A Message from the Provost of Stirling

We in Stirling are delighted you have selected our town this year for the venue of the National Mod of An Comunn Gaidhealach. On behalf of the citizens of the Royal and Ancient Burgh of Stirling, I extend a cordial welcome to you and sincerely hope that you will have a most enjoyable stay in our Burgh.

The Mod was last held in Stirling over fifty years ago, and I can assure you after this long absence we certainly will do all in our power to make your stay an interesting and an enjoyable one. Stirling, as you know, renowned as the Gateway to the Highlands, steeped in history and tradition, is an ideal centre and is eminently situated for the holding of the National Mod.

I send you my most warm greetings and good wishes for a successful Mod and look forward to having the pleasure of meeting many of you during your visit.

STIRLING.

For readers who read

THE SCOTSMAN undoubtedly presupposes an ability—even a willingness—to read. Pictures there are, certainly. Excellent ones. And captions too—which agreeably explain. But by and large THE SCOTSMAN depends on the written word.

But it is the gift of THE SCOTSMAN to inform with wit, good humour and compassion. When you read THE SCOTSMAN you get facts without favour, comment without prejudice, information with a light and lucid touch. It presents even the most ponderous subjects in plain and pleasurable prose. Indeed, THE SCOTSMAN is a plain pleasure to read. Daily.

HIGHLAND DRESS

The nobility and dignity of our forefathers is reflected to-day by the Highland Dress which we wear.

In order that we should be worthy of wearing the Dress, it is important for it to be correct in all its details.

The House of Henderson is acutely aware of its responsibilities, and ensures that every last detail is traditionally correct and the whole outfit tailored to perfection.

You're more intelligent than 'they' think you are

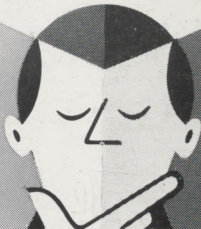

Nowadays everything is made easy. The accent is all on speed and the saving of time and trouble. Almost every kind of food under the sun can be bought in a tin, ready to eat. Shirts 'drip dry' without ironing. Newspapers have as many pictures as children's books. In fact, it is literally true that 'a child can read them'. The news is pre-digested and presented in such a way that a mental age of 10 would not find itself in difficulties.

Such newspapers are like public entertainers—they get the large circulations they are after by shocking, amusing or flattering their readers. But at a price. That price is paid by the reader himself, in a gradual loss of his critical faculty. He accepts the valuation of his own intelligence that is put upon it by the lords of the press. And a brain never exercised quickly becomes weak and lazy.

The Glasgow Herald is a very different kind of newspaper. Although it is read by everybody, it never under-rates the intelligence of its readers. It gives news of Scotland and of the whole world beside. It is one of the last papers in the noble Scottish tradition of independence, being completely free from the pressures of party and vested interests, commercial or financial. It is owned, not by press barons, but by thousands of the Glasgow Herald's own readers in Scotland.

The Glasgow Herald

for people who think for themselves
