricus (Orosius), are-mori*-, "by the sea" (see air and muir in Diet.), M. Br. Armory, Brittany, armor, land by the sea, Br. arvor, maritime.

BRITAIN, G. Breatann, Ir. Breatain, E. Ir. Bretan, n. pl. Bretain, the Britons, W. Brython, Briton, Corn. Brethon, Br. Breiz, Brittany, Lat. Brittania (Cæsar), Brittani, Britons, Βρεττανοί (Strabo). The best Gr. forms are Πρεττανοί, Πρεττανική, W. Prydain, Britain, E. Ir. Cruithne, a Piet, O. Ir. (Lat.) Cruithnii (Adamnan, Cruthini Populi): Qrtaniā*, root qrt, to which Stokes refers G. cruithneachd, wheat, though the usual reference is to G. cruth, picture, form, still retaining the notion of "pictured" men as in the old explanations of Pict. Stokes, Rhys, etc., regard the Lat. Brittania as a word of different origin from the Gr. Πρεττανία, and G. Cruithne; though, as a matter of fact, the Lat. seems to have been a bad rendering of the Greek. The Cruithne or Piets thus gave their name to Britain, as being, about 300 B.C., its then Celtic inhabitants.

BRITTANY; the BRETON language; from Britain above. Britons poured into France in the fifth and sixth centuries.

CALEDONIA, northern Seotland (Tacitus), Gr. Καληδόνιοι (Ptol., etc.), Lat. Calēdonii (Lucan, Martial, etc.), O. G. Dun-Callden, Duni-Callen, Dun-Keld, fort of the Caledonians, G. Dùn-Chaillinn; explained by Windisch as from cald*, the root of G. coille, the force being "wood-landers." Stokes and others object because of the η (Lat. ē) in Καληδ-; but if the Eng. and Gaelic modern forms are the descendants of the word Caledonia as locally spoken, the objection cannot hold.

CELTS, Lat. Celtæ (Cæsar), Gr. Κελτοί, Κελταί, Κελτικός, appearing in the fifth and fourth cent. B.C. in Herodotus, Xenophon, etc. : Kelto*-s, "the lofty," root qel, raise, go, Lat. celsus, high, Eng. excel, Lit. kéltas, raised. Rhys refers the name to the root qel, slay, Ag. S. hild, war, Norse hildr, Lat. percello, hit, Lit. kalti, strike : the Celtæ being "smitters."

CORNWALL : CORNISH, Ag. S. Cornwalas, the Walas or Welsh of the Corn or Horn, E. Ir. i tírib Bretnann Cornn (Corm.), in the lands of the Britons of the Corn. For Walas see Wales.

CRUTHINE, a Pict ; see under Britain.

CYMRY, the Welsh (pl.), Cymraeg, the Welsh name for the Welsh language ; the singular of Cymry is Cymro, older Cym-mro : Com-mrox*, pl. Com-mroges or Combrogas (cf. Cæsar's Allobroges, "Other-landers"), country-men, "co-landers," from brog, mrog of brugh in Dict., q.v.

ERIN ; see Ireland.

GAELIC, GAEL, the name of the language and people of the Scottish Highlands, G. Gàidhlig, Gàidheal, Ir. Gaoidhlig, Gaedhlig, the Irish language, Gaoidheal, Irishman, E. Ir. Góedel (1100 A.D.), Gaideli (Giraldus), W. Gwyddel, Irishman : Gádelo*-s (for Sc. Gaelic) or Gáidelo*-s (for Irish), root ghádh, Eng. good, Ger. gut, etc. ? The Scotch form seems the best, as its use has been continuous, the race being only a fourth item in Scotland. Stokes gives a proto-Gaelic Goidelos* or Geidelos*, which Bez. compares to the Gaul. Geidumni, and which Stokes compares with Lat. hoedus, goat ("Goat-men," cf. Oscan Hirpini) or Lit. gaidys, cock.

GALLI, GAUL, now France, Lat. Gallus, Galli (fourth to first cent. B.C.), Gr. Γαλάτης, Γαλάται (third and second cent. B.C.) ; from the root gal, bravery, which see in Dict., with discussion of Galli and G. Gall, Lowlander, stranger.

