M.In 1 In ABS. 1.83 .168  flely #32714

THE

EXPEDITION

$$
0 \mathrm{~F}
$$

HUMPHRY CLINKER.

By the Author of RODERICK RANDOM.

IN TWO VOLUMES.
V OL. I.

- Quorfum hrec tam putida tendunt,

Furcifer ? ad te, inquam - Hor.

D U B L I N:

Printed for A, Leathley, J. Exshaw, H. Satedere, W. Sleater, D. Chamberlaine, J. Potts, J. Hoey, jun. J. Mitchell, J. Williame, W. Colles, T. Walkez, J.A. Hubband, R. Moncriepfe, W. Wilsos, and D. Hay. m, DCC,Lxxi.

$\qquad$
$\qquad$
$\qquad$
$\qquad$
$\qquad$ 7icyitis $\qquad$ s6m

To Mr. Henry Davis, Bookfeller, in London.

Abergavenny, Aug. 4. RESPECTED SIR,

IHAVE received your efteemed favour of the $13^{\text {th }}$ ultimo, whereby it appeareth, that you have perufed thole fame Letters, the which were delivered unto you by my friend the reverend Mr. Hugo Behn; and I am pleated to find you think they may be printed with a good profpect of fuccefs; in as much as the objections you menton, I humbly conceive, are fuch as may be redargued, if not entirely removedAnd, firn, in the first place, as touching what profecutions may arife from printing the private correfpordence of perfons fill living, give me leave, with all due fubmiffion, to observe, that the Letters in queftion were not written and feet under the feal of fecrecy; that they have no tendency to the mala fame, or prejudice of any perron whatforever; but rather to the information and

$$
\text { A } 2
$$

and edification of Mankind: fo that it becometh a fort of duty to promulgate them in ufum publicum. Befides I have confulted Mr. Davy Higgins, an erninent attorney of this place, who, after due infpection and confideration, declareth, That he doth not think the faid Letters contain any matter which will be held actionable in the eye of the law. Finally, if you and I fhould come to a right underftanding, I do declare in verbo facerdotis, that in cafe of any fuch profecution, I will take the whole upon my own fhoulders, even quoad fine and imprifonment, though, I muft confefs, I fhould not care to undergo flagellation: Tam ad turpitudinem, quam ad amaritudinem pana SpeEtans---Secondly, concerning the perfonal refentment of Mr . Juftice Lifmahago, I may fay, non flocci factio---I would not willingly vilipend any Chriftian, if, peradventure, he deferveth that epithet : albeit, I am much furprifed that more care is not taken to exclude from the commifion all fuch vagrant foreigners as may be juftly fufpected of difaffection to our happy conftitution, in church and ftate--God forbid that I fhould be fo uncharitable, as to affirm pofitively, that the faid Lifmahago is no better than a Jefuit in difguife; but this I will affert and maintain, totis viribus, that, from the day he qualified, he has never been once feen intra temple parietes, that is to fay, within the parifh church.

Thirdly, with refpect to what paffed at Mr. Kendal's table, when the faid Lifmahago was fo brutal in his reprehenfions, I muff inform you, my good fir, that I was obliged to retire, not by fear arifing from his minatory reproaches, which, as I faid above, I value not of a ruth; but from the fudden effect produced by a barbel's row, which 1 had eaten at dinner, not knowing, that the Laid row is at certain feafons violently cathartic, as Galen obferveth in his chapter wept $x^{\theta} \boldsymbol{\theta}$ v.

Fourthly, and laftly, with reference to: the manner in which I got poffeffion of there Letters, it is a circumftance that concerns my own coufcience only ; fufficeth it to fay, I have fully fatisfied the parties in whole custody they were; and, by this time, I hope I have alfo fatisfied you in fuch ways, that the last hand may be put to our agreement, and the work proceed with all convenient expedition ; in which hope I reft, refpected fir,

( vi )

your very humble fervant,

Jonathan Dustwich.

P. S. I propofe, Deo Volente, to have the pleafure of feeing you in the great city, towards All-hallow-tide, when I fhall be glad to treat with you concerning a parcel of MS. fermons, of a certain clergyman deceafed; a cake of the right leaven, for the prefent tafte of the public. Verbums fapienti, छc.
J. D.

( vii )

To the Revd. Mr. Jonathan Dusitwich, at -

SIR,

IReceived yours in courfe of poft, and fhall be glad to treat with you for the MS. which I have delivered to your friend Mr. Behn; but can by no means comply with the terms propofed. Thofe things are fo uncertain-Writing is all a lottery-I have been a lofer by the works of the greateft men of the ageI could mention particulars, and name names; but don't choofe it-The tafte of the town is fo changeable. Then there have been fo many letters 'upon travels lately publifhed-What between Smollett's, Sharp's, Derrick's, Thicknefs's, Baltimore's, and Baretti's, together with Shandy's Sentimental Travels, the public feems to be cloyed with that kind of entertainment-Neverthelefs, I will, if you pleafe, run the rifque of printing and publifhing, and you fhall have half the profits of the impreffionYou need not take the trouble to bring up your fermons on my account-No body reads fermons but Methodifts and Diffenters-Befides, for my own part, I am quite a ftranger to that fort of reading; and the two perfons, whofe judgment I depended upon in thefe matters, are out of the way; one is gone abroad, carpenter of a man of war; and the other has been filly enough to abfcond, in order to avoid a profecution for blafphemy-l'm a great lofer by his going off-He has left a manual of devotion half finifhed on my hands, after having received money for the whole copy-He was the foundeft divine, and had the moft orthodox pen of all my people; and I never knew his judgment fail, but in flying from his bread and butter on this occafion.

( viii )

By owning you was not put in bodily fear by Lifmahago, you preclude yourfelf from the benefit of a good plea, over and above the advantage of binding him over. In the late war, I inferted in my evening paper, a paragraph that came by the poft, reflecting upon the behaviour of a certain regiment in battle. An officer of faid regiment came to my Thop, and, in the prefence of my wife and and journeyman, threatened to cut off my ears-As I exhibited marks of bodily fears, more ways than one, to the conviction of the bye-ftanders, I bound him over; my action lay, and I recover: ed. As for flagellation, you have nothing to fear, and nothing to hope, on that head-There has been but one printer flogged at the cart's tail thefe thirty years; that was Charles Watfon ; and he affured me it was no more than a flea-bite. C-S- has been threatened feveral times by the Houle of L_ ; but it came to nothing. If an information fhould be moved for, and granted againft you, as the editor of thofe Letters, I hope you will have honefty and wit enough to appear and take your trial-If you fhould be fentenced to the pillory, your fortune is made-As times go, that's a fure ftep to honour and preferment. I fhall think myfelf happy if I can lend you a lift; and am, very fincerely,

> yours,

London, Aug. 10 th.
Henry Davis

Pleare my kind fervice to your neighbour, my coufin Madoc.-I have fent an Almanack and Court-kalendar, directed for him at Mr. Sutton's bookfeller, in Gloucefter, carriage paid, which he will pleafe to accept as a fmall token of my regard. My wife, who is very fond of toafted cheefe, prefents her compliments to him, and begs to know if there's any of that kind, which he was fo good as to fend us laft Chriftmas, to be fold in London.

THE
EXPEDITION
OF

HUMPHRYCLINKER.

> To Dr. Lewis.

DOCTOR,

THE pills are good for nothing-I might as well fwallow fnow-balls to cool my reins-I have told you over and over, how hard I am to move; and at this time of day, I ought to know fomething of my own conftitution. : Why will you be fo pofitive? Prithee fend me another prefeription-I am as lame and as much tortured in all my limbs as if I was broke upon the wheel: indeed, I am equally diftreffed in mind and body-As if I had not plagues enough of my own, thofe children of my fifter are left me for a perpetual fource of vexation -what bufinefs have people to get children to plague their neighbours? A ridiculous incident that happened yefterday to my niece Liddy, has difordered me in fuch a manner, that I expect to be laid up with another fit of the gout-perhaps,

I may explain mylelf in my next. I fhall fet out to-morrow morning for the Hot-Well at Briftol, where I am afraid I fhall fay longer than I could wifh. On the receipt of this, fend Williams thither with my faddle-horfe and the demi pique. Tell Barns to threfh out the two old ricks, and fend the corn to market, and fell it off to the poor at a fhilling a bufhel under market price.-I have received a fnivelling letter from Griffin, offering to make a public• fubmiffion and pay cofts I want none of his fubmiffions; neither will I pocket any of his money-The fellow is a bad neighhour, and 1 defire to have nothing to do with him: but as he is purfe-proud, he fhall pay for his infolence: let him give five pounds to the poor of the parifh, and I'll withdraw my action; and in the mean time you may tell Pfig to ftop proceedings.-Let Morgan's widow have the Alderney cow, and forty fhillings to clothe her children : but don't fay a fyllable of the matter to any living foul-I'll make her pay when fhe is able. I defire you will lock up all my drawers, and keep the keys till meeting ; and be fure you take the Iron cheft with my papers into your own cuftody-Forgive all this trouble from,

Dear Lewis,

Your affectionate

Clpucefter, April 2.
M. Brambie.
'To Mrs. Gwyliim, houfe-keeper at Bram-bleton-hall.

MRS. GWYLLIM,

WHEN this cums to hand, be fure to pack up: in the trunk male that flands in my clofet, to be fent me in the Briftol waggon without lofs of time the following articles, viz. my rofe collard neglejay, with green robins, my yellow damafk, and my black velvet fuit, with the fhort hoop; my bloo quilted petticot, my green manteel, my laced apron, my French commode, Macklin head and lappets, and the litel box with my jowls. Williams may bring over my bum-daffee, and the viol with the eafings of Dr. Hill's dock-water, and Chowder's lackfitif. The poor creature has been terribly conftuprated ever fince we left huom. Pray take particular care of the houfe while the family is abfent. Let there be a fire conftantly kept in my brother's chamber and mine. The maids, having nothing: to do, may be fat a fpinning. I defire you'll clap. a pad-luck on the wind-feller, and let none of the men have excefs to the flrong bear-don't forget tohave the gate thit every evening before dark. The gardnir and the hind may lie below in the landry, to partake the houfe, with the blunderbufs and the great dog; and I hope you'll have a watchfull eye over the maids. I know that hulfy, Mary Jones, loves to be rumping with the men. Let me know if Alderney's calf be fould yet, and what: he fought-if the ould goofe be fitting; and if the cobler has cut Dicky, and how the pore anemil bore the operation.- No more at prefent, but refts, Yoars, Gloftar, April 2. Tabitha Brambie,

To Mrs. Mary Jones, at Bramlleton-hall.

DEAR MOLLY,

HEAVING this importunity, I fend my love to you and Saul, being in good health, and hoping to heer the fame from you; -and that you and Saul will take my poor kitten to bed with you this cold weather.-We have been all in a fad taking here at Gloftar-Mifs Liddy had like to have run away with a player-man, and young mafter and he would adone themfelves a mifchief; but the fquire applied to the mare, and they were bound over.-Miftrefs bid me not fpeak a word of the matter to any Chriftian foul-no more I fhall: for we fervints fhould fee all and fay nothing-But what was worfe than all this, Chowder has had the misfortune to be worricd by a butcher's dog, and came home in a terrible pickle-Miftrifs was taken with the afterifks, but they foon went off. The docter was fent for to Chowder, and he fubforibed a repofitory, which did him great fervice-thank God he's now in a fair way to do well-pray take care of my box and the pillyber, and put them under your own bed; for, I do fuppofe, madam Gwyllim will be a prying into my fecrets, now my back is turned. John Thomas is in good health, but fulky. The fquire gave away an culd coat to a poor man ; and John fays as how tis robbing him of his parquifites.-I told him, by his agreement he was to receive no vails; but he fays as how there's a difference betwixt vails and parquifites; and fo there is for fartain. We are ail going to the Hot Well, where where I fhall drink your hea!th in a glafs of water, being,

> Dear Molly, Your humble fervant to command,
Gloftar, April 2 d.
Win. Jenkins.

ToSir Watkin Phillips, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxon.

dear phillips,

AS I have nothing more at heart than to convince you I am incapable of forgetting, or neglceting the friendfhip I made at college, I now begin that correfpondence by letters, which you and I agreed, at parting, to cultivate. I begin it fooner than I intended, that you may have it in your power to refute any idle reports which may be circulated to my prejudice at Oxford, touching a foolith quarrel, in which I have been involved on account of my fifter, who had been fome time fetiled here in a boarding-fchool.-When I came hither with my uncle and aunt (who are our guardians) to fctch her away, I found hèr a fine, tall girl, of revenfeen, with an agreeable perion; but remarkably fimple, and quite ignorant of the world. This difpofiticn, and want of experience, had expofed her to the addreffes of a perfon-I know not what to call him who had feen her at a play; and, with a coiffidence and dexterity peculiar to himfelf, found means to be recommended to her acquaintance. It was by the greateft accident I intercepted one of his letters; as it was my duty to ftifle this correfpondence in its birth, I made it my bufinefs to find him out, and tell him very freely my fentiments of the matter. The fark did not like the ftile I ufed, and behaved with abundance of reettle. Though bis rank in life (which

16 The EXPEDITION of which, by the bye, I am afhamed to declare) did not entitle him to much deference; yet as his behaviour was remarkably fpirited, I admitted him to the privilege of a gentleman, and fomething might have happened, had not we been prevented. - In fhort, the bufinefs took air, I know not how, and made abundance of noife-recourfe was had to juftice-I was obliged to give my word and honour, $E^{\circ}$ c. and to-morrow morning we fet out for Briftol Wells, where I expect to hear from you by the return of the poft.-I I have got into a family of originals, whom I may one day attempt to defcribe for your amufement. My aunt, Mrs. Tabitha Bramble, is a maiden of forty-five, exceedingly ftarched, vain, and ridiculous.-My uncle is an odd kind of humorift, always on the fret, and fo unpleafant in his manner, that, rather than be obliged to keep him company, I'd refign all claim to the inheritance of his eftate. - Indeed his being tortured by the gout may have foured his temper, and, perhaps, I may like him better on further acquaintance: certain it is, all his fervants and neighbours in the country, are fond of him, even to a degree of enthufiafm, the reafon of which I cannot as yet comprehend. Remember me to Griffy Price, Gwyn, Manfel, Baffet, and all the reft of my old Cambrian companions.- Salute the bed-maker in my name-give my fervice to the cook, and pray take care of poor Ponto, for the fake of his old mafter, who is, and ever will be,

> Dear Phillips,

> Your affectionate friend,
and humble fervant,

> To Mrs. Jermyn, at her houfe in Gloucefter.

DEAR MADAM,

HAVING no mother of my own, I hope you will give me leave to difburthen my poor heart to you, who have always acted the part of a kind parent to me, ever fince I was put under your care. -Indeed, and indeed, my worthy governefs may believe me, when I affure her, that I never harboured a thought that was otherwife than virtnous; and, if God will give me grace, I fhall never behave fo as to caft a reflection on the care you have taken in my education. I confefs I have given juft caufe of offence by my want of prudence and experience. I ought not to have liftened to what the young man faid; and it was my duty to have told you all that paffed, but I was afhamed to mention it; and then he behaved fo modeft and refpectful, and feemed to be fo melancholy and timorous, that I could not find in my heart to do any thing that fhould make him miferable and defperate. As for familiarities, I do declare, I never once allowed him the favour of a falute; and as to the few letters that paffect between us, they are all in my uncle's hands, and I hope they contain nothing contrary to innocence and honour.-I am ftill perfuaded that he is not what he appears to be: but time will difcovermean while I will endeavour to forget a connexion, which is fo difpleafing to my family. I have cried without ceafing, and have not tafted any thing but tea, fince I was hurried away from you; nor did I once clofe my eyes for three nights running.-My aunt continues to chide me feverely when we are by ourfelves; but I hope to foften her in time, by humility and fubmiffion.-My uncle, who was

18 The EXPEDITION of

fo dreadfully paffionate in the beginning, has been moved by my tears and diftrefs; and is now all tendernefs and compaffion; and my brother is reconciled to me, on my promife to break off all correfpondence with that unfortunate youth : but, notwithftanding all their indulgence, I fhall have no peace of mind till I know my dear and ever honoured governefs has forgiven her poor, difconfolate, forlorn,

Affectionate humble fervant, till death,
Clifton, April 6. Lydia Melford.

To Mifs Letitia Wiliis, at Gloucefter.

MYDEAREST LETTX,

I AM in fuch a fright, left this fhould not come fafe to hand by the conveyance of Jarvis the carrier, that I beg you will write to me, on the receipt of it, directing to me, under cover, to Mrs. Winifred Jenkins, my aunt's riaid, who is a good girl, and has been fo kind to me in my affliction, that I have made her my confidant; as for Jarvis, he was very fhy of taking charge of my letter and the little pascel, becauie his fifter Sally had like to have loft her place on my account: indeed I cannot blame the man for his caution ; but I have made it worth his while,-My dear companion and bed-fellow, it is a grievous addition to my other misfortunes, that I am deprived of your agreeable company and converfation, at a time when I need fo much the comfort of your good humour and good fenfe; but, I hope, the friendihip we contracted at the buardingfchool, will laft for life-I doubt not but on my fide it will daily increafe and improve, as I gain xperience, and learn to know the value of a true riend.-O, my dear Letty! what fhall I fay about hoor Mr. Wilfon ? I have promifed to break off all :orrefpondence, and, if poffible, to forget him: put, alas ! I begin to perceive that will not be in my power. As it is by no means proper that the picture fhould remain in my hands, left it fhould be the occafion of more mifchief, I have fent it to vou by this opportunity, begging you will either seep it fafe till better times, or return it to MrWilfon himelf, who, I fuppore, will make it his bufinefs to fee you at the ufual place. If he fhould be low-fpirited at my fending back his picture, you may tell him I have no occafion for a picture, while the original continues engraved on my ——But no; I would not have you tell him that neither; becaufe there muift be an end of our correfpondence -I wifh he may forget me, for the fake of his own peace; and yet if he fhould, he muft be a barba-rous-But 'tis impoffible-poor Wilfon cannot be falfe and inconftant: I befeech him not to write to me, nor attempt to fee me for fome time; for, confidering the refentment and paffionate temper of my brother Jery, fuch an attempt might be attended with confequences which would make us all miferable for life-let us truft to time and the chapter of accidents; or rather to that Providence which will not fail, fooner or later, to reward thofe that walk in the paths of honour and virtue. - I would offer my love to the young ladies : but it is not fit that any of them fhould know' you have received this letter.-If we go to Bath, I fhall fend you my fimple remarks upon that famous centre of polite amufement, and every other place we may chance to vifit ; and I flatter myfelf that my dear Mifs Willis will be punctual in anfwering the letters of her affectionate

[^0]To Dr. Lewas.

