THE FIGURE

HAMLET,

PRINCE OF DENMARK,

A Tragedy,

BY

W. SHAKESPERE.

Corrected from the latest Editions.

When Learning's triumph o'er her barb'rous foes
 First rear'd the Stage, immortal SHAKESPERE rose;
 Each change of many-colour'd life he drew,
 Exhausted worlds, and then imagin'd new:
 Existence saw him spurn her bounded reign,
 And panting Time toil'd after him in vain:
 His pow'ful strokes presiding Truth confess'd,
 And unresisted Passion storm'd the breast.

HAMLET.

ACT I.—SCENE I.

Elsinour. A platform before the palace. FRANCISCO on his post; enter to him BERNARDO.

Ber. Who's there?

Fran. Nay, answer me: stand, and unfold yourself.

Ber. Long live the king.

Fran. Bernardo!

Ber. He.

Fran. You come most carefully upon your hour.

Ber. 'Tis now struck twelve, get thee to bed, Francisco.

Fran. For this relief, much thanks: 'tis bitter cold,
And I am sick at heart.

Ber. Have you had quiet guard?

Fran. Not a mouse stirring.

Ber. Well, good night.

If you do meet Horatio and Marcellus,
The rivals of my watch, bid them make haste.

Enter Horatio and Marcellus.

Fran. I think I hear them. Stand, ho; Who's there?

Hor. Friends to this ground.

Mar. And liege-men to the Dane.

Fran. Give you good night.

Mar. O, farewell, honest soldier! who hath reliev'd you?

Fran. Bernardo hath my place: give you good night.

[Exit Francisco.]

Mar. Holla, Bernardo?

Ber. Say, what is Horatio there?

Hor. A piece of him.

Ber. Welcome, Horatio; welcome, good Marcellus.

Mar. What, has this thing appear'd again to-night?

Ber. I have seen nothing.

Mar. Horatio says, 'tis but our phantasy,
And will not let belief take hold of him,
Touching this dreaded sight, 'twice seen of us
Therefore I have intreated him along
With us, to watch the minutes of this night,
That if again this apparition come,
He may approve our eyes, and speak to it.

Hor. Tush, tush, 'twill not appear.

Ber. Sit down a while,

And let us once again assail your ears,
That are so fortified against our story,
What we two nights have seen.

Hor. Well, sit we down,

And let us hear Bernardo speak of this.

Ber. Last night of all,

When you same star, that's westward from the pole,
Had made his course to illume that part of heav'n
Where now it burns, Marcellus and myself,
The bell then beating one ——— [again.

Mar. Peace, break thee off; Look where it comes

Enter Ghost.

Ber. In the same figure, like the king that's dead.

Mar. Thou art a scholar, speak to it, Horatio.

Ber. Looks it not like the king? mark it, Horatio.

Hor. Most like;—it harrows me with fear and wonder.

Ber. It would be spoke to.

Mar. Speak to it, Horatio.

Hor. What art thou, that usurp'st this time of night,
Together with that fair and warlike form,

In which the majesty of bury'd Denmark
Did sometimes march? by heav'n I charge thee, speak.

Mar. It is offended.

Ber. See! It stalks away.

Hor. Stay; speak; I charge thee, speak.

[Exit Ghost.]

Mar. 'Tis gone, and will not answer.

Ber. How now, Horatio? you tremble, and look pale:
Is not this something more than phantay?
What think you of it?

Hor. Before my God, I might not this believe,
Without the sensible and true avouch
Of mine own eyes.

Mar. Is it not like the king?

Hor. As thou art to thyself:

Such was the very armour he had on,
When he the ambitious Norway combated;
So frown'd he once, when, in an angry parle,
He smote the sledded Polack on the ice.—
'Tis strange.

Mar. Thus, twice before, and just at this dead hour,
With martial stalk he hath gone by our watch.

Hor. In what particular thought to work, I know not;
But, in the gross and scope of mine opinion,
This bodes some strange eruption to our state.

Mar. Good now, sit down, and tell me, he that knows,
Why this same strict and most observant watch
So nightly toils the subject of the land?
And why such daily cast of brazen cannon,
And foreign mart for implements of war?
Why such impress of ship-wrights, whose sore task
Does not divide the Sunday from the week?
What might be toward, that this sweaty haste
Doth make the night joint-labourer with the day;
Who is't that can inform me?

Hor. That can I;

At least, the whisper goes so. Our last king,
Whose image even but now appear'd to us,
Was, as you know, by Fortinbras of Norway,

Thereto prick'd on by a most emulate pride,
 Dar'd to the combat ; in which, our valiant Hamlet
 (For so this side of our known world esteem'd him)
 Did slay this Fortinbras ; who, by a seal'd compact,
 Well ratify'd by law and heraldry,
 Did forfeit, with his life, all those his lands,
 Which he stood seiz'd of, to the conqueror :
 Against the which a moiety competent
 Was gaged by our king ; which had return'd
 To the inheritance of Fortinbras,
 Had he been vanquisher ; as, by that covenant,
 And carriage of the articles design'd,
 His fell to Hamlet : Now, Sir, young Fortinbras,
 Of unimproved mettle hot and full,
 Hath in the skirts of Norway, here and there,
 Shark'd up a list of landless resolute,
 For food and diet, to some enterprise
 That hath a stomach in't ; which is no other
 (As it doth well appear into our state)
 But to recover of us, by strong hand,
 And terms compulsory, those foresaid lands
 So by his father lost : And this, I take it,
 Is the mean motive of our preparations ;
 The source of this our watch ; and the chief head
 Of this post-haste and rummage in the land.

Ber. (I think, it be no other, but even so :
 Well may it sort, that this portentous figure
 Comes armed through our watch ; so like the king
 That was, and is the question of these wars.

Hor. A mote it is, to trouble the mind's eye.
 In the most high and palmy state of Rome,
 A little ere the mighty Julius fell,
 The graves stood tenantless, and the sheeted dead
 Did squeak and gibber in the Roman streets ;
 Stars shone with trains of fire : dews of blood fell ;
 Disasters veil'd the sun ; and the moist star,
 Upon whose influence Neptune's empire stands,
 Was sick almost to doomsday with eclipse.
 And even the like precursor of fierce events,—

As harbingers preceding still the fates,
 And prologue to the omen coming on—
 Have heaven and earth together demonstrated Unto our climatures and countrymen.—)

Re-enter Ghost.

But, soft; behold, lo, where it comes again!
 I'll cross it, though it blast me:—Stay, illusion!
 If thou hast any sound, or use of voice,
 Speak to me:

If there be any good thing to be done,
 That may to thee do ease, and grace to me,
 Speak to me:

If thou art priy to thy country's fate,
 Which, happily, foreknowing may avoid,
 O, speak!

Or, if thou hast uphoarded in thy life
 Extorted treasure in the womb of earth,
 For which, they say, you spirits oft walk in death,

Speak of it:—stay, and speak.—Stop it, Marcellus.—
[Cock crows.]

Mar. Shall I strike at it with my partizan?

Hor. Do, if it will not stand.

Ber. 'Tis here!

Hor. 'Tis here!

Mar. 'Tis gone!

[Exit Ghost.]

We do it wrong, being so majestical,
 To offer it the shew of violence;
 For it is, as the air, invulnerable,
 And our vain blows malicious mockery.

Ber. It was about to speak, when the cock crew.

Hor. And then it started, like a guilty thing
 Upon a fearful summons. I have heard
 'The cock, that is the trumpet to the morn,
 Doth with his lofty and shrill-sounding throat
 Awake the God of day; and, at his warning,
 Whether in sea or fire, in earth or air,
 The extravagant and erring spirit hies
 To his confine: and of the truth herein
 This present object made probation.

Mar. It faded on the crowing of the cock.
Some say, that ever 'gainst that season comes
Wherein our Saviour's birth is celebrated,
This bird of dawning singeth all night long;
And then, they say, no spirit dares stir abroad;
The nights are wholesome; then no planets strike,
No fairy takes, nor witch hath power to charm,
So hallow'd and so gracious is the time.

Hor. So have I heard, and do in part believe it.
But, look, the morn, in russet mantle clad,
Walks o'er the dew of yon high eastern hill:
Break we our watch up; and, by my advice,
Let us impart what we have seen to-night
Unto young Hamlet; for, upon my life,
This spirit, dumb to us, will speak to him:
Do you consent we shall acquaint him with it,
As needful in our loves, fitting our duty?

Mar. Let's do't, I pray; and I this morning know
Where we shall find him most convenient. [Exit.

SCENE II.

A room of state. Enter the King, Queen, HAMLET, POLO-NIUS, LAERTES, VOLTIMAND, CORNELIUS, Lords and Attendants.

King. Though yet of Hamlet our dear brother's death
The memory be green: and that it us befitted
To bear our hearts in grief, and our whole kingdom
To be contracted in one brow of woe;
Yet so far hath discretion fought with nature,
That we with wisest sorrow think on him,
Together with remembrance of ourselves.
Therefore, our sometime sister, now our queen,
The imperial jointress of this warlike state,
Have we, as 'twere, with a defeated joy,—
With one auspicious, and one dropping eye;
With mirth in funeral, and with dirge in marriage,

In equal scale weighing delight and dole,—
 Taken to wife : nor have we herein barr'd
 Your better wisdoms, which have freely gone
 With this affair along :—For all, our thanks.
 Now follows, that you know, young Fortinbras,—
 Holding a weak supposal of our worth ;
 Or thinking, by our late dear brother's death,
 Our state to be disjoint, and out of frame.—
 Collegu'd with this dream of his advantage,
 He hath not fail'd to pester us with message,
 Importing the surrender of those lands
 Lost by his father, with all bands of law,
 To our most valiant brother.—So much for him.
 Now for ourself, and for this time of meeting :
 Thus much the business is : We have here writ
 To Norway, uncle of young Fortinbras,—
 Who, impotent and bed-rid, scarcely hears
 Of this his nephew's purpose,—to suppress
 His further gait herein ; in that he levies
 The lists, and full proportions are all made
 Out of his subject :—and we here dispatch
 You, good Cornelius, and you, Voltimand,
 For bearers of this greeting to old Norway ;
 Giving to you no further personal power
 To business with the king, more than the scope
 Of these dilated articles allows.
 Farewell ; and let your haste commend your duty.

Vol. In that, and all things, will we shew our duty.

King. We doubt it nothing ; heartily farewell.

[Exeunt Voltimand and Cornelius.]

And now, Laertes, what's the news with you ?
 You told us of some suit ; what is't, Laertes ?
 You cannot speak of reason to the Dane,
 And lose your voice : What wouldst thou beg, Laertes,
 That shall not be my offer, not thy asking ?
 The head is not more native to the heart,
 The hand more instrumental to the mouth,
 Than is the throne of Denmark to thy father.
 What would'st thou have, Laertes ?

Laer. My dread lord,
 Your leave and favour to return to France;
 From whence, though willingly, I came to Denmark,
 To shew my duty in your coronation;
 Yet now, I must confess, that duty done,
 My thoughts and wishes bend again toward France.
 And bow them to your gracious leave and pardon.

King. Have you your father's leave? What says Polonius?

Pol. He hath, my lord, (wring from me my slow leave,
 By laboursome petition; and, at last,
 Upon his will I seal'd my hard consent):
 I do beseech you, give him leave to go.

King. Take thy fair hour, Laertes; time be thine,
 And thy best graces spend it at thy will.—
 But now, my-cousin Hamlet, and my son,—

Ham. A little more than kin, and less than kind. [Aside.]

King. How is it that the clouds still hang on you?

Ham. Not so, my lord; I am too much i' the sun.

Queen. Good Hamlet, cast thy nighted colour off,
 And let thy eye look like a friend on Denmark.

Do not, for ever, with thy valid lids
 Seek for thy noble father in the dust;
 Thou know'st, 'tis common; all that live, must die,
 Passing through nature to eternity.

Ham. Ay, Madam, it is common.

Queen. If it be,
 Why seems it so particular with thee?

Ham. Seems, Madam! nay, it is, I know, not seems.
 'Tis not alone my inky cloak, good mother,
 Nor customary suits of solemn black,
 Nor windy suspiration of forc'd breath,
 No, nor the fruitful river in the eye,
 Nor the dejected 'haviour of the visage,
 Together with all forms, modes, shews of grief,
 That can denote me truly: These, indeed, seem,
 For they are actions that a man might play;
 But I have that within, which passeth shew;
 These, but the trappings and the suits of woe.

King. 'Tis sweet and commendable in your nature,
Hamlet,

To give these mourning duties to your father :
But, you must know, your father lost a father ;
That father lost his ; and the survivor bound
In filial obligation, for some term
To do obsequious sorrow : But to persevere
In obstinate condolment, is a course
Of impious stubbornness ; 'tis unmanly grief :
It shews a will most incorrect to heaven ;
A heart unfortify'd, or mind impatient ;
An understanding simple, and unschool'd :
For what, we know, must be, and is as common
As any the most vulgar thing to sense.

Why should we, in our peevish opposition,
'Take it to heart ? Fie ! 'tis a fault to heaven,
A fault against the dead, a fault to nature,
To reason most absurd, whose common theme
Is death of fathers, and who still hath cry'd,
From the first corse, 'till he that dy'd to-day.

This must be so. We pray you, throw to earth
This unprevailing woe, and think of us
As of a father ; for, let the world take note,
You are the most immediate to our throne ;
And, with no less nobility of love,
Than that which dearest father bears his son,
Do I impart toward you. For your intent
In going back to school in Wittenberg,
It is most retrograde to our desire :
And, we beseech you, bend you to remain
Here, in the cheer and comfort of our eye,
Our chiefest courtier, cousin, and our son.

Queen. Let not thy mother lose her prayers, Hamlet ;
I pray thee, stay with us ; go not to Wittenberg.

Ham. I shall in all my best obey you, Madam.

King. Why, 'tis a loving and a fair reply ;
Be as ourself in Denmark.—Madam, come :
This gentle and unforc'd accord of Hamlet
Sits smiling to my heart : in grace whereof,
No sound health, that Denmark drinks to-day

But the great cannon to the clouds shall tell;
 And the king's rouse, the heaven shall bruit again,
 Re-speaking earthly thunder. Come, away. [Exeunt.
Manet Hamlet.

Ham. O, that this too too solid flesh would melt,
 Thaw, and resolve itself into dew!
 Or that the Everlasting had not fix'd
 His canon 'gainst self-slaughter! O God! O God!
 How weary, stale, flat, and unprofitable
 Seem to me all the uses of this world!
 Fie on't! O fie! 'tis an unweeded garden,
 That grows to seed; things rank, and gross in nature,
 Possess it merely. That it should come to this!
 But two months dead!—nay, not so much, not two:
 So excellent a king; that was, to this,
 Hyperion to a satyr: so loving to my mother,
 That he permitted not the winds of heaven
 Visit her face too roughly. Heaven and earth!
 Must I remember? why, she would hang on him,
 As if increase of appetite had grown
 By what it fed on: And yet, within a month,—
 Let me not think on't; ———Frailty, thy name is woman!——

A little month; or e'er those shoes were old,
 With which she follow'd my poor father's body,
 Like Niobe, all tears—why she, even she,—
 O heaven! a beast, that wants discourse of reason,
 Would have mourn'd longer,—marry'd with my uncle,
 My father's brother; but no more like my father,
 Than I to Hercules: Within a month:
 E'er yet the salt of most unrighteous tears
 Had left the flushing in her galled eyes,
 She marry'd.—O most wicked speed, to post
 With such dexterity to incestuous sheets!
 It is not, nor it cannot come to good:
 But break my heart; for I must hold my tongue!

Enter Horatio, Bernardo, and Marcellus.

Hor. Hail to your lordship!

Ham. I am glad to see you well:

Horatio,—or I do forget myself?

Hor. The same, my lord, and your poor servant ever.

Ham. Sir, my good friend; I'll change that name with you,
And what makes you from Wittenberg, Horatio?—
Marcellus?

Mar. My good lord,—

Ham. I am very glad to see you; good even. Sir.—
But what, in faith, make you from Wittenberg?

Hor. A truant disposition, good my lord.

Ham. I would not hear your enemy say so;
Nor shall you do mine ear that violence,
To make it truster of your own report
Against yourself: I know you are no truant.
But what is your affair in Elsinour?

We'll teach you to drink deep, e'er you depart.

Hor. My lord, I came to see your father's funeral.

Ham. I pray thee, do not mock me, fellow-student;
I think, it was to see my mother's wedding.

Hor. Indeed, my lord, it follow'd hard upon't.

Ham. Thrift, thrift, Horatio! the funeral bak'd meats
Did coldly furnish forth the marriage tables.
Would I had met my dearest foe in heaven,
Or ever I had seen that day, Horatio!—
My father,—methinks I see my father.

Hor. O where, my lord?

Ham. In my mind's eye, Horatio.

Hor. I saw him once; he was a goodly king.

Ham. He was a man, take him for all and all,
I shall not look upon his like again.

Hor. My lord, I think I saw him yesternight.

Ham. Saw! who?

Hor. My lord, the king your father.

Ham. The king my father!

Hor. Season your admiration for a while
With an attent ear; 'till I may deliver,
Upon the witness of these gentlemen,
This marvel to you.

Ham. For heaven's love, let me hear.

Hor. Two nights together had these gentlemen,
Marcellus and Bernardo, on their watch,

In the dead waste and middle of the night,
 Been thus encounter'd. A figure like your father,
 Arm'd at all points, exactly, cap-a-pe,
 Appears before them, and, with solemn march,
 Goes slow and stately by them: thrice he walk'd,
 By their opprest and fear-surprized eyes,
 Within his truncheon's length; whilst they distill'd
 Almost to jelly with the act of fear,
 Stand dumb and speak not to him. This to me
 In dreadful secrecy impart they did;
 And I with them, the third night, kept the watch:
 Where, as they had deliver'd, both in time,
 Form of the thing, each word made true and good,
 The apparition comes: I knew your father;
 These hands are not more like.

Ham. But where was this?

Mar. My lord, upon the platform where we watch'd,

Ham. Did you not speak to it?

Hor. My lord, I did;

But answer made it none: yet once, methought,
 It lifted up its head, and did address

Itself to motion, like as it would speak:

But, even then, the morning cock crew loud;

And at the sound it shrunk in haste away,

And vanish'd from our sight.

Ham. 'Tis very strange.

Hor. As I do live, my honour'd lord, 'tis true;
 And we did think it writ down in our duty,

To let you know of it.

Ham. Indeed, indeed, Sirs, but this troubles me.
 Hold you the watch to-night?

All. We do, my lord.

Ham. Arm'd, say you?

All. Arm'd, my lord.

Ham. From top to toe?

All. My lord, from head to foot.

Ham. Then saw you not his face?

Hor. O yes, my lord; he wore his beaver up.

Ham. What, look'd he frowningly?

Hor. A countenance more
In sorrow than in anger.

Ham. Pale, or red?

Hor. Nay, very pale.

Ham. And fix'd his eyes upon you?

Hor. Most constantly.

Ham. I would, I had been there.

Hor. It would have much amaz'd you.

Ham. Very like,

Very like: Stay'd it long?

Hor. While one with moderate haste
Might tell a hundred.

Both. Longer, longer.

Hor. Not when I saw it.

Ham. His beard was grizzl'd? no?

Hor. It was as I have seen it in his life,
A sable silver'd.

Ham. I will watch to-night;
Perchance, 'twill walk again.

Hor. I warrant, it will.

Ham. If it assume my noble father's person,
I'll speak to it, though hell itself should gape,
And bid me hold my peace. I pray you all,
If you have hitherto conceal'd this sight,
Let it be tenable in your silence still;
And whatsoever else shall hap to-night,
Give it an understanding, but no tongue:
I will requite your loves: so fare you well:
Upon the platform, 'twixt eleven and twelve,
I'll visit you.

All. Our duty to your honour.

Ham. Your loves, as mine to you: Farewell. [Exeunt.
My father's spirit in arms! all is not well;
I doubt some foul play: 'would the night were come!
'Till then sit still, my soul: Foul deeds will rise,
(Though all the earth o'erwhelm them) to men's eyes!

[Exit.

SCENE III.

In an apartment in POLONIUS' house. Enter LEARTES and OPHELIA.

Laer. My necessaries are embark'd ; farewell :
And, sister, as the winds give benefit,
And convoy is assistant, do not sleep,
But let me hear from you.

Opb. Do you doubt that ?

Laer. For Hamlet, and the trifling of his favour,
Hold it a fashion, and a toy in blood ;
A violet in the youth of primy nature,
Forward, not permanent, sweet, not lasting,
The perfume and suppliance of a minute ;
No more.

Opb. No more but so ?

