Genesis ii. 18.
And the Lord Goll faid, It is not goud that if man flould be alone; I revil make an belp mee for him.

HUMAN mifery is to divine mercy as black foil to a sparkling diamond, of jable cloud to the fun-beams, Ifal. vii. 4 Lord, what is man that thou art mindful of (V) Man is, in his creation, angelical: in h comuption, diabolical: in his renovation, the ological: in his tranfation, majeftical.

There were four filver channels in whic the chryftal ftreams of God's affection ran man in his creation.

1. In his preparation. 2. In his afimutic tion. 3. In his corenation. 4. In his affocit ation.
2. In his preparation. Other creatures xc ceived the character of their beings by a tima ple fiat; but there syas a confultation at hi forming; not for the difficulty, but for the die nity of the work. The painter is more ftud? ous about that which he means to make hi mafter-piece. The four eiements were take out of their elements, to make up the perfec tion of man's complexion: the fure was pruri fied, the air was clarified, the water was purge the earth was refined. When man was mould cd, heaven and earth were married : a bod from the one was efpoufed to a foul from th other.
3. In his aftimilation. Other creatures wer did like themfelyes, but man was made like (God, as the wax hath the imprefion of the Teal upon it, It is admirable to behold fo fair a picture on fuch coarfe canvas and fo bright a charater on fo brown paner.
4. In his coromation. Fie that made man and all the veft, made man over all the reft; 2ucritilum Dowinum pofuit Deus in tantum domiaum: he was a little lord of "h great lordhip: this king was crowned in his cradle.
5. In his affociation. Society is the folace of humanity; the woild would be a defart without a confort.

Noiff of men's parts are made in pairs; now he that was double in his perfection, murt not be fingle in his condition: and the Lordfaid, &xc.

Thefe words are lite the iron gate that opened to Pater of its own accord; dividing themfelves into three parts.

1. An introduction, And the Loord God Jaid. -2. An afiertion, It is mot read that man fould be alons--3. A determination, I reill wake an belp meett for inisp.

In the firt, there is a majefty propofed. In the fecond chere is a malady preferted. - In the third, there is a remedy pruvided.

Once more, let me put thefe grapes into the prefs.

1. Tl:e fovercigneefs of the expremion: Aud the Lord Gad frid. 2. The folitariuets of the condition, it is sot good. 3. The fuitable-

A WEDDING-RING,

 In the third, there is the work of divinity. Of there in their order. - And firft, of the frit. in. The fovereignnefs of the expreffion: And the Lord God faid. Luke i. 70. As be Spake by the moutb of bis propbets.- In other fcriptures, he ufed their mouths; but in this he makes ufe of his own! they were the organs, and He the breath; they the early freams, He the Fountain: How He Spoke, it is hard to be fpoken, whether eternally, internally, or externally, Quomodo non ift, quad cucercmus fod potius quid dixerit irtelligamus; we are not to enquire into the marner of fpeaking, but to the matter that is fpoken; which leads me, like a directing ftar, from the fuburbs to the city, from the porch to the palace, from the founder of the mine to the treafure that is in it: it is not good, &cc. In which you have two things.1. The fubject.-2. The predicate. The fubject, Mon alone; The predicate, It is not good. 8rc.
2. The fubject.-Mon alone; take this in two bránches. I. As it is limited to one man. 2. As it is lengthened to all men.

Fiff. As it is limited to one max; and fo it is taken particularly: Man for the firft man. When all other creatures had their mates, Adam wanted his; though he was the emperor of the earth, and the admiral of the feas, yet int paratife without a companion; though he was truly happy, yet he was rot fully happy; though he had enough for his board, yet he had not enough for his bed; though he had ${ }^{\text {'FITFORTHEPINGER. }}$ many creatures to ferve him, yct he wanted a creature to folace him; when he was compounded in creation, he muft be conipleated by conjunction; when he had no fin to hurt him, then he muft have a wife to help him, It is not good that man Bould be clone.