DEAR LEWIS,

I H A V E followed your directions with fome fuccefs, and might have been upon my legs by this time, had the weather permitted me to ufe my faddle horfe. I rode out upon the Downs laft Tuefday, in the forenoon, when the fky, as far as the vifible horizon, was without a cloud: but before I had gone a full mile, I was overtaken inftantaneounly by a form of rain that wet me to the fkin in three minutes-whence it came the devil knows; but it has laid me up (I fuppofe for one fortright. It makes me fick to hear people talk of the fine air upon Clifton-Downs: how can the air be either agreeable or falutary, where the dæmon of vapours defcends in a perpetual drizzle? My confinement is the more intolerable, as I am furrounded with domeftic vexations.-My niece has had a dangerous fit of illnefs, occafioned by that curfed incident at Gloucefter, which I mentioned in my laft.-She is a poor ${ }^{3}$ godd-natured fimpleton, as foft as butter, and as eathly melted - not that fhe's a fool-the girl's parts are not defpicable, and her education has not been negiceted; that is to fay, fhe can write and fpell, and tpeak French, and play upon the harpfichord; then fle dances finely, has a good figure, and is very well inclined; but, fhe's deficient in fpirit, and fo cucepuble-and fo tender forfooth ! -truly, fhe las got a languifhing eye, and reads romances - Then there's her brother, 'fquire Jery, a fert jackanapes, full of college-petulance and felfconceit; proud as a German count, and as hot and hafty as a Welch mountaineer. As for that fantaftical animal, my fifter Tabby, you are no

Atranger to her qualifications-I vow to God, fhe is fometimes fo intolerable, that I almoft think fhe's the devil incarnate come to torment me for my fins ; and yet I am confcious of no fins that ought to entail fuch family-plagues upon me-why the devil fhould not I fhake of thefe torments at once ? I an't married to 'Tabby, thank Heaven! nor did I beget the other two : let them chofe another guardian: for my part, I an't in a condition to take care of myfelf; much lefs to fuperintend the condutt of giddy-head ed boys and girls. You earneftly defire to know the particulars of our adventure at Gloucefter, which are briefly thefe, and I hope they will go no further :-Liddy had been fo long cooped up in a boarding-fchool, which, next to a nunnery, is the worft kind of feminary that ever was contrived for young women, that the became as inflammable as touch-wood; and going to a play in ho-lyday-time, 'fdeath, I'm afhamed to tell youl the fell in love with one of the actors-a hand iome young fellow that goes by the name of Wilfon. The rafcal foon perceived the impreffion he had made, and managed matters fo as to llee her at a houfe where fhe went to drink tea with her governefs. -This was the beginning of a correfpondence, which they kept up by means of a jade of a milliner who made and dreffed caps for the girls at the boarding-fehool. When we arrived at Gloncefter, Liddy came to ftay at lodgings with her aunt, and Wilfon bribed the maid to deliver a letter into her own hands; but it feems Jery had already acquired fo much credit with the maid, (by what means he beft knows) that fhe carried the letter to him, and fo the whole plot was difcovered. The rafh boy, without faying a word of the matter to me, went ummediately in fearch of Wilfon; and I fuppofe, treated him with infolence enough. The theatrical her was too far gone in romance to brook fuch ufage : he replied in blank verfe, and a formal challenge enfued. They agreed to meet early next morning and decide the difpute with fword and piffol. I heard nothing at all of the affair, till Mr. Morley came to my bedfide in the moring, and told me he was afraid my nephew was going to fight, as he had been overheard talking very loud and vehement with Wilfon at the young man's lodgings the night before, and afterwards went and bought powder and ball at a fhop in the neighbourhood. I got up immediately, and upon inquiry found he was juft gone out. I begged Morley to knock up the mayor, that he might interpofe as a magiftrate, and in the mean time I hobbled after the fquire, whom I faw at a diftance walking att a great pace towards the city gate -in fpite of all my efforts, I could not come up till our two combatants had taken their ground, and were priming their piftols. An old houre luckily fcreened me from their view; fo that I rufhed upon them at once, before I was perceived. They were both confounded, and attempted to make their efeape different ways; but Morley coming up with conftables at that inftant, took Wilfon into cuftody, and Jery followed him quietly to the mayor's houfe. All this time I was ignorant of what had paffed the preceding day; and neither of the parties would difcover a tittle of the matter. The mayor obferved that it was great prefumption in Wilfon who was a ftroller, to proceed to fuch ex tremities with a gentleman of family and fortune; and threatened to commit him on the vagrant aet. -The young fellow buftled up with great fpirit, declaring he was a gentlemar, and would be treated as fuch; but he refufed to explain himfelf further. The mafter of the company being fent for, and examined, touching the faid Wilfon, faid the young man had engaged with him at Birmingham about fix months ago; but never would take his falary ; that he had behaved fo well in his private character, as to acquire the refpect and good-will of all his acquaintance, and that the public owned his merit, as an actor, was altogether extraordinary.——After all, I fancy, he will turn out to be a run-way prentice from London-The manager offered to bail him for any fum, provided he would give his word and honour that he would keep the peace; but the young gentleman was on his high ropes, and would by no means lay himfelf under any reftrictions: on the other hand, Hopefull, was equally obftinate ; till at length the mayor declared, that If they both refufed to be bound over, he would immediately commit Wilfon as a vagrant to hard labour. I own I was much pleafed with Jery's behaviour on this occafion : he faid that rather than Mr. Wilfon fhould be treated in fuch an ignominious manner, he would give his word and honour to profecute the affair no further while they remained at Gloucefter-Wilfon thanked him for his generous manner of proceeding, and was difcharged. On our return to our lodgings, my nephew explained the whole myftery; and I own I was exceedingly incenfed.-Liddy being queftioned on the fubjea, and very feverely reproached by that wild-cat my fifter Tabby, firft fwooned away, then diffolving into a flood of tears, confeffed all the particulars of the correfpondence, at the fame time giving up three letters, which was all fhe had received from her admirer. The laft, which Jery intercepted, I fend you inclofed, and when you have read it, I dare fay you won't wonder at the progrefs the writer had made in the heart of a fimple girl, utterly unacquainted with the characters of mankind. Thinking it was high time to remove her from fuch a dangerous connection, I carried her off the very next day to Briftol; but the poor creature was fo frightened and fluttered, by our threats and expoftulations, that fhe fell fick the fourth day after our arrival at Clifton, and continued fo ill for a whole week that her life was defpaired of. It was not till yefterday that Dr. Rigge declared her out of danger. You cannot imagine what I have fuffered, partly from the indifcretion of this poor child, but much more from the fear of lofing her entirely. This air is intolerably cold, and the place quite folitary-l never go down to the well without returning low-fpirited; for there I meet with half a dozen poor emaciated creatures, with ghoftly looks, in the laft ftage of a confumption, who have made fhift to linger through the winter, like fo many exotic plants languifhing in a hot-houfe; but, in all appearance, will drop into their graves before the fun has warmth enough to mitigate the rigour of this ungenial fpring.-If you think the Bath water will be of any fervice to me, I will go thither as foon as my niece can bear the motion of the coach.-Tell Barns I am obliged to him for his advice ; but don't choofe to follow it. If Davis voluntarily offers to give up the farm, the other fhall have it; but I will not begin at this time of day to diffrefs my tenants, becaufe they are unfortunate, and cannot make regular payments: I wonder that Barns would think me capable of fuch oppreffion-As for Higgins, the fellow is a notorious poacher, to be fure; and an impudent rafcal to fet his fnares in my own paddock; but, I fuppofe, he thought he had fome right (efpecially in my abfence) to partake of what nature feeems to have intended for common ufe-you may threaten him in my name, as much as you pleafe, and if he repeats the offence, let me know it before you have recourfe to juftice,-I know you are a great fportfman, and oblige many of your friends. I need not tell you to make ufe of my grounds; but it may be neceffary to hint, that I'm more afraid of my fowling piece than of my game. When yeu san fpare two or three brace of partridges, fend them over by the fage coach, and tell Gwyllim that fhe fyrgot to pack up my flannels and wide fhoes in the trunk-mail-I fhall trouble you as ufual, from time to time, till at laft I fuppofe you will be tired of correfponding with

Your affured friend,

Clifton, April 17.
M. Bramble.
※\% \% \% \%

To Mifs Lydia Melford.

MISS WII, LIS has pronounced my doom -you are going away, dear Mifs Melford!-you are going to be removed, I know not whither! what Thall I do ? which way fhall I turn for confolation? I know not what I fay-all night long have I been toffed in a fea of doubts and fears, uncertainty and diftraction, without being able to connect my thoughts, much lefs to form any confiftent plan of conduct-I was even tempted to wifh that I had never feen you; or that you had been lefs amiable, or lefs compaffionate to your poor Wifon; and yet it would be deteftable ingratitude in me to form fuch a wifh, confidering how much I am indebted to your goodnefs, and the ineffable pleafure I have derived from your indulgence and approbationGood God! I never heard your name mentioned without emotion ! the moft diftant profpect of being admitted to your company, filled my whole foul with a kind of pleafing alarm! as the time approached, my heart beat with redoubled force, and every nerve thrilled with a tranfport of expectation; but, when I found myfelf actually in your prefence; when I heard you fpeak; -when I faw you fmile; when I beheld your charming eyes turned favour-

Vol. I
B ably

16 The EXPEDITION of

ably upon me; my breaft was filled with fuch tumults of delight, as wholly deprived me of the power of utterance, and wrapt me in a delirium of joy! - encouraged by your fweetnefs of temper and affability, I ventured to defcribe the feelings of my heart-even then you did not check my pre-fumption-you pitied my fufferings, and gave me leave to hope-you put a favourable-perhaps too favourable a conftruction, on my appearancecertain it is, I am no player in love-1 fpeak the language of my own heart; and have no prompter but nature. Yet there is fomething in this heart, which I have not yet difclofed-I I flattered myfelf-But, I will not-I muft not proceed Dear Mifs Liddy! for Heaven's fake, contrive, if poffible, fome means of letting me fpeak to you before you leave Gloucefter ; otherwife, I know not what will-But I begin to rave again-I will endeavour to bear this trial with fortitude-while I am capable of reflecting upon your tendernefs and truth, I lurely have no caufe to defpair-yet I an ftrangely affected. The fun feems to deny me light-a cloud hangs over me, and there is a dreadful weight upon my fpirits! While you ftay in this place, I fhall continually hover about your lodgings, as the parted foul is faid to linger about the grave where its mortal confort lies-I know, if it is in your power, you will tafk your humanity-your compaffion- fhall I add, your affection? in order to affuage the almoft intolerable difquiet that torments the heart of your afflicted, Gloucefter, March 31.

Wilson.

To Sir Watkin Phildips, of Jefus college, Oxon.

Hot Well, April 18.

©EAR PHILLIPS,

I G I VE Manfel credit for his invention, in propagating the report that I had a quarrel with a mountebank's merry Andrew at Gloucefter: but I have toe much refpect for every appendage of wit, to quarrel even with the loweft buffoonery ; and therefore I hope Manfel and I fhall always be good friends. I cannot, however, approve of his drowning my poor dog Ponto, on parpofe to convert Ovid's pleonafm into a punning epitaph-deerant quoque Littora Ponto: for, that he threw him into the Ifis, when it was fo high and impetuous, with no other view than to kill the fleas, is an excufe that will not hold water-But I leave poor Ponto to his fate, and hope Providence will take care to accommodate Manfel with a drier death.

As there is nothing that can be called company at the Well, I am here in a flate of abfolute ruftication: This, however, gives me leifure to obferve the fingularities ind my uncle's character, which feems to have interefted your curiofity. The truth is, his difpofition and mine, which, like oil and vinegar, repelled one another at firft, have now begun to mix by dint of being beat up together. I was once apt to believe him a complee Cynic; and that nothing but the neceffity of his occafions could compel him to get within the pale of fociety -I am now of anotier opinion. I think his peevifhnefs arifes partly from bodily pain, and partly from a natural excels of mental fenfibility; for, I fuppofe the mind as well as the body, is in fome cafes endued with a morbid excefs of fenfation.

I was t'other day much diverted with a converfation that paffed in the Pump-room, betwixt him and the famous Dr. L-n, who is come to ply at the Well for patients. My uncle was complaining of the ftink, occafioned by the vaft quantity of mud and flime, which the river leaves at low ebb under the windows of the Pump-room. He obferved, that the exhalations arifing from fuch a nuifance, could not but be prejudicial to the weak lungs of many confumptive patients, who came to drink the water. The Doctor overhearing this remark, made up to him, and affured him he was miftaken. He faid, people in general were fo mifled by vulgar prejudices, that philofophy was hardly fufficient to undeceive them. Then humming thrice, he affumed a molt ridiculous folemnity of afpect, and entered into a learned inveftigation of the nature of ftink. He obferved, that ftink, or ftench, meant no more than a ftrong impreffion on the olfactory nerves; and might be applied to fubftances of the moft oppofite qualities; that in the Dutch language, finken fignified the moft agreeable perfume, as well as the moft fetid odour, as appears in Van Vloudel's tranflation of Horace, in that beautiful ode, 2 uis multa gracilis, \&c. -The words liquidus perfufus odoribus, he tranflates varz civet $\delta^{\circ}$ mof cbata geffinken : that individuals differed toto ccelo in their opinion of fmells, which, indeed, was altogether as arbitrary as the opinion of beauty; that the French were pleafed with the putrid effluvia of animal food; and fo were the Hottentots in Africa, and the favages in Greenland; and that the Negroes on the coaft of Senegal would not touch fifh till it was rotten; ftrong prefumptions in favour of what is generally called fink, as thofe nations are in a ftate of nature, undebauched by luxury, unleduced by whim and caprice : that he had reafon to believe the ftercoraccous flavour, condemned by prejudice as a ftink, was, in fact, moft agreeable to the organs of fmelling; for, that every perfon who pretended to nauleate the fmell of another's excretions, fnuffed up his own with particular complacency ; for the truth of which he appealed to all the ladies and gentlemen then prefent : he faid the inhabitants of Madrid and Edinburgh found particular fatisfaction in breathing their own atmofphere, which was always impregnated with ftercoraceous effluvia : that the learned Dr. B-, in his treatife on the Four digeftions, explains in what manner the volatile effluvia from the inteftines, ftimulate and promote the operations of the animal œconomy: he affirmed, the laft Grand Duke of Tufcany, of the Medicis family, who refined upon fenfuality with the fpirit of a philofopher, was fo delighted with that odour, that he caufed the effence of ordure to be extracted, and ufed it as the moft delicious perfume : that he himfelf, (the doctor) when he happened to be lowfpirited, or fatigued with bufinefs, found immediate relief and uncommon fatisfaction from hanging over the ftale contents of a clofe-ftool, while his fervant ftirred it about under his nofe; nor was this effect to be wondered at, when we confider that this fubfance abounds with the felf-fame volatile falts that are fo greedily fmelled to by the moft delicate invalids, after they have been extracted and fublimed by the chemifts. - By this time the company began to hold their nofes; but the doctor, without taking the leaft notice of this fignal, proceeded to fhew, that many fetid fubftances were not only agreeable but falutary; fuch as a/Jafotida, and other medicinal gums, refins, roots and vegetables, over and above burnt feathers, tanpits, candle fnuffs, E ${ }^{\circ}$ c. In fhort, he ufed many learned arguments to perfuade his audience out of their fenfes ; and from fench made a tranfition to filtb, which he affirmed was alfo a mirtaken idea, in as much as objects fo called, were no other than certain modifications of matter, confifting of the fame principles that enter into the compofition of all created effences, whatever they may be : that in the filthieft production of nature, a philofopher confidered nothing but the earth, water, falt, and air of which it was compounded : that, for his own part, he had no more objection to drinking the dirtieft ditch water, than he had to a glafs of water from the Hot Well, provided he was affured there was nothing poifonous in the concrete. Then addreffing himielf to my uncle, "Sir, (faid he) you " feem to be of a dropfical habit, and probably will " foon have a confirmed afcites: if I fhould be pre"f fent when you are tapped, I will give you a con" vincing proof of what I affert, by drinking with out hefitation the water that comes out of your " abdomen." - The ladies made wry faces at this declaration, and my uncle changing colour, told him he did not defire any fuch proof of his philofophy: " But I fhould be glad to know (faid he) what " makes you think I am of a dropfical habit?" "Sir,
"I beg pardon, (replied the Doctor) I perceive your "6 ancles are fwelled, and you feem to have the facies
's leucopblegmatica. Perhaps, indeed, your diforder " may be oedematous, or gouty, of it may be the " lues venerea: if you have any reafon to flatter "s yourfelf it is this laft, fir, I will undertake to cure " you with three fmall pills, even if the difeafe " fhould have attained its utmoft ińveteracy. Sir, " it is an arcanum which I have difcovered, and
" prepared with infinite labour.-Sir, I have late" ly cured a woman in Briftol-a common pro-
" ftitute, fir, who had got all the worft fymptoms or of the diforder; fuch as nodi, topbi, and gum-
's mata, verruca, crifta Galli, and a ferpiginous " eruption, or rather a pocky itch all over her " body.——By that time the had taken the fecond " pill, fir, by Heaven! the was as fmooth as my " harid, and the third made her as found and as " frefh as a new born infant." "Sir, (cried my
"s uncle peevifhly) I have no reafon to flatter my-
" felf that my diforder comes within the efficacy of "s your noffrum. But, this patient you talk of,
" may not be fo found at bottom as you imagine."
"I can't poffibly be miftaken : (rejoined the phy" fician) for I have had communication with " her three times-I always afcertain my cures in " that manner." At this remark, all the ladies retired to another corner of the room, and fome of them began to fpit-As to my uncle, though he was ruffled at firit by the doctor's faying he was dropfical, he could not help fmiling at this ridiculous confeffion, and, I fuppofe, with a view to punifh this original, told him there was a wart upon his nofe, that looked a little fufpicious. "I don't "s pretend to be a judge of thofe matters; (faid he)
" but I underftand that warts are often produced " by the diftemper ; and that one upon your nofe " feems to have taken poffeffion of the very key"f fone of the bridge, which I hope is in no danger " of falling." $L \sim n$ feemed a little confounded at this remark, and affured him it was nothing but a common excrefcence of the cuticula, but that the bones were all found below; for the truth of this affertion he appealed to the touch, defiring he would feel the part. My uncle faid it was a matter of fuch delicacy to meddle with a gentleman's nofe, that he declined the office-upon which, the Doctor turn. ing to me, intreated me to do him that favour. complied with his requeft, and handled it fo roughI ly , and he fneezed, and the tears ran down hi-cheeks, to the no fmall entertainment of the company, and particularly of my uncle, who burft out a-laughing for the firft time fince I have been with him; and took notice, that the part feemed to be very tender. 's Sir, (cried the Doctor) it is natu" rally a tender part; but to remove all poffibility " of doubt, I will take off the wart this very night."

So faying, he boned with great folemnity all round, and retired to his own lodgings, where he applied a cauftic to the wart ; but it fpread in fuch a manner as to produce a confiderable inflammation, attended with an enormous fwelling; fo that when he next appeared, his whole face was overfhadowed by this tremendous nozzle; and the rueful eagernefs with which he explained this unlucky accident, was ludicrous beyond all defcription._I was much pleafed with meeting the original of a character, which you and I have often laughed at in defcription; and what furprizes me very much, I find the features in the picture, which has been drawn for him, rather foftened than over-charged.-

As I have fomething elfe to fay; and this letter has run to an unconfcionable length, I fihall now give you a little refpite, and trouble you again by the very firft poft. I wifh you would take it in your head to retaliate thefe double ftrokes upon

Your's always,

J. Melforb.

HUMPHRY CLINKER.

To Sir Watikin Phillips, of Jefus college, Oxon.

Hot Well, April 20.

DEAR KNIGHT,

I NOW fit down to execute the threat in "the tail of my laft. The truth is, I am big with the fecret, and long to be delivered. It relates to my guardian, who, you know, is at prefent our principal object in view.

T'other day, I thought I had detected him in: fuch a fate of frailty, as would but ill become his years and character. There is a decent fort of a woman, not difagreeable in her perfon, that comes to the Well, with 2 poor emaciated child, far gone in a confumption. I had caught my uncle's eyes feveral times directed to this perfon, with a very fufpicious expreffion in them, and every time he faw himfelf obferved, he haftily withdrew them, with evident marks of confufion-I refolved to watch him more narrowly, and faw him fpeaking to her privately in a corner of the walk. At length, going down to the Well one day, I' met her half way up the hill to Clifton, and could not help fufpecting the was going to our lodgings by appointment, as it was about one o'clock, the hour when my fifter and I are generally at the Pump-room.This notion exciting my curiofity, I returned by a back way, and got unperceived into my own chamber, which is contiguous to my uncle's apartment. Sure enough, the woman was introduced, but not into his bed-chamber; he gave her audience in a parlour; fo that I was obliged to fhift my fation to another room, where, however, there was a fmall chink in the partition, through which I could perceive what paffed - My uncle though a little lame, rofe up when fhe came in, and fetting a chair for her, defired the would fit down : then he afked if fhe would take a difh of chocolaie, which the declined, with much acknowledgment. After a thort paufe, he faid, in a croaking tone of voice which confounded me not a little, "Madam, I am " truly concerned for your misfortunes ; and if this "trifle can be of any fervice to you, I beg you will " accept it without ceremony," So faying, he put a bit of paper into her hand, which the opening with great trepidation, exclaimed in an ecftafy, "Twenty pounds! O, fir!" and finking down upon a fettee, fainted away - Frightned at this fit, and, 1 fuppofe, afraid of calling for affiftance, left her fituation fhould give rife to unfavourable conjectures, he ran about the room in diftraction, making frightful grimaces ; and, at length, had recollection enough to throw a little water in her face; by which application the was brought to herfelf : but, then her feeling took another turn. She fhed a flood of tears, and cried aloud, "I know " not who you are: but, fure-worthy fir!" generous fir!-the diftrefs of me and my poor " dying child-Oh! if the widow's prayers-if " the orphan's tears of gratitude can ought avail's gracious Providence !-Bleffings! fhower down "eternal bleffings-" Here the was interrupted by my uncle, who muttered in a voice ftill more and more difcordant, "For Heaven's fake be quiet, " madam-confider-the people of the houfe"'\{death1 can't you-" All this time the was ftruggling to throw herfelf on her knees, while he, feizing her by the wrifts, endeavoured to feat her upon the fettee faying, "Pr'ythee-good now"s hold your tongue-" At that inflant, who fhould burft into the room but our aunt Tabby ! of all antiquated maidens the moft diabolically capri-cious-Ever prying into other people's affairs, fhe had feen the woman enter, and followed her to the door, where fhe ftood liftening, but probably could hear nothing diftinctly, except my uncle's laft exclamation; at which fhe bounced into the parlour in a violent rage, that dyed the tip of her nofe of a purple hue, "Fy upon you, Matt ! (cried fhe) "c what doings are thefe, to difgrace your own cha"racter, and difparage your family ?-" Then fnatched the bank-note out of the franger's hand, the went on-" How now, twenty pounds!-here " is temptation with a witnefs !-Good woman, "s go about your bufinefs-Brother, brother, I " know not which moft to admire; your concu" piffins, or your extravagance! -" "Good God, " (exclaimed the poor woman) fhall a worthy gen" tleman's character fuffer for an action, that does "6 honour to humanity ?" By this time, uncle's indignation was effectually rouzed. His face grew pale, his teeth chattered, and his eyes flafhed"Sifter, (cried he, in a voice like thunder) I vow "to God, your impertinence is exccedingly pro" voking." With thefe words, he took her by the hand, and, opening the door of communication, thruft her into the chamber where I ftood, fo affected by the fcene, that the tears ran down my cheeks. Obferving thefe marks of emotion, "I "s don't wonder (faid fhe) to fee you concerned at " the back-flidings of fo near a relation; a man of " his years and infirmities: Thefe are fine doings, " truly-This is a rare example, fet by a guardian "for the benefit of his pupils-Monftrous! in"congrous! fophiftica!!"-I thought it was but an act of juftice to fet her to rights; and therefore explained the myftery-But fhe would not be undeceived. "What I (faid the) would you go for "to offer, for to arguefy me out of my fenfes ?

HUMPHRY CLINKER.