IRELAND, IRISH ; G. 'Eireann, Ir. 'Eire, g. 'Eireann, E. Ir. 'Eriu, 'Erenn, W. Ywerddon, Iwerddon, M. W. Ewyrdonic, Irish, Ptol. Ἰουερπία, Ἰέρπη (Strabo), Lat. Hibernia, Iverna (Mela), Ierne (Claudian, fourth cent. A.D.), Evernili, Irish (Adamnan) : Iverjón*-, Everjón*-, usually referred to Piverjo-, Skr. pīvarī, fat, Gr. Περία, the Grecian seat of the Muses, πίων, fat (Windisch, Stokes) : "rich-soiled, swelling." Others refer it to G. iar, west, or Skr. ávāra (from ava, G. bho), western, lower. No derivation can be satisfactory which does not at the same time account for the similarly named Highland rivers called 'Eire, 'Eireann, Eng. Earn, Findhorn.

MAN, MANX ; Manx Manninagh, Manx (adj.), Gailck, Gaelk, the Manx Gaelic, E. Ir. inis Manann, Isle of Man, a genitive from Mana* (= Lat. Mona), early W. Manau, Lat. Mona (Cæsar), Ptol. Μονάοιδα, Monapia (or Mona?). The E. Ir. god-name Manannán Mac Lir (son of the Sea) is connected with the Island; Skr. Manu, the Law-giver; Teutonic Mannus (Tacitus), Eng. man.

PICTS; G. Cruithnich, for which name see under Britain. The name Picti can scarcely be separated from the Gaul. Pictāvi, now Poitiers; and, if this be the case, the usual derivation from Lat. pictus, painted, must be abandoned. Windisch adduces E. Ir. cicht, engraver, carver, for which a Brittonic pilt, pict may be claimed as a parallel (qict*); this again leaves the idea of tattooing intact, and so agrees with the historical facts.

SCOTLAND, SCOTS; E. Ir. Scott, pl. n. Scuit, d. Scottaib, Irishmen; Adamnan—Scotia, Ireland, Scoti, the Irish, Scoti Britanniae, Scots of Dalriada, etc., Scoticus, Irish, Scotice, in the Gaelic language, Lat. (fourth cent.) Scotti, Scôti, Skotto-s*. Stokes translates the name as “masters, owners,” allied to Got. skatts, money, Ger. schatz, treasure, stock, Ch. Sl. skotŭ, property, cattle. The root skat, hurt, seathe, cut, of Eng. scathe, has been suggested, either as “cutters” or “tattooed ones;” Rhys has suggested connection with W. ysgwrth, a cutting, carving—“tattooed or painted men.”

WALES, WELSH; Ag. S. Wealas, Walas, the Welsh—the name of the people in pl. being used for the country, Wylisc, Welsh, Wylisce men, the Welsh; sing. of Wealas is Wealh, a foreigner, Welshman, O. H. G. walk, foreigner, Celt, Ger. wal- in walnuss, Eng. wal-nut: from the Gaul. nation of the Volcae, bordering on the Germans, Volko-s*, Volkā*, “the bathers,” from volc, bathe (see faile in Dict.). Stokes connects the name with Lit. wilkti, pull, referring to the restless wanderings of the Gauls.

THE PERSONAL NAMES AND SURNAMES.

ADAM, G. Adhamh, Ahū (Fer. MS.). Awzoe (D. of L.), E. Ir. Adam, O. Ir. Adim (g); from Hebrew Adam, red. Hence Macadam, M'Caw, and from Dial. G. 'Adaidh (a diminutive from Sc.) M'Cadie, M'Adaidh.

ADAMNAN, G. Adhmhnan (pronounced Yownan or Yōnan), earlier Adhamhnan (Oghamhnan, M.V.), E. Ir. Adamnán, Lat. Adamnanus (seventh cent.), St Adamnan (died 704 A.D.), "little Adam," a Gaelic diminutive from Adam. Hence the personal name Gilleownan (1495), Giolla-Adhamhnáin, father of Somerled (twelfth cent.), Gilla-agamnan (1467 MS.), whence Skene deduces the Mac-lennans, q.v.

ALEXANDER, G. Alasdair, Allex (D. of L.), Alaxandair (1467 MS.), M. Ir. Alaxandair; from Lat. Alexander, from Gr. Ἀλέξανδρος, "defending men." Hence G. M'Alasdair, Macalister; further Mac-andie (from Sandy).

ALLAN, G. Ailean, from O. Br. Alan (Alanus, Alamnus), allied by root to Lat. alumnus, fosterling, alo, rear (see altrum in Dict.). Hence Mac-allan.

ALPIN, G. Ailpein, E. Ir. Alpin (Dalriadic king 693); from Pictish or Welsh sources—M. W. Elphin, Elfin, which Stokes suggests to be from Lat. Albinus, from albus, white (or allied rather?). Hence G. M'Ailpein, Mac-alpine.