Secondly, As it is lengthened to tall nien, and fo it is taken univerfally, Heb. viii, 4. Marriage is bencencble unto all. It is siot only warrutable, but honcutable. The whole Trinity have fon:fpired together to fet a crow: of glory upon the head of matrimony.
I. God the Father; marriage was a tree planted within the walls of paradife, the flower firft grew in God's garden.
2. The Son; marriage is a cryftal glafs, wherein Chrift and the faints do fee each other's faces.
3. The Holy Gtion; by his overfnadow. ing of the bleffed Virgii.-Well might the world when it faw her pregnancy, furpea liew virginity; but her matrimonal condition was a grave to that fufpicion ; without this, her innocency had not prevented her infamy; flie needed $a$ fhield to defend that chaftity abroad, which was kept inviolable at home.

Too many that have niot worth enough to pieferve their virginity, have yet will enough to cover their unchaftity: turning the medicine of frailty into the mantie of filthinefs. Certainly fhe is mad that cuts off her leg to get her a crutch, os that wenoms her face to wear a mafk.

Paul makes is one of the characters of thofe damanably finful, and only taught by the influence of devils.

One of the Popes of Rome fprinkles this unholy and impure drop upon it, Carnes polIutionem & immunditum.

It is ftrange that fhould be a pollut:on, which was infituted before corruption ; or that impurity which was ordained in the fate of innocency; or that they fhould make that to be a fin, which they make to be a facrament; ftrange frupidity! ?ut a baftard may be laid at the door of chaftity, and 2 leaden crown fet upon a golden head.
Bellarmine (that mighty Atlas of the papal power) blows his ftinking breath upon it : Belter were it for a prieft to defile bimfelf with many hariots, then to be married to one reife.Thefe children of the purple whore prefer monafteries before marriages, à concubine before a companion. - They ufe too many women for their lufts, to chufe any for their love. - Their tables are io la:gely fpread, that they cannot feed upon one difh.

As for their exalting of a virgin fate, it is like him that commended fating, when he had filled his belly.

Who knows not that virginity is a pearl of a fuarkling luttre? But cannot the one be fet up, without the nther be thrown down? Will so oblation pacify the former, but the demolifhing of the latter? Tho we fund many enemies to the chcice of marriage, yet it is ratc to find any onemies to the ufe of marriage. They would pion the lock that want the key, and pluck the fruit that do not plant the tree. The Elebrews have a Sying, that, He is not a mas thet hats not a werfe. - Though they climb too high a bough, yet it is to be feared that fuch fieh is fuil of imperiection that is not tending to proparation: Though man alone may be grood, yet, It is wot good tbat man Jould be alone: which leads me from the fub. jert to the predicate, It is not good, &cc.Noin bomum, is not in this place as Malum, but bonam ef beneftum, utilo jucunduno.

Now it is not good that man fhould be in a fingle condition upon a threeford confideration.

1. In refpect of fin, which would not eife be prevented. Marriage is like water to quencis the fparks of luft's fire, I Cor. vii. 2. Neverthelefs to avoid fornication, let̂ cevery one bave bis swon zeife, &xc. Man needed no fuch phyfic when he was in perfect health. Temptations may break nature's beft fence, and lay its paradife wafte; but a fingle life is a prifon of unvuly defires, which is daily attempted to be broken open.

Some, indeed, force themfelyes to a fingle life, merelg to avoid the charges of a marriage flate: they had rather fry in the greafe of their ewn fenfuality, than extinguifh-thofe flames with an allowed remedy : It is better to marry than to burn; to be lawfully coupled, than to be luftully fcorched. - It is beft feecing thefe flames with ordinate fuel.
2. It is not good in refpect of mankind, which then would not be propsated. - The Roman hiftorian relating the avifing of the Sabine women, excufes it chus: Res crit unius etatis populus virom th: Withcut them mankind would fall from the earth and perifh. Marriage turns nutability into the image of etornity: It frings up new buds when the old are witherd: It is a cereater honour for a man to be the father of one fon, than to be the mafter of many fervants. Without a wife, children camot be had lawfully; without ì grood wife, children cannot be had comforta-bly.-Man and woman as the fock and the cion, being grafted in narriage, as trees bearing fruit to the worlid.

Augurtine fays this pair is primum par et fundamentum ounium, arc. - They are the firf link of luman fociety, to which all the reft are joined. Mankind had long ago decayed, and been like a taper fallen into the focket, if thofe breaches which are made by mortality, were not repaired by matrimony.
3. It is not good, in regard of the church, which would then have been extirpated. Where there is no generation there can be no regeneration. Nature makes us creatures, before grace makes us Chriftians.

