

Sarah Euters Nectons ang tit/12 roufold

Albion QUEENS:

OR, THE

DEATH

OI

MARY Queen of Scotland.

As it is ACTED at the

THEATRE-ROYAL,

By His Majesty's Scrvants.

Written by Mr. BANKS, Author of the TRAGEDY of the Unhappy Favourite, or the Earl of Effex.

LONDON:

Printed for J. Darwy in Bartholomew-Clofe, A. Bet-TESWORTH in Pater-nofter Rews, and F. CLAY without Tromple-Bar; all in Truft for Richard, James, and Bethel Wellington: And fold also by Ri. Galdwell in Newgate Street. M.DCC.XXVIII. Price 15.

PROLOGUE.

IT H Farce and Sound too long you have been teaz'd, V Tho some are with such wretched Joys most pleas'd; Bus We, this Night in other Paths hall move, That lead to Honour, Innocence and Love : A Queen distress'd, to touch the Ladies Eyes, A Noble Prince, that for her Beauty dies; A British Queen, lamenting their sad Fate, And mourning over the Unfortunate. Who is there here, that cou'd fo cruel be, As not to mourn at their fad Tragedy? To fee fuch Honour, and fuch Beauty fall, And England's Queen mourn at their Funeral. Our Noble Britons, the for Arms renown'd, Have for the Fair a tender Pity found. And in the midst of Slaughter fill took care Not to destroy, but guard the tender Fair. Then les this Night your Courages be feen, And guard the British and the Albion Queen.

EPILOGUE.

By Jo. Haines.

HO could have ever thought to have feen me
Tack'd to the End of a deep Tragedy?
They might as well have dreft me out to dance,
Or fens me an Ambaffador to France.
The tam fore'd to come, for, fay my Maffers,
Tour Phiz will bring us off from all Difafters.
2

Now

Now you must know, I thought a Beau might be A better Suppliant for a Tragedy; His pretty Face, his Dimple, and his Smile, Might many tender Ladies Hearts bequile. But nolens, volens, Pricky must appear; And what am I to fay, now I'm come here? Oh! I'm to tell you that the Players Say, Unless you kindly do receive this Play, There's above half of 'em will lose their Pay. Nay more, the Poet too will lofe his Gains, Unless you're pleas'd to smile upon Count Haines. Let me not fue in vain, You Shining Sphere, Nor you my Pit-Friends, that to me are dear ; My middle Gallery-Friends will fure affift me, And for the upper Tire they never mist me. Then let your hearty Wishes all be shown, To give the Albion Queens their just Renown.

Dramatis

Dramatis Personæ.

MEN.

Duke of Norfelk, Mr. Wiltr.
Davijon, Mr. Booth.
Morton, Mr. Mills.
Cécil, Mr. Keen.
Gifford, Mr. Bickerflafe.

WOMEN.

Queen Elizabeth, Mrs. Knight.

Mary Queen of Scots, Mrs. Oldfield.

Dowglas the Page, Mrs. Porter.

Ladies, Gentlemen, Guards, Ca

Dramagia Perfones

N 2 18

The state of the s

过生 16 日 9

Assa Straigh and Grees of some find coulded have to large to large to

Links, Grifforen, Charles de

THE

Albion QUEENS:

OR,

The DEATH of

MARY, Queen of Scots.

ACT I. SCENE I.

Cecil and Davison, discover'd.

Cec. R

Emember Davison, thou Rising Star!
Who took thee from thy Lowness!
made thee shine
A living Monument of thy Mistress'

A living Monument of thy Mistress' Favour; Then plac'd thee on this Height, whence to look down, Men will appear like Birds or Infects to thee:

Re

8 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

Remember too, thou now art in a Sphere Where Princes to their Favours fet no Bounds, And their Rewards, tho large and bottomlefs, Yet Statesmen have no Mean betwixt The extremest Pinnade of Height and Ruin,

Dav. Wifeft, and Justest, that in Courts e'er dwelt!
Great Oracle of Britain! Prince of Statessen!
Whom Men, nor Angels, Gearce can praise enough,
Not Divine Plate ever spoke like you;
Plate, on whose sweet Lips the Muses sun,
And Bees distill'd their Honey in his Cradle.

Cee. No more, his worle than Death for meto hear A fawning Gringer or fubmiffive Praifer; 1 floud fullefet thee, did 1 not believe Thou are as far beyond a Sycophan, 8 I'm above the reach of Flattery; Thou are my Equal now, nay more, my Friend; Thou are my Equal now, nay more, my Friend; Thou are my honeft Man, of Parts, a Compound That I have chosen 'mongst the Race of Men, To make a Phasins in the Court.

Dav. The Powers above, the ftrongest Guard of Kings.
Still place such Men about our Royal Mistress.

Cés. But now especially she needs their Aid,
Now, when the madnes of the Nation's grown
To such a height, 'tis to be sear'd—Death walks
In Massurends, in strange and many Shapes:
The Court that was the Planet, that shou'd guide us,
I spown into Eclipse, with these Constissors;
Feats, Fallonses and Factious woud the Stage :
Two Queens, the like was never seen before,
By different Aris oppose each other's Interest.
Our Virgin Constellation shires but dim,
Whist Marry, Stessland's Queen, that Northern Star,
Tho in a Prison, dars her viral Light.

Dav. The Champions of her Faction are not few ; Mongh whom, the gallant Duke of Norph's chief, A Prince that has no equal in his Fame, A Man of Power and We thin to be reclaim'd; For his own fake, as well as for the Queen's

And shou'd he plunge himself too deep in this, England may chance to lose the best of Men.

Gee. The Queen's peculiar fafety be thy Care, Therefore the Secretary's Place thine; In which high Post, as from a Perspective, Thou may'st discover all her Foreign Foes,

Thou may'ft discover all her Foreign Foes, And home Conspiracies, how dark soe'er: But most of all, let Mary be thy fear, And what thou hear'ft, inform me of: 1'

And what thou hear'ft, inform me of: I'll act, But in thy shape; be thou my Proxystill.

Dav. Not Cromwell ever trod with fo much Care

The District Steps of the most Rushish.

As I the Dictates of the wifer Burkityh— The Seatiff Regent yelfreddy artivd, With new-difcover'd Plots to accuse his Queen; And fince (to posite hefe beavy Articles) The Duke of Norspike is from Mary come, And both are to have Audience straight,—Behold The Man I (peak of,

Cec. Wait you on the Queen.

Exit Day.

Enter Norfolk.

Your Grace is welcome from the Queen of Scotland. How fares that fad, and most illustrious Pattern Of all Misfortunes?

Nor. Doft thou pity her?

Olet me fly, and hold thee to my Bofom,
Clofer, and far more dear than ever Bride
Was held, by hafty Bridegroom in his Arms!

Cec. My Lord, you make me blush.

Nor. Should the Hyena thus bemoan, And thus the neighbouring Rocks but echo him, My Queen, I wou'd devour the precious Sound, And thus embrace him, from whole Lips it came, Tho wide and gaping, as the Mouth of Hell—My Lord, I came to feek you; I've a Secret T' unfold, which while I keep it weighs me down, And when 'it's our, I fear it will undo me.

10 The Albion Queens; or, the

Ces. Then hold it in your Breast; let me not know What is not fit for you to speak, nor me to hear.

Nor. Now, only now's the time, the Traitor Morton,

The false, usurping Regent, is return'd With all the Magazine of Hell about him:

The Queen, my lovely Albien Queen's in danger; And if thou wilt not traight advife thy Friend, Mary's undone, and Norfolk is no more.

Cec. What is't, my Lord ?

Nor. First wear the Looks of Mildness, Such as forgiving Fathers do to Sons; Yet 'tis no Treason, unless Love be Treason.

Cec. Out with't, my Lord. Nor. I love the Queen of Sceeland.

Cec. Ha! love her! how ?

Nor. How shou'd she be belov'd?
But as mild Saints do to their Altars bow,

And humble Patriarchs kifs the Copes of Angels.

Nor. Not for a Crown I fwear.

O hadft thou feen her in that Plight as I did, And hadft been Alexander, thou hadft kneel'd, Thrown all thy Globes and Scepters at her Feet, And given a Crown for every Tear the thed.

Cec. I dare not hear you out.

Nor. You must, you shall:
Nor let your Ears be deaf alone, nice Statesman!
And see you Christal Champion o'et our Heads,
Throng'd with Immortal Warriors to her Aid,
Whose Voices louder than the Breath of Thunder,

And fwifter than the Winds, proclaim to Earth Bright Mary's Wrongs, and my eternal Love. Gec. My Lord, you've faid too much, I dare not hear you.

Nor. Is pitying the diffrest, and loving her,

Whom none but Envy hates, a Crime?

Cec. You wou'd not marry her!

Nor. Not marry her!
Yes, tho she stood on Æsna's sulphurous Brink,
Tho its dread Mouth ran o'er with liquid Fire,

And mounting Flames higher than Phabus shot, I'd swim the burning Lake to grasp her thus.

Cat. For Pity recoiled your banish d Reason; Consider what you've faid, it must undo you: The Danger's greater far than I can feign, Do you not know that she's accus'd of Treason? That for the Royal Crown our Mistress wears, She yet stands Candidate against all Force,

And hopes to fnatch it from her rightful Head.

Nor. By those eternal Rays that bles the World,

"Tis Malice foul, as that bright Orb is clear.

O Cacil! tell me what thou truly think's:

O Ceii!! cell me what thou truly hink'ft:
Thou haft a Soul with fining Wifdom crown'd,
Whofe virrous honeft Steps whoever tracks,
May challenge to be bleft: O! tell me then,
Can Sestland's Queen with fuch a Guilt be ftain'd?
Cee. I dare not utter every Thought that pains me,

Nor can I longer with my Oath diffeense,
An Oath that charges me for Life to hold
No dangerous Secret from the Queen—Farewel;
Repent my Lord, and urge this thing no more,
For 'twou'd be fatal, flou'd our Mitrefs know it.

For 'twou'd be fatal, shou'd our Mistress know it.

Nor. The Queen must know it, you shall tell het too,
Therefore I came that thou shoud'st interceed,
You, from whose Lips the Queen takes nothing ill-

You, from whose Lips the Queen takes nothing ill-Cer. Not for the Crown she wears, wou'd I acquaint her.

Beware Ambition, Sir, The Queen has Jealousy to give't a Name, Disloyalty, Ambition is the least.

Nor. Rash Man! thou wrong'st the faithfull'st of her Subjects:

I'd touch a Scorpion rather than her Scepter; Her proud Regalias are but glittering Toys, And the leaft Word, a Smile from Scotland's Queen, Is worth whole Pyramids of Royal Lumber; We only ask but Love and Liberty, Give us but thefe, we'll quit her all the reft; For where Love reigns fo abfolute as here, There is no room for any other Thought.

II

12 The Albion Queens; or, the

Cee. My Lord, confider what you'd have me fay—
I date not speak—not think of it—Brewel.
Nor. Tell her, or by my desperate Love I sweat;
I'll shout it in her Ears, were she hemm'd in
With Bassilists, or were the Queen of Furies:
Love, mighty Love, shou'd lead me, and protect me;
And by those Sowers that pity the differed,
I's she will not hear me, I'll prodaim yet louder,
And trumper to the World the hated Sound

Of Royal Mary's Wrongs.

Cec. My Lord, my Lord, come back—to fave your Life, (For nought but death can follow such a Rashness) Restrain your Passion but a few thort Moments, And I'll acquaint her Favourite Leiesser with it; I'will be more welcome from his Mouth than mine, Him I will arm with Reasons for your sake, As shall the least incense the Queen's displeasure.

Queen Eliz. Morton, Davison, Women, Gentlemen, Guards, all discover'd at the Throne.

Behold she appears, the Scotish Regent too.

Cec. Be fure, my Lord,

Whate'er you fee, and hear, contain your felf.

Q. Eliz. Alas! my Lords, when will you ceafe complaining?

And when fiall this poor Bofom be at reft ?
To fee you fill thus perfectue my Soul,
My Coufin, Sifter, every thing that's dear,
No, rather bury me beneath the Center;
Or by fome Magick, turn me into Stone,
Men fix me like a Statue, as high as Aslas,
Round me fuch gaping Monfters as your felves,
And underneath be this Infeription writ,
Lo, this was once the cuttle Elizabeth,
The Quten of Wolytes and Tygers, not of Men-

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 13

Nor. What's this I hear? 'Twas some Immortal spoke'
Down all ye Stars, and every gaudy Planet,

Down all ye Stars, and every gaudy Planet,
And with your lambent Brightnefs crown her Head.

Mor. The Parliament of Scotland, mighty Queen,
(Begging Protection of their Infant King)
Have fent me to your Maiefty...

Q. E. What King? what Queen have you but Royal

Mary ?

Q. E. You fhall be heard—My Lord, [ro Norfolk]. You're welcome, welcome as you most deferve, The noblets Subject, and the bravets Friend
That e'er adorn'd a Theme—how does the Queen?
How fares my Excellent and Royal Sister?

O quickly tell me!

Alas! I tremble, fearing 'tis a Crime,
To stab your Ears with fuch a doleful Accent:
Cou'd I draw half that Pity from your Majesty,
As she extorted from her Prison Walls,
Then she might hope, for they wou'd echo her,
And sometimes weep at the Relation.

Mor. I beg your Royal Hearing, now, before The Duke has charm'd you with a Siren's Story. By th' impartial Rights of Embassies,

And Justice, that still waits upon your Throne, I humbly claim first to be heard.

Q. E. You shall :

Say what you pleafe, my Lord, you have my leave;
Beware there (cape no Malice from your Tongue.

Mor. So thrive my Hopes, as there is nought but Truth,

And Grounds most just, in what shall be alledg'd.
Our Queen, most mighty Princes, Europe knows,
Has long been wrapt in such a Cloud of Crimes,
That have eclips'd the Lustre of a Crown.
Whosees into her Liste—

3

TA The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

Q. E. My Lord, I do command you ceafe, or if You fpeak one word again to blot your Queen, I thall fufped, as all the World has done, I thall fufped, as all the World has done, Why were the Traitors elfe too black to name, Suppost dby all Contrivers of the Murder, By you protected from the cry of Juffice?

If you have nought elfe to fay, be dumb for ever.