ANDREW, G. Aindrea (Anndra, Dial.), Gilleannndrais, Eng. Gillanders, St Andrew's gille, M. G. Andro (D. of L.), Ainnrias, Gille-ainnrias (1467 MS.), E. Ir. Andrias; from Lat. Andreas, g. Andreae, from Gr. Ἀνδρέας, a reduced double-stemmed name now showing only ἄνδρ-, man (see neart). Hence Mac-andrew, Gillanders, Anderson.

ANGUS, G. Aonghas, Ir. Aonghus, g. Aonghusa, E. Ir. 'Oengus, O. Ir. 'Oingus, W., Cor. Ungust : Oino-gustu-s, "unique choice," from aon and gus, choice (Eng. choose, Lat. gustus, taste, as in G. tagh). Hence M'Aonghuis, Mac-innes; further M'Ainsh.

ARCHIBALD, G. Gilleasbuig, Bishop's gille (see easbuig in Dict.), M. G. Gillespik (D. of L.), Gilla-espik (1467 MS.). Hence Gillespie. The name Archibald, Ag. S. Arcebald, Arcenbald or Ercenbald, which vaguely means "right-bold" (O. H. G. erchen, right, real), has no apparent connection with Gillespie in meaning or origin (cf. similarly Ludovic and Maoldomhnuich).

ARTHUR, G. Artair, M. G. Artuir, E. Ir. Artuir, Artur, Ir. Lat. Arturius, son of Ædan (Adamnan), W. Arthur, to which the Lat. Artorius (Juvenal) has been compared and suggested as its source (it being maintained that the Gens Artoria of Yorkshire lasted from Roman to Domesday-Book times, where Artor appears in the days of Edward the Confessor). If native to Brittonie (which is probable), it is from arto-s*, a bear, W. arth, O. Ir. art, whence the names Art, Artgal, Artbran. Rhys prefers to render the arto-* as "cultor," from ar, plough (Arth. Leg., 40-48), allying Arthur to the idea of a "Culture God." Hence G. M'Artair, Mac-arthur.

BAIN, from G. bàn, white. The Bains of Tulloch appear in the sixteenth century variously as Bayne or Bane, with a contemporary near them called John Makferquhair M'Gillebane (1555). This last name is now M'Ille-bhàin, "Fair-gille," rendered into Eng. by Whyte; whence also M'Gilvane.

BARTHOLOMEW, G. Parlan, Ir. Parthalon, E. Ir. Partholón, Lat. Partholomæus or Bartholomæus (Nennius, ninth cent.), the name of a personage who is represented as the first invader of Ireland after the Flood (278 years after!). The p proves the name to be non-Gaelic; and as the historians take Partholon from Spain, the Spanish Bar Tolemon of legend has been suggested as the original. Prof. Rhys thought it came from the Ivernians or Pre-Celtic race in Ireland. Hence the Clan Mac-farlane, G. M'Pharlain.

BROWN, G. M'A'-Bhriuthainn, M. G. M'abhriuin (1408 Gaelic Charter), from brithcamhain, the former (Se. Gaelic) genitive of britheamh, judge, q.v. Hence Mac-brayne.

CAMERON, G. Camshron, Camaran, M. G. Cámsroin, g. (M'V.), Camronaich (D. of L.), Gillacamsroin (1467 MS.), Charter Eng. Camroun (1472); explained as from càm-sròn, "wry-nose," which is the most probable explanation (cf. caimbeul, E. Ir. cerrbél, wry mouth). Connection with camerarius or chamberlain (of Scotland) unlikely, or with the fourteenth century De Cambruns or Cameron parish in Fife.

CAMPBELL, G. Caimbeul, M. G. Cambel (1467 MS.), Cambell (1266, etc.), from cambél, wry-mouthed (càm and beul; see Cameron). There is no De Cambel in the numerous early references, but De Campo-bello appears in 1320 as a Latin form and an etymology; this, however, should naturally be De Bello-campo as Norman-French idiom and Latin demand—a form we have in Beau-champ and Beecham. De Campello or De Campellis (little plain) has been suggested; but unfortunately for these derivations the earliest forms show no de: Cambell was an epithet, not a place-name.

