nation of Henry the fift.

Enter Rumour painted full of Tongues.

 Pen your eares; for which of you will stop
The vent of hearing, when lowd Rumor speaks?
I from the Orient to the drooping West,
(Making the wind my poste-horse) still vnfold
The acts commenced on this ball of earth,
Vpon my tongues continuall slanders ride,
The which in euery language I pronounce,
Stuffing the eares of men with false reports,
I speake of peace while couert enmity,
Vnder the smile of safety, woundes the world:
And who but Rumor, who but onely I,
Make fearefull musters, and prepar'd defence,
Whiles the bigge yeare, swolne with some other griefe,
Is thought with child by the sterne tyrant Warre?
And no such matter. Rumour is a pipe,
Blowne by surmizes, Iealousies coniectures,
And of so easie, and so plaine a stop,
That the blunt monster, with vncounted heads,
The still discordant wau'ring multitude,
Can play vpon it. But what need I thus
(My wel knowne body) to anothomize
Among my household? why is Rumor here?

The second part of

I runne before King Harries victorie,
Who in a bloody field by Shrewsbury,
Hath beaten downe yong Hot-spurre and his troopes,
Quenching the flame of bold rebellion,
Euen with the rebels bloud. But what meane I
To speake so true at first: my office is
To noyse abroad, that Harry Monmouth fell
Vnder the wrath of noble Hot-spurs sword,
And that the King before the Douglas rage,
Stoopt his annointed head as low as death.
This haue I rumour'd through the peasant townes,
Betweene that royall field of Shrewsbury,
And this worme-eaten hole of ragged stone,
When Hot-spurs father old Northumberland
Lies crafty sicke, the postes come tyring on,
And not a man of them brings other newes,
Than they haue learnt of me, from Rumors tongues,
They bring smooth comforts false, worse then true wrongs.

Enter the Lord Bardolfe at one doore.

Bard. Who keeps the gate here ho? where is the Earle?

Porter What shall I say you are?

Bard. Tell thou the Earle,

That the Lord Bardolfe doth attend him heere.

Porter His Lordship is walkt forth into the orchard,
Please it your honor knocke but at the gate,
And he himselve will answer. Enter the Earle Northumberland.

Bard. Here comes the Earle.

Earle. What newes Lord Bardolfe? euery minute now
Should be the father of some Stratagem,
The times are wild, contention like a horse,
Full of high feeding, madly hath broke loose,
And beares downe all before him.

Bard. Noble Earle,
I bring you certaine newes from Shrewsbury.

Earle Good, and God will.

Bard.

Henry the fourth.

Bard. As good as heart can wish:
The King is almost wounded to the death,
And in the fortune of my Lord your sonne,
Prince Harry slaine outright, and both the Blunts
Kild by the hand of Dowglas, yong prince Iohn,
And Westmerland and Stafford fled the field,
And Harry Monmouthes brawne, the hulke sir Iohn,
Is prisoner to your sonne: O such a day!
So fought, so followed, and so fairely wonne,
Came not till now to dignifie the times
Since Cæsars fortunes.

Earle How is this deriu'd?
Saw you the field? came you from Shrewsbury?

Bar. I spake with one, my lord, that came from thence, enter
A gentleman well bred, and of good name, Trauers.
That freely rendred me these newes for true.

Earle Here comes my seruant Trauers who I sent
On tuesday last to listen after newes.

Bar. My lord, I ouer-rode him on the way,
And he is furnisht with no certainties,
More then he haply may retale from me.

Earle Now Trauers, what good tidings comes with you?

Trauers My lord, sir Iohn Vmfreuile turnd me backe
With ioyfull tidings, and being better horst,
Out rode me, after him came spurring hard,
A gentleman almost forespent with speede,
That stopt by me to breathe his bloudied horse,
He askt the way to Chester, and of him
I did demand what newes from Shrewsbury,
He told me that rebellion had bad lucke,
And that yong Harrie Percies spur was cold:
With that he gaue his able horse the head,
And bending forward, strooke his armed heeles,
Against the panting sides of his poore iade,
Vp to the rowell head, and starting so,
He seem'd in running to deuoure the way,

Stay

The second part of

Staying no longer question. Earle Ha? againe,
Said he, yong Harry Percies spur was cold,
Of Hot-spurre, Cold-spurre, that rebellion
Had met ill lucke?

Bard. My lord, Ile tell you what,
If my yong Lord your sonne, haue not the day,
Vpon mine honor for a silken point,
Ile giue my Barony, neuer talke of it.

Earle Why should that gentleman that rode by Trauers,
Giue then such instances of losse?

Bard. Who he?
He was some hilding fellow that had stolne
The horse he rode on, and vpon my life
Spoke at a venter. Looke, here comes more news. enter Mor-

Earle Yea this mans brow, like to a title leafe, ton.
Foretells the nature of a tragicke volume,
So lookes the strond, whercon the imperious floud,
Say Mourton, didst thou come from Shrewsbury?

Mour. I ranne from Shrewsbury my noble lord,
Where hatefull death put on his vgliest maske,
To fright our partie.

Earle How doth my sonne and brother?
Thou tremblest, and the whitenes in thy cheek,
Is apter then thy tongue to tell thy arrand,
Euen such a man, so faint, so spiritleffe,
So dull, so dead in looke, so woe begon,
Drew Priams curtaine in the dead of night,
And would haue told him, halfe his Troy was burnt:
But Priam found the fier, ere he, his tongue,
And I, my Percies death, ere thou reportst it.
This thou wouldst say, Your son did thus and thus,
Your brother thus: so fought the noble Dowglas,
Stopping my greedy eare with their bold deedes,
But in the end, to stop my eare indeed,
Thou hast a sigh to blow away this praise,
Ending with brother, sonne, and all are dead.

Mour.

Henry the fourth.

Mour. Douglas is liuing, and your brother yet,
But for my Lord your sonne:

Earle Why he is dead?
See what a ready tongue Suspition hath!
He that but feares the thing hee would not know,
Hath by instinct, knowledge from others eies,
That what he feard is chanced: yet speake Mourton,
Tell thou an Earle, his diuination lies,
And I will take it as a sweete disgrace,
And make thee rich for doing me such wrong.

Mour. You are too great to be by me gainsaid,
Your spirite is too true, your feares too certaine.

Earle Yet for all this, say not that Percie's dead,
I see a strange confession in thine eie,
Thou shakst thy head, and holdst it feare, or sinne,
To speake a truth: if he be slaine,
The tongne offends not that reports his death,
And he doth sinne that doth belie the dead,
Not he which saies the dead is not aliue,
Yet the first bringer of vnwelcome newes
Hath but a loosing office, and his tongue
Sounds euer after as a fullen bell,
Remembred tolling a departing friend.

Bard. I cannot thinke, my Lord, your sonne is dead.

Mour. I am sory I should force you to beleecue,
That which I would to God I had not seene,
But these mine eies saw him in bloody state,
Rending faint quittance, wearied, and out-breathd,
To Harry Monmouth, whose swift wrath beat downe
The neuer daunted Percy to the earth,
From whence with life he neuer more sprung vp.
In few his death, whose spirite lent a fire,
Euen to the dullest peasant in his campe,
Being bruted once, tooke fire and heate away,
From the best temperd courage in his troopes,
For from his mettall was his party steeled,

Which

The second part of

Which once in him abated, al the rest
Turnd on themselues, like dull and heauy lead.
And as the thing thats heauy in it selfe,
Vpon enforcement flies with greatest speed:
So did our men, heauy in Hot-spurs losse,
Lend to this weight such lightnesse with their feare,
That arrowes fled not swifter toward their ayme,
Than did our souldiers aiming at their safetie,
Fly from the field: then was that noble Worcester,
So soone tane prisoner, and that furious Scot,
The bloody Douglas whose well labouring sword,
Had three times slaine th' appearance of the King,
Gan vaile his stomacke, and did grace the shame
Of those that turnd their backes, and in his flight,
Stumbling in feare, was tooke: the summe of all
Is, that the King hath wonne, and hath sent out,
A speedy power to incounter you my lord,
Vnder the conduct of yong Lancaster,
And Westmerland: this is the news at ful.

Earle For this I shal haue time enough to mourne,
In poison there is phisicke, and these newes,
Hauing beene wel, that would haue made me sicke:
Being sicke, haue (in some measure) made me wel:
And as the wretch whose feuer-weakned ioynts,
Like strengthlesse hinges buckle vnder life,
Impacient of his fit, breakes like a fire
Out of his keepers armes; euen so my limbes,
Weakened with grieve, being now enragde with grieve,
Are thrice themselues: hence therefore thou nice crutch,
A scaly gauntlet now with ioynts of Steele
Must gloue this hand, and hence thou sickly coife,
Thou art a guard too wanton for the head,
Which princes, flesh't with conquest, ayme to hit:
Now bind my browes with yron, and approach
The raggedst houre that Time and Spight dare bring,
To frowne vpon th' inragde Northumberland,

Let

Henry the fourth.

Let heauen kisse earth, now let not Natures hand
Keepe the wild flood confind, let Order die,
And let this world no longer be a stage,
To feed contention in a lingring act:
But let one spirite of the first borne Cain
Raigne in all bosomes, that ech heart being set
On bloody courses, the rude sceane may end,
And darknesse be the burier of the dead.

Vmfr. This strained passion doth you wrong my lord.

Bard. Sweet earle, diuorce not wisdom from your honor,

Mour. The liues of all your louing complices,
Leaue on you health, the which if you giue ore,
To stormy passion must perforce decay.

Bard. We all that are ingaged to this losse,
Knew that we ventured on such dangerous seas,
That if we wrought out life, twas ten to one,
And yet we venturd for the gaine proposde,
Choakt the respect of likely perill fear'd,
And since we are orefet, venture againe:
Come, we will al put forth body and goods.

Mour. Tis more then time, and my most noble lord,
I heare for certaine, and dare speake the truth.

North. I knew of this before, but to speake truth,
This present grieve had wipte it from my mind,
Go in with me and counsell euery man,
The aptest way for safety and reuenge,
Get postes and letters, and make friends with speed,
Neuer so few, and neuer yet more need.

Iohn Sirra, you giant, what saies the doctour to my water?

Page He said sir, the water it self was a good healthy water, but for the party that owed it, he might haue moe diseases then he knew for.

John Men of all sorts take a pride to gird at me: the braine of this foolish compounded clay-man is not able to inuent any thing that intends to laughter, more then I inuent, or is inuēted on me, I am not only witty in my selfe, but the cause that wit is in other men. I do here walk before thee, like a sow that hath ouerwhelmd al her litter but one, if the prince put thee into my seruice for any other reason then to sett me off, why then I haue no iudgement thou horeson mandrake, thou art fitter to be worne in my cap, then to wait at my heels I was neuer manned with an agot till now, but I wil in-set you, neither in golde nor siluer, but in vile apparell, and send you backe againe to your master for a iewell, the inuenall the prince your master, whose chin is not yet sledge, I will sooner haue a beard grow in the palme of my hand, then he shal get one off his cheek, & yet he will not sticke to say his face is a face royall, God may finish it when he will, tis not a haire amisse yet, he may keepe it still at a face royall, for a barber shall neuer earne sixpence out of it, and yet heele be crowing as if he had writte man euer since his father was a batcheler, he may keepe his owne grace, but hees almost out of mine I can assure him: what said master Dommelton about the sattin for my short cloake and my floppes?

Boy He saide sir, you should procure him better assurance then Bardolfe, he would not take his band and yours, he liked not the securitie.

sir Iohn Let him be damn'd like the glutton, pray God his tongue be hotter, a horeson Achitophel! a rascall: yea forsooth knaue, to beare a gentle man in hand, and then stand vpon security, the horeson sinoothy-pates doe now weare nothing but hie shooes and bunches of keyes at their girdles, and if a man is through with them in honest taking vp, then they must stand vpon security, I had as liue they would put ratsbane in my mouth as offer to stop it with security, I lookt a should haue sent me two and twenty yards of sattin, (as I am a true knight,) and he sends me security: well he may sleepe in security, for he hath the horne of aboundance, and the lightnesse of his wife shines shines through it: wheres Bardolf, & yet can not he see though he haue his owne lanthorne to light him.

Boy Hees gone in Smithfield to buy your worship a horse.
sir Iohn I bought him in Paules, and heele buy me a horse in Smithfield, and I could get me but a wife in the stewes, I were man'd, horse, and wiue.

Enter Lord chiefe Iustice.

Boy Sir, here comes the noble man that committed the prince for striking him about Bardolfe.

sir Iohn Wait close, I will not see him.

Iustice Whats hee that goes there?

seru. Falstaffe, and t please your lordship.

Iust. He that was in question for the robbery?

seru. He my Lord, but he hath since done good seruice at Shrewsbury, & (as I heare,) is now going with some charge to the lord Iohn of Lancaster.

Iust. What to Yorke? call him backe againe.

seru. Sir Iohn Falstaffe.

Iohn Boy, tell him I am deafe.

Boy You must speake lowder, my master is deafe.

Iust. I am sure he is to the hearing of any thing good, goe plucke him by the elbow, I must speake with him.

seru. Sir Iohn?

Falst. What? a yong knaue and begging? is there not wars? is there not employment? doth not the King lacke subiects? do not the rebels need souldiers, though it be a shame to be on any side but one, it is worse shame to beg then to be on the worst side, were it worse then the name of Rebellion can tell how to make it.

seru. You mistake me sir.

Iohn Why sir, did I say you were an honest man, setting my knighthood and my souldiership aside, I had lied in my throat if I had said so.

seru. I pray you sir then set your knighthood, and your souldiership aside, and giue me leaue to tell you, you lie in your throate, if you say I am any other then an honest man.

The second part of

John I giue thee leaue to tell me, so I lay aside that which growes to me, if thou getst any leaue of me, hang me, if thou takst leaue, thou wert better be hangd, you hunt coüter, hence, auant.

Serv. Sir, my Lord would speake with you.

Iust. Sir Iohn Falstaffe, a word with you.

Falst. My good Lord, God giue your lordship good time of day, I am glad to see your lordship abroad, I heard say your lordship was sicke, I hope your lordship goes abroad by aduise, your lordship, though not clean past your youth, haue yet some smack of an ague in you, some relish of the saltnes of time in you, and I most humbly beseech your lordship to haue a reuerend care of your health.

Iustice Sir Iohn, I sent for you before your expedition to Shrewsbury.

Sir Iohn Andt please your lordship, I heare his maiesty is returnd with some discomfort from Wales.

Iust. I talke not of his maiesty, you would not come when I sent for you.

Falst. And I heare moreouer, his highnes is falne into this same horson apoplexi.

Iust. Well, God mend him, I pray you let me speake with you.

Falst. This appoplexi as I take it is a kind of lethergie, and't please your lordship, a kind of sleeping in the bloud, a horson tingling.

Iust. What tell you me of it, be it as it is.

Falst. It hath it originall from much griefe, from study, and perturbation of the braine, I haue read the cause of his effects in Galen, it is a kind of deafenes.