Now. Let Juffice now be filent, whilft from high
After looks, and wonders at her Oracle.

Mor. Your Majelfy mult give me leave to fpeak,
And plead the Right of Nations for my Guard—

Your Subject, I am not.

Nor. Audacious Traitor!

Mor. If innocent! why is the then a Prifoner?
If guilty, why againft the Law of Nature,
And Clamours of a Kingdom your Ally,
Do you bar the Gates of Justice, and fecure her?

Q. E. To Guche a daring Infect as thy felf,

J give no other Anfwer, but my Will;

But as thou represent's 1 Power above thee,

I tell thee, proud Ambassador, 'is fasse,

My Throne's an Altar with fost Mercy crown'd,

Where both your selves and Monarch may be bless,

And all your Wrongs be equally redress.

Nor Dignity, nor tender See was weighd',

Men fled to me for Resinge from a Crown,

As safer in my Casse, than the Throne.

Mor. Nay then I will be beard!

If your Confederate's Danger will not wake you, Then your own Kingdom's mult: behold a Leuer By Navus wrote, and figrd with her own hard, Sent to the Noblemen, her Friends in Scotland; "Wherein fine does afpere your Majefly With Treachery, and Breach of Promife to her, But bids' emb ed Gourage, and expect her, For the is now allur'd of other Means,

Some mighty Man, your Subject, by whose Aid, She hopes to be releas'd, and suddenly. Death of Mary Queen of 3cots.

Nor. Most wife, discerning Princes, did you hear?

He base, degenerate Coward, dreading you,

Now turns his Back, but worries still a Queen.

Q. E. Let him be heard.

Nor. O ftop the Traisor's Mouth! Hear not a Monarch by her Rebel stain'd; By that bright Throne of Justice which you fill, 'Tis falfe, 'tis forg'd, 'tis Lucifer's Invention.

Q. E. My Lord-

Mor. We've Letters too, and Witness, To prove that Allen, Inglessifield, and Ross, Have bargain'd with the Pope, and King of Spain, To excommunicate her Son and you.

And given a Refignation of both Crowns,

To that most Casholick Tyrant for his Service, Q. E. Defend me Powers! this is a Mountain Treason !

Q. E. Defend me Powers! this is a Mountain Treason Nor. Prodigious Monster!

Q. E. Are you not amaz'd ?

My Guard, my faithful Cecil, more my Friends!
Thou art my Delphos, to whose Oracle,

Where shall I have recourse, but unto thee? Whose Bosom is my Guide, whose Breast my Council.

What think you now my Lord? Nor. 'Tis all Conspiracy.

Cec. Reft, and refer this Matter to your Council;

Something may be in this, but more design.

Mor. If all's not true, I'll give my Body up

To Torments, to be rack'd, and die a Villain, Or fland the test with any he that dares.

As far from Man as shou art from Humanity,

Where none cou'd fave thee but thy fellow Monsters?
I'd crush the Treason from thy venom'd Throat,
As I wou'd do its Poison from a Toad.
Mor. My Lord—

Q. E. My Lord of Norfolk, you are to blame.
Nor. I beg your Majesty to grant the Combat;
And I. as Champion for that injur'd Saint.

T,

16 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

I. Thomas Norfolk, with this Arm will prove, That Mary, Queen of Scotland, is abus'd; That she is innocent, and all is forg'd : Nay, till I have made him own to all the World, That he's not born of noble Blood, but that Some Ruffian stept into his Father's place, And more than half begot him.

Mor. Gracious Queen-

Q. E. If Norfolk can fo fuddenly forbear That noble Temper was fo long admir'd. And trample o'er fo rudely in my Presence, The dignity of Crowns and Law of Nations : I can as foon recal the lavish Bounties, That made this Mad-man equal with my felf : Nav. were you Duke of all your fancy'd World, Your Head as high as your aspiring Thoughts-Confess 'tis Frenzy, so go home and sleep, But take this Caution, Sir, along with you-Beware what Pillow 'tis you rest upon.

Nor. If to proclaim the Innocence of her Who has no Liberty to do't her felf. Be fuch a Crime, take then this Life, and Honours, They're more your Majesty's than his that wears 'em ; But while I live, I'll shout it to the Skies, Whilft Echo answers from this Ball of Earth, Queen Mary's wrong'd, Queen Mary's innocent.

Q. E. And must I endure all this ? Hence from my fight be gone, be banish'd ever. Nor. I will obey your Anger, but alas!

You'll hear my Meffage first from the sad Princels. O. F .. What faid fhe ?

Nor. Here is a Letter from that guilty fair one? She bid me thus present it on my Knees.

Q. E. Before I read it, you may speak my Lord. Nor. Mark but the Superfcription-is't not to Her dearest Sifter Queen Elizabeth ?

Q. E. It is.

Nor. But had you feen her write it, with what Love! How with a Sigh she perfum'd every word, Fragrant as Eastern Winds, or Garden Breezes,

That theal the Sweets of Rofes in their Flights; On every Syllable the rain'd down Pearls, And faid inftead of Gems, the fent you Bleffings; For other princely Treature the had none.

Q. E., Alas ! what meaneft thou. Norfolk ₹ Nor. Then the fight<sup>2</sup>d, and faid, Go to the Queen, perhaps upon her Throne, Tell her, mine is an humble Floor, my Palace An old dark Tow<sup>4</sup>r, that thesaming dares the Sky, And feems at var with-Heaven to keep Day out. For eighteen Years of Winter, I ne'er faw The Grafe embroyder<sup>2</sup> do'er with itsy Spangles, Nor Trees Majeflick in their fnowy Robes ₹ Nor ver in Summer, how the Fields were clad,

And how fost Nature gently shifts the Scene, Her heavy Vestment to delightful Green.

Q. E. O Duke, enough, thy Language flabs my Soul.

Nor. No feather'd Chorifters of chearful Note, Salute my dusky Graet to bring the Morn, But Birds of frightful Omen, Seriech-Owls, Batr, And Ravens, Iuch as haune old ruin'd Caftles, Make no diffinición here 'twist Sun and Moon, Bucjoin their clattering Wings with their loud Creaks, That fing hoarder Midnight Dirges all the Howes.

Q. E. O borror! Cesil, flop the Ears, and mine.

Now cruel Marten, it file gully now?

She cannot be ambitious of my Crown;

She cannot be aplorious Thing to fight,

Yet like a glittering, guady Snake it fits,

Wreathing about a Prince's torour'd Brow;

And oh! it has a thouland Stings as fatal.

Thou haft no more to fay?

Nor. I found this mourning Excellence alone, She was alleep, not on a purple Bed, A gorgeous Palate, but upon the Floor, Which a mean Carpec led, whereon line fat, And on a bomely Couch did lean her Head: Two winking Tapers, as a diffance frood; For other Light ne'er bleft that diffinal Place,

3:1-

18 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the Which made the Room look like some sacred Urn, And she, the sad Effigies of her self.

Q. E. No more ; alas! I cannot hear thee out

Pray, rife my Lord.

Nor. O! never till you have Pity. Her Face and Breat! I might difcover bare; And looking nearer, I beheld how Tears Slid from the Fountains of her scarce clos'd Eyes, And every Breath the fetch'd, turn'd to a Shib.

Q. E. O! I am drown'd! I am melted all to Pity.
Nor. Quickly the wak'd, for Grief ne'er refted long, And starting at my sight, she blush'd and said;

And starting at my leght, the bitth'd and sad;
You find me full of woe, but know, my Lord,
'Tis not for Liberty, nor Crowns I weep,
But that your Queen thinks me her Enemy.
Q. E. My Breaft, like a full Prophet, is o'er-charg'd,

A Sea of Piry, rages to get out,
And must have way—Rife Nerfolk, run, baste all,
Fly, with the Wings of darning Meneors, sy
Swift as the merciful Decrees above,
Are glided down the Bartlements of Bliss,
Quick, take your Queen's own Charlot; take my Love,
Dear as Slifer's, nay a Love's Heart,
And bring this mourning Goddess on me straight;
Attack my kin warkling Nichstmade, who long.

And only this mobiling Soliciting to the Aragan, Fetch me this warbling Nightingale, who long, In vain has fung, and flutter din her Cage; And lay the panting Charmer in my Breath, This Heart fhall be her Jaylor, and the

And thou kind Norfolk, fee my Will obey'd.

Note: O run, and execute the Queen's Commands, Prepare her golden Coach, and Snow-white Steeds, The Pattern of that Innocenceshey carry. [Em. 2 Gent. And fly more (wift than Ferss drawn by Doves. Shou'd all the Clouds poor down as once upon you, Make your quick Paffage thro'the falling ocean; Not the dread Thunder, let it flop, nor Lightning flay you.

Mor. Madam.

Q. E. No more, you shall have Justice, Sir, The Accuser, and the accus'd shall both have Justice. Why was I born to Empire, to a Crown, Now when the World is fuch a Monster grown! When Summer freezes, and when Winter springs, When Nature fades, and Loyalty to Kings.

Nor, When first the Fox beheld the awful Lion, He trembl'd, crouch'd, and faw his Lord, with fear, Kings once were Gods, but now like Men appear; 'Tis for the Royal Fur, they hope to win, The Ermin might be fafe, but for her Skin : If Kings have any Fault, 'tis but the Name,

And not who wears it, but the Crown's to blame.

[Exeunt.

THE STATE OF THE S

ACTII. SCENEI.

Norfolk Solus.

Nor. CHOUT the loud World, found all the yast Oreation, Let proud Augusta, clad in Robes of Triumph, Thro' her glad Streets, with golden Trumpets found. And echo to the Ocean that the comes : Maria comes, proclaim it to the Clouds.

Let the four Winds from distant Corners meet, And on their Wings, first bear it into France, Then back again to Edina's proud Walls, 'Till Victim to the found th' afpiring City falls,

Enter Morton.

Mor. My Lord, I came to find you. Nor. Pardon me:

The mighty Joy that has fince fill'd my Breaft. And left no room for other Thoughts, has made me Forget that you and I were angry.

20 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

"Mor. And I. My Lord—
Brave Spirits Bloud's be first do wrath,
Asfeldom as the Center is with Earth-quakes,
Not like the Sea difturb'd with every blaft:
I came to speak with you but as a Friend.
Laft night when haid to reft, prepar'd for Slumber,
That gives for leafe to all but forrowful
And guilty Minds, a sudden dread affail'd me—
Infur'd by Gome Iuperior Power that aw'd
And stole quick Passage to my cruel Bosom.
My barb'rous Zeal, for a more barb'rous Cause,
Began to flack, whillt true Remorfe and Pity
Surreiz'd my Soul, and held it for the Queen.

Nor. O may they ever hold Possession there!

Mor. They shall; all she's accust of, is no more

But that the strove to cast her Fetters off.

The Lion, when he's hunted to the toil,

Spares not himself, nor Foes within his reach;

But wounds his bristly Hide, and tears the Ground,
And all for precious Liberty he roars.

Freedom, which Heaven and Nature gave to all

But cruel Man, and yet more cruel Laws deny.

What if some Nobleman should be found out,

A Subject of this Realm, to wed our Queen?

For here are Subjects of Estate and Rank,

May weigh their Corporate with Princes Crowns.

Nor. Some fuch there are, if she wou'd think 'em'

Mar. She muft, and will, the has no other hopessereing thus wife in a Sicilian Streight, Your jealous Queen will then be freed from Feate By fuch a Match, who all her Reign has dreaded Her Marriage with fome Prince of France or Spain, So to convey her Title to the Crown, To the worft Enemy this Nation has.

Nor. Name but the Man who dares aspire to be Her kneeling Slave, much more her royal Husband? Say is't not Leicester?

Mor, All but your felf-

Wou'd first have nam'd the Duke of Norfolks

Nor. Ha! Mor. Wonder not. Sir.

Nor. I ne'er can be ambitious of a Throne, But if I were, I fiwear to thee O Morton! I would prefer the charming Queen to all. To Growns, to Empire, or ten thousand Lives, Queen did I fay? the Name's too great, too distant, And founds too mighty for a Lover's Hopes.

Mor. The Planets all above, and Men below

Mor. The Planets all above, and Men belo Have mark'd you out to be that happy Man.

Nor. O were the not a Queen,
But born of Sylvan Race, her Royal Seat
Some Mossy Bank, instead of Scotland's Throne;

Some Mony Bank, intread of Sections 1 frone; Under no Canopy but some large Oak; A Crook in that bright Hand that once a Scepter Sway'd, And Coronet of Flowers her Temples wreathing.

And Corone of Flowers her Temples wreathing,
Whil'st round her all her bleating Subjects feed;
Glad I wou'd be to dress me like a Swain.

Glad I wou'd be to drefs me like a Swain, Beg from her Looks alternately my Doom, Mingle our Smiles, and mix our Woestogether,

Sit by her Side, freed from the Chains of Power,
And never think of curft Ambigion more.

Mar. Come come my Lord, you wrong your

Mor. Come, come my Lord, you wrong your Hopes, to hide

This Secret from the only Man can ferve you.

Insuscept from the office and the reverse year. It shows you love the afficient Man Can terry eyou for And as foon as the's arriv'd, I'll wate on the Fall on my Kenees, nay profess of the Earth, Implore my Fardon of that infurd's Salter, Implore my Fardon of that infurd's Salter, And make it my Requett for all her Subjects, To take you for her Husband, and our King, And for her Dower, her Crown and Eberry.

Nor. By all my fining Hopes, if thou are real, And mak'ft us one, as we're one Soul already, I will reward thee with that Crown thou proffer ft, And thou shall reign for Insant James, and me; But, if I find thee falle.

Hear mighty Vengeance, and aid me with thy Scor-

Proms

2.2 The Albion Queens; or, the Lend me thy furest Thunder thus to grasp, Give me the Strength, and Rage of Hercules, That I may take the Montfer in the Hands,

And when he proves a Traitor, flake his Body.
The Queen's approaching, one of us must part,
It is not fit we should be seen together.
You will go wait upon the Queen of Seesland.
O Morton! be thou faithful, and be great.

[Exit.

Morton! be thou faithful, and be great. [Exit.

Mor. Farewel; Greatness, I'll owe unto my self alone, not thee.