"Did'n't I hear him whifpering to her to hold her " tongue? Did'n't I fee her in tears? Did'n't I "f fee him ftruggling to throw her upon the couch ?
"O filthy! hideous! abominable ! Child, child, " talk not to me of charity. - Who gives twenty " pounds in charity ? - But you are a ftripling-
" You know nothing of the world-Befides cha" rity begins at home-Twenty pounds would buy " me a complete fuit of flowered filk, trimmings "and all-" In fhort, I quitted the room, my contempt for her, and my refpect for her brother, being increafed in the fame proportion. I have fince been informed, that the perfon, whom my uncle fo generoully relieved, is the widow of an enfign, who has nothing to depend upon but the penfion of fifteen pounds a year. The people of the Well-houfe give her an excellent character. She lodges in a garret, and works very hard at plain-work, to fupport her daughter, who is dying of a confumption. I muft own, to my fhame, I feel a ftrong inclination to follow my uncle's example, in relieving this poor widow ; but, betwixt friends, I am afraid of being detected in a weaknefs that might entail the ridicule of the company upon,

Dear Phillips,

Yours always,
J. Melford.

Direct your next to me at Bath; and remember me to all our fellowjefuits.

To Dr. Lewis.

Hot Well, April 29 :

I UNDERSTAND your hint. There are myfteries in phyfick, as well as in religion; which we of the prophane have no right to invertigate-A man muft not prefume to ufe his reafon, unlefs hehas ftudied the categories, and can chop logic by mode and figure-Between friends, I think, every man of tolerable parts ought, at my time of day, to be both phyfician and lawyer, as far as his own conftitution and property are concerned. For my own part, I have had an hofpital thefe fourteen years within myfelf, and ftudied my own cafe with the moft painful attention ; confequently may be fuppofed to know fomething of the matter, altho" I have not taken regular courfes of phifiology, ef cetera, et cetera. - In fhort, I have for fome time been of opinion, (no offence, dear doctor) that the fum of all your medical difcoveries amounts to this, that the more you ftudy the lefs you know.I have read all that has been written on the HotWells, and what I can collect from the whole, is that the water contains nothing but a little falt, and calcarious earth, mixed in fuch inconfiderable proportion, as can have very little, if any, effeat on the animal oeconomy. This being the cafe, I think, the man deferves to be fitted with a cap and bells, who, for fuch a paltry advantage as this fpring affords, facrifices his precious time, which might be employed in taking more effectual remedies, and expofes himfelf to the dirt, the ftench, the chilling blafts, and perpetual rains, that renderthis place to me intolerable. If thefe waters, from a fmall degree of aftringency, are of fome fervice in the diabetes, diurrbea, and nigbt fweats, when the fecretions are to much encreafed, muft not they do harm in the fame pro portion, where the humours are obftructed, as in the aftbma, fcurvy gout, and dropfy ? - Now we talk of the dropfy, here is a ftrange, fantaftical oddity, one of your brethren, who harangues every day in the pump. room, as if he was hired to give lectures on all fubjects whatfoever-I know not what make of him-Sometimes he makes fhrewd remarks; at other times, he talks like the greateft fimpleton in nature-He has read a great deal ; but without method or judgment, and digefted nothing. He believes every thing he has read; efpecially if it has any thing of the marvellous in it; and his converfation is a furprifing hotch potch of erudition and extravagance.-He told me t'other day, with great confidence, that my cafe was dropfical; or, as he called it, leucopblegmatic: A fure fign, that his want of experience is equal to his prefumption; for, you know, there is nothing analagous to the dropfy in my diforder-I wifh thofe impertinent fellows, with their ricketty underftandings, would keep their advice for thofe that afk it-Dropfy, indeed ! Sure I have not lived to the age of fiftyfive, and had fuch experience of my own diforder, and confulted you and other eminent phyficians, fo often, and fo long, to be undeceived by fuch a -But, without all doubt, the man is mad; and, therefore, what he fays is of no confequence. I had, yefterday, a vifit from Higgins; who came hither under the terror of your threats, and brought me as a prefent a brace of hares; which he owned he took in my own ground; and I could not perfuade the fellow that he did wrong, or that I would ever profecute him for poaching-I muft defire you will wink hard at the practifes of this rafcallion; otherwife I fhall be plagued with his prefents; which coft me more than they are worth
-If I could wonder at any thing Fitzowen does, I fhould be furprifed at his affurance, in defiring you to folicit my vote for him, at the next election for the county : for him, who oppofed me on the like occafion, with the moft illiberal com-petition-You may tell him civilly, that I beg to be excufed. Direct your next for me at Bath, whither I propofe to remove to-morrow; not only on my own account, but for the fake of my niece, Liddy, who is like to relapfe. The poor creature fell into a fit yefterday, while I was cheapening a pair of fpectacles, with a Jew-pedler.-I am afraid there is fomething ftill lurking in that little heart of her's; which I hope a change of objects will remove. Let me know what you think of this halfwitted Doctor's impertinent, ridiculous, and abfurd notion of my diforder-So far from being dropfical, I am as lank in the belly as a grey-hound; and, by meafuring my ancle with a pack-thread, I find the fwelling fubfides every day-From fuch, doctors, good Lord deliver us !-I have not yet taken any lorgings in Bath ; becaufe there we can be accommodated at a minute's warning, and I fhall choofe for myfelf-I need not fay your directions for drinking and bathing will be agreeable to,

> Dear Lewis,
yours ever,
Matt, Br.ambifis.

> P. S. I forgot to tell you, that my right ancle pits, a fymptom, as I take it, of its being oedematous, not leucopblegmatic.

To Mifs Letitia Willis, at Gloucefter.
Hot Well, April 21.

my dear letty,

I DID not intend to trouble you again, till we fhould be fettled at Bath; but having the occafion of Jarvis, I could not let it flip, efpecially as I have fomething extraordinary to communicate- O , my dear companion ! what fhall I tell you? for feveral days paft there was a Jew-looking man, that plied at the Wells with a box of fpectacles; and he always eyed me fo earneftly, that I began to be very uneafy. At laft, he came to our lodgings at Clifton, and lingered about the door, as if he wanted to fpeak to fomebody-I was feized with an odd kind of fluttering, and begged Win to throw herfelf in his way: but the poor girl has weak nerves, and was afraid of his beard. My uncle, having occafion for new glaffes, called him up fairs, and was trying a pair of feectacles, when the man, advancing to me faid, in a whifper-O gracious! what d'ye think he faid ? -"I am Willon !" His features ftruck me that very moment-it was Wilfon, fure enough ! but fo difguifed, that it would have been impoffible to know him, if my heart had not affifted in the difcovery. I was fo furprifed, and fo frightened, that I fainted away ; but foon recovered; and found myfelf fupported by him on the chair, while my uncle was runring about the room, with the fpectacles on his nofe calling for help. I had no oppor runity to fpeak to him; but our looks were fufficiently expreffive. He was payed for his glaffes, and went away. Then I told Win who he was, and fent her after him to the Pump-room; where fhe fpoke to him, and begged him in my name to withdraw from the place, that he might not incur the fufpicion of my uncle or my brother, if he did not want to fee me die of terror and vexation. The poor youth declared, with tears in his eyes, that he had fomething extraordinary to communicate ; and afked, if fhe would deliser a letter to me: but this fhe abfolutely refufed, by my order.-Finding her obftinate in her refufal, he defired the would tell me, that he was no longer a player, but a gentleman; in which character he would very foon avow his paffion for me, without fear of cenfure or reproach-Nay, he even difcovered his name and family; which, to my great grief, the fimple girl forgot, in the confufion occafioned by her being feen talking to him by my brother; who ftopt her on the road, and afked what bufinefs fhe had with that rafcally Jew -She pretended fhe was cheapening a ftay-hook; but was thrown into fuch a quandary, that fhe forgot the moft material part of the information; and when fhe came home, went into an hyfteric fit of laughing. This tranfaction happened three days ago, during which he has not appeared; fo that I fuppofe he is gone. Dear Letty! you fee how Fortune takes pleafure in perfecuting your poor friend. If you fhould fee him at Gloucefter-or if you have feen him, and know his real name and family, pray keep me no longer in fufpence-And yet, if he is under no obligation to keep himfelf longer concealed, and has a real affection for me, I fhould hope he will, in a little time, declare himfelf to my relations. Sure, if there is nothing unfuitable in the match, they won't be fo cruel as to thwart my inclinations- $\mathbf{O}$, what happinefs would then be my portion! I can't help indulging the thought, and pleafing my fancy with fuch agreeable ideas; which, after all, perhaps, will never be realiied-But, why fhould I defpair ? who knows what will happen i-We fet out for Bath to-morrow, and I am almoft forry for it ; as I begin to be in love with folitude, and this is a charming romantic place. The air is fo pure ; the Downs are fo agreeable; the furze in full bloffom; the ground enamelled with daifies, and primrofes, and cowflips; all the trees burfting into leaves, and the hedges already cloathed with their vernal livery; the mountains covered with flocks of fheep, and tender bleating wanton lambkins playing, frifking and fkipping from fide to fide; the groves refound with the notes of black-bind, thrufh, and linnet; and all night long fweet Philomel pours forth her ravifhingly delightful fong. Then, for variety, we go down to the nyn pb of Briffol Spring, where the company is affembled before dinner ; fo goodnatured, fo free, fo eafy; and there we drink the water fo clear, fo pure, fo mild, fo charmingly maukifh. There the fun is fo chearful and reviving; the weather fo foft ; the walk fo agreeable; the profpect fo amufing : and the fhips and boats going up and down the river, clofe under the windows of the Pump-room, afford fuch an enchanting varisty of moveing pictures, as require a much abler pen than mine to defcribe. To make this place a perfect paradife to me, nothing is wanting but an agreeable companion and fincere friend; fuch as my dear mifs Willis hath been, and I hope ftill will be, to her ever faithful

Lydia Melforb.

Direct for me, fill under cover, to Win ; and Jarvis will take care to convey it fafe. Adieu.

To Sir Watkin Phillips, of Jefus college,Oxon.

Bath, April 24.

DEAR PHILEIPS,

YOU have, indeed, reafon to be furprifed, that I fhould have concealed my correfpondence with mifs Blakerby from you, to whom I difclofed all my other connections of that nature ; but the truth is, I never dreamed of any fuch commerce, till your laft informed me, that it had produced fomething which could not be much longer concealed. It is a lucky circumftance, however, that her reputation will not fuffer any detriment, but rather derive advantage from the difcovery ; which will prove, at leaft, that it is not quite fo rotten, as moft people imagined-For my own part, I declare to you, in all the fincerity of friendfhip, that far from having any amorous intercourfe with the object in queftion I never had the leaft acquaintance with her perIon; but, if the is really in the condition you defrribe, I fufpect Manfel to be at the bottom of the whole. His vifits to that fhrine were no fecret; and this attachment, added to fome good offices, which you know he has done me, fince I left Alma-mater, give me a right to belive him capable of faddling me with this fcandal, when my back was turned -Neverthelefs, if my name can be of any fervice to him, he is welcome to make ufe of it; and if the woman fhould be abandoned enough to fwear his bantling to me, I muft beg the favour of you to compound with the parim: I fhall pay the penalty without repining; and you will be fo good as to draw upon me immediately for the fum required -On this occafion, I act by the advice of my un- through life without being obliged to make many more compofitions of the fame kind. The old gentleman told me laft night, with great good humour that betwixt the age of twenty and forty, he had been obliged to provide for nine baftards, fworn to him by women whom he never faw-Mr. Bramble's character, which feems to intereft you greatly, opens and improves upon me every day.His fingularities afford a rich mine of entertainment : his underftanding, fo far as I can judge, is well cultivated : his obfervations on life are equally juft, pertinent, and uncommon. He affects mifanthrophy, in order to conceal the fenfibility of a heart, which is tender, evell to a degree of weaknefs, This delicacy of feeling, or forenefs of the mind makes him timorous and fearful; but then he is afraid of nothing fo much as of difhonour; and although he is exceedingly cautious of giving offence, he will fire at the leaft hint of infolence or ill-breeding-Refpectable as he is, upon the whole, I can't help being fometimes diverted by his little diffreffes; which provoke him to let fly the fhafts of his fat $\because$, keen ard penetrating as the arrows of Teucer-Our aunt, Tabitha, acts upon him as a perpetual grind-ftone-She is, in all refpects, a ftriking contraft to her brother-But I referve her portrait for another occafion,

Three days ago we came hither from the Hot Well, and took poffeffion of the firft floor of a lodging-houfe, on the South Parade ; a fituation which my uncle chofe, for its being near the Bath, and remote from the noife of carriages. He was fcarce warm in the lodgings when he called for his night cap, his wide fhoes and flannel ; and declared himfelf invefted with the gout in his right foot; though, I believe, it had as yet reached no farther than his imagination. It was not long before he had reafon to repent his premature declaration ; for our aunt Tabitha found means to make fuch a clamour and confufion, before the flannels could be produced from the trunk, that one would have imagined the houfe was on fire. All this time, uncle fat boiling with impatience, biting his fingers, throwing up his eyes, and muttering ejaculations; at length he burft into a kind of convulfive laugh, after which he hummed a fong; and when the hurricane was over, exclaimed, "Bleffed be God "for all things !" This, however, was but the begining of his troubles. Mrs. Tabitha's favourite dog Chowder, having paid his compliments to a female turn-fpit, of his own fpecies, in the kitchen, involved himfelf in a quarrel with no fewer than five rivals, who fet upon him at once, and drove him up ftairs to the dining-room door, with hideous noife : there our aunt and her woman, taking arms in his defence, joined the concert; which became truly diabolical. This fray being with difficulty fuppreffed, by the intervention of our own foot-man and the cook-maid of the houfe, the 'fquire had juft opened his mouth to expoftulate with Tabby, when the town-waits, in the paffage below, ftruck up their mufick, (if mufick it may be called) with fuch a fudden burft of found, as made him ftart and ftare, with marks of indignation and difquiet. He had recollection enough to fend his fervant with fome money to filence thofe noify intruders ; and they were immediately difmiffed, though not without fome oppofition on the part of Tabitha, who thought it but reafonable that he fhould have more mufick for his money. Scarce hat he fettled this knotty point, when a ftrange kind of thumping and bouncing was heard right over-head, in the fecond ftory, fo loud and violent as to fhakethe whole building. I own I was exceedingly provoked at this new alarm; and before my uncle had time to exprefs himfelf on the fabjea I ran up ftairs, to fee what was the matter. Finding the room-door open, I entered without ceremony, and perceived an object, which I cannot now recolleet vithout laughing to excefs-It was a dancing mafter, with his fcholar, in the act of teaching. The mafter was blind of one eye, and lame of one foot, and led about the room his pupil, who feemed to be about the age of three-fcore, ftooped mortally, was tall, raw-boned, hard-favoured, with a woolen night cap on his head; and he had ftript off his coat, that he might be more nimble in his motions-Finding himfelf intruded upon, by a perfon he did not know, he forthwith girded himfelf with a long iron fword, and advancing to me, with a peremtory air, pronounced, in a true Hibernian accent, " Mifter What dyye cal " lum, by my fhoul and confcience, I am yery "glad to fea you, if you are after coming in the " way of friendhip; and indeed and indeed now "I believe you are my friend fure enough, gra ; "t though I never had the honour to fea your face " before, my dear ; for becaafe you come like a " friend, without any ceremony at all, at all-" I told him the nature of my vifit would not admit of ceremony; that I was come to defire he would make lefs noife, as there was a fick gentleman below whom he had no right to difturb with fucb prepofterous doings. "Why, look-ye - now, young " gentleman, (replied this original) perhaps, upon "another occafion, I might fhivilly requeft you to "e explain the maining of that hard word, prepaf"terous ; but there's a time for all things, ho-"ney-" So faying, te paffed me with great agility, ard, running down ffairs, found our tootman at the dining. room coor, of whom he demanded admittance, to pay his refpects to the ffranger. As the fellow did not think proper to refufe the requeft drequeft of fuch a formidable figure, he was immediately introduced, and addreffed himfelf to my uncle in thefe words: " Your humble fervant, "good fir-I'm not fo prepaflerous, as your fon calls it, but I know the rules of fhivility - I'm 66 a Poor knight of Ireland, my name is Sir Ulic ' Mackilligut, of the county of Galway; being *s your fellow-lodger, I'm come to pay my ref" pects, and to welcome you to the South Parade, © and to offer my beft fervices to yon, and your " good lady, and your pretty daughter ; and even " to the young gentleman your fon, though he " thinks me a prepafterous fellow-You muft "6 know I am to have the honour to open a ball next " door to morrow with lady Mac Manus; and © being rafted in my dancing, I was refrefhing my is memory with a little exercife; but if I had ' $\epsilon$ known there was a fick perfon below, by Chrift ! - I would have fooner danced a hornpipe upon my " own head, than walk the fofteft minuet over " yours."-My uncle, who was not a little ftartled at his firft appearance, received his compliment with great complacency, infifted upon his being feated, thanked him for the honour of his vifit, and reprimanded me for my abrupt expoftulation with a gentleman of his rank and character. This tutored, I afked pardon of the knight, who, forthwith flarting up, embraced me fo clofe, that I could hardly breathe; and affured me, he loved me as his own foul. At length, recollecting his night-cap, he pulled it off in fome confufion; and, with his bald-pate uncovered, made a thoufand apologies to the ladies, as he retired-At that inftant, the Abbey bells began to ring fo loud, that we could not hear one another fpeak; and this peal, as we afierwards learned, was for the honour of Mr. Bullock, an eminent cow keeper of Tottenham, who had juft arrived at Bath, to drink the waters for indigeftion. Mr.

46 The EXPEDITION of

Bramble

Bramble had not time to make his remarks upon the agreeable nature of this ferenade, before his ears were faluted with another concert that interefted him more nearly. Two negroes belonging to a Creole gentleman, who lodged in the fame houfe, taking their ftation at a window in the fair-cafe about ten feet from our dining-room door, began to practife upon the French-horn; and being in the very firft rudiments of execution, produced fuch difcordant founds, as might have difcompofed the organs of an afs_You may guefs what effect they had upon the irritable nerves of uncle: who, with the moft admirable expreffion of fplenetic furprize in his countenance, fent his man to filence thofe dreadful blafts, and defire the muficians to practife in fome other place, as they had no right to ftand there and difturb all the lodgers in the houfe. Thofe fable performers, far from taking the hint, and withdrawing treated the meffenger with great infolence; bidding him carry his compliments to their mafter, colonel Rigworm, who would give him a proper anfwer, and a good drubbing into the bargain; in the mean time they continued their noife, and even endeavoured to make it more difagreeable; laughing between whiles, at the thoughts of being able to torment their betters with impunity Qur 'fquire, incenfed at the additional infult, immediately difpatched the fervant, with his compliments to colonel Rigworm; requefting that he would order bis blacks to be quiet, as the noife they made was altogether intolerable-to this meffage, the Creole colonel replied, that his horns had a right to found on a common ftair-cafe; that there they fhould play for his diverfion; and that thofe who did not like the noife, might look for lodgings elfewhere. Mr. Bramble no fooner received this reply than his eyes began to gliften, his face grew pale, and his teeth chattered. After a moment's paufe, he flipt on his fhoes, without fpeaking a word, or feeming to feel any further difturbance from the gout in his toes. Then, finatching his cane, he opened the door and proceeded to the place where the black trumpeters were pofted. There, without further hefitation, he began to belabour them both; and exerted himfelf with fuch aftonifhing vigour and agility, that both their heads and horns were broken in a twinkling, and they ran howling down ftairs to their mafter's parlour door. The 'fquire, following them half way, called aloud, that the colonel might hear him, "Go, rafeals, and tell "s your mafter what I have done; if he thinks him". felf injured, he knows where to come for fatifs 's faction. As for you, this is but an earneft of 's what you fhall receive, if ever you prefume to " blow a horn again here, while I ftay in the " houfe." So faying, he retired to his apartment, in expectation of hearing fiom the Weft Indian; but the colonel prudently declined any farther profecution of the difpute. My fifter Liddy was frighted into a fit, of which fle was no fooner recovered, than Mrs. Tabitha began a lecture upon patience; which her brother interrupted with a moft fignificant grin, exclaiming, "True, fifter, God " increafe my patience and your difcretion. I " wonder (added he) what fort of fonata we are to " expect from this overture, in which the devil, " that prefides over horrid founds, hath given us " fuch variations of difcord-The trampling of " porters, the creaking and crafhing of trunks, the "f fnarling of curs, the fcolding of women, the " qqueaking and fqualling of fiddles and hautboys " 6 out of tune, the bouncing of the Irifh baronet " over-head, and the burfting, belching, and brat"t tling of the French-horns in the paffage (not to " mention the harmonious peal that ftill thunders 's from the Aoby fteeple) fuccecding one another Vol. I.
's without
" without interruption, like the different parts of " the fame concert, have given me fuch an idea of " what a poor invalid has to expect in this temple, "r dedicated to Silence and Repofe, that I fhall cer"tainly fhift my quarters to-morrow, and endea-es vour to effectuate my retreat before Sir Ulic
" opens the ball with my lady Mac Manus; a "conjunction that bodes-me no good." This intimation was by no means agreeable to Mrs. Tabitha, whofe ears were not quite fo delicate as thofe of her brother-She faid it would be a great folly to move from fuch agreeable lodgings, the moment they were comfortably fettled. She wondered he fhould be fuch an enemy to mufick and mirth. She heard no noife but of his own making : it was impoffible to manage a family in dumb-fhew. He might harp as long as he pleafed upon her fcolding; but fhe never fcolded, except for his advantage; but he would never be fatisfied, even tho'f the fhould fweat blood and water in his fervice -I have a great notion that our aunt, who is now declining into the moft defperate fate of celibacy had formed fome defign upon the heart of Sir Ulic Mackilligut, which fhe feared might be fruftrated by our abrept departure from thefe lodgings. Her brother, eyeing her afkance, "Pardon me, fifter, cr. (faid he) I fhould be a favage, indeed, were I " infenfible of my own felicity, in having fuch a ce mild, complacent, good-humoured, and confito derate companion and houfe-keeper; but as I "cthave got a weak head, and my fenfe of hearing is * painfully acuite, before I have recourfe to plugs of "thool and cotton, I'll try whether I can't find " another lodging, where I thall have more quiet "thdle's mufick." He accordingly difpatched his man upon this fervice ; and next day he found a finyll houfe in Milflam-ftreet, which he hires by the week. Here, at leaft, we enjoy covenience Ju

HUMPHRYCLINKER.

and quiet within doors, as much as Tabby's temper will allow; but the 'fquire ftill complains of flying pains in the ftomach and head, for which he bathes and drinks the waters. He is not fo bad, however, but that he goes in perfon to the pump, the rooms, and the coffee-houfes; where he picks up continual food for ridicule and fatire. If I can glean any thing for your amufement, either from his obfervation or my own, you fhall have it freely though I am afraid it will poorly compenfate the *rouble of reading thefe tedious infipid letters of,

Dear Philips,
yours always,
J. Melford.