Iust. I think you are falne into the disease, for you heare not what I say to you.

Old. Very wel my lord, very wel, rather and't please you it is the disease of not listning, the maladie of not marking that I am troubled withall.

Iust. To punish you by the heeles, would amend the attention

Henry the fourth.

tion of your cares, and I care not if I doe become your phisitian.

Falst. I am as poore as Iob my lord, but not so patient, your Lordship may minister the potion of imprisonment to me, in respect of pouerty, but how I should be your patient to follow your prescriptions, the wise may make som dramme of a scruple, or, indeede a scruple it selfe.

Iust. I sent for you when there were matters against you for your life to come speake with me.

Falst. As I was then aduise by my learned counsaile in the lawes of this land seruice, I did not come.

Iust. Wel, the truth is sir Iohn, you liue in great infamy.

Falst. He that buckles himselfe in my belt cannot liue in lesse.

Iust. Your meanes are very slender, and your waste is great.

Falst. I would it were otherwise, I would my meanes were greater and my waste slender.

Iust. You haue missed the youthfull prince.

Falst. The yong prince hath missed me, I am the fellow with the great belly, and he my dogge.

Iust. Wel, I am loth to gall a new heald wound, your daies seruice at Shrewsbury, hath a little guilded ouer your nights exploit on Gadshill, you may thanke th' vnquiet time, for your quiet oreposting that action.

Falst. My lord.

Iust. But since all is well, keepe it so, wake not a sleeping wolfe.

Falst. To wake a wolfe, is as bad as smell a fox.

Iust. V What you are as a candle, the better part, burnt out.

Falst. A wassel candle my lord, al tallow, if I did say of wax, my growth would approue the truth.

Iust. There is not a white haire in your face, but should haue his effect of grauity.

Falst. His effect of grauy, graue, graue.

Iust. You follow the yong prince vp and downe, like his ill angell.

The second part of

Falst. Not so my lord, your ill angell is light, but I hope he that lookes vpon me will take me without weighing, and yet in some respects I grant I cannot go. I cannot tell, vertue is of so little regard in these costar-mongers times, that true valour is turnd Perod, Pregnancie is made a Tapster, & his quick wit wasted in giuing reckonings, all the other giftes appertinent to man, as the malice of his age shapes the one not worth a goosbery, you that are old consider not the capacities of vs that are yong, you doe measure the heate of our liuers with the bitternesse of your galles, and we that are in the vaward of our youth, I must confesse are waggess too.

Le. Do you set downe your name in the scroule of youth, that are wiitten downe, old with all the characters of age? haue you not a moist eie, a dry hand, a yelow cheeke, a white beard, a decreasing leg, an increasing belly? is not your voice broken, your winde short, your chinne double, your wit single, and euery part about you blasted with antiquitie, and will you yet call your selfe yong? fie, fie, fie, sir Iohn.

Iohn My Lorde, I was borne about three of the clocke in the afternoone, with a white head, and something a round bel- lie, for my voyce, I haue lost it with hallowing, and singing of Anthems: to approoue my youth further, I will not: the truth is, I am onely olde in iudgement and vnderstanding: and hee that wil caper with me for a thousand markes, let him lend me the money, and haue at him for the boxe of the yeere that the Prince gaue you, he gaue it like a rude Prince, and you tooke it like a sensible Lord: I haue checkt him for it, and the yong lion repents, mary not in ashes and sackcloth, but in new silke, and olde sacke.

Lord Well, God send the prince a better companion.

Iohn God send the companion a better prince, I cannot ridde my hands of him.

Lord Well, the King hath seuerd you: I heare you are going with lord Iohn of Lancaster, against the Archbishop and the Earle of Northumberland.

Iohn Yea, I thanke your pretie sweet witte for it: but looke
you

Henry the fourth.

you pray, all you that kisse my lady Peace at home, that our armies ioyne not in a hote day, for, by the Lord, I take but two shirts out with me, and I meane not to sweate extraordinarily: if it be a hot day, & I brandish any thing but a bottle. I would I might neuer spit white again: there is not a dangerous action can peepe out his head, but I am thrust vpon it. Wel, I cannot last euer, but it was alway yet the tricke of our English nation, if they haue a good thing, to make it too common. If yee will needs say I am an olde man, you should giue me rest: I would to God my name were not so terrible to the enemy as it is, I were better to be eaten to death with a rust, than to be scoured to nothing with perpetuall motion.

Lord Well, be honest, be honest, and God blesse your expedition.

Iohn Will your lordship lend me a thousand pound to furnish me forth?

Lord Not a penny, not a penny, you are too impatient to beare crosses: fare you well: commend mee to my coosine Westmerland.

Iohn If I do, fillip me with a three man beetle: A man can no more separate age and couetousnesse, than a can part yong limbs and lechery, but the gowt galles the one, and the pox pinches the other, and so both the degrees preuent my curses, (boy.

Boy Sir.

Iohn What money is in my purse?

Boy Seuen groates and two pence.

Iohn I can get no remedy against this consumption of the purse, borrowing onely lingers and lingers it out, but the disease is incurable: Go beare this letter to my lord of Lancaster, this to the Prince, this to the Earle of Westmerland, and this to olde mistris Vrsula, whome I haue weekly sworne to marry since I perceiud the first white haire of my chin: about it, you know where to finde me: a pox of this gowt, or a gowt of this pox, for the one or the other playes the rogue with my great toe. Tis no matter if I doe halt, I haue the warres for my color, and my pension shal seeme the more reasonable: a good wit will make vse of any thing; I will turne diseases to commoditie.

Enter th' Archbishop, Thomas Mowbray (Earle Marshall) the Lord Hastings, Fauconbridge, and Bardolfe.

Bishop Thus haue you heard our cause, and knowne our And my most noble friends, I pray you al (meanes, Speake plainly your opinions of our hopes, And first Lord Marshall, what say you to it?

Marsh. I well allow the occasion of our armes, But gladly would be better satisfied, How in our meanes we should aduance our selues, To looke with forehead, bold, and big enough, Vpon the power and puissance of the King.

Hast. Our present musters grow vpon the file, To five and twenty thousand men of choise, And our supplies liue largely in the hope Of great Northumberland, whose bosome burnes With an incensed fire of iniuries.

Bard. The question then Lord Hastings standeth thus, Whether our present five and twentie thousand, May hold vp head without Northumberland.

Hast. With him we may.

Bard. Yea mary, theres the point, But if without him we be thought too feeble, My iudgement is we should not step too far.

Bish. Tis very true lord Bardolfe, for indeede It was yong Hot-spurs cause at Shrewsbury.

Bard. It was my Lord, who lined himselfe with hope, Eating the ayre, and promise of supplie, Flattering himselfe in proiect of a power, Much smaller then the smallest of his thoughts, And so with great imagination, Proper to mad-men, led his powers to death, And winking, leapt into destruction.

Hast. But by your leaue it neuer yet did hurt,

To

Henry the fourth.

To lay downe likelihoods and formes of hope.

Bard. We fortifie in paper, and in figures, Vsing the names of men in steed of men, Like on that drawes the model of an house, Beyond his power to build it, who (halfe thorough) Giues o're, and leaues his part-created cost, A naked subiect to the weeping clowdes, And waste for churlish winters tyrannie.

Hast. Grant that our hopes (yet likely of faire birth) Should be stil borne, and that we now possesse The vtmost man of expectation, I thinke we are so, body strong enough, Euen as we are to equal with the King.

Bard. What, is the King but five and twenty thousand? Hast. To vs no more, nay not so much, Lord Bardolfe, For his diuisions, as the times do brawle,

And in three heads, one power against the French, And one against Glendower, perforce a third Must take vp vs, so is the vnfirm King In three diuided, and his coffers sound With hollow pouertie and emptinesse.

Bish. That he should draw his seuerall strengths together, And come against vs in full puissance, Need not to be dreaded.

Hast. If he should do so, French and Welch he leaues his back vnarmde, they baying him at the heeles, neuer feare that.

Bar. Who is it like should leade his forces hither?

Hast. The Duke of Lancaster and Westmerland: Against the Welch, himself and Harry Monmouth: But who is substituted against the French I haue no certaine notice.

Bish. Shall we go draw our numbers, and set on?

Hast. We are Times subiects, and Time bids be gone. ex.

Hofteffe Master Phang, haue you entred the action?

Phang It is entred.

Hofst. Wheres your yeoman? ist a lusty yeoman? wil a stand too't?

Phang Sirra, wheres Snare?

Hofst. O Lord I, good master Snare.

Snare Here, here.

Phang Snare, we must arest sir Iohn Falstaffe.

Hofst. Yea good master Snare, I haue entred him and all.

Snare It may chaunce cost some of vs our liues, for he will stabbe.

Hofst. Alas the day, take heed of him, he stabd me in mine owne house, most beastly in good faith, a cares not what mischief he does, if his weapon be out, he will foyne like any diuell, he will spare neither man, woman, nor child.

Phang If I can close with him, I care not for his thrust.

Hofst. No nor I neither, le be at your elbow.

Phang And I but fist him once, and a come but within my view.

Hofst. I am vndone by his going, I warrant you, hees an infinitiue thing vppon my score, good maister Phang holde him sure, good master Snare let him not scape, a comes continually to Pie corner (sauing your manhoods) to buy a saddle, and he is indited to dinner to the Lubbers head in Lumbert streete to master Smooths the silk man, I pray you since my exion is entred, and my case so openly knowne to the worlde, let him be brought in to his answer, a hundred marke is a long one, for a poore lone woman to beare, and I haue borne, and borne, and borne, and haue bin subd off, and subd off, and subd off, from this day to that day, that it is a shame to be thought on, there is no honesty in such dealing, vnlesse a woman should be made an asse, and a beast, to beare euery knaues wrong: yonder he comes, and that arrant malmsie-nose knaue Bardolfe with him, do your offices do your offices master Phāg, & master Snare, do me, do me, do me your offices.

Enter sir Iohn, and Bardolfe, and the boy.

Falst. How now, whose mare's dead? whats the matter?

Phang I arrest you at the sute of mistris, quickly.

Falst. Away varlets, draw Bardolfe, cut me off the villaines head, throw the queane in the channell.

Hofst. Throw me in the channell? Ile throw thee in the channel, wilt thou, wilt thou, thou bastardly rogue, murder murder, a thou honisuckle villaine, wilt thou kill Gods officers and the Kings? a thou honiseced rogue, thou art a honiseced, a man queller, and a woman queller.

Falst. Keepe them off Bardolfe.

Offic. A reskew, a reskew.

Hofst. Good people bring a reskew or two, thou wot, wot thou, thou wot, wot ta, do do thou rogue, do thou hempseed.

Boy Away you scullian, you rampallian, you fustilarian, ile tickle your catastrophe.

Enter Lord chiefe iustice and his men.

Lord What is the matter? keepe the peace here, ho.

Hofteffe Good my lord be good to me, I beseech you stand to me.

Lord How now sir Iohn, what are you brawling here? Doth this become your place, your time, and businesse? You should haue bin well on your way to Yorke: Stand from him fellow, wherefore hang'st thou vpon him.

Hofst. O my most worshipful Lord, and't please your grace I am a poore widdow of Eastcheape, and he is arrested at my sute.

Lord For what summe?

Hofst. It is more then for some my Lord, it is for al I haue, he hath eaten me out of house and home, he hath put all my substance into that fat belly of his, but I wil haue some of it out againe, or I wil ride thee a nights like the mare.

Falst. I think I am as like to ride the mare if I haue any vantage of ground to get vp.

Lord How comes this sir Iohn? what man of good temper would endure this tempest of exclamation, are you not ashamed to inforce a poore widdow, to so rough a course to come by her owne.

Falst. What is the grosse summe that I owe thee?

Host. Mary if thou wert an honest man, thy selfe and the mony too: thou didst sweare to me vpon a parcell guilt goblet, sitting in my dolphin chamber, at the round table by a sea cole fire, vpon wednesday in Wheeson weeke, when the prince broke thy head, for liking his father to a singing man of Winsor, thou didst sweare to me thē, as I was washing thy wound, to marry me, and make me my lady thy wife, canst thou deny it, did not goodwife Keech the butchers wife come in then and cal me gossip Quickly, comming in to borow a messe of vinegar, telling vs she had a good dish of prawnes, whereby thou didst desire to eat some, whereby I told thee they were ill for a greene wound, and didst thou not, when she was gone down stayers, desire me, to be no more so familiarity, with such poore people, saying that ere long they should cal me madam, and didst thou not kisse me, and bid me fetch thee thirtie shillings, I put thee now to thy booke oath, denie it if thou canst.

Falst. My lord this is a poore made soule, and she saies vp and downe the towne, that her eldest sonne is like you, she hath bin in good case, and the trueth is. pouerty hath distracted her, but for these foolish officers, I beseech you I may haue redresse against them.

Lo. Sir Iohn sir Iohn, I am wel acquainted with your maner of wrenching the true cause, the false way: it is not a confident brow, nor the throng of words that come with such more then impudent sawcines from you can thrust me from a leuel consideration: you haue as it appeares to me practisde vpon the easie yeelding spirite of this woman, and made her serue your vses both in purse and in person.

Host. Yea in truth my Lord.

Lo. Pray thee peace, pay her the debt you owe her, and vn-pay the villany you haue done with her, the one you may doe with sterling mony, and the other with currant repentance.

Falst. My Lord I will not vndergoe this snepe without reply, you cal honorable boldnes impudent sawcinesse, if a man wil

Henry the fourth.

wil make curtisie and say nothing, he is vertuous, no my Lord my humble duty remembred, I will not bee your suer, I say to you I do desire deliuerance from these officers, being vpon hasty imployment in the Kings affayres.

Lord. You speake as hauing power to do wrong, but answer in th' effect of your reputation, and satisfie the poore woman.

Falst. Come hither hostesse.

Lord. Now master Gower, what newes. enter a messenger.

Gower. The King my Lord, and Harry prince of Wales, Are neare at hand, the rest the paper tells.

Falst. As I am a gentleman!

Host. Faith you said so before.

Falst. As I am a gentleman, come, no more words of it.

Host. By this heauenly ground I tread on, I must be faine to pawne both my plate, & the tapestry of my dining chambers.

Falst. Glasses glasses is the onely drinking, and for thy wals a pretty sleight drollery, or the storie of the prodigal, or the Iarman hunting in waterworke, is worth a thousand of these bed-hangers, and these flie bitten tapestrie, let it be x. If thou canst: come, and twere not for thy humors, theres not a better wench in England, goe wash thy face and draw the action, come thou must not be in this humor with me, dost not know me, come, come, I know thou wast set on to this.

Host. Pray thee sir Iohn let it be but twentie nobles, ifaith I am loath to pawne my plate so God saue me law.

Falst. Let it alone, ile make other shift, youle be a foole stil.

Host. Well, you shall haue it, though I pawne my gowne, I hope youle come to supper, youle pay me al together.

Falst. Wil I lue? goe with her, with her, hooke on, hooke on. exit hostesse and sergeant.