Mary, like a proud Fabrick (afely flands, Supporced by great Norfolk as a Column; Saw but this Pillar Off, the Building falls. This hor-brain'd heedlefs Duke, to fave the Queen, Runs, blind with Love, himfelf into the Gin; Thus, when the King of Beath hears his lov'd Mate Roar in the Toil, with Hopes to free her flash; Scours to her Aid, and meet the felf fame Fate:

Enter Q. Eliz. Cecil. Attendants and Guards.

Q. E. My Lord, the Queen's already in our Walls, And passing thro' the City to our Palace. Mor. I hope this Meeting will be kind and lasting, And prove as joyful to your Majesty,

As is our welcome Queen to all your Subjects.

Q. E. My Lord, what mean you, who has welcom'd her?

Mor. I mean the Shouts, the joyful Ring of Bells, Bonfires, that turn'd the Night to finning Day, Soon as your Orders were dispatch'd to bring her.

Q. E. Were they fo much transported at the News?
Mor. No doubt to please your Majelly they did it.
Q. E. It does not please me; why was I not told it?
I wou'd have added Water to their Flames,
Dug up their Wharfs, and Sluices at their Gates,
To quench their faury Fires.

Mor. 'Twas Ignorance Q.E. 'Twas Infolence!

But how behav'd the Queen? Inform me Morton?

Did fine nor look as one that came in Triumph, Deck'd with the Spoils of all my Subjects Hears; ? Did'ft thou not read upon her guilty Cheeks, Strugglings, to finew a falle diffembl'd Grief? [Shout here. Ha in my Ears! and at my Palace Doors, Thus they would dare me, had they Forts and Cannons,

Mor. This founds, as if the Queen were near.

Enter Davison.

Q.E. Speak Davison; what means this Shouting?

Dav. The Queen is come; these thundering Acclamations,

People Very Physical Company of the pure of t

Proclaim your Peoples Joy, where-e'er the paffes.

It was your Royal Pleafure, I thou'd meet
This with'd for, welcome Princefs out of Town,

This wish'd for, welcome Princess out of Town, But cou'd not pass it for the gazing Throng, So numerous, that, had your Majesty beheld them, You wou'd have wept, as Xerxes o'er his Armies,

To think that in an hundred Years, or less,
Not one of those God-like Creatures wou'd be living.

Q. E. Thou art missaken; for had I been there, I shou'd have smil'd to hear the giddy Rout, That in one Moment will their Prince adore;

And facrifice the next.

Dav. Mistake me not, nor your kind Subject's Loves;

Dav. Militake me not, nor your kind Subject's Loves;
I hope they for not mean it as a Fault.

Q.E. Proceed; did they not strive to give thee way? Not for my sake, nor for thy Dignity and Place.

Dav. Alas! 'twas paft their Power! I might as well Oppose my Breast against a gushing Torrent, Or driven the Ocean from its deep Abode,

As stem the multitude—but mark what follow'd; For this was but the Curtain to the Scene, You look displeas'd, I doubt I've faid too much, And sear I have done them wrong.

Q. E. I'll hear; go on.

Dav. The Queen no fooner did appear, but strait The obedient Croud shrunk back at her Command, Making a Lane to guard on every side;

Not

24 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

Not Æolus with his commanding Breath, Did the unruly Wayes fo foon controul, As the with her mild Looks the Rout disperst,

Q. E. 'Tis well: And what am I, ungrateful People? Dav. But till the spoke, they hung like cluster'd Grapes And cover'd all her Chariot like a Vine : The loaded Wheels thick as the Duft they hide And fwarm'd like Bees upon her Coaches fide. Matrons and Virgins in her Praifes fung, Whilst tuneful Bells in grateful Changes rung; All Harmony from Difcord feem'd to flow. And Shouts from Tops of Towers met Shouts below: Nurses, when they with Joy, her Face had seen, Wou'd, pointing to their Children, shew the Queen : Whilft they (ne'er learn'd to talk) for her would try,

And the first Word they spoke, wou'd Mary cry. Q. E. 'Tis false; thou wrong'ft my Subjects, They durft not do this, durft not, did I fay ? My People wou'd not. Shout here.

What's this I hear ?

Are these the perjur'd Slaves, that at my Sight, Have left their Callings, young Men left their Sports, The old, their Crutches too, wou'd fling away, And halt to fee my Face-the Bridegroom at the Altar, That had his Bride by the Hand, at my Approach, Left the unfinish'd Rites to see me pass, And made his eager Hopes wait on his Queen.

Dav. And there are Millions yet, that so wou'd do.

Q. E. No, I'm forgot, a new Thing has their Hearts, I am grown stale, as vulgar to the Sight, As Sun by Day, or Moon and Stars by Night. O Curse of Crowns! O Curse of Regal Power! Learn you, that wou'd fuch Pageantry adore, Trust whining Saints, the cunning Harlots Tears, And liften when the perjur'd Lover swears, Believe the Snake that Woman did delude, [Shout here. But never, never trust the multitude .-

Cec. Run, and proclaim the Queen's Commands to all, On Penalty of Death, they cease this Shouting.

Q. E. No, let 'em stun me, kill me, yes vile Traitors !

Ye shallhave her ye long for, in my Throne; Falfe Queen! you shall enjoy your Sister's Crown, But is shall be with Stings of Scorgions guarded; And a worse Plague to thee, than mine is now; It shall be in the Tower, there thou shalf sing Thy Sirm's Song, and let them shout in Answer, do:

I'll teach ye how to flatter and betray—
Run, seize the Queen, like Lightning strait obey.

Kun, teize the Queen, like Lightning Itrait obey.

[Offers to go out, and comes in again,
Where wou'dt shou go? where wou'd thy Fury drive thee?

What has my Silter, what has Mary done? Must like be punished for my Subjects Crimes? Perhaps the s innocent of all this Joy, And bears the Sound with greater Pain than I. Where shall I wander? In what Place have Reft? The Cottage Floor with verdant Ruthes strewn, Is safter than a wretched Monarch's Throne. [Shows burs.

Dav. The Queen is just on Entrance.

Behold the comes, meer, and conduct ther in, Why flay you here? Each do his Office strait, And see her in my Place; my Crown prefent her, And with your Hollows echo all the Rabble. The Deed is done, that Mary is your Queen; But think not to be safe, for when I'm dead, Swift on Dragon's Wings from high I'll fall, And rain down Royal Vengeance on you all. [Ex. Omnte.

Enter Q. Mary, Dowglas, two Genslemen, four Ladies.

Q. M. Come poor Remainder of my loft Effate, Once I was ferv'd in Pomp, had many Friends, And found no Blefling in the gandy Crowd 3 But now I am beholden to my Fate, That after baring plunder'd me of all, Left me the gleaning of fo kind a Few: Friendlip to Mifery is reviving Food.

Dow. What will betide us now? Q. M. Come near your Mistress,

Methinks your Queen, and her poor humble Train, Look like a Crew of shipwrack'd Passengers, ]

Shuddering

26 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the Shuddering and wet, thrown on some Land by Night,

Without a Friend to chear, or Fire to warm 'em.

Dow. Like them perhaps, we're cast upon a Shore,

Where no kind Creature lives to pity us, But Wolves, dread Ballistes, and gaping Monflers. Alse! what meant those Shouts of Joy? to mock us? Is this the Court of famd Elizabeth? And this the Throne where the was fery'd with Throngs? Lethic any meacons! I was stored by the filtering Tailor.

And this the Throne where she was serv'd with Throng Is this our welcome! where's her glittering Train! Here are no Crowds, no Face of either Sex, But all abandon'd, like the Place we came from.

But all abandon d, like the visce we came from,

Q. M. Sure it was all a Dream, was it not Dowglas!

Thou little Angel that preferv'lt thy Queen,
Appear'd like Metrcy, and unlockt my Prifn;

But I, ungraseful, and my Forunes worfe,
Took thee young Rofe, from thy own fruitful Garden,
And planted thee within a cold dead Soil,
To nlp thy Youth, and with my Sorrows kill thee;
But fhortly, I'll relate thee from my woes,
And leave thee to enjoy when I am Dead,
What thou ne'er found'l twith me: Content.

Dow. Surely the Queen will see you, now you are come, Else we do walk enchanted, and this Place

Is not White-Hall, but Pawlet's Prison fill.

Q. M. Lend me your Hands, for I am faint, and weary, My Feet too tremble, and meithinks the Floor Sinks under 'em, and now it farse with me Like a poor Mariner, that had been condemn'T or a clofe Bark, a long and tedious Voyage, Who, coming to the Shores, fearce feels the Ground, And thinks the Earth does like the Ship go round.

Dow. Here sit you down a-while.

Then she indeed may fay I am ambitious, Ambitious of her Crown, which I am not;

Now you upon the Floor encompais me.

So, this is as it should be; Is it not?

Thus have we oft beguil'd the Time at Fotheringay

Land

Lend

Lend me a Glass, and prithee tell me truly, How do 1 look?

Dow. To fee your felf, is firait to banish Woe, And make you happy foe that Day, I'an sure It does your Servants when they look on you: You are so good, so Perfect, and so Fair,

Beauty and Sorrow, never were to near

In any but in you.

Q. M. Alas! thou flatter's me. [Reaching the Glass. Dow. In all the fatal Time of your Confinement, You rarely saw your self; or if you did,

"Twas thro' fuch difinal Clouds of Garb and Sorrow,
You fearcely knew that Vifage fo ador'd;
But now 'tis hard to tell which fittiess the moft,
Your Drefs or Beauty to adorn each other

Q. M. Give't me—ha! d'ye mock me! Who look'd in the Glass?

Dow. Madam!

Q. M. Alas! these cannot be thy Miltrest's eyes, Mine were dim Lamps, that long ago expired, And quite distolved and quenchd themselves in Tears. These Cheeks are none of mine, the Roses look not Like tempth beaten Lillies as mine should; This Forehead is not graven with the Darts Of eighteen Years of sharpet Milerys, Nor are these lips like Sorrows blubberd Twins, Nor are these lips like Sorrows blubberd Twins, Ne'er smilling, ever mourning, and compulating

False glass! that flatters, and undoes the fond:
[Throws away the Glass.
False Beauty! may that wretch that has thee, curse thee.

And hold hee fill deeftable as mine, Why tarrieft hou to give me yet more woe? The earth will mourn in furrows at the Flow, Birds, Trees, and Fields, when he warm Saumer's gone, Put their world looks, and fable Volours on, The fallen Streams, when the least tempet blows, Their cryftal Smoothnefs in a moment lofe, But my clint Beauty, this malicious charm.

No Time, long griefs, not blafts of envy harm.

Enter

28 The Albion Queens; or, the

Enter Duke of Norfolk.

Nov. What do I fee, the Person, or the shadow Of the most Royal Maighty of Scarland? And these the weeping Mourners of her Fortune? Bright as Diana with her starry Nymphs, Descending to make fertile Sea, and Land, T'enrich the waves, and blefs the World with Plenty.—O rise, most charming of all Creatures, Rise!
Or yon bright heavenly Roof, that weighs the World, Will sure the Scale, and mount the Globe above it.

Q. M. Who fees the needy Traveller on foot, (When he approaches to his long'd for Inn) Welcom'd, carefs'd, and fhew'd the faireft Room, And richeft bed to reft his weary Limbs? Or who beholds the Beggar on his firaw, Crying for Alms, before the rich man's door, And bids him rife? go, Duke, and fhun this weetch Fly Mary's fate, for fuch and worse is the.

Nor. Rife, charming excellence! Or by your felf, The greatest Oath that I can take, I'll bear your precious body in these arms, (Forgive the Sacrilgious Violence). And set you in that proud Imperial Chair, Beneath whose scornful feet you meekly lie; Nay, I would do't, were this site Tyrantby; Tho the stood here, and dar'd me with Revenge, I'd seit you in that Place in spite of ber.

Q. M. May all that's great and good, forbid.

Nor. The Powers above, and Mortals all below,

Wou'd praife me for that deed — who can beloid

England's bright Heirefs, Queen of France and Scotland, Whose Veins run treasurd with the facred Blood Of Forgus, and a Hundred Alban Kings, Lie thus neglected, in a State thus mean? Who can behold it, and at once be loyal?

Q. M. O tempt me not with thoughts of any State, But this that I am in; it was a Viiion: The World till now was but a dream to me. When I was great, I always was in Danger;

Giddy, and fearful, when I lookt beneath, But now with fcorn 1 can fee all above me, Happy in this, that I can fall no lower.

Nør. O fay not 6, for piry of Mankind, Left Fate defends in Battles, Plagues, and Fire, To feourge the Earth for fo profane a Sight, And treating thus the Majefty of Queens. Had I the Thunder, Nature's felf fhould wrack, The frighted World fhou'd at my Barden groan, Whild thus I fell with my immortal weight, Thus at your feet, and cruftn its Soul away, but as I am Nor-fielk full, the meaneft werech, Let me dig out of thee a Grave, and fay, As raying Artifults to the Sea,

Since I can't conquer thee, thou bury me.
Q. M. Rife gallant Duke, and shew me if you can [Rifei, Where shall the wretched shy to be at rest?
It was but yesterday I scap'd the Wreck,

And now fo foon again fet out at Drift, To Rocks, wide Seas, and vast extended Ruin; That nothing but a Miracle can fave me. Nor. O cou'd I dare but whisper't in your ear,

Nor. O cou'd I date but whitper't in your ear, Or claim the facred Promise once you made, Here you shou'd meet that calm Repose you want, In Norfolk's grateful breast.

Q. M. O name not Love!

Love always flies, the wretched and deform'd, And I am both; Sorrow has play'd the Tyrant, Plow'd up this once fair field, where Beauties grew, And quite transform'd it to a naked fallow: That you had once my Word 'its true, but 'twas When I had hopes to be a Queen again; I thought to give you with forme Charms a Crown, Which you deferve, but now they all are fled, I am not worth the taking, eeafe the Thought.

Nor. You are above all Wealth, all Queens to me, Your glorious head was shadow'd with a Crown, And brighter body seem'd but coarsely clad With Robes of Majesty, like Stars o'er-clouded. Those cast away, the Cherubim appears,

Bright

30 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the Bright as the World was in its Infant years; Eas'd of this Sumpter, take your happy Flight,

Eas'd of this Sumpter, take your happy Flight, The lighter by the Load of ponderous Crowns, You bear the badge of Heav'n, where'er you go, And Beauty's mine, more worth than all below,

Q. M. Where shall I fly ?

Nor. To Scythia, Wilds of Beafts, Or may where but this accuried Place:
To Scotland elfe, where the repenting Morton,
(Whom real pity of your matchlefs Sufferings
Has turn'd a Saint) has writ to all the States
To meet, receive you, and approve your Choice.