If the loins of men had been lefs fruitul, the death of Christ would have been lefs fucceesfui.

It was a witty queftion that one pat to him that faid, Marriage fills the earth, but virginity fills the heavens: How can the heavens ${ }^{2}$

Had Adam lived in innocency without matrimony, there would have been no fervants of God in the church militant, nor no faints with God in the church triumphant. Sut will not fink this veffel by the over-burthen of it, nor prefs this truth to death, by laying too great a load upon its houlders.

There is one knot which I mult untie before I make a further progrefs, i Cor. vii. 1. It is good for a man not to toucb a worman. Do all the frriptures proceed out of the fame mouth, and do they not all Speak the fame truth? The God of unity will not indite difcord; and the God of verity cannot affert falfehood; if,good and evil be contraties, how contrary then are thefe fcriptures? Either Miofesimitakes GOD, or Paul miftakes Mofés about the point of marriage.-To which Thall give a double anfwer.

1. There is a public and private good. In refpect of one man, it may be gooil not to touch a woman; but in tefpect, of all, fo $1 t$ is not good thest man 乃ould be alone.

Mofes fpeaks of the flate of man created; Paul of the fate of man comupted: Now that which by, inftitution was a mercy, by corruption may become a mifery; as pure water is tainted by running through a miry channel, or as the fun-beams receive a tincture by fhining throutoth a coloured giafs. There is no print of evil in the world, but fin was the ftamp that made it. They that feek nothing but weal in its commifion, will find nothing but woe ghit the conclufion. Which leads me from the folitarinefs of the condition, Man alore, to the fuitablenefs of the provifion, I voill make an beip meses for kim. In which you have two parts :

1. The agent: I will make. 2. The object: $\dot{A}$ hed p .
I. The agent, I will make. We cannot build a houre without tools; but the Trinity is at libesty; - Die'verbums tantum. To God's amnifcience there is nothing invifible; to God's omnipotence there is nothing impoffible. We work by hands without; but He works without hands. He that made man meet for help, makes a meet help for him.

Mariages are confented above, but confummated below, Prov, xviii. 22. Though man wants fupply, yet man cannot fupply his wants, James i. 17. Every good and perfeet gift comes from cbove, $8 x$ c. A wife, though the be not a perfecte gift, yet the is a good gift. Thefe beams are darted from the Sun of righiteoufnefs.

Haft thou a foft lieart? It is of God's brealking: haft thou a fiveet wife? She is of God's making.

Let me draw up this exprefion with a double appication.

1. When thou layeit out for fuch a good on earth, look up to the God of heaven : let him make thy choice for thee who made his choice of thee. Look above you, before you look about you, iwthing makes up the happinefs of a married condition, like the holinefs of a mortifed difpositiot. Account not thofe the moft wo:thy that are the moft wealthy. Art thou matched to the Lord; match in the Lord. How happy are fuch marriages, where Chrife is at the wedding! Let none but thofe-who have found favour in God's eyes, find favour in yours.
2. Give God the tribute of youk gratulation for your good companions. Take heed of paying your rent to a woong landlord: when you tafte of the fream, refiect apon the fpring that feeds it. Now thou haft four eyes for thy fpeculation, four hands for thy operation, four feet for thy ambulation, and four fhoulders for thy furtentation. What the fin againft the Holy Ghoft is in point of divinity, that is unthankfulnefs in point of morality ; an offence unpardonable. Pity it is but the moon fhould be ever in an eclipfe, that will not acknowledge Her beans to be borrowed from the fors: - fic that praifes not the giver, prizes not the gift: and fo I paifs from the agent to the object, $A$ kelp.

She nuit be fo much, and no lefs: and for much, and normore. Our ribs were not ordained to be our rulers. They are not made of the head, to claim fuperiority; but out of the fide, to be content with equality. They defert the Author of nature who invert the order of nature. The woman was made for the man's comfort, but the man was not made for fromati's command. Thofe fhoulders afpire too high, that content not themfelves with a room below their head. It is between a man and his wife in the houre, as it is between the fron and the moon in the heavens, when the greater light goes down, the leffer gets up when the one ends in fetting, the other begins in numing. The wife may be a fovereign in her hufband's ablence, but the muft be fubjese in her hufoand's preferice. As Pharaoh fiid to Jofeph, fo fhould the hufband fay to his wife, Geii xli. 40. Thou fralt be over my horfe, and according to thy seord, foall all my people be rutled, onity in the throne will ? be greatof than thou. The body of that houfehold can siever make any good motion, whofe bones are out of place. The woman mult be a help to the man in thefe four things:

1. To his piety. 2. To his fociety. 3. To his progeny. 4. To his profperity.

To his piety, by the ferventnefs of her excitation. - To his fociety, by the fragrantnefs बf her converfation. - To his progeny, by the fruitfulnefs of her education.- To his profperity, by the faithfulinefs of her prefervation.