Laer. Think it no more :

For nature, crescent, does not grow alone
In shews, and bulk ; but, as this temple waxes,
The inward service of the mind and so you now ;
Grows wide withal. Perhaps he loves
And now no soil, nor cautel, doth besmirch
The virtue of his will : but you must fear,
His greatness weigh'd, his will is not his own ;
For he himself is subject to his birth :
He may not, as unvalued persons do,
Carve for himself ; for on his choice depends
The safety and the health of the whole state ;
And therefore must his choice be circumscrib'd
Unto the voice and yielding of that body,
Whereof he is the head : Then, if he says he loves you,
It fits your wisdom so far to believe it,
As he in his particular act and place
May give his saying deed ; which is no further,
Than the main voice of Denmark goes withal.
Then weigh what loss your honour may sustain,
If with too credent ear you list his songs ;
Or lose your heart ; or your chaste treasure open

To his unmaster'd impertunity,
 Fear it, Ophelia; fear it, my dear sister;
 And keep you in the rear of your affection,
 Out of the shot and danger of desire.
 The chariest maid is prodigal enough,
 If she unmask her beauty to the moon:
 Virtue itself 'scapes not calumnious strokes:
 The canker gauls the infants of the spring,
 Too oft before their buttons be disclos'd;
 And in the morn and liquid dew of youth
 Contagious blastments are most imminent.
 Be wary then: best safety lies in fear;
 Youth to itself rebels, though none else near.

Oph. I shall the effect of this good lesson keep,
 As watchmen to my heart: but, good my brother,
 Do not, as some ungracious pastors do,
 Shew me the steep and thorny way to heaven;
 Whilst, like a puft and reckless libertine,
 Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads,
 And recks not his own read.

Laer. O, fear me not.

I stay too long; but here my father comes.

Enter Polonius.

A double blessing is a double grace;
 Occasion smiles upon a second leave.

Pol. Yet here, Laertes! aboard, aboard, for shame;
 The wind sits in the shoulder of your sail,
 And you are staid for: There,—my blessings with you,
 [Laying his hand on Laertes' head.]

And these few precepts in thy memory
 Look thou character. Give thy thoughts no tongue,
 Nor any unproportion'd thought his act.
 Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.
 The friends thou hast, and their adoption try'd,
 Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel;
 But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
 Of each new-hatch'd unfledg'd comrade. Beware
 Of entrance to a quarrel; but, being in,
 Bear it, that the opposer may beware of thee.

Give every man thine ear, but few thy voice :
 Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgment.
 Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
 But not express'd in fancy ; rich, not gaudy :
 For the apparel oft proclaims the man ;
 And they in France, of the best rank and station,
 Are most select and generous, chief in that.
 Neither a borrower, nor a lender be :
 For loan oft loses both itself and friend ;
 And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.
 This above all. To thine ownself be true ;
 And it must follow, as the night the day,
 Thou canst not then be false to any man.
 Farewell ; my blessings season this in thee !

Laer. Most humbly do I take my leave, my lord.

Pol. The time invites you ; go, your servants tend.

Laer. Farewell, Ophelia ; and remember well

What I have said to you.

Oph. 'Tis in my memory lock'd,

And you yourself shall keep the key of it.

Laer. Farewell.

[Exit Laertes.]

Pol. What is't, Ophelia, he hath said to you ?

Oph. So please you, something touching the lord Hamlet.

Pol. Marry, well bethought :

'Tis told me he hath very oft of late

Given private time to you ; and you yourself

Have of your audience been most free and bounteous :

If it be so, (as so 'tis put on me,

And that in the way of caution), I must tell you,

You do not understand yourself so clearly,

As it behoves my daughter, and your honour :

What is between you ? give me up the truth.

Oph. He hath, my lord of late made many tenders
 Of his affection to me.

Pol. Affection ! puh you speak like a green girl,
 Unsifted in such perilous circumstance.

Do you believe his tenders, as you call them ?

Oph. I do not know, my lord, what I should think,

Pol. Marry, I'll teach you : think yourself a baby,

Cruikshank sculp.

Ham. — *It wounds me still!
Go on: I'll follow thee.*

That you have ta'en these tenders for true pay,
Which are not sterling. Tender yourself more dearly;
Or (not to crack the wind of the poor phrase Wronging it thus), you'll tender me a fool.

Oph. My lord, he hath importun'd me with love;
In honourable fashion.

Pol. Ay, fashion you may call it; go to, go to.

Oph. And hath given countenance to his speech, my lord,
With almost all the holy vows of heaven.

Pol. Ay, springs to catch woodcocks. I do not know,
When the blood burns, how prodigal the soul
Lends the tongue vows: These blazes, daughter,
Giving more light than heat,—extinct, in both,
Even in their promise, as it is a making,—
You must not take for fire. From this time,
Be somewhat scancer of your maiden presence;
Set your entreatments at a higher rate,
Than a command to parley. For lord Hamlet,
Believe so much in him, that he is young;
And with a larger tether may he walk,
Than may be given you. In few, Ophelia,
Do not believe his vows: for they are brokers;
Not of that die which their investments shew,
But mere implorators of unholy suits,
Breathing like sanctified and pious bonds,
The better to beguile. This is for all,—
I would not in plain terms, from this time forth,
Have you so slander any moment's leisure,
As to give words or talk with the lord Hamlet.
Look to't, I charge you; come your ways.

Oph. I shall obey, my lord.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE IV.

The Platform. Enter HAMLET, HORATIO, and MARCELLUS.

Ham. The air bites shrewdly; it is very cold.

Hor. It is a nipping and an eager air.

Ham. What hour now?

Hor. I think it lacks of twelve.

Mar. No, it is struck.

Hor. Indeed? I heard it not: It then draws near the Wherein the spirit held his wont to walk. [season,

[Noise of music within.

What does this mean, my lord?

Ham. The king doth wake to-night, and takes his rouse,
Keeps wassel, and the swaggering up-spring reels;
And, as he drains his draughts of Rhenish down,
The kettle-drum, and trumpet, thus bray out
The triumph of his pledge.

Hor. Is it a custom?

Ham. Ay, marry, is't:

But, to my mind,—though I am native here,
And to the manner born,—it is a custom
More honour'd in the breach, than the observance.
This heavy-headed revel, east and west,
Makes us traduc'd, and tax'd of other nations:
They clepe us drunkards, and with swinish phrase
Soil our addition; and, indeed, it takes
From our achievements, though perform'd at height,
The pith and marrow of our attribute.
So, oft it chanches in particular men,
That, for some vicious mole of nature in them,
As, in their birth (wherein they are not guilty,
Since nature cannot choose his origin),
By the o'ergrowth of some complexion,
Soft breaking down the pales and sorts of reason;
Or by some habit, that too much o'er-leavens
The form of plausible manners;—that these men,——
Carrying, I say, the stamp of one defect;
Being nature's livery, or fortune's star,——
Their virtues else (be they as pure as grace,
As infinite as man may undergo)
Shall in the general censure take corruption
From that particular fault. The dram of base
Doth all the noble substance of worth out,
To his own scandal.

Enter Ghost.

Hor. Look, my lord, it comes!

Ham. Angels and ministers of grace defend us!—

Be thou a spirit of health, or goblin damn'd,
Bring with thee airs from heaven, or blasts from hell;
Be thy intents wicked, or charitable,
Thou com'st in such a questionable shape,
That I will speak to thee: I'll call thee, Hamlet,
King, father, royal Dane; O, answer me!
Let me not burst in ignorance! but tell,
Why thy canoniz'd bones, hearsed in death,
Have burst their cerements? why the sepulchre,
Wherein we saw thee quietly in-urn'd,
Hath op'd his ponderous and marble jaws,
'To cast thee up again? What may this mean,—
That thou, dead corse, again, in complete steel,
Revisit'st thus the glimpses of the moon,
Making night hideous: and we fools of nature,
So horribly to shake our disposition,
With thoughts beyond the reaches of our souls?
Say, why is this? wherefore? what should we do?

Hor. It beckons you to go away with it,
As if it some impartment did desire
To you alone.

Mar. Look, with what courteous action
It waves you to a more removed ground:
But do not go with it.

Hor. No, by no means.

Ham. It will not speak; then I will follow it.

Hor. Do not, my lord.

Ham. Why, what should be the fear?
I do not set my life at a pin's fee;
And, for my soul, what can it do to that,
Being a thing immortal as itself?
It waves me forth again;—I'll follow it.

Hor. What, if it tempt you toward the flood, my lord,
Or to the dreadful summit of the cliff,
That beetles o'er his base into the sea,
And there assume some other horrible form,

Which might deprive your sovereignty of reason,
 And draw you into madness? think of it:
 (The very place puts toys of desperation,
 Without more motive, into every brain,
 That looks so many fathoms to the sea,
 And hears it roar beneath).

Ham. It waves me still :—

Go on, I'll follow thee.

Mar. You shall not go, my lord.

Ham. Hold off your hands.

Hor. Be rul'd ; you shall not go.

Ham. My fate cries out,

And makes each petty artery in this body

As hardy as the Nemean lion's nerve.—

Still am I call'd—unband me, gentlemen ;—

[Breaking from them.]

By heaven, I'll make a ghost of him that lets me :—

I say, away :—Go on,—I'll follow thee.

[Exeunt Ghost and Hamlet.]

Hor. He waxes desperate with imagination.

Mar. Let's follow ; 'tis not fit thus to obey him.

Hor. Have after :—To what issue will this come ?

Mar. Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.

Hor. Heaven will direct it.

Mar. Nay, let's follow him.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE V.

A more remote part of the platform. Re-enter Ghost, and HAMLET.

Ham. Whither wilt thou lead me? speak, I'll go no

Ghost. Mark me. [further.]

Ham. I will.

Ghost. My hour is almost come,

When I to sulphurous and tormenting flames
 Must render up myself.

Ham. Alas, poor ghost!

Ghost. Pity me not, but lend thy serious hearing
To what I shall unfold.

Ham. Speak ; I am bound to hear.

Ghost. So art thou to revenge, when thou shalt hear.

Ham. What ?

Ghost. I am thy father's spirit ;
Doom'd for a certain term to walk the night ;
And, for the day, confin'd to fast in fires,
'Till the foul crimes, done in my days of nature,
Are burnt and purg'd away. But that I am forbid
To tell the secrets of my prison-house,
I could a tale unfold, whose lightest word
Would harrow up the soul ; freeze thy young blood ;
Make thy two eyes, like stars, start from their spheres ;
Thy knotty and combined locks to part,
And each particular hair to stand on end
Like quills upon the fretful porcupine :
But this eternal blazon must not be
To ears of flesh and blood ;—List, list, O list !—
If thou didst ever thy dear father love,—

Ham. O heaven !

Ghost. Revenge his foul and most unnatural murder.

Ham. Murder !

Ghost. Murder most foul, as in the best it is ;
But this most foul, strange, and unnatural.

Ham. Haste me to know it ; that I, with wings as swift
As meditation, or the thoughts of love,
May sweep to my revenge.

Ghost. I find thee apt ;
And duller should'st thou be than the fat weed
That rots itself in ease on Lethe's wharf,
Wouldst thou not stir in this. Now, Hamlet, hear :
'Tis given out, that, sleeping in my orchard,
A serpent stung me ; so the whole ear of Denmark
Is by a forged process of my death
Rankly abus'd : but know, thou noble youth,
The serpent that did sting thy father's life,
Now wears his crown.

Ham. O, my prophetic soul ! my uncle ?

Ghost. Ay, that incestuous, that adulterate beast,
 With witchcraft of his wit, with traiterous gifts,
 (O wicked wit, and gifts, that have the power
 So to seduce!) won to his shameful lust
 The will of my most seeming virtuous queen:
 O, Hamlet, what a falling off was there!
 From me, whose love was of that dignity,
 'That it went hand in hand even with the vow
 I made to her in marriage; and to decline
 Upon a wretch whose natural gifts were poor
 To those of mine!

But virtue, as it never will be mov'd,
 Though lewdness court it in a shape of heaven;
 So lust, though to a radiant angel link'd,
 Will sate itself in a celestial bed,
 And prey on garbage.

But, soft! methinks I scent the morning air—
 Brief let me be:—Sleeping within mine orchard,
 My custom always of the afternoon,
 Upon my secure hour thy uncle stole,
 With juice of cursed hebenon in a vial,
 And in the porches of mine ears did pour
 The leperous distilment; whose effect
 Holds such an enmity with blood of man,
 That, swift as quicksilver, it courses through
 The natural gates and alleys of the body;
 And, with a sudden vigour, it doth posset
 And curd, like eager droppings into milk,
 The thin and wholesome blood: so did it mine;
 And a most instant tetter bark'd about,
 Most lazar like, with vile and loathsome crust,
 All my smooth body.

Thus was I, sleeping, by a brother's hand,
 Of life, of crown, of queen, at once dispatch'd:
 Cut-off, even in the blossoms of my sin,
 Unhousell'd, disappointed, unaneal'd;
 No reckoning made, but sent to my account
 With all my imperfections on my head:
 O, horrible! O, horrible! most horrible!

If thou hast nature in thee, bear it not ;
 Let not the royal bed of Denmark be
 A couch for luxury and damned incest.
 But, howsoever thou pursu'st this act,
 Taint not thy mind, nor let thy soul contrive
 Against thy mother aught ; leave her to heaven,
 And to those thorns that in her bosom lodge,
 To prick and sting her. Fare thee well at once !
 The glow-worm shews the matin to be near,
 And 'gins to pale his uneffectual fire :
 Adieu, adieu, adieu ! remember me. [Exit.

Ham. O, all you host of heaven ! O earth ! What else ?
 And shall I couple hell ?—O fie !—Hold, hold, my heart ;
 And you, my sinews, grow not instant old,
 But bear me stify up !—Remember thee !
 Ay, thou poor ghost, while memory holds a seat
 In this distracted globe. Remember thee !
 Yea, from the table of my memory
 I'll wipe away all trivial fond records,
 All saws of books, all forms, all pressures past,
 That youth and observation copied there ;
 And thy commandment all alone shall live
 Within the book and volume of my brain,
 Unmix'd with baser matter : yes, by heaven.
 O most pernicious woman !
 O villain, villain, smiling, damned villain !
 My tables,—meet it is, I set it down,
 That one may smile, and smile, and be a villain ;
 At least, I'm sure, it may be so in Denmark : [Writing.
 So, uncle, there you are. Now to my word ;
 It is, Adieu, adieu, adieu ! remember me.
 I have sworn it.

Hgr. My lord, my lord,—— [Within.

Mar. Lord Hamlet,—— [Within.

Hor. Heaven secure him ! [Within.

Ham. So be it !

Mar. Hillo, ho, ho, my lord ! [Within.

Ham. Hillo, ho, ho, boy ! come, bird, come.

Enter Horatio and Marcellus.

Mar. How is't, my noble lord?

Hor. What news, my lord?

Ham. O, wonderful!

Hor. Good my lord, tell it.

Ham. No; you will reveal it.

Hor. Not I, my lord, by heaven.

Mar. Nor I, my lord.

Ham. How say you then? would heart of man once
But you'll be secret—— [think it?—

Both. Ay, by heaven, my lord.

Ham. There's not a villain dwelling in all Denmark,
But he's an arrant knave.

Hor. There needs no ghost, my lord, come from the
To tell us this. [grave,

Ham. Why, right; you are in the right;
And so, without more circumstance at all,
I hold it fit, that we shake hands, and part:
You, as your business and desire shall point you;—
For every man hath business, and desire,
Such as it is,—and, for my own poor part,
Look you, I will go pray.

Hor. These are but wild and whirling words, my lord.

Ham. I am sorry they offend you, heartily;
Yes, 'faith, heartily.

Hor. There's no offence, my lord.

Ham. Yes by saint Patrick, but there is, Horatio,
And much offence too. Touching this vision here,—
It is an honest ghost, that let me tell you:
For your desire to know what is between us,
O'er-master it as you may. And now, good friends,
As you are friends, scholars, and soldiers,
Give me one poor request.

Hor. What is't, my lord? we will.

Ham. Never make known what you have seen to-night.

Both. My lord, we will not.

Ham. Nay, but swear it.

Hor. In faith, my lord, not I.

Mar. Nor I, my lord, in faith.

Ham. Upon my sword.

Mar. We have sworn, my lord, already.

Ham. Indeed, upon my sword, indeed.

Ghost. [beneath] Swear. (truepenny?)

Ham. Ha, ha, boy! sayst thou so? art thou there,
Come on,—you hear this fellow in the cellaridge,—
Consent to swear.

Hor. Propose the oath, my lord.

Ham. Never to speak of this that you have seen,
Swear by my sword.

Ghost. (beneath) Swear.

Ham. Hic & ubique? then we'll shift our ground:—
Come hither, gentlemen,
And lay your hands again upon my sword:
Swear by my sword,
Never to speak of this that you have heard.

Ghost. (beneath) Swear by his sword.

Ham. Well said, old mole; can'st work i' the earth so fast?
A worthy pioneer! Once more remove, good friends.

Hor. O day and night, but this is wondrous strange!

Ham. And therefore as a stranger give it welcome.
There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio,
Than are dreamt of in your philosophy.

But come;—

Swear, as before, never, so help you mercy!

How strange or odd soe'er I bear myself,—

As I, perchance, hereafter shall think meet

To put an antic disposition on,—

That you, at such times seeing me, never shall (With arms encumber'd thus; or this head-shake;

Or by pronouncing of some doubtful phrase,

As, Well, well, we know;—or, We could, an if we would;

—or, If we list to speak;—or, There be, and if there might;—

Or such ambiguous giving out), denote

That you know aught of me. This do ye swear,

So grace and mercy at your most need help you!

Swear.

Ghost. (beneath) Swear.

Ham. Rest, rest perturbed spirit!—So, gentlemen,
 With all my love I do commend me to you:
 And what so poor a man as Hamlet is
 May do, to express his love and befriending to you,
 God willing, shall not lack. Let us go in together;
 And still your fingers on your lips, I pray.
 The time is out of joint:—O cursed spight!
 That ever I was born to set it right!—
 Nay, come, let's go together.

[Exeunt.]

ACT II.—SCENE I.

An apartment in POLONIUS' house. Enter POLONIUS and REYNALDO.

Pol. GIVE him this money, and these notes, Reynaldo.

Rey. I will, my lord.

Pol. You shall do marvellous wisely, good Reynaldo,
 Before you visit him, to make inquiry
 Of his behaviour.

Rey. My lord, I did intend it.

Pol. Marry, well said; very well said. Look you, sir,
 Inquire me first what Danskers are in Paris;
 And how, and who, went means, and where they keep,
 What company, at what expence; and finding,
 By this encompassment, and drift of question,
 That they do know my son, come you more nearer;
 Then your particular demands will touch it:
 Take you, as 'twere, some distant knowledge of him;
 As thus,—I know his father, and his friends,
And, in part, him:—Do you mark this, Reynaldo?

Rey. Ay, very well, my lord.

Pol. And in part him;—but you may say,—not well;
But if 't be he I mean, he's very wild;
Addicted so and so;—and there put on him
 What forgeries you please; marry, none so rank
 As may dishonour him; take heed of that;

But, sir, such wanton, wild, and usual slips,
As are companions noted and most known
To youth and liberty.

Key. As gaming, my lord.

Pol. Ay, or drinking, fencing, swearing,*
Quarrelling, drabbing :—You may go so far.

Key. My lord, that would dishonour him.

Pol. 'Faith, no ; as you may season it in the charge.
You must not put another scandal on him,
That he is open to incontinency ;
That's not my meaning ; but breathe his faults so quaintly,
'That they may seem the taints of liberty ;
'The flash and out-break of a fiery mind ;
A savageness in unreclaimed blood,
Of general assault.

Key. But, my good lord,——

Pol. Wherefore should you do this ?

Key. Ay, my lord,
I would know that.

Pol. Marry, sir, here's my draft ;
And I believe it is a fetch of warrant :
You laying these slight sallies on my son,
As 'twere a thing a little soil'd i' the working,
Mark you your party in converse, him you would sound,
Having ever seen, in the prenominate crimes,
The youth you speak of guilty, be assur'd,
He closes with you in this consequence ;
Good sir, or so ; or friend, or gentleman,——
According to the phrase, or the addition,
Of man, and country.

Key. Very good, my lord.

Pol. And then, sir, does he this ?—He does—What was I
About to say ? I was about to say
Something : Where did I leave ?

Key. At closes in the consequence,
At, friend or so, or gentleman.

Pol. At, closes in the consequence,—Ab, marry ;
He closes with you thus :—I know the gentleman :
I saw him yesterday, or t' other day,

*Or then, or then; with such, or such; and, as you say,
There was he gaming, these o'ertook in's house,
There falling out at tennis: or, perchance,
I saw him enter such a house of sale,
(Videlicet a brothel) or so forth.—See you now;
Your bait of falsehood takes this carp of truth;
And thus do we of wisdom and of reach,
With windlasses, and with assays of bias,
By indirections find directions out;
So, by my former lecture and advice,
Shall you my son: You have me, have you not?*

Key. My lord, I have.

Pol. God be wi' you; fare you well.

Key. Good my lord——

Pol. Observe his inclination in yourself.

Key. I shall, my lord.

Pol. And let him play his music.

Key. Well, my lord.

[Exit.

Enter Ophelia.

Pol. Farewell.—How now, Ophelia? what's the matter?

Oph. O, my lord, I have been so affrighted!

Pol. With what, in the name of heaven?