Host. Will you haue Doll Tere-sheet meete you at supper.

Falst. No more words, lets haue her.

Lord. I haue heard better newes.

Falst. Whats the newes my lord?

Lord. Where lay the King to night?

The second part of

Mess. At Billingsgate my Lord.

Falst. I hope my Lord al's wel, what is the newes my lord?

Lord Come all his forces backe?

Mess. No, fifteen hundred foot, five hundred horse
Are marcht vp to my lord of Lancaster,
Against Northumberland, and the Archbishop.

Falst. Comes the King back from Wales, my noble lord?

Lord You shall haue letters of me presently,
Come, go along with me, good maister Gower.

Falst. My lord.

Lord Whats the matter?

Falstasse Maister Gower, shall I intreate you with mee to dinner?

Gower I must waite vpon my good lord here, I thank you good sir Iohn.

Lord Sir Iohn, you loyter heere too long,
Being you are to take souldiers vp
In Counties as you go.

Falstasse Will you suppe with mee maister Gower?

Lord What foolish maister taught you these manners, sir Iohn?

Falstasse Maister Gower, if they become me not, hee was a foole that taught them mee: this is the right fencing grace, my Lord, tap for tap, and so part faire.

Lord Now the Lord lighten thee, thou art a great foole.

Enter the Prince, Poynes, sir Iohn Russel, with other.

Prince Before God, I am exceeding weary.

Poynes Ist come to that? I had thought wearines durst not haue attacht one of so hie bloud.

Prince Faith it does me, though it discolors the complexion of my greatnes to acknowledge it: doth it not shew vildly in me, to desire small beere?

Poynes Why a Prince should not be so lofsely studied, as to remember so weake a composition.

Prince Belike then my appetite was not princely gotte, for by my troth, I do now remember the poor creature smal beere.
But

Henry the fourth.

But indeed these humble considerations make me out of loue with my greatnesse. What a disgrace is it to mee to remember thy name? or to know thy face to morow? or to take note how many paire of filke stockings thou hast with these, and those that were thy peach colourd once, or to beare the inuentorie of thy shirts, as one for superfluitie, and another for vse. But that the Tennis court keeper knows better than I, for it is a low eb of linnen with thee when thou keepest not racket there, as thou hast not done a great while, because the rest of the low Countries haue eate vp thy holland: and God knows whether those that bal out the ruines of thy linnen shal inherite his kingdom: but the Midwines say, the children are not in the fault where-vpon the world increaseth, and kinreds are mightily strengthened.

Poynes How ill it followes, after you haue labored so hard, you should talke so ydly! tell me how many good yong princes would doe so, their fathers being so sicke, as yours at this time is.

Prince Shall I tel thee one thing Poynes?

Poynes Yes faith, and let it be an excellent good thing.

Prince It shall serue among wittes of no higher breeding then thine.

Poynes Go to, I stand the push of your one thing that you will tell.

Prince Mary I tell thee it is not meete that I should bee sad now my father is sicke, albeit I could tell to thee, as to one it pleases me for fault of a better to call my friend, I could be sad, and sad indeede too.

Poynes Very hardly, vpon such a subiect.

Prince By this hand, thou thinkest me as farre in the diuels booke, as thou and Falstasse, for obduracie and persistancie, let the end trie the man, but I tel thee, my heart bleeds inwardly that my father is so sick, and keeping such vile company as thou arte, hath in reason taken from me all ostentation of sorrowe.

Poynes The reason.

Prince.

The second part of Prince What wouldst thou thinke of me if I should weep?

Poynes I would thincke thee a most princely hypocrite.

Prince It would bee euery mans thought, and thou arte a blessed fellow, to thinke as euery man thinks, neuer a mans thought in the world, keepes the rode way better then thine, euerie man would thinke me an hypocrite indeede, and what accites your most worshipfull thought to thinke so?

Poynes Why because you haue been so lewd and so much engrafted to Falstaffe.

Prince And to thee,

Poyne By this light I am well spoke on, I can heare it with mine owne eares, the worst that they can say of me is that I am a second brother, and that I am a proper fellow of my hands, and those two things I confesse I cannot helpe: by the masse here comes Bardolfe.

Enter Bardolfe and boy.

Prince And the boy that I gaue Falstaffe, a had him from me Christian, and looke if the fat villaine haue not transformd him Ape.

Bard. God saue your grace.

Prince And yours most noble Bardolfe.

Poynes Come you vertuous asse, you bashfull foole, must you be blushing, wherefore blush you now? what a maidenly man at armes are you become? ist such a matter to get a pottle-pots maidenhead?

Boy A calls me enow my Lord, through a red lattice, and I could discerne no part of his face from the window, at last I spied his eies, and me thought he had made two holes in the ale wiues peticote and so peept through.

Prince Has not the boy profited?

Bard. Away you horson vpright rabble, away.

Boy Away you rascally Altheas dreame, away.

Prince Instruct vs boy, what dreame boy?

Boy Mary my lord, Altheas dreamt she was deliuered of a firebrand, and therefore I call him her dreame.

Prince A crownes worth of good interpretation there tis boy.

Paines

Henry the fourth.

Paines O that this blossome could be kept from cankers! well, there is sixpence to preferue thee.

Bard. And you do not make him hangd among you, the gallows shall haue wrong.

Prince And how doth thy master Bardolfe?

Bard. Well my Lord, he heard of your graces comming to towne, theres a letter for you.

Poynes Deliuerd with good respect, and how doth the martlemasse your master?

Bard. In bodily health sir.

Poynes Mary the immortall part needes a phisitian, but that moues not him, though that be sicke, it dies not.

Prince I do allow this Wen to be as familiar with me, as my dogge, and he holds his place, for looke you how he writes.

Poynes Iohn Falstaffe Knight, euery man must know that as oft as he has occasion to name himselfe: euen like those that are kin to the King for they neuer pricke their finger, but they saye, theres some of the Kings bloud spilt: how comes that (saies he) that takes vppon him not to conceiue the answer is as ready as a borrowed cap: I am the Kings poore cosin, sir.

Prince Nay they will be kin to vs, or they will fetch it from Iaphet, but the letter, Sir Iohn Falstaffe knight, to the sonne of the king, nearest his father, Harry prince of Wales, greeting.

Poynes Why this is a certificate.

Prince Peace.

I will imitate the honourable Romanes in breuitie.

Poynes He sure meanes breuity in breath, short winded, I commend mee to thee, I commend thee, and, I leaue thee, be not too familiar with Poynes, for he misuses thy fauours so much, that he sweares thou art to mary his sister Nel, repent at idle times as thou maist, and so farwel.

Thine by yea, and no, which is as much as to say, as thou vvest him, Iacke Falstaffe with my family, Iohn with my brothers and sisters, and sir Iohn with all Europe.

Poynes My Lord, he sleep this letter in sacke and make him

Prince Thats to make him eate twenty of his words, but do you vse me, thus Ned? must I marrie your sister?

Poynes God send the wench no worse fortune, but I neuer said so.

Prince Wel, thus we play the fooles with the time, and the spirits of the wise sit in the clowdes and mocke vs, is your master here in London?

Bard. Yea my Lord.

Prince Where sups he? doth the old boare feede in the old Franke?

Bard. At the old place, my lord, in Eastcheape.

Prince VVhat companie?

Boy Ephesians, my lord, of the old church.

Prince Sup any women with him?

Boy None my lord, but old mistris Quickly, and mistris Dol Tere-sheet.

Prince VVhat Pagan may that be?

Boy A proper gentlewoman sir, and a kinswoman of my masters.

Prince Euen such kinne as the parish Heicfors are to the towne bull, shall we steale vpon them Ned at supper?

Poynes I am your shadow my Lord, ile follow you.

Prince Sirra, you boy and Bardolfe, no worde to your master that I am yet come to towne; theres for your silence.

Bar. I haue no tongue sir.

Boy And for mine sir, I will gouerne it.

Prince Fare you well: go, this Doll Tere-sheete should be some rode.

Poyns I warrant you, as common as the way between S. Albons and London.

Prince How might we see Falstaffe bestow himself to night in his true colours, and not our selues be seene?

Poynes Put on two letherne ierkins and aprons, and waite vpon him at his table as drawers.

Prince From a god to a bul, a heauy descension, it was Ioues case case, from a pince to a prentise, a low transformation, that shal be mine, for in enery thing the purpose must weigh with the folly, follow me Ned.

Enter Northumberland his wife, and the wife to Harry Percie.

North. I pray thee louing wife and gentle daughter, Giue euen way vnto my rough affaires, Put not you on the visage of the times, And be like them to Percy troublesome.

Wife I haue giuen ouer, I will speake no more, Do what you wil, your wisdom be your guide.

North. Alas sweete wife, my honor is at pawne, And but my going, nothing can redeeme it.

Kate O yet for Gods sake go not to these wars,

The time was father, that you broke your word,

When you were more endeere to it then now,

When your owne Percie, when my hearts deere Harry,

Threw many a Northward looke, to see his father

Bring vp his powers, but he did long in vaine.

Who then perswaded you to stay at home?

There were two honors lost, yours, and your sonnes,

For yours, the God of heauen brighten it,

For his, it stucke vpon him as the sunne

In the grey vault of heauen, and by his light

Did all the Cheualry of England moue

To do braue acts, he was indeede the glasse

Wherein the noble youth did dresse themselves.

North. Bethrew your heart,

Faire daughter, you do draw my spirites from me,

With new lamenting ancient ouersights,

But I must go and meete with danger there,

Or it will seeke me in an other place,

And find me worse prouided.

Wife O flie to Scotland,

Till that the nobles and the armed commons,

Haue of their puissance made a little taste.

Kate If they get ground and vantage of the King,

The second part of

Then ioyn you with them like a ribbe of Steele,
To make strength stronger: but for al our loues;
First let them trie themselues, so did your sonne,
He was so suffred, so came I a widow,
And neuer shall haue length of life enough,
To raine vpon remembrance with mine eies,
That it may grow and sprout as high as heauen,
For recordation to my noble husband.

North. Come, come, go in with me, tis with my mind,
As with the tide, sweld vp vnto his height,
That makes a stil stand, running neither way,
Faine would I go to meete the Archbishop,
But many thousand reasons hold me backe,
I will resolute for Scotland, there am I,
Till time and vantage craue my company. exennt.

Enter a Drawer or two.

Francis What the diuel hast thou brought there apple
Iohns? thou knowest sir Iohn cannot indure an apple Iohn.

Draw. Mas thou saist true, the prince once set a dish of apple
Iohns before him, and tolde him there were fise more sir Iohns, and putting off his hat, said, I will now take my leaue of these six drie, round, old, withered Knights, it angered him to the heart, but he hath forgot that.

Fran. Why then couer and set them downe, and see if thou canst find out Sneakes Noife, mistris Tere-sheet would faine heare some inusique.

Dra. Dispatch, the roome where they supt is too hot, theile come in straight.

Francis Sirra, here wil be the prince and master Poynes anon, and they will put on two of our ierkins and aprons, and sir
Iohn must not know of it, Bardolfe hath brought word.

Enter Will.

Dra. By the mas here will be old vtis, it wil be an excellent stratagem.

Francis Ile see if I can find out Sneake. exit

Enter mistris Quickly, and Doll Tere-sheet.

Quickly

Henry the fourth.

Quickly. Yfaith sweet heart, me thinkes now you are in an excellent good temperalitie. Your pulfidge beates as extraordinarily as heart would desire, and your colour I warrant you is as red as any rose, in good truth law: but yfaith you haue drunke too much cannaries, and thats a maruelous searching wine, and it perfumes the bloud ere one can say, whats this, how do you now?

Tere. Better then I was: hem.

Qui. Why thats well said, a good heart's worth gold: loe here comes sir Iohn.

enter sir Iohn.

sir Iohn When Arthur first in court, empty the iourdan and was a worthy King: how now mistris Doll?

host. Sicke of a calme, yea good faith.

Falst. So is all her sect, and they be once in a calme they are sicke.

Tere. A pox damne you, you muddie rascall, is that all the comfort you giue me?

Falst. You make fat rascals mistris Dol.

Tere. I make them? gluttonie, and diseases make, I make them not.

Falst. If the cooke help to make the gluttonie, you helpe to make the diseases Doll, we catch of you Doll, we catch of you graunt that my poore vertue, grant that.

Doll Yea ioy, our chaines and our iewels.

Fa. Your brooches, pearles, & ouches for to serue brauely, is to come halting off, you know to come off the breach, with his pike bent brauely, and to surgerie brauely, to venture vpon the chargde chambers brauely.

Doll Hang your selfe, you muddie Cunger, hang your selfe.

host By my troth this is the old fashion, you two neuer meet but you fall to some discord, you are both ygood truth as rewmatique as two dry tofts, you cannot one beare with anothers cōfirmities, what the goodyere one must beare, & that must be you, you are the weaker vessell, as they say, the emptier vessell.

Dorothy Can a weake empty vessell beare such a huge full hoghead? theres a whole marchants venture of Burdeaux stufte in him, you haue not seene a hulke better stufte in the hold. Come, Ile be friends with thee iacke, thou art going to the wars, and whether I shall euer see thee againe or no there is no body cares.

Enter drawer.

Dra. Sir, Antient pistoll's belowe, and would speake with you.

Dol Hang him swaggering rascal, let him not come hither it is the foule-mouthd ft rogue in England.

host. If he swagger, let him not come here, no by my faith I must liue among my neighbours, Ile no swaggerers, I am in good name, and fame with the very best: shut the doore, there comes no swaggerers here, I haue not liu'd al this while to haue swaggering now, shut the doore I pray you.

Fal. Dost thou heare hostesse?

Host. Pray ye pacifie your selfe sir Iohn, there comes no swaggerers here.

Fal. Dost thou heare? it is mine Ancient.

Ho. Tilly fally, sir Iohn, nere tel me: & your ancient swaggrer comes not in my doores: I was before maister Tisicke the debuty tother day, & (as he said to me) twas no longer ago than wednesday last, I good faith, neighbor Quickly, sayes he, maister Dumb: our minister was by then, neighbor Quickly (saies he) receiue those that are ciuil, for (saide he) you are in an ill name: now a saide so, I can tell whereupon. For (saies he) you are an honest woman, and well thought on, therefore take heede what ghests you receiue, receiue (saies he) no swaggering companions: there comes none here: you would blesse you to heare what he said: no, Ile no swaggrers.

Falst. Hees no swaggrer hostesse, a tame cheter yfaith, you may stroke him as gently as a puppy grey-hound, heele not swagger with a Barbary hen, if her feathers turne backe in any shew of resistance, call him vp Drawer.

Host. Cheter call you him? I will barre no honest man my house,

Henry the fourth.

house, nor no cheter, but I do not loue swagering by my troth, I am the worse when one saies swagger: feele maisters, how I shake, looke you, I warrant you.

Terefb. So you do hostesse.

Host. Doe I? yea in very trueth doe I, and twere an aspen leafe, I cannot abide swaggrers.

Enter antient Pistol, and Bardolfes boy.

Pistol God saue you sir Iohn.