1. To his piety'? by the ferventnefs of her excitation, I Pet. ii. 7 .

Hulband and wife fhould be as the two milch kine, which were coupled together to carry the ark of God; or as' the two cherubims, that looked one upon another, and both upon the mercy feat; or as the two tables of frone, on each of which was engraven the laws of God. In fome families married perfons are like Jeremiah's two bafkets of figs, the one very good, the other very evil ; or like fire and water, whilh the one is flaming in devotion, the other is freezing in cornuption. There is a twodold hindrance of holinets: if, on right fide, when the wife fhould run in God's way, the hufband will not let her go : when the fore-horfe in a team will not draw, he wrongs all the reft: when the general of an army forbids a march all the foldiers ftand fill. Sometimes on the left: how did Solomion's idolatrous wife draw away his heart frum heaven? A finning wife was Satan's firt ladder, by which he fcaled the walls of paradife, and took away the fort-royal of Adam's beart from hima. Thus the that fhould have been the helo of his fiefh, was the hurt of his faith; his nature's under-propper, became his grace's un-der-miner! and fhe that thould be a crown on the head, is a crois on the fhoulders. - The wife is often to the huflond, as the ivy to the oak, which draws away his fap from him.
2. A help to his fociety, by the fragrantnefs of he: converfation.

Man is an affectionate creature: now the woman's behaviour fhould be fuch towards the man as to require his affection, by increafing his delectation. That the new-born love may not be biafted as foon as it is bloffomed; that it may rot be ruined before it be rooted. A fpoufe frould, carry herfelf fo to her huband, as not to difturb his love by her contention, nor to deftroj his love by her alienation. Hufband and wife fhould be like two candles burning together, which makes the houfe moré lightfome; or like two thas rant flowers bound wp in one nofegay, that augment its fweetuefs; or like two well-tuned infruments, which founding together, make the more melodious mpfic. Hufband and wife, what are they but as two fprings meeting, and fo joining their itreams that they may make but one current? It is an unpleafing fectacle to view a•y contention in this conjunction.

3. To his progeny, by the fruitfulnes of her educaion ; that fo her children in the fiefh, may be God's children in the firit. I Sam. i. 11. Hamah fhe vows, if the Lord will give he: a for, to devote him to his fervice. A fpoufe flould be more careful of her children's breeding, than fhe fhould be fearful of her children's bearing. ' Take heed left thefe flowers grow in the devil's garden. Though you bring them out in corruption, yet do not bring them up to damination. Thofe are not mothers, but monfers, that, whilift they fhould be teaching their children the way to heaven with their lips, are leading them the way to hell with their lives. Good education is the beft livery you can give them fing: and it is the beft legacy you can leave them dying. You let out your cares to make them great; O lift up your prayers to make them good; that before you die from them, you may fee Chrit live in then!. Whilt thefe twigs are green and tender, they fhould be bowed towards God. Children and fervants ate" in a fantily, as paffengers are in a boat; haiband and wife, they ate as a pair of oars, to row thens to their defired dhaven. Let thefe fmall pieces of timber be hewed and fquared for the celeftial building. By putting a feeptre of FITFOR THE FINGER. 15 rrace into their hands, you will fet a crowin of blory upon their heads.

4. A help to his profperity, by her faithul prefervation, being not $x$ wanderer abroad, but a worker at home. One of the ancients peaks excellently; Sbe miuft not be a feeld-wife, Wike Dinab; nor a freet-wiffe, like Tanzar; nor 3 windore-wife, like • Jezebel.
Phildeas, when he drew a woman, painted her fitting under a fnail fhell; that fhe might imitate that little creature, that gocs n:o further than it can carry its houfe upon its head.
How many women are there, that are not labouring bees, but ialie drones; that take up a room tia the hive, but bring no honey to it; that are moths to their hufoandss' eftates; pending when they floculd be faring! As the man's part is to provide indufricufly, fo the woman's is to preferve difrcectly; the one muft not be carelefly wanting, the other muft not be caufelefly wafting; the man mut be feeking with difigence; the woman-muft he faving with prudence. The cock and hen both fcrape together in the duit heap, to pick up fomething for the little chickens. To wind up this on a fhort bottom.
I. If the woman be a help to the man, then let not, the man caf dirt upon the woman.