- CARMICHAEL, G. M'Gillemhicheil, Son of the gille of St Michael, M. G. Gillamichol (1467 MS.), O.G. Gillemicel (B. of Deer). The name Carmichael is really Lowland—from the Parish name of Carmichael in Lanark (Michael's caer or cathair q.v.).
- CATTANACH, CHATTAN, G. Catanach, M. G. plural Cattanich (D. of L.), "belonging to Clan Chattan," Clann Gillacatan (1467), which claims descent from Gillacatain (1467 MS.), servant of St Catan, whose name denotes "little cat" (see cat).
- CHARLES, G. Tearlach; in origin the same as Sc. carle, and meaning "man." Hence M'Kerlie.
- CHISHOLM, G. Siosal, Siosalach, De Chesholme (thirteenth century documents), De Chesholme (1254), a Border name, the place-name Chisholm being in Roxburgh: Ches-holm (a holm, but Ches?).
- CLARK, G. Cléireach; see cléireach in Dict. Also M' A'-Chléirich, whence Galwegian M'Chlery.
- COLL, G. Colla, M. G. Colla (M'V., 1467 MS.), E. Ir. Colla: Colnavo-s*, from col, cel, high, as in Celtæ (App. A above).
- COLIN, G. Cailean, M. G. Callane (D. of L.), Cailin (1467 MS.), Colinus (Lat. of 1292). This is a personal name, once more or less peculiar to the Campbells, the Chief being always in Gaelic M'Cailein. Its relation to Eng. and Continental Colin is doubtful; it cannot be from the old name Cuilen, Catulus (Caniculus) or Whelp, by which a tenth century Scotch king is known. Cf. G. caileag.
- CRERAR, G. Criathrar, the name of a Lochtay-side clan who regard themselves as Mackintoshes, explaining the name as "riddler," from criathar (which see in Dict.): the derivation is right, but for the meaning compare the Eng. noun and name Sieve(w)right. See *Celt. Mag.*⁶, 38.
- CUMMING, G. Cuimein, Cuimeanach, earliest Eng. form Comyn, a Norman family dating from the Conquest, belonging to the Norman house of De Comines, a territorial designation.
- DAVID, G. Daibhidh (Classical), Dàidh (C.S.); hence Clann Dàidh or the Davidsons, a branch of the Clan Chattan. In C.S., Davidson appears as Déibhiosdan.
- DERMID, G. Diarmad, M. G. Dermid (D. of L.), Diarmada, gen. (1467 M.S.), E. Ir. Diarmait, O. Ir. Diarmuit, Diarmit, Ir. Lat. Diormitius (Adamnan). Zimmer explains the name as Dia-ermit, "God-reverencing," from dia and ermit: arement*-, "on-minding," root ment, as in dearmad, q.v.
- DEWAR, G. Deòir, Deòireach, documents Doire (1487), Jore (1428); from deòradh, a pilgrim, q.v. Hence Macindeor.
- DONALD, G. Domhnall, M. G. Domnall (1467 M.S.), gen. Donil (D. of L.), O. G. Domnall (B. of Deer), E. Ir. Domnall, Ir.

Lat. Domnallus (Adamnan), Domnail (do., ablative), Early W. Dumngual, later Dyfnwal : Dumnovalo-s*, from dubno- of domhan, and valo- (see flath), meaning "world-wielder, world-ruler," much the same in meaning as Dumnorix, world-king, Cæsar's opponent among the Aedui. See domhan, flath. Hence M'Domhnuill, Mac-donald.

DUFF, M. Ir. Dubh (Clann Dubh, Clan Duff, of which was Macbeth, etc.), earlier Dub, King Duff in tenth century ; from Gadelic dub, now dubh, black, q.v. As a personal name, it is a curtailment of some longer or double-stemmed name (cf. Fionn, Flann, red). Hence Macduff (Clen m^c Duffe, 1384). The family name Duff is merely the adjective dubh used epithetically.

DUFFY ; see Mac-phee.

DUGALD, G. Dùghall, M. G. Dowgall, g. Dowle (D. of L.), Dubgaill, gen. (1467 MS.), thirteenth century documents give Dugald (1289), Dufgal (1261), M. Ir. Dubgall (first recorded Dubgall is at 912 A.D.), from Early Ir. Dubgall, a Dane, "Black stranger," as opposed to Finnigall, a Norwegian, "Fair foreigner." See, for derivation, fionn and Gall. Hence M'Dhùghaill, Mac-dougall, Mac-dowel, etc.

DUNCAN, G. Donnchadh (Dial. Donnach), M. G. Duncha (D. of L.), Donnchaid, gen. (1467 MS.), O. G. Donchad (B. of Deer), E. Ir. Donnchad : Donno-catu-s*, Dunno-catu-s*, "Brown warrior," from donn and cath, q.v. The Gaulish Donno- of personal names has been referred by De Jubainville to the same meaning and origin as M. Ir. donn, king, judge, noble—a word occurring in O'Davoren's glossary.

EDWARD, G. Eideard ('Eudard, Dial.), Imhear, Iomhar ; the first is the Eng. Edward borrowed, the second is the Norse Ivarr borrowed (see Mac-iver). Hence M'Eideard, M'Edward.