To Dr. Lewis.

Bath, April, 23
DEAR DOCTOR,
IF I did not know that the exercife of you profeffion has habituated you to the hearing o complaints, I fhould make a confcience of troubling you with my correfpondence, which may be truly called the lamentations of Mattbew Bramble. Ye I cannot help thinking, I have fome right to difcharge the overflowings of my fpleen upon you, whofe province it is to remove thofe diforders that occafioned it ; and let me tell you, it is no fmall allevation of my grievances, that I have a fenfible friend to whom I can communicate my crufty humours, which, by retention, would grow intolerably acrimonious.

You muft know, I find nothing but difappointment at Bath ; which is fo altered, that I can fcarce believe it is the fame place that I frequented about thirty years ago. Methinks I hear you fay, " Altered it is, without all doubt; but then it is " altered for the better; a truth which, perhaps "you would own without hefitation, if you your"f felf was not altered for the worfe." The reflection may, for aught I know, be juft. The inconveniences which I overlooked in the high-day of health, will naturally ftrike with exaggerated impreffion on the irritable nerves of an invalid, furprifed by premature old age, and fhattered with long-fuffering-But, I believe, you will not deny, that this place, which Nature and Providence feem to have intended as a refource from diftemper and difquiet, is become the very centre of racket and diflipation. Inftead of that peace, tranquillity and eafe, fo neceffary to thofe who labour under bad health, weak nerves, and irregular fpirits; here we have nothing but noife, tumult, and hurry; with the fatigue and flavery of maintaining a ceremonial, more ftiff, formal, and oppreffive, than the etiquette of a German elector. A national hofpital it may be ; but one would imagine, that none but lunaticks are admitted; and truly, I will give you leave to call me fo, If Iftay much longer at Bath.-But I fhall take another opportunity to explain my fentiment at greater length on this fub-ject-I was impatient to fee the boafted improve.ments in architecture, for which the upper parts of the town have been fo much celebrated, and, t'other day I made a circuit of all the new buildings. The Square, though irregular, is, on the whole pretty well laid out, fpacious, open, and airy ; and, in my opinion, by far the moft wholfome and agreeable fituation in Bath, efpecially the upper fide of it ; but the avenues to it are mean, dirty, dangerous, and indirect. Its communication with the Baths, is through the yard of an inn, where the poor trembling valetudinarian is carried in a chair, betwixt the heels of a double row of horfes, wincing under the curry-combs of grooms and poftilions, over and above the hazard of being obftructed, or overturned by the carriages which are continually making their exit or their entrance-I fuppofe after fome chairmen Thall have been maimed, and a few lives loft by thofe accidents, the corporation will think in earneft about providing a more fafe and commodious paffage. The Circus is a pretty bauble ; contrived for fhew, and looks like Vefpafian's amphitheatre turned outfide in. If we confider it in point of magnificence, the great number of fmall doors belonging to the feperate houfes, the inconfiderable height of the different orders, the affected ornaments of the architrave, which are both childifh and mifplaced, and the areas projecting into the ftreet, furrounded with iron rails, deftroy a good part of its effect upon the eye; and, perhaps, we fhall find it ftill more defective, if we view it in the light of convenience. The figure of each feperate dwelling houfe, being the fegment of a circle, muft fpoil the fymmetry of the rooms, by contracting them towards the ffreet windows, and leaving a larger fweep in the fpace behind. If inftead of the areas and iron rails, which feem to be of very little ufe, there had been a corridore with arcades all round, as in Covent-Garden, the appearance of the whole would have been more magnificent and ftriking; thofe arcades would have afforded an agreeable covered walk, and fheltered the poor chairmen and their carriages from the rain, which is here almoft perpetual. At prefent, the chairs ftand foaking in the open ftreet, from morning to night, till they become fo many boxes of weat leather, for the benefit of the gouty and rheumatic, who are tranfported in them from place to place. Indeed this is a fhocking inconvenience, that extends over the whole city; and, I am perfuaded, it produces infinite mifchief to the delicate and infirm; even the clofe chairs, contrived for the fick, by ftanding in the openair, have their frize linings impregnated like fo many fpunges, with the moifture of the atmofphere, and thofe cafes of cold vapour muft give a charming check to the perfpiration of a patient, piping hot from the Bath, with all his pores wide open.

But, to return to the Circus : it is inconveinent from its fituation, at fo great a diftance from all the markets, baths, and places of public entertainment. The only entrance to it, through Gay-ftreet, is fo difficult, fteep, and flippery, that, in wet weather, it muft be exceedingly dangerous, both for thofe that ride in carriages, and thofe that walk a-foot; and when the ftreet is covered with fnow, as it was for fifteen days fucceffively this very win, ter, I don't fee how any individual could go either up or down, without the moft imminent hazard of broken bones. In blowing weather, I am told, moft of the houfes in this hill are fmothered with fmoke, forced down the chimneys, by the gufts of wind reverberated from the bill behind, which (I apprehend likewife) muft render the atmofphere here more humid and unwholfome than it is in the fquare below; for the clouds, formed by the conftant evaporation from the baths and rivers in the bottom, will, in their afcent this way, be firft attracted and detained by the hill that rifes clofe behind the Circus, and load the air with a perpetual fucceffion of vapours: this point, however, may be eafily afcertained by means of an hygrometer, or a paper of falt of tartar expofed to the action of the atmofphere. The fame artift, who planned the Circus, has likewife projected a Crefcent; when that is finifhed, we fhall probably have a ftar; and thofe who are living thirty years hence, may perhaps, fee all the figns of the Zodiac exhibited in architecture at Bath. Thefe, however fantaftical, are ftill defigns that denote fome ingenuity and knowledge in the architect ; but the rage of building has laid hold on fuch a number of adventurers, that one fees new houfes ftarting up in every outlet and every corner of Bath ; contrived without judgment, executed without folidity, and ftuck together with fo little regard to plan and propriety, that the different lines of the new rows and buildings interfere with, and interfect one another in every different angle of conjunction. They look like the wreck of ftreets and fquares disjointed by an earthquake, which hath broken the ground into a variety of holes and hillocks ; or, as if fome Gothic devil had ftuffed them altogether in a bag, and left them to ftand higgledy piggledy, juft as chance directed. What fort of a monder Bath will become in a few years, with thofe growing excrefcences, may be eafily conceived: but the want of beauty and proportion is not the worft effect of thefe new manfions; they are built fo night, with the foft crumbling fone found in this neighbourhood, that I fould never fleep quietly in one of them, when it blowed (as the failors fay) a cap-full of wind; and, I am perfuaded, that my hind, Roger Williams, or any man of equal ftrength, would be able to pufh his foot through the ftrongeft part of their walls, without any great exertion of his mufcles. All thefe abfurditics arife from the general tide of luxury, which hath overfpread the ration, and fwept away all, even the very dregs of the people. Every upftart of fortune, harnaffed in the trappings of the mode, prefents himfelf at Bath, as in the very focus of ob-lervation-Clerks and factors from the Eaft Indies, loaded with the foil of plundered provinces ; planters, negro-drivers, and huckfters, from our American plantations, enriched they know not how; agents, commiffaries, and contractors, who have fattened, in two fucceffive wars, on the blood of the nation; ufurers, brokers, and jobbers of every kind ; men of low birth, and no breeding, have found themfelves fuddenly tranflated into a ftate of affluence, unknown to former ages; and no wonder that their brains fhould be intoxicated with pride, vanity, and prefumption. Knowing no other criterion of greatnefs, but the oftentation of wealth, they difcharge ' iir affluence without tafte or conduct, through every channel of the moft abfurd extravagance : and all of them hurry to Bath. becaufe here, without any further qualification, they can mingle with the princes and nobles of the land. Even the wives and daughters of low tradefmen, who, like fhovel-nofed fharks, prey upon the blubber of thofe uncouth whales of fortune, are infected with the fame rage of difplaying their importance; and the flighteft indifpofition ferves them for a pretext to infift upon being conveyed to Bath, where they may hobble country dances and cotillons among lordlings, 'fquires, counfellors, and clergy. Thefe. delicate creatures from Bedfordbury, Butcher-row, Crutched-Friars, and Botolph-lane, cannot Breathe in the grofs air of the Lower Town, or conform to the vulgar rules of a common lodging-houfe; the hufband, therefore, muft provide an entire houfe, or elegant apartments in the new buildings. Such is the compofition of what is called the fafhionable company at Bath; where a very inconfiderable proportion of genteel people are loft in a mob of impudent plebeians, who have neither underftanding nor judgment, nor the leaft idea of propriety and decorum; and feem to enjoy nothing fo much as an opportanity of infulting their betters.

C 4

Thus the number of people, and the number of houfes, continue to increafe; and this will ever be the cafe, till the ftreams that fwell this irrefiftible torrent of folly and extravagance, fhall either be exhaufted, or turned into other channels, by incidents and events which I do not pretend to forefee. This, I own, is a fubject on which I cannot write with any degree of patience; for the mob is a monfter I never could abide, either in its head, tail, midriff, or members : I deteft the whole of it, as a mals of ignorance, prefumption, malice, and brutality ; and, in this term of reprobation, I include, without refpect of rank, ftation, or quality, all. thofe of both fexes, who affect its manners, and court its fociety.

But I have written till my fingers are crampt, and my naurea begins to return-By your advice, I fent to London a few days ago for half a pound of Gengzeng; though I doubt much, whether that C5. which

58 The EXPEDition of which comes from America is equally efficacious with what is brought from the Eaft Indies. Some years ago, a friend of mine paid fixteen guineas for two ounces of it; and, in fix months after, it was fold in the fame fhop for five fhillings the pound. In fhort, we live in a vile world of fraud and fophiftication; fo that I know nothing of equal value with the genuine friend hip of a fenfible man; a rare jewel ! which I cannot help thinking myfelf in poffeffion of, while I repeat the old declaration, that I am, as ufual,

Dear Lewis,  Your affectionate  M. Bramble.

After having been agitated in a fhort hurricane, on my firft arrival, I have taken a frall houfe in Mifham-ftreet, where I am tolerably well lodged, for five guineas a week. I was yefterday at the Pump-room, and drank about a pint of the water, which feems to agree with my ftomach; and to-morrow morning I fhall bathe, for the firft time ; fo that in a few pofts you may expect farther trouble; mean while, I am glad to find that the inoculation has fucceeded fo well with poor Joyce, and that her face will be but little marked-If my friend Sir Thomas was a fingle man, I would not truft fuch a handfome wench in his family; but as I have recommended her, in a particular manner, to the protection of lady G-, who is one of the beft women in the world, fhe may go thither without hefitation, as foon as fhe is quite recovered, and fit for ferviceLet her mother have money to provide her with neceffaries, and the may ride behind her brother on Bucks; but you muft lay ftrong injunctions on Jack, to take particular care of his trufty old veteran, who has faithfully earned his prefent eafe, by his paft fervices.

To Mifs Wiliss, at Gloucefter.

Bath, April 26.

MY DEAREST COMPANION,
THE pleafure I received from yours, which: came to hand.yefterday, is not to be expreffed. Love and friendfhip are, without doubt, charming paffions; which abfence ferve only to heighten and improve. Your kind prefent of the garnet bracelet, I fhall keep as carefully as I preferve my own life; and I beg you will accept, in return, of my heart-, houfewife, with the tortoife-fhell memorandumbook, as a trifling pledge of my unalterable affection.

Bath is to me a new world -All is gayety, good-humour, and diverfion. The eye is continually entertained with the fplendor of drefs and equipage ; and the ear with the found of coaches, chaies, chairs, and other carriages. Tbe merry bells ring round, from morning till night. Then we are welcomed by the city waits in our own lodging: we have mufick in the pump-room every morning, cotillons every fore-noon in the rooms, balls twice a week, and concerts every other night, befides private affemblies and parties without number-As foon as we were fettled in lodgings, we were vifited by the mafter of the Ceremonies ; pretty littlo gentleman, fo fweet, fo fine, fo civil, and polite, that in our country he might pafs for the prince of Wales, then he talks fo charmingly, hoth in verfe and profe, that you would be delighted to hear him difcourfe; for you muft know he is a great writer, and has got five tragedies ready for the ftage. He did us the favour to dine with us, by my uncle's invitation, and next day 'fquired my aunt and me to every parth of Bath; which to be fure is an earth$l_{y}$ paradife. The Square, the Circus, and the Parades put you in mind of the fumptuous palaces reprefented in prints and pictures; and the new buildings, fuch as Princes-row, Harleq in's-row, Bladud's-row, and twenty other rows, look like fo many enchanted caftles, raifed on hanging terraces.

At eight in the morning, we go in difhabille to the Pump-room ; which is crowded like a Welfh fair; and there you fee the higheft quality, and the loweft trades folks, joftling each other, without ceremony, hail fellow well met. The noife of the mufick playing in the gallery, the heat and flavour of fuch a crowd, and the hum and buz of their converfation, gave me the head-ach and virtigo the firft day; but afterwards, all thefe things became familiar, aud even agreeable.-Right under the Pump room windows is the King's Bath ; a huge ciftern, where you fee the patients up to their necks in hot water. The ladies wair jackets and petticoats of brown linen, with chip hats, in which they fix their handkerchiefs to wipe the fweat from their faces; but, truly, whether it is owing to the fteam that furrounds them, or the teat of the water, or the nature of the drefs, or to all thefe caufes together, they look fo flufhed, and fo frightful, that I always turn my eyes another way-My aunt, who fays every perfon of fathion fhould make her appearance in the bath, as well as in the abby church, contrived a cap with cherry-coloured ribands to fuit her complection, and obliged Win to attend her yefterday morning in the water. But really, hen eyes were fo red, that they made mine water as I viewed her from the Pump-room; and as for poor Win, who wore a hat timmed with blue, whatbetwixt her wan complection and her fear, fhe looked like the ghoft of fome pale maiden, who bad drowned herfelf for love. When fhe came out of the bath, fhe took affafcetida drops, and was fluttered all day; fo that we could hardly keep her from going into hyfterics: but her miftrefs fays it will do her good; and poor Win curtfies, with the tears in her eyes. For my part, I content myfelf with drinking about half a pint of the water every morning.

The pumper, with his wife and fervant, attend within a bar; and the glaffes, of different fizes, ftand ranged in order before them, fo that you have nothing to do but to point at that which you choofe, and it is filled immediately, hot and fparkling from the pump. It is the only hot water I could ever drink, without being fick-Far from having that effect, it is rather agreable to the tafte, grateful to the fomach, and reviving to the fpirits. You cannot imagine what wonderful cures it performsMy uncle began with it the other day; but he made wry faces in drinking, and I'm afraid he will leave it off-The firft day we came to Bath, he fell into a violent paffion; beat two black-a-moors, and I was afraid he would have fought with their mafter ; but the ftranger proved a peaceable man. To be fure, the gout had got into his head, as my aunt obferved : but, I believe, his paffion drove it away; for he has been remarkably well ever fince. it is a thoufand pities he thould ever be troubled with that ugly diftemper; for, when he is free from pain, he is the beft tempered man upon earth; fo gentle, fo generous, fo charitable, that every body loves him ; and fo good to me, in particular, that I fhall never be able to fhew the deep fenfe I have of his tendernefs and affection.

Hard by the pump room, is a coffee houlie for the ladies; but my aunt fays, young girls are not admitted, inafmuch as the converfation turns upon politics, fcandal, philofophy, and other fubjects above our capacity; but we are allowed to accompany them to the bookfellers fhops, which are charming charming places of refort; where we read novels, plays, pamphlets, and news papers, for fo fmall a fubicription as a crown a quarter; and in thefe offices of inteiligence, (as my brother calls them) all the reports of the day, and all the private tranfactions of the Bath, are firft entered and difcuffed. From the bookfeller's fhop, we make a tour through the milliners and toy-men; and commonly ftop at Mr Gill's, the paftry-cook, to take a jelly, a tart, or a fmall bafon of vermicelli. There is, moreover, another place of entertainment on the other fide of the water, oppofite to the Grove; to which the company crofs over in a boat - It is called Spring Garden; a fweet retreat, laid out in walks and ponds, and parterres of flowers; and there is a long room for breakfarting and dancing. As the fituation is low and damp, and the feafon has been remarkably wet, my uncle won't fuffer me to go thither, left I fhould catch cold : but my aunt fays it is all a vulgar prejudice; and, to be fure, a great many gentlemen and ladies of Ireland frequent the place, without feeming to be the worfe for it. They fay, dancing at Spring Gardens, when the air is moift, is recommended to them as an excellent cure for the rheumacifm. I have been twice at the play; where, notwithftanding the excellence of the performers, the gaiety of the company, and the decorations of the theatre, which are very fine, I could not help reflecting, with a figh, upon ourpoor homely reprefentations at Gloucefter-But this, in confidence to my dear Willis-You know my heart and will excufe its weaknefs.

After all, the great fcenes of entertainment at Bath, are the two public rooms; where the company meet alternately every evening-They are fpacious, lofty, and when lighted up, appear very ftriking. 'I hey are generally crowded with well-dreffed people, who drink tea in feperate parties, playat cards, cards, walk, or fit and chat together, juft as they are difpofed. Twice a week there is a ball; the expence of which is defrayed by a voluntary fubfcription among the gentlemen; and every fubfcriber has three tickets. I was there Friday laft with my aunt, under the care of my brother, who is a fubtcriber; and Sir Ulic Mackilligut recommended his nephew, captain O Donaghan, to me as a partner ; but Jery excufed himfelf, by faying I had got the head-ach; and, indeed, it was really fo, though I can't imagine how he knew it. The place was fo hot, and the fmell fo different from what we are ufed to in the country, that I was quite feverifh when we came away. Aunt fays it is the effect of a vulgar conftitution, reared among woods and mountains; and, that as I beçome accuftomed to genteel company, it will wear off-Sir Ulic was very complaifant, made her a great many highflown compliments; and when we retired, handed her with great ceremony to her chair. The captain, I believe, would have done me the fame favour; but my brother, feeing him advance, took me under his arm, and wifhed him good-night. The captain is a pretty man, to be fure; tall and ftrait, and well made; with light-grey eyes, and a Roman nofe; but there is a certain boldnefs in his look and manner, that puts one out of counte-nance-But I am afraid I have put you out of all patience with this long unconnected fcrawl; which I fhall therefore conclude, with affuring you, that neither Bath nor London, nor all the diverfions of life fhall ever be able to efface the idea of my dear Letty, from the heart of her ever affectionate

> Lydia Melford.

To Mrs. Mary Jones, at Brambleton-hall.
dear molly jones,
HEAVING got a frank, I now return your fever, which I received by Mr. Higgins, at the Hot Well, together with the fockings, which his wife footed for me; but now they are of no furvice. No body wears fuch things in this place-O Molly ! you that live in the country have no deception of our doings at Bath. Here is fuch dreffing, and fidling, and dancing, and gadding, and courting, and plotting-O gracious ! if God had not given me a good ftock of difcretion, what a power of things might not I revȩal, confarning old miftrefs and young miftrefs; Jews with beards, that were no Jews; but handfome Chriftians, without a hair upon their fin, ftrolling with fpectacles, to get fpeech of Mifs Liddy. But fhe's a dear fweet foul, as innocent as the child unborn. She has tould me all her inward thoughts, and difclofed her paffion for Mr. Wilfon; and that's not his name neither ; and thof he acted among the player-men, he is meat for their mafters; and fe has gi'en me her yallow trollopea; which Mrs. Drab, the manty-maker, fays will look very well when it is foowred and fmoaked with filfur-You knows as how, yallow fitts my fizzogmony. God he knows what havock I fhall make among the mail-fex, when I make my firft appearance in this killing collar, with a full foct of gaze, as gcod as new, that I bought laft. Friday of madam Friponeau, the French mullaner - Dear girl, I have feen all the fine fhews of Bath; the Pracies, the Squires, and the Circlis, the Crafhit, the Hottogon, and bloody Buildings, and Harry King's row; and I have been twice in the Bath with with miftrefs, and na'r a fmoak upon our backs, hufly - The firft time I was mortally afraid, and fluftered all day; and afterwards made believe that I had got the heddick; but miftrefs faid, if I did'nt go, I fhould take a dofe of bum-taffy; and fo remembring how it worked Mrs. Gwyllim a pennorth, I chofe rather to go again with her into the Bath, and then I met with an axident. I dropt my petticoat, and could not get it up from the bottom -But what did that fignify? they mought laff, but they could fee nothing; for I was up to the fin in water. To be fure, it threw me into fuch a gumbuftion, that I know not what I faid, nor what 1 did, nor how they got me out, and rapt me in a blanket-Mrs. Tabitha fcoulded a little when we got home; but fhe knows as I know what's whatAh Laud help you!-There is Sir Yury Micligut, of Balnaclinch, in the cunty of Kalloway-I took do'vn the name from his gentleman, Mr. O Frizzle, and he has got an eftate of fifteen hundred a year -I am fure he is both rich and generous-But you nofe, Molly, I was always famous for keeping lecrets; and fo he was very fafe in trufting me with his flegm for miftrefs; which, to be fure, is very honourable; for Mr. O Frizzle affures me, he values not her portion a brafs varthing - And, indeed, what's poor ten thoufand pounds to a Baron Knight of his fortune ? and, truly, I told Mr. O Frizzle, that was all the had to truft to-As for John Thomas, he's a morafs fellor-I vow, I thought he would a fit with Mr. O Frizzle, becaufe he axed me to dance with him at Spring Garden-But God he knows I have no thoughts eyther of wan or t'other.