Q. M. First let my Virtue, with my Mind consult.

Nor. Nay, while we think, we stumble on our Graves,
Or Prison else; you know not what the Queen,

And your vile Foes are now consulting of.

Q. M. To fly suspected, is to make me guilty;
Yet she condemns, and shuns me like a Monster,

Denies what to the meanest Criminal she grants.
Nor. A Moment will undo us.

Q. M. Whilft Fears, and Hopes, to be victorious strive, Like Seas with bold contrary Winds opprest, They rouze the quiet Ocean in my Breast.

Enter Davison and Guards.

DAV. The Queen, my Mistrifs, to her Royal Sister, The wrong'd and beauteous Majethy of Scalland, Sends by her Slave, the dearest of all Loves, Not such as wanton fickle Lovers give, But such as Friends, and Royal Friendship owe to Virtue: She lovingly intreats you wou'd accept of this her Gaurd.

Nor. Ha!

Dav. Not as a Restraint, But to protect your life against your foes, Which still she Prizes dearer than her own, Without are Officers prepar'd to wait you, To an Appartment nearest to her felf,

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 31 My Lord, it is the Queens Command,

You leave this place, and instantly attend her. Nor. Immortal Powers, a Guard!

Q. M. Hafte, noble Duke, prevent her threatning Rage, Plead for your felf---behold I am not worfe,

Then when you faw me first at Fotheringay, Nor. Oh rigid Caution! Virtue too fevere! You have done a cruel Justice on your felf,

And quite undone your Norfolk,

Q. M. Give me your hand; I will be yours, or ne'er will be another's, That as my Heart! but oh! most gallant Norfolk! Some time allow to weigh the nice regards, Of jealous Honour in a Prince's Breaft; Cruel Example, cruel Greatness awes

Our Sex, and Monarchs with the hardest Laws-Farewel. Nor. O Tyrant Law! more cruel Greatness still: Man till forbidden knew not what was Ill:

And till Ambition fow'd the fatal Strife, Husbands were bleft, each Bride a happy Wife; Virtue once reign'd, and then was fo renown'd, Valour made Kings, and Beauty oft was crown'd, Merit did then, much more than Interest plead, The happy Pair but lik'd, and foon agreed; But now Love's bought, and Marriage grown a Trade Estate and Dower are in the Ballance weigh'd. Love still was free, till Pride got in by stealth, And ne'er a Slave till undermin'd by Wealth.

Ex. Severally.

22 The Albion Queens; or, the

ACT III. SCENE I.

Enter Morton and Davison.

Mor. Now famous Davison, 'tis in your power,
To be the Genius of your threaten'd Nation; And the Protector of your Crown and Laws. A glorious Merit offers to espouse you, And make your Name in England's cause renown'd a Your Mistress must not see the Queen of Scotland. This you must study to prevent, for 'tis To give a Dagger to a Lunatick, How does the hold her yesterdays Resolve ?

Dav. Just as I fear'd; for in her Bed-chamber, Early this Morn I found the Duke of Norfolk, Upon his Knees petitioning for the Queen; At first the started, whilst her Eyes shot Flames, And bid him in a Fury strait be gone; Then, with an elevated Tone, the cry'd, What must I ne'er be kneel'd to, but for her! All Knees, all Hearts, must bend to her alone : Whilft I like the dull flavish Animal That bore the Goddess Image on his back, Am worshipt only but for her.

Mor. Said rarely !

Dav. Then on a fudden, call'd him back again, Blotting a tear that fell in spite of her, And bid him go to the diffrest poor Queen, Sending her Ring, and with it many a Sigh; Tell her, said she, tho Jealousies of State Forbid that we should meet, not many days, Not many hours I am refolv'd to live, Unless I hold her in these Arms for ever. Mor. Then all my fears again return.

Daw. The Duke
Rafe from the Ground, exalted and infpir'd,
Leaving the Queen with Cecil and my felf;
But foon on us, prefuming to advite her,
She thunder'd, as th' Immortals on the Giants,
And made us feel what 'twas to war with Heaven:
Then in a Rage fine darted from her Clofet,
And threw the Door fo hard with fuch a Fury
(As I have feen her Father Harry do)
That made us tremble.

Mor. What wou'd you advise ?

Dav. I know not, for the wearys her Attendants, And fain wou'd thake 'em off; furveys each Chamber, And measures every Appartment in the Palace

A hundred times.

I know the Caule, and tho her Soul's too proud, And wou'd not floop to fee the Storijh Queen, Yet flee feeks all Occasions out to meet her, And therefore loyeers like a Mifer's Ghoft, About the Treasure that it lov'd on Earth.

Ader. This mighty Duke must be lop'd low, or fall s His towering Branches are too vall, and high, Under whole Tops our Queen securely lies, And mocks the just averaging Storms above. He thinks he's clear'd from all Accounts of Guilt, But I have that will fet him in arrear, Ne'er to be paid, and ne'er to be forgiven.

I'll to the Duke.

Dav. And I'll go feek the Queen.

[Exit.

As Davison is going out Gifford meets him.

What art thou that has haunted me fo long? Thou look'ft, as if thou mean'ft to draw my Pichure, I faw thee in the Prefence of the Queen, Which as I left, shou follow did me, And fill flurey'ft me with a curious Eye. What wou'dit thou with me? Say, what art? Gif. A Man.

And what indeed is rare in fuch a Place,

34 The Albion Queens; or, the A Miracle at Court; an honest Man.

Dav. That were in Truth, a Wonder.

Gif. I am a Prieft.

Dav. How darest thou peep thy Head within these Walls ?

I'll have thee feiz'd.

Gif. Thou hadft better, if 'twere possible, The Guardian Angel of thy Mistress seize :

I'm hir'd to kill the Queen.

Dav. Oh monffrous Villain !

Gif. I am no Villain, but a Scourge to Villains, Dav. Oh horrid! most unheard of Impudence!

Durst thou say this to me that am her Servant? Gif. Because you are, therefore I fought you out,

I came not here to act it, but reveal it. Hell cou'd not reft, and know it.

Dav. Thou fay'ft well ;

What dire Companions in this Tragedy. Haft thou? who fet you on?

Gif. Oh they are mighty !

Nor was the Queen alone t' have felt the Blow. Dav. Is not the Queen of Scotland in the Plot ? Speak as thy Virtue prompts thee, and the Throne, Thy Innocence, and Heaven, be all thy Guard.

Gif. I know that for her fake this was contriv'd, Am Witness too she was consenting to it.

Dav. Wert thou alone to act this monstrous Treason? Gif. No, five bold Traitors more, besides my felf, (Curst that my Name shou'd e'er be read for one)

All made of Nature's roughest, fiercest Mould, Have enter'd in a damn'd Affociation, (Start all that's humane and divine to hear)

To kill the Queen! to murder Majesty, Their feveral Instruments of Fate, in Sport, They made the Guilt of Chance: to one by Lot

A Sword fell to his Share, the next a Gun, The third a Pistol, Poison had the fourth, The fifth chose Water for the Deed, who was,

If all the rest had fail'd, t' have sunk her Barge, Rowing some Evening, as her Custom is,

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 35
From Greenwich; and this Dagger was my Lor.

Dav: Thou'ft gain'd a glorious and immortal Credit.
Gif. I can produce what will amaze you worfe.

No Necromancer ever show'd the Face
Of a suspected Stealer in a Glass.

As I the lively Figures of these Monsters,-

In glorious Ostentation of the Deed, Painted on Tablets, set in Gold, with Babington

High in the midst, and in his threatening Hand, Grasping the Weapon that shou'd kill the Queen.

Dav. Oh Villains! didft thou ever fee Queen Mary? Gif. Yes, and have feen her Letters to the Pope,

To the Confederates, and to Babington.

Dav. To Babington! fay! does fhe write to him?

Gif. To him—I am the intrufted Messenger.

Dav. Dost know'em to be her's? who gave 'em to thee?

Gif. Her Secretary Carl.

Dav. But are you fure they are the Queen's own Hand?

Gif. Her Hand I know, and this I'm fure's her writing. To me they are first deliver'd to convey.

And henceforth, as they come into my Hands,

To you I'll bring them.
Dav. Do so, which I'll open;

And cause them to be nearly counterseited,
Then send the faise, and keep the true ones by me.
But hold, we are perceiv'd, come follow me,

And when time ferves, 1'll bring thee to the Queen.

Enter Q. Maty, Dowglas, and Attendants at the other

Door, and fees Davison and Gifford.

Q. M. Shew me the unfrequentedst Gallery
To walk in 3 for we have not changed our State,
We only have a little larger Prison.

Dow. Ha!

M. What ails the Guardian Genius of his Queen?

Why this Diforder? Wherefore did'ft thou flare?

Dow. Saw you that Fellow, Madam ?

Q. M.

36 The Albion Queens; or, the

Q. M. Yes, why asks thou ?

Dow. I know not but a fudden Horror feiz'd me At that Man's Sight-

Was not that Davison, and he together? In private Talk ? Ah, Madam, Davison, A Spy of Quality, a Legier here Of Plots against your Sacred Innocence.

By your unspotted Soul ! just such a Person. (I wish he's not the same) I often saw With Navus, during your Imprisonment;

Oh my prophetick Heart, warns and fortels me, There's Mischief gangering in your scarce clos'd Wounds. Q. M. There's no Fear, for my kind Sifter's Love.

And my own Innocence shall conquer all That Hell, or Malice, can invent against me.

Dow. What mean these Drops? O Stars! what means this shaking!

Young Prophets never wept, nor trembled fo, For Pity when they told the Fate of Kingdoms. Ah brightest Star that e'er adorn'd the World ! Take, take young Dowglas' Counsel, and retire! O (hun this barb'rous Place; and fly this Moment.

O. M. What do'ft thou mean?

Dow. I know not, but am pull'd By fome strange Destiny, that seems to you As if I ray'd, but blest were you, 'twere Madness. Last Night, no sooner was I laid to Rest, But just three Drops of Blood fell from my Nose, And Stain'd my Pillow, which I found this Morning, And wonder'd at-

Q. M. That rather does betoken Some Mischief to thy self.

Dow. Perhaps to Cowards, Who prize their own base Lives, but to the Brave, 'Tis always fatal to the Friend they love. Mark farther; I was scarcely fall'n asleep, Last Night, no sooner was I laid to Rest, But you were represented to my Fancy Deck't like a Bride; with Norfolk in your Hand; The amorous Duke that smiles with every Glance, Whilst you return'd them with more piercing Darts ; Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 37.

But strait it seem'd to lighten, and a Peal
Of dreadful Thunder rent you from each other,
Whilk from the Cieling, painted o'er like Heaven,
Methought I saw the furious Queen of England,
Like angry Juno mounted on a Cloud,

Descend in Flames, at which dread Sight you vanish'd.
Q. M. These are but Starts of an o'er watchful Soul.

Which always represents to us asleep,

What most we fear, or wish when we're awake.

Dow. Ah my best Mistress! on my Knees I beg,
Tho the brave Duke be as renown'd as any

That e'er the Antients first chose out for Gods, Tho never Man so rivall'd all the Sex,

And left them bare of Virtues, like himfelf, Yet for your precious Life's sake, that's more worth

Than thou and Dukes, break off your Marriage with him.
Q.M. My little Guardian Angel, thou haft rous'd
And beat a War within my Breath, between

The Interest of my Love, and Preservation: Thou know'st 'cwas long consulted, and at last Concluded best for my uncertain State;

Leicester and Cecil, both have given their Words, And Morton 100, to gain the Queen's Consent.

Dow. There's Morron in it, therefore go no farther.

Q. M. Thou wouldft not have me wed the gallant Duke.

Yet thou wouldft have me fly: Where shall I sty?

I dare not go to Seetland, that lays wait To catch me in an hundred Snares of Death; And into France I must not, swill not go; For then my Sister might with Reason say,

I went for Help to drive her from her Throne.

Dow. See where he comes, just in the Moment, Fate,

Lo your ill Stars against themselves are are kind,

And fend to warn you, that you might avoid it.

Q. M. What shall I do? Say, Dowglas, lo, I shand
Like one that in a Defart lost his Way,

Sees several Paths, yet knowing not the right, Stands in amaze, and fears to venture upon any.

38 The Albion Queens; or, the

Enter Norfolk, and Morton.

Nor. What! what, in Tears, thou mourning Excellence!
Shed not the precious Balm in vain, but flare it
To heal the World, when Nature is a dying.
And Chass flatall be threatend once again.
O fave those Pearls to buy large Empires for us,
And when we have lived long Centuries in Love,
To purchase twice as many Years from Fate.
Mor. Weep you, when Love and Expmen gladly wait

To banish Grief for ever from your Breast?

Q. M. Morson, I will proceed no farther in this Marriage.

My Lord, I fear it will be fatal to us.

Nor. What do I hear?

But leave me to be wretched here alone.

Nor, Shou'd all the Fiends break loofe, and flop my way,
And yon blue marble Roof and Stars defcend,
To crush me and my Hopes, 4 1'd on this Moment,
And perish with my Love, but 1'd enjoy her.
Give me thy trembling Hand, the whitest Lilly,
Set in the faitest Garden of the World,
Chaster, and purer than the Virgin Snow—
If 'tis a Sin to blot us with a Tear;
O! cou'd it speak, 'twoud explate its Crime,
And fay my Soul ftill wans a rougher Language,

To chide my Albion Queen.
Q. M. Ceafe, Norfolk, ceafe.
By all your Hopes of Happiness and mine,
Your kinder Genius, not my own foretels

Death of Mary Queen of Scots.

This Deed will be the ruin of us both :

First break it to the Queen, gain her Consent. Mor. That is already done;

Leicester long fince implor'd her Royal Leave, She knows it, and in not forbidding it, Her Silence may be taken for a Grant.

Q. M. Delay it but a Day, and let me hafte, (If Shame, your cruel Foe, will give me leave)

And ask the Queen's Confent.