EWEN, G. Eòghann (Dial. Eòghainn), M. G. Eogan, Eoghan, E. Ir., O. Ir. Eogan : Avi-gono-s* (Avigenos*, Stokes), "well born, good," from avi*, friendly, good, Skr. ávi (do.), Got. avi-liud, thanks, Lat. aveo, desire, possibly Gr. εὖ, good (cf. here Εὐγένης, Eugenius), W. has Eu-tigirn, Eu-tut, O. Br. Eu-cant, Eu-hocar, Gaul. Avi-cantus. Rhys (Hib. Lect. 63) refers Ir. Eoghan and W. Owen to Esu-gen-*, Gaul. Esugenus, sprung from the god Esus. Zimmer regards Owen as borrowed from Lat. Eugenius. Cf., however, the evo- of Ogmic Eva-cattos, now Eochaidh. Hence Mac-ewen.

FARQUHAR, G. Fearchar, M. G. Fearchar, Fearchair, Ir. Fearchair (F. M., year 848 A.D.) : Ver-caro-s*, "super-dear one ;" for fear, see Fergus, and for car see Dict. above. Hence M'Fhearchair, Mac-erchar, Farquharson, M'Farquhar.

- FERGUS, G. Fearghas, M. G. Fearghus, Fergus, E. Ir., O. Ir. Fergus, g. Fergusso, W. Gurgust, O. Br. Uuorgost, Uurgost : Ver-gustu-s*, "super-echoice;" for ver- or fear-, see in Diet. far, air (allied to Lat. super), and for gustus, see under Aonghus above. Some regard Fer here as G. fear, man, viro-* or vir*.
- FINGAL, G. Fionn, Maepherson's Gaelic Fionnghal, which really should mean "Norseman," or Fair-foreigner, M. G. Fionn-ghall, a Norseman (M.V.), ri Fionn-gal, king of Man and the Isles (M.V.), Fingal (Manx Chron.), king of Man and the Isles from 1070 to 1077 : from fionn and Gall, q.v. Fingal as the name of the Gaelic mythic hero is an invention of Maepherson's, as likewise is his Gaelic Fionnghal. As a matter of fact the name is a Gaelic form of the female name Flora ! See Fionnaghal in the addendum to this list.
- FINLAY, G. Fionnla, Fionnlagh (misspelt Fionnladh), M. G. Finlay (D. of L.), Finlaeic, gen. (1467 MS.), Fionnlaoich, gen. (Duan Albanach), E. Ir. Findlaech (Lib. Leinster), *Finnloe*ch and Finlaeg, gen. (Marianus Scotus). Those early forms and the Norse Finnleikr seem to prove that the name means "Fair hero" (fionn and laoch). It has been explained as "Fair calf," which would suit the phonetics also. The name is not Irish, and appears first as that of Maebeth's father. The Irish name like it is Finnluich, fair mouse ? Hence Finlayson, Mackinlay (M'Fhionnlaigh).
- FORBES, G. Foirbeis, Foirbeiseach, early document form De Forbes (thirteenth cent.), so named from the place-name Forbes in Aberdeenshire.
- FRASER, G. Friseal, Frisealach, cire. 1298 the patriot's name is variously Simon Fraser, Frasel, Fresel, Frisel, in Domesday B. Fresle, Battle Abbey Rolls (?) Frisell or Fresell ; usually referred to O. Fr. freze, a strawberry, frezele*, from Lat. fragula, fragum, Fr. fraisier, strawberry plant. For sense, cf. the name Plantagenet (broom). Strawberry leaves form part of the Fraser armorial bearings. The word may also mean "eurlled" (Eng. frizzle, frieze).
- GALBRAITH, G. M' A'-Bhreatnaich, son of the Briton (of Strathclyde). The name appears in the thirteenth century in Lennox, etc., as Galbrat (from Gall and Breat- of Breatann above).
- GEORGE, G. Seòras, Seòrsa, Deòrsa, ultimately from Gr. γεωργός, a farmer, "worker of the earth" (γῆ, earth, ὄργος, Eng. work). Hence the Border M'George.
- GILBERT, G. Gilleabhart, Gillebride. Gilbert is from Ag. S. Gislebert, "Bright hostage" (see giall in Diet.) ; Gillebride is St Bridget's slave, an exceedingly common name once, but now little used.