Fal. Welcome ancient Pistoll, heere Pistoll, I charge you with a cuppe of sacke, do you discharge vpon mine hostesse.

Pist. I will discharge vpon her sir Iohn, with two bullets.

Fal. she is pistoll prooffe: sir, you shall not hardely offend her.

Host. Come, Ile drink no proofes, nor no bullets, Ile drink no more than will do me good, for no mans pleasure, I.

Pist. Then, to you mistris Dorothy, I will charge you.

Doro. Charge me? I scorne you, scuruy companion: what you poore base rascally cheting lacke-linnen mate? away you mouldie rogue, away, I am meate for your maister.

Pist. I know you mistris Dorothy.

Doro. Away you cutpurse rascall, you filthy bounge, away, by this wine Ile thrust my knife in your mouldie chappes, and you play the sawcie cuttle with me. Away you bottle ale rascall, you basket hilt stale iuggler, you. Since when, I pray you sir: Gods light, with two points on your shoulder? much.

Pist. God let me not liue, but I will murther your ruffe for this.

sir Iohn No more Pistol, I would not haue you go off here, discharge your selfe of our company, Pistoll.

Host. No, good captaine Pistoll, not here, sweete captaine.

Doro. Captain, thou abhominable damnd cheter, art thou not ashamed to be called Captaine? and Captaines were of my mind, they would trunchion you out, for taking their names vpon you, before you haue earnd them: you a captaine? you slaue, for what? for teareing a poore whoores ruffe in a bawdy house: hee a captaine! hang him rogue, he liues vpon mowldy stewd Falst. Hearke thee hither mistris Dol.

Pist. Not I, I tell thee what corporall Bardolfe, I could teare her, Ile be reuengde of her.

Boy. Pray thee go downe.

Pist. Ile see her damnd first, to Plutoes damnd lake by this had to th' infernal deep, with eribus & tortures vile also: holde hooke and line, say I: downe, downe dogges, downe faters haue we not Hiren here?

Host. Good captaine Peesell be quiet, tis very late yfaith, I beseeke you now aggrauate your choller.

Pist. These be good humors indeede, shal pack-horses, and hollow pamperd iades of Asia which cannot goe but thirtie mile a day, compare with Cæsars and with Canibals, and troian Greekes? nay rather damne them with King Cerberus, and let the Welkin roare, shall we fall foule for toies?

Host. By my troth captaine, these are very bitter words.

Bard. Be gone good Ancient, this will grow to a brawle anon.

Pist. Men like dogges giue crownes like pins, haue we not Hiren here?

Host. A my word Captaine, theres none such here, what the goodyear do you thinke I would do to her? for Gods sake be quiet.

Pist. Then feed and be fat, my faire Calipolis, come giues some sacke, si fortune me tormente sperato me contento, feare we brode sides? no, let the fiend giue fire, giue me some sacke, and sweet hart, lie thou there, come we to ful points here? and are & cæteraes, no things?

Falst. Pistol, I would be quiet.

Pist. Sweet Knight, I kisse thy neaffe, what we haue seene the seuen starres.

Dol.

Henry the fourth.

Dol. For Gods sake thrust him down staires, I cannot indure such a fustian rascall.

Pist. Thrust him downe staires, know we not Galloway nagges?

Falst. Quaite him downe Bardolfe like a shoue-groat shilling, nay, and a doe nothing but speake nothing, a shall be nothing here.

Bard. Come, get you downe staires.

Pist. What shall we haue incision? shall we imbrew? then death rocke me a sleepe, abridge my dolefull daies: why then let grieuons gastly gaping wounds vntwinde the sisters three, come Atropose I say.

Host. Heres goodly stuffe toward.

Falst. Giue me my rapier, boy.

Dol. I pray thee Iacke, I pray thee do not drawe.

Fal. Get you downe staires.

Host. Heres a goodly tumult, ile forswear keeping house afore ile be in these tirrits and frights, so, murder I warant now, alas, alas, put vp your naked weapons, put vp your naked weapons.

Dol. I pray thee Iack be quiet, the rascal's gone, ah you horsen little vliaunt villaine you.

Enter Prince and Poynes.

Fal Peace good Doll, do not speake like a deathes head, do not bid me remember mine end.

Dol Sirr a, what humour's the prince of?

Fal. A good shallow yong fellow, a would haue made a good pantler, a would a chipt bread wel.

Dol They say Poynes has a good wit.

Fal. He a good wit? hang him baboon, his wit's as thicke as Tewksbury mustard, theres no more conceit in him then is in a mallet.

Dol Why does the prince loue him so then?

Fal. Because their legges are both of a bignesse, and a plaies at quoites well, and eates cunger and fennel, and drinckes off candles endes for flappe-dragons, and rides the wilde mare with the boyes, and iumpes vpon ioynd-stooles, and sweares with a good grace, and weares his bootes very smoothe like vnto the signe of the Legge, and breeds no bate with telling of discreet stories, and such other gambole faculties a has that show a weake minde, and an able bodie for the which the prince admits him: for the prince himself is such another, the weight of a haire wil turne scales between their haber de poiz.

Poynes Lets beate him before his whore.

Prince Looke where the witherd elder hath not his poule clawd like a parrot.

Falst. Kisse me Doll.

Prince

Henry the fourth.

Prince Saturne and Venus this yeere in coniunction? what saies th' Almanacke to that?

Poyns And look whether the fierie Trigon his man be not lipping to his master, old tables, his note booke, his counsel keeper?

Falst. Thou dost giue me flattering buffes.

Dol By my troth I kisse thee with a most constant heart.

Falst. I am old, I am old.

Dol I loue thee better then I loue, ere a scuruy yong boy of them all.

Fal. What stufte wilt haue a kirtle of? I shall receiue mony a thursday, shalt haue a cap to morrow: a merry song, come it growes late, weele to bed, thou't forget me when I am gone.

Dol Ey my troth thou't set me a weeping and thou saist so, proue that euer I dresse my selfe handsome til thy returne, wel hearken a th' end.

Fal. Some sacke Francis.

Prince, Poynes Anon anon sir.

Falst. Ha? a bastard sonne of the Kings? and arte not thou Poynes his brother?

Prince Why thou globe of sinfull continents, what a life dost thou leade?

Falst. A better then thou, I am a gentleman, thou art a drawer.

Prince Very true sir, and I come to drawe you out by the eares.

Hofst. O the Lord preserue thy grace: by my troth welcom to London, now the Lord bleffe that sweete face of thine, O Iesu, are you come from Wales?

Falst. Thou horson madde compound of maiestie, by this light, flesh, and corrupt bloud, thou art welcom.

Dol How? you fat foole I scorne you.

Poynes My lord, he will driue you out of your reuenge, and turne all to a meriment if you take not the heate.

Prince You horson candlemine you, how vildly did you speake of me now, before this honest, vertuous, ciuill gentlewoman?

Host. Gods blessing of your good heart, and so she is by my troth.

Falst. Didst thou heare me?

Prince Yea and you knew me as you did, when you ranne away by Gadshil, you knew I was at your backe, and spoke it, on purpose to trie my patience.

Falst. No, no, no, not so, I did not thinke thou wast within hearing.

Prince I shall driue you then to confesse the wilfull abuse, and then I know how to handle you.

Falst. No abuse Hall a mine honour, no abuse.

Prince Not to dispraise me, and cal me pantler and bread-chipper, and I know not what?

Fal. No abuse Hall.

Poynes No abuse?

Falst. No abuse Ned i'th worlde, honest Ned, none, I dispraisde him before the wicked, that the wicked might not fall in loue with thee: in which doing, I haue done the part of a carefull friend and a true subiect, and thy father is to giue me thankses for it, no abuse Hall, none Ned, none, no faith boyes none.

Prince See now whether pure feare and intire cowardize, doth not make thee wrong this virtuous gentlewoman to close with vs: is she of the wicked, is thine hostesse here of the wicked, or is thy boy of the wicked, or honest Bardolfe whose zeal burnes in his nose of the wicked?

Poynes Answer thou dead elme, answer.

Falst. The fiend hath prickt down Bardolfe irrecoherable, and his face is Lucifers priuy kitchen, where he doth nothing but rost mault-worins, for the boy there is a good angel about him, but the duell blinds him too.

Prince For the weomen.

Falst. For one of them shees in hell already, and burnes peore soules: for th' other I owe her mony, and whether she be damnd for that I know not.

Henry the fourth.

Host. No I warrant you.

Falst. No I thinke thou art not, I thinke thou art quit for that, mary there is another inditement vpon thee, for suffering flesh to be eaten in thy house contrary to the law, for the which I thinke thou wilt howle.

Host. Al vitlars do so, whats a ioynt of mutton or twoo in a

Dol What saies your grace?

Fal. His grace saies that which his flesh rebels against.

Peyto knockes at doore.

Host. Who knockes so lowd at doore? looke too'th doore there Francis.

Prince Peyto, how now, what newes?

Peyto. The King your father is at Westminster, And there are twenty weake and wearied postes, Come from the North, and as I came along I met and ouertooke a dozen captaines, Bareheaded, sweating, knocking at the Tauernes, And asking euery one for sir Iohn Falstaffe.

Prince By heauen Poynes, I feele me much too blame, So idely to prophane the precious time, When tempest of cominotion like the south. Borne with blacke vapour doth begin to melt, And drop vpon our bare vnarmed heads, Giue me my sword and cloke: Falstaffe good night.

exeunt Prince and Poynes.

Fal. Now coms in the sweetest morsell of the night, & we must hence and leaue it vnpickt: more knocking at the doore, how now, whats the matter?

Bar. You must away to court sir presently, A dozen captaines stay at doore for you.

Fal. Pay the musitions sirra, farewell hostesse, farewell Dol, you see my good wenches how men of merrite are sought after, the vnderferuer may sleepe, when the man of action is cald on, farewell good wenches, if I be not sent away poste, I will see you againe ere I goe.

Host. Wel, fare thee wel, I haue knowne thee these twentie nine yeeres, come pease-cod time, but an honeste, and truer hearted man: wel, fare thee wel.

Bard. Mistris Tere-sheete.

Host. Whats the matter?

Bard. Bid mistris Tere-sheete come to my maister.

Host. O runne Doll, runne, runne good Doll, come, shee comes blubberd, yea? wil you come Doll? exunt

Enter Iustice Shallow, and Iustice Silens.

Sha. Come on, come on, come on, giue me your hand sir, giue me your hand sir, an early stirrer, by the Roode: and how doth my good coosin Silence?

Si. Good morrow good coosine Shallow.

Sha. And how doth my coosin your bedfellow? and your fairest daughter and mine, my god-daughter Ellen?

Si. Alas, a blacke woofel, coosin Shallow.

Sha. By yea, and no, sir, I dare say my coosin William is become a good scholler, he is at Oxford stil, is he not?

Si. Indeede sir to my cost.

Sha. A must then to the Innes a court shortly: I was once of Clements Inne, where I thinke they wil talke of mad Shallow yet.

Si. You were calld Lusty Shallow then, coosin.

Sha. By the masse I was calld any thing, and I would haue done any thing indeede too, and roundly too: there was I, and little Iohn Doyt of Staffordshire, and blacke George Barnes, and Francis Pickebone, and Will Squele a Cotsole man, you had not foure such swinge-bucklers in all the Innes a court againe, and I may say to you, wee knewe where the bona robes were, and had the best of them all at commaundement: then was Iacke Falstaffe, now sir Iohn, a boy, and page to Thomas Mowbray duke of Norffolke.

Si. This sir Iohn, coosin, that comes hither anone about souldi-souldiers?

Sha. The same sir Iohn, the very same, I see him breake Skoggins head at the Court gate, when a was a Cracke, not thus high: and the very same day did I fight with one Samson Stockefish a Fruiterer behinde Greyes Inne: Iesu, Iesu, the mad dayes that I haue spent! and to see how many of my olde acquaintance are dead.

Si. We shal all follow, coosin.

Sha. Certaine, tis certaine, very sure, very sure, death (as the Psalmist saith) is certaine to all, all shall die. How a good yoke of bullockes at Samforth faire?

Si. By my troth I was not there.

Sha. Death is certaine; Is old Dooble of your towne liuing yet?

Si. Dead sir.

Sha. Iesu, Iesu, dead! a drew a good bow, and dead? a shot a fine shoote: Iohn a Gaunt loued him well, and betted much money on his head. Dead? a would haue clapt ith clowt at twelue score, and carried you a forehand shaft a fourteene and foureteene and a halfe, that it would haue doone a mans heart good to see. How a score of Ewes now?

Si. Thereafter as they bee, a score of good ewes may bee worth ten pounds.

Sha. And is olde Dooble dead?

Si. Here come two of sir Iohn Falstaffes men, as I thinke.

Enter Bardolfe, and one with him

Good morrow honest gentlemen.

Bardolfe I beseech you, which is iustice Shallow?

Sha. I am Robart Shallowe, sir, a poore Esquier of this Countie, and one of the Kings iustices of the peace: what is your good pleasure with me?

Bard. My Captaine, sir, commends him to you, my Captaine sir Iohn Falstaffe, a tall gentleman, by heauen, and a most gallant Leader.

Sha. He greetes me wel, sir, I knew him a good backsword man: how doth the good Knight? may I aske how my Ladie his his wife doth.

Bar. Sir, pardon, a souldiour is better accomodate then with a wife.

Shal. It is well said infaith sir, and it is well said indeed too, better accomodated, it is good, yea indeede is it, good phrased are surely, and euer were, very commendable, accomodated, it comes of accommodo, very good, a good phrase.

Bar. Pardon sir, I haue heard the word, Phrase call you it? by this daye I knowe not the phrase, but I will maintaine the word with my sword to be a souldierlike word, and a word of exceeding good command by heauen, accomodated, that is when a man is as they say, accomodated, or when a man is being whereby, a may be thought to be accomodated, which is an excellent thing.

Enter Falstaffe.

Iust. It is very iust, look, here comes good sir Iohn, giue me your good hand, giue me your worshippinges good hand, by my troth you like well, and beare your yeeres very well, welcome good sir Iohn.

Falst. I am glad to see you well, good master Robert Shallow, master Soccard (as I thinke.)

Shal. No sir Iohn, it is my cosen Scilens in commission with me.

Falst. Good master Scilens, it well befits you should be of the peace.

Scil. Your good worship is welcome.

Fal. Fie this is hot weather gentlemen, haue you prouided me here halfe a dozen sufficient men?

Shal. Mary haue we sir, wil you sit?

Fal. Let me see them I beseech you.

Shal. Wheres the roule? wheres the roule? wheres the roule? let me see, let me see, let me see, so, so, so, so, so (so, so) yea mary sir, Rafe Mouldy let them appeare as I cal, let them do, so, let them do, so, let me see, where is Mouldy?

Mouldy. Here, and 't please you.

Shal. What think you sir Iohn, a good limbe, fellow, yong, strong, strong, and of good friends.

Fal. Is thy name Mouldie?

Moul. Yea, and 't please you.

Fal. Tis the more time thou wert vsde.