Oph. My lord, as I was sewing in my closet,
Lord Hamlet,—with his doublet all unbrac'd;
Ungarter'd, and down-gyved to his ankle;
Pale as his shirt; his knees knocking each other,
And with a look so piteous in purport,
As if he had been loosed out of hell,
To speak of horrors,—he comes before me.

Pol. Mad for thy love?

Oph. My lord, I do not know;
But, truly, I do fear it.

Pol. What said he?

Oph. He took me by the wrist, and held me hard;
Then goes he to the length of all his arm;
And, with his other hand thus o'er his brow,
He falls to such perusal of my face,
As he would draw it. Long staid he so;
At last,—a little shaking of mine arm,

And thrice his head thus waving up and down,—
 He rais'd a sigh so piteous and profound,
 As it did seem to shatter all his bulk,
 And end his being; 'That done, he lets me go;
 And, with his head over his shoulder turn'd,
 He seem'd to find his way without his eyes;
 For out o' doors he went without their help,
 And to the last, bended their light on me.

Pol. Come, go with me; I will go seek the king.
 This is the very extacy of love;
 Whose violent property foredoes itself,
 And lends his will to desperate undertakings,
 As oft as any passion under heaven,
 That does afflict our natures. I am sorry:—
 What, have you given him any hard words of late?

Oph. No, my good lord; but, as you did command,
 I did repel his letters, and deny'd
 His access to me.

Pol. That hath mad him made,
 I am sorry, that with better head, and judgment,
 I had not quoted him; I fear'd he did but trifle,
 And meant to wreck thee; but, beshrew my jealousy!
 It seems, it is as proper to our age
 To cast beyond ourselves in our opinions,
 As it is common for the younger sort
 To lack discretion. Come, go we to the king;
 This must be known; which, being kept close, might
 More grief to hide, than hate to utter love, {move
 Come. {Exeunt.

SCENE II.

The palace. Enter the King, Queen, ROSENCRANTZ, GUILDENSTERN, and Attendants.

King. Welcome, dear Rosencrantz, and Guildenstern.
 Moreover that we much did long to see you,
 The need we have to use you, did provoke

Our hasty sending. Something have you heard
 Of Hamlet's transformation; so I call it,
 Since not the exterior nor the inward man
 Resembles that it was; What it should be,
 More than his father's death, that thus hath put him
 So much from the understanding of himself,
 I cannot dream of: I intreat you both,
 That—being of so young days brought up with him,
 And, since, so neighbour'd to his youth and humour,—
 That you vouchsafe your rest here in our court
 Some little time: so by your companies
 To draw him on to pleasures; and to gather,
 So much as from occasion you may glean,
 Whether aught, to us unknown, afflicts him thus,
 That, open'd, lies within our remedy.

Queen. Good gentlemen, he hath much talk'd of you:
 And, sure I am, two men there are not living
 To whom he more adheres. If it will please you
 To shew us so much gentry, and good will,
 As to expend your time with us a while,
 For the supply and profit of our hope,
 Your visitation shall receive such thanks
 As fits a king's remembrance.

Ros. Both your majesties
 Might, by the sovereign power you have of us,
 Put your dread pleasures more into command
 Than to entreaty.

Guil. But we both obey;
 And here give up ourselves, in the full bent,
 To lay our service freely at your feet,
 To be commanded.

King. Thanks Rosencrantz, and gentle Guildenstern.

Queen. Thanks, Guildenstern, and gentle Rosencrantz:
 And I beseech you instantly to visit
 My too much changed son.—Go, some of you,
 And bring these gentlemen where Hamlet is.

Guil. Heavens make our presence, and our practices
 Pleasant and helpful to him! [Exit Ros. and Guil.]

Queen. Ay, amen!

Enter Polonius.

Pol. The ambassadors from Norway, my good lord,
Are joyfully returned.

King. Thou still hast been the father of good news.

Pol. Have I, my lord? Assure you, my good liege,
I hold my duty, as I hold my soul,
Both to my God, and to my gracious king:
And I do think (or else this brain of mine
Hunts not the trail of policy so sure
As it hath us'd to do,) that I have found
The very cause of Hamlet's lunacy.

King. O, speak of that; that I do long to hear.

Pol. Give first admittance to the ambassadors;
My news shall be the fruit to that great feast.

King. Thyself do grace to them, and bring them in.

{Exit Polonius.

He tells me, my dear Gertrude, he hath found
The head and source of all your son's distemper.

Queen. I doubt, it is no other but the main;
His father's death, and our o'er hasty marriage.

Re-enter Polonius, with Voltimand and Cornelius.

King. Well, we shall sift him.—Welcome, my good friends!

Say, Voltimand, what from our brother Norway?

Volt. Most fair return of greetings and desires.
Upon our first, he sent out to suppress
His nephew's levies; which to him appear'd
To be a preparation 'gainst the Polack;
But, better look'd into, he truly found
It was against your highness. Whereat griev'd—
That so his sickness, age, and impotence,
Was falsely born in hand,—sends out arrests
On Fortinbras; which he, in brief, obeys;
Receives rebuke from Norway; and, in fine,
Makes vow before his uncle, never more
To give the essay of arms against your majesty.
Whereon old Norway, overcome with joy,
Gives him threescore thousand crowns in annual fee;
And his commission to employ those soldiers,

So levied as before, against the Polack :
 With an entreaty, herein further shewn,
 That it might please you to give quiet pass
 Through your dominions for this enterprise ;
 On such regards of safety and allowance,
 As therein are set down.

King. It likes us well ;

And, at our more consider'd time, we'll read,
 Answer and think upon this business.

Mean time, we thank you for your well-took labour ;
 Go to your rest ; at night we'll feast together ;
 Most welcome home !

[Exeunt Volt. and Cor.]

Pol. This business is well ended.

My liege, and madam, to expostulate
 What majesty should be, what duty is,
 Why day is day, night night, and time is time ;
 Were nothing but to waste night, day, and time,
 Therefore,—since brevity is the soul of wit,
 And tediousness the limbs and outward flourishes ;—
 I will be brief : Your noble son is mad :
 Mad call I it ; for, to define true madness,
 What is't, but to be nothing else but mad :
 But let that go.

Queen. More matter, with less art.

Pol. Madam, I swear, I use no art at all.—

That he is mad, 'tis true : 'tis true, 'tis pity ;
 And pity 'tis, 'tis true : a foolish figure ;
 But farewell it for I will use no art.
 Mad let us grant him then : and now remains,
 That we find out the cause of this effect ;
 Or, rather say, the cause of this defect :
 For this effect, defective, comes by cause :
 Thus it remains, and the remainder thus perpend
 I have a daughter ; have, whilst she is mine ;
 Who, in her duty and obedience, mark,
 Hath given me this : Now gather, and surmise.

(He opens a letter, and reads.)

To the celestial, and my soul's idol, the most beautified Ophelia.—

That's an ill phrase, a vile phrase; beautify'd
Is a vile phrase; but you shall hear:—

These in her excellent white bosom, these, &c.—

Queen. Came this from Hamlet to her?

Pol. Good madam, stay a while; I will be faithful—

Doubt thou, the stars are fire;

[Reading.

Doubt, that the sun doth move;

Doubt truth to be a liar;

But never doubt I love.

O dear Ophelia, I am ill at these numbers; I have not art to reckon my groans: but that I love thee best, O most best, believe it. Adieu.

Thine ever more, most dear lady, whilst this machine is to him, HAMLET.

This, in obedience, hath my daughter shewn me:
And, more above, hath his solicitings
As they fell out by time, by means, and place,
All given to mine ear.

King. But how hath she Receiv'd his love?

Pol. What do you think of me?

King. As of a man faithful and honourable.

Pol. I would fain prove so. But what might you think,
When I had seen this hot love on the wing
(As I perceiv'd it, I must tell you that,
Before my daughter told me), what might you,
Or my dear majesty, your queen here, think,
If I had play'd the desk or table-book;
Or given my heart a working, mute and dumb;
Or look'd upon this love with idle sight?
What might you think? no, I went round to work,
And my young mistress thus I did bespeak;
Lord Hamlet is a prince:—out of thy sphere;
This must not be: and then I precepts gave her,
That she should lock herself from his resort,
Admit no messengers, receive no tokens.

Which done, she took the fruits of my advice ;
 And he, repulsed (a short tale to make),
 Fell into a sadness ; then into a fast ;
 Thence to a watch ; thence into a weakness ;
 Thence to a lightness : and, by this declension,
 Into the madness wherein now he raves,
 And all we mourn for.

King. Do you think 'tis this ?

Queen. It may be very likely.

Pol. Hath there been such a time (I'd fain know that),
 That I have positively said, 'Tis so,
 When it prov'd otherwise ?

King. Not that I know.

Pol. Take this from this, if this be otherwise :

[Pointing to his head and shoulder.

If circumstances lead me, I will find
 Where truth is hid, though it were hid indeed
 Within the centre.

King. How may we try it further ?

Pol. You know sometimes he walks four hours together,
 Here in the lobby.

Queen. So he does indeed.

Pol. At such a time I'll loose my daughter to him :
 Be you and I behind an arras then ;
 Mark the encounter : if he love her not,
 And be not from his reason fallen thereon,
 Let me be no assistant for a state,
 But keep a farm and carters.

King. We will try it.

Enter Hamlet reading.

Queen. But look, where sadly the poor wretch comes

Pol. Away, I do beseech you, both away ; [reading.
 I'll board him presently :—O, give me leave.—

(Exeunt King and Queen.

How does my good lord Hamlet ?

Ham. Well, god-a'mercy.

Pol. Do you know me, my lord ?

Ham. Excellent well ;

You are a fishmonger.

Pol. Not I, my lord?

Ham. Then I would you were so honest a man.

Pol. Honest, my lord?

Ham. Ay, Sir; to be honest as this world goes,
Is to be one man pick'd out of ten thousand.

Pol. That's very true, my lord.

Ham. For if the sun breed maggots in a dead dog,
Being a god, kissing carrion.—Have you a daughter?

Pol. I have, my lord.

Ham. Let her not walk i' the sun: conception is a blessing;
but not as your daughter may conceive: friend, look to't.

Pol. How say you by that? [Aside.] Still harping on my daughter:—yet he knew me not at first; he said, I was a fishmonger: He is far gone, far gone; and, truly, in my youth I suffered much extremity for love; very near this.—I'll speak to him again—What do you read, my lord?

Ham. Words, words, words!

Pol. What is the matter, my lord?

Ham. Between who?

Pol. I mean the matter that you read, my lord.

Ham. Slanders, Sir: for the satirical rogue says here, that old men have grey-beards; that their faces are wrinkled; their eyes purging thick amber, and plum-tree gum; and that they have a plentiful lack of wit, together with most weak hams: All which, Sir, though I most powerfully and potently believe, yet I hold it not honesty to have it thus set down; for yourself, Sir, shall be as old as I am, if, like a crab, you could go backward.

Pol. Tho' this be madness, yet there's method in't. [Aside.]
Will you walk out of the air, my lord?

Ham. Into my grave!

Pol. Indeed, that is out o' the air.—How pregnant sometimes his replies are! a happiness that often madness hits on, which reason and sanity could not so prosperously be deliver'd of. I will leave him, and suddenly contrive the means of meeting between him and my daughter.—My honourable lord, I will most humbly take my leave of you.

Ham. You cannot, Sir, take from me any thing that I will more willingly part withal; except my life, except my life, except my life.

Pol. Fare you well, my lord.

Ham. These tedious old fools!

Enter Rosencrantz, and Guildenstern.

Pol. You go to seek the lord Hamlet: there he is. [Exit.]

Ros. God save you, Sir!

Guil. Mine honour'd lord!—

Ros. My most dear lord!—

Ham. My excellent good friends! How dost thou, Guildenstern? Ah, Rosencrantz! Good lads; how do you both?

Ros. As the indifferent children of the earth.

Guil. Happy, in that we are not over-happy,
On fortune's cap we are not the very button.

Ham. Nor the soles of her shoe.

Ros. Neither, my lord.

Ham. Then you live about her waist, or in the middle of her favours.

Guil. 'Faith, her privates we.

Ham. In the secret parts of fortune? O, most true; she is a strumpet. What news?

Ros. None, my lord; but that the world's grown honest.

Ham. Then is doomsday near: But your news is not true. [Let me question more in particular: What have you, my good friends, deserved at the hands of fortune, that she sends you to prison hither?]

Guil. Prison, my lord!

Ham. Denmark's a prison.

Ros. Then is the world one.

Ham. A goodly one; in which there are many confines, wards, and dungeons; Denmark being one of the worst.

Ros. We think not so, my lord.

Ham. Why, then 'tis none to you; for there is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so: to me it is a prison.

Ros. Why, then your ambition makes it one; 'tis too narrow for your mind.

Ham. O God! I could be bounded in a nut-shell, and count myself a king of infinite space; were it not that I have bad dreams.

Guil. Which dreams, indeed, are ambition: for the very substance of the ambitious is merely the shadow of a dream.

Ham. A dream itself is but a shadow.

Ros. Truly, and I hold ambition of so airy and light a quality, that it is but a shadow's shadow.

Ham. Then are our beggars' bodies; and our monarchs, and out-stretch'd heroes, the beggars' shadows: Shall we to the court? for, by my fay, I cannot reason.

Both. We'll wait upon you.

Ham. No such matter: I will not sort you with the rest of my servants; for, to speak to you like an honest man, I am most dreadfully attended. But, in the beaten way of friendship, what make you at Elsinour?

Ros. To visit you, my lord; no other occasion.

Ham. Beggar that I am, I am even poor in thanks; but I thank you: and sure, dear friends, my thanks are too dear at a halfpenny. Were you not sent for? Is it your own inclining? Is it a free visitation? Come, come; deal justly with me: come, come; nay, speak.

Guil. What should we say, my lord?

Ham. Any thing.—But to the purpose—you were sent for; and there is a kind of confession in your looks, which your modesties have not craft enough to colour: I know the good king and queen have sent you.

Ros. To what end, my lord?

Ham. That you must teach me. But let me conjure you, by the rights of our fellowship, by the consonancy of our youth, by the obligation of our ever-preserved love, and by what more dear a better proposer could charge you withal, be even and direct with me, whether you were sent for, or no?

Ros. What say you?

[To Guild.

Ham. Nay, then I have an eye of you;—if you love me, hold not off.

Guil. My lord, we were sent for.

Ham. I will tell you why; so shall my anticipation prevent your discovery, and your secrecy to the king and queen moult no feather. I have of late (but wherefore I know not), lost all my mirth, forgone all custom of exercises; and, indeed, it goes so heavily with my disposition, that this goodly frame, the earth, seems to me a steril promontory; this most excellent canopy, the air, look you, this brave o'er-hanging firmament, this majestical roof fretted with golden fire, why, it appears no other thing to me, than a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours. What a piece of work is a man! How noble in reason! how infinite in faculties? in form, and moving, how express and admirable! in action, how like an angel! in apprehension, how like a god! the beauty of the world! the paragon of animals! And yet, to me, what is this quintessence of dust! man delights not me, —nor woman neither: though, by your smiling, you seem to say so.

Ros. My lord, there was no such stuff in my thoughts.

Ham. Why did you laugh then, when I said, Man delights not me?

Ros. To think, my lord, if you delight not in man, what lenten entertainment the players shall receive from you: we coted them on the way; and hither are they coming, to offer you service.

Ham. He that plays the king shall be welcome; his majesty shall have tribute of me: the adventurous knight shall use his foil and target: the lover shall not sigh gratis; the humourous man shall end his part in peace: the clown shall make those laugh, whose lungs are tickled o' the sere: and the lady shall say her mind freely, or the blank verse shall halt for't.—What players are they?

Ros. Even those you were wont to take such delight in, the tragedians of the city.

Ham. How chances it, they travel? their residence, both in reputation and profit, was better both ways.

Ros. I think their inhibition comes by the means of the late innovation.

Ham. Do they hold the same estimation they did when I was in the city? Are they so follow'd?

Ros. No, indeed, they are not.

Ham. How comes it? Do they grow rusty?

Ros. Nay, their endeavour keeps in the wonted pace: But there is, Sir, an aiery of children, little cyases, that cry out on the top of question, and are most tyrannically clapp'd for't; these are now the fashion; and so berattle the common stages (so they call them), that many, wearing rapiers, are afraid of goose-quills, and dare scarce come thither.

Ham. What, are they children? Who maintains them? how are they escoted? Will they pursue the quality no longer than they can sing? will they not say afterwards, if they should grow themselves to common players (as it is most like if their means are no better), their writers do them wrong, to make them exclaim against their own succession?

Ros. Faith, there has been much to do on both sides; and the nation holds it no sin, to tarre them on to controversy: There was, for a while, no money bid for argument, unless the poet and the player went to cuffs in the question.

Ham. Is it possible?

Guil. O, there has been much throwing about of brains.

Ham. Do the boys carry it away?

Ros. Ay, that they do, my lord; Hercules and his load too.

Ham. It is not very strange: for my uncle is king of Denmark; and those, that would make mouths at him while my father lived, give twenty, forty, fifty, an hundred ducats a piece, for his picture in little. 'Sblood there is something in this more than natural, if philosophy could find it out.

[Flourish of trumpets.]

Guil. There are the players.

Ham. Gentlemen, you are welcome to Elsinour. Your hands. Come then: the appurtenance of welcome is fashion and ceremony: let me comply with you in this garb; lest my extent to the players, which I tell you must show fairly outward, should more appear like entertainment than yours. You are welcome: but my uncle-father, and aunt-mother, are deceived.

Guil. In what, my dear lord ?

Ham. I am but mad north-north-west : when the wind is southerly, I know a hawk from a hand-saw.

Enter Polonius.

Pol. Well be with you, gentlemen !

Ham. Hark you, Guildenstern ;—and you too ;—at each ear a hearer : that great baby, you see there, is not yet out of his swadling-clouts.

Ros. Haply, he's the second time come to them ; for, they say, an old man is twice a child.

Ham. I will prophecy, he comes to tell me of the players ; mark it. You say right, Sir : o' Monday morning ; 'twas then, indeed.

Pol. My lord, I have news to tell you.

Ham. My lord, I have news to tell you.—When Roscius was an actor in Rome——

Pol. The actors are come hither, my lord.

Ham. Buz, buz !

Pol. Upon mine honour——

Ham. Then came each actor on his ass.

Pol. The best actors in the world, either for tragedy, comedy, history, pastoral, pastoral-comical, historical-pastoral, tragical-historical, tragical-comical, historical-pastoral, scene individable, or poem unlimited : Seneca cannot be too heavy, nor Plautus too light : For the law of wit, and the liberty, these are the only men.

Ham. O Jephtha, judge of Israel,—what a treasure hadst thou ?

Pol. What a treasure had he, my lord ?

Ham. Why——One fair daughter, and no more,
The which he loved passing well.

Pol. Still on my daughter.

[Aside

Ham. Am I not i' the right, old Jephtha ?

Pol. If you call me Jephtha, my lord, I have a daughter, that I love passing well.

Ham. Nay, that follows not.

Pol. What follows then, my lord ?

Ham. Why, As by lot, God wot,——and then, you know, It came to pass, as most like it was.——The first row of the pious chanson will shew you more ; for look, my abridgement comes.

Enter four or five Players.

You are welcome, masters ; welcome, all :—I am glad to see thee well,—welcome, good friends.—O, old friend ! Why, thy face is valanced since I saw thee last ; Com'st thou to beard me in Denmark ? What, my young lady and mistress ! By-'r-lady, your ladyship is nearer to heaven than when I saw you last, by the altitude of a chopine. Pray God, your voice, like a piece of uncurrent gold, be not crack'd within the ring.—Masters, you are all welcome. We'll e'en to't like French falconers, fly at any thing we see : We'll have a speech straight.—Come give us a taste of your quality ; come, a passionate speech.

1 Play. What speech, my lord ?

Ham. I heard thee speak me a speech once,—but it was never acted ; or, if it was, not above once : for the play, I remember, pleased not the million ; 'twas caviate to the general : but it was (as I receiv'd it, and others, whose judgments, in such matters, cried in the top of mine) an excellent play ; well digested in the scenes, set down with as much modesty as cunning. I remember, one said, there were no sallets in the lines to make the matter savoury, nor no matter in the phrase, that might indite the author of affection ; but call'd it an honest method ; (as wholesome as sweet, and by very much more handsome than fine.) One speech in it I chiefly loved : 'twas Aeneas' tale to Dido, and thereabout of it, especially, where he speaks of Priam's slaughter : If it live in your memory, begin at this line ; let me see ; let me see ;—

* The rugged Pyrrhus, like the Hyrcanian beast,—
'Tis not so ; it begins with Pyrrhus.

* The rugged Pyrrhus,—he, whose sable arms,

* Black as his purpose, did the night resemble

* When he lay couched in the ominous horse,—

* Hath now this dread and black complexion smear'd

* With heraldry more dismal ; head to foot

* Now is he total gules ; horridly trick'd

' With blood of fathers, mothers, daughters, sons ;
 ' Bak'd and empasted with the parching streets,
 ' That lend a tyrannous and a damned light
 ' To their lord's murder ; roasted in wrath and fire.
 ' And thus o'ersized with coagulate gore,
 ' With eyes like carbuncles, the hellish Pyrrhus
 ' Old grandsire Priam seeks :—So, proceed you.