- GILCHRIST, G. Gillecriosd, M. G. Gillacrist, Ir. Gillacrist (several in eleventh century): "servant of Christ." Hence M'Gilchrist. It translates also Christopher.
- GILLESPIE, G. Gilleasbuig; see Archibald.
- GILLIES, G. Gilliosa: "servant of Jesus." From M'A-Lios comes the "English" form Lees, M'Leish.
- GLASS, G. Glas, an epithet, being glas, grey. See M'Glashan.
- GODFREY, G. Goraidh, M. G. Gofraig (1467 MS.), Godfrey (do.), Ir. Gofraidh (F.M.), M. Ir. Gothfrith, Gofraig, also Gofraig, (Tigernach, 989), E. Ir. Gothfraid (Lib. Lein.), E. W. Gothrit (Ann. Camb.). The Norse name, for it is Norse-men that are referred to, is Goðröðr or Gudrod (also Góröðr), but the earlier Gaelic shows rather a name allied to the Ag. S. Godefrid, Ger. Gottfried, "God's peace." Modern Gaelic is more like the Norse. The Dictionaries give G. Guaidhre as the equivalent of Godfrey; for which, however, see M'Quarrie.
- GORDON, G. Górdan, Górdon, Górdonach; from the parish name of Gordon in Berwickshire. The De Gordons are well in evidence in the thirteenth century. Chalmers explains the place-name as Gor-dyn, "super-dûnum" (see far and dùn).
- GOW, G. Gobha, a smith, now usually gobhainn, q.v. Hence Mac-cowan, Mac-gowan, Cowan.

- GREGOR, G. Griogair, Griogarach, M. G. M'Gregar (D. of L.), M. Ir. Grigoir, E. Ir. (Lat.) Grigorius (Gregory the Great, died 604), from Lat. Gregorius, Gr. Γρηγόριος, a favourite ecclesiastical name from the third century onward (cf. Gr. γρηγορέω, be watchful, Eng. care). Hence M'Griogair, Mac-gregor, Gregory.
- GUNN, G. Guinne, Gunnach, early documents Gun (1601), Clan-gun (1525), in Kildonan of Sutherland, originally from Caithness; from the Norse Gunni (twelfth century), the name then of a son of Olaf, a Caithness chief (Ork. Saga). This Gunni is a short or "pet" form of some longer name of two stems, with gunn-r, war, as the first and chief one (cf. Gann-arr, which is an old Orkney name, Gunn-ljórn, Gunn-laugr, Gunn-ölfr, war-wolf, Gunn-stein, Gunn-valdr).
- HAROLD, G. Harailt, M. Ir. Aralt, from Norse Haraldr (same in roots and origin as Eng. herald). Hence Mac-raild.
- HECTOR, G. Eachunn (Dial. Eachainn), M. G. Eachuinn, g. (M'V.), Eachdhuin, g. (M'V.), Eachdhonn, g. Eachduinn (1467 MS.), Ir. Eachdonn (year 1042): Ego-donno-s*, "horse lord," like Each-thighearna of Mac-echern. Of course 'Brown-horse' is - possible; cf. Gr. ἑάνθρωπος. The phonetics are against Each-duine*, "horse-man," as an explanation.

- HENRY, G. Eanruig; from O. Eng. Henric, now Henry, from Germanic Heim-rik, "home-ruler" (Eng. home and ric in bishop-ric, rich). Hence Mackendrick, Henderson.
- HUGH, G. Uisdean (Hùisdean), in Argyle Eòghan, M. G. Huisduinn, which comes from Norse Fysteinn, "Ey(?)-stone." The Dictionaries also give the G. Aodh (see Mackay) as equivalent to Hugh, which is itself from Germanic sources, Teutonic root hug, thought.
- JAMES, G. Seumas, M. G. Séamus (M'V.); from the Eng. James, a modification of Hebrew Jacob.
- KATHEL, G. Cathal, M. G. Cathal (M'V.), Ir. Cathal (common from seventh century onwards), O. W. Catgual: Katu-valo-s*; see cath, war, and val under Donald. Hence M'All, Mackail.
- KENNEDY, G. Ceanaideach. Kennedy (Kenedy, John M'Kennedy, fourteenth century) is the family name of the old Earls of Carrick, now represented by the Marquis of Ailsa; it is a famous Irish name borne by the father of Brian Boru in the tenth century—Ir. Ceinneidigh, E. Ir. Cennétich, gen.; from ceann, head, and étech*, protector? The Highland Kennedys are also called in G. M'Uaraig or M'Ualraig, Ir. Ualgharg, proud-fierce (?).
- KENNETH, G. Coinneach, M. G. Coinndech, Coinnidh, g., Coinndigh, g. (M'V.), O. G. Cainnech, g. Caennig (B. of Deer), E. Ir. Cainnig, gen., Ir. Lat. Cainnechus (Adamnan): Cannico-s*, "fair one," from the same stem as cannach (root gas), q.v. The Eng. Kenneth is a different word: it is the old Scotch king name Cinæd (E. Ir. form), O. G. Cínathá (B. of Deer), Ir. Cinaedh, "fire-sprung," from cin of cinn and aed of Mackay.
- LACHLAN, G. Lachlann (Dial. Lachlainn), Lachunn, M. G. Lochlinn, g. (M'V.), Lochloinn, n. and g., Lachlan, g. (1467 MS.), Ir. Lochlainn Mac Lochlainn (F.M., year 1060); probably from Lochlann, Scandinavia, possibly commencing as Mac-Lochlainne, a Scandinavian ("son of L."). Lochlann evidently means "Fjord-land."
- LAMOND, G. M'Laomuinn, Làman, M. G. Ladmann, early documents Laudemundus (Lat. of 1292), Laumun (circ. 1230), M. Ir. Laghmand, Lagmand; from Norse lagamaðr, lögmaðr, lawman, pl. lögmenn, "law-men," by meaning and derivation.
- LAURENCE, G. Labhruinn, M. G. Labhran (1467), Ir. Laurint (Saint), from Lat. Laurentius, St Laurence, the ultimate stem being that of Lat. laurus, a laurel. Hence M'Labhruinn, or Mac-laren.