Shal. Ha, ha, ha, most excellent yfaith, things that are mouldy lacke vse: very singular good, infaith well said sir Iohn, very well said.

Iohn prickes him.

Moul. I was prickt wel enough before, and you could haue let me alone, my old dame will be vndone now for one to doe her husbandrie, and her drudgery, you need not to haue prickt me, there are other men fitter to go out then I.

Fal. Go to, peace Mouldy, you shall go, Mouldy it is time you were spent.

Moul. Spent?

Shal. Peace fellow, peace, stand aside, know you where you are? for th' other sir Iohn: let me see Simon Shadow.

Fal. Yea mary, let me haue him to sit vnder, hees like to be a cold soldiour.

Shal. Wheres Shadow?

Shad. Here sir.

Fal. Shadow, whose sonne art thou?

Shad. My mothers sonne sir.

Fal. Thy mothers sonne! like enough, and thy fathers shadow, so the sonne of the female is the shadow of the male: it is often so indeede, but much of the fathers substance.

Shal. Do you like him sir Iohn?

Fal. Shadow wil serue for summer, pricke him, for we haue a number of shadowes, fill vp the muster booke.

Shal. Thomas Wart.

Fal. Wheres he?

Wart. Here sir.

Fal. Is thy name Wart?

Wart. Yea sir.

Fal. Thou art a very ragged wart.

Shal. Shall I pricke him sir Iohn?

Fal. It were superfluous, for apparell is built vpon his back,

Feeble A womans tailer fir.

Shal. Shall I pricke him fir?

Fal. You may, but if he had bin a mans tailer hee'd a pricke you: wilt thou make as manie holes in an enemies battaile, as thou hast done in a womans peticoate.

Feeble I will do my good will fir, you can haue no more.

Fal. Well saide good womans tailer, well saide couragious Feeble, thou wilt be as valiant as the wrathfull doue, or most magnanimous mouse, pricke the womans tailer: wel M. Shallow, deepe M. Shallow.

Feeble I would Wart might haue gone fir.

Fal. I would thou wert a mans tailer, that thou mightst mend him and make him fit to goe, I cannot put him to a priuate souldier, that is the leader of so many thousands, let that suffice most forcible Feeble.

Feeble It shall suffice fir.

Fal. I am bound to thee reuerend Feeble, who is next?

Shal. Peter Bul-calfe o'th greene.

Fal. Yea mary, lets see Bul-calfe.

Fal. No more of that master Shallow.

Shal. Ha, twas a merry night, and is lane Night-work a liue?

Falst. She liues master Shallow.

Shal. She neuer could away with me.

Fa. Neuer neuer, she wold alwaies say, she could not abide master Shallow.

Sha. By the masse I could anger her too'th heart, she was then a bona roba, doth she hold her owne wel?

Fal. Old old master Shallow.

Shal. Nay she must be old, she cannot chuse but be old, certain shees old, & had Robin Night-work by old Night-work, before I came to Clements inne.

Scilens Thats fiftie fiue yeare ago.

Shal. Ha cousen Scilens that thou hadst seene that that this Knight and I haue seene, ha fir Iohn, said I wel?

Fal. Come sir, which men shall I haue?

Shal. Foure of which you please.

Bar Sir, a word with you, I haue three pound to free Mouldy and Bulcalfe.

Fal. Go to, well.

Shal. Come sir Iohn, which foure wily you haue?

Fal. Do you chuse for me.

Shal. Mary then, Mouldy, Bulcalfe, Feeble, and Sadow.

Fal. Mouldy and Bulcalfe, for you Mouldy stay at home, til you are past seruice: and for your part Bulcalfe, grow til you come vnto it, I will none of you.

Shal. Sir Iohn, sir Iohn, doe not your selfe wrong, they are your likeliest men, and I would haue you serude with the best.

Fal. Wil you tel me (master Shallow) how to chuse a man? care I for the limbe, the thewes, the stature, bulke and big assemblance of a man: giue me the spirit M. Shallow: heres Wart, you see what a ragged apparance it is, a shall charge you, and discharge you with the motion of a pewterers hammer, come off and on swifter then he that gibbets on the brewers buckets and this same halfe facde fellow Shadow, giue me this man, he presents no marke to the enemy, the fo-man may with as great aime leuel at the edge of a pen-knife, and for a retraite how swiftly wil this Feeble the womans Tailer runne off? Shal. On Bardolfe, leade the men away, as I returne I will fetch off these iustices, I do see the bottome of iustice Shallow, Lord, Lord, how subiect we old men are to this vice of lying, this same staru'd iustice hath done nothing but prate to me, of the wildnesse of his youth, and the feates he hath done about Turne-bull street, and euery third word a lie, dewer paid to the hearer then the Turkes tribute, I doe remember him at Clements Inne, like a man made after supper of a cheefe paring, when a was naked, he was for all the worlde like a fork reddish with a head fantastically carued vpon it with a knife, a was so forlorne, that his demensions to any thicke sight were

Enter the Archbishop, Mowbray, Bardolfe, Hastings, within the farrest of Gaultree.

Bish. What is this forrest calld?

Hast. Tis Gaultree forrest, and t' shal please your grace.

Bishop Here stand, my lords, and send discourers forth, To know the numbers of our enemies:

Hastings We haue sent forth already.

Bishop Tis well done,
My friends and brethren (in these great affaires)
I must acquaint you, that I haue receiu'd
New dated letters from Northumberland,
Their cold intent, tenure, and substance thus:
Here doth he with his person, with such powers,
As might hold fortance with his quallitie,
The which he could not leuy: whereupon
He is retirde to ripe his growing fortunes,
To Scotland, and concludes in hearty prayers,
That your attempts may ouer-lie the hazard.
And fearefull meeting of their opposite.

Mowb.

Henry the fourth.

Mowb. Thus do the hopes we haue in him, touch ground,
And dash themselues to peeces. Enter messenger

Hastings Now, what newes?

Messenger West of this forrest, scarcely off a mile,
In goodly forme comes on the enemy,
And by the ground they hide, I iudge their number
Vpon, or neere the rate of thirty thousand.

Mowbray The iust proportion that we gaue them out,
Let vs sway on, and face them in the field.

Bishop What wel appointed Leader fronts vs heere?

Enter Westmerland

Mowbray I thinke it is my lord of Westmerland.

West. Health and faire greeting from our Generall,
The prince lord Iohn and duke of Lancaster.

Bishop Say on my lord of V Westmerland in peace,
V What doth concerne your comming?

We. Then my L. vnto your Grace do I in chiefe addresse
The substance of my speech: if that rebellion
Came like it selfe, in base and abiect rowtes,
Led on by bloody youth, guarded with rage,
And countenaunst by boyes and beggary.
I say, if damnd commotion so appeare,
In his true, natiue, and most proper shape,
You, reuerend father, and these noble Lordes,
Had not beene heere to dresse the owgly forme
Of base and bloody Insurrection
With your faire Honours. You (lord Archbishop)
Whose Sea is by a ciuile peace maintainde,
Whose beard the siluer hand of Peace hath toucht,
Whose learning and good letters Peace hath tutord,
Whose white inuestments figure innocence,
The Doue, and very blessed spirite of peace.
Wherefore do you so ill translate your selfe
Out of the speech of peace that beares such grace,
Into the harsh and boystrous tongue of warre?
Turning your bookes to graues, your incke to bloud,

You

The second part of

Your pennes to launces, and your tongue diuine,
To a lowd trumpet, and a point of warre?

Bish. Wherefore do I this? so the question stands:
Briefly, to this end we are all diseasde:

The dangers of the daie's but newly gone,
V Whose memorie is written on the earth,
V With yet appearing blood, and the examples
Of eucry minutes instance (present now,)
Hath put vs in these ill-beseeming armes,
Not to breake peace, or any braunch of it,
But to establish heere a peace indeede,
Concurring both in name and quallitie.

West. V When euer yet was your appeale denied
V Wherein haue you beene galled by the King?
What peere hath beene subornde to grate on you?
That you should seale this lawlesse bloody booke
Of forgde rebellion with a seale diuine,

Bishop My brother Generall, the common wealth
I make my quarrell in particular.

West. There is no neede of any such redresse,
Or if there were, it not belongs to you.

Mowbray why not to him in part, and to vs all
That feele the bruises of the daies before?
And suffer the condition of these times,
To lay a heauy and ynequall hand
Vpon our honors.

West. But this is meere digression from my purpose:
Here come I from our princely generall,
To know your griefes, to tell you from his Grace,
That he will giue you audience, and wherein
It shall appeere that your demaunds are iust,
You shall enioy them, euey thing set off
That might so much as thinke you enemies.

Mowbray But he hath forde vs to compel this offer,

And

Henry the fourth.

And it proceedes from policie, not loue.

West. Mowbray, you ouerweene to take it so:

This offer comes from mercy, not from feare:

For loe, within a ken our army lies:

Vpon mine honour, all too confident

To giue admittance to a thought of feare:

Our battell is more full of names than yours,

Our men more perfect in the vse of armes,

Our armour all as strong, our cause the best:

Then Reason will our hearts should be as good:

Say you not then, our offer is compelld.

Mow. Well, by my will, we shall admit no parlee.

West. That argues but the shame of your offence,
A rotten case abides no handling.

Hastings Hath the prince Iohn a full commission,
In very ample vertue of his father,
To heare, and absolutely to determine
Of what conditions we shall stand vpon?

West. That is intended in the Generalles name,
I muse you make so slight a question.

Bishop Then take, my lord of Westmerland, this scedule,
For this containes our generall grieuances,
Each seuerall article herein redrest,
All members of our cause both here and hence,
That are enfinewed to this action,
Acquitted by a true substantiall forme,
And present execution of our willes,
To vs and our purposes confinde,
We come within our awefull bancks againe,
And knit our powers to the arme of peace.

West. This will I shew the Generall, please you Lords,
In sight of both our battells we may meete,
At either end in peace, which God so frame,
Or to the place of diffrence call the swords,
Which must decide it.

Exit Westmerland

Bishop My lord, we will doe so,

G

Mow.

The second part of

Mou There is a thing within my bosome tells me
That no conditions of our peace can stand,

Hastings Feare you not, that if we can make our peace,
Vpon such large termes, and so absolute,
As our conditions shall consist vpon,
Our peace shall stand as firme as rockie mountaines.

Mou. Yea but our valuation shal be such,
That euery slight, and false deriued cause,
Yea euery idle, nice, and wanton reason,
Shall to the King taste of this action,
That were our royal faiths martires in loue,
We shall be winow'd with so rough a wind,
That euen our corne shal seeme as light as chaffe,
And good from bad find no partition.

Bish. No, no, my lord, note this, the King is weary
Of daintie and such picking greouances,
For he hath found, to end one doubt by death,
Reuiues two greater in the heires of life:
And therefore will he wipe his tables cleane,
And keepe no tel. tale to his memorie,
That may repeate, and history his losse,
To new remembrance: for full wel he knowes,
He cannot so precisely weed this land,
As his misdoubts present occasion,
His foes are so enroote d with his friends,
That plucking to vnfix an enemy,
He doth vnfasten so, and shake a friend,
So that this land, like an offenseiue wife,
That hath enragde him on to offer strokes,
As he is striking, holdes his infant vp,
And hangs resolu'd correction in the arme,
That was vpreard to execution.

Hast. Besides, the King hath wasted al his rods,
On late offenders, that he now doth lacke
The very instruments of chasticement.
So that his power, like to a phangleffe lion,

May

Henry the fourth.

May offer, but not hold.

Bishop Tis very true,
And therefore be assurde, my good Lord Marshall,
If we do now make our attonement well,
Our peace wil like a broken limbe vnited,
Grow stronger for the breaking.

Mow. Be it so, here is returnd my lord of Westmerland.

Enter Westmerland.

West. The prince is here at hand, pleaseth your Lordship
To meet his grace iust distance tweene our armies.

Enter Prince Iohn and his armie.

Mow. Your grace of York, in Gods name then set forward.

Bishop. Before, and greete his grace (my lord) we come.

Iohn You are well incountred here, my cousen Mowbray,
Good day to you, gentle Lord Archbishop,
And so to you Lord Hastings, and to all.
My Lord of Yorke, it better shewed with you,
When that your flocke assembled by the bell,
Encircled you, to heare with reuerence,
Your exposition on the holy text,
That now to see you here, an yron man talking,
Cheering a rowt of rebels with your drumme,
Turning the word to sword, and life to death:
That man that sits within a monarches heart,
And ripens in the sun-shine of his fauor,
Would he abuse the countenance of the King:
Alacke what mischeefes might he set abroad,
In shadow of such greatnesse? with you Lord bishop
It is euen so, who hath not heard it spoken,
How deepe you were within the bookes of God,
To vs the speaker in his parliament,
To vs th' imagine voice of God himselfe,
The very opener and intelligencer,
Betweene the grace, the sanctities of heauen,
And our dull workings? O who shal beleue,
But you misuse the reuerence of your place,

Imply

The second part of

Imply the countenance and grace of heau'n,
As a false fauorite doth his princes name:
In deedes dishonorable you haue tane vp,
Vnder the counterfeited zeale of God,
The subiects of his substitute my father,
And both against the peace of heauen and him,
Haue here vpswarmd them.

Bishop Good my Lord of Lancaster,
I am not here against your fathers peace,
But as I told my lord of Westmerland,
The time misfordred doth in common sense,
Crowd vs and crush vs to this monstrous forme,
To hold our safety vp: I sent your grace,
The parcells and particulars of our grieve,
The which hath beene with scorne shoued from the court,
Whereon this Hydra, sonne of warre is borne,
Whose dangerous eies may well be charmd asleepe,
With graunt of our most iust, and right desires,
And true obedience of this madnes cured,
Stoope tamely to the foote of maiestie.

Mow. If not, we ready are to trie our fortunes,
To the last man.

Hast. And though we here fal downe,
We haue supplies to second our attempt,
If they miscarry, theirs shal second them,
And so successe of mischiefe shal be borne,
And heire from heire shall hold his quarrell vp,
Whiles England shall haue generation.

Prince You are too shallow Hastings, much too shallow,
To found the bottome of the after times.

West. Pleaseth your grace to answere them directly,
How far forth you do like their articles.

Prince I like them all, and do allow them well,
And sweare here by the honour of my bloud,
My fathers purposes haue beene mistooke,
And some about him haue too lauishly,

Wrested

Henry the fourth.

Wrested his meaning and authority.
My Lord, these griefes shall be with speed redrest,
Vppon my soule they shal, if this may please you,
Discharge your powers vnto their seuerall counties,
As we will ours, and here betweene the armies,
Lets drinke together friendly and embrace,
That all their eies may beare those tokens home,
Of our restored loue and amitie.

Bishop I take your princely word for these redresses,
I giue it you, and will maintaine my word,
And therevpon I drinke vnto your grace.

Prince Go Captaine, and deliuer to the armie
This newes of peace, let them haue pay, and part.
I know it will well please them, hie thee captaine.

Bishop To you my noble lord of Westmerland.