Pol. 'Fore God, my lord, well spoken ; with good accent, and good discretion.

1 Play. ' Anon he finds him,

' Striking too short at Greeks ; his antique sword,
 ' Rebellious to his arm, lies where it falls,
 ' Repugnant to command : Unequal match'd,
 ' Pyrrhus at Priam drives ; in rage, strikes wide ;
 ' But with the whiff and wind of his fell sword
 ' The unnerved father falls. Then senseless Ilium,
 ' Seeming to feel this blow, with flaming top
 ' Stoops to his base ; and with a hideous crash
 ' Takes prisoner Pyrrhus' ear ; for, lo ! his sword,
 ' Which was declining on the milky head
 ' Of reverend Priam, seem'd i' the air to stick :
 ' So, as a painted tyrant, Pyrrhus stood ;
 ' And, like a neutral to his will and matter,
 ' Did nothing.

' But, as we often see, against some storm,
 ' A silence in the heavens, the rack stand still,
 ' The bold wind speechless, and the orb below
 ' As hush as death : anon, the dreadful thunder
 ' Doth rend the region : So, after Pyrrhus' pause,
 ' A roused vengeance sets him new a-work ;
 ' And never did the Cyclops' hammers fall,
 ' On Mars' armour, forg'd for proof eterne,
 ' With less remorse than Pyrrhus' bleeding sword
 ' Now falls on Priam.—
 ' Out, out, thou strumpet Fortune ! All you gods,
 ' In general synod, take away her power ;
 ' Break all the spokes and fellies from her wheel,
 ' And bowl the round nave down the hill of heaven,
 ' As low as to the fiends.

Pol. This is too long.

Ham. It shall to the barber's, with your beard.—Pr'ythee, say on:—He's for a jig, or a tale of bawdry, or he sleeps:—say on, come to Hecuba.

1 Play. 'But who, O woe! had seen the mobled queen—

Ham. The mobled queen?

Pol. That's good; mobled queen is good.

1 Play. 'Run barefoot up and down, threat'ning the

'With bisson rheum; a clout upon that head, (flames

'Where late the diadem stood: and, for a robe,

'About her lank and all o'er-teemed loins,

'A blanket, in the alarm of fear caught up;

'Who this had seen, with tongue in venom steep'd,

'Gainst fortune's state would treason have pronounc'd:

'But if the gods themselves did see her then,

'When she saw Pyrrhus make malicious sport

'In mincing with his sword her husband's limbs;

'The instant burst of clamour that she made,

'(Unless things mortal move them not at all),

'Would have made milch the burning eyes of heaven,

'And passion in the gods.

Pol. Look, whether he has not turn'd his colour, and has tears in his eyes.—Pr'ythee, no more.

Ham. 'Tis well; I'll have thee speak out the rest of this soon.—Good my lord, will you see the players well bestow'd? Do you hear, let them be well used; for they are the abstract and brjef chronicles of the time: After your death, you were better have a bad epitaph, than their ill report while you live.

Pol. My lord, I will use them according to their desert.

Ham. Odd's bodikin, man, much better: Use every man after his desert, and who shall 'scape whipping? Use them after your own honour and dignity: The less they deserve, the more merit is in your bounty. Take them in.

Pol. Come, sirs.

{Exit Polonius.

Ham. Follow him, friends: we'll hear a play to-morrow.—Dost thou hear me, old friend; can you play the murder of Gonzago?

1 Play. Ay, my lord.

Ham. We'll have it to-morrow night. You could for a need, study a speech of some dozen or sixteen lines, which I would set down, and insert in't? could you not?

1 Play. Ay, my lord.

Ham. Very well. Follow that lord; and look you mock him not.—[Exeunt Players. My good friends, [to Ros. and Guil.] I'll leave you till night: you are welcome to Elsinour.

Ros. Good, my lord. [Exeunt Ros. and Guild.

Ham. Ay, so, God be wi' you:—Now I am alone.

O, what a rogue and peasant slave am I!
Is it not monstrous, that this player here,
But in a fiction, in a dream of passion,
Could force his soul so to his own conceit,
That, from her working, all his visage wann'd;
Tears in his eyes, distraction in's aspect,
A broken voice, and his whole function suiting
With forms to his conceit? And all for nothing!
For Hecuba!

What's Hecuba to him, or he to Hecuba,
That he should weep for her? What would he do,
Had he the motive and the cue for passion
That I have? he would drown the stage with tears,
And cleave the general ear with horrid speech;
Make mad the guilty, and appal the free,
Confound the ignorant, and amaze, indeed,
The very faculty of eyes and ears.

Yet I,
A dull and muddy-mettled rascal, peak,
Like John-a-dreams, unpregnant of my cause,
And can say nothing; no, not for a king,
Upon whose property, and most dear life,
A damn'd defeat was made. Am I a coward?
Who calls me villain? breaks my pate across?
Plucks off my beard, and blows it in my face?
Tweaks me by the nose? gives me the lie i' the throat,
As deep as to the lungs? Who does me this?
Ha! Why I should take it: for it cannot be
But I am pigeon-liver'd, and lack gall
To make oppression bitter; or, ere this,
I should have fatted all the region kites

With this slave's offal? Bloody, bawdy villain!
 Remorseless, treacherous, lecherous, kindless villain!
 Why, what an ass am I? This is most brave;
 That I, the son of a dear father murder'd,
 Prompted to my revenge by heaven and hell,
 Must, like a whore, unpack my heart with words,
 And fall a cursing, like a very drab;
 A scullion!
 Fie upon't! foh!
 About, my brains! Hum! I have heard
 That guilty creatures, sitting at a play,
 Have by the very cunning of the scene
 Been struck so to the soul, that presently
 They have proclaim'd their malefactions:
 For murder, though it have no tongue, will speak
 With most miraculous organ. I'll have these players
 Play something like the murder of my father,
 Before mine uncle: I'll observe his looks;
 I'll tent him to the quick: if he but blench,
 I know my course. The spirit that I have seen,
 May be a devil; and the devil hath power
 To assume a pleasing shape; yea, and perhaps,
 Out of my weakness, and my melancholy,
 (As he is very potent with such spirits),
 Abuses me to damn me: I'll have grounds
 More relative than this; the play's the thing,
 Wherein I'll catch the conscience of the king. [Exit,

ACT III.—SCENE I.

A Room in the Castle. Enter King, Queen, POLONIUS, OPHELIA, ROSENCRANTZ, and GUILDENSTERN.

King. AND can you by no drift of conference
 Get from him, why he puts on this confusion,
 Grating so harshly all his days of quiet
 With turbulent and dangerous lunacy?

Ros. He does confess, he feels himself distracted ;
But from what cause he will by no means speak.

Guil. Nor do we find him forward to be sounded ;
But, with a crafty madness, keeps aloof,
When we would bring him on to some confession
Of his true state.

Queen. Did he receive you well ?

Ros. Most like a gentleman.

Guil. But with much forcing of his disposition.

Ros. Niggard of question ; but of our demands
Most free in his reply.

Queen. Did you assay him
To any pastime ?

Ros. Madam, it so fell out, that certain players
We o'er-raught on the way : of these we told him ;
And there did seem in him a kind of joy
To hear of it : They are about the court ;
And, as I think, they have already order
This night to play before him.

Pol. 'Tis most true :

And he beseech'd me to intreat your majesties,
To hear and see the matter.

King. With all my heart ; and it doth much content me
To hear him so inclin'd.

Good gentlemen, give him a further edge,
And drive his purpose on to these delights.

Ros. We shall, my lord. [Exeunt Ros. and Guil.]

King. Sweet Gertrude, leave us too :

For we have closely sent for Hamlet hither ;
That he, as 'twere by accident, may here
Affront Ophelia.

Her father, and myself (lawful espials)
Will so bestow ourselves, that, seeing, unseen,
We may of their encounter frankly judge ;
And gather by him, as he is behav'd,
If't be the affliction of his love, or no,
That thus he suffers for.

Queen. I shall obey you——

And, for my part, Ophelia, I do wish,
That your good beauties be the happy cause

Of Hamlet's wildness: so shall I hope, your virtues
Will bring him to his wonted way again,
To both your honours.

Oph. Madam, I wish it may. [Exit Queen.

Pol. Ophelia, walk you here:—Gracious, so please you,
We will bestow ourselves:—Read on this book;

[To Ophelia.

That shew of such an exercise may colour
Your loneliness.—We are oft to blame in this,—
'Tis too much prov'd,—that, with devotion's visage,
And pious action, we do sugar o'er
The devil himself.

King. O, 'tis most true! how smart
A lash that speech doth give my conscience!
The harlot's cheek, beauty'd with plast'ring art,
Is not more ugly to the thing that helps it,
Than is my deed to my most painted word:
O heavy burden!

[Aside.

Pol. I hear him coming; let's withdraw, my lord.

[Exeunt King and Polonius.

Enter Hamlet.

Ham. To be, or not to be, that is the question:—
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind, to suffer
The stings and arrows of outrageous fortune;
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And, by opposing, end them?—To die;—to sleep;
No more?—and, by a sleep, to say we end
The heart-ach, and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to;—'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wish'd. To die;—to sleep;—
To sleep! perchance, to dream;—Ay, there's the rub;
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come,
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause: there's the respect,
That makes calamity of so long life:
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of despis'd love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office, and the spurns

That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
 When he himself might his quietus make
 With a bare bodkin? who would fardels bear,
 To grunt and sweat under a weary life?
 But that the dread of something after death,—
 'The undiscover'd country, from whose bourn
 No traveller returns—puzzles the will;
 And makes us rather bear those ills we have,
 Than fly to others that we know not of?
 Thus conscience does make cowards of us all;
 And thus the native hue of resolution
 Is sickly'd o'er with the pale cast of thought;
 And enterprizes of great pith and moment,
 With this regard, their currents turn awry,
 And lose the name of action.—Soft you, now!

[Seeing Ophelia.

The fair Ophelia?—Nymph, in thy orisons
 Be all my sins remember'd.

Oph. Good, my lord,

How does your honour for this many a day?

Ham. I humbly thank you; well.

Oph. My lord, I have remembrances of yours,
 That I have longed long to re-deliver;
 I pray you, now receive them.

Ham. No, not I;

I never gave you aught.

Oph. My honour'd lord, you know right well you did;
 And, with them; words of so sweet breath compos'd,
 As made the things more rich: their perfume lost,
 Take these again; for to the noble mind
 Rich gifts wax poor, when givers prove unkind.
 There, my lord.

Ham. Ha, ha! are you honest?

Oph. My lord?

Ham. Are you fair?

Oph. What means your lordship?

Ham. That, if you be honest and fair, you should admit no discourse to your beauty.

Oph. Could beauty, my lord, have better commerce than with honesty?

Ham. Ay, truly; for the power of beauty will sooner transform honesty from what it is to a bawd, than the force of honesty can translate beauty into his likeness: this was sometime a paradox, but now the time gives it proof. I did love you once.

Oph. Indeed, my lord, you made me believe so.

Ham. You should not have believ'd me: for virtue cannot so inoculate our old stock, but we shall relish of it: I loved you not.

Oph. I was the more deceived.

Ham. Get thee to a nunnery; why wouldst thou be a breeder of sinners? I am myself indifferent honest; but yet I could accuse me of such things, that it were better my mother had not born me: I am very proud, revengeful, ambitious; with more offences at my back than I have thoughts to put them in, imagination to give them shape, or time to act them in: What should such fellows as I do crawling between earth and heaven? We are arrant knaves, all; believe none of us: Go thy ways to a nunnery: Where's your father?

Oph. At home, my lord.

Ham. Let the doors be shut upon him; that he may play the fool no where but in's own house. Farewell.

Oph. O help him, you sweet heavens!

Ham. If thou dost marry, I'll give thee this plague for thy dowry: Be thou as chaste as ice, as pure as snow, thou shalt not escape calumny. Get thee to a nunnery; farewell: Or, if thou wilt needs marry, marry a fool; for wise men know well enough what monsters you make of them. To a nunnery, go; and quickly too. Farewell.

Oph. Heavenly powers, restore him!

Ham. I have heard of your paintings too well enough; God hath given you one face, and you make yourselves another: you jig, you amble, and you lisp, and nick-name God's creatures, and make your wantonness your ignorance: Go to; I'll no more of't; it hath made me mad. I say, we will have no more marriages: those that are married already, all but one, shall live; the rest shall keep as they are. To a nunnery, go. [Exit Hamlet.]

Oph. O, what a noble mind is here o'erthrown!

The courtier's, soldier's, scholar's eye, tongue, sword;

'The expectancy and rose of the fair state,

The glass of fashion, and the mould of form,

'The observ'd of all observers! quite, quite down!

And I, of ladies most deject and wretched,

That suck'd the honey of his music vows,

Now see that noble and most sovereign reason,

Like sweet bells jangled, out of tune and harsh;

'That unmatch'd form and feature of blown youth,

Blasted with extacy: O, woe is me!

To have seen what I have seen, see what I see!

Enter King and Polonius.

King. Love! his affections do not that way tend;

Nor what he spake, though it lack'd form a little,

Was not like madness. There's something in his soul,

O'er which his melancholy sits on brood;

And, I do doubt the hatch, and the disclose,

Will be some danger; which for to prevent,

I have, in quick determination,

Thus set it down; he shall with speed to England,

For the demand of our neglected tribute;

Haply, the seas, and countries different,

With variable objects, shall expel

This something-settled matter in his heart;

Whereon his brains still beating, puts him thus

From fashion of himself. What think you on't?

Pol. It shall do well: But yet I do believe

The origin and commencement of his grief

Sprung from neglected love.—How now, Ophelia?

You need not tell us what lord Hamlet said;

We heard it all.—My lord, do as you please;

But, if you hold it fit, after the play,

Let his queen-mother all alone intreat him

To shew his grief; let her be round with him;

And I'll be plac'd, so please you, in the ear

Of all their conference: If she find him not,

To England send him ; or confine him where Your wisdom best shall think.

King. It shall be so :

Madness in great ones must not unwatch'd go. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II.

A ball in the same. HAMLET, and several Players.

Ham. Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounc'd it to you, trippingly on the tongue ; but if you mouth it, as many of our players do, I had as lief the town-crier spoke my lines : nor do not saw the air too much with your hand, thus ; but use all gently : for in the very torrent, tempest, and (as I may say) whirlwind of your passion, you must acquire and beget a temperance, that may give it smoothness. O, it offends me to the soul, to hear a robustious periwig-pated fellow tear a passion to tatters, to very rags, to split the ears of the groundlings ; who, for the most part, are capable of nothing but inexplicable dumb shews, and noise : I would have such a fellow whipp'd for o'er-doing termagant, it out-herods Herod : Pray you, avoid it.

1 Play. I warrant your honour.

Ham. Be not too tame neither, but let your own discretion be your tutor ; suit the action to the word, the word to the action ; with the special observance, that you o'erstep not the modesty of nature : For, any thing so over-done is from the purpose of playing, whose end both at the first, and now, was' and is, to hold as 'twere the mirror up to nature ; to shew virtue her own feature, scorn her own image, and the very age and body of the time, his form and pressure. Now this, over-done, or come tardy off, though it make the unskilful laugh, cannot but make the judicious grieve ; the censure of which one, must, in your allowance, o'erweigh a whole theatre of others. O, there be players, that I have seen play,—and heard others praise, and that highly,—not to speak it profanely, that, neither having the accent of Christians, nor the gait of Christian, pagan, nor man, have so strutted, and bellow'd, that I have thought some of nature's journeymen had made men, and not made them well, they imitated humanity so abominably.

1 Play. I hope, we have reform'd that indifferently with us.

Ham. O, reform it altogether. And let those that play your clowns, speak no more than is set down for them: For there be of them, that will themselves laugh, to set on some quantity of barren spectators to laugh too; though, in the mean time, some necessary question of the play be then to be considered: that's villainous; and shews a most pitiful ambition in the fool that uses it. Go, make you ready.— [Exeunt Players].

Enter Polonius, Rosencrantz, and Guildenstern.

How now, my lord, will the king hear this piece of work?

Pol. And the queen too, and that presently.

Ham. Bid the players make haste.— [Exit Polon.]

Will you two help to hasten them?

Both. Ay, my lord. [Exeunt Ros. and Guil.]

Ham. What, ho; Horatio!

Enter Horatio.

Hor. Here, sweet lord, at your service.

Ham. Horatio, thou art e'en as just a man
As e'er my conversation cop'd withal.

Hor. O, my dear lord,—

Ham. Nay, do not think I flatter:
For what advancement may I hope from thee,
That no revenue hast, but thy good spirits,
To feed, and clothe thee? Why should the poor be flatter'd?
No, let the candy'd tongue lick absurd pomp;
And crook the pregnant hinges of the knee,
Where thrift may follow fawning. Dost thou hear?
Since my dear soul was mistress of her choice,
And could of men distinguish, her election
Hath seal'd thee for herself: for thou hast been
As one, in suffering all, that suffers nothing;
A man, that fortune's buffets and rewards

Hast ta'en with equal thanks : and blest are those,
 Whose blood and judgment are so well co-mingled,
 That they are not a pipe for fortune's finger
 To sound what stop she please : Give me that man
 That is not passion's slave, and I will wear him
 In my heart's core, ay, in my heart of hearts,
 As I do thee.—Something too much of this,—
 There is a play to-night before the king ;
 One scene of it comes near the circumstance,
 Which I have told thee, of my father's death.
 I pr'ythee, when thou seest that act a-foot,
 Even with the very comment of thy soul
 Observe my uncle : if his occulted guilt
 Do not itself unkennel in one speech,
 It is a damned ghost that we have seen ;
 And my imaginations are as foul
 As Vulcan's stithy : Give him heedful note :
 For I mine eyes will rivet to his face ;
 And, after, we will both our judgments join
 In censure of his seeming.

Hor. Well, my lord :

If he steal aught, the whilst this play is playing,
 And 'scape detecting, I will pay the theft.

Ham. They are coming to the play ; I must be idle :
 Get you a place.

Danish march. A flourish. Enter King, Queen, Polonius, Ophelia, Rosencrantz, Guildenstern, and others.

King. How fares our cousin Hamlet ?

Ham. Excellent, i' faith ; of the camelion's dish : I eat the air, promise-cramm'd : you cannot feed capons so.

King. I have nothing with this answer, Hamlet ; these words are not mine.

Ham. No, nor mine now.—My lord, you play'd once
 i' the university, you say ? [To Polonius.]

Pol. That I did, my lord : and was accounted a good actor.

Ham. And what did you enact ?

Pol. I did enact Julius Cæsar : I was kill'd i' the Capitol ; Brutus kill'd me.

Ham. It was a brute part of him, to kill so capital a calf there.—Be the players ready?

Ros. Ay, my lord; they stay upon your patience.

Queen. Come hither, my dear Hamlet, sit by me.

Ham. No, good mother, here's metal more attractive.

Pol. O ho! do you mark that? [To the King.]

Ham. Lady, shall I lie in your lap?

[Lying down at Opbelia's feet.]

Opb. No, my lord.

Ham. I mean, my head upon your lap?

Opb. Ay, my lord.

Ham. Do you think, I meant country matters?

Opb. I think nothing, my lord.

Ham. That's a fair thought to lie between a maid's legs.

Opb. What is, my lord?

Ham. Nothing.

Opb. You are merry, my lord.

Ham. Who, I?

Opb. Ay, my lord.

Ham. O! your only jig-maker. What should a man do, but be merry? for look you, how cheerfully my mother looks, and my father died within these two hours.

Opb. Nay, 'tis twice two months, my lord.

Ham. So long? Nay, then let the devil wear black, for I'll have a suit of sables. O heavens! die two months ago, and not forgotten yet: Then there's hope, a great man's memory may outlive his life half a year: But by'r-lady, he must build churches then: or else shall he suffer not thinking on, with the hobby-horse; whose epitaph is, For, O, for, O, the hobby-horse is forgot.

Trumpets sound. The dumb shew follows.

Enter a king and queen, very lovingly; the queen embracing him, and he her. She kneels, and makes shew of protestation unto him. He takes her up, and declines his head upon her neck: lays him down upon a bank of flowers: she seeing him asleep, leaves him. Anon, comes in a fellow, takes off his crown, kisses it, and pours poison in the king's ears, and exit. The queen returns: finds the king dead and makes passionate action. The poisoner, with some two or three mutes, comes in again, seeming to lament with her. The dead body is carried away. The poisoner wooes the queen with gifts; she seems loath and unwilling awhile, but in the end, accepts his love. [Exeunt.

Opb. What means this, my lord?

Ham. Marry, this is miching malicho; it means mischief.

Opb. Belike, this shew imports the argument of the play.
Enter Prologue.

Ham. We shall know by this fellow: the players cannot keep counsel; they'll tell all.

Opb. Will he tell us what this shew meant?

Ham. Ay, or any shew, that you'll shew him; be not you ashamed to shew, he'll not shame to tell you what it means.

Opb. You are naught, you are naught; I'll mark the play.

Pro. For us, and for our tragedy,

Here stooping to your clemency,

We beg your bearing patiently.