As for houfe news, the worft is, Chowder has fallen off greatly from his ftomick-He eats nothing but white meats, and not much of that ; and wheezes, and feems to be much bloated. The doctors turn, the will fartainly carry him to Aberga'nny, to drink goats's-whey - To be fure, the poor dear honymil is loft for want of axercife; for which reafon, fhe intends to give him an airing once a-day upon the Downs, in a poft chaife-I have already made very creditable correxions in this here place; where, to be fure, we have the very fquintafenfe of fatiety—Mrs. Patcher, my lady Kilmacullock's woman, and I are fworn fifters. She has fhewn me all her fecrets, and learned me to wafh gaze, and refrafh ruity filks and bumbefeens, by boiling them with vinegar, chamberlye, and ftale beer. My fhort fack and apron luck as good as new from the fhop, and my pumpydoor as frefh as a rofe, by the help of turtle-water-But this is all Greek and Latten to you, Molly-If we fhould come to Aberga'nny, you'll be within a day's ride of us; and then we fhall fee wan another, pleafe God-If not, remember me in your prayers, as I fhall do by you in mine; and take care of my kitten, and give my kind farvice to Saul; and this is all at prefent, from your beloved friend and farvent,

Bath, April 26.
Winifred Jenkins.

To Mrs. Gwyilim, houfe-keeper at Bramble-ton-hall.

I AM aftonifhed, that Dr. Lewis fhould take upon him to give away Alderney, without my privity and concurrants-What fignifies my brother's order ? My brother is little better than Noncompufh. He would give away the fhirt off his back, and the teeth out of his head; nay, as for that matter, he would have ruinated the family with his riciculous charities, if it had not been for my four quarters-What between his willfulnefs and his wafte, his trumps, and his frenzy, I lead the life of an indented flave. Alderney gave four gallons a-day, ever fince the calf was fent th market. There is fo much milk out of my dairy, and the prefs muft ftand ftill : but I won't loofe a cheefe paring; and the milk fhall be made good, if the farvents fhould go without butter. If they muft needs have butter, let them make it of cheep's milk; but then my wool will fuffer for want of grace; fo that I muft be a loofer on all fides Well, patience is like a ftout Welf poney; it bears a great deal, and trots a great way; but it will tire at the long run. Before its 1 ng , perhaps I may fhew Matt, that I was not born to be the houfehold drudge to my dying day-Gwyn rites from Crickhowel, that the price of flannel is fallen three-farthings an ell; and that's another good penny out of my pocket-When I go to market to fell, my commedity ftinks; but when I want to buy the commoneft thing, the owner pricks it up under my nofe; and it can't be had for love nor money-I think every thing runs crofs at Bramble-ton-hall-You fay the gander has broke the eggs, which out, till I fee it with my own eyes. Perhaps, it will recover-At leaft it will ferve for vinegar to the farvents. You may leave off the fires in my brother's chamber ard mine, as it is unfartain when we return. - I hope, Gwyllim, you'll take care there is no wafte; and have an eye to the maids, and keep them to their fpinning. I think they may go very well without beer in hot weather-It ferves only to inflame the blood and fet them a-gog after the men. Water will make them fair, and keep them cool and tamperit. Don't forgec to put up in the portmantel, that comes with Williams, along with my riding-habit, hat, and feather, the viol of purl water, and the tincktur for my ftomach; being as how I am much troubled with flutterencies. This is all at prefent, from.

> Yours,

Bath, April 26.
Tabithabramble.

> To Dr. Lewis.

dear dick,

I HAVE done with the waters; therefore your advice comes a day too late-I grant that phyfick is no myftery of your making. I know it is a myftery in its own nature; and, like other myfteries, requires a ftrong gulp of faith to make it go down -Two days ago, I went into the King's Bath, by the advice of our friend $\mathrm{Ch}-$, in order to clear the ftrainer of the fkin, for the benefit of a free perfpiration; and the firft object that faluted my eye, was a child full of fcrophulous ulcers, carried in the arms of one of the guides, under the very nofes of the bathers. I'was fo fhocked at the fight, that I retired immediately with indignation and difguft-Suppofe the matter of thofe ulcers, floating on the water, comes in contact with my k kin , when the pores are all open, I would afk you what muft be the confequence ?-Good Heaven, the very thought makes my blood run cold; we know not what fores may be running into the water while we are bathing, and what fort of matter we may thus imbibe; the king's-evil, the fcurvy, the cancer, and the pox; and, no: doubt, the heat will render the virus the more volatile and penetrating. To purify myfelf from all fuch contamination, I went to the duke of Kingfton's private Bath, and there I was almoft fuffocated for want of free air; the place was fo fmall, and the fteam fo ftifling.

After all, if the intention is no more than to wafh the fkin , I am convinced that fimple element is more effectual than any water impregnated with falt and iron ; which, being aftringent, will certainly contract the pores, and leave a kind of cruft upon the furface of the body. But $I$ am now as much afraid of drinking, as of bathing; for, after a long converfation with the Doctor, aboutt the conftruction of the pump and the ciftern, it is very far from being clear with me, that the patients in the Pumproom don't fwallow the fcourings of the bathers. I can't help furpecting, that there is, or may be, fome regurgitation from the bath into the ciftern of the pump. In that cafe, what a delicate beveridge is every day quaffed by the drinkers; medicated with the fweat, and dirt, and dandriff; and the abominable difeharges of various kinds, from twenty different difeared bodies, parboiling in the kettle below. In order to avoid this filthy compofition, I had recourfe to the fpring that fupplies the private baths on the Abbey-green; but Iat once perceived fomething extraordinary in the tafte and fmell ; and, upori inquiry, I find that the Roman baths in this quarter, were found covered by an old burying ground, belonging to the Abbey ; thro' which, in all probability, the water drains in its paffage. fo that as we drink the deceation of living bodies at the Pumproom, we fwallow the ftrainings of rotten bones and carcaifes at the private bath-I I vow to God, the very idea turns my ftomach!-determined, as I am, againft any farther ufe of the Bath waters, this confideration would give me little diffurbance, if I could find any thing more pure, or lefs pernicious, to quench my thirft; but, although the natural fprings of excellent water are feen gufhing fpontaneous on every fide, from the hills that furround us, the inhabitants in general, make ufe of well-water, fo impregnated with nitre, or alum, or fomè other villanous mineral, that it is equally ungrateful to the tafte, and mifchievous to the conftrution. It muft be owned, indeed, that here, in Milfhamftreet, we have a precarious and fcanty fu ply from the hill; which is collected in an open baiur in the Circus, liable to be defiled with dead dogs, cats, rats, and every fpecies of naftinefs, which the rafcally populace may throw into it, from mere wantonnefs and brutality.-

Well, there is no nation that drinks fo hoggifhly as the Englifh-What paffes for wine among us, is not the juice of the grape. It is an adulterous mixture, brewed up of nauleous ingredients, by dunces, who are bunglers in the art of poifonmaking $;$ and yet we, and our forefathers, are and have been poifoned by this curfed drench, without tafte or flavour-The only genuine and wholefome beveridge in England, is Lomdon-porter, and Dorchefter table-beer; but as for your ale and your gin, your cider, and your perry, and all the trafhy family of made wines, I deteft them as infernal compofitions, contrived for the deftruction of the human fpecies.- But what have I to do with the humaan fpecies ? except a very few friends, I care not if the whole was -

Hark ye, Lewis, my mifanthropy increafes every day-The tonger I live, I find the folly and the fraud of mankind grow more and more intolera-ble-I with I had not come from Brambleton-hall; after having lived in folitude fo long, I cannot bear the hurry and impertinence of the multitude; befides every thing is fophifticated in thefe crowded places. Snares are laid for our lives in every thing we eat or drink : the very air we breathe, is loaded with contagion. We carinot even fleep, without rifque of infection. I fay, infection-This place is the rendezvous of the difeafed-You won't deny, that many difeafes are infectious; even the confumption itfelf, is highly infeetious. Wherr a perfon dies of it in Italy, the bed and bedding are deftroyed; the other furni-ure is expofed to the weather, and the apartment white-wafhed, before it is occupied by any other living foul. You'll allow, that nothing receives infection fooner, or retains it longer, than blankets, feather-beds, and matraffes-'Sdeath ! how do I know what miferable objects have been ftewing in the bed where I now lie! - I wonder, Dick, you did not put me in mind of fending for my own matraffes-But, if I had not been an afs, I fhould not have needed a remem-brancer-There is always fome plaguy reflection that rifes up in judgment againft me, and ruffes my fpirits-Therefore, let us change the fubject-

I have other reafons for abridging my ftay at Bath-You know fifter Tabby's complexion-If Mrs. Tabitha Bramble had been of any other race, I fhould certainly have looked upon her as the moft -But, the truth is, fhe has found means to intereft my affection; or, rather, fhe is beholden to the force of prejudice, commonly called the ties of blood. Well, this amiable maiden has actually commenced a flirting correfpondence with an Irifh baronet of fixty-five. His name is fir Ulic Mackilligut. He is faid to be much out at elbows ; and, I believe, has received falfe intelligence with refpect to her fortune. Be that as it may, the connexion is exceedingly ridiculous, and begins already to excite whifpers. For my part, I have no intention to difpute her free agency ; though I fhall fall upon fome expedient to undeceive her paramour, as to the point which he has principaliy in view. But I don't think her conduct is a proper example for Liddy, who has alfo attracted the notice of fome coxcombs in the rooms; and Jery tells me, he furpects a ftrapping fellow, the knight's nephew, of fome defign upon the girl's heart. I fhall, therefore, keep a ftrict eye over her aunt and her, and even fhift the feene, if I find the matter grow more ferious - You perceive what an agreeable tafk it muft be, to a man of my kidney, to have the cure of fuch fouls as thefe-But, hold, you fhall not have another peevifh word (till the next occafion) from Bath, April the 28.

Matt. Bramble.

To Sir Watkin Philips, of Jefus college Oxon.

Abstract

DEAR KNIGHT, I THINK thofe people are unreafonable, who complain that Bath is a contracted circle, in which the fame dull fcenes perpetually revolve, without variation-I am, on the contrary, amazed to find fo fmall a place, fo crowded with entertainment and variety. London itfelf can haidly exhibit one fpecies of diverfion, to which we have not fomething analogous at Bath, over and above thofe fingular advantages that are peculiar to the place. Here, for example a man has daily opportunities of feeing the moft remarkable characters of the community. He fees them in their natural attitudes and true colours; defcended from their pedeftals, and divefted of their formal draperies, undifguifed by art and affectation-Here we have minifters of ftate, judges, generals, bifhops, projectors, philofophers, wits, poets, phayers, chomifts, fiddle rs, and buffoons. If he makes any confiderable ftay in the place, he is fure of meeting with fome particular friend, whom he did rot expect to fee ; and to me there is nothing more agreeable, than fuch cafual rencounters-Another entertainment, peculiar to Bath. arifes $t$.om thie general mixture of all degrees affembled in ous public sooms, without diftinction of rank or fortune. This is what my uncle reproVol. I.D bates,

bates, as a monitrous jumble of heterogeneous prificiples; a vile mob of noife and impertinence, without decency or fubordination. But this chaos is to me a fource of infinite amufement.

I was extremely diverted, laft ball-night, to fee the Mafter of the Ceremonies leading, with great folemnity, to the upper end of the room, an antiquated Abigail, dreffed in her lady's caft-clothes; whom he (I fuppofe) miftook for fome countefs juft arrived at the Bath. The ball was opened by a Scotch lord, with a mulatto heirefs from St. Chriftopher's; and the gay colonel Tinfel danced all the evening with the daughter of an eminent tinman from the borough of Southwark-Yefterday morning, at the Punp-room, I faw a brokenwinded Wapping landlady fqueeze through a circle of peers, to falute her brandy merchant, who ftood by the window, prop'd upon crutches; and a paralytic attorney of Shoe-lane, in fhufling up to the bar, kicked the fhins of the chancellor of England, while his lordfhip, in a cut bob, drank a glafs of water at the pump. I cannot account for my being pleafed with thefe incidents, any other way than by faying, they are truly ridiculous in their own nature, and ferve to heighten the humour in the farce of life, which I am determined to enjoy as long as I can.-

Thofe, follies that move my uncle's fpleen excite my laughter. He is as tender as a man without a flin; who cannot bear the flighteft touch without flinching. What tickles another would give him tormert ; and yet he has what we may call lucid iutervals, when he is remarkably facetious-Indeed, I never knew a hypochondraic fo apt to be infected with good-humour. He is the moft rifible mifanthrope 1 ever met with. A lucky joke, or any ludicrous incidnt, will fet him a-laughing immoderatcly, evea in one of his moft gloomy paroxylms; and,

HUMPHRYCLINKER

and when the laugh is over, he will curfe his own imbecility. In converfing with ftrangers, he betrays no marks of difquiet- He is fplenetic with his familiars only; and not even with them, while they keep his attention employed; but when his fpirits are not exerted externally, they feem to recoil and to prey upon himfelf-He has renounced the waters with execration; but he begins to find 2 more efficacious, and, certainly, a much more palatable remedy in the pleafures of fociety. He has difcovered fome old friends, among the invalids of Bath; and, in particular, renewed his acquaintance with the celebrated James Quin, who certainly did not come here to drink water. You cannot doubt, but that I had the ftrongeft curiofity to know this original; and it was gratified by Mr. Bramble, who has had him twice at our houfe to dinner.

So far as I am able to judge, Quin's character is rather more refpectable than it has been generally reprefented. His bon mots are in every witling's mouth; but many of them have a rank flavour, which one would be apt to think was derived from a natural groffnefs of idea. I fufpect, however, that juftice has not been done the author, by the collectors of thofe Quiniania; who have let the beft of them ीlip through their fingers, and only retained fuch as were fuited to the tafte and organs of the multitude. How far he may relax in his hours of jollity, I cannot pretend to fay; but his general converfation is conducted by the niceft rules of propriety; and Mr. James Quin is, certainly, one the beft bred men in the kingdom. He is not only a moft agreeable companion; but (as I am credibly informed) a very honeft man; highly fum ceptible of friendfhip, warm fteady, and evefgenerous in his attachments; difdaining flatteryn and incapable of meanefs and diffimulation. Were I to judge, however from Quin's eye alone I fhould take him to be proud, infolent, and cruel. There is fomething remarkably fevere and forbidding in his afpect; and, I have been told, he was ever difpofed to infult his inferiors and dependants. -Perhaps that report has influenced my opinion of his looks- You know we are the fools of prejudice. Howfoever that may be, I have as yet feen nothing but his favourable fide : and my uncle, whe frequently confers with him in a corner, declares he is one of the moft fenfible men he ever knew-He feems to have a reciprocal regard for old Square-toes, whom he calls by the familiar name of Matthew, and often reminds of their old tavernadventures: on the other hand, Matthew's eyes fparkle whenever Quin makes his appearance-Let him be never fo jarring and difcordant, Quin puts him in ;tune; and, like treble and bafs in the fa me concert, they make excellent mufick togetherT'other day, the converfation turning upon Shakefpeare, Icould not help faying, with fome emotion, that I would give an hundred guineas to fee Mr. Quin act the part of Falftaff; upon which, turning to me with a fmile, "And I would give a thou"fand, young gentleman, (faid he) that I could "t gratify your longing." My uncle and he are perfectly agreed in their eftimate of life ; which Quin fays, would ftink in his noftrils, if he did not fteep it in claret.

I want to fee this phenomenon in his cups; and have almoft prevailed upon my uncle to give him a fmall turtle at the Bear. In the mean time, Imuft entertain you with an incident, that feems to confirm the judgment of thofe two cynic philofophers. I took the liberty to differ in opinion from Mr. Bramble, when he obferved, that the mixture of people in the entertainments of this place was deflructive of all order and urbanity; that it rendered the plebeians infufferably arrogint and troublefome, and vulgarized the deportment and fentiments of thofe who moved in the upper fpheres of life. He faid, fuch a prepofterous coalition would bring us into contempt with all our neighbours; and was worfe in fact than debafing the gold coin of the nation. I argued, on the contrary, that thofe plebeians who difcovered fuch eagernefs to imitate the drefs and equipage of their fuperiors, would likewife in time, adopt their maxims and their manners be polifhed by their converfation, and refined by their example, but when I appealed to Mr. Quin, and afked if he did not think that fuch an unreferved mixture would improve the whole mafs -"Yes, (faid he) as a plate of marmalade would " improve a pan of firreverence."

I owred I was not much converfant in high-life, but I had feen what were called polite affemblies in London and elfwhere; that thofe of Bath feemed to be as decent as any; and that, upon the whole, the individuals that compofed it, would not be found deficient in good manners and decorum. " But let us have recourfe to experience, (faid I) " - Jack Holder, who was intended for a parfon, " has fucceeded to an eftate of two thoufand a year " by the death of his elder brother. He is now at "the Bath, driving about in a phacton and four, " with French horns. He has treated with turtle " and claret at all the taverns in Bath and Briftol,
" till his guefts are gorged, with good chear: he "s has bought a dozen fuits of fine clothes, by the 's advice of the Mafter of the Ceremonies, under
" whofe tuition he has entered himfelf: he has " loft fome hundreds at billiards to fharpers, and " taken one of the nymphs of Avon-ftreet into
" keeping; but, finding all thefe channells infuff-
" cient to drain him of his current cafh, his coun-
"f fellor has engaged him to give a general tea"drinking to-morrow at Wilthire's room. In

78 The EXPEDITION of

" order to give it the more ecclat, every table is to " be furnifhed with fweet-meats and nofegays; 's which, however, are not to be touched ill notice * is given by the ringing of a bell, and then the " ladies may help themfelves without reftriction. "This will be no bad way of trying the company's " breeding-"
" I will abide by that experiment, (cried my " uncle) and if I could find a place to fand tecure, " without the vortex of the tumult, which I know "s will enfue, I would certainly go thither and en" joy the fcene." Quin propofed that we fhould iane our ftation in the mufick-gallery; and we took his advice. Holder had got thither before us, with his horns perdue; but we were admitted. The tea-drinking paffed as ufual ; and the company having rifen from the tables, were fauntering in groupes, in expectation of the fignal for attack, when the bell beginning to ring, they fiew with eagernefs to the defart, and the whole place was initantly in commotion. There was nothing but jufling, fcrambling, pulling, fnatching, ftruggling, fcolding, and fcreaming. The nofegays were torn from one another's hands and bofoms; the glaffes and china went to wreck; the tables and floor were ftrewed with comfits. Some cried; fome fwore; and the tropes and figures of Billingfgate were ufed without referve in all their native zeft and flavour ; nor were thofe flowers of rhetoric unattended with fignificant gefticulation. Some fnapped their fingers; fome forked them out; fome clapped their hands, and fome their back-fides; at legth, they fairly proceeded to pulling caps, and every thing feemed to prefage a general battle; when Holder -ordered his horns to found a charge with a view to annimate the combatants, and inflame the conteft ; but this manoeuvre produced an effect quite contrary to what he expected. It was a note of reproach that roufed them to an immediate fenfe of their difgraceful fituation. They were afhamed of their abfurd deportment, and fuddenly defiftedThey gathered up their caps, rufles, and handkerchiefs; and great part of them retired in filent mortification.

HUMPHRYCLINKER

Quin laughed at this adventure; but my uncle's delicacy was hurt. He hung his head in manifeft chagrin, and feemed to repine at the triumph of his judgment-Indeed, his victory was more complete than he imagined ; for, as we afterwards learned, the two amazons who fingularized themfelvs moft in the action, did not come from the purlies of Puddle-dock, but from the courtly neighbourhood of St. James's palace. One was a baronefs, and the other a wealthy knight's dowager-My uncle fpoke not a word. till we had made our retreat good to the coffee-houfe: where, taking off his hat and wiping his forehead, "I blefs God (faid he) that " Mrs. Tabitha Bramble did not take the field to" day !" "I would pit her for a cool hundred " (cried Quin) againtt the beft fhake-bag of the " whole main." The truth is, nothing could have kept her at home but the accident of her having taken phyfick before fhe knew the nature of the entertainment. She has been for fome days furbifhing up an old fuit of black velvet, to make her appearance as Sir Ulic's partner at the next ball.