Mor. You yet create new Hazards, And still forget the Queen denies to fee you : Besides, that were to wake some new Surmize Of State, perhaps she'll then demur on the Request, And call your Foes to Council; which if done, And past Prevention, she'll not blame the Deed.

Nor. O gallant Morton ! let me hold thee thus; More pitiful than fighing Virgins are,

And kind as interceding Angels, thou.

Mor. Go quickly then, and tye the facred Knot, Due to your Interests, due to matchless Love. Flizabeth shall jealous be no more, Nor fearful then that any Foreign Prince Too foon shou'd join his Kingdom to your Right, And claim your lawful Title to the Crown-

Go instantly-howe'er she feems to frown, She'll smile within her Heart, when once 'tis done. Nor. By all your Woes now felt, and Joys to come, And more; by all your precious Vows I charm you.

Q. M. Why do you hold me? where d'ye hurry me? To be your Fate ! to be your Enemy ?

Nor. Remember, O remember Fotheringay; Forget not what it heard, and echoes still, Your oft repeated Vows, and Norfolk's Groans.

Q. M. Some pitying Angel from above look down, And thew me strait the Path that I must follow. Mor. Away; the Sun fees forth like a gay Bride-man with you. Q. M. Come then, conduct me, fince I must.

And now Ambition, Empire, all be gone, I leave you with your heavy weight, a Crown.

Mor

40 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

Mor. Curst Accident, the Queen is here. O. M. What's that you fay? O take me from her Sight :

Joy, and pale Fear within like Giants fight : Hope bids me go, my trembling Heart fays stay,

But who can Love and Reason both obey?

Do what you will with me, away, away. [Retire. Enter Q. Elizabeth, Cecil, Davison, Lords, Attendants, Guards : Q. Elizabeth fees Q. Mary and Norfolk, going off on the other fide.

Q. E. Ha! fee my Lords, behold ! Is that the Queen, and Norfolk fo officious? Traigor !

Cec. May it please your Majesty, it is. Q. E. Bid him come back-fee, the comes with him too. My Lord, how durst you approach that Hand ? Nav. talk with an Offender against your Queen?

And flight thus plain my absolute Commands? Q. M. Alas! let not the noble Duke for me be blam'd, Nor bear a weight fo heavy as your Anger, When I am thought by you the foul Aggressor?

He only met a goor abandon'd Wretch, Loft in a Wild, and put her in the way; For here I wander by my felf forlorn, Know few, and taken notice of by none.

Q. E. She hasa Royal Prefence; awful Form ! By those bright Constellations o'er our Heads, Which Story feigns were charming Women once, There is not half that Beauty in those Orbs, Nor Majesty on Earth.

Think you my Lords, That she appears so beautiful as fam'd? Give me a Glas-ha! how's this Jewel plac'd! What a vile Curl, and aukward Patch is here ? Look but on her, and yet methinks, She's much beholden to her Sable Dress, As thro'a Sky of Jet, Stars glitter moft.

[Aside.

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 41.

Your's rival her's, and all the Sex.

Q. E. Nay, now you grossly flatter me my Lord,
'Tis long of such mean Sycophants as thou,
That Princes are so wretched, ne'er to know

That Princes are to wretched, ne er to know
The Errors of their Persons, or their Minds.
Q. M. What! not a word! am not I worth one word!

Q. M. What! not a word! am not I worth one word! Now Stars! I dare you now to do your worst. You cannot curse me more now if you wou'd.

Q. E. Ha! fhe fhoots Magick from her very Looks.

All the devery Word's a Charm that fulls my Rage;

Like falling Drops of mild and gentle Rain,

They wear into this Breaft of Adamant.

Affift me now my Courage, Pity, Friends,

Support me all! how shall I bear it now?
Q. M. Nor yet a Look! not one kind Look upon me?

No Token that I once was Scotland's Queen?
Q. E. Hear't thou this Burleith—cuel Davijon!
Ye Seed of Rocks, ye Brood of Wolves and Tygers!
Ye un'd meinto Store, inore montrous than your felves!
If I but look on her the awes my Sight;

Like a loath'd Fiend I dare not fee the Light,
Q. M. Did I e'er think our meeting wou'd be thus !

Thus Mary and Elizabeth shou'd greet !
So do the Christians with the Pagans treat,

The brave Plantagenes with Ostoman,
The Golden Eagle with the Silver Crefcent,
But never thus, the white Crofs with the red.
Nor. This needs must charm, were the more fell than

Woman—

She melts, yet fain wou'd hide it—happy Sign.

Q. M. The friendly Ocean when the World was made,
Took care to join our Kingdoms near together,

And shall not we our Loves, and tender Hearts? We, who one happy loving Islands holds, Of the same Sex, And one rich Blood travels thro' both our Veins. Shou'd we thus meet, and at a distance talk?

Q. E. Support me, Cecil.

AZ The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

Q. M. The beauteous Margaret, your Royal Aunt. Whose right and lawful Grand-Daughter I am. Met not my Grand-father, the valiant James. With fuch a fcornfnl and neglectful Brow ; For if the had I never had been born,

And you not known the hated Queen of Scotland. Q. E. Come lift me from the Place where I am rooted,

On Wings of Angels, bear me to her Arms.

Q. M. Whate'er may be the Effects of Nature's Power, In your hard Breaft; I'm fure that part of you, That is in mine, torments me to get forth, Bounds upwards, and leaps from me to embrace you;

My whole Blood starts !---

Q. E. And mine can hold no longer My Sifter-oh! TRun and embrace.

Q. M. Can this be real ? Q. E. Throw thy lov'd Arms, as I do mine, about thee,

And never feel less Joy than I do now-Th! 'tis too great, it is unspeakable, Cleave to my Breaft, for I want words to tell.

Q M. Then Injuries farewel, and Woes be banish'd ; Forgiveness now, and Pleasures fill my Breast; They were not half fo great, when I espous'd, And threw these Arms about young France's Neck, And laid me down the Queen of half the World. I feel the Blood of both our Ancestors,

The Spirits of Tudor and Plantagenet, Glow thro' my Veins, and flart up to my Lips, To parley with, to wonder and to kifs, Their Royal Brothers hovering upon thine.

Q.E. Witness ye Powers! take notice how I leve her !

Worship this Token, as glad Saints receive, Embaffadors from high.

Q. M. Olet me go ; Give my wild Joy fome Breath, fome Room to walk-in: O! I shall burst into a thousand Pieces !. As many Atoms, as my Queen has CharmsDeath of Mary Queen of Scots. 43

A thousand Fears or Pain is not enough,
For this one moment of Seraphick Joy.
That the is kind, and thinks me innocent!
Innocent! that one Word's far above
The Wealth of Crowns, nay all but you, and

The Wealth of Crowns, nay all but you, and Love.

Q. E. Ah Royal Sifter! urge my Guilt no more;
But blot it from thy Breaft, as I from mine.

But blot it from thy Breath, as I from mine. Down on your knees—All that regard my Frowns. Behold your Queens, both Sies and English here, Hears, thou wide Oceans, bear thy Athien Queens, Let my dread Voice, far as thy Waves be heard, From Silver Thamers, to Golden Tweed proclaim, With Harmony of Drums and Trumpets Sound, Not me, not her alone, not one, but both, Sound-Marry, and Elizabeth your Queens.

ounde.Mary, and Elizabeth your Queens.

[Kettle Drums and Trumpets found, and beat here;

then all rife again from kneeling.

Q. M. O! be less kind, lest Fate shou'd snatch my.
Joys,
And hoard 'em up for an immortal Treasure,

For they 're too great for mortal Sense to bear.

Q. E. I do her wrong to keep her from new Jays, Each moment shall beget each hour bring forth-Fresh Pleasures, and rich Welcomes to delight here Prepare her Table, deck the Bed of State, Let her Apartment shine with Golden Arras, Strew Perfumes in her way, fweeter than Incenfa, Rare as the Sun draws every Morning up, And fragrant as the Breath upon her Lips; Soft Mulick found where'er the wakes or fleeps, Musick as sweet, barmonious, and as still, As does this fok, and gentle Bosom fill. Thus let us go, with hand in hand combin'd, The white Crofs with the red, thus ever join'd. England with Scotland, Shall no longer jar; And Albany, with Albion no more war; But thus we'll live, and walk-thus every Day, Till from the Verge of Life, we drop away; So have we feen two Streams, with eager Pace, Haften to meer, and lovingly embrace,

Making

A4 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the Making one Current, as we make one Soul, Till Arm in Arm, they in the Ocean roll. [Exenn

୶ୄଌ୶ୄଌ୶ୄଌ୷ୄଌ୷ୄଌ୷ୄଌ୷ୄଌ୷ୄଌ

ACT IV. SCENE I.

Enter Cecil and Davison severally,

Cet. When Destrifus, and drown thy head in Tears; Or let thy Tongue for Eloquence of fam'd, Be mute for ever, once like Angels founding, The Angels founding, The Balling Duke, the Dething of his Country, The Saipis, the Delighte of all Mankind, The Nation's Gory! Star of Bining Virue,

Is loft. You came from fearching of his Clofet,
We are his Friends, fay, have you any hopes.
Daw, O none! the false and treacherous Morton,
That fir'd the Duke's fond Passion for the Queen,
Then like a Villain to his free beray'd him;
This Serpent of Delusion has discovered,
What e'er the Brave, and Generous-hearted Man
Did in his harmslefs Mind intrust him with.

Cec. What Token, or what Circumstance of Treason
Amongst his Papers found you?

Dev. Very hitle, Befides his aim to wed the Queen of Scotland, Yet one thing points fome colour of a Gull. It did appear he furnish her with money To aid her Friends in Scotland, who, you know Now at this time invade our English Borders. Here is the Paper, which, alsa! was found Under the Quit, beneath poor Norphile's Bed, Plac'd there on purpose, as supposed by all, By Hitliford, a Domethick of the Duke's,

Who

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 45 Who, apprehended, has accus'd his Mafter,

Read here a Lift of several Lords, his Friends, As Arundel, Southampton, and some others, All order'd to be taken.

Cec. Cruel chance !

What Temper holds the Queen in this extreme? Day. Fiery, and cool, and melting in a Breath, At one she sighs, and pities the fall'n Man,

And the same moment rages, and upbraids him,

Cec. O she must worse be stung before to morrow ; How will she bear her self when she shall know The foul Conspiracy of Babington ! Place Gifford ready as the Queen comes forth; 'Tis dangerous to conceal it any longer. Methinks I pity less the fate of Mary, Now it has cost the ruin of the Duke-See where he comes, wou'd Cecil had no Eyes Yet he bears manly up, rears his frout head, Like a bold Veffel in a Storm, and fcatters Bright Beams of Majesty thro' all his Clouds.

Enter Duke and two Guards.

Room for the Duke____ Nor. Room for the Duke! Room for no Duke, no Substance now,

The Emblem of diffembling Greatness rather. Man is the truest Dial of his Fate, His Prince's Favour, like the Sun at noon, Shews not a thing fo beautiful and gay, But as the Planet. fets, too foon he fpies His growing shadow painted on the ground; O Cecil! thou and Leicester have undone me; Brought by thy cruel caution in these fetters, And by the Traitor Morton thus betray'd. Cec. These Tears be witnesses, I never meant it.

Nor. I must believe you, yet you are Too good a Statesman, and too nice a Friend. '46 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the Coc. By all that's just, you wrong the Love I bear

Behold the Queen—I'll gain your Life, brave Duke, Or hazard now my own.

Enter Q. Eliz. Morton, Gentlemen, Guards, Ladies,

Most merciful, most royal, and belov'd! Behold your Cecil bends, who ne'er yet fu'd To you in vain-O spare the gallant Duke, Who in this Act of Adoration, vows. Henceforth to prove the faithfull'ft of your Vaffals. And from this Hour to abjure the Queen of Scotland. Nor. Hold, Burleigh, hold, proceed not for the Globe's If the least word that I'll abjure the Queen, Scapes from thy Mouth, by my bright Hopes, 'tis false, Thus I'll ask pardon, tho I never wrong'd you. [Kneels. 'Tis but a word, and I'll do't again : For Kings are like Divinities on Earth, Whom none can ferve, but must sometimes offend ; But to deny my Love, and to disclaim her ; O you bright Powers! abjure my Alban Queen! First let me grovel in some loathsome Dungeon, And feed on Damps and Vapours like a Toad, What! to fave my Life! a hated Skull! Had I as many Heads as I have Hairs, Reap'd from this Body like a Field of Corn ;

Yet after all, not one shou'd be so base.

Q. E. You'll find, bold Duke, this one has said too much,

And done more than a thousand Heads can answer——
Go send him to the Tower.

I'll have him try'd to morrow, and if guilty,
Beheaded ftrait; fend his ambitious Head,
To travel-for that airy Grown it look'd for;
And tell me when 'tis off, if then it talks,
Or calls out for his Alban Queen to help him—
Oh where, my Sou! I: is there a Friend that's jul?

— (Afide.

Nor. You need not doubt it.
That dying Martyr who invokes her Name,
Calls for more Aid than all the Queens on Earth.
She is her felf thy Genius, but for ber,
This Ifle had been like flaming Æina found,
Or as the World was in a Deluge drown'd.

Q. E. She's false! and thou a most ungrateful Traitor; Here's Morton, Cecil, all the World can tell. Thou didst aspire to marry her, and get my Crown.

Nor. By my immortal Hopes, I am betray'd,

And she's abus'd by Traitors—
No Cecil won't; no honest Subject dares,

No Cealt won't; no honest subject darer,
But Morton as the worft of Furier may,
O the's fo good, fo innocent, and mild,
That, Setland, were thou cant to that degree,
Shou'd all thy featter'd Seeds yield nought but Poifons,
And pregnant Women bring forth none but Mortoni;
Thou half aton'd for all thole Plagues in giving her.

Q. E. Away with him, and let me never fee That Head again, but on a Pinacle. Nor. Be witness all ye Powers, I bear it mildly.

And for my Fate, I kneel again, and blefs you; May you live ever, and for Norfolk's Death, No dire Remorfe, difturb your Balmy Reft. But may your foft Eternity glide on, In Dreams of Paradife, and Golden Slumbers : But for the injur'd Queen, inspir'd I rise; And tho a threaten'd Prophet, yet dare speak : Whene'er the falls, may her Accufers all Prometheus' Vultures in their Bowels feel, And with their King of Traitors roar in Torments. But thou a Queen, that judg'd this Royal Martyr, Loud Cherubims to earth your Guilt Shall found, Which worse than the last Trumpet shall rebound; Wake or afleep, her Image shall appear, And always hollow Mary in your Ear. [Exit guarded.