Secundus being afked his opinion of a woman, faid, Vivincu fragium, domus tempeftas, quietts impedimentum, &cc. But furely he was a monfter, and not a man, fitter for a tomb to bury him, tha:: a womh to bear him.

Some have fyled them to be like clouds in in the candle. Like weeds in the garden. It is not grod to play the butcher with that naked fex, that hath no arms but for embraces. A preacher fhould not be filent for thofe who are flenced from preaching; becaufe they are the weaker veffels, fhall they be broken all to pieces: Thou that fayeft women are evil, it may be thy expreffion flows from thy experience; but I Chall'never take that mariner for my pilot, that hath no better knowledge than the eplitting of his own fhip. Wilt thou condemm the frame of all, for the fault of one? as if it were true logic, becaufe fome are evil, therefore none are good. He hath ill eyes that didains all objects, to blaft thy helper, is to blame thy Maker. In a word, we took our rife from their bowels, and may take our reft in their bofoms.
2. Is the woman to be a help to the man! Then iet the man be a help to the woman. What males threfe debtors to be fuch ill paymalters, but becaufe they look at what is owing to them, but not at what is owing by them. If thou wouldert have thy wife's reverence, let her have thy refpect. 'To force a tear from this relation, is that which neither benefits the hufband's anchority to enjoin, ner the wife's duty to perform. A wife muft not be tharpig driven, but fweetly drawn. Compaffion may bend her, but compulion will break her. Hufband and wife hould ait towards each other with confent, not by confrain. There are bur things wherein the humand is a meet help 0 the wife.I. In his protection of her from injuries. It is well obferved by one, that the rib of which woman was made, was taken from unler a man's a.ce as the ufe of the arm is to leeep off blows $x$ : 1 the body, fo the office of the hufand is to ward of blows from the wife. The wife is the huband's treafury, and the humand fiouid be the wife's armoury. In darknefs he fhould be her fun for dircction; in danger he fhould be her fhield for protection.

FITFOR THE FINGER. 17

2. In his providing for her neceffaries. The huiband muft communicate maintenance to the wife, as the head conveys influence to the members; he muft not be a drone, and fhe a drudge, A man in a married eftate is like a chamberlain in an inn, there is knocking for him in every room.' Maǹy perfons in this concition, wafte that eftate in luxury, which fould fupply their wife's neceffity: They have neither the faith of a Chriftian, nor the love of a hufband; It is a fad fpectacle to fee a virgin fold with her own money unto flavery, when fervices are better than marriages; the one receives wages, whilft the other buys their fetters.
3. In his covering of her infirmities. Who would trample upon a jewel becaure it is fallen in the dirt? or throw away a beap of wheat for a little chaff: or defpife a golden wedge becatue it retains fome drofs? Thefe rofes have fome prickles. Now hubands fhould fpread a mantle of charity over their wives' infirmities. They are ill birds that defle their owh nefts. It is a great deal better you fhould faf than feaft yourfelves upon their failings. Som humands are never well, longer than they a hoiding their fingers in their wife's fores. Sue are like crows, that fatten coly upon carrion Do not gat out the candle becaure of the fnut If the gold be good ailow it grains: Hu bands and wives fhould provoke one nothe to love; and they fhould love one another not withfanding of provocation. Take heed o poifoning thofe frings from whence the fream of your pleafure fows.
4. By his delighting in her fociety. A wif takes fanctuary not only in her huband's houfe but in his heart. The tree of love thoule grow up in the family, as the tree of life grev up in the garden. They that chufe their Iove Chould love their choice. They that marrs where they affect not, will affect where the; marry not. Two joined together without love, are but tied together to make ane another miferable. And fo I pafs to the laft itage of the text, $A$ belp-meet.

A belp; there is her fulnels: A meet belp: there is her fitnefs.