I h. ve much to fay of this amiable kinfwoman; but the has not been properly introduced to your acquaintance, She is remarkably civil to Mr. Quin; of whofe farcaftic humour the feems to ftand in awe ; but her caution is no match for her impertin nce. "Mr. Gwynn, (faid fhe the other " day) I was once vaftly entertained with your " playing the Ghoft of Gimlet at Drury-lane, " when you rofe up through the ftage, with a "6 white face and red eyes, and fpoke of quails
"upon the frigbtful por cofine-Do, pray, fpout a " little the Ghoft of Gimlet." "Madam, (faid
" Quin, with a glance of ineffable difdain) the "Ghoft of Gimlet is laid, never to rife again-" Infenfible of his check, fhe proceeded: "Well, " to be fure, you looked and talked fo like a real " ghoft ; and then the cock crowed fo natural. I "wonder how you could teach him to crow fo " exact, in the very nick of time ; but I fuppofe, " he's game -An't he game, Mr. Gwynn ?" "Dunghill, madam." "Weli, dung-hill, or " not dung-hill, he has got fuch a clear counter's tenor, that I wifh I had fuch another at Bramble's ton-hall, to wake the maids of a morning. Do "you know where I could find one of his brood ?"
"Probably in the work-houfe of St. Giles's parifh, " madam ; but I proteft I know not his particular " mew." My uncle, frying with vexation, cried, " Good God, fifter, how you talk! I have told you twenty times, that this gentleman's rame is " not Gwynn.-" "Hoity toity, brother mine, " (fhe replied) no offence, I hope-Gwynn is an " honourable name, of true old Britifh extraction -I thought the gentleman had been come of " Mrs. Helen Gwynn, who was of his own pro" feffion ; and if fo be that were the cafe, he might " be of king Charles's breed, and have royal blood " in his veins-" "No, madam, (anfwered Quin, " with great folemnity) my mother was not a " whore of fuch diftinction-True it is, I am " fometimes tempted to believe myfelf of royal " defcent; for my inclinations are often arbitrary " - If I was an abfolute prince, at this inftant, I " believe I fhould fend for the head of your cook
" in a charger-She has committed felony on the "perfon of that John Dory; which is mangled ' 6 in a cruel manner, and even prefented without " fauce-O tempera! O mores!",

This good-humoured fally turned the converfation into a lefs difagreeable channel-B ut, left jou fhould think my fcribble as tedious as Mrs. Tabby's clack, I fhall not add another word, but that I am, as ufual,

yours,

Bath, April 30.
J. Melford.

To Dr. Lewis.

DEAR LEWIS,

I RECEIVED your bill upon Wilthhire, which was punctually honoured; but as I don't choofe to keep fo much cafh by me, in a common lodginghoufe, I have depofited $250 \%$ in the bank of Bath, and fhall take their bills for it in London, when I leave this place; where the feafon draws to an end You muft know, that now being a foot, I am, refolved to give Liddy a glimpfe of London. She is one of the beft hearted creatures I ever knew, and gains upon my affection every day-As for Tabby, I have dropt fuch hints to the Irifh baronet, concernng her fortune, as, I make no doubt, will cool the jardour of his addreffes. Then her pride will take the alarm; and the rancour of ftale maidenhood being chafed, we fhall hear nothing but flander and abufe of Sir Ulick Mackilligut-This rupture, I forelee, will facilitate our departue from Bath ; where, at prefent, Tabby feems to enjoy herfelf with peculiar fatisfaction. For my part; I deteft it fo much, that I fhould not have been able to ftay fo long in the place if I had not difcovered fome old friends; whofe converfation alleviates my difguftGoing to the coffee-houfe one forenoon, I could not help contemplating the company, with equal furprize and compaffion-We confifted of thirteen individuals ; feven lamed by the gout, rheumatifm, or palfy; three maimed by accident; and the reft either deaf or blind. One hobbled, another hopped, a third dragged his legs after him like a wounded fnake, a fourth ftraddled betwixt a pair of lorg crutches, like the mummy of a felon hanging in chains; a fifth was bent into a horizontal pofition, like a mounted telefcope, fhoved in by a couple of chairmen; and a fixth was the buft of a man, fet upright in a wheel machine, which the waiter moved from place to place.

Being ftruck with fome of their faces, I confulted the fubfcription book; and, perceiving the names of feveral old friends, began to confider the groupe with more attention. At length I dicovered rear admiral Balderick, the companion of my youth, whom I had not feen fince he was oppointed lieutenant of the Severn. He was metamorphofed into an old man, with a wooden leg and a weatherbeaten face which appeared the more ancient from his grey locks, that were truly venerable-_Sitting down at the table, where he was reading a newspaper, I gazed at him for fome minutes, with a mixture of pleafure and regret, which made my heart gufh with tendernefs; then, taking him by the hand, "Ah, Sam, (faid I) forty years ago I " little thought - "I was too much moved to proceed. "An old friend, fure enough! (cried " he, fqueezing my hand, and furveying me ea" gerly thro' his glaffes) I know the looming of the "veffel, though fhe has been hard ftrained fince "we parted; but I can't heave up the name-" The moment I told him who I was, he exclaimed, "Ha ! Matt, my old fellow cruizer, ftill afloat !" And, ftarting up, hugged me in his arnas. His manfport, however, boded me no good; frr, in faluting faluting me, he thruft the fpring of his fpectacles into my eye, and, at the fame time, fet his wooden ftump upon my gouty toe; an attack that made me fhed tears in fad earneft -After the hurry of our recognition was over, he pointed out two of our common friends in the room : the buft was what remained of colonel Cockril, who had loft the ufe of his limbs in making an American campain; and the telefcope proved to be my college cham, fir Reginald Bently; who, with his new title, and unexpected inheritance, commenced fox-hunter, without having ferved his apprenticefhip to the myftery; and, in confequence of following the hounds through a river, was feized with an inflammation in his bowels, which has contracted him into his prefent attitude.

Our former correfpondence was forthwith renewed, with the moft hearty expreffions of mutual good-will; and as we had met fo unexpectedly, we agreed to dine together that very day at the tavern. My friend Quin, being luckily unengaged, obliged us with his company; and, truly, this was the moft happy day I have paffed thefe twenty years. You and I, Lewis, having been always together, never tafted friendfhip in this high gout, contracted from long abfence. I cannot exprefs the half of what I felt at this cafual meeting of three or four companions, who had been fo long feparated, and fo roughly treated by the ftorms of life. It was a renovation of youth; a kind of refufcitation of the dead, that realized thofe interefting dreams, in which we fometimes retrieve our ancient friends from the grave. Perhaps my enjoyment was not the lefs pleafing for being mixed with a ffrain of melancholy, produced by the remembrance of paft fcenes, that conjured up the ideas of fome endearing connexions, which the hand of Death has actually diffolved.

84 The EXPEDITION of

The fpirits and good humour of the company foemed to triumph over the wreck of their conftitutions. They had even philofophy enough to joke upon their own calamities; fuch is the power of friendmip, the fovereign cordial of life-I afterwards found, however, that they were not without their moments, and even hours of difquiet. Each of them apart, in fucceeding conferences, expatiated upon his own particular grievances; and they were all malecoutents at bottom-Over and above their perfonal difafters, they thought themfelves unfortunate in the lottery of life. Balderick complained, that all the recompenfe he had received for his long and hard fervice, was the half-pay of a rear admiral. The colonel was mortified to fee himfelf over-topped by upftart generals, fome of whom he had once commanded; and, being a man of a liberal turn, could ill put up with a moderate annuity, for which he had fold his commiffion. As for the baronet, having run himfelf confiderably in debt, on a contefted election, he has been obliged to relinquifh his feat in parliament, and his feat in the country at the fame time, and put his eftate to nurfe : but his chagrin, which is the effect of his own mifconduct, does not affect me half fo much as that of the other two ; who have acted honourable and diftinguifhed parts on the great theatre, and are now reduced to lead a weary life in this ftewpan of idlenefs and infignificance. They have long left off ufing the waters, after having experienced their inefficacy. The diverfions of the place they are not in a condition to enjoy. How then do they make fhift to pass their time? In the forenoon, they crawl out to the Roorns or the coffee-houfe, where they take a hand at whift, or defcant upon the General Advertifer; and their evenings they murder in private parties, among peevith invalids, and infipid old women-This is the cafe with a good number of individuals, whom nature feems to have intended. for better purpofes.

About a dozen years ago, many decent families, reftricted to fmall fortunes, befides thofe that came hither on the fcore of health, were tempted to fettle at Bath, where they could then live comfortably , and even make a genteel appearance, at a fmall expence: but the madnefs of the times has made. the place too hot for them, and they are now obliged to think of other migrations-Some have already fled to the mountains of Wales, and others have retired to Exeter. Thither, no doubt, they will be followed by the flood of luxury and extravagance, which will drive them from place to place to the very Land's End; and there, I fuppofe, they will be obliged to fhíp themfelves to fome other country. Bath is become a mere fink of profligacy and extortion. Every article of houfe-keeping is raifed to an enormous price; a circumftance no longer to be wondered at, when we know that every petty retainer of fortune piques himfelf upon keeping a table, and thinks 'tis for the honour of his character to wink at the knavery of his fervants, who are in a confederacy with the market people; and, of confequence, pay whatever they demand. Here is now a mufhroom of opulence, who pays a cook feventy guineas a week for furnifhing him with one meal, a day. This portentons frenzy is become fo contagious, that the very rabble and refufe of mankind are infected. I have known a negro-driver, from Jamaica, pay over-night to the mafter of one of the Rooms, lixty-five guineas for tea and coffee to the company, and leave Bath next morning, in fuch obfcurity, that not one of his guefts had the flighteft idea of his perfon, or even made the leaft inquiry about his name. Incidents frefh abfurdities, which are too grofs to make a thinking man merry.-But I feel the fpleen creeping on me apace; and therefore will indulge you with a ceffation, that you may have no unneceffary caufe to curfe your correfpondence with,

Dear Dick,

> yours ever,

Bath, May 5.
Matt. Bramble.

To Mifs Letitia Willis, at Gloucefter.

```
My dEAR LETty;
```

I WROTE you at great length by the poft, the twenty-fixth of laft month, to which 1 refer you for an account of our proceedings at Bath; and I expect your anfwer with impatience. But, having this opportunity of a private hand, I fend you two dozen of Bath-rings; fix of the beft of which I defire you will keep for yourfelf, and diftribute the reft among the young ladies, our common friends, as you fhall think proper. I I don't know how you will approve of the mottoes; fome of them are not much to my own liking; but I was obliged to take fuch as I could fuid ready manufac-tured-I am vexed, that neither you nor I have received any further information of a certain perfon - Sure it can't be wilful neglect !-O my dear Willis! I begin to be vifited by ftrange fancies, and to have fome melancholy doubts; which, however, it would be ungenerous to harbour without further further inquiry - My uncle, who has made me a prefent of a very fine fet of garnets, talks of treating us with a jaunt to London; which, you may imagine, will be highly agreeable: but I like Bath fo well, that I hope he won't think of leaving it till the feafon is quite over; and yet, betwixt friends, fomething has happened to my aunt, which will probably fhorten our ftay in this place.

Yefterday, in the forenoon, fhe went by herfelf to a breakfafting in one of the rooms; and, in half an hour, returned in great agitation, having Chowder along with her in the chair. I believe fome accident muth have happened to that unlucky animal, which is the great fource of all her troubles. Dear Letty ! what a pity it is, that a woman of her years and difcretion, fhould place her affection upon fuch an ugly, ill-conditioned cur, that fnarls and fnaps at every body. I afked John Thomas, the footman who attended her, what was the matter ? and he did nothing but grin. A famous dog-doctor was fent for, and undertook to cure the patient, provided he might carry him home to his own houfe; but his miftrefs would not part with him out of her own fight-She ordered the cook to warm cloths, which the applied to his bowels, with her own hand. She gave up all thoughts of going to the ball in the evening; and when Sir Ulic came to drink tea, refufed to be feen; fo that he went away to look for another partner. My brother Jery whiftles and dances. My uncle fometimes fhrugs up his thoulders, and fometimes burfts out a-laughing. My aunt fobs and fcolds by turns; and her woman, Win. Jenkins, fares and wonders with a foolifh face of curiofity; and, for my part, I am as curious as the, but alhamed to afk queftions.

Perhaps time will difcover the myftery; for if it was any thing that happere 1 in the Rooms, it can't be long concealed-All I know is, that lat night at fupper, mifs Bramble fpoke very difdain fully of Sir Ulic Mackilligut, and akked her bro ther if he intended to keep us fweltering all the fummer at Bath ? "No, fifter Tabitha, (faid he " with an arch fmile) we fhall retreat before tho " Dog days begin; though I make no doubt, tha " with a little temperance and difcretion, our con" ftitutions might be kept cool enough all the "year, even at Bath." As I don't know the meaning of this infinuation, I won't pretend to make any remarks upon it at prefent : hereafter, perhaps, I may be able to explain it more to your fatsifaction-In the mean time, I beg you will be punctual in your correfpondence, and continue to love your ever faithfulBath, May 6.

88 The EXPEDITION of

คคละ M

> To Sir Watikin Phileips, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxon.

SO then Mrs. Blackerby's affair has proved a falfe alarm, and I have faved my money? I wifh, however, her declaration had not been fo premature, for though my being thought capable of making her a mother, might have given me fome credit, the reputation of an intrigue with fuch a cracked pitcher does me no tonour at all-In my laft I told you I had hepes of fecing Quin, in his hours of elevation, at the tavern, which is the temple of mirth and good-felle w.fhip ; where he, as Prieft of Comus, utters the inipirations of wit and humour -I have had that fatisfaction. I have dived with his club at the. Three Iuns, and had the honour honour to fit him out. At half an hour paft eight in the evening, he was carried home with fix good bottles of claret under his belt; and it being then Friday, he gave orders that he fhould not be difturbed till Sunday at noon-You muft not imagine that this dofe had any other effect upon his converfation, but that of making it more extravagantly entertaining-He had loft the ufe of his limbs, indeed, feveral hours before we parted, but he retained all his other faculties in perfection; and as he gave vent to every whimfical idea as it rofe, I was really aftonifhed at the brilliancy of his thoughts, and the force of his expreffion. Quin is a real voluptuary in the articles of eating and drinking ; and fo confirmed an epicure, in the common acceptation of the term, that he cannot put up with ordinary fare. This is a point of fuch importance with him, that he always takes upon himfelf the charge of catering; and a man admitted to his mefs, is always fure of eating delicate victuals, and drinking excellent wine-He owns himfelf addicted to the dem lights of the flomach, and often jokes upon his own fenfuality; but there is nothing felfifh in this ap-petite-He finds that good chear unites good company; exhilerates the firits, opens the heart, banifhes all reftraint from converfation, and promotes the happieft purpofes of focial life.-But Mrr. James Quin is not a fubject to be difcuffed in the compafs of one letter; I fhall therefore, at prefent, leave him to his repofe, and call another of a very different complexion.

You defire to have further acquaintance with the perfon of our aunt, and promife yourfelf much entertainment from her connexion with Sir Ulic Mackilligut: but in this hope you are baulked already; that connexion is diffolved. The Irifh baronet is an old hound, that finding her carrion, has quitted the fcent-I have already told you, that

90 The EXPEDITION of
Mrs. Tabitha Bramble is a maiden of forty-fiv In her perfon, fhe is tall, raw-boned, aukwar flat-chefted, and ftooping ; her complexion is fa low and freckled; her eyes are not grey, br greenifh, like thofe of a cat, and generally inflan ed ; her hair is of a fandy, or rather dufty hue her forehead low 3 her nofe long, fharp, and, wards the extremity, always red in cool weather her lips fkinny, her mouth extenive, her tee ftraggling and loofe, of various colours and confo mation; and her long neck fhrivelled into a thot fand wrinkles-In her temper, fhe is proud, ftif: vain, imperious, prying, malicious, greedy, an uncharitable. In all likelihood, her natural au terity has been foured by difappointmon in love for her long celibacy is by no means owng to he diflike of matrimony : on the contraty, fhe he left no ftore unturned to avoid the reproachft epithet of old maid.

Before I was born, fhe had gone fuch lengths i the way of flirting with a recruiting officer, tha her reputation was a little finged. She atterward made advances to the curate of the parifh, wh dropped fome diftant hints about the next prefenta tion to the living, which was in her brother's gift but finding that was already promited to another he flew off at a targent; and Mrs. Tabby, in re verge, frund' means to deprive him of his cure Her next lover was lieutenant of a man of war, relation of the family, who did not underftand the refinements of the paffion, and expreffed no aver fion to grapple with coufin Tabby in the way o marriage ; but before matters could be properly adjufted, he went out on a cruife, and was killed it an engagemen with a French frigate. Our aunt though baffled fo often, did not yet defpair-She layed all her fnares for Dr. Lewis, who is the fidu. Acbates of my uncle. She even fell fick upo the occafion, and prevailed with Matt to interpofe in her behalf with his friend ; but the Doctor being a fhy cock, would not be caught with chaff, and flatly rejected the propofal : fo that Mrs. Tabitha was content to exert her patience once more, after having endeavoured in vain to effeet a rupture betwixt the two friends; and now the thinks proper to be very civil to Lewis, who is become neceffary to her in the way of his profeffion

Thefe, however, are not the only efforts fhe has made towards a nearer conjunction with our fex. Her fortune was originally no more than a thoufand pounds; but the gained an acceffion of five hundred by the death of a fifter, and the lieutenant left her three hundred in his will. Thefe fums fhe has more than doubled, by living free of all expence, in her brother's houle; and dealing in cheefe and Welfh flannel, the produce of his flocks and dairy. At prefent her capital is increafed to about four thoufand pounds ; and her avarice feems to grow every day more and more rapacious: but even this is toot fo intolerable, as the perverfenefs of her nature, which keeps the whole family in difquiet and uptoar. She is one of thofe geniufes who find fome diabolical enjoyment in being dreaded and detefted by their fellow-creatures.

I once told my uncle, I was furprifed that a man of his difpofition could bear fuch a domeftic plague, when it could be fo eafily removed-The remark made him fore, becaufe it feemed to tax him with want of refolution-Wrinkling up his nofe, and drawing down his eye-brows, "A young fellow, " (faid he) when he firft thrufts his fnout into the world, is apt to the furprited at many things, which a man of experience knows to be ordinary " 6 and unavoidable-This precious aunt of yours is 6 become infenfibly a part of my conftitution -
" Damn her! She's a noli me tangere in my flefh, " which
"6 which I cannot bear to be touched or tampere "6 with." I made no reply; but flifted the cor verfation. He really has an affection for this orig nal, which maintains its ground in defiance of con mon fenfe, and in defpite of that contempt whic he muft certainly feel for her charagter and undei ftanding, Nay, I am convinced, that the has like wife a moft virulent attachment to his perfon though her love never fhews itfelt but in the fhap of difcontent; and the perfifts in tormenting hir out of fheer tendernefs - The only object withi docrs upon which fhe beftows any marks of affec tion, in the ufual ftile, is her dog Chowder ; a filth cur from Newfoundland, which the had in a pre fent from the wife of a fkipper in Swanfey-On would imagine the had diftinguifhed this beaft witi her favour on account of his uglinefs and ill-nature if it was not, indeed, an inftinctive fympathy be tween his difpofition and her own. Certain it is The careffes him without ceafing; and even har raffes the family in the fervice of this curfed animal which, indeed, has proved the proximate caufe o her breach with Sir Ulic Mackilligut.

You muft know, fhe yefterday wanted to ftea a march of poor Liddy, and went to breakfaft ir the Room without any other companion than her dog, in expectation of meeting with the Baronet, who had agreed to dance with her in the evening Chowder no fooner made his appearance in the Room than the mafter of the Ceremonies, incenfed at his prefumption, ran up to drive him away, and threatened him with his foot; but the other feemed to defpife his authority, and difplaying a formidable cafe of long, white, fharp teeth, kept the puny monarch at bay-while he ftood under fome trepidation, fronting his antagonift, and bawling to the waiter, Sir Ulic Mackilligut came to his affiftance; and feeming ignorant of the connexion between this intruder intruder and his miftrefs gave the former fuch a kick in the jaws, as fent him howling to the doorMrs. Tabitha incenfed at this outrage, ran after him, fqualling in a tone equally difagreeable ; while the Baronet followed her on one fide, making apologies for his miftake; and Derrick on the other, making remonftrances upon the rules and regulations of the place.

Far from being fatisfied with the Knight's excufes, fhe faid the was fure he was no gentleman ; and when the Mafter of the Ceremonies offered to hand her into the chair, fhe rapped him over the knuckles with her fan. My uncle's footman being Atll at the door, fhe and Chowder got into the Tame vehicle, and were carried off amidft the jokes ff the chairmen and other populace-I had been riding out on Clerkendown, and happened to enter uft as the fracas was over-The Baronet, coming up to me with an affected air of chagrin, recounted he adventure; at which I laughed heartily, and hen his countenance cleared up. "My dear foul, (faid he) when I faw a fort of a wild baift, fnarling with open mouth at the Mafter of the Ceremonies, like the red cow going to devour Tom Thumb, I could do no lefs than go to c the affiftance of the little man; but I never dreamt the baif was one of Mrs. Bramble's attendants- O ! if I had, he might have made his breakfaft upon Derrick and welcome-But, you know, my dear friend, how natural it is - for us Irifhmen to blunder, and to take the wrong fow by the ear-However I will confefs judgment, and cry her mercy; and 'tis to be " hoped, a penitent finner may be forgiven." I old him, that as the offence was not involuntary of his fide, it was to be hoped he would not find her implacable.