Cec. Now, Davison,'s the time.

Dav. May't please your Majesty——

What shall be done with the offending Queen?

48 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the Q. E. Nothing, bold, faucy Penman-I fay nothing—

Send Norfolk to the Tower, but on your Lives
I charge you, use no Vjolence on her;
Make not such haste, too soon you'll break this Heart,
Then gut your selves with Staughters of my Subjects.
Cee. Then so much for the Duke—call Gifferd in—

Enter Gifford.

If you are fleep'd as in a Lethargy
Of Love, and o'er-grown Mercy to the Queen,
And will not let your Eyes behold your danger,
Then we who are your watchful Servants mill.
Behold and hear, for 'its fol uold and plain,
That 'will aftonifh every Senfe about you.
This Man, this honeft Man, whofe Statue ought
To be fet up in Gold in all our Streets,
Infigir'd from above, diffcovers that binnfelf
With five bold Ruffians more, were all fet on
By Mary Queen of Stats to murder you.

Q. E. To murder me!
Dav. With Sacrament they bound it,

Dav. With Sacrament they bound it,
More horrid, than e'er Carlines invenced,
Who to enflave Reme ty'd it with human Blood.
First view the Monsters pictur'd to the life,
Each with their several Instruments of Fate
Wav'd in his Hand, with which to Hell they swore,
If either of "em fail"d, to write your Doom.

Q. E. Protect me Angels!

Cre. What does this make you flart!

Do these strain grant strain to the strain strain to the strain strain to the strain strain to the strain strain

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 49
Q. E. What's here! a Latin Sentence which their chief

Does feem to bellow from his hellish Mouth.

These are the Men whom Danger only leads.

Here is the Face makes one among the Ruffians.

Here is thy Face makes one among the Ruffians.

Gif. With Horror I confess it.

Q. E. Tell the reft.

Gif. I will; but wonder when you hear what Men Of feveral Stations club'd to do this Mischief:

The Elements are not fo aprly mixt
To make a perfect World, as they to act a Deed,
Wou'd flartle Nature, and unfix the Globe,
And hurl it from its Axle-tree and Hinges.
The first is Babington—rich, and of Birth;

Might lift him to be rank'd amongst the Nobles, Young, proud, and daring, fiery and ambitious. Q. E. I know the Gentleman of Derbyshire;

He came to me for Leave to go to France.

Gif. The fame.

Q. E. Oh horrid! who can read a Villain! How fubtly Nature paints, hides a fale Heart, And throuds a Traitor in an Angel's Garb! The next.

Gif. Tilny ___ a Courtier.

Cec. What, the Queen's own Servant?

Dav. I know him too, his Father's only Hopes,

Heir to a great Estate. Oh Parricide!

Gif. This Barnwel—turbulent, and precipitate,

A bloody minded Wretch, fit for the Deed; Of Ireland.

Cec. I believe each Word thou fay'ft,

Without his Country it cou'd have been no Plot.

Gif. Savage—a Ruffian of the worst Degree,

And never to be painted as he is,

Stew'd in a Brothel-house, and tann'd in Blood.

O. E. Oh Queen! oh Mary! where's thy Refuge now?

Gif. The fifth is Charnock, Student of the Law.

Laftly, to make the Compound great, my felf.

Q. E. I've heard too much, hence and be dumb for ever.

O for the Quiet that my Mind has loft!

Strip me of Glory, Titles and Renown,

1'11

50 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

I'll give 'em all for that fo bleft Repofe, Last Night I felt ; deny me not this Prayer : Curle me with Madness, blast me with Diseases, Turn all these Hairs to Snakes upon my Head, To his me from the Stage of mortal Life. Melt this loath'd Diadem with Lightning down, Not as it ran before it was a Crown, And to a Defart let me strait be fent.

I'll suffer all make her but innocent. Cec. 'Tis fit you double all your Strength about you,

And let the Queen immediately be sciz'd.

Q. E. 'Tis false, she is abus'd, and this is forg'd : She is not, nay, fhe shall not guilty be. See, Monster, Fury, Traitor! altogether Jesuit! Be fure thou prov'ft this Crime upon my Sifter. . Be fure thou doft without the smallest Doubt. Or I will rack thee with ten thousand Tortures. No I will have thee long, long Years a dying, Feed thee by Weight to starve a Grain a Day, Whilft thy vile Flesh, whole Ages shall decay, And Spirits by flow Degrees distil away. Yet, Oh! 'tis all too little to recal That wealthy Mass of Quiet thou hast lost me.

Cec. 'Tis the Request of all your faithful Subjects, That you'd be pleas'd to feize the Queen of Scotland, . Left the should act what is but yet design'd.

Day, Your facred Life's in Hazard every Hour : For your poor Kingdom's fakes, and for your own. For all your Nation's Lives depend on yours.

Q. E. Rife-Let the Conspirators be apprehended, Of whom this Gifford gives you Information. Cec. And not the Queen ?____

Q.E. O spare my Sister's Life! If nothing but a Queen's Blood will content you, Take mine, you barb'rous Hunters.

Cec. Alas! Q. E. Be gone, why was this hiden from me fo long? If this were real, I had foon been dead, And then ne'er felt the Blow, 'cause unsuspected,

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 5

But now ten thousand Deaths are not so painful As this curft Life, which thou dost strive to save. My Soul's in Torment, Reputation, all In this loath'd Act which thou would'st have me do.

Cee. Whofe Soul, whofe Rejuration will be rack'd And cenfur'd with fewerest Pains hereafter. If by your fond Neglect you lofe that Life, Inmitted by the Powers to guard your Nations, And leave you Laws and Liberties betray'd, Your People all a Prey to foreign Monflers, Dye, and bequeath the Dagger in your Breaft, To brood, and get an hundred thouland mere, Perhaps as many as your Subjects Throate.

Nay, we must speak, think what you will, and weep, For not to tell you, 'tis to be more cruel.

Q. E. But how shall 1 be censur'd,

Q. E. But how shall I be censured, throw this charming Guest so quickly from My Bosom, and then shut her in a Grate? 'Twas but last Night she had another Prison.

Cec: There's now no Time for Answer or Dispute ; Either resolve her Fate, or bear your own.

Q, E. Be gone, I charge you, tempt your Queen no more,
Woman was form'd of Mildness, Love and Pity,

woman was form or real near Love and entry.
Take from me first the Soliness of my Sex.
Were. I the hot revengeful Monster, Man!
A Man! a Savage fierce Hyreanian Tyger,
Yet I cou'd not be fo cruel.
Circ. Then fince You'll shut your Ears to all fafe Counfel,

Rear Witnefs you Celedial Powers, and you My Queen, I have difcharg'd my Duty,
And cleaved my felf of your approaching Danger;
But ere that dreafful Day of your Eclipte,
Come Davilon, let thee and I go wander:
Far we'll remove where fuch a horrid Deed
Shall neither blaft our Eyes, nor reach our Ears,
England farewel; I've fery'd you well and long;
We'll not flay here to be good Counfel's Martyrs,
And to be torn in Pieces by the Rabble.

52 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

When you are dead, which we forewarn'd you of. Tho ne'er fo just, and cautious of your Fame,

A King's Miscarriage is the Statesman's Blame. "

Q. E. Stay, I command you Arrest a Crown! Impeach a Sovereign Queen! [aside. Here, take my Crown, depose me first, or kill me, Let Gifford's Dagger do its fatal Office; Then like a Nest of Tyranis you may reign, And under publick Laws do publick Wrongs,

But Royal Power can never be so cruel. Cec. Behold the comes, command we apprehend her. Q. E. You have my Leave, do with us as you pleafe-But, Tyrants, fend me strait, where by your Power, These cruel Eyes, may never see her more. [Going off.

Enter Q. Mary and Dowglas, Ladies and Gent.

Q. M. Turn, turn your Face, and give one long'd for Look,

My charming Queen! the Morning's gone, and yet I have not feen those Eyes that bless the Morn ; Shou'd not those Looks where Beams of Justice shine, And Pity fits inthron'd with Majefty ; I hear the Duke of Norfolk's in Difpleasure ; Why fighs my Queen, why bend your Royal Head. As loth to grant? Can Mercy, ha! Can I too plead in vain ? Nay, then I'll bind you with those Chains of Friendship, Lean my fad Cheek on your's, and mix your Tears with mine.

Q.E. Now rescue me, or I am lost.

Dav. Guards execute your Orders on the Queen. We beg your Majesty for Love of Fame, By your unbyas'd Rule, and Charms of Justice ! Rouze your imperial Courage and display An awful, and offending Step.

Cec. For now your Wisdom, Crown, and Life's at Stake ; Nay, and the Lives of all your faithful Subjects, For this one precious Moment of your Conduct.

Q. M. I will obey your Orders, fright not me,

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 53

Nor stir my Soul, so lately us'd to Wrongs.
What is my Crime? yet wherefore do I ask?
For Chains look lovelier far about these Arms
Than Diamonds; and Tears hang on my Neck
More beautiful than Strings of Orient Pearl.

Q. E. Ah cruel Princels! we are both undone, You have robb'd your Sifter's Breaft of its Treafure, More than my Crown, you've robb'd me of your felf.

Dav. Mary, late Queen of Scotland, y'are impeach'd, By the Name of Mary Stewart, of High Treason; For plotting to usury your Sovereign's Crown, And hiring Baving on to kill the Queen.

Q. M. Hear Thrones and Powers, that guard the In-

The Gorgon is at last disclos'd to view.

What! kill my Sister! hurt your precious Life!

O Monster of Invention! Gruel Falshood!

And oh vile Calumny begot in Hell!
Nay, then I fee my Ruis is decreed,
Nay, then I fee my Ruis is decreed,
The Duke muft die, and I muift füffer too.
But cutel Foos, had you no nay but this?
To blaft me with Eternal Infamy!
And oh bright Vengance! is there none in Store?
Will Fare, that Providence from none debar,
And every living Infect claims a Share?

Will you lock fast your Adamantine Doors, Now when a Queen, an injur'd Queen implores? Q. E. Incroaching Pivy stop thy flowing Torrent, And ebbing Nature link to that Extreme,

And ebbing Nature link to that Extreme,
Of cruel Britis, that condemn'd his Son;
For this is now my Trial.

Q. M. Say amongst you,

Who is that Man or Devil, that dare accuse me?

Daw. The Traitor has confest'd his Guist and yours,

With Letters that you sign'd to do the Deed.

O.M. Hear, hear just Powers! and all your Guard of

Q. M. Hear, hear jult Powers! and all your Guard of Kings!

Hear Royal Maid, for Virgin-Pity fam'd!

Heard you how they did flander Majefty?
And can you bear it! Half these Veins are yours,
My Royal Title, tender Sex the same,

Doubly

54 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the Doubly of Kin, in Royalty and Blood,

And can you hear your Sifter, hear your felf fo flain'd?
Q. E. O blame not me, but curfe the Fate of Princes;

Q. E. O blame not me, but curfe the Fare of Princes We are but Guardians of our Subjects Rights, And Stewards of our own, none bound fo faft To keep the Laws they make, as the Creators felves. Alas! I am like one, that fees far off, Have all the Wiftes of a Friend to fave you,

But ty'd by Oath, and cannot flir to help you. Q. M. This Babington, Must be some Villain hir'd to do this Treason, And lay it upon me; but bear me witness all, and you That of disjointed Atoms form'd the Sun, The shining Heavens, the Planets, and the World, So wonderful and glorious as they are, Who fees into the Soul, and all its Walks, Thro' this dark Mould, transparent as a Glass ! O may these fatal Eyes, worshipp'd like Stars, Drop from this Visage.once like Heaven ador'd, And leave this Face a Death's Head to be shun'd : Or may this horrid Hand, this Hand, or this,. That once was fragrant with the Breath of Kings, That kneel'd to kifs this wrong'd, this innocent Hand; May it drop from me like a wither'd Branch, From this vile Stock, and never fprout again, If e'er I will'd the Deed, or fign'd fuch Letter.

If e'er I will'd the Deed, or fign'd fuch Letter.

Q. E. 'Tis time for me to go, is't not my Jailors?

I have feen more than any Tyger cou'd.

O pity'd Queen ! Farewel.

Q. M. Is then your boafted Love, debas J to Pity?
Oftay! and mingle Kindness with your Justice;
I beg not for my felf, but for my Fame,
The last on Pain but, and we branded it a shouland Death

To dye's no Pain, but to dye branded is a thousand Deaths.

O. E. Enough! 'tis Cruelty in me to go.

And worfe to flay.

Q. M. Yet I intreat you to flay;
Are you fo cruel to believe me perjur'd? [Holds her.
Q. E. Yet Joofe, for Pity of us both, let go,

The World has not fo griey'd a Wretch as I,

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 55

And thou lay'ft hold upon so weak a Bough, That the least weight will fink me quite with thee.

That the leaft weight will fink me quite with thee.

Q. M. Hear me, thou deaf and cruel Queen! ah no!

Thou mild as Babes, and tender as their Mothers!

Hear me but this, this once, this laft—what neither—

Then to juff Heaven! I kneel, and not to thee.—

Here let my Knees take root.

[Kneels.

Dav. Tho clear and spotless as the Light you are,

Yet that must be examin'd by the Laws;

The Lords must quit you.

Q. M. Must the Law then judge me!
Nay, then I'll rife with shame from this mean Posture;
And now I feel the Majesty of Kings,

Dart from above, to hear it felf profan'd; Stretching my Soul and Limbs to fuch a vaftness, As the first Race of Mankind ere the Flood, When Heroes more than mortal rul'd the World, Come bring me strait to this contemn'd Tribunal:

Then all the Courage

Of my imperial Ancethors infpire
This Breath, from Fergus first, to Games my Son,
Laft of his Race, that fway'd the Scasific Globe,
For fifteen hundred Years filine thro' my Face;
Print on my Fore-head every awful Look,
Defend your Royal Right, and for me plead,
Shoot from my Eyes, and first my Judges dead.