West. I pledge your grace, and if you knew what paines,
I haue bestowed to breed this present peace,
You would drinke freely, but my loue to ye
Shall shew it selfe more openly hereafter.

Bishop I do not doubt you.

West. I am glad of it,
Health to my Lord, and gentle cosin Mowbray.

Mow. You wish me health in very happy season,
For I am on the sodaine something ill.

Bishop Against ill chaunces men are euer mery,
But heauinesse fore-runnes the good euent.

West. Therefore be mery coze, since sodaine sorrow
Serues to say thus, some good thing comes to morow.

Bishop Beleue me I am passing light in spirit.

Mow. So much the worse if your owne rule be true. shout.

Prin. The word of peace is rendred, heark how they showt.

Mow. This had bin cheerefull after victory.

Bishop A peace is of the nature of a conquest,
For then both parties nobly are subdued,
And neither party looser.

Prince Go my lord,

And let our army be discharged too,
And, good my lord, so please you, let our traines
March by vs, that we may peruse the men,
VVe should haue coap't withall.

Bishop Go, good Lord Hastings,
And ere they be dismiss't, let them march by. enter Westmerland.

Prince I trust Lords we shal lie to night together:
Now coosin, wherefore stands our army stil?

West. The Leaders hauing charge from you to stand,
Wil not goe off vntil they heare you speake.

Prince They know their dueties. enter Hastings

Hastings My lord, our army is disperst already,
Like youthfull steeres vnyoakt they take their courses,
East, weast, north, south, or like a schoole broke vp,
Each hurries toward his home, and sporting place.

West. Good tidings my lord Hastings, for the which I do arest thee traitor of high treason,
And you lord Archbishop, and you lord Mowbray,
Of capitall treason I attach you both.

Mowbray Is this proceeding iust and honorable?

West. Is your assembly so?

Bishop will you thus breake your faith?

Prince I pawnde thee none,
I promist you redresse of these same grieuances
Whereof you did complaine, which by mine honour
I will performe, with a most christian care.
But for you rebels, looke to taste the due
Meete for rebellion:

Most shallowly did you these armes commence,
Fondly brought heere, and foolishly sent hence.
Strike vp our drummes, pursue the scattred stray:
God, and not we, hath safely fought to day:
Some guard this traitour to the blocke of death,
Treasons true bed, and yeelder vp of breath.

Cole. I am a Knight sir, and my name is Coleuile of the Dale.

Fal. well then, Colleuile is your name, a Knight is your degree, and your place the dale: Coleuile shalbe still your name, a traitor your degree, & the dungeon your place, a place deep enough, so shall you be stil Colleuile of the Dale.

Cole. Are not you sir Iohn Falstaffe?

Fal. As good a man as he sir, who ere I am: doe ye yeelde sir, or shall I sweate for you? if I doe sweate, they are the drops of thy louers, and they weepe for thy death, therefore rowze vp feare and trembling, and do obseruance to my mercie.

Cole. I think you are sir Iohn Falstaffe, and in that thoght

Fal. I haue a whole schoole of tongs in this belly of mine,

Valor: do you thinke me a swallow, an arrow, or a bullet? haue
I in my poore and old motion the expedition of thought? I haue speeded hither with the very extreamest inch of possibility, I haue foundred ninescore and od postes, and here trauell tainted as I am, haue in my pure and immaculate valour, ta-

I heare the King my father is sore sick,

Henry the fourth.

And we with sober speede will follow you.

Falst. My Lord, I beseech you giue me leaue to go through Glostershire, and when you come to court, stand my good lord in your good report.

Prince Fare you wel Falstaffe, I, in my condition, shal better speake of you then you deserue.

Fal. I would you had the wit, twere better than your dukedome, good faith this same yong sober bloued boy doth not loue me, nor a mā canot make him laugh, but thats no maruel, he drinckes no wine, theres neuer none of these demure boyes come to any prooffe, for thin drinke doth so ouer-coole theyr blood, and making many fish meales, that they fall into a kind of male greene sicknes, and then when they marry, they gette wenches, they are generally fooles and cowards, which some of vs should be too, but for inflammation: a good sherris sacke hath a two fold operation in it, it ascendes mee into the braine, dries me there all the foolish, and dull, and crudy vapors which enuiron it, makes it apprehensiue, quicke, forgetiue, full of nimble, fiery, and delectable shapes, which deliuered ore to the voyce, the tongue, which is the birth, becomes excellent wit. The second property of your excellent sherris, is the warming of the blood, which before (cold & settled,) left the lyuer white & pale, which is the badge of pusilanimitie and cowardize: but the sherris warmes it, and makes it course from the inwards to the partes extreames, it illumineth the face, which as a beakon, giues warning to al the rest of this little kingdom man to arme, and then the vitall commoners, and inland petty spirits, muster me all to their captaine, the heart: who great, and pufft vp with this retinew, doth any deed of courage: and this valour comes of sherris, so that skill in the weapon is nothing without sacke (for that sets it aworke) and learning a meere whoord of gold kept by a diuell, till sacke commences it, and sets it in act and vse. Hereof comes it, that Prince Harry is valiant, for the cold blood he did naturally inherite of his father, he hath like leane, sterile, and bare land, manured, husbanded and tild, with excellent endeouour of drinking good and good store of fertile sherris, that he is become very hote and valiant. If I had a thousand sonnes, the first humane principle I would teach them, should be, to forswear thinpotations, and to addiect themselves to sacke. How now Bardolfe?

Enter Bardolfe.

Bar. The army is discharged all, and gone.

Fal. Let them goe, ile through Glostershire, and there will I visit M. Robert Shallow Esquire, I haue him already tempring betweene my finger and my thumb, and shortly will I seale with him, come away.

Enter the King, Warwike, Kent, Thomas duke of Clarence, Humphrey of Gloucester.

King Now lords, if God doth giue successefull end,
To this debate that bleedeth at our doores,
We will our youth leade on to higher fields,
And draw no swords but what are sanctified:
Our nauie is adrest, our power collected,
Our substitutes in absence wel inuested,
And euery thing lies leuell to our wish,
Only we want a little personal strength:
And pawse vs til these rebels now afoote,
Come vnderneath the yoke of gouernment.

War. Both which we doubt not, but your maiesty
Shal soone enioy.

King Humphrey my sonne of Gloster, where is the prince your brother?

Glo. I thinke hees gone to hunt, my lord, at Winsor.

King And how accompanied?

Glo. I do not know, my lord.

King Is not his brother Thomas of Clarence with him?

Glo. No, my good lord, he is in presence here.

Clar. What would my lord and father?

King Nothing but well to thee Thomas of Clarence,
How chance thou art not with the prince thy brother?
He loues thee, and thou dost neglect him, Thomas,
Thou hast a better place in his affection

Then

Henry the fourth.

Then all thy brothers, cherriish it my boy:
And noble offices thou maist effect
Of mediation after I am dead,
Betweene his greatnesse and thy other brethren:
Therefore omit him not, blunt not his loue,
Nor loose the good aduantage of his grace,
By seeming cold, or carelesse of his will,
For he is gracious if he be obseru'de,
He hath a teare for pittie, and a hand,
Open as day for meeting charitie,
Yet notwithstanding being incens'd, he is flint,
As humorous as winter, and as sodaine
As flawes congealed in the spring of day:
His temper therefore must be well obseru'd,
Chide him for faults, and do it reuerently,
When you perceiue his bloud inclin'd to mirth:
But being moody, giue him time and scope,
Till that his passions, like a whale on ground
Confound themselves with working, learne this Thomas,
And thou shalt proue a shelter to thy friends,
A hoope of gold to binde thy brothers in,
That the vnited vessell of their bloud,
(Mingled with venome of suggestion,
As force perforce, the age will powre it in,)
Shall neuer leake, though it doe worke as strong,
As Aconitum, or rash gunpowder.

Cl. I shall obserue him with all care and loue.

King Why art thou not at Winsore with him Thomas?

Tho. He is not there to day, he dines in London.

King And how accompanied?

Tho. With Poinces, and other his continuall followers.

King Most subiect is the fattest soyle to weeds,
And he, the noble image of my youth,
Is ouerspread with them, therefore my griefe
Stretches it selfe beyond the howre of death:
The bloud weepes from my heart when I do shape,

And rotten times that you shall looke vpon,
When I am sleeping with my auncestors:
For when his head, strong riot hath no curbe,
VVhen rage and hot bloud are his counsellors,
VVhen meanes and lauish manners meete together,
Oh with what wings shal his affections flie,
Towards fronting peril and opposide decay?

War. My gracious Lord, you looke beyond him quite,
The prince but studies his companions,
Like a strange tongue wherein to gaine the language:
Tis needfnll that the most immodest word,
Be lookt vpon and learnt, which once attained,
Your highnesse knowes comes to no further vse,
But to be knowne and hated: so, like grosse termes,
The prince will in the perfectnesse of time,
Cast off his followers, and their memory
Shall as a pattern, or a measure liue,
By which his grace must mete the liues of other,
Turning past-euils to aduantages.

King Tis seldome when the bee doth leaue her comb,
In the dead carion: who's here, Westmerland?

Enter Westmerland.

West. Health to my soueraigne, and new happinesse
Added to that that I am to deliuer,
Prince Iohn your sonne doth kisse your graces hand.
Mowbray, the Bishop, Scroope, Hastings, and al,
Are brought to the correction of your law:
There is not now a rebels sword vntheathd,
But Peace puts forth her oliue euery where.
The manner how this action hath bin borne,
Here at more leisure may your highnesse reade,
With euery course in his particular.

King O Westmerland, thou art a summer bird,
VVhich euer in the haunch of winter sings.

enter Harcor.
Harc.

Henry the fourth.

Harc. From enemies, heauens keep your maiesty,
And when they stand against you, may they fall
As those that I am come to tell you of:
The Earle Northumberland, and the Lord Bardolfe,
With a great power of English, and of Scots,
Are by the shrieue of Yorkshire ouerthrowne,
The manner, and true order of the fight,
This packet, please it you, containes at large,

Ki. And wherfore should these good news make me sicke?
Will Fortune neuer come with both hands full.
But wet her faire words stil in foulest termes?
She either giues a stomach, and no foode,
Such are the poore in health: or else a feast,
And takes away the stomach, such are the rich
That haue aboundance, and enioy it not:
I should reioyce now at this happy newes,
Aud now my sight failes, and my braine is giddy,
O me, come neare me, now I am much ill.

Hum. Comfort your maiesty.

Clar. O my royall father!

West. My soueraigne Lord, cheere vp your selfe, look vp.

War. Be patient princes, you do know these fits
Are with his highnesse very ordinary.

Stand from him, giue him ayre, heel straight be wel.

Clar. No, no, he cannot long hold out these pangs, Th'incessant care and labour of his mind,
Hath wrought the Mure that should confine it in,
So thin that life lookes through.

Hum. The people feare me, for they do obserue
Vnfather'd heires, and lothly births of nature,
The seasons change their manners, as the yeere
Had found some moneths a sleepe, and leapt them ouer.

Clar. The riuer hath thrice flowed, no ebbe between,
And the old folk, (Times doting chronicles,)
Say, it did so a little time before
That our great grandfire Edward, sickt and died.

The second part of

War. Speake lower, princes, for the King recouers.

Hum. This apoplexi wil certaine be his end.

King I pray you take me vp, and beare me hence,
Into some other chamber.

Lét there be no noyse made, my gentle friends,
Vnlesse some dull and fauourable hand

Will whisper musique to my weary spirite.

War. Call for the musique in the other roome.

King Set me the crowne vpon my pillow here.

Clar. His eie is hollow, and he changes much.

War. Lesse noyse, lesse noyse. Enter Harry

Prince Who saw the duke of Clarence?

Clar. I am here brother, ful of heauinesse.

Prince How now, raine within doores, and none abroad!
How doth the King?

Hum. Exceeding ill.

Prince Heard he the good newes yet? tell it him.

Hum. He vttered much vpon the hearing it,

Prince If he be sicke with ioy, heele recouer without phisicke.

War. Not so much noyse my Lords, sweete prince, speake lowe, the King your father is disposde to sleepe.

Cla. Let vs withdraw into the other roome.

War. Wilt please your Grace to go along with vs?

Prince No, I wil sit and watch heere by the King.
Why doth the Crowne lie there vpon his pillow,
Being so troublesome a bedfellow?

O polisht perturbation! golden care!
That keepst the ports of Slumber open wide
To many a watchfull night, sleepe with it now!
Yet not so sound, and halfe so deeply sweete,
As he whose brow (with homely biggen bound)
SnORES out the watch of night. O maiestie!

When thou dost pinch thy bearer, thou dost sit
Like a rich armour worne in heate of day,
That scaldst with safty (by his gates of breath)

There

Henry the fourth.

There lies a dowlmy feather which stirs not,
Did he suspire, that light and weightlesse dowlne
Perforce must moue my gracious lord my father:

This sleepe is sound indeede, this is a sleepe,
That from this golden Rigoll hath diuorst
So many English Kings, thy deaw from me,
Is teares and heauy forowes of the blood,

Which nature, loue, and filiall tenderneffe
Shall (O deare father) pay thee plenteously:

My due from thee is this imperiall Crowne,
Which as immediate from thy place and blood,

Deriues it selfe to me: loe where it sits,

Which God shal guard, and put the worlds whole strength
Into one giant arme, it shal not force,

This lineal honor from me, this from thee

Will I to mine leaue, as tis left to me.

exit.

Enter Warwicke, Gloucester, Clarence.

King Warwicke, Gloucester, Clarence.

Clar. Doth the King cal?

War. What would your Maiestie?

King Why did you leaue me here alone, my lords?

Cl. We left the prince my brother here my liege, who vnderooke to sit and watch by you.

King The prince of Wales, where is he? let me see him: he is not here.

War. This doore is open, he is gone this way.

Hum. He came not through the chamber where we staide.

King Where is the Crowne? who took it from my pillow?

War. When we withdrew, my liege, we left it here.

King The Prince hath tane it hence. go seeke him out:
Is he so hastie, that he doth suppose my sleepe my death?
Finde him, my lord of Warwicke, chide him hither.

This part of his conioynes with my disease,
And helps to end me: see, sonnes, what things you are,
How quickly nature falls into reuolt,
When gold becomes her obiekt?

The second part of

For this, the foolish ouer-carefull fathers
Haue broke their sleepe with thoughts,
Their braines with care, their bones with industry:
For this they haue ingrossed and pilld vp,
The cankred heapes of strange atcheeued gold:
For this they haue beene thoughtfull to inuest
Their sonnes with arts and martiall exercises,
When like the bee toling from euery flower,
Our thigh, packt with waxe, our mouthes with hony,
We bring it to the hiue: and like the bees,
Are murdred for our paines, this bitter taste
Yeelds his engrossments to the ending father,
Now where is he that will not stay so long,
Till his friend sicknesse hands determind me. Enter Warwick.