The name of the Gr. goddess Ἀφροδίτη (Bhrg-ítá) and the Teutonic name Berhta (from the same stem as Eng. bright), have been compared to that of Bridget (Hoffman, *Bez. Beit.*¹⁸, 290); but this derivation of Aphrodite ("foam-sprung"?) is unusual.

Diorbhail, Diorbhorguil, DOROTHY, M. G. Derbhfáil (M'V.), Ir. Dearbhail, Dearbhforghaill, respectively translated by O'Donovan "true request" (see áill) and "true oath" (E. Ir. for gall, O. Ir. for cell, testimony, from geall). Hence the historic name Devorgilla.

Fionnaghal, FLORA, M. G. Fionnghuala (1469 MS.), documents Finnvola (1463), Fynvola (1409), Ir. Fionnghuala: "Fair-shouldered"; from fionn and guala.

Mòr, Mòrag, SARAH, M. G. Mór (M'V.), Ir. Mór (year 916); from mór, great, while Hebrew Sarah means "queen."

Muireall, MARION, MURIEL, Ir. Muirgheal (year 852): Mori-gelá, "sea-white;" from muir and geal.

Sorcha, CLARA, Ir. Sorcha; from the adj. sorcha, bright, the opposite of dorcha, q.v.

Una, WINIFRED, WINNY, Ir. Una; usually explained as from úna (older núna), hunger, famine, whence the Ir. proverb: "Ní bhíon an teach a mbíon Una lá ná leath gan núna"—The house where Una is is never a day or half one without hunger." Una, daughter of the King of Lochlan, is represented by Keating as Conn Cédeathach's mother (second century).

ADDENDA.

abaisd, a brat, trifling, impudent person :

adharcan, lapwing, “horned bird ;” from adharc, Dial. daoireagan.

atach, cast-off clothes (Uist, &c.) :

bac-mòine, turf-pit or bank (N.H.) ; from Norse bakki, a bank, Eng. bank. Hence also place-name Back.

bualtrach, cow-dung, so Ir., bwartlach (Dial. Ir.) ; from buar, cattle.

buileach, total, entirely ; another form of baileach. E. Ir. has bulid, blooming.

carbh, a particular kind of ship or boat (Islay) ; from Norse karfi, a galley for the fjords.

cas, fire (as a stone)—a Sutherland word ; seemingly founded on Eng. cast.

clàidheag, the last handful of corn cut on the farm, the “maiden” (Badenoch) ; Sc. claiik-sheaf (Aberdeen, &c.), from claiick, the harvest home, the state of having all the corn in.

cropan, a deformed person (Suth.) ; from Norse kroppinn, deformed. See under crùb.

farachan, death-watch beetle : “hammerer ;” from fairche, hammer, Ir. farachan, a hammer. The possibility of its being from faire must not be overlooked.

fionnachd, refreshment : “coolness,” ionn-fhuachd* ; cf. fionnar.

Gearran, the 4 weeks dating from 15th Mareh onwards (H.S.D.).

This forms a part of the animal nomenclature given to the several periods of Spring-time : first the Faoilleach, explained as “Wolf-month” (but see Diet.) ; then the Feadag, or Plover, a week’s length ; then the Gearran or Gelding, variously estimated as to length and time ; then came the Cailleach, or Old Woman, a week’s time ; then perhaps the three days of the ’Oisgean, or ewes. See Nich., pp. 412-414.