Ham. Is this a prologue, or the posy of a ring?

Opb. 'Tis brief, my lord.

Ham. As woman's love.

Enter Player King and Queen.

P. King. Full thirty times hath Phœbus' car gone
Neptune's salt wash, and Tellus' orb'd ground; (round
And thirty dozen moons, with borrowed sheen
About the world have times twelve thirties been,
Since love our hearts, and Hymen did our hands,
Unite commutual in most sacred bands.

P. Queen. So many journies may the sun and moon
Make us again count o'er e'er love be done!
But, woe is me, you are so sick of late,
So far from cheer, and from your former state,
'That I distrust you. Yet, though I distrust,
Discomfort you, my lord, it nothing must:
For women fear too much even as they love,
And women's fear and love hold quantity;

In neither aught, or in extremity.

Now, what my love is, proof hath made you know ;
And as my love is siz'd, my fear is so.

Where love is great, the littlest doubts are fear ;

Where little fears grow great, great love grows there.

P. King. Faith, I must leave thee, love, and shortly too ;
My operant powers their functions leave to do :
And thou shalt live in this fair world behind,
Honour'd, belov'd : and, haply, one as kind
For husband shalt thou——

P. Queen. O, confound the rest !
Such love must needs be treason in my breast :
In second husband let me be accurst ;
None wed the second, but who kill'd the first.

Ham. That's wormwood.

P. Queen. The instances that second marriage move,
Are base respects of thrift, but none of love :
A second time I kill my husband dead,
When second husband kisses me in bed.

P. King. I do believe, you think what now you speak :
But what we do determine, oft we break.
Purpose is but the slave to memory ;
Of violent birth, but poor validity !
Which now, like fruit unripe, sticks on the tree ;
But fall unshaken, when they mellow be.
Most necessary 'tis, that we forget
To pay ourselves what to ourselves is debt :
What to ourselves in passion we propose,
The passion ending, doth the purpose lose,
The violence of either grief or joy,
Their own enactures with themselves destroy :
Where joy most revels, grief doth most lament :
Grief joys, joy grieves, on slender accident.
This world is not for aye ; nor 'tis not strange,
That even our loves should with our fortunes change :
For 'tis a question left us yet to prove ;
Whether love lead fortune, or else fortune love.
The great man down, you mark, his favourite flies ;
The poor advanc'd, makes friends of enemies.

And hitherto doth love on fortune tend :
 For who not needs, shall never lack a friend ;
 And who in want a hollow friend doth try,
 Directly seasons him his enemy.
 But orderly to end where I begun—
 Our wills, and fates, do so contrary run,
 That our devices still are overthrown ;
 Our thoughts are ours, their ends none of our own :
 So think thou wilt no second husband wed ;
 But die thy thoughts, when thy first lord is dead.

P. Queen. Nor earth to me give food, nor heaven light!
 Sport and repose, lock from me day and night !
 To desperation turn my trust and hope !
 An anchor's cheer in prison be my scope !
 Each opposite, that blanks the face of joy,
 Meet what I would have well, and it destroy !
 Both here, and hence, pursue me lasting strife,
 If, once a widow, ever I be wife !

Ham. If she should break it now.—[To Opb.

P. King. 'Tis deeply sworn. Sweet leave me here awhile ;

My spirits grow dull, and fain I would beguile
 The tedious day with sleep. [Sleeps.

P. Queen. Sleep rock thy brain :

And never come mischance betwixt us twain ! [Exit.

Ham. Madam, how like you this play ?

Queen. The lady doth protest too much, methinks.

Ham. O, but she'll keep her word.

King. Have you heard the argument ? Is there no offence in't.

Ham. No, no, they do but jest, poison in jest ; no offence i' the world.

King. What do you call the play ?

Ham. The mouse-trap. Marry, howl Tropicallly.
 This play is the image of a murder done in Vienna :
 Gonzago is the duke's name ; his wife Baptista : you shall see anon ; 'tis a knavish piece of work : But what of that ? your majesty, and we that have free souls, it touches us not : Let the gall'd jade wince, our withers

Enter Lucianus.

This is one Lucianus, nephew to the duke.

Opb. You are as good as a chorus, my lord.

Ham. I could interpret between you and your love,
If I could see the puppets dallying.

Opb. You are keen, my lord, you are keen.

Ham. It would cost you a groaning, to take off my edge.

Opb. Still better, and worse.

Ham. So, you mistake your husbands.

Begin, murderer,——Leave thy damnable faces, and begin.
Come—The croaking raven doth bellow for revenge.

Luc. Thoughts black, hands apt, drugs fit, and time agreeing ;

Confederate season, else no creature seeing ;
'Thou mixture rank, of midnight weeds collected,
With Hecate's ban thrice blasted, thrice infected,
Thy natural magic, and dire property,
On wholesome life usurp immediately.

[Pours the poison into the sleeper's ears.]

Ham. He poisons him i' the garden for his estate. His name's Gonzago : the story is extant, and written in very choice Italian : You shall see anon, how the murderer gets the love of Gonzago's wife.

Opb. The king rises.

Ham. What : frightened with false fire ?

Queen. How fares my lord ?

Pol. Give o'er the play.

King. Give me some light :—away !

All. Lights, lights, lights !

[Exit all but Hamlet, and Horatio.]

Ham. Why, let the stricken deer go weep,
The hart ungalled play :

For some must watch while some must sleep ;

Thus runs the world away.——

Would not this, Sir, and a forest of feathers (if the rest of my fortunes turn Turk with me), with two provincial roses on my razed shoes, get me a fellowship in a cry of players, Sir ?

Hor. Half a share.

Ham. A whole one, I.

For thou dost know, O Damon dear,
This realm dismantled was
Of Jove himself; and now reigns here
A very, very—peacock

Hor. You might have rhym'd.

Ham. O good Horatio, I'll take the ghost's word for a thousand pound. Did'st perceive?

Hor. Very well, my lord.

Ham. Upon the talk of the poisoning—

Hor. I did very well note him.

Ham. Ah, ha!—Come, some music; come the recorder
if the king like not the comedy, [ders.—
Why then, belike, he likes it not, perdy.—

Enter Rosencrantz, and Guildenstern.

Come, some music.

Guil. Good, my lord, vouchsafe me a word with you.

Ham. Sir, a whole history.

Guil. The king, Sir—

Ham. Ay, Sir, what of him?

Guil. Is in his retirement, marvellous distemper'd.

Ham. With drink, Sir?

Guil. No, my lord, with choler.

Ham. Your wisdom should shew itself more richer, to signify this to the doctor; for me to put him to his purgation, would, perhaps, plunge him into more choler.

Guil. Good, my lord, put your discourse into some frame, and start not so wildly from my affair.

Ham. I am tame, Sir:—pronounce.

Guil. The queen, your mother, in most great affliction of spirit, hath sent me to you.

Ham. You are welcome.

Guil. Nay, good my lord, this courtesy is not of the right breed. If it shall please you to make me a wholesome answer, I will do your mother's commandment: if not, your pardon, and my return shall be the end of my business.

Ham. Sir, I cannot.

Guil. What, my lord?

Ham. Make you a wholesome answer; my wit's diseas'd: but, Sir, such answer as I can make, you shall command; or rather, as you say, my mother: therefore no more, but to the matter: my mother, you say——

Ros. Then thus she says; your behaviour hath struck her into amazement and admiration.

Ham. O wonderful son, that can so astonish a mother! —But is there no sequel at the heels of this mother's admiration? impart.

Ros. She desires to speak with you in her closet, e'er you go to bed.

Ham. We shall obey, were she ten times our mother. Have you any further trade with us?

Ros. My lord, you once did love me.

Ham. And do still, by these pickers and stealers.

Ros. Good, my lord, what is your cause of distemper? You do surely bar the door upon your own liberty, if you deny your griefs to your friend.

Ham. Sir, I lack advancement.

Ros. How can that be, when you have the voice of the king himself for your succession in Denmark?

Ham. Ay, Sir, but While the grass grows,—the proverb is something musty.

Enter the Players with recorders.

O, the recorders!—let me see one.—To withdraw with you:—Why do you go about to recover the wind of me, as if you would drive me into a toil?

Guil. O, my lord, if my duty be too bold, my love is too unmannerly.

Ham. I do not well understand that. Will you play upon this pipe?

Guil. My lord, I cannot.

Ham. I pray you.

Guil. Believe me, I cannot.

Ham. I do beseech you.

Guil. I know no touch of it, my lord.

Ham. 'Tis as easy as lying: govern these ventages with your fingers and thumb, give it breath with your mouth, and it will discourse most eloquent music. Look you, these are the stops.

Guil. But these cannot I command to any utterance of harmony; I have not the skill.

Ham. Why, look you now, how unworthy a thing you make of me? You would play upon me; you would seem to know my stops; you would pluck out the heart of my mystery; you would sound me from my lowest note to the top of my compass: and there is much music, excellent voice, in this little organ; yet cannot you make it speak. 'Sblood, do you think that I am easier to be play'd on than a pipe? Call me what instrument you will, though you can fret me, you cannot play upon me. [Enter Polonius.]—God bless you, Sir!

Pol. My lord, the queen would speak with you, and presently.

Ham. Do you see yonder cloud, that's almost in shape of a camel?

Pol. By the mass, and 'tis like a camel, indeed.

Ham. Methinks it is like a weazel.

Pol. It is back'd like a weazel.

Ham. Or like a whale?

Pol. Very like a whale.

Ham. Then will I come to my mother by and by.—They fool me to the top of my bent.—I will come by and by.

Pol. I will say so.

Ham. By and by is easily said.—Leave me, friends.

[Exeunt Ros. Guil. Hor. &c.]

'Tis now the very witching time of night;
 When church-yards yawn, and hell itself breathes out
 Contagion to this world: Now could I drink hot blood,
 And do such business as the bitter day
 Would quake to look on. Soft; now to my mother,—
 O, heart! lose not the nature; let not ever
 The soul of Nero enter this firm bosom;
 Let me be cruel, not unnatural;
 I will speak daggers to her, but use none;
 My tongue and soul in this be hypocrites:
 How in my words soever she be shent,
 To give them seals, never, my soul, consent!

 SCENE III.

A room in the same. Enter the King, ROSENCRANTZ, and GUILDENSTERN.

King. I like him not ; nor stands it safe with us,
To let his madness range. Therefore prepare you ;
I your commission will forthwith dispatch,
And he to England shall along with you :
The terms of our estate may not endure
Hazard so near us, as doth hourly grow
Out of his luns.

Guil. We will ourselves provide.
Most holy and religious fear it is,
To keep those many bodies safe,
That live, and feed upon your majesty.

Ros. The single and peculiar life is bound,
With all the strength and armour of the mind,
To keep itself from 'noyance ; but much more,
That spirit, upon whose weel depend and rest
The lives of many. The cease of majesty
Dies not alone ; but, like a gulf, doth draw
What's near it, with it : It is a massy wheel,
Fix'd on the summit of the highest mount,
To those huge spokes ten thousand lesser things
Are mortis'd and adjoin'd ; which, when it falls,
Each small annexment, petty consequence,
Attends the boisterous ruin. Never alone
Did the king sigh, but with a general groan.

King. Arm you, I pray you, to this speedy voyage ;
For we will fetters put upon this fear,
Which now goes too free-footed.

Both. We will haste us. [Exeunt Ros. and Guil.]

Enter Polonius.

Pol. My lord, he's going to his mother's closet ;
Behind the arras I'll convey myself,
To hear the process ; I'll warrant, she'll tax him home :
And, as you said, and wisely was it said,

'Tis meet, that some more audience than a mother,
 Since nature makes them partial, should o'erhear
 The speech, of vantage. Fare you well, my liege ;
 I'll call upon you e'er you go to bed,
 And tell you what I know,

[Exit.

King. Thanks, dear my lord.
 O, my offence is rank, it smells to heaven :
 It hath the primal eldest curse upon't,
 A brother's murder :—Pray can I not,
 Though inclination be as sharp as will ;
 My stronger guilt defeats my strong intent ;
 And like a man to double business bound,
 I stand in pause where I shall first begin,
 And both neglect. What if this cursed hand
 Were thicker than itself with brother's blood ?
 Is there not rain enough in the sweet heavens
 To wash it white as snow ? Whereto serves mercy,
 But to confront the visage of offence ?
 And what's in prayer, but this two-fold force,—
 To be forestalled, e'er we come to fall,
 Or pardon'd, being down : Then I'll look up ;
 My fault is past. But, O, what form of prayer
 Can serve my turn ? Forgive me my foul murder :—
 That cannot be ; since I am still possess'd
 Of those effects for which I did the murder ;
 My crown, mine own ambition, and my queen.
 May one be pardon'd, and retain the offence ;
 In the corrupted currents of this world,
 Offence's gilded hand may shove by justice ;
 And oft 'tis seen the wicked prize itself
 Buys out the law : but 'tis not so above.
 There is no shuffling, there the action lies
 In his true nature ; and we ourselves compell'd,
 Even to the teeth and forehead of our faults,
 To give in evidence. What then ? what rests ?
 Try what repentance can : What can it not ?
 Yet what can it, when one cannot repent ?
 O wretched state : O bosom, black as death !
 O limed soul ! that, struggling to be free,

Art more engag'd ! Help, angels, make assay !
 Bow, stubborn knees ? and heart, with strings of steel
 Be soft as sinews of the new-born babe ;
 All may be well : [The king retires and kneels.]

Enter Hamlet.

Ham. Now might I do it, pat, now he is praying :
 And now I'll do't ;—and so he goes to heaven :
 And so am I reveng'd ? That would be scann'd :
 A villain kills my father ; and, for that,
 I, his sole son, do this same villain send
 To heaven.

Why, this is hire and salary, not revenge.
 He took my father grossly, full of bread ;
 With all his crimes broad blown, as flush as May ;
 And, how his audit stands, who knows, save heaven ?
 But in our circumstance and course of thought,
 'Tis heavy with him : And am I then reveng'd,
 To take him in the purging of his soul,
 When he is fit and season'd for his passage ?
 No.

Up, sword ; and know thou a more horrid bent :
 When he is drunk, asleep, or in his rage ;
 Or in the incestuous pleasures of his bed ;
 At gaming, swearing ; or about some act
 That has no relish of salvation in't :
 Then trip him, that his heels may kick at heaven ;
 And that his soul may be as damn'd, and black,
 As hell, whereto it goes. My mother stays :
 This physic but prolongs thy sickly days. [Exit.]

The King rises and advances.

King. My words fly up, my thoughts remain below :
 Words, without thoughts, never to heaven go. [Exit.]

SCENE IV.

Another Room in the same. Enter Queen, and Polonius.

Pol. He will come straight. Look, you lay near to him :

Tell him, his pranks have been too broad to bear with ;
 And that your grace hath screen'd and stood between Much heat and him. I'll silence me e'en here.
 Pray you, be round with him.

Queen. I'll warrant you ; fear me not.

Withdraw, I hear him coming. [Polonius hides himself.]

Enter Hamlet.

Ham. Now, mother ; what's the matter ?

Queen. Hamlet, thou hast thy father much offended.

Ham. Mother, you have my father much offended.

Queen. Come come, you answer with an idle tongue.

Ham. Go, go, you question with a wicked tongue.

Queen. Why, how now, Hamlet ?

Ham. What's the matter now ?

Queen. Have you forgot me ?

Ham. No, by the rood, not so :

You are the queen, your husband's brother's wife ;
 And—would it were not so ! you are my mother.

Queen. Nay, then I'll set those to you that can speak.

Ham. Come, come, and sit you down ; you shall not
 You go not, 'till I set you up a glass

[budge ;

Where you may see the inmost part of you.

Queen. What wilt thou do ? thou wilt not murder me ?
 Help, help, ho !

Pol. [Behind.] What, ho ! help !

Ham. How now ! a rat ?

[Draws.

Dead for ducat, dead. [Strikes at Pol. through the arras.]

Pol. [Behind.] O, I am slain.

Queen. O me, what hast thou done ?

Ham. Nay, I know not :

Is it the king ? [Lifts up the arras, and draws forth Polonius.]

Queen. O, what a rash and bloody deed is this !

Ham. A bloody deed ;—almost as bad, good mother,
 As kill a king, and marry with his brother.

Queen. As kill a king !

Ham. Ay, lady, 'twas my word.—

Thou wretched, rash, intruding fool, farewell ! [To Pol.]

I took thee for thy better ; take thy fortune :

Thou find'st, to be too busy is some danger :

Leave wringing of your hands : Peace, sit you down,

If it be made of penetrable stuff;
 If damned custom have not braz'd it so,
 That it be proof and bulwark against sense.

Queen. What have I done, that thou dar'st wag thy
 In noise so rude against me? (tongue)

Ham. Such an act,
 That blurs the grace and blush of modesty:
 Calls virtue, hypocrite; takes off the rose
 From the fair forehead of an innocent love,
 And sets a blister there; makes marriage vows
 As false as dicers' oaths: O! such a deed,
 As from the body of contraction plucks
 The very soul, and sweet religion makes
 A rhapsody of words: Heaven's face doth glow;
 Yea, this solidity and compound mass,
 With tristful visage, as against the doom,
 Is thought-sick at the act.

Queen. Ah! me, what act,
 That roars so loud, and thunders in the index?

Ham. Look here upon this picture, and on this?
 The counterpart presentment of two brothers.
 See, what a grace was seated on this brow:
 Hyperion's curls; the front of Jove himself;
 An eye like Mars, to threaten and command;
 A station like the herald Mercury,
 New lighted on a heaven-kissing hill;
 A combination, and a form, indeed,
 Where every god did seem to set his seal,
 To give the world assurance of a man:
 This was your husband.—Look you now, what follows:
 Here is your husband; like a mildew'd ear,
 Blasting his wholesome brother. Have you eyes?
 Could you on this fair mountain leave to feed,
 And batten on this moor? Ha! have you eyes?
 You cannot call it love: for, at your age,
 The hey-day in the blood is tame; it's humble,
 And waits upon the judgment; and what judgment
 Would step from this to this? Sense, sure, you have,
 Else, could you not have motion: But, sure, that sense

Is apoplex'd; for madness would not err;
 Nor sense to extacy was ne'er so thrall'd,
 But it reserv'd some quantity of choice,
 To serve in such a difference. What devil was't,
 That thus hath cozen'd you at hood-man blind?
 Eyes without feeling, feeling without sight,
 Ears without hands or eyes, smelling sans all,
 Or but a sickly part of one true sense
 Could not so mope.

O shame! where is thy blush! Rebellious hell,
 If thou can'st mutiny in a matron's bones,
 To flaming youth let virtue be as wax,
 And melt in her own fire: proclaim no shame,
 When the compulsive ardour gives the charge;
 Since frost itself as actively doth burn,
 And reason panders will.

Queen. O Hamlet, speak no more!
 Thou turn'st mine eyes into my very soul;
 And there I see such black and grained spots,
 As will not leave their tinct.

Ham. Nay, but to live
 In the rank sweat of an incestuous bed;
 Stew'd in corruption; honeying, and making love
 Over the nasty stye;—

Queen. O, speak to me no more!
 These words, like daggers, enter in mine ears;
 No more, sweet Hamlet.

Ham. A murderer, and a villain:
 A slave, that is not twentieth part the tythe
 Of your precedent lord:—a vice of kings;
 A cutpurse of the empire and the rule;
 That from a shelf the precious diadem stole,
 And put it in his pocket!

Queen. No more. Enter Ghost.

Ham. A king of shreds and patches:—
 Save me, and hover o'er me with your wings,
 You heavenly guards!—What would your gracious figure?

Queen. Alas, he's mad!

Ham. Do you not come your tardy son to chide,

That, laps'd in time and passion, lets go by
The important acting of your dread command?
O, say!

Ghost. Do not forget: This visitation
Is but to whet thy almost blunted purpose,
But, look! amazement on thy mother sits:
O, step between her and her fighting soul;
Conceit in weakest bodies strongest works——
Speak to her, Hamlet.

Ham. How is it with you, lady?

Queen. Alas, how is't with you,
That you do bend your eye on vacancy,
And with the incorporeal air do hold discourse?
Forth at your eyes your spirits wildly peep;
And, as the sleeping soldiers in the alarm,
Your bedded hair, like life in excrements,
Starts up, and stands on end. O gentle son!
Upon the heat and flame of thy distemper
Sprinkle cool patience. Whereon do you look?

Ham. On him! on him!—Look you, how pale he glares!
His form and cause conjoin'd, preaching to stones,
Would make them capable.—Do not look upon me;
Lest, with this piteous action you convert
My stern effects: then, what I have to do
Will want true colour; tears, perchance, for blood.

Queen. To whom do you speak this?

Ham. Do you see nothing there?

Queen. Nothing at all; yet all that is, I see.

Ham. Nor did you nothing hear?

Queen. No, nothing, but ourselves.

Ham. Why, look you there! look, how it steals away!
My father, in his habit as he liv'd:
Look, where he goes, even now, out at the portal.

[Exit Ghost.]

Queen. This is the very coinage of your brain:
This bodiless creation, extacy
Is very cunning in.

Ham. Extacy!