War. My Lord, I found the prince in the next roome,
Washing with kindly teares, his gentle cheekes,
VVith such a deepe demeanour in great sorrow,
That tyranny, which neuer quast but bloud,
VVould by beholding him, haue washt his knife,
VVith gentle eie-drops, hee is comming hither. Enter Harry.

King But wherefore did he take away the crowne?
Loe where he comes, come hither to me Harry,
Depart the chamber, leaue vs here alone. exeunt.

Harry I neuer thought to heare you speake againe.

King Thy wish was father (Harry,) to that thought
I stay too long by thee, I weary thee,
Dost thou so hunger for mine emptie chaire,
That thou wilt needes inuest thee with my honors,
Before thy howre be ripe! O foolish youth,
Thou seekst the greatnesse that will ouerwhelme thee,
Stay but a little, for my clowd of dignity
Is held from falling with so weake a wind,
That it will quickly drop: my day is dim,
Thou hast stolne that, which after some few houres,
VVere thine, without offence, and at my death,
Thou hast scald vp my expectation,

Thy

Henry the fourth.

Thy life did manifest thou lou'dst me not,
And thou wilt haue me die, assurde of it,
Thou hidst a thousand daggers in thy thoughts,
VVhom thou hast whetted on thy stony heart,
To stab at halfe an hower of my life.
VVhat, canst thou not forbear me halfe an hower?
Then get thee gone, and digge my graue thy selfe,
And bid the mery bells ring to thine care,
That thou art crowned, not that I am dead:
Let all the teares that should bedew my hearse
Be drops of Balme, to sanctifie thy head,
Only compouud me with forgotten dust.
Giue that which gaue thee life, vnto the wormes,
Plucke downe my officers, breake my decrees,
For now a time is come to mocke at Forme:
Harry the first is crownd, vp vanitie,
Downe royall state, all you sage counsailers, hence,
And to the English Court assemble now
From euery region, apes of idlenesse:
Now neighbour confines, purge you of your scumme
Haue you a ruffin that will sweare, drinke, daunce,
Reuell the night rob, murder, and commit
The oldest sinnes, the newest kind of waies?
Be happy, he will trouble you no more.
England shal double gild his trebble guilt,
England shall giue him office honour, might:
For the first Harry, from curbd licence, plucks
The mussel of restraint, and the wild dogge
Shal flesh his tooth on euery innocent.
O my poore kingdome! sicke with ciuill blowes:
VVhen that my care could not withhold thy riots,
VVhat wilt thou do when riot is thy care?
O thou wilt be a wildernesse againe,
Peopled with woolues, thy old inhabitants.
Prince O pardon me, my liege, but for my teares,
The moist impediments vnto my speech,

I

I

The second part of

I had forestald this deere and deep rebuke,
Ere you with griefe had spoke, and I had heard
The course of it so far: there is your crowne:
And he that weares the crowne immortally,
Long gard it yours: if I affect it more,
Then as your honour, and as your renowne,
Let me no more from this obedience rise,
VVhich my most inward true and duteous spirit,
Teacheth this prostrate and exterior bending,
God witnesse with me. When I here came in,
And found no course of breath within your maiesty,
How cold it strooke my heart! if I do faine,
O let me in my present wildnesse die,
And neuer liue to shew th' incredulous world,
The noble change that I haue purposed.
Comming to looke on you, thinking you dead,
And dead almost, my liege, to thinke you were,
I spake vnto this crowne as hauing sence,
And thus vpbraided it: the care on thee depending,
Hath fed vpon the body of my father,
Therefore thou best of gold, art worse then gold,
Other lesse fine, in karrat more precious,
Preseruing life in medicine potable:
But thou, most fine, most honourd, most renown'd,
Hast eate thy bearer vp: thus my most royall liege,
Accusing it, I put it on my head,
To trie with it as with an enemy,
That had before my face murdered my father,
The quarrell of a true inheritour,
But if it did infect my bloud with ioy,
Or swell my thoughts to any straine of pride,
If any rebel or vaine spirit of mine,
Did with the least affection of a welcome,
Giue entertainment to the might of it,
Let God for euer keep it from my head,

And

Henry the fourth.

And make me as the poorest vassaile is,
That doth with aw and terror kneele to it.
King God put in thy mind to take it hence,
That thou mightst win the more thy fathers loue,
Pleading so wisely in excuse of it:
Come hither Harry, sit thou by my bed,
And heare (I thinke) the very latest counsaile
That euer I shal breathe. God knowes (my sonne)
By what by-paths, and indirect crookt waies,
I met this crowne, and I my selfe know well,
How troublesome it sate vpon my head:
To thee it shall descend with better quiet,
Better opinion, better confirmation,
For al the soyle of the atchieuement goes,
With me into the earth, it seemd in me,
But as an honor snatcht with boistrous hand,
And I had many liuing to vpbraide
My gaine of it, by their assistances,
Which daily grew to quarrell and to bloudshed,
Wounding supposed peace: all these bold feares
Thou seest with perill I haue answerd:
For all my raigne hath beene but as a Scene,
Acting that argument: and now my death
Changes the mood, for what in me was purchast,
Fals vpon thee in a more fairer sort.
So thou the garland wearst successiueley,
Yet though thou standst more sure then I could do,
Thou art not firme enough, since griefes are greene,
And all thy friends which thou must make thy friends,
Haue but their stings and teeth newly tane out:
By whose fell working I was first aduaunst,
And by whose power I well might lodge a feare
To be againe displacde: which to auoyde,
I cut them off, and had a purpose, now
To leade out manie to the Holy Land,
Lest rest, and lying stil, might make them looke,

Too neare vnto my state: therefore, my Harry,
Be it thy course to busie giddie mindes
With forraine quarrells, that action hence borne out,
May waste the memory of the former dayes.
More would I, but my lungs are wasted so,
That strength of speech is vtterly denied me:
How I came by the crowne, O God forgiue,
And grant it may with thee in true peace liue.

Prince You won it, wore it, kept it, gaue it me,
Then plaine and right must my possession be,
Which I with more then with a common paine,
Gainst all the world will rightfully maintaine. enter Lancaster.

King Looke, looke, here comes my Iohn of Lancaster.

Lanc. Health, peace, and happinesse to my royall father.

King Thou bringst me happinesse and peace sonne Iohn,
But health (alacke) with youthfull wings is flowne
From this bare witherd trunk: vpon thy sight,
My worldly busines makes a period:
Where is my lord of Warwicke?

Prince My Lord of Warwicke.

King Doth any name perticular belong
Vnto the lodging where I first did swound?

War. Tis cald Ierusalem, my noble Lord.

King Laud be to God, euen there my life must end.
It hath bin prophecide to me many yeares,
I should not die, but in Ierusalem,
Which vainely I suppesde the Holy Land:

But beare me to that chamber, there ile lie, Enter Shallow,
In that Ierusalem shall Harry die. Falstaffe and Bardolfe

Shal. By cock and pie sir, you shal not away to night, what Dauy I say?

Falst. You must excuse me master Robert Shallow.

Shal. I will not excuse you, you shall not be excusde, excuses shall not be admitted, there is no excuse shall serue, you shall not be excusde: why Dauy.

Dauy Here sir,

Henry the fourth.

Shal. Dauy, Dauy, Dauy, Dauy, let me see Dauy, let me see Dauy, let me see, yea mary V Villiam Cooke, bid him come hither, sir Iohn, you shal not be excused.

Dauy Mary sir thus, those precepts can not be serued, and again sir, shal we sow the hade land with wheate?

Shal. V Vith red wheat Dauy, but for V Villiam Cooke, are there no yong pigeons?

Dauy Yes sir, here is now the Smiths note for shooin and plow-yrons.

Shal. Let it be cast and payed: sir Iohn, you shal not be excused.

Dauy Now sir, a new lincke to the bucket must needes be had: and sir, do you meane to stop any of V Villiams wages, about the sacke he lost at Hunkly Faire?

Shal. A shall answer it: some pigeons Dauy, a couple of short legg'd hens, a ioynt of mutton, and any pretty little tinie Kick-shawes, tell william Cooke.

Dauy Doth the man of warre stay all night sir?

Shal. Yea Dauy, I will vse him well, a friend i th court is better then a penie in purse: vse his men wel Dauy, for they are arrant knaues, and will backbite.

Dauy No worse then they are back-bitten sir, for they haue maruailes foule linnen.

Shal. V Vell conceited Dauy, about thy businesse Dauy.

Dauy I beseech you sir to countenance V Villiam Visor of Woncote against Clement Perkes a th hill.

Shal. There is many complaints Dauy against that Visor, that Visor is an arrant knaue on my knowledge.

Dauy I graunt your worship that he is a knaue sir: but yet God forbid sir but a knaue should haue some countenance at his friends request, an honest man sir is able to speake for himselfe, when a knaue is not: I haue seru de your wor ship truly sir this eight yeares and I cannot once, or twice in a quarter beare out a knaue against an honest man, I haue litle credit with your worship: the knaue is mine honest friend sir, therefore I beseech you let him be countenaunt.

Shal. Go to I say, he shal haue no wrong, look about Daui:
where are you sir Iohn? come, come, come, off with your boots, giue me your hand master Bardolfe.

Bard. I am glad to see your worship.

Shal. I thank thee with my heart kind master Bardolfe, and welcome my tall fellow, come sir Iohn.

Falst. Ile follow you good maister Robert Shallow: Bar-dolfe, looke to our horses: if I were sawed into quantities, I should make foure dozen of such berded hermites staues as maister Shallow: it is a wonderfull thing to see the semblable coherence of his mens spirits, and his, they, by obseruing him, do beare themselves like foolish Iustices: hee, by conuersing with them, is turned into a Iustice-like seruing man, their spirits are so married in coniunction, with the participation of society, that they flocke together in consent, like so many wild-geese.
If I had a suite to master Shallow, I would humour his men with the imputation, of beeing neere their maister: if to his men, I would curry with maister Shallow, that no man could better commaund his seruants. It is certaine, that eyther wise bearing, or ignorant cariage is caught, as men take diseases one of another: therefore let men take heede of their company. I will deuise matter enough out of this Shallow, to keepe prince Harry in continuall laughter, the wearing out of sixe fashions, which is foure termes, or two actions, and a shal laugh without interuallums. O it is much that a lie, with a slight oathe, and a iest, with a sad browe, will doe with a fellow that neuer had the ach in his shoulders: O you shall see him laugh til his face be like a wet cloake ill laide vp.

Shal. Sir Iohn.

Falst. I come maister Shallow, I come maister Shallow.

Enter Warwicke, duke Humphrey, L. chiefe Iustice, Thomas Clarence, Prince Iohn, Westmerland.

War. How now, my lord chiefe Iustice, whither away?

Iust. How doth the King?

War. Exceeding well, his cares are now all ended.

Iust. I hope not dead.

War.

War. Hees walkt the way of nature,
And to our purposes he liues no more.

Iust. I would his Maiestie had calld me with him:
The seruice that I truely did his life,
Hath left me open to all iniuries.

War. Indeeede I thinke the yong King loues you not.

Iust. I know he doth not, and do arme my selfe
To welcome the condition of the time,
Which cannot looke more hideously vpon me,
Than I haue drawne it in my fantasie.

Enter Iohn, Thomas, and Humphrey.

War. Heere come the heavy issue of dead Harry:
O that the liuing Harry had the temper
Of he, the worst of these three gentlemen!
How many Nobles then should holde their places,
That must strike faile to spirites of vile sort?

Iust. O God, I feare all will be ouer-turnd.

Iohn. Good morrow coosin Warwicke, good morrow.

Prin. ambo. Good morrow, coosin.

Iohn. We meete like men that had forgot to speake.

War. We do remember, but our argument
Is all too heavy to admit much talke.

Iohn. Well, peace be with him that hath made vs heavy.

Iust. Peace be with vs, lest we be heauier.

Humph. O good my lord, you haue lost a friend indeede,
And I dare sweare you borrow not that face
Of seeming sorrow, it is sure your owne.

Iohn. Though no man be assurde what grace to finde,
You stand in coldest expectation,
I am the sorer, would twere otherwise.

Cl. Well, you must now speake sir Iohn Falstaffe faire,
Which swimmes against your streame of quallitie.

Iust. Sweet princes, what I did, I did in honor,
Led by th'impartiall conduct of my soule.
And neuer shall you see that I will begge
A ragged and forestald remission,

The second part of

If truth and vpright innocencie faile me,
Ile to the King my maister that is dead,
And tell him who hath sent me after him.

Enter the Prince
War. Here comes the Prince.

Just. Good morrow, and God saue your maiestie.

Prince. This new and gorgeous garment Maiesty
Sits not so easie on me, as you thinke:

Brothers, you mixt your sadnesse with some feare,

This is the English, not the Turkish court,

Not Amurath an Amurath succedes,

But Harry Harry: yet be sad, good Brothers,

For by my faith it very well becomes you:

Sorrow so royally in you appeares,

That I will deeply put the fashion on,

And weare it in my heart: why then be sad,

But entertaine no more of it, good brothers,

Then a ioynt burden layd vpon vs all,

For me, by heauen (I bid you be assurde)

Ile be your father, and your brother too,

Let me but beare your loue, Ile beare your cares:

Yet weepe that Harries dead, and so will I,

But Harry liues, that shal conuert those teares

By number into howres of happinesse.

Bro. We hope no otherwise from your maiesty.

Prince. You all looke strangely on me, and you most,
You are I thinke assurde I loue you not.

Iust. I am assurde, if I be meassurde rightly,
Your maiesty hath no iust cause to hate me.

Prince. No? how might a prince of my great hopes forget,
So great indignities you laid vpon me?

What rate, rebuke, and roughly send to prison,

Th immediate heire of England? was this easie?

May this be washt in lethy and forgotten?

Iust. I then did vse the person of your father,

The image of his power lay then in me,

And in th adiministration of his law,

Whiles

Henry the fourth.

Whiles I was busie for the common wealth,
Your Highnesse pleased to forget my place,
The maiestie and power of law and iustice,
The image of the King whom I presented,
And strooke me in my very seate of iudgement,
Whereon, (as an offender to your father,)
I gaue bold way to my authority,
And did commit you: if the deed were ill,
Be you contented, wearing now the garland,
To haue a sonne set your decrees at naught?
To plucke downe Iustice from your awful bench?
To trip the course of law, and blunt the sword,
That guards the peace and safetie of your person?
Nay more, to spurne at your most royall image,
And mocke your workings in a second body?
Question your royall thoughts, make the case yours,
Be now the father, and propose a sonne,
Heare your owne dignity so much prophand,
See your most dreadfull lawes so loosely slighted,
Behold your selfe so by a sonne disdained:
And then imagine me taking your part,
And in your power soft silencing your sonne,
After this cold considerance sentence me,
And as you are a King, speake in your state,
What I haue done that misbecame my place,
My person, or my lieges soueraigntie.