94 The expedition of

But in truth, all this concern was diffembled In his approaches of gallantry to Mrs. Tabithe he had been mifled by a miftake of at leaft fix thou fand pounds, in the calculation of her fortune; an in this particular he was juft undeceived. He therefote, feized the firft opportunity of incurrint her difpleafure decently, in fuch a manner as would certainly annihilate the correfpondence; and he could not have taken a more effectual method, that that of beating her dog. When he prefented himfelf at our door, to pay his refpects to the offended fair, he was refufed admittance; and given to underfand, that he fhould never find her at home for the future. She was not fo inacceffible to Derrick who came to demand fatisfaction for the infult the had offered to him, even in the verge of his own court. She knew it was convenient to be well with the mafter of the Ceremonies, while fhe continued to frequent the Rooms; and, laving heard he was a poet, began to be afraid of making her appearance in a ballad or lampoon.- She therefore made excufes for what fhe had done, imputing it to the flutter of her fpirits ; and fubferibed handfomely for his poems: fo that he was perfectly appeafed, and overwhelmed her with a profufion of complimert. He even folicited a reconciliation with Chowder; which, however, the latter declined; and he declared, that if he could find a precedent in the annals of the Bath, which he would carefully examine for that purpofe, her favourite fhould be admitted to the next public breakfafting-But, I belicve fhe will not expofe herfelf or him to the rifque of a fecond difgrace- Who will fupply the place of Mackilligut in her affections, I cannot forefee; but nothing in the fhape of man can come amifs. Though fhe is a violent church-woman, of the moft intolerant zeal, I believe in my confcience fhe would have no objection, at prefent, to treat on the fcore of matrimony with an Anabaptift, Quaker, or Jew; and even ratify the treaty, at the expence of her own converfion. But, perhaps, I think too hardly of this kinfwoman; who, I muft own, is very little beholden to the good opinion of Yours,
Bath, May 6.
J. Melford.

To Dr. Lewis.

YOU afk me, why I don't take the air a-horfeback, during this fine weather?-In which of the avenues of this paradife would you have me take that exercife? Shall I commit myfelf to the highroads of London or Briftol, to be ftifled with duff, or preffed to death in the midft of poft-chaifes, fying machines, waggons, and coal horfes ; befides the troops of fine gentlemen that take to the highway to thew their horfemanfhip! and the coaches ff fine ladies, who go thither to thew their equipages ? Shall I attempt the Downs, and fatigue myfelf to death in climbing up an eternal afcent, without any hopes of reaching the furimit? Know hen, I have made divers defperate leaps at thofe apper regions ; but always fell backward into this zapour-pit, exhaufted and difpirited by thofe inefectual efforts; and here we poor valetudinarians Dant and ftruggle, like fo many Chinefe gudgeons, fafping in the bottom of a punch bowl. By Heaen it is a kind of inchantment ! If I do not fpeedily oreak the fpell, and efcape, I may chance to give p the ghoft in this naufeous ftew of corruption-It was but two nights ago, that I had like to have made my public exit, at a minute's warming. One if my greateft weakneffes is that of fuffering myfelf to be over-ruled by the opinion of people, whofe judgment I defpife-I own, with fhame and confufion of face, that importunity of any kind I cannot refift. This want of courage and conftancy is an original flaw in my nature, which you muft have often oblerved with compaffion, if not with contempt. I am afraid fome of our boafted virtues may be traced up to this defect.

96 The EXPEDITION of

Without further preamble, I was perfuaded to go to a ball, on purpofe to fee Liddy dance a minuet with a young petulant jackanapes, the only fon of a wealthy undertaker from London, whofe mother lodges in our neighbourhood, and has contracted an acquaintance with Tabby. I fat a couple of long hours, half ftifled, in the midft of a noyfome crowd; and could not help wondering, that fo many hundred of thofe that rank as rational creatures, could find entertainment in feeing a fucceffion of infipid animals, defcribing the fame dull figure for a whole evening, on an area, not much bigger than a taylor's fhop-board. If there had been any beauty, grace, activity, magnificent drefs, or variety of any kind, howfoever abfurd, to engage the attention, and amufe the fancy, I fhould not have been furprifed; but there was no fuch object: it was a tirefome repetition of the fame languid, frivolous fcene, performed by actors that feemed to fleep in all their motions-The continual fwimming of thofe phantoms before my eyes, gave me a fwimming of the head; which was alfo affected by the fouled air, circulating through fuch a number of rotten human bellows-I therefore retreated towards the door, and food in the paffage to the next room, talking to my friend Quin ; when an end being put to the minuets, the benches were removed to make way for the countrydances ; and the multitude rifing at once, the whole whole atmofphere was put in commotion. Then, all of a fudden, came rufhing upon me, an Egyptian gale, fo impregnated with pertilential vapours, that my nerves were overpowered, and I dropt fenfefs upon the floor.

You may eafily conceive what a clamour and confufion this accident muft have produced, in fuch an affembly_I foon recovered, however, and found myfelf in an eafy chair, fupported by my own people-Sifter Tabby, in her great tendernefs, had put me to the torture, fqeezing my head under her arm, and ftuffing my nofe with fpirit of harthorn, till the whole infide was excoriated. Ino fooner got home, than I fent for doctor Ch -, who affured me, I needed not be alarmed, for my fwooning was entirely occafioned by an accidental impreffion of fetid effluvia upon nerves of uncommon fenfibility. I know not how other people's nerves are conftructed; but one would imagine they muft be made of very coarfe materials to ftand the fhock of fuch a horrid affault. It was, indeed, a compound of villanous fmells, in which the moft violent ftinks, and the molf powerful perfumes, contended for the maftery. Imagine to yourfelf a high exalted effence of mingled odours, arifing from putrid gums, impofthumated lungs, four flatulencies, rank arm-pits, fweating feet, running fores and iffues; plafters, ointments, and embrocations, hungary-water, Ipirit of lavander, affafoetida drops, mufk, hartfhorn, and fal volatile; befides a thoufand frowzy neams, which I could not analyfe. Such, O Dick! is the fragrant ather we breathe in the poite affemblies of Bath-Such is the atmfophere I have exchanged for the pure, elartic, animating air of the Welfh mountains- O Rus, quando te 3 piciam /-I wonder what the devil poffeffed meVot. I.

E
But

But few words are beft: I have taken my re-folution-You may well fuppore I don't intend to entertain the company with a fecond exhibitionI have promifed, in an evil heur, to proceed to London, and that promife fhall be performed; but my ftay in the metropolis fhall be brief. I have, for the benefit of my health, projected an expedition to the North, which, I hope, will afford fome agreable paftime. I have never travelled farther that way than Scarborough; and, I think it is a reproach upon me, as a Britifh freeholder, to have lived fo long without making an excurfion to the other fide of the Tweed. Befides, I have fome relations fettled in Yorkmire, to whom it may not be improper to introduce my nephew and his fifter -At prefent, 1 have nothing to add, but that Tabby is happily difentargled from the Irifh Baronet ; and that I will not fail to make you acquainted, from time to time, with the fequel of our adventures : a mark of confideraion, which, perhaps, you would willingly difpenfe with in

Your humble fervant,

- Bath, May 8.

Matt. Bramble.

To Sir Watkin Philips, of Jefus college, Oxon.

DEAR PHILIPS,

A FEW days ago we were terribly alarmed by my uncle's fainting at the ball-He has been ever fince curfing his own folly, for going thither at the requeft of an impertinent woman. He d clares, he will cooner vifit a houfe infected with the plague, than truft himfelf in fuch a baufeous fpital for the future, for he fwears the accident accident was occafioned by the ftench of the crowd ; and that he would never defire a ftronger proof of our being made of very grofs materials, than our having withftood the annoyance, by which he was fo much difcompofed. For my part, I am very thankful for the coarfenefs of my organs, being in no danger of ever falling a fa crifice to the delicacy of my nofe. Mr. Bramble is extravagantly delicate in all his fenfations, both of foul and body. I was infomed by Dr. Lewis, that he once fought a duel with an officer of the horfe guards, for turning afide to the Park wall, on a neceffary occafion, when he was paffing with a lady under his protection. His blood rifes at every inftance of infolence and cruelty, even where he himfelf is no way concerned; and ingratitude makes his teeth chatter. On the pther hand, the recital of a generous, humane, or grateful action, never fails to draw from him tears of approbation, which he is often greatly diftreffed o conceal.

HUMPHRY CLINKER.

Yefterday one Paunceford gave tea, on particular invitation-This man, after having been long buffeted by adverfity, went abroad; and Fortune, refolved to make him amends for her former coynefs, fet him all at once up to the very, ears in affluence. He has now emerged from obfcurity, and blazes out in all the tinfel of the times. I don't find that he is charged with any. practices that the law deems difhonen, or that his wealth has made him arrogant and inacceffible; on the contrary, he takes great pains to appear affable and gracious. But they fay, he is remarkable for thrinking from his former friendThips, which were generally too plain and homefpun to appear amidft his prefent brilliant connexions; and that he feems ureafy at the fight of fome old benefactors, whom a man of honour would take pleafure to acknowledge- Be that as it may, he had fo effectually engaged the company at Bath, that when I went with my uncle to the coffee-houfe in the evening, there was not a foul in the room but one perfon, feemingly in years, who fat by the fire, reading one of the papers. Mr. Bramble, taking his ftation clofe by him, "There is fuch a crowd and confufion of "chairs in the paffage to Simpon's, (faid he) " that we could hardly get along-I wifh "thofe minions of fortune would fall upon more " laudable ways of spending their money "I fuppofe, Sir, you like this kind of entertain" ment as little as I do ?" "I can't fay, I have " any great relifh for fuch entertainments," anfwered the other, without taking his eyes off the paper-*. Mr. Serle, (refumed my uncle) I " beg pardon for interrupting you ; but I can't " refift the curiofity I have to know if you receiv"ed a card on this occafion?"

The man feemed furprifed at this addrefs, and made fome paufe as doubtful what anfwer he Thould make. "I know my curiofity is imperti" nent, added my uncle, but I have a particular "reafon for afking the favour." "If that be " the cafe, (replied Mr. Serle) I fhall gratify you " without hefitation, by owning, that I have had " no card. But, give me leave, Sir, to afk in "s my turn, what reafon you think I have to ex"s pect fuch an invitation trom the gentleman who "gives tea ?" "I have my own reafons; (cried ' Mr. Bramble, with fome emotion) and am con"s vinced more than ever, that this Paunceford is "t a contemptible fellow." " Sir, (faid the other, " laying down the paper) I have not the honour " to know you, but your difcourfe is a little myf" terious, and feems to require fome explanation. " The perfon you are pleafed to treat fo cava" lierly,
" lierly, is a gentleman of fome confequence in " the community ; and, for aught you know, I " may alfo have my particular reafons for defend" ing his character-" " If I was not convin" 6 ced of the contrary, (obferved the other) I " fhould not have gone fo far-" "Let me tell " you, Sir, (faid the ftranger, raifing his voice) " you have gone too far, in hazarding fuch re" flections-"

Here he was interrupted by my uncle; who afked peevifhly, if he was Don Quixote enough, at this time of day, to throw down his gauntlet as champion for a man who had treated him with fuch ungrateful neglect. "For my part, (added " he) I fhall never quarrel with you again upon - this fubject; and what I have faid now, has " been fuggefted as much by my regard for you, "" as by my contempt of him-" Mr. Serle, then pulling off his fpectacles, eyed my uncle very earneftly, faying, in a mitigated tone, "Surely I am " much obliged-Ah, Mr. Bramble ! I now re"collect your features, though I have not feen " you thefe many years." "We might have " been lefs ftrangers to one another, (anfwered " the 'fquire) if our corefpondence had not been " interrupted, in confequence of a mifunderftand" ing, occafioned by this very -, but no mat" ter-Mr. Serle, I efteem your character ; and " my friendhip, fuch as it is, you may freely "command." "The offer is too agreeable to be "s declined (faid he) ; I embrace it very cordially ; " 6 and, as the firft fruits of it, requeft that you " will change this fubject, which, with me , is 2 " matter of peculiar delicacy."

My uncle owned he was in the right, and the difcourfe took a more general turn. Mr. Serle paffed the evening with us at our lodgings; and appeared to be intelligent, and even entertaining;
but his difpofition was rather of a melancholy hue. My uncle fays he is a man of uncommon parts, and unqueftioned probity: that his fortune, which was originally fmall, has been greatly hurt by a romantic fpirit of generofity, which he has often difplayed, even at the expence of his difcretion, in favour of worhtlefs individuals-That he had refcued Paunceford from the loweft diftrefs, when he was bankrupt, both in means and repu-tation- That he had efpoufed his interefts with a degree of enthufiafm, broke, with feveral friends and even drawn his fword againtt my uncle, who had particular reafons for queftioning the moral character of the faid Paunceford: that, without Serle's countenance and affiftance, the other never cculd have embraced the opportunity, which has raifed him to this pinnacle of wealth : that Paunceford, in the firft tranfforts of his fuccefs, had written, from abroad, letters 10 different correfpondents, owning his obligations to Mr. Serle, in the warmeft terms of acknowledgment, and declaring he confidered himfelf only as a factor for the occafions of his beft friend: that, without doubt, he bad made declarations of the fame nature to his benefactor himfelf, though this laft was always filent and referved on the fubject; but for fome years, thofe tropes and figures of rhetoric had been difufed: that upon his return to England, he had been lavifh in his careffes to Mr. Serle, invited him to his houfe, and preffed him to makeit his own : that he had overwhelmed him with general profeffions, and affected to exprefs the warmeft regard for him, in company of their common acquaintance; fo that every body believed his gratitude was as liberal as bis fortune; and fome went fo far as to congratulate Mr . Serle on both.

All this time Paunceford carefully and artfully avoided avoided particular difcuffions with his old patron, who had too much firit to drop the moft diftant hint of balancing the account of obligation : that, neverthe'efs, a man of his feelings could not but refent this fhocking return for all his kindnefs; and, therefore, he withdrew himfelf from the connexion, without coming to the leaft explanation, or fpeaking a fyllable on the fubject to any living foul; fo that now their correfpondence is reduced to a flight ralute with the hat, when they chance to meet in any public place; an accident that rarely happens, tor their walks lie different ways. Mr. Paunceford lives in a palace, feeds upon dainties, is arrayed in fumntuous apparet, appears in all the pomp of equipage, and paffes, his time anong the nobles of the land. Serle lodges in Stall-ftreet, up two pair of ftairs backwards, walks a-foot in a bath rug, eats for twelve fhillings a week, and drinks water as a prefervative againft the gout and gravel-Mark the viciffitude. Paunceford once refided in a garret ; where he fubfirted upon fheep's trotters and cow-heel, from which commons he was tranflated to the table of Serle, that ever abounded with good cheer ; until want of oeconomy and retention, reduced him to a flender annuity in his decline of years, that fcarce affords the bare neceffaries of lifePaunceford, however, does him the honour to fpeak of him ftill, with uncommon regard; and to declare what pleafure it would give him to contribute in any flape to his convenience: "But you "6 know, (he never fails to add) he's a fhy kind " of a man-And then fuch a perfect phillofopher, "that he looks upon all fuperfluities with the moft " fovereign contempt."
 ford, I need not make any comm nt on his character, but leave it at the mercy of your own reE. 4 Alection;
flection; from $w$ hich, I dare fay, it will meet with as little quarter as it has found with Yours always,

Bath, May 10.
J. Melford.

To Mrs. Mary Jones, at Brambleton-hall.

dear molly,

WE are all upon the ving-Hey for London, girl! Fecks! we have been long enough here ; for we're all turned tiply turvy - Miftrefs has excarded Sir Ulic for kicking of Chowder ; and I have fent O Frizzle away, with a flea in his ear -I've fhewn him how little I minded his tinfy and his long tail-A fellor, who would think for to go, for to ofer, to take up with a dirty trollop under my nofe-I ketched him in the very fect, coming out of the houfe-maid's garret. - But I have gi'en the dirty flut a fiferary. O Molly ! the fervants at Bath are devils in garnet-They lite the candle at both onds-Here's nothing but ginkeiting, and waifting, and thieving, and tricking, and trigging and then they are never con-tent-They won't fuffer the 'fquire and miftrefs to ftay any longer; becaufe they have been already above three weeks in the houfe; and they look for a couple of ginneys a-piece at our going away; and this is a perquifite they expect every month in the feafon; being as how no family has a right to ftay longer than four weeks in the fame lodgings ; and fo the cuck fwears, fhe will pin the difh clout to miftrefs's tail ; and the houfe-maid vows, the'll put cowitch in mafter's bed, if fo be he don't difcamp without furder ado- I don't blame them for making the moft of their market, in the way of vails and perquifites; and I defy the devil to fay I am a tail-carrier, or ever brought a poor farvant into trouble-But then they oft to have fome confcience, in vronging thofe that be farvants like themfelves-For you muft no, Molly, 1 miffed three quarters of blond-lace, and a remnant of muflin, and my filver thimble; which was the gift of true love: they were all in my workbaiket, that I left upon the table in the farvantshall, when miftreffes bell rung; but if they had been under lock and kay, 'twould have been all the fame; for there are double kays to all the locks in Bath ; and they fay as how the very teeth an't fafe in your head, if you fleep with your mouth open-And fo fays I to myfelf, them things could not go witbout bands; and fo I'll watch theirwaters: And fo I did with a vitnefs; for then it was I found Bett confarned with O Frizzle. And as the cuck had thrown her flufh at me, becaufe I had taken part with Chowder, when he fit with the turnfpit, I refolved to make a clear kitchen and throw fome of her fat into the fire. I ketched the chare-woman going out with her foad in the morning, before fhe thought I was up, and brought her to miftrefs with her whole cargoMarry, what do'ft think fhe had got in the name of God? Her buckets were foaming full of our beft bear, and her lap was ftuffed with a cold: tongue, part of a buttock of beef, half a turkey, and a fwinging lump of butter, and the matter of ten mould kandles, that had fcarce ever been lit. The cuck brazened it out, and faid it was her rite to rummage the pantry; and the was ready for to go before the mare : that he had been her potticary many years, and would never think of hurting a poor farvant, for giving away the fcraps of the kitchen-I went another way to work with madam Betty, becaufe fhe had been faucy, and called me fkandelous names; and faid O Frizzle souldn't abide me, and twenty other odorous falfe-i

$$
\text { E }_{5} \text { hoods. }
$$

106 The EXPEDITION of

$\mathrm{h}_{\text {oods. I }}$ I got a varent from the mare, and her $b_{o x}$ being farched by the conftable, my things came out fure enuff; befides a full pound of vax candles, and a nite-cap of miftrefs, that I could fware to on my cruperal oaf-O! then madam Mopftick came upon her merry bones, and as the 'fquire wouldn't hare of a purfecution, fhe efcaped a fkewering: but the longeft day the has to live, fhe'll remember your humble farvant,
Bath, May 15.
Winifred Jinkins.
If the hind fhould come again, before we be gone, pray fend me the fhift and apron, with the vite gallow manky fhoes; which you'll find in my pillowberSarvice to Saul-

To Sir Watikin Phillifs, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxon.

YOU are in the right, dear Phillips; I don't expect regular anfwers to every letter-I know a coilege-life is too circumfcribed to afford materials for fuch quick returns of commurication. Formy part, I am continually fhifting the fcene, and furrounded with new objects, fome of which are ftriking enough. I fhall therefore conclude my journal for your amufement ; and though, in all appearance, it will not treat of very important or interefting particulars, it may prove, perhaps, not altogether uninftructive and unentertaining.

The mufick and entertainments of Bath are over for this feafon ; and all our gay birds of paffage hive taken their 月light to Briftol-well, Tunbridge,

Bright-

HUMPHRYCLINKER. $10 \%$

Brighthelmftone, Scarborough, Horrowgate, EO Not a foul is feen in this place, but a few brokenwinded parfons, waddling like fo many crows along the North Parade. There is always a great fhew of the clergy at Bath ; none of your thin, puny, yellow heatic figures, exhauffed with abftinence and hard ftudy, labouring under the morbi eruditorum; but great over-grown dignit ries and rectors, with rubicund noles and gouty ancles, or broad bloated faces, dragging along great fwag bellies; the emblems of floth and indigeftion-

Now we are upon the fubject of parfons, I muft tell you a ludicrous adventure, which was atchieved the other day by Tom Faftgate, whom you may remember on the foundation of Queen's. He had been very affiduous to pin himfelf upon George Prankley, who was a gentleman-commoner of Chrift-church, knowing the faid Prankley was heir to a confiderable eftate, and would have the advowfon of a gond living, the incumbent of which was very old and infirm. He ftudied his paffions and flattered them fo efectually; as to become his companion and couniellor ; and at laft, obtained of him a promife of the prefentation, when the living thould fall. Prankley, on his uncle's death, quitted Oxfcrd, and made his firf appearance in the fafhionalle woild at London; from whence he came lately to Bath, where he has been exhibiting himfe'f among the bucks and gamefters of the place. Ealtgate tollowed him hither; but he fhould not have quitted him for a moment, at his firft emerging into life. He ought to have known he was a fantaftic, foolifh, fickle fellow, who would forget his college-attachments the moment, they ceafed appealing to his fenfes. Tom met with a cold reception from his old friend; and was, moreover, informed, that he had promifed the living to another man, who had a vote in the county, where be propofed to offer himfelf a candidate at the next general election. He now remembered nothing of Eaftgate, but the freedoms he had ufed to take with him, while Tom had quietly ftood his butt, with an eye to the benefice ; and thofe freedoms he began to repeat in common place farcafms on his perfon and his cloth, which he uttered in the public coffee-houfe, for the entertainment of the company. But he was egregioufly miftaken in giving his own wit credit for that tamenefs of Eaftgate, which had been entirely owing to prudential confiderations. Thefe being now removed, he retorted his repartee with intereft, and found no great difficulty in turning the laugh upon the aggreffor ; who, lofing his temper, called him names, and alked, If be knew whom be talked to? After much altercation, Prankley fhaking his cane, bid him hold his tongue, otherwife he would duft his caffock for him. " I have no pretenfions to fuch a valet (faid 's Tom) ; but if you fhould do me that office, and "s overheat yourfelf, I have here a good oaken " towel at your fervice."