The angels were too much above him; the creatures were too much below, him : he could not Atep up to, the former, nor could he foop down to the latter; the one was out of his reach; the other was out of his race; but the woman is a parallel line drawn equal with him. Meet fhe muft be in three things.
3. In the harmony of her difpofition. Hufband and wife hould be like the imacge in a FIT FOR THEFINGEK. IV looking-glafs, that anfuers in all properties to the face that ๆtands before it: or like an echo that returneth the veice it receiveth. Many marriages are like putting new wine into old bottles. An old man is not a meet help for a young woman: He that fets a grey head upon green fhoulders, hath one foot in the grave, and another in the cradle. Yet how many times do you fee the fpring of youth wedded to the winter of old age? A young t.man is not an help meet for ain old woman; raw fefh is but an ill plaifter for rotten bones. He that in his non-age marries a woman in her dotage. his luft hath one wife in poffeffion, but his love another in reverfion.

2. In the heraldry of her condition, Some of our European nations are fo frict in their junctions, that it is againtt their laws for the commonality to couple with the gentry.

It was well faid by one, If the wrife be too much above ber bufband, Be citber ruins binn.by ber vaff expences; or reviles bim with ber bafe reproaches: if foe be too much belowe ker bufbend, eitber ber forner condition makes ber too generous; or ber prefent mutation makes ber too innperious.

Marriages are fyled matches; yet amongit thofe many that are married, how few are there that are matched! Hufbands and wives are like locks and keys, that rather hreak than open, except the wards be anfwerable.
3. In the holinefs of their religion. If aduitery may feparate a marriage contracted, idolatry may hinder a marriage not pesfected.

- Cattle of divers kinds were not to engende - 2 Cor. vi. I4. Be not urpequally yoked. &ci It is dangerdus taking her for a wife, who will not take God for a hufband. It is not meet that one flefh fhbuid be of two fpirits. Is there never a tree thou likeft in the garden, but that which bears forbidaten fruit? - There are but two channels in which the remaining it eams hail run. 1. To thofe men that want fives, how to chufe them. 2. To thofe women who have hußands, how to ufe them.

1. To thofe men that want wives, how to chule them. Marriage is the tying of fuch a knot, that nothing but death can unloofe. Common reafon fuggefts fo much, that we thould be long a doing that which can but once be done. Where one defign hath been gravelled in the fands of delay, thotiands have been fplit on the rock of precipitance. Rafh adventures yield little gain. Opportunities are not like tides, that when one is paft, another returns; but yet take heed of flying without your wings: you may breed fuch agues in your bones, that may flake yon to your graves.
2. Let me preferve you from a bad choice. 2. Prefent you with a good one. To preferve you from a bad chooce, take that in three things: 1. Chufe not for beauty. 2. Chufe not for ciowry. 3. Chufe not for rignity. He that looks for beatury buys a pictute. He that loves for dowry maikes a purchafe. He that leaps for dignity, matches with a multitude at once. The firte of thefe is too blind to be direfeci. The fecond, too bale to be nicepted.

FITFOR THEFINGER.
The tird too bold to be refpected. I. Chuf teer not by your eyes. -2 . Chule not by ycutho fands. - 3. Chufe not by your ears.
3. Chuie not by your eyes, looking at the heauty of the per forn. Not but this is lovely n a woman, but that this is not all for which a woman fhouid be loved. He that had the hoice of many faces, famps this character upon them all, Farour is deceitful, and beauty is ain. The fun is more bright in a clear fky, than when the horizon js clouded; but if a voman's flefh hath more of beauty, than her Spirit hath of Chriftianity, it is like poifon in fweet-meats, moft dangerous, Ger. vi. 2. Tha rons of God faw ibe alugbters of men, that they were jair. One would have thought that they Sould rather have looked for grace in the heart, than for beauty in the face. Take care of inning at the faireft figns; the fwan hath black flefh under white feathers.
2. Chufe nat by your hands, for the bounty of the portion.

When Cato's daughter was afked, why did fhe not marry? The thus replied, She could not find the man that loved her perfon above her portion. Men love curious pictures, but they would have them fet in golden frames. some are fo degenerate, as to think any good enough, who have but goods enough. Take heed, for fometimes the bag and baggage go together. The perfon fhould be a figure, and the portion a cypher, which added to her, advances the fum, but alone fignifies nothing. When Themiftocles was to marry his daugh-