Prince. You are right Iustice, and you weigh this well,
Therefore still beare the Ballance and the Sword,
And I do wish your honors may encrease,
Til you do liue to see a sonne of mine
Offend you, and obey you as I did:
So shall I liue to speake my fathers words,
Happie am I that haue a man so bold,
That dares do iustice on my proper sonne:
And not lesse happie, hauing such a sonne,
That would deliuer vp his greatnesse so,

K

Into

The second part of

Into the hands of Iustice you did commit me:
 For which I do commit into your hand,
 Th'vnstained sword that you haue vsde to beare,
 With this remembrance, that you vse the same
 With the like bold, iust, and impartial spirit,
 As you haue done gainst me: there is my hand,
 You shall be as a father to my youth,
 My voice shall sound as you do prompt mine eare,
 And I wil stoope and humble my intents,
 To your well practizde wise directions.
 And princes all, belecue me I beseech you,
 My father is gone wild into his graue:
 For in his toomb lie my affections,
 And with his spirites sadly I suruiue,
 To mocke the expectation of the world,
 To frustrate prophecies, and to race out,
 Rotten opinion, who hath writ me downe
 After my seeming, the tide of bloud in me
 Hath prowdeely flowd in vanitie till now:
 Now doth it turne, and ebbe backe to the sea,
 Where it shall mingle with the state of flouds,
 And flow henceforth in formall maiestie.
 Now call we our high court of parliament,
 And let vs chuse such limbs of noble counsaile,
 That the great bodie of our state may goe,
 In equall ranke with the best gouern'd Nation,
 That warre, or peace, or both at once, may be,
 As things acquainted and familiar to vs,
 In which you father shall haue formost hand:
 Our coronation done, we wil accite,
 (As I before remembred) all our state,
 And (God consigning to my good intents,)
 No prince nor peere shall haue iust cause to say,
 God shorten Harries happy life one day.

exit.

Enter sir Iohn, Shallow, Scilens, Daury, Bardolfe, page.

Shal. Nay you shall see my orchard, where, in an arbour we will

Henry the fourth.

will eate a last yeeres pippen of mine owne graffing, with a dish of carrawaies and so forth: come coosin Scilens, and then to bed.

Falst. Fore God you haue here goodly dwelling, and rich.

Shal. Barraine, barraine, barraine, beggars all, beggars all sir
 Iohn, mary good ayre: spread Daury, spread Daury, well saide Daury.

Fal. This Daury serues you for good vses, hee is your ser-uing-man, and your husband.

Shal. A good varlet, a good varlet, a very good varlet sir Iohn: by the mas I haue drunke too much sacke at supper: a good varlet: now sit downe, now sit downe, come cosin.

Scilens A sirra quoth a, we shall do nothing but eate and make good cheere, and praise God for the merry yeere, when flesh is cheape and females deare, and lusty laddes roame here and there so merely, and euer among so merily.

sir Iohn Theres a merry heart, good M. Silens, ile giue you a health for that anon.

Shal. Giue master Bardolfe some wine, Daury.

Daury Sweet sir sit, ile be with you anon, most sweet sir sit, master Page, good master Page sit: proface, what you want in meate, weele haue in drink, but you must beare, the heart's al.

Shal. Be mery master Bardolfe, and my litle souldier there, be mery.

Scilens Be mery, be mery, my wife has all, for women are shrowes both short and tall, tis mery in hal when beards wags all, and welcome mery shrouetide, be mery, be mery.

Falst. I did not thinke master Scilens had bin a man of this mettall.

Scilens Who I? I haue beene mery twice and once ere now.

Enter Daury.

Daury Theres a dish of Lether-coates for you.

Shal. Daury?

Daury Your worship: Ile be with you straight, a cup of wine sir.

Scilens A cup of wine thats briske and fine, and drinke vnto

the leman mine, and a mery heart liues long a.

Falst. Well said master Scilens.

Scilens And we shall be mery, now comes in the sweete a'th night.

Falst Health and long life to you master Scilens.

Scilens Fill the cuppe, and let it come, ile pledge you a mile too th bottome.

Shal. Honest Bardolfe, welcome, if thou wantst any thing, and wilt not call, beshrew thy heart, welcome my little tiny theefe, and welcome indeede too, Ile drink to master Bardolfe, and to all the cabileros about London.

Dauy I hope to see London once ere I die.

Bar. And I might see you there Dauy!

Shal. By the mas youle crack a quarte together, ha will you not master Bardolfe?

Bar. Yea sir, in a pottle pot.

Sha. By Gods liggens I thanke thee, the knaue will sticke by thee, I can assure thee that a wil not out, a tis true bred!

Bar. And ile stick by him sir. One knockes at doore.

Sha. Why there spoke a King: lacke nothing, be mery, looke who's at doore there ho, who knockes?

Falst. Why now you haue done me right.

Silens Do me right, and dub me Knight, samingo: ist not so?

Falst. Tis so.

Silens Ist so, why then say an olde man can do somewhat.

Dauy And't please your worship, theres one Pistoll come from the court with newes. enter Pistol.

Falst. From the Court: let him come in, how now Pistol?

Pistol Sir Iohn, God saue you.

Falst. What wind blew you hither Pistol?

Pistol Not the ill winde which blowes no man to good: sweete Knight, thou art now one of the greatest men in this Realme.

Silens Birlady I think a be, but goodman Puffe of Barson.

Pisto Puffe? Puffe ith thy teeth, most recreant coward, base, sir Iohn, I am thy Pistol and thy friend, and helter skelter, haue

Henry the fourth.

I rode to thee, and tidings do I bring, and luckie ioyes, and golden times, and happy news of price.

Iohn I pray thee now deliuer them like a man of this world.

Pistol A footre for the world and worldlings base, I speake of Affrica and golden ioyes.

Iohn O base Assirian Knight! what is thy newes? let King Couetua know the truth thereof.

Scilens And Robin Hood, Scarlet, and Iohn.

Pistol Shal dunghill curs confront the Helicons? and shall good newes be baffled? then Pistoll lay thy head in Furies lap.

Shal. Honest gentleman, I know not your breeding.

Pistol Why then lament therefore.

Shal. Giue me pardon sir, if sir you come with newes from the court, I take it theres but two waies, either to vtter them, or conceale them, I am sir vnder the King in some authoritie.

Pistol Vnder which King, Besonian? speake, or die.

Shal. Vnder King Harry.

Pistol Harry the fourth, or fift?

Shal. Harry the fourth.

Pist A fowtre for thine office: sir Iohn, thy tender lambkin now is King: Harry the fifts the man: I speake the truth: when Pistol lies, do this, and fig me, like the bragging spaniard.

Falst. What is the old King dead?

Pistol As nayle in doore, the things I speake are iust.

Fal. Away Bardolfe, saddle my horse, M. Robert Shallow, choole what office thou wilt in the land, tis thine: Pistol, I will double charge thee with dignities.

Bard. O ioyful day! I would not take a Knight for my fortune.

Pistol What? I do bring good newes.

Falst. Carry master Scilens to bed: master Shallow, my lord Shallow, be what thou wilt, I am fortunes steward, get on thy boots, weel ride al night: ô sweet Pistol, away Bardolf, com Pistol, vtter more to me, and withall, deuise something to doe thy selfe good, boote, boote master Shallow, I know the yong

The second part of

King is sicke for me: let vs take any mans horses, the lawes of England are at my commandement, blessed are they that haue bin my friends, and woe to my Lord chiefe Iustice.

Pist. Let vultures vile seize on his lungs also: where is the life that late I led, say they, why here it is, welcome these pleasant dayes. exit.

Enter Sincklo and three or foure officers.

Host. No, thou arrant knaue, I would to God that I might die, that I might haue thee hangd, thou hast drawn my shoulder out of ioynt.

Sincklo The Constables haue deliuered her ouer to mee, and shee shal haue whipping cheere I warrant her, there hath beene a man or two kild about her.

Whoore Nut-hooke, Nut-hooke, you lie, come on, Ile tell thee what, thou damnd tripe visagde rascall, and the child I go with, do miscarry, thou wert better thou hadst strook thy mother, thou paper-facde villaine.

Host. O the Lord, that sir Iohn were come! I would make this a bloody day to some body: but I pray God the fruite of her wombe miscarry.

Sincklo. If it doe, you shall haue a dozen of cushions againe, you haue but eleuen nowe: come, I charge you both goe with mee, for the man is dead that you and Pistoll beat amongst you.

Whoore Ile tell you what, you thin man in a censor, I will haue you as soundly swingde for this, you blew bottle rogue, you filthy famisht correctioner, if you be not swingde, Ile forswear halfe kirtles.

Sinck. Come, come, you shee-Knight-arrant, come.

Host. O God, that right should thus ouercom might! wel, of sufferance comes ease.

Whoore Come you rogue, come bring me to a iustice.

Host. I come, you starude blood-hound.

Whoore Goodman death, goodman bones.

Host. Thou Atomy, thou.

Whoore Come you thinne thing, come you rascall.

Sincklo

Henry the fourth.

Sinck. Very well.

Enter strewers of rushes.

1 More rushes, more rushes.

2 The trumpets haue sounded twice.

3 T will be two a clocke ere they come from the coronation, dispatch, dispatch.

Trumpets sound, and the King, and his traine passe ouer the stage: after them enter Falstaffe, Shallow, Pistol, Bardolfe, and the Boy.

Falst. Stand heere by me maister Shallow, I will make the King doe you grace, I will leere vpon him as a comes by, and do but marke the countenaunce that he will giue me.

Pist. God blesse thy lungs good Knight.

Falst. Come heere Pistoll, stand behinde mee. O if I had had time to haue made new lieries: I woulde haue bestowed the thousand pound I borrowed of you, but tis no matter, this poore shew doth better, this doth inferre the zeale I had to see him.

Pist. It doth so.

Falst. It shewes my earnestnesse of affection.

Pist. It doth so.

Falst. My deuotion.

Pist. It doth, it doth, it doth.

Fal. As it were to ride day & night, and not to deliberate, not to remember, not to haue pacience to shift me.

Shal It is best certain: but to stand stained with trauaile, and sweating with desire to see him, thinking of nothing els, putting all affaires else in obliuion, as if there were nothing els to bee done, but to see him.

Pist. Tis semper idem, for, obsque hoc nihil est, tis in euery part.

Shal. Tis so indeede.

Pist. My Knight, I will inflame thy noble liuer, and make thee rage, thy Dol, and Helen of thy noble thoughts, is in base durance, and contagious prison, halde thither by most mechanical, and durtie hand: rowze vp reuenge from Ebon den, with fell fell Aleætoes snake, for Doll is in : Pistoll speakes nought but truth.

Falst. I will deliuer her.

Pist. There roared the sea, and trumpet Clangor sounds.

Enter the King and his traine.

Falst. God saue thy grace King Hall, my royall Hall.

Pist. The heaucns thee gard and keep, most royal impe of fame.

Falst. God saue thee, my sweet boy.

King My Lord chiefe iustice, speake to that vaine man.

Iust. Haue you your wits? know you what tis you speake?

Falst. My King, my Ioue, I speake to thee, my heart.

King I know thee not old man, fall to thy praiers,
How ill white heires becomes a foole and iester,

I haue long dreamt of such a kind of man,

So surfet-sweld, so old, and so prophane:

But being awakt, I do despise my dreame,

Make lesse thy body (hence) and more thy grace,

Leaue gourmandizing, know the graue doth gape

For thee, thrice wider then for other men,

Reply not to me with a foole-borne iest,

Presume not that I am the thing I was,

For God doth know, so shall the world perceiue,

That I haue turnd away my former selfe,

So will I those that kept me company:

When thou dost heare I am as I haue bin,

Approch me, and thou shalt be as thou wast,

The tutor and the feeder of my riots:

Till then I banish thee, on paine of death,

As I haue done the rest of my misleaders,

Not to come neare our person by ten mile:

For competence of life, I wil allow you,

That lacke of meanes enforce you not to euills,

And as we heare you do reforme your selues,

We will according to your strengths and qualities,

Giue you aduauncement. Be it your charge, my lord,

To

Henry the fourth.

To see performd the tenure of my word: set on.

Iohn Master Shallow I ow you a thousand pound.

Shal. Yea mary sir Iohn, which I beseech you to let me haue home with me.

Iohn That can hardly be, master Shallow: do not you grieue at this, I shall be sent for in priuate to him, looke you, hee must seeme thus to the world: feare not your aduauncements, I will be the man yet that shal make you great.

Shal. I cannot perceiue how, vnlesse you giue me your dublet, and stuffe me out with straw: I beseech you good sir Iohn let me haue five hundred of my thousand.

Iohn Sir I will be as good as my worde, this that you heard was but a collour.

Shall. A collar that I feare you will die in sir Iohn.

Iohn Feare no colours, go with me to dinner:

Come lieftenant Pistol, come Bardolfe,

I shall be sent for soone at night.

Iustice Go cary sir Iohn Falstafse to the Fleet,

Take all his company along with him.

Fal. My lord, my lord.

Iust. I cannot now speake, I will heare you soone, take them away. exunt.

Pist. Si fortuna me tormenta spero contenta.

Iohn I like this faire proceeding of the Kings,

He hath intent his wonted followers

Shall all be very well prouided for,

But all are banisht till their conuersations

Apppeare more wise and modest to the worlde.

Iust. And so they are.

Iohn The King hath cald his parlament my lord.

Iust. He hath.

Iohn I wil lay ods, that ere this yeere expire,

We beare our ciuil swords and natiue fier,

As farre as France, I heard a bird so sing,

Whose musique, to my thinking, pleasde the King:

Come, will you hence?

Epilogue.

First my feare then my curſie, laſt my ſpeech.

My feare, is your diſpleaſure, my curſy, my duty, & my ſpeech, to beg your pardons: if you looke for a good ſpeech now, you vndo me, for what I haue to ſay is of mine owne making, and what indeede (I ſhould ſay) wil (I doubt) proue mine own mar- ring: but to the purpoſe, and ſo to the venture. Be it knowne to you, as it is very well, I was lately here in the end of a diſplea- ſing play, to pray your patience for it, and to promiſe you a bet- ter: I meant indeede to pay you with this, which if like an il ven- ture, it come vnluckily home, I breake, and you my gentle cre- ditors looſe, here I promiſe you I would be, and here I com- mit my body to your mercies, bate me ſome, and I will pay you ſome, and (as moſt debtors do) promiſe you infinitely: and ſo I kneele downe before you; but indeede, to pray for the Queene,

If my tongue cannot intreate you to adde mee, will you commaund me to uſe my legges? And yet that were but light payment, to daunce out of your debt, but a good conſci- ence will make any poſſible ſatisfaction, and ſo woulde I: all the Gentlewomen heere haue forgiuen me, if the Gentlemen will not, then the Gentlemen doe not agree with the Gentle- women, which was neuer ſcene in ſuch an aſſembly.

One word more I beſeech you, if you bee not too much cloyd with fatte meate, our humble Author will continue the ſtorie, with ſir Iohn in it, and make you merry with faire Ka- tharine of Fraunce, where (for any thing I knowe) Falſtaffe ſhall die of a ſweat, vneſſe already a be killd with your hardie opinions; for Olde-castle died Martyre, and this is not the man: my tongue is weary, when my legges are too, I wil bid you, good night.