CORRIGENDA ET ADDENDA.

acarach : add Ir. acarach, obliging, convenient, which shades off into acartha, profit. M'A. has acarra, moderate in price, indulgence, which belongs to acartha.

ailleán : add M. Ir. eillinn (*Rev. Celt.*⁹, 231).

aoine : Stokes suggests that it may be cognate with Gr. πεινάω, I hunger, Lat. penuria.

arsa : Stokes takes it from the root ver, speak, seen in Gr. ῥέω, speak, Eng. rhetoric, word.

arsaidh : I did not observe that Stokes had the word ; but we come to the same conclusion. His stem is (p)arostât*, from paros, before, and stât, Skr. purástât, erst.

astar : Stokes (*Bez. Beit.²¹, 134) now gives its Celtic form as ádsitro-, root sai of saothar, toil.

balla : this word is latterly from Lat. vallum. Cf. Ir. fala (Munster).

barpa : Cape Wrath is called in Lewis An Carbh, where the Gaelic love of c above p again appears.

basdal : it is from Norse bastl, turmoil.

boicionn : Lidén compares O. Ir. cenni to Norse hinna, a membrane.

bòid, read bóid.

breath : add W. bryd.

caoidh : a former derivation of Stokes' is repeated by Rhys (*Manx. Pray.², 26) : qesi, root qes as in Lat. questus.

ceannach :

ceannard : Manx kiannoort. The Manx and Sc. are discussed by Rhys (*Manx Pray.*², 94.) His ceannabhard is unknown to the present writer ; but his derivation of it from Eng. ward could be supported from M'Vurich's bárd, garrison, if we were sure it was not M'V.'s classic style, for the word is good Irish.

Céitein : see Samhainn.

claidhean, better cláidhean. H.S.D. gives it in supp. as claimhean.

clois : in line 2, read O'R. not O.'R.

cnap : add at end, Eng. knappe, blow.

cuile : after kept, read O. Ir. cuile fínda, vinaria, koliá* ; root gel of ceall ; Gr. καλία, hut, Skr. kuláya, hut, nest (Stokes).

cuing : Stokes since (*Bez. Beit.*²¹ 132) gives the stem as ko-jungi-. Delete mark of interrogation.

daol : this Stokes connects with M. Ir. dael, frightsomeness, root dvei, fright, Gr. δέος, a fright, Skr. dvīs, hate.

éitigh : this Stokes (*Bez. Beit.²¹) makes an-teki-s, not fair, W. tég, fair, Gr. τίκτω, produce, τέκνον, child, Eng. thing. Still G. should be éidigh.

fàisg : Ascoli falls back on the old derivation : fo-ad-sech*.

faob : Lidén equates Lat. offa, a ball.

faobh : the root may be vedh, pledge, Gr. ἄθλον, war prize, Eng. wager.

† farradh : add after "vicinity," M. G. na warri (D. of L.), feannadh : E. Ir. fennaim, I skin, is referred by Stokes to the root of Eng. wound ; he gives the stem as venwo*.

feum : line 2, for ved-men* read vedes-men*.

fòd : read fód.

gearan : line 2 ; read quēran and cearu.

geinn : Lidén compares Norwegian gand, gann, a peg, thin stick.

gleadhraich : if E. Ir. glechrach means "noisy," the stem is glegar, which also appears (Mart. Gorman, edited by Stokes).

gradh : read gràdh.

imreasan : Vb. sennim is from svem-no*, allied to Eng. swim.

innean : Osthoff gives the stem endivani*-, "on-hit," Zd. vaniti, hit.

† ios : line 6 ; read insó.

lànain : Stokes divides the word thus : lán-shamain.

For samain assembly, see samhainn.

leathar : to prove that the Teutons borrowed this word from the Celts, it is asserted that the original Celtic is *(p)letro-, root pel of Gr. πέλλα, hide, Eng. fell.

luighe-siùbhladh : line 4, read "seem."

mionn : Windisch (*Rev. Celt.*⁵) equates minn with Lat. mundus, ornament, world.

ni's : the true G. form na's is not a degraded form of Ir. ní's. The G. na of na's is simply na = id quod (see na) ; the Ir. is some mediæval development with ní, for old ana, id quod, was lost, the simple a (art.) being used now in its stead, as in O. Ir. As it was impossible to use a in the comparative construction with clearness, recourse was had to ní is. Thus, Ir. : An tan do thógradh ní ba mò do dheunamh = G. : An tan a thogradh e na bu mhò 'dhéanamh. Hence ni's should never have been used in Sc. Gaelic.

òran : Stokes compares W. afar, mourning.

sàth : possibly from só, sé, hurl, as in siol.