My pulse, as yours, doth temperately keep time,

And makes as healthful music : It is not madness
 That I have utter'd : bring me to the test,
 And I the matter will re-word ; which madness
 Would gambol from. Mother, for love of grace,
 Lay not that flattering unction to your soul,
 That not your trespass, but my madness, speaks :
 It will but skin and film the ulcerous place ;
 Whiles rank corruption, mining all within,
 Infects unseen. Confess yourself to heaven :
 Repent what's past ; avoid what is to come ;
 And do not spread the compost on the weeds,
 To make them ranker. Forgive me this my virtue :
 For, in the fatness of those pury times,
 Virtue itself of vice must pardon beg ;
 Yea, curb, and woo, for leave to do him good.

Queen. O, Hamlet ! thou hast cleft my heart in twain.

Ham. O, throw away the worser part of it,
 And live the purer with the other half.
 Good night : but go not to mine uncle's bed ;
 Assume a virtue, if you have it not.
 'That monster, custom, who all sense doth eat,
 Of habits devil, is angel yet in this ;
 'That to the use of actions fair and good
 He likewise gives a frock, or livery,
 'That aptly is put on : Refrain to-night ;
 And that shall lend a kind of easiness
 To the next abstinence ; the next more easy :
 For use can almost change the stamp of nature,
 And either master the devil, or throw him out
 With wondrous potency. Once more, good night :
 And when you are desirous to be blest,
 I'll blessing beg of you.—For this same lord,

[Pointing to Polonius.

I do repent ; but heaven hath pleas'd it so—
 To punish me with this, and this with me
 That I must be their scourge and minister.
 I will bestow him, and will answer well
 'The death I gave him. So, again, good night !
 I must be cruel, only to be kind :
 Thus bad begins, and worse remains behind.—

One word more, good lady.

Queen. What shall I do?

Ham. Not this, by no means, that I bid you do :
Let the bloat king tempt you again to bed,
And wanton on your cheek, call you his mouse ;
To thank him for a pair of reechy kisses,
Or paddling in your neck with his damn'd fingers,
Make you to ravel all this matter out,
That I essentially am not in madness,
But mad in craft. 'Twere good you let him know ;
For who, that's but a queen, fair, sober, wise,
Would from a paddock, from a bat, a gib,
Such dear concernings hide ? Who would do so ?
No, in despite of sense, and secresy,
Unpeg the basket on the house's top,
Let the birds fly ; and, let the famous ape,
'To try conclusions, in the basket creep,
And break your neck down.

Queen. Be thou assur'd, if words be made of breath,
And breath of life, I have no life to breathe,
What thou hast said to me.

Ham. I must to England ; you know that ?

Queen. Alack, I had forgot ; 'tis so concluded on.

Ham. There's letters seal'd ; and my two school-fel-
Whom I will trust, as I will adders fang'd,— [lows,
'They bear the mandate ; they must sweep my way,
And marshal me to knavery : let it work ;
For 'tis the sport, to have the engineer
Hoist with his own petar : and it shall go hard,
But I will delve one yard below their mines,
And blow them at the moon : O' 'tis most sweet,
When in one line two crafts directly meet!—
'This man shall set me packing.
I'll hug the guts into the neighbour room :—
Mother, good night.—Indeed, this counsellor
Is now most still, most secret, and most grave,
Who was in life a foolish prating knave.
Come, sir, to draw toward an end with you :—
Good night, mother, [Exeunt, Hamlet dragging Polonius.

 ACT IV.—SCENE I.

A royal apartment. Enter King, Queen, ROSENCRANTZ, and GUILDENSTERN.

King.

THERE'S matter in these sighs, these profound heaves ;
You must translate : 'tis fit we understand them :
Where is your son ?

Queen. Bestow this place on us a little while.—

[To ROS. and GUIL. who go out.]

Ah, my good lord, what have I seen to-night ?

King. What, Gertrude ? how does Hamlet ?

Queen. Mad as the sea and wind, when both contend
Which is the mightier : in his lawless fit,
Behind the arras hearing something stir,
He whips his rapier out, and cries, A rat ! a rat !
And, in this brainish apprehension, kills
The unseen good old man.

King. O heavy deed !

It had been so with us, had we been there :
His liberty is full of threats to all ;
To you yourself, to us, to every one.
Alas ! how shall this bloody deed be answer'd ?
It will be laid to us ; whose providence
Should have kept short, restrain'd, and out of haunt,
This mad young man : but, so much was our love,
We would not understand what was most fit ;
But, like the owner of a foul disease,
To keep it from divulging, let it feed
Even on the pith of life. Where is he gone ?

Queen. To draw apart the body he hath kill'd :
O'er whom his very madness, like some ore,
Among a mineral of metals base,
Shews itself pure ; he weeps for what is done.

King. O, Gertrude, come away !

The sun no sooner shall the mountains touch,

But we will ship him hence ; and this vile deed
 We must, with all our majesty and skill,
 Both countenance and excuse.—Ho ! Guildenstern !

Enter ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN.

Friends both, go join you with some further aid ;
 Hamlet, in madness, hath Polonius slain,
 And from his mother's closet hath he dragg'd him :
 Go, seek him out ; speak fair, and bring the body
 Into the chapel. I pray you, haste in this.

[Exeunt ROS. and GUIL.]

Come, Gertrude, we'll call up our wisest friends ;
 And let them know, both what we mean to do,
 And what's untimely done : so, haply, slander,
 Whose whisper o'er the world's diameter,
 As level as the cannon to his blank,
 Transports his poison'd shot, may miss our name,
 And hit the woundless air.—O, come away !
 My soul is full of discord, and dismay. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II.

Another room in the same. Enter HAMLET.

Ham. Safely stow'd, but soft,——

Ros. &c. within. Hamlet ! Lord Hamlet !

Ham. What noise ? who calls on Hamlet ? O, here they come.

Enter ROSENCRANTZ and GUILDENSTERN.

Ros. What have you done, my lord, with the dead body ?

Ham. Compounded it with dust, whereto 'tis kin.

Ros. Tell us where 'tis ; that we may take it thence,
 And bear it to the chapel.

Ham. Do not believe it.

Ros. Believe what ?

Ham. That I can keep your counsel, and not mine own.
 Besides, to be demanded of a sponge !—what replication should be made by the son of a king ?

Ros. Take you me for a sponge, my lord ?

Ham. Ay, sir; that soaks up the king's countenance, his rewards, his authorities. But such officers do the king best service in the end: he keeps them, like an ape, in the corner of his jaw; first mouth'd, to be last swallow'd: when he needs what you have glean'd, it is but squeezing you: and, sponge, you shall be dry again.

Ros. I understand you not, my lord.

Ham. I am glad of it: a knavish speech sleeps in a foolish ear.

Ros. My lord, you must tell us where the body is, and go with us to the king.

Ham. The body is with the king, but the king is not with the body. The king is a thing——

Guil. A thing, my lord?

Ham. Of nothing: bring me to him. Hide fox, and all after. [Exeunt.]

SCENE III.

Another room in the same. Enter KING attended.

King. I have sent to seek him, and to find the body. How dangerous is it, that this man goes loose? Yet must not we put the strong law on him: He's lov'd of the distracted multitude, Who like not in their judgment, but their eyes; And, where 'tis so, the offender's scourge is weigh'd, But never the offence. To bear all smooth and even, This sudden sending him away must seem Deliberate pause: diseases desperate grown, By desperate appliance are reliev'd, Or not at all.— [Enter ROSENCRANTZ.]
How now? what hath befallen?

Ros. Where the dead body is bestow'd, my lord, We cannot get from him.

King. But where is he?

Ros. Without, my lord; guarded to know your pleasure.

King. Bring him before us.

Ros. Ho, Guildenstern! bring in my lord.

Enter HAMLET and GUILDENSTERN.

King. Now, Hamlet, where's Polonius ?

Ham. At supper.

King. At supper ! Where ?

Ham. Not where he eats, but where he is eaten : a certain convocation of politic worms are e'en at him. Your worm is your only emperor for diet : we fat all creatures else, to fat us ; and we fat ourselves for maggots : your fat king, and your lean beggar, is but variable service ; two dishes, but to one table ; that's the end.

King. Alas, alas !

Ham. A man may fish with the worm that hath eat of a king ; and eat of the fish that hath fed of that worm.

King. What dost thou mean by this ?

Ham. Nothing, but to shew you how a king may go a progress through the guts of a beggar.

King. Where is Polonius ?

Ham. In heaven ; send thither to see : if your messenger find him not there, seek him i'the other place yourself. But, indeed, if you find him not within this month, you shall nose him as you go up the stairs into the lobby.

King. Go seek him there. [To some attendants.]

Ham. He will stay till you come. [Exeunt attendants.]

King. Hamlet, this deed, for thine especial safety,—
Which we do tender, as we dearly grieve
For that which thou hast done,—must send thee hence
With fiery quickness : Therefore prepare thyself ;
The bark is ready, and the wind at help,
The associates tend, and every thing is bent
For England.

Ham. For England ?

King. Ay, Hamlet.

Ham. Good.

King. So is it, if thou knew'st our purposes.

Ham. I see a cherub, that sees them.—But come ; for England !—Farewell, dear mother.

King. Thy loving father, Hamlet.

Ham. My mother : father and mother is man and wife ;
man and wife is one flesh ; and so, my mother. Come,
for England. [Exit.]

King. Follow him at foot ; tempt him with speed aboard.
 Delay it not, I'll have him hence to-night :
 Away ; for every thing is seal'd and done
 That else leans on the affair : pray you, make haste.

[Exeunt Ros. and GUIL.

And England, if my love thou hold'st at aught,
 (As my great power thereof may give thee sense :
 Since yet thy cicatrice looks raw and red
 After the Danish sword, and thy free awe
 Pays homage to us) thou may'st not coldly set
 Our sovereign process ; which imports at full,
 By letters conjuring to that effect,
 The present death of Hamlet. Do it, England ;
 For like the hectick in my blood he rages,
 And thou must cure me : till I know 'tis done,
 Howe'er my haps, my joys will ne'er begin. [Exit.

SCENE IV.

A plain in Denmark. Enter FORTINBRAS and forces.

For. Go, captain, from me, greet the Danish king ;
 Tell him, that by his licence, Fortinbras,
 Craves the conveyance of a promis'd march
 Over his kingdom. You know the rendezvous.
 If that his Majesty would aught with us,
 We shall express our duty in his eye,
 And let him know so.

Cap. I will do't, my lord.

For. Go softly on. [Exeunt FORT. and forces.

Enter HAMLET, ROSENCRANTZ, GUILDENSTERN, &c.

Ham. Good sir, whose powers are these ?

Cap. They are of Norway, sir.

Ham. How purpos'd, sir,

I pray you ?

Cap. Against some part of Poland.

Ham. Who commands them, sir ?

Cap. The nephew to old Norway, Fortinbras.

Ham. Goes it against the main of Poland, sir,

Or for some frontier?

Cap. Truly to speak, sir, and with no addition,
We go to gain a little patch of ground,
That hath in it no profit but the name.
To pay five ducats, five, I would not farm it;
Nor will it yield to Norway, or the Pole,
A ranker rate, should it be sold in fee.

Ham. Why then the Polack never will defend it.

Cap. Yes, 'tis already garrison'd.

Ham. Two thousand souls, and twenty thousand ducats,
Will not debate the question of this straw:
This is the imposthume of much wealth and peace;
That inward breaks, and shews no cause without
Why the man dies.—I humbly thank you, sir.

Cap. God be wi' you, sir. [Exit CAPTAIN.

Ros. Will't please you go, my lord?

Ham. I will be with you straight. Go a little before.

[Exit ROS. and GUILD.

How all occasions do inform against me,
And spur my dull revenge! What is a man,
If his chief good and market of his time,
Be but to sleep, and feed? a beast, no more.
Sure he that made us with such large discourse,
Looking before and after, gave us not
That capability and god-like reason,
'To fust in us unus'd. Now, whether it be Bestial oblivion, or some craven scruple
Of thinking too precisely on the event—
A thought, which, quarter'd, hath but one part wisdom,
And, ever, three parts coward—I do not know
Why yet I live to say, This thing's to do;
Sith I have cause, and will, and strength, and means,
To do't. Examples, gross as earth, exhort me;
Witness, this army, of such mass, and charge,
Led by a delicate and tender prince:
Whose spirit with divine ambition puff'd,
Makes mouths at the invisible event;
Exposing what is mortal, and unsure,
To all that fortune, death, and danger dare,

Even for an egg-shell. Rightly to be great,
 Is, not to stir without great argument ;
 But greatly to find quarrel in a straw,
 When honour's at the stake. How stand I then,
 That have a father kill'd, a mother stain'd,
 Excitements of my reason, and my blood,
 And let all sleep ? while, to my shame, I see
 The imminent death of twenty thousand men,
 That, for a fantasy, and trick of fame,
 Go to their graves like beds ; fight for a plot,
 Whereon the numbers cannot try the cause,
 Which is not tomb enough, and continent,
 To hide the slain ! O, from this time forth,
 My thoughts be bloody, or be nothing worth ! [Exit.

SCENE V.

ELLSINORE. A room in the castle. Enter QUEEN and HORATIO.

Queen.—I will not speak with her.

Hor. She is importunate ; indeed, distract ;
 Her mood will needs be pitied.

Queen. What would she have ?

Hor. She speaks much of her father : says, she hears
 There's tricks i'the world ; and hems, and beats her heart,
 Spurns enviously at straws ; speaks things in doubt,
 That carry but half sense : her speech is nothing,
 Yet the unshaped use of it doth move
 The hearers to collection ; they aim at it,
 And botch the words up fit to their own thoughts :
 Which, as her winks, and nods, and gestures yield them,
 Indeed would make one think, there might be thought,
 'Though nothing sure, yet much unhappily.

Queen. 'Twere good she were spoken with, for she may Dangerous conjectures in ill-breeding minds : [strew
 Let her come in. [Exit HORATIO,
 To my sick soul, as sin's true nature is,
 Each toy seems prologue to some great amiss :

So full of artless jealousy is guilt,
It spills itself in fearing to be spilt.

Re-enter HORATIO with OPHELIA.

Oph. Where is the beauteous majesty of Denmark?

Queen. How now, Ophelia?

Oph. *How should I your true love know,
From another one?*

*By his cockle hat and staff,
And his sandal shoon.*

[Singing.]

Queen. Alas, sweet lady, what imports this song?

Oph. Say you? nay, pray you, mark.

He is dead and gone, lady,

He is dead and gone:

At his head a grass-green turf,

At his heels a stone.

O, ho!

Queen. Nay, but Ophelia——

Oph. Pray you mark.

White his shroud as the mountain snow.

[Sings.]

Enter KING.

Queen. Alas, look here, my lord.

Oph. Larded all with sweet flowers;

Which bewept to the grave did go,

With true love showers.

King. How do you, pretty lady?

Oph. Well, God'ield you! They say, the owl was a baker's daughter. Lord, we know what we are, but know not what we may be. God be at your table!

King. Conceit upon her father.

Oph. Pray, let us have no words of this; but when they ask you what it means, say you this:

Good morrow, 'tis Saint Valentine's day,

All in the morning betime,

And I a maid at your window,

To be your Valentine;

Then up he rose, and don'd his clothes,

And dupp'd the chamber-door,

Let in the maid, that out a maid

Never departed more.

King. Pretty Ophelia.

Oph. Indeed, without an oath, I'll make an end on't.

By Gis, and by Saint Charity,

Alack, and fie for shame!

Young men will do't, if they come to't :

By cock they are to blame.

Quoth she, before you tumbled me,

You promis'd me to wed :

(He answers.)

So would I ha' done, by yonder sun,

An thou hadst not come to my bed.

King. How long hath she been thus?

Oph. I hope all will be well. We must be patient : but I cannot choose but weep, to think, they should lay him i'the cold ground : my brother shall know of it, and so I thank you for your good counsel. Come, my coach! Good night, ladies ; good night, sweet ladies : good night, good night. [Exit.

King. Follow her close ; give her good watch, I pray you. [Exit HORATIO.

O! this is the poison of deep grief ; it springs
 All from her father's death : and now, behold,
 O Gertrude, Gertrude,
 When sorrows come, they come not single spies,
 But in battalions ! First, her father slain ;
 Next, your son gone ; and he most violent author
 Of his own just remove : the people muddied,
 Thick and unwholesome in their thoughts and whispers,
 For good Polonius' death ; and we have done but greenly,
 In higger-mugger to inter him : poor Ophelia,
 Divided from herself, and her fair judgment ;
 Without the which we are pictures, or mere beasts :
 Last, and as much containing as all these,
 Her brother is in secret come from France :
 Feeds on his wonder, keeps himself in clouds,
 And wants not buzzers to infect his ear
 With pestilent speeches of his father's death ;
 Wherein necessity, of matter beggar'd,
 Will nothing stick our person to arraign

In ear and ear. O, my dear Gertrude, this,
Like to a murdering piece in many places
Gives me superfluous death! [A noise within.]

Queen. Alack, what noise is this?

Enter a GENTLEMAN.

King. Attend.

Where are my Switzers? Let them guard the door?
What is the matter?

Gent. Save yourself, my lord;
The ocean overpeering of his list,
Eats not the flats with more impetuous haste,
Than young Laertes, in a riotous head,
O'erbears your officers! The rabble call him, lord:
And as the world were now but to begin,
Antiquity forgot, custom not known,
The ratifiers and props of every word,
They cry: Choose we; Laertes shall be king!
Caps, hands, and tongues, applaud it to the clouds,
Laertes shall be king, Laertes king!

Queen. How cheerfully on the false trail they cry!
O, this is counter, you false Danish dogs.

King. The doors are broke. [Noise within.]

Enter LAERTES arm'd, Danes following.

Laer. Where is the king?—Sirs, stand you all without.

Dan. No, let's come in.

Laer. I pray you, give me leave.

Dan. We will, we will. [They retire without the door.]

Laer. I thank you:—keep the door.—O thou vile king,
Give me my father.

Queen. Calmly, good Laertes.

Laer. That drop of blood that's calm, proclaims me bastard;

Cries, cuckold, to my father; brands the harlot
Even here, between the chaste unsmirched brow
Of my true mother.

King. What is the cause, Laertes,
That thy rebellion looks so giant-like?—
Let him go, Gertrude; do not fear our person;
There's such divinity doth hedge a king,
That treason can but peep to what it would.

Acts little of his will.--Tell me, Laertes,
Why thou art thus incens'd ;—Let him go, Gertrude ;—
Speak, man.

Laer. Where is my father ?

King. Dead.

Queen. But not by him.

King. Let him demand his fill.

Laer. How came he dead ? I'll not be juggl'd with.
To hell, allegiance ! vows, to the blackest devil !
Conscience, and grace, to the profoundest pit !
I dare damnation : to this point I stand,—
That both the worlds I give to negligence,
Let come what comes ; only I'll be reveng'd,
Most thoroughly for my father.

King. Who shall stay you ?

Laer. My will, not all the world's :

And, for my means, I'll husband them so well,
They shall go far with little.

King. Good Laertes,

If you desire to know the certainty
Of your dear father's death, is't writ in your revenge,
That, sweepstake, you will draw both friend and foe,
Winner and loser ?

Laer. None but his enemies.

King. Will you know them, then ?

Laer. To his good friends, thus wide I'll ope my arms,
And, like the kind life-rend'ring pelican,
Repast them with my blood.

King. Why now you speak

Like a good child, and a true gentleman.
That I am guiltless of your father's death,
And am most sensibly in grief for it,
It shall as level to your judgment 'pear,
As day does to your eye.

Danes [Within.] Let her come in.

Laer. How now ! What noise is that ?

Enter OPHELIA fantastically dress'd with straws and flowers.
O heat, dry up my brains ! tears, seven times salt,
Burn out the sense and virtue of mine eye !—

By heaven, thy madness shall be paid with weight,
Till our scale turn the beam. O, rose of May!

Dear maid, kind sister, sweet Ophelia!

O heavens! is't possible, a young maid's wits,
Should be as immortal as an old man's life?

Nature is fine in love; and, where 'tis fine,

It sends some precious instance of itself

After the thing it loves.

Oph. They bore him barefac'd on the bier;

Hey no nonny, nonny hey nonny:

And in his grave rain'd many a tear;—

Fare you well, my dove!

Laer. Hadst thou thy wits, and didst persuade revenge,
It could not move thus.

Oph. You must sing, Down a-down, and you call him a-down-a. O, how the wheel becomes it! It is the false steward, that stole his master's daughter.

Laer. This nothing's more than matter.

Oph. There's rosemary, that's for remembrance; pray you, love, remember: and there is pansies, that's for thoughts.

Laer. A document in madness; thoughts and remembrance fitted.

Oph. There's fennel for you, and columbines:—there's rue for you; and here's some for me:—we may call it herb of grace o' Sundays:—you may wear your rue with a difference.—There's a daisy.—I would give you some violets; but they wither'd all, when my father died:—They say, he made a good end,—

For bonny sweet Robin is all my joy,—

[Sings.

Laer. Thought and affliction, passion, hell itself,
She turns to favour, and to prettiness.