Q. E. If Mary's Face were fensenc'd by shis Breath, If that were Judge, I wou'd this Hour acquit her; Depend upon thy Innocence and me, When that is clear'd, we both fhall happy be: I can no more—Farewel—Griff eits my Speech,

And Pity drowns my Eyes.

Q. M. Fity'd by you! I will not dye fo meanly; No, tho in Chains, yet I'm more brave and free, Scorn thy bafe Mercy, and do pity thee; Thou canft not take my Life; but if thou dares, I'll leave a Race as numerous as the Stars; Whilft thou fhair fall with Barrennefs accurft, And thy tormented Soul, with Enryb burft; 56 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the To fee thy Crown on Mary's liftue shine,

And England ever bleft with Scotland's Line.
Q. E. Stay Sifter, stay: [Exit guarded.

Oh! 'vi soo'lare!

She's gone, drag'd from me by the mercilefs Laws,
Nor can! teat her from the Yallure's Talons;
Buroh! likethe diffacted Mother toar,
Whofe Child a Wolf had from its Cradle bore;
Haftes to its aid, and all the way in vain,
To Heaven, and to the Savage does complain;
Speaks the Beaft kind, till hearing as he flies,
Bewize his Teeth her tender Infan's Gries;
Then the adds Wings, and in her Flight does rave,
With eager Hopes its precious Life to fave;
But finds the Monfler with her Bowels gor'd,
And in her Sight, its panning Limbs devour'd.

[Excunt.

ACTV. SCENEI.

Enter Motton and Davison severally.

Mor. W ELL have we met, thou Machiavel of

And rival to great Cecil in his Fame; There's fomething of Importance on thy Brow, Whereon I read the great Delinquent's Fafe.

Dav. Queen Mary is condemn'd, and which is worfe, the Sentence of the Duke, must rest no longer,

And Norfolk is this Hour to lose his Head.

Mor. The Plot of Barny, to release the Duke,
Was thought the means to urge his speedy End.

Date. He had obtain'd his Pardon but for that,
He of Circumfrance of Treafon was 6 flight.
Foor Duke: the moft unfortunate and brave.
He comes to meet his Death, within thefe Walls,
Where the mult enter, and prepare for her's,
And Chance, alas! may be fo k; and or cruel.

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 57
To let them meet—her Sentence was pronounc'd,

And she preparing hither in her Barge.

Mor. How did the haughty Queen submit her self?
Dav. This great Commission, which consisted of

All the Queen's Lords, and Counfellors of State,
(Of which my felf was one, with five of the Judges) made

The highest Throne of Justice upon Earth; Yet she contemn'd, and scorn'd 'em as too base, To sit upon, and judge a Sovereign Queen.

Mor. How cou'd you then proceed?

Dav. The Court o'er-rul'd it as a flight Objection, And faid, they did not try her there, as Queen.

But as a Person taken into Protection.

Mor. A nice Distinction that, and like your Lawyers.

Dav. At last, having deny'd with Constancy, The Legal Power of this Imperial Court,

And finding all too plainly prov'd against her, As a rare Swimmer, shipwrack'd on the Ocean, A vast and dreadful distance from the Shore, And hopeless grown, with all his Arts to reach it,

And hopeless grown, with all his Arts to reach it, Gives himself o'er contentedly to drown; So she sat down, and mildly then submitted.

Mor. But what was the most stabbing Proof against her?

Her Correspondence had with Babington?

Dav. Behold the Duke's just coming forth to die;

The Queen is entering too: 'tis as I fear'd. [Exeunt.

Enter Q. Mary and Guards. The Duke of Norfolk and two Guards, as going to Execution.

Q. M. Must the brave Duke, receive his death to-day? Dow. Alas, see where he comes, a fight will kill you. Q. M. Quick, lead me, drive me from this dismal Object,

Will the Queen's Malice hunt me to the laft?

Nor leave me, when I'm at the Bounds of Death?

Was there no time but now? No way but this?

O hide me in the Bosom of yon Cloud,

Or cover me with Mountains to avoid him.

Nor.

58 The Albion Queens; or, the

Nor. My Queen! my lovely Alban Queen! fure I'm Already dead, and this the happy Region, Where Souls, like her's, receive their bleft Rewards. Q. M. Turn, much wrong'd Duke, ere Death feals thy Eyes, This Moment tear 'em out, as I wou'd mine :

Shun me, as here thou woud'ft thy horrid Fate, Or Mouth of Basilisk

Nor. What fays my Queen ? Q. M. Is not thy wrong'd and valiant Spirit shock'd ! And Death a much more welcome Gueft than I? And worse to see me, than to feel the Blow?

Nor. By all your Wrongs, and mine-Q. M. O come not near me.

'Tis faid, a murder'd Body, tho 'tis cold, And all its Veins frozen and congeal'd in Death ; When he approaches nigh that did the Deed, Warm'd by the mighty Power of just Revenge, Pours a warm Flood, and bleeds afresh, Why dart you not a Peal of Curses on me ? Your Eyes Promethian Fire to blaft my Soul ? And why's not every Hair upon thy Head-Arm'd like the briftled Porcupine against me?

Nor. Love's Wounds may bleed in Death, but no

Grief ease : The Ax, these Guards, and this grim Pomp of Fate, Stir me no more than acted in a Play. My Love's immortal, too divine to fear, And feels no Horror, but to part with you. O cou'd I but redeem your precious Life, I'd fly to meet the Torments of the Fiends, A thousand Years, and die thus every day.

Q. M. Alas! most pity'd Prince! force not these Drops.

Tears, the kind Balm, to ease all tortur'd Breasts But mine; and mine finds no relief-be gone-oh no-For you must ne'er return-let me be gone.

Nor. For Death I am prepar'd, but not to part with you.

Q. M.

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 59 Q. M. 'Twill not be long, fome two or three short Days.

Or Hours perhaps, and we shall meet again. We both are in the Balance, weigh'd for Death, You in the finking Scale, that's near the Grave, And I hang tottering here in hopes to follow.

Nor. By Mercy, that still guards the Throne of Princes, The Queen, tho Woman, ne'er can be fo cruel. What! Shed the Blood, the facred Blood of Kings!

'Twere Blasphemy unpardon'd to suspect it. But if the dare, I will my felf descend, Arm'd with a Legion in the Shades below, Guarding like Gods, the utmost Fort of Life,

And drive your lovely Spirit back, to be Inshrin'd within this facred Mould again.

Q. M. Oh Duke! are you fo cruel and unkind? I had but two priz'd Friends, in all the World, The Queen, and you, and she forbids me Earth, Will you deny me Heaven ?

Nor. Away, your Danger spurs me on the Race, Swift as the Mind can think, my Soul shall fly,

And make the Scaffold but one step to Meaven. Q. M. And till I come, your Happiness to see,

Kneel, and atone th' offended Powers for me.

Nor. Yes, all the shining Host shall plead your Cause. Round the Etherial Throne Queen Mary's Wrongs Shall be the Theme of their immortal Songs a Whilst for Revenge their Crystal Trumpets sound, Till their shrill Voice to frighted Mortals bound : The Stars shall shake, the Elements be aw'd, And both the Globes shall feel th' avenging Rod.

O. M. No more; Our Souls shall soon a joyful Meeting have ; But to our Mortal Parts, a long Farewel.

[Exeunt severally.

[ Alcove, with a Table, Pen, Ink and Paper, and Chairs, ] Enter Queen Elizabeth and Ladies. Q. E. A Midnight Silence fits upon the Morn.

The Eye of Day shuts, as afraid already, And

60 The Albion Queens; or, the

And feems the fetting, not the rifing Sun.
I want no Glories that the World can give,
Crowns on my Head, and Kingdoms at my Nod;
Yet where's the Quiet, where's the Freedom here?

Enter Cecil and Davison.

Dav. My Lord, I fear we have transgress'd too far Upon the Queen's most private Thoughts.

Cec. Thoughts, or no Thoughts, we must and will awake her.

Yet hold, let us retire within hearing,

Till she is pleas'd to call. [Retire.

Q. E. Narjāli is now no more.
His Body's free from Pain, his Mind from Fear,
And feels, like mine, no doleful Bearings here.
Curft be this Crown, and this loath'd Scene of Power,
And curft this Head that e'er the Magick wore.
The carelefs shepherd's Beaff feels no fuch Sting,
More lov'd, obey'd, and happier than a King;
His Subjects do not one another hate,
For Malice, or for Jealoufy of State;
But harmlefly the Ewe, and crefted Rum,
Walk fide by fide, and guard the tender Lamb.
Who's there?
Researce Davidon and Cecil.

Who's there? [Re-ente

Q. E. Welcome, kind Cecil, to affift me; Welcome, I hope, to rid this Breatl of Tortures. What fay the Council to their Queen's Demand? Shall my dear Sifter live? Shall I be happy? Speak, Davijon, and tell your Miftres? Doom; Quick, for my Soul now Harts to meet the Sound.

Daw. May't pleafe your Maiefty, your faithful Council, To what you urg'd, that Mercy fhou'd be filewin To one of Mary's Dignity and Sex, And near Relation, both in Blood and Title to you; They bumbly offer, that no Sex, nor Greatnefs, Nay, were they forung from the fame Royal Father, Ought to protect Offenders' gainfit their Sovereign; And boldly tell you, Mercy is a Crime, When it is flewn to one that has no Mercy;

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 61 She wou'd have taken your Life,

Which is not fafe as long as Mary lives. Whom if you fave, in hopes that Heaven will spare you. 'Tis not to trust to Mercy, but provoke it.

Q. E. Is this the Cenfure then, of your most wife

And arbitrary Caution ? Dav. Mightiest Queen !

Do not mistake what is your Subjects Love: Our only Zeal is for your Royal Safety, To whom one precious Moment of your Welfare, Is far more worth than all our Lives and Fortunes.

Cec. To that Objection of your Majesty, That this may draw a War from France or Spain ; We all agree, with one entire Confent, If any fuch shou'd be, to guard your Crown And Royal Person, with our Lives and Fortunes : And such fond Fears are held impossible, For they can ne'er hurt England, but by her,

And all such Dangers at her Death will vanish.

Q. E. Is this your Answer to your Sov'reign's Tears? This all the kindness that two Queens can beg ? Day. All fixt, and firm as Fate, we are refoly'd

Like Rocks to stand the Tempest of vain Pity. Since to deny you this, is to be Loyal: And to affuage the Tyrant Mercy in your Bosom, No other Answer we can give but this : I kneel, and humbly offer to your thinking A Saying no less true to be observ'd, Than once was faid of Conradine of Sicily, And Charles of Anjou, Rivals in a Crown, Which is ____ The Death of Mary is the Life Of Queen Elizabeth, the Life of Mary,

The Death of Queen Elizabeth.

Q. E. Hear, you immortal and avenging Powers! Are Kings Vicegerents of your Rule on Earth? Breathes the rich Oil yet fragrant on our Brows? And are we thus oblig'd? there are but two Main Attributes which stamp us like your selves, Mercy and fole Prerogative, and those Daring and faucy Subjects wou'd deny us.

62 The Albion Queens; or, the

Cre., Msy't pleafe your Majefly—
Q. E., I'll hear no more—Hail pious Confeffor,
In vain we forung from Edward's facred Line;
I from this Hour the Tyrans will begin,
Throw off the Saint, and be no more a Queen;
No more be fam'd for merciful abroad,
But turn my Scepter to an Iron Rod.
For if thou wouldt be great, thou rather must,
Be fear'd for Cruelry, than lov'd for Just:
Hence and be gone, for I will Thunder bring,

Fell as a Woman, awful as a King. [Ex. Dav. and Cec. What have I done? With whom hall I advite? Heaven keeps at awful diffance now, and treats not With Kings, as it with Monarchs did of o'd, In Vifions counfell'd, or by Prophets warn'd. Infpire my Thoughtrs—Bid Davijon come back. How werethed is my Faet? That on each fide, on Ruin I muft run, Or take my Sifter's Life, or lofe my own.

Re-enter Davison.

Dav. I come at your dread Majesty's Command. Q. S. O Davijon? Thou are a Man, on whom My daily Smiles like Rays adorn thy Person; But thou hast Merits, that out-thine my Bounties.

Dav. O whither wou'd your Majefty!

Day, O winner wou a your sujery;

Q. E. Thou feelt how it hy poor Queen is tortur'd.

Tis vain to hide what thou haft Eyes to find;

How backward I am fill to Cruelty;

How loth to drain the Blood even of my Foes,

Is there no way to fairify my People,

Nor jealous Power, but by my Siller's Death?

Disv. I wou'd advite;
But oh! What hopes can that Phylician have
Of Cure, whole Patient throws away his Medicine,
And fays that is a Poifon? Lo. I kneel
To you, the wifell, charming'lt Queen on Earth,
The periect'lt Pattern of thole Powers above;
Yet oh! the more y'are good in Mercy fhine;

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. They feem more fixt to fave fuch Excellence,

Which cannot be but by the Death of Mary.

Q. E. Screech Owls, dark Rayens, and amphibious Monsters

Are screaming in that Voice-Ply from my Sight; Run Monster, find, and feek thy Habitation, Where fuch loath'd Vermin build their fatal Nefts, Or fink there to the Center as thou kneel'ff.

Rather than that shou'd be, rise and be gone.

Dav. This shall not fright your Slave from his lov'd Duty. Nor from this humble Posture; no, unless You take this Weapon in your Royal Hand, And thrust it in your Servant's faithful Breast,

And let out all my Blood that's Loyal; yet When I am dead, fo well you are belov'd,

There's none of all your Subjects but wou'd bless you.

Thus kneel, implore, and hug the Fate that I had. [Rifes. Q. E. Be gone quick, Davison, thou fatal Charmer, Thou subtle Mouth of the deluding Senate.

Dav. Alas! what Ends can your kind People have? What private Benefit can they propose,

By this Queen's Death, but to preferve your Reign? Which is the all, and only Bleffing aim'd at-Believe, confider.