Oph. And will he not come again?

And will he not come again?

No, no, he is dead,

Go to thy death-bed,

He never will come again.

His beard was as white as snow,

All flaxen was his poll:

*He is gone, he is gone,
And we cast away mean;
God a' mercy on his soul!*

And of all christian souls! I pray God. God be wi' you!
[Exit OPHELIA.]

Laer. Do you see this, O God?

King. Laertes, I must commune with your grief,
Or you deny me right. Go but apart,
Make choice of whom your wisest friends you will,
And they shall hear and judge 'twixt you and me:
If by direct, or by collateral hand
They find us touch'd, we will our kingdom give,
Our crown, our life, and all that we call ours,
To you in satisfaction? but, if not,
Be you content to lend your patience to us,
And we shall jointly labour with your soul,
To give it due content.

Laer. Let this be so;
His means of death, his obscure funeral,—
No trophy, sword, nor hatchment, o'er his bones,
No noble rite, nor formal ostentation,—
Cry to be heard, as 'twere from heaven to earth,
That I must call't in question.

King. So you shall;
And where the offence is, let the great axe fall.
I pray you go with me. [Exit.]

SCENE VI.

Another room in the same. Enter HORATIO, and a Servant.

Hor. What are they that would speak with me?

Serv. Sailors, sir;

They say, that they have letters for you.

Hor. Let them come in.— [Exit Servant.]

I do not know from what part of the world
I should be greeted, if not from lord Hamlet.

Enter SAILORS.

1. Sail. God bless you, sir.

Hor. Let him bless thee too.

1. Sail. He shall, sir, an't please him. There's a letter for you, sir; it comes from the ambassador that was bound for England; if your name be Horatio, as I am let to know it is.

Hor. [Reads.] "Horatio, When thou shalt have over-look'd this, give these fellows some means to the king; they have letters for him. Ere we were two days old at sea, a pirate of very warlike appointment gave us chace: finding ourselves too slow of sail, we put on a compell'd valour; and, in the grapple, I boarded them: on the instant, they got clear of our ship; so I alone became their prisoner. They have dealt with me, like thieves of mercy; but they knew what they did; I am to do a good turn for them. Let the king have the letters I have sent, and repair thou to me with as much haste as thou wouldst fly death. I have words to speak in thine ear, will make thee dumb; yet are they much too light for the bore of the matter. These good fellows will bring thee where I am. Rosencrantz and Guildestern, hold their course for England: of them I have much to tell thee. Farewell."

"He that thou knowest thine, Hamlet."

Come, I will give you way for these your letters:
And do't the speedier, that you may direct me,
To him from whom you brought them. [Exeunt.]

SCENE VII.

Another room in the same. Enter KING and LAERTES.

King. Now must your conscience my acquittance seal,
And you must put me in your heart for friend;
Sith you have heard, and with a knowing ear,
That he, which hath your noble father slain,
Pursu'd my life.

Laer. It well appears:—But tell me,
Why you proceeded not against these feats,

So crimeful and so capital in nature,
As by your safety, greatness, wisdom, all things else,
You mainly were stir'd up.

King. O, for two special reasons ;
Which may to you, perhaps, seem much unsinew'd,
But yet to me they are strong. The queen, his mother,
Lives almost by his looks, and for myself,
(My virtue, or my plague, be it either which)
She is so conjunctive to my life and soul,
That, as the star moves not but in his sphere,
I could not but by her. The other motive,
Why to a public count I might not go,
Is, the great love the general gender bear him :
Who, dipping all his faults in their affection,
Work like the spring that turneth wood to stone,
Convert his gyves to graces ; so that my arrows,
Too slightly timber'd for so loud a wind,
Would have reverted to my bow again,
And not where I had aim'd them.

Laer. And so have I a noble father lost ;
A sister driven into desperate terms,
Whose worth, if praises may go back again,
Stood challenger on mount of all the age
For her perfections :—But my revenge will come.

King. Break not you sleeps for that ; you must not
That we are made of stuff so flat and dull, [think
That we can let our beard be shook with danger,
And think it pastime. You shortly shall hear more :
I lov'd your father, and we love yourself,
And that, I hope, will teach you to imagine,—
How now ? What news ?

Enter a Messenger.

Mess. Letters, my lord, from Hamlet :
This to your majesty ; this to the queen.

King. From Hamlet ! Who brought them ?

Mess. Sailors, my lord, they say ; I saw them not ;
They were given me by Claudio, he receiv'd them
Of him that brought them.

King. Laertes, you shall hear them :—

Leave us.

[Exit Messenger.]

(Reads.) “ High and mighty, you shall know, I am set “ naked on your kingdom. To-morrow shall I beg leave
“ to see your kingly eyes: when I shall, first asking
“ your pardon thereunto, recount the occasion of my “ sudden, and more strange return. Hamlet.”

What should this mean? Are all the rest come back?

Or is it some abuse, and no such thing?

Laer. Know you the hand?

King. 'Tis Hamlet's character. Naked,—

And, in a postscript here, he says, alone :

Can you advise-me?

Laer. I am lost in it, my lord. But let him come;

It warms the very sickness in my heart,

That I shall live and tell him to his teeth,

Thus didst thou.

King. If it be so, Laertes,—

As how should it be so?—how otherwise?

Will you be rul'd by me?

Laer. Ay, my lord;

So you will not o'er-rule me to a peace.

King. To thine own peace. If he be now return'd—

As checking at his voyage, and that he means

No more to undertake it—I will work him

To an exploit, now ripe in my device,

Under the which he shall not choose but fall;

And for his death no wind of blame shall breathe;

But even his mother shall uncharge the practice,

And call it accident.

Laer. My lord, I will be rul'd;

'The rather, if you could devise it so,

That I might be the organ.

King. It falls right.

You have been talk'd of since your travel much,

And that in Hamlet's hearing, for a quality

Wherein, they say, you shine: your sum of parts

Did not together pluck such envy from him;

As did that one ; and that, in my regard,
Of the unworthiest siege.

Laer. What part is that, my lord ?

King. A very ribband in the cap of youth,
Yet needful too ; for youth no less becomes
The light and careless livery that it wears,
Than settled age, his sables and his weeds,
Importing health and graveness.—Two months since,
Here was a gentleman of Normandy,—
I have seen myself, and serv'd against the French,
And they can well on horseback : but this gallant
Had witchcraft in't ; he grew unto his seat ;
And to such wond'rous doing brought his horse,
As he had been incorps'd and demi-natur'd
With the brave beast : so far he topp'd my thought,
That I, in forgery of shapes and tricks,
Come short of what he did.

Laer. A Norman was't ?

King. A Norman.

Laer. Upon my life, Lamond.

King. The very same.

Laer. I know him well : he is the brooch, indeed,
And gem of all the nation.

King. He made confession of you :
And gave you such a masterly report,
For art and exercise in your defence,
And for your rapier most especial,
That he cried out, 'twould be a sight indeed,
If one could match you : the scrimers of their nation,
He swore had neither motion, guard, nor eye,
If you oppos'd them : Sir, this report of his
Did Hamlet so envenom with his envy,
That he could nothing do, but wish and beg
Your sudden coming o'er, to play with you.
Now, out of this——

Laer. What out of this, my lord ?

King. Laertes, was your father dear to you ?
Or are you like the painting of a sorrow,
A face without a heart ?

Laer. Why ask you this ?

King. Not that I think, you did not love your father ;
 But that I know, love is begun by time ;
 And that I see, in passages of proof,
 Time qualifies the spark and fire of it.
 There lives within the very flame of love
 A kind of wick, or snuff, that will abate it ;
 And nothing is at a like-goodness still ;
 For goodness, growing to a plurisy,
 Dies in his own too-much : That we would do,
 We should do when we would ; for this would changes,
 And hath abatements and delays as many,
 As there are tongues, are hands, are accidents ;
 And then this should is like a spendthrift sigh,
 That hurts by easing. But, to the quick o'the ulcer :
 Hamlet comes back : what would you undertake,
 To show yourself in deed your father's son
 More than in words ?

Laer. To cut his throat i'the church.

King. No place, indeed, should murder sanctuarize ;
 Revenge should have no bounds. But, good Laertes,
 Will you do this, keep close within your chamber :
 Hamlet return'd, shall know you are come home :
 We'll put on those shall praise your excellence,
 And set a double varnish on the fame
 The Frenchman gave you ; bring you, in fine, together,
 And wager o'er your heads : he being remiss,
 Most generous and free from all contriving,
 Will not peruse the foils ; so that with ease,
 Or with a little shuffling you may choose
 A sword unbated, and, in a pass of practice,
 Requite him for your father.

Laer. I will do't :

And, for the purpose, I'll anoint my sword.
 I bought an unction of a mountebank,
 So mortal, that, but dip a knife in't,
 Where it draws blood, no cataplasm-so rare,
 Collected from all simples that have virtue
 Under the moon, can save the thing from death,

That is but scratch'd withal : I'll touch my point,
With this contagion ; that, if I gall him slightly,
It may be death.

King. Let's further think of this ;
Weigh, what convenience, both of time and means,
May fit us to our shape : if this should fail,
And that our drift look thro' our bad performance,
'Twere better not assay'd : therefore, this project
Should have a back, or second, that might hold,
If this should blast in proof. Soft ;—let me see :—
We'll make a solemn wager on your cunning, —
I ha't :

When in your motion you are hot and dry,
(As make your bouts more violent to that end)
And that he calls for drink, I'll have prefer'd him
A chalice for the nonce ; whereon but sipping,
If he by chance escape your venom'd stuck,
Our purpose may hold there. But stay, what noise ?

Enter QUEEN.

How now, sweet queen ?

Queen. One woe doth tread upon another's heel,
So fast they follow :—Your sister's drown'd, Laertes.

Laer. Drown'd ! O, where ?

Queen. There is a willow grows ascaunt the brook,
That shews his hoar leaves in the glassy stream ;
Therewith fantastic garlands did she make
Of crow-flowers, nettles, daisies, and long purples,
That liberal shepherds give a grosser name,
But our cold maids do dead-men's fingers call them :
There on the pendant boughs, her coronet weeds
Clambering to hang, an envious sliver broke ;
When down her weedy trophies, and herself,
Fell in the weeping brook. Her clothes spread wide ;
And, mermaid-like, a while they bore her up :
Which time she chanted snatches of old tunes,
As one incapable of her own distress,
Or like a creature native and indu'd
Unto that element ; but long it could not be.
Till that her garments, heavy with their drink,

Pull'd the poor wretch from her melodious lay,
To muddy death.

Laer. Alas then, she is drown'd?

Queen. Drown'd, drown'd.

Laer. Too much of water hast thou, poor Ophelia,
And therefore I forbid my tears: But yet
It is our trick; nature her custom holds,
Let shame say what it will: when these are gone,
The woman will be out.—Adieu, my lord!
I have a speech of fire, that fain would blaze,
But that this folly drowns it.

[Exit.]

King. Let's follow, Gertrude:
How much I had to do to calm his rage!
Now fear I, this will give it start again.
Therefore, let's follow.

[Exeunt.]

ACT V.—SCENE I.

A Church-yard. Enter two Clowns, with spades, &c.

1. Clo. Is she to be buried in Christian burial, that wilfully seeks her own salvation?

2. Clo. I tell thee, she is; therefore, make her grave straight: the crowner hath set on her, and finds it Christian burial,

1. Clo. How can that be, unless she drown'd herself in her own defence?

2. Clo. Why, 'tis found so.

1. Clo. It must be se offendendo; it cannot be less. For here lies the point: If I drown myself wittingly, it argues an act: and an act hath three branches; it is, to act, to do, and to perform: argal, she drown'd herself wittingly.

2. Clo. Nay, but hear you, goodman delver.

1. Clo. Give me leave. Here lies the water; good: Here stands the man; good: If the man go to this water, and drown himself, it is, will he, nill he, he goes; mark you that: but if the water come to him, and drown him, he drowns not himself: argal, he that is not guilty of his own death, shortens not his own life.

2. Clo. But is this the law?

1. Clo. Ay, marry is't; crowner's-quest law.

2. Clo. Will you ha' the truth on't? If this had not been a gentlewoman, she should have been buried out of Christian burial.

1. Clo. Why, there thou say'st: and the more pity, that great folks should have more countenance in this world to drown or hang themselves, more than their even Christian. Come; my spade. There is no ancient gentlemen but gardeners, ditchers, and grave-makers; they hold up Adam's profession.

2. Clo. Was he a gentleman?

1. Clo. He was the first that ever bore arms.

2. Clo. Why, he had none.

1. Clo. What, art a heathen? How dost thou understand the scripture? The scripture says, Adam digg'd: Could he dig without arms? I'll put another question to thee, if thou answer'st me not to the purpose, confess thyself—

2. Clo. Go to.

1. Clo. What is he, that builds stronger than either the mason, the shipwright, or the carpenter?

2. Clo. The gallows-maker; for that frame outlives a thousand tenants.

1. Clo. I like thy wit well, in good faith; the gallows does well: but how does it well? it does well to those that do ill: now thou dost ill, to say, the gallows is built stronger than the church; argal, the gallows may do well to thee. To't again; come.

2. Clo. Who builds stronger than a mason, a shipwright, or a carpenter?

1. Clo. Ay, tell me that, and unyoke.

2. Clo. Marry, now I can't tell.

1. Clo. To't.

2. Clo. Mass, I cannot tell.

Enter HAMLET and HORATIO, at a distance.

1. Clo. Cudgel thy brains no more about it; for your dull ass will not mend his pace with beating: and, when you are ask'd this question next, say, a grave-maker; the houses that he makes, last till doomsday. Go, get thee to ~~Laughan~~, and fetch me a stoup of liquor.

[Exit 1. Clo.]

He digs, and sings.

In youth when I did love, did love,

Methought, it was very sweet,

To contract, O, the time, for, ah, my beloved,

O, methought there was nothing meet.

Ham. Has this fellow no feeling for his business; he sings at grave-making.

Hor. Custom hath made it in him a property of easiness.

Ham. 'Tis e'en so; the hand of little employment hath the daintier sense.

1. Clo. But age with his stealing steps,

Hath claw'd me in his clutch,

And hath shipped me into the land,

As if I had never been such. [Throws up a scull.]

Ham. That scull had a tongue in it, and could sing once: how the knave jowls it to the ground, as if it were Cain's jaw-bone, that did the first murder! This might be the pate of a politician, which this ass now o'er-reaches; one that would circumvent God, might it not?

Hor. It might, my lord.

Ham. Or of a courtier; which could say, Good-morrow, sweet lord! How dost thou, good lord? This might be my lord such-a-one, that prais'd my lord such-a-one's horse, when he meant to beg it; might it not?

Hor. Ay, my lord.

Ham. Why, e'en so; and now my lady Worm's; chapless, and knock'd about the mazzard with a sexton's spade: here's fine revolution, an we had the trick to see't. Did these bones cost no more the breeding, but to play at loggats with them? Mine ache to think on't.

1. Clo. A pick-axe and a spade, a spade,

For—and a shrouding sheet ;

O, a pit of clay for to be made

For such a guest is meet. [Throws up a scull.

Ham. There's another : why may not that be the scull of a lawyer ? Where be his quiddits now, his quillets, his cases, his tenures, and his tricks ? Why does he suffer this rude knave now to knock him about the sconce with a dirty shovel, and will not tell him of his action of battery ? Humph ! This fellow might be in's time a great buyer of land, with his statutes, his recognizances, his fines, his double vouchers, his recoveries : is this the fine of his fines, and the recovery of his recoveries, to have his fine pate full of fine dirt ? Will his vouchers vouch him no more of his purchases, and double ones too, than the length and breadth of a pair of indentures ? The very conveyances of his lands will hardly lie in this box ; and must the inheritor himself have no more ? ha ?

Hor. Not a jot more, my lord.

Ham. Is not parchment made of sheep-skins ?

Hor. Ay, my lord, and of calves-skins too.

Ham. They are sheep, and calves, which seek out assurance in that. I will speak to this fellow :—Whose grave's this, sirrah ?

1. Clo. Mine, sir.—

O, a pit of clay for to be made,

[Sings.

For such a guest is meet.

Ham. I think it be thine, indeed ; for thou liest in't.

1. Clo. You lie out on't, sir, and therefore it is not your's : for my part, I do not lie in't, yet it is mine.

Ham. Thou dost lie in't, to be in't, and say it is thine : tis for the dead, and not for the quick ; therefore thou liest.

1. Clo. 'Tis a quick lie, sir ; 'twill away again, from me to you.

Ham. What man dost thou dig it for ?

1. Clo. For no man, sir.

Ham. What woman, then ?

1. Clo. For none neither.

Ham. Who is to be buried in't ?

1. Clo. One, that was a woman, but, rest her soul, she's dead.

Ham. How absolute the knave is ! we must speak by the card, or equivocation will undo us. By the Lord, Horatio, these three years I've taken note of it, the age is grown so picked, that the toe of the peasant comes so near the heel of the courtier, he galls his kibe.—How long hast thou been a grave-maker ?

1. Clo. Of all the days i'the year, I came to't that day that our last king Hamlet overcame Fortinbras.

Ham. How long's that since.

1. Clo. Cannot you tell that ? Every fool can tell that: it was that very day that young Hamlet was born : he that is mad, and sent into England.

Ham. Ay, marry, why was he sent into England ?

1. Clo. Why, because he was mad : he shall recover his wits there ; or if he do not, 'tis no great matter there.

Ham. Why ?

1. Clo. 'Twill not be seen in him there ; there the men are as mad as he.

Ham. How came he mad ?

1. Clo. Very strangely, they say.

Ham. How strangely.

1. Clo. 'Faith, e'en with losing his wits.

Ham. Upon what ground ?

1. Clo. Why, here in Denmark ; I have been sexton here, man and boy, thirty years.

Ham. How long will a man lie i'the earth ere he rot ?

1. Clo. Faith, if he be not rotten before he die, (as we have many pockey corsers now-a-days, that will scarce hold the laying in,) he will last you some eight year, or nine year : a tanner will last you nine year.

Ham. Why he more than another ?

1. Clo. Why, sir, his hide is so tann'd with his trade, that he will keep out the water a great while ; and your water is a sore decayer of your whoreson dead body.

Here's a scull now hath lain you i'the earth three-and-twenty years.

Ham. Whose was it?

1. Clo. A whoreson mad fellow's it was: whose do you think it was?

Ham. Nay, I know not.

1. Clo. A pestilence on him for a mad rogue? he pour'd a flaggon of Rhenish on my head once. This same scull, sir, was Yorick's scull, the king's jester.

Ham. This?

[Takes the scull.]

1. Clo. E'en that.

Ham. Alas, poor Yorick!—I knew him, Horatio; a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy: he hath borne me on his back a thousand times; and now, how abhorr'd in my imagination it is! my gorge rises at it. Here hung those lips, that I have kiss'd, I know not how oft. Where be your gibes now? your gambols? your songs? your flashes of merriment, that were wont to set the table on a roar? Not one now, to mock your own grinning? quite chap-fallen? Now get you to my lady's chamber, and tell her, let her paint an inch thick, to this favour she must come; make her laugh at that. Pr'ythee, Horatio, tell me one thing.

Hor. What's that, my lord?

Ham. Dost thou think, Alexander look'd o'this fashion i'the earth?

Hor. E'en so.

Ham. And smelt so? pah! [Throws down the scull.]

Hor. E'en so, my lord.

Ham. To what base uses we may return, Horatio! Why may not imagination trace the noble dust of Alexander, till he find it stopping a bung-hole?

Hor. 'Twere to consider too curiously, to consider so.

Ham. No, faith, not a jot, but to follow him thither with modesty enough, and likelihood to lead it: As thus: Alexander died, Alexander was buried, Alexander returneth to dust; the dust is earth; of earth we make loam: And why, of that loam, whereto he was converted, might they not stop a beer-barrel?

Imperious Cæsar, dead, and turn'd to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away:
O, that the earth, which kept the world in awe,
Should patch a wall, to expel the winter's flaw!

But soft! but soft! aside:—Here comes the king.

Enter Priests, &c. in procession; the corpse of OPHELIA, LAERTES and mourners following it; KING, QUEEN, their trains, &c.

The queen, the courtiers; who is this they follow?
And with such maimed rites! This doth betoken,
The corse they follow, did with desperate hand
Foredo its own life. 'Twas of some estate:

Couch we a while, and mark, [Retiring with Hor.]

Laer. What ceremony else?

Ham. That is Laertes,

A very noble youth: Mark.

Laer. What ceremony else?

1. Priest. Her obsequies have been as far enlarg'd
As we have warranty: her death was doubtful;
And, but that great command o'ersways the order,
She should in ground unsanctify'd have lodg'd
Till the last trumpet; for charitable prayers,
Shards, flints, and pebbles should be thrown on her:
Yet here she is allow'd her virgin crants,
Her maiden strewments, and the bringing home
Of bell and burial.

Laer. Must there no more be done?

1. Priest. No more be done.

We should profane the service of the dead,
To sing a requiem, and such rest to her,
As to peace-parted souls.

Laer. Lay her i'the earth;—

And from her fair and unpolluted flesh
May violets spring!—I tell thee churlish, priest,
A minist'ring angel shall my sister be,
When thou liest howling.

Ham. What, the fair Ophelia!

Queen. Sweets to the sweet! Farewell!

[Scattering flowers.]

I hop'd, thou should'st have been my Hamlet's wife:

I thought thy bride-bed to have deck'd, sweet maid,
And not have strew'd thy grave.

Laer. O, treble woe

Fall ten times treble on that cursed head,
Whose wicked deed thy most ingenious sense
Depriv'd thee of!—Hold of the earth a while,
Till I have caught her once more in mine arms :

[Leaps into the grave.]

Now pile your dust upon the quick and dead;
Till of this flat a mountain you have made,
To o'er-top old Pelion, or the skyish head
Of blue Olympus.

Ham. [Advancing.] What is he, whose grief
Bears such an emphasis? whose phrase of sorrow
Conjures the wand'ring stars, and makes them stand
Like wonder-wounded hearers? this is I,
Hamlet the Dane.

[Leaps into the grave.]

Laer. The devil take thy soul! [Grappling with him.]

Ham. Thou pray'st not well.

I pr'ythee, take thy fingers from my throat;
For, though I am not splenetic and rash,
Yet I have in me something dangerous,
Which let thy wisdom fear: Hold off thy hand.

King. Pluck them asunder.

Queen. Hamlet, Hamlet!

All. Gentlemen—

Hor. Good, my lord, be quiet.

[The attendants part them, and they come out of the grave.]

Ham. Why, I will fight with him upon this theme,
Until my eye-lids will no longer wag.

Queen. O, my son! what theme?

Ham. I lov'd Ophelia! forty thousand brothers
Could not, with all their quantity of love,
Make up my sum.—What wilt thou do for her?

King. O, he is mad, Laertes.

Queen. For love of God, forbear him.

Ham. 'Zounds, shew me what thou'lt do.

Woul't weep? woul't fight, woul't fast, woul't tear thyself?

Woul't drink up Æsil? eat a crocodile?
 I'll do't—Dost thou come here to whine:
 To outface me with leaping in her grave?
 Be buried quick with her, and so will I:
 And, if thou prate of mountains, let them throw
 Millions of acres on us; till our ground,
 Singeing his pate against the burning zone,
 Make Ossa like a wart! Nay, an thou'lt mouth,
 I'll rant as well as thou.

Queen. This is mere madness:
 And thus awhile the fit will work on him;
 Anon, as patient as the female dove,
 When that her golden couplets are disclos'd,
 His silence will sit drooping.

Ham. Hear you, sir;
 What is the reason that you use me thus?
 I lov'd you ever: but it is no matter;
 Let Hercules himself do what he may,
 The cat will mew, and dog will have his day. [Exit.

King. I pray thee, good Horatio, wait upon him.
[Exit Horatio.
 Strengthen your patience in our last night's speech;
[To Laertes.

We'll put the matter to the present push;—
 Good Gertrude, set some watch over your son.—
 This grave shall have a living monument:
 An hour of quiet shortly shall we see;
 Till then, in patience our proceeding be. [Exit.

SCENE II.

A hall in the castle. Enter HAMLET and HORATIO.

Ham. So much for this, sir; now shall you see the other;
 You do remember all the circumstance?

Hor. Remember it, my lord!

Ham. Sir, in my heart there was a kind of fighting,
 That would not let me sleep; methought, I lay

Worse than the mutines in the bilboes. Rashly,
 And prais'd be rashness for it—Let us know,
 Our indiscretion sometimes serves us well,
 When our deep plots do pall: and that should teach us,
 There's a divinity that shapes our ends,
 Rough-hew them how we will.

Hor. That is most certain.

Ham. Up from my cabin,
 My sea-gown scarf'd about me, in the dark
 Gropp'd I to find out them: had my desire;
 Finger'd their packet; and, in fine, withdrew
 To mine own room again: making so bold,
 My fears forgetting manners, to unseal
 Their grand commission; where I found, Horatio,
 A royal knavery: an exact command—
 Larded with many several sorts of reasons,
 Importing Denmark's health, and England's too,
 With, ho! such bugs and goblins in my life—
 That, on the supervise, no leisure bated,
 No, not to stay the grinding of the axe,
 My head should be struck off.

Hor. Is't possible?

Ham. Here's the commission; read it at more leisure.
 But wilt thou hear now how I did proceed?

Hor. Ay, 'beseech you.

Ham. Being thus benetted round with villanies,
 Or I could make a prologue to my brains,
 They had begun the play;—I sat me down;
 Devis'd a new commission; wrote it fair:
 I once did hold it, as our statist's do,
 A baseness to write fair, and labour'd much
 How to forget that learning; but, sir, now
 It did me yeoman's service. Wilt thou know
 The effect of what I wrote?

Hor. Ay, good, my lord.

Ham. An earnest conjuration from the king,—
 As England was his faithful tributary;
 As love between them like the palm might flourish:

As peace should still her wheaten garland wear,
 And stand a comma 'tween their amities;
 And many such like as's of great charge—
 'That on the view and knowing of these contents,
 Without debatement further, more or less,
 He should the bearers put to sudden death,
 Not shriving-time allow'd.

Hor. How was this seal'd?

Ham. Why, even in that was heaven ordinant;
 I had my father's signet in my purse,
 Which was the model of that Danish seal:
 Folded the writ up in form of the other:
 Subscrib'd it, gave't the impression; plac'd it safely,
 'The changeling never known: Now, the next day
 Was our sea-fight; and what to this was sequent
 'Thou know'st already.

Hor. So Guildenstern and Rosencrantz go to't.

Ham. Why, man, they did make love to this employ-
 'They are not near my conscience; their defeat (ment;
 Does by their own insinuation grow:
 'Tis dangerous, when the baser nature comes
 Between the pass and fell incensed points
 Of mighty opposites.

Hor. Why, what a king is this!

Ham. Does it not, think thee, stand me now upon?
 He that hath kill'd my king, and whor'd my mother;
 Popp'd in between the election and my hopes;
 Thrown out his angle for my proper life,
 And with such cozenage; is't not perfect conscience,
 'To quit him with this arm? and is't not to be damn'd,
 'To let this canker of our nature come
 In further evil?

Hor. It must be shortly known to him from England,
 What is the issue of the business there.

Ham. It will be short: the interim is mine;
 And a man's life's no more than to say, one.
 But I am very sorry, good Horatio,
 'That to Laertes I forgot myself;
 For by the image of my cause, I see

The portraiture of his : I'll count his favours :
But, sure, the bravery of his grief did put me
Into a towering passion.

Hor. Peace ; who comes here ?

Enter OSRICK.

Osr. Your lordship is right welcome back to Denmark.

Ham. I humbly thank you, sir.—Dost know this wa-

Hor. No, my good lord. [ter-fly ?

Ham. Thy state is the more gracious ; for 'tis a vice to know him : he hath much land and fertile : let a beast be lord of beasts, and his crib shall stand at the king's mess : 'tis a chough ; but, as I say, spacious in the possession of dirt.

Osr. Sweet lord, if your lordship were at leisure, I should impart a thing to you from his majesty.

Ham. I will receive it, sir, with all diligence of spirit : your bonnet to his right use ; 'tis for the head.

Osr. I thank your lordship, 'tis very hot.

Ham. No, believe me, 'tis very cold ; the wind is northerly.

Osr. It is indifferent cold, my lord, indeed.

Ham. But yet, methinks, it is very sultry and hot, or my complexion—

Osr. Exceedingly, my lord ; it is very sultry,—as
'twere,—I cannot tell how.—My lord, his majesty bade me signify to you, that he has laid a great wager on your head : Sir, this is the matter—

Ham. I beseech you, remember—

[Hamlet moves him to put on his hat.]

Osr. Nay, good my lord : for my ease, in good faith.
Sir, here is newly come to court, Laertes : believe me, an absolute gentleman, full of most excellent differences, of very soft society, and great showing : indeed, to speak feelingly of him, he is the card or calendar of gentry, for you shall find in him the continent of what part a gentleman would see.

Ham. Sir, this definition suffers no perdition in you ;—
though, I know, to divide him inventorially, would dizzy

the arithmetic of memory; and yet but raw neither, in respect of his quick sail. But, in the verity of extolment, I take him to be a soul of great article; and his infusion of such dearth and rareness, as, to make true diction of him, his semblable is his mirror; and, who else would trace him, his umbrage, nothing more.

Osr. Your lordship speaks most infallibly of him.

Ham. The concernancy, sir? why do we wrap the gentleman in our more rawer breath?

Osr. Sir?

Hor. Is't not possible to understand in another tongue? You will do't, sir, really.

Ham. What imports the nomination of this gentleman?

Osr. Of Laertes?

Hor. His purse is empty already; all his golden words are spent.

Ham. Of him, sir.

Osr. I know you are not ignorant——

Ham. I would you did, sir; yet, in faith if you did, it would not much approve me;—Well, sir.

Osr. You are not ignorant of what excellence Laertes is—

Ham. I dare not confess that, lest I should compare with him in excellence; but, to know a man well, were to know himself.

Osr. I mean, sir, for his weapon; but in the imputation laid on him by them, in his meed he's unfellow'd.

Ham. What's his weapon?

Osr. Rapier and dagger.

Ham. That's two of his weapons: but well.

Osr. The king, sir, hath wager'd with him six Barbary horses; against the which he has impawn'd, as I take it, six French rapiers and poniards, with their assigns, as girdles, hangers, and so: Three of the carriages, in faith, are very dear to fancy, very responsive to the hilts, most delicate carriages, and of very liberal conteit.

Ham. What call you the carriages?

Hor. I knew you must be edified by the margent ere you had done.

Osr. The carriages, sir, are the hangers.

Ham. The phrase would be more germane to the matter, if we would carry a cannon by our sides; I would, it might be hangers till then. But, on: six Barbary horses against six French swords, their assigns, and three liberal-conceited carriages; that's the French bet against the Danish: Why is this impawn'd, as you call it?

Osr. The king, sir, hath lay'd, that in a dozen passes between yourself and him, he shall not exceed you three hits; he hath laid, on twelve for nine; and it would come to immediate trial, if your lordship would vouchsafe the answer.

Ham. How, if I answer, no?

Osr. I mean, my lord, the opposition of your person in trial.

Ham. Sir, I will walk here in the hall: if it please his majesty, it is the breathing-time of day with me: let the foils be brought; the gentleman willing, and the king hold his purpose, I will win for him, if I can; if not, I will gain nothing but my shame, and the odd hits.

Osr. Shall I deliver you so?

Ham. To this effect, sir: after what flourish your nature will.

Osr. I commend my duty to your lordship. [Exit.

Ham. Yours, yours.—He does well to commend it himself; there are no tongues else for's turn.

Hor. This lapwing runs away with the shell on his head.

Ham. He did comply with his dug before he suck'd it. Thus has he (and many more of the same breed, that, I know, the drossy age dotes on) only got the tune of the time, and outward habit of encounter: a kind of yesty collection, which carries them through and through the most fond and winnow'd opinions; and do but blow them to their trial, the bubbles are out.

Enter a Lord.

Lord. My lord, his majesty commended him to you, by young Osrick, who brings back to him, that you attend him in the hall: he sends to know, if your pleasure hold to play with Laertes, or that you will take longer time.

Ham. I am constant to my purposes, they follow the king's pleasure: if his fitness speaks, mine is ready; now, or whensoever; provided I be so able as now.

Lord. The king and queen, and all are coming down.

Ham. In happy time.

Lord. The queen desires you, to use some gentle entertainment to Laertes before you fall to play.

Ham. She well instructs me. [Exit Lord.

Hor. You will lose this wager, my lord.

Ham. I do not think so; since he went into France, I have been in continual practice; I shall win at the odds. But thou would'st not think, how ill all's here about my heart: but it is no matter.

Hor. Nay, my good Lord—

Ham. It is but foolery; but it is such a kind of gain-giving, as would, perhaps, trouble a woman.

Hor. If your mind dislike any thing, obey it; I will forestal their repair hither, and say, you are not fit.

Ham. Not a whit, we defy augury; there is a special providence in the fall of a sparrow. If it be now, 'tis not to come; if it be not to come, it will be now; if it be not now, yet it will come: the readiness is all: since no man of aught he leaves, knows what is't to leave betimes? Let be.

Enter King, Queen, Laertes, Lords, Osrick, and attendants, with sails, &c.

King. Come, Hamlet, come, and take this hand from me.

[The King puts the band of Laertes into that of Hamlet.]

Ham. Give me your pardon, sir: I have done you wrong; But pardon it, as you are a gentleman.

This presence knows, and you must needs have heard,
How I am punish'd with a sore distraction.

What I have done,

That might your nature, honour and exception,
Roughly awake, I here proclaim was madness.

Was't Hamlet wrong'd Laertes? Never, Hamlet:

If Hamlet from himself be ta'en away,

And when he's not himself does wrong Laertes,

Then Hamlet does it not, Hamlet denies it.
 Who does it then? His madness: If't be so,
 Hamlet is of the faction that is wrong'd;
 His madness is poor Hamlet's enemy.
 Sir, in this audience,
 Let my disclaiming from a purpos'd evil
 Free me so far in your most generous thoughts,
 That I have shot my arrow o'er the house,
 And hurt my brother.

Laer. I am satisfied in nature,
 Whose motive in this case should stir me most,
 To my revenge, but in my terms of honour,
 I stand aloof; and will no reconciliation,
 Till by some elder masters, of known honour,
 I have a voice and precedent of peace,
 To keep my name ungor'd: but, till that time,
 I do receive your offer'd love like love,
 And will not wrong it.

Ham. I embrace it freely;
 And will this brother's wager frankly play.—
 Give us the foils; come on.

Laer. Come, one for me.

Ham. I'll be your foil, Laertes; in mine ignorance
 Your skill shall, like a star i'the darkest night,
 Stick fiery off indeed..

Laer. You mock me, sir,

Ham. No, ov this hand.

King. Give them the foils, young Osrick.—Cousin
 Hamlet,
 You know the wager.

Ham. Very well, my lord;
 Your grace hath laid the odds i'the weaker side.

King. I do not fear it; I have seen you both,
 But since he's better'd, we have therefore odds.

Laer. This is too heavy, let me see another.

Ham. This likes me well: These foils have all a length;
 [They prepare to

Os. Ay, my good lord.

King. Set me the stoups of wine upon that table
 If Hamlet give the first or second hit, play.

Or quit in answer of the third exchange,
 Let all the battlements their ordnance fire ;
 The king shall drink to Hamlet's better breath,
 And in the cup an union shall he throw,
 Richer than that which four successive kings
 In Denmark's crown have worn : give me the cups ;
 And let the kettle to the trumpet speak,
 The trumpet to the cannoneer without,
 The cannons to the heavens, the heaven to earth.
Now the king drinks to Hamlet.—Come, begin ;—
 And you, the judges, bear a wary eye.

Ham. Come on, sir.

[They play.]

Laer. Come, my lord.

Ham. One.

Laer. No.

Ham. Judgment.

Os. A hit, a very palpable hit.

Laer. Well,—again.

King. Stay, give me the drink ; Hamlet, this pearl is Here's to thy health.—Give him the cup. (thine ;

[Trumpets sound, and cannons shot off within.]

Ham. I'll play this bout first, set it by awhile.

Come.—Another hit ; what say you ? [They play.]

Laer. A touch, a touch, I do confess.

King. Our son shall win.

Queen. He's fat and scant of breath.—

Here Hamlet, take my napkin, rub thy brows :

The queen carouses to thy fortune, Hamlet.

Ham. Good madam—

King. Gertrude, do not drink. †

Queen. I will, my lord ;—I pray you, pardon me.

King. It is the poison'd cup, 'tis too late. [Aside.]

Ham. I dare not drink yet, Madam, by and by.

Queen. Come, let me wipe thy face.

Laer. My lord, I'll hit him now.

King. I do not think it.

Laer. And yet it is almost against my conscience, [Aside.]

Ham. Come, for the third, Laertes : you do but dally ;

I pray you, pass with your best violence ;
I am afraid you make a wanton of me.

Laer. Say you so? come on.

[They play.]

Osr. Nothing neither way.

Laer. Have at you now.

[LAERTES wounds HAMLET; then, in scuffling, they change rapiers, and HAMLET wounds LAERTES.]

King. Part them, they are incens'd.

Ham. Nay, come again.

[The Queen falls.]

Osr. Look to the Queen there, ho!

Hor. They bleed on both sides:—How is it, my lord?

Osr. How is't, Laertes?

Laer. Why, as a woodcock to my own springe, Osrick ;
I am justly kill'd with mine own treachery.

Ham. How does the queen?

King. She swoons to see them bleed.

Queen. No, No, the drink, the drink,—O my dear
Hamlet!—

The drink, the drink:—I am poison'd.

[Dies.]

Ham. O villainy!—Ho! let the door be lock'd:

Treachery! seek it out.

[Laertes falls.]

Laer. It is here, Hamlet: Hamlet, thou art slain;

No medicine in the world can do thee good;

In thee there is not half an hour's life;

The treacherous instrument is in thy hand,

Unbated, and envenom'd: the foul practice

Hath turn'd itself on me; lo, here I lie,

Never to rise again: Thy mother's poison'd;

I can no more;—the king, the king's to blame.

Ham. The point

Envenom'd too!—Then, venom, to thy work.

[Stabs the King.]

Osr. and Lords. Treason! treason!

King. O, yet defend me, friends, I am but hurt.

Ham. Here, thou incestuous, murd'rous, damned Dane,
Drink off this potion:—Is the union here?

Follow my mother.

[King dies.]

Laer. He is justly serv'd;

It is a poison temper'd by himself.—

Exchange forgiveness with me, noble Hamlet :
 Mine and my father's death come not upon thee :
 Nor thine on me.

Ham. Heaven make thee free of it ! I follow thee.
 I am dead, Horatio !—Wretched queen, adieu !—
 You that look pale and tremble at this chance,
 That are but mutes or audience to this act,
 Had I but time, (as this fell serjeant, death,
 Is strict in his arrest,) O, I could tell you,—
 But let it be :—Horatio, I am dead ;
 Thou liv'st ; report me and my cause aright
 To the unsatisfied.

Hor. Never believe it ;
 I am more an antique Roman than a Dane,
 Here's yet some liquor left.

Ham. As thou'rt a man,—
 Give me the cup ; let go ; by heaven, I'll have it.
 O God ! Horatio, what a wounded name,
 Things standing thus unknown, shall live behind me ?
 If thou did'st ever hold me in thy heart,
 Absent thee from felicity a while,
 And in this harsh world draw thy breath in pain,
 To tell my story. [March afar off, and shot within.]
 What warlike noise is this ?

Osr. Young Fortinbras, with conquest come from Poland,
 To the ambassadors of England gives
 This warlike volley.

Ham. O, I die, Horatio ;
 The potent poison quite o'er-crows my spirits ;
 I cannot live to hear the news from England :
 But I do prophecy the election lights
 On Fortinbras ; he has my dying voice :
 So tell him, with the occurrents, more and less,
 Which have solicited,—The rest is silence. [Dies.]

Hor. Now cracks a noble heart :—Good night, sweet prince ;
 And flights of angels sing thee to thy rest !
 Why does the drum come hither ? [March within.]

Enter FORTINBRAS, the English Ambassadors, and others.

For. Where is this sight?

Hor. What is it you would see?

If aught of woe, or wonder, cease your search.

Fort. This quarry cries, on havock!—O proud death:
What feast is toward in thine infernal cell,
That thou so many princes at a shot,
So bloodily hast struck?

Amb. The sight is dismal;

And our affairs from England come too late:

The ears are senseless, that should give us hearing,

To tell him, his commandment is fulfill'd,

That Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are dead:

Where should we have our thanks?

Hor. Not from his mouth,

Had it the ability of life to thank you;

He never gave commandment for their death.

But since, so jump upon this bloody question,

You from the Polack wars, and you from England,

Are here arriv'd; give order, that these bodies

High on a stage be placed to the view;

And let me speak to the yet unknowing world,

How these things came about: So shall you hear

Of cruel, bloody, and unnatural acts;

Of accidental judgments, casual slaughters;

Of deaths put on by cunning, and forc'd cause;

And in this upshot, purposes mistook

Fall'n on the inventors' heads: all this can I

Truly deliver.

Fort. Let us haste to hear it, and call the noblest to the audience.

For me, with sorrow, I embrace my fortune;

I have some rights of memory in this kingdom,

Which now to claim, my vantage doth invite me.

Hor. Of that I shall have also cause to speak, and from his mouth, whose voice will draw no more:

but let this same be presently perform'd,

even while men's minds are wild; lest more mischance

in plots and errors, than

Fort. Let four captains
Bear Hamlet, like a soldier, to the stage ;
For he was likely, had he been put on,
To have prov'd most royally : and, for his passage,
The soldiers' music, and the rites of war,
Speak loudly for him.—

Take up the bodies :—Such a sight as this Becomes the field, but here shews much amiss.

Go, bid the soldiers shoot.

[A dead march.

[Exeunt, bearing off the dead bodies ; after which a peal of ordnance is shot off.