Q. B. Oh Davison !

Dav. Remember too your Danger - News is brought That Spain has an Armado launch'd, fo vast, That o'er our narrow Seas will form a Bridge. To let in all their Living to this Island; With iron Rods to fcourge, and Chains to bind us: Th' affrighted People hasten to their Shores,

And scarcely can perceive a Cloud far off, Darkning the Sky, and blackning all the Sea; But cry the Armado's coming-

Q. E. Vain Reports! Dav. Upon this dreadful Rumour, strange Alarm,

I heard it run in Whispers thro' the House ; And all the Lords that fat upon the Queen, That this Invalion was for Mary's fake;

And if you will not fign her fpeedy Death,

They

64 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the They must be fore'd to fly, or set up her, In hopes that when she reigns, that prosperous Act

May expiate their Crime in judging her.

Q. E. Ha!
Daw. 'Tis most true; can you condemn 'em for't?
Sign but the Warranr, say the Execution,
And then perhaps, your Subjects, when they find
How much their Queen did condescend for them,
May soon relent, and with sibumistive Tears
Request that Life, which you so long had begg'd
In vain of them.

Q. E. I have confider'd___write

Dav. Write what?

Q. E. Write what thou wilt, write any thing,
A Warrant for Queen Mary's Execution.

Queen did I fay?

Dav. Oh! good Angels bless you!

Nay Children, whom you have now redeem'd from Slaughter,

May live to the full Age of Man, and fing Your Praife.

Q. E. Did I fay Queen?

Shall the fierce Hand of curft Elizabeth
Condemn to die her Coulin and a Queen!

Dispatch, and let thy Pen fly o'er the Paper,
Swift as the Quill upon an Eagle's Wing!

Swift as the Quill upon an Eagle's Wing!
For if thou giv'st my Thoughts one Moment for Repen-

Hadft thou the Tongue, the Eloquence of Angels,
It were in vain to alter my Refolve...
Write, write, no matter how, if foul, the better,
Foul as the Fact I am about to do.

[Davifon writes.]

Dav. See, I've already done. Q. E. Quick, quick it must, [Reads.

To our Lieutenant of the Tower, commanding that the next Morning after Sight of this, you shall deliver to our Sheriffs of London the Body of your Prisoner Mary Stewart. Oh

Death of Mary Queen of Scots.

Oh cruel Davison! when thou cam'ft here, Tears shou'd have flow'd, much faster than thy Ink, And drown'd her Name with Rivers from thy Eyes.

Reads. ] To be beheaded on a Scaffold fixt without the Tower.

And I to this must sign Elizabeth. Quick, give my roving Thoughts no time for Reason = But thou, successful Devil, put the Pen Into my Hand, and Hell into my Bosom. Dav. Consider that it is of no more force,

Than Testaments, that may at any time, The Party living, be revok'd and null'd, Q. E. There, there it is.

FSigns is.

[Soft Musick ready with Flutes.]

Yet stay; be sure thou keep'ft it, as thou woud'st Thy Soul and Body from eternal Fires. Think, when I put into thy Hands this Paper, 'Tis not the Life of Mary, but thy Queen's: The moment that thou part'ft with this dead Warrant, May the just Statesiman be thy Fortune fill, And all thy Good rewarded be with Ill; Tho honest, may'ft thou be a Villain thought, And die a Traitor for thy Prince's fault. Day. The Deed is done at laft.

Enter Morton and Cecil.

Cec. Haft thou got the Paper? Dav. 'Tis in my Hand. Mor. Victorious Davison! Eternal Ages shall adore thy Statue, And wife Historians, when this Deed they note, Shall lift thy Name among the Stars for this. Cec. Giv't me.

Dav. But had you heard what Execrations

Ces.

66 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

Cee. Oh! no matter, ours be all the blame,
We'll carry to the joyful Council this,
To morrow the fhall die, and the Queen reft,
When this hugg'd Cancer's parted from her Breaft.

[Exeunt.]

Soft Musick here.

[A Table, at the upper end of the Stage.]

Queen Mary discover'd kneeling, with a Book in her Hand, her Women kneeling by her.

Enter to them Dowglas, and Men Servants.

Dow. Behold her kneeling! O ye immortal Powers! Ye Powers that help fo good and mild as fine! Send Hofts of Cherubs down to waft those Sighs. Sure all the World's remember'd in those Prayers, And in those Trease, thy guilty Foes are wash'd.

Q. M. Come all of ye, draw near. [Q. comes forward, How goes the Day?

Dow. The Sun's now rifen, whose Setting you'll ne'er fee. Q. M. Suppose I've but an Hour of Life, that were nough;

The Diftance up to Heaven, tho it feems fo great,
Yet 'is fo nigh, and Mercy flies fo faft,
That in lefs while than fwifteft Lightning falls,
It faves the poor Delinquent at the bottom,

That has been Ages tumbling to Perdition.

Dow. O ye draad Fates! ye Sovereign Guard of Kings! Muft that Bright Head, be finatch'd off by an Ax? Upon whose Brow's a Crown, a facred Crown? Q. M. What matter's it, how we die?

When Dead we are all the fame, there's no diftinction. Betwix: a Prince, that on his gorgeous Bed, Gives up a pamper'd Gboft, and me upon. A Scaffold, and with that impartial Judge,

That

Teath of Mary Queen of Scots. 67
That holds the steady equal Beams of Justice,

A Crown weighs light, with Virtue in the Ballance.

Dow. How d'ye, and how bears that precious Heart,

The expected Moment of its Bodies Fate?

Q. M. Ne'er better; for my Maids can bear me Witness,

I laid me down to rest, and all the Night Slept like a thoughtless Infant,

Slept like a thoughtless Infant, With Smiles imprinted on its lovely Cheeks,

And wak'd with Joy to dress me for my Travel: Like one, who on a May-Day-Morn sets out, Pleas'd with the Beauties of the Lawns and Fields.

And hopes to come into his Inn at Night.

Dow. O Miracle of Innocence!

Q. M. Thou, Dowglas,

Art young, may'ft live my Story to relate, To Men, that now are Children in the Womb;

But Melvil, thou hast been long my faithful Servant, Haste into France and Scotland, when I'm dead; There tell the Guises, my dear Cousins, and Son.

Thou saw's me die, in the true Faith I liv'd in;

Not Scotland's Crown, nor England's Hopes cou'd tempt

Nor eighteen Years a Pris'ner, to apostatize, Nay, nor my Life, which now I seal its Martyr. Dow. O Saint like-Goodness!

Dow, O Saint like-Goodness!
Q. M. Y've been faithful all;
What poor Estate, my cruel Wants have left me.

What poor Estate, my cruel Wants have lest me, (Here is my Will) I freely giv't among you;

Wou'd it were more, as much as you deferve;
Nay weep not, here are fome few Trifles

Nay weep not, nere are tome tew Frinces
I will differibute with my own glad Hands:
Here is fome Gold and Jewels in this Casket,
Share 'em among ye, and a Kifs to each. [To her Women.
Heaven blefs you all; thou, Melvil, take this Ring;

I wou'd not have thee every time thou look'ft on't,
But fometimes, call to mind, that it was Mary's.

Poor Man! his Griefs, have choak'd his Speech.

Receive this Bracelet, from thy Mistress' Arm,

68 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the And tie't about thy Wrift — go to my Son, The rifing Sun, from Mary's endless Setting,

And he'll take care of thee, and all of ye.

Dow. Alas! I quickly shall be past all care,
This fatal Day hangs heavier on my Youth

Than threescore Years can do on Dowglas' head.

O. M. I've nothing else to give, but after me Joys In Reversion.

Dow. 'Twill not be long, ere you will shine a Star, And light us on our way.

Q.M. Give me some Wine — your Mistress here

Her laft kind Wifhes to you in this Draugh.

I have no Friends, no Children nigh, buy you.
He whom I bore, wrack'd from thefe tender Bowels,
Searce bleft his joyful Mother for her Labou,
With his first Insans Beams; but was by Villains,
Like little Romalius, from this Bostom torn,
And nurst with Wolves; wherefore my dearest Friends,
My faithful, fuffering, mourning, weeping Servants!
Your Queen, your Mistrefs, drinks to every one,
And all Revenge, and Malice buy'd be
In this kind Bowl, as is this Wine in me.

[Drinks, all braef.

Dow. Give me the Cup:——here's to our Mistress; [Turns about, puts Poison in the Cup, and drinks.

And to her Health of Immortality, And mine. Behold they come to fetch you.

Q. M. They are welcome.-

Enter Cecil, Morton, Lieutenant of the Tower, and Guards.

My Lord, I have expected you with Joy, You find me like a chearful, longing Bride a Come, and conduct me to my Bridegroom Death. Cec. Alas! I must.

Q. M. Bring you no Message from the Queen?
Nor word of farewel, to her dying Cousin?

Death of Mary Queen of Scots. 69

Cee. Something the wou'd have faid, but burft in Tears, Whilst with a Groan, her Toriur'd Speech expir'd, And only cry'd, O Mary, and no more.

Mor. Madam, I kneel, in hopes of your Forgiveness.
Q. M. Thou'lt done no Ill to me, but as thy Nature:

A Wolf can do but as a Wolf—thou hast it.'
The Heaven thy horrid Crimes, may ne'er forget,
But let my Son revenge his Father's Murder,
Which thou too furely didst, and laid'st the Stain on me.

Enter Davison in haste.

Dav. I've firange and fudden News to tell you, Just now's arrivd from Scotland, Patrick Grey, With Letters to the Queen, which have diduted ther; But more my Lord, the feems incens'd at you. [To Mor. I with this Execution had been done, Or not to do.

Cec. We are gone too far already,

To think of going back.

Dav. Room for the Queen.

Madam, 'tis fit you wou'd difmis your Servants,

The Scaffold will be crowded elfe.

Q. M. The Queen my Sifter cannot be fo cruel.

Shall this poor Body, when its light is our,
(Which Princelles were kneeling proud to deck)

Its Balhfulnefs without a Bluft expost?

And none of all my Friends, at laft allow'd

And none of all my Friends, at last allow'd To weep, and shrowd these Limbs, when I am dead, Which these poor Wretches all, will thank you for. Cee. Madam, tho against the Orders of our Mistress,

Two of your Women Servants shall attend you, And of your Men the like, which best shall please you. Now have you ought, that we may tell the Queen?
Q. M. I have but one Request, that she'll permit

My Friends to bear my Body into France,
There to be bury'd with my Ancello's
Of Lorrain, whence my Mother was defcended;
For Scotland, thou that never gav'lt me Quiet,
When I was living; ne'er shall rest me dead.

70 The ALBION QUEENS; or, the

Dav. On then, make way there.

Q. M. Come near, and you two take me by the Hands; For to the last, with Decency I will, Tho little Port, the Majesty retain Of what I am, the rightful Queen of Scotland, Queen Dowager of France, and England's Heir, A glorious shine of Titles, that wou'd like The lambent Beams, around the Heads of Angels, Protect a Crown-Weep not, But take me by the Hands, as you have feen Your now expiring, then your blooming Queen, Brought by two Monarchs, to the Dauphin's Arms, Adorn'd with all Love's Pride, and all Love's Charms;

So lead me to the Place where I may gain, Immortal Pleafures, and immortal reign. [ Ex. led by two Gentlemen .

Manent Morton and Dowglas.

Mor. Why doft thou weep, and grovel on the Floor? Dow. Traitor, because I will not herd with Men.

[Faints, and lies down. 'Tis nobler thus to crawl like Snakes and Toads,

Than live, and have a Face erect like thee. Mor. Alas! thou faint'ft! Dow. Hold off thy curfed Hands: I am refoly'd, My Royal Mistress shall not fall alone, But Hand in Hand, the joyful Course we'll run. Attend ye bright Inhabitants on high, Whilft I proclaim the imperial Saint is nigh, Now, now, she starts, and now begins the Race, And now with Blufhings veils her charming Face ; The lovely Pillar that fuftains her Head, Her Snowy Neck, now on the Block is laid; Tears in vast Torrents, flow from every Eye, And Groans, like Thunder, rend the Vaulted Sky; The Ax is up, and points the way to Heaven-

Now, now, it falls, and now the Stroke is given.

Dies.

Q. E. Speak, Morton, Traitor to thy Sovereign, Yet give me Comfort, and I'll pardon all, Where is the Queen? fay, do's my Sifter live? Where is the?

Mor. Dead ere this upon the Scaffold.

Q. E. Now, who will swiftest run to save both Queens ? Fly faster than the rushing Thought, and he That from the lifted Ax, the Dove can fave, Shall be a King.

Vanish, a Kingdom's thy Reward,

Seize on that Fiend; Truth has at last been kind. And brought to light, 'twas he that murder'd Darnly, Bind him in Chains, and in an Iron Cage, Let him be fent to Scotland to be tortur'd-

[Ex. Morton drag'd away. Ha! what unthought of difmal Object's this ?

A fecond Prospect fure of Grief to none: The pretty, innocent, and faithful Dowglas, Dead with no other Wound, than Sorrow's Dart, Or fome unhappy Poifon.

Enter Cecil and Davison.

Gec. Madam, I wish the Ransom of our Lives, Cou'd fave the Queen's, or mediate our Offence, If you shall think it so; for she is dead.

Q. E. How coud'st thou be so curst a Villain! What boots the Thunder, or the Bolts of Kings, Which Traitors fear no more than Summer's Hail, Elfe why art thou alive? and why dy'd Mary fo? Cec. Alas!

Q. E. Remove that Vulture from my fight, and fince

Death cannot reach him, the Star-Chamber shall, Strip him of all his borrow'd Plumes, and leave him As naked as he came into the World. Dav. Long may you live, till Heaven at last makes known, The good that I've so ill rewarded done.

TExit.

72 The Albion Queens; or, the

Q. E. O take away those fast Remains for ever! Thy Dust shall have a Royal Monument, High as thy Friendship shall the Marble rife, And with thy Soul, thy Tomb shall reach the Skies. Take off Dowglas.

Cec. O calm that Bosom, let no Grief Molest your quier Spirit in its God-like Mansion.

Moled your quier Spirit in its God-like Manfion, Q. E. O Ceil! fmll I never be at ref! We are but gaudy Executioners at beft; Fixt to our Crowns, we bear the galling Weight Of cenfuring Fools, and flattering Knaves of State, If we logitye, our Pity is arraignd, If poinfil: we wish Cruelty are frain'd. In fome wild Defart, happier 'dis to reign O'er Wolves and Tiggers, than more cruel Men. Hence with vain Glories: I'll no more contend, Truft nor in Greatnefs, nor on Crowns depend,

When Virtue is alone, our furest Friend.

mount.