Prankley was equally incenfed and confounded at this reply. After a moment's paufe, he took him afide towards the window ; and, pointing to the clump of firs on Clerken-down, afked in a whifper, if he had fpirit enough to meet him there, with a cafe of piftols, at fix o'clock to-morrow morning. Eaftgate anfwered in the affirmative ; and, with a fleady countenance, affured him, he would not fail to give him the rendezvous at the hour be mentioned. So faying, he retired ; and the challenger flayed fome time in manifeft agitation. In the morning Eaftgate, who knew his man, and had taken his refolution, went to Prankley's lodgings, and roufed him by five o'clock-

The 'fquire, in all probability, curfed his punctuality in his heart, but he affected to talk big;

HUMPHRY CLINKER.

and having prepared his artillery over-night, they croffed the water at the end of the South Parade. In their progrefs up the hill, Prankley often eyed the parfon, in hopes of perceiving fome reluctance in his countenance ; but as no fuch marks appeared he attempted to intimidate him by word of mouth, 's If thefe flints do their office (faid he), I'll do thy " bufinefs in a few minutes." " I defire you will " do your beft (replied the other) ; for my part, "I come not here to trifle. Our lives are in the " hands of God; and one of us already totters on "the brink of eternity-" This remark feemed to make fome impreffion upon the 'quire, who changed countenance, and with a faultering accent obferved, ' That it ill became a clergyman to be " concerned in quarrels and blood-fhed-" "Your " infolence to me (faid Eaftgate) I fhould have " bore with patience, had not you caft the moft " infamous reflection upon my order, the honour " of which I think myfelf in duty bound to main" tain, even at the expence of my heart's blood; " and furely it can be no crime to put out of the " world a profligate wretch, without any fenfe of " principle, morality, or religion-" "Thou " may'ft take away my life, (cried Prankley, in " great perturbation) but don't go to murder my "character.-What! has't got no confcience ?" "My confcience is perfectly quiet (replied the " other) ; and now, fir, we are upon the fpot" Take your ground as near as you pleafe; prime " your piftol; and the Lord, of his infinite mercy, " have compaffion upon your miferable foul !"

This ejaculation he pronounced in a loud folemn tone, with his hat off and his eyes lifted up; then drawing a large hoife-piftol, he prefented, and put himfelf in a pofture of action. Prankley took his diftance, and endeavoured to prime, but his hand fhook with fuch violence, that he found this operation impracticable-His antagonift, feeing how it was with him, offered his affiftance, and advanced for that purpofe; when the poor 'fquire, exceedingly alarmed at what he had heard and feen, defired the action might be deferred till next day, as he had not fettled his affairs. "I ha'nt made my 's will (faid he) ; my fifters are not provided for;
" and I juft now recollect an old promife, which " my confcience tells me I ought to perform-I'll " firft convince thee, that I'm not a wretch with" out principle, and then thou fhalt have an op" portunity to take my life, which thou feem'ft to " thirft after fo eagerly-"

Eaftgate underftood the hint ; and told him, that one day fhould break no fquares; adding, "God "f forbid that I fhould be the means of hindering " you from acting the part of an honeft man, and "f a dutiful brother-" By virtue of this ceffation they returned peaceably togerher. Prankley forthwith made out the prefentation of the living, and delivered it to Eaftgate, telling him, at the fame time, he had now fettled his affairs, and was ready to attend him to the Firgrove; but Tom declared he could not think of lifting his hand againft the life of fo great a benefactor-He did more: when they next met at the coffee-houfe, he afked pardon of Mr. Pranklcy, if in his paffion he had faid any thing to give him cffence; and the 'fquire was 10 gracious as to forgive him with a cordial thake of the hand, declaring that he did not like to be at variance with an old college-companion-Next day, however, he lfft Bath abruptly ; and then Eaflgate told me all thefe particulars, not a little pleafed with the effeets of lis own fagacity, by which he has fecured a living worth 160 l . per annum.

Of my uncle, I have nothing at prelent to fay ; but that we fet out to-morrow tor London en famille. He and the ladies, with the maid and Chowder in a coach; I and the man-fervant a-horfeback. The particulars of our journey you fhall have in my next, provided no accident happens to prevent,
yours ever,
Bath, May $1 \%$
J. Meliord.

To Dr. Lewis.

DEAR DICK,

1 SHALL to-morrow fet out for London, where I have befpoke lodgings, at Mr. Norton's in Goldenfquare. Although I am no admirer of Bath, I fhall leave it with regret; becaufe I muft part with fome old friends, whom, in all probability, I fhall never fee again. In the courfe of coffee-houfe converfation, I had often heard very extraordinary encomiums paffed on the performances of Mr . Ta gentleman refiding in this place, who paints landfcapes for his amufement. As I have no great confidence in the tafte and judgment of coffee-houfe connoiffeurs, and never received much pleafure from this branch of the art, thofe general praifes made no impreffion at all on my curiofity; but at the requeft of a particular friend, I went yefterday to fee the pieces, which had been fo warmly commended - I muft own I am no judge of painting, though very fond of pictures. I don't imagine that my fenfes would play me fo falfe, as to betray me into admiration of any thing that was very bad; but, true it is, I have often overlooked capital beauties, in pieces of extraordinary merit-If I am not totally devoid of tafte, however, this young gentleman of Bath is the beft landfcape painter now living: I was ftruck with his performances in fuch a manner, as I had never been by fainting before.

His trees not only have a richnefs of foilage ane warmth of colouring, which delights the view; bu alfo a certain magnificence in the difpofition, anc fpirit in the cxpreflion, which I cannot defcribe. His management of the cbioro offcuro, or light and Thadow, Efpicially gleams of fun-fline, is altogether wonderful, both in the contrivance and execution; and te is fo happy in his perfpective, and marking his diffances at fea, by a progreffive feries of fhips, veffels, capes, and promontories, that I could not help thinking, I had a diftant view of thirty leagues upon the back-ground of the picture. If there is any tafte for ingenuity left in a degenerate age, faft finking into barbarifm, this artift, I apprehend, will make a capital figure, as foon as his works are known-

Two days ago, I was favoured with a vifit by Mr. Fitz-owen; who, with great formality, folicited my vote and intereft at the general election. I ought not to have been fhocked at the confidence of this man ; though it was remarkable, confidering what had paffed between him and me on a former occafion-Theie vifits are mere matter of form, which a candidate makes to every elector; even to thofe who, he knows, are engaged in the intereft of his competitor, left he fhould expofe himfelf to the impytation of pride, at a time when it is expected he fhould appear humble. Indeed, I know nothing fo abject as the behaviour of a man canvaffing for a feat in parliament——This mean proftration, (to borough-electors, effecially) has, I imagine, contributed in a great meafure to raife that firit of infolence among the vulgar ; which, like the devil, will be found very difficult to lay. Be that as it may, I was in fome confufion at the effrontery of Fiiz-owen; but 1 foon recolleeted my felf, and told him, 1 had not yet determined for whom I fhould give my vote, nor whether I fhould give it for any.-The truth is, I look upon both candidates in the fame light ; and fhould think myfelf a traitor to the conftitution of my country, if I voted for either. If every elector would bring the fame confideration home to his confcience, we fhould not have fuch reafon to exclaim againft the venality of p-ts. But we are all a pack of venal and corrupted rafcals; fo loft to all fenfe of honefty, and all tendernefs of character, that, in a little time, I am fully perfuaded, nothing will be infamous but virtue and public-fpirit.G. H——, who is really an enthufiaft in patriotifm, and reprefented the capital in feverai fucceffive parliaments, declared to me t'other day, with the tears in his eyes, that he had lived above thirty years in the city of London, and dealt in the way of commerce with all the citizens of note in their turns; but that, as he fhould anfwer to God, he had never, in the whole courfe of his life, found above three or four whom he could call thoroughly honeft : a declaration, which was rather mortifying than furprizing to me; who have fourd fo few men of worth in the courfe of my acquaintance, that they ferve only as exceptions; which, in the grammarian's phrafe, confirm and prove a general canon -I know you will fay, G. H- faw unperfectly through the mift of prejudice, and I am rankled by the fpleen-Perhaps, you are partly in the right ; for I have perceived that my opinion of mankind, like mercury in the thermometor, rifes and falls according to the variations of the weather.

HUMPHRYCLINKER. ${ }^{113}$

Pray fettle accounts with Barnes; take what money of mine is in his hands, and give him acquittance. If you think Davis has ftock or credit enough to do juftice to the farm, give him a difcharge for the rent that is due : this will animate his induftry; for I know that nothing is fo difcouraging to a farmer, as the thoughts of being in arrears with his landlord. He becomes difpirited, and ne glects his labour ; and fo the farm goes to wreck Tabby has been clamouring for foine days abou the lamb's fkin, which Williams, the hind, beg ged of me, when he was laft at Bath. Pr'ythe take it back, paying the fellow the full value of it that I may have fome peace in my own houfe; and let him keep his own counfel, if he mcans to kee his place- 1 I fhall never prefume to defpife on cenfure any poor man, for fuffering himfelf to be hempecked; confcious how I myfeif am obliged to truckle to a domeftic dxmon; even though (bleffed be God) the is not yoked with me for life, in the matrimonial waggon- She has quarrelled wittu the fervants of the houfe about vails ; and fuch intolerable fcolding enfued on both fides, that I have been fain to appeafe the cook and chamber-maid by ftealth. Can't you find fome poer gentleman of Wales, to take this precious commodity off the hands of

114 The EXPEDITION of

> yours,

Bath, May 19.
M. Bramble.

To Dr. Lewis.

Docter Lews,

G IVE me leaf to tell you, methinks you mought employ your talons better, than to encourage fervants to pillage their mafters-I find by Gwyllim, that Villiams has got my fkin; for which he is an impotent rafcal. He has not only got my fkin, but, moreover, my butter-milk to fatten his pigs; and, I fuppofe, the next thing he gets, will be my pad to carry his daughter to church and fair : Roger gets this, and Roger gets that ; but I'd have you to know, I won't be rogered at this rate

Why any ragmatical fellow in the kingdom-And I 3 am furprized, doctor Lews, you would offer to put my affairs in compofition with the refuge and $\operatorname{skim}$ tof the hearth. I have toiled and moyled to a good copurpufs, for the advantage of Matt's family, if I can't fafe as much owl as will make me an under petticoat. As for the butter-milk, ne'er a pig in the parifh fhall thruft his fnout in it, with my good will. There's a famous phyfician at the Hot Well, that prefcribes it to his patience, when the cafe is confumptive; and the Scots and Irifh have begun to drink it already, in fuch quantities, that there is not a drop left for the hogs in the whole neighbourhood of Briftol. I'll have our buttermilk barrelled up, and fent twice a week to Aberginny, where it may be fold for a halfpenny the quart; and fo Roger may carry his pigs to another mar-ket-I hope, Doetor, you will not go to put any tmore fuch phims in my brother's head, to the prejudice of my pockat ; but rather give me fome raifins (which hitherto you have not done) to fubfrribe myfelf > your humble fervant, Tabitha Bramble.

Bath, May 19.

To Sir Watkin Phillips, of Jefus college, Oxon.

dear phillips,

WI THOUT waiting for your anfwer to my aft, I proceed to give you an account of our jourhey to London, which has not been wholly barren of adventure. Tuefday laft, the 'fquire took his place in a hired coach and four, accompanied by is fifter and mine, and Mrs. Tabby's maid, Wiifred Jenkins, whofe province it was to fupport

Chowder

n16 The EXPEDITION or

Chowder on a cufhion in her lap. I could fcarce refrain from laughing, when I looked into the vehicle, and faw that animal fitting oppofite to my uncle, like any other paffenger. The 'fquire, afhamed of his fituation, blufhed to the eyes: and calling to the poftillions to drive on, pulted the glafe up in my face. I, and his fervant John Thomas: attended them on horfeback.

Nothing worth mentioning occurred, till we ar rived on the edge of Marlborough Downs. There one of the four horfes fell, in going down hill at a round trot ; and the poftillion behind, endeavouring to ftop the carriage, pulled it on one fide into a deep iut, where it was fairly overturned. I had rode on about two hundred yards before; but, hearing a loud fcream, galloped back and difmounted, to give what affiftance was in my power. When I looked into the coach, I could fee nothing diftinclly, but the nether end of Jenkins, who was kicking her heels and fqualling with great vocife ration. All on a fudden, my uncle thruft up his bare pate, and bolied through the window, as nimble as a grafhopper, having made ufe of poor Win's pofteriors as a ftep to rife in his afcentThe man (who had likewife quitted his horfe) dragged this forlorn damfel, more dead than alive, through the fame opening. 'Then Mr. Bramble, pulling the door off its hinges with a jerk, laid hold on Liddy's arm, and brought her to the light ; very much frighted, but little hurt. It fell to my fhare to deliver our aunt Tatitha, who had loft her cap in the ftruggle; and being rather more than half frantic, with rage and terror, was no bad reprefentation of one of the fifter Furies that guard the gates of hell-She expreffed no fort of concern for her brother, who ran about in the cold, without his periwig, and worked with the moft aftonifhing agility, in helping to difentangle the hor-(es from the carriage : but fhe cried, in a tone of diftraction, "Chowder! Chowder! my dear "Chowder ! my poor Chowder is certainly killed."
This was not the cafe-Chowder, after having ore my uncle's leg in the confufion of the fall, had etreated under the feat, and from thence the footnan drew him by the neck; for which good office he bit his fingers to the bone. 'The fellow, who s naturally furly, was fo provoked at this affault, hat he faluted his ribs with a hearty kick, exclaimng, "Damn the nafty fon of a bitch, and them "that he belongs to !" A benediction, which was by no means loft upon the implacable virago his niftrefs.-Her brother, however, prevailed upon uer, to retire into a peafant's houfe, near the fcene f action, where his head and hers were covered, Ind poor Jenkins had a fit-Our next care was p apply fome fticking-plaifter to the wound in his eg, which exhibited the impreffion of Chowder's peth; but he never opened his lips againt the de-nquent-Mrs. Tabby, alarmed at this fcene, You fay nothing, Matt (cried fhe); but I know your mind-I know the fpite you have to that poor unfortunate animal! I know you intend to take his life away !" "You are miftaken, upon my honour ! (replied the 'fquire, with a farcaftic fmile) I fhould be incapable of harbouring any fuch cruel defign againft an object fo amiable and inoffenfive; even if he had not the happinefs to be your favourite."
John Thomas was not fo delicate. The fellow, hether really alarmed for his life, or inftigated by ie defire of revenge, cam in, and bluntly deanded, that the dog fhould be put to death; on he fuppofition, that if ever he fhould run mad reafter, he, who had been bit by him, would be fected-My uncle calmly argued upon the abfurty of his opinion, obferving, that he himfelf was in the fame predicament, and would certainly take the precaution he propofed, if he was not fure he ran no rifque of infection. Neverthelefs, Thomas continued obftinate ; and, at length, declared, that if the dog was not fhot immediately, he himfel would be his executioner-This declaration opened the flood gates of Tabby's eloquence, which would have fhamed the firft rate oratrefs of Billingfgate. The footman retorted in the fame ftile ; and the 'fquire difmiffed him from his fervice, after having prevented me from giving him a good horfewhipping for his infolence.

118 The EXPEDITION or

The coach being adjufted, another difficulty oc-curred-Mrs. Tabitha abfolutely refufed to enter it again, unlefs another driver could be found to take the place of the poftillion; who, fhe affirmed, had overturned the carriage from malice afore-thought-After much difpute, the man refigned his place to a fhabby country fellow, who undertook to go as far as Marlborough, where they could be better provided; and at that place we arrived about one o'clock, without farther impediment. Mrs. Bramble, however, found new matter of offence; which, indeed, fhe had a particular genius for extracting at will from almoft every incident in life. We had farce entered the room at Marlborough, where we ftayed to dine, when the exhibited a formal complaint againft the poor fellow who had fuperfeded the poftillion. She faid, he was fuch a beggarly rafcal, that he had ne'er a fhirt to his back; and had the impudence to fhock her fight by fhewing his bare pofteriors, for which act of indelicacy he deferved to be fet in the ftucks. Mrs. Winifred Jenkins confirmed the affertion, with refpect to his nakednefs, obferving, at the fame time, that he had a fkin as fair as alabafter.
" This

HUMPHRY CLINKER. 119

${ }^{6}$ This is a heinous offence, indeed, (cried my "s uncle) let us hear what the fellow has to fay in his own vindication." He was accordingly fummoned and made his appearance, which was enally queer and pathetic. He feemed to be about :wenty years of age, of a middling fize, with bandy egs, ftooping fhoulders, high forehead, fandy ocks, pinking eyes, flat nofe, and long chinput his complexion was of a fickly yellow : his looks lenoted famine; and the rags that he wore, could רardly conceal what decency requires to be covered -My uncle, having furveyed him attentively, aid, with an ironical expreflion in his conntenance, An't you afhamed, fellow, to ride poftilion with-- out a fhirt to cover your backfide from the view ' of the ladies in the coach ?" "Yes, I am, an - pleafe your noble honour (anfwered the man) ;

- but neceffity has no law, as the faying is-And 6 more than that, it was an accident-My breeches " cracked behind, after I had got into the faddle.--" - You're an impudent varlet, (cried Mrs. Tabby) for prefuming to ride before perfons of faftion without a fhirt-" "I am fo, an pleafe your worthy ladyfhip (faid he); but I'm a poor Wiltfhire lad.-I ha'nt a fhirt in the world, that I can call my own, nor a rag of clothes, an pleafe s your ladyhip, but what yon fee-I have no friend, nor relation upon earth to help me outI have had the fever and ague thefe fix months, and fpent all I had in the world upor doctors, ' and to keep foul and body together; and, faving ' your ladyfhip's good prefence, I ha'n't broke " bread thefe four and twenty hours-"
Mrs. Bramble, turning foom him, faid, fhe had bever feen fuch a filthy tatterdemalior, and bid jim begone; obferving, that he woold fill the room full of vermin-Her brother darted a fignificant flance at her, as fhe retired with Liddy ino another apartment ; and then afked the man if he wa known to any perfon in Marlborough ?-When hee anfwered, that the landlord of the inn had knows him from his infancy; mine hoft was immediately called, and being interrogated on the fubject, declared that the young fellow's name was Humphrey Clinker. That he had been a love-begotten babe, brought up in the work-houfe, and put out apprentice by the parifh to a country black-finith. who died before the boy's time was out: that he had for fome time worked under his oftler, as a helper and extra-poftilion, till he was taken ill of the ague, which difabled him from getting his bread : that, having fold or pawned every thing he had in the world for his cure and fubfiftence, he became fo miferable and fhabby, that he difgraced the ftable, and was difmiffed; but that he never heard any thing to the prejudice of his character in other refpects. "So that the fellow being fick " and deftitute, (faid my uncle) you turned him " out to die in the ftreets." "I pay the poor's "rate (replied the other), and I have no right to " maintain idle vagrants either in ficknefs or " health: befides, fuch a miferable object would " have brought a difcredit upon my houfe-" "You perceive (faid the 'fquire turning to me) " our landlord is a Chriftian of bowels-W ho fhall "s prefume to cenfure the morals of the age when " the very publicans exhibit fuch examples of " humanity ?——Hark ye, Clinker, you are a " moft notorious offender-You ftand convicted " of ficknefs, hunger, wretchedrefs and wantor But, as it does not belong to me to punifh cri" minals, I will only take upon me the tafk of " giving you a word of advice-Get a flurt " with all convenient difpatch, that your naked-
"s nefs may not henceforward give offence to tra" velling
" velling gentlewomen, efpecially maidens in " years-"

So faying, he put a guinea in the hand of the poor fellow, who ftood itaring at him in filence, with his mouth wide open, till the landlord pufhed him out of the room.

In the afternoon, as our aunt ftept into the coach, fhe obferved, with fome marks of fatisfaction, that the poftillion, whorode next to her, was not a fhabby wretch like the ragamuffin who had drove them to Marlborough. Indeed, the difference was very confpicuous: this was a fmart fellow, with a narrow brimmed hat, with gold cording, a cut bob, a decent blue jacket, leather breeches, and a clean linen fhirt, puffed above the waift-band. When we arrived at the caftle on Spin-hill, where we lay, this new poftillion was remarkably affiduous, in bringing in the loofe parcels; and, at lengh, difplayed the individual countenance of Humphry Clinker, who had metamorphofed himfelf in this manner, by relieving from pawn part of his own cloaths, with the money he had received from Mr. Bramble.

Howfoever pleafed the reft of the company were with fuch a favourable change in the appearance of this poor creature, it foured on the fomach of Mrs Tabby, who had not yet digefted the affront of his naked fkin ——She toffed her nofe in difdain, faying, fhe fuppofed her brother had taken him into favour, becaufe he had infulted her with his obfcenity; that a fool and his money were foon parted ; but that if Matt. intended to take the fellow with him to London, fhe would not go a foot further that way-My uncle faid nothing with his tongue, though his looks were futficiently expreffive; and next morning Clinkedid not appear, fo that we proceeded without further altercation to Salt-hill, where we propofed Vol. I

122 The EXPEDITION of

to dine-There, the firft perfon that came to th fide of the coach, and began to adjuft the fuot board, was no other than Humphry Clinker. When I handed out Mrs. Bramble, the eyed hit with a furious look, and paffed into the houfeMy uncle was embarraffed, and afked him peevifh ly what had brought him hither ? The fellow faid, his honcur had teen fo good to him, that h had not the heart to part with him; that he woul follow him to the world's end, and ferve him al the days of his life withowifee or reward-

Mr. Bramble did not know whether to ehide o laugh at this declaration+me He forefaw much con tradietion on the fide of Tabby ; and, on the othe hand, he could not but be pleafed with the grati tude of Clirker, as well as with the fimplicity o his charaCter-" Suppofe I was inclined to take " you inıo my fervice, (faid, he) what are your " qualifications? what are you good for" "Ar " pleafe your honour, (arfwered this origimal) 1 "can read and write," and do the bufinefs of the " flable indifferent well-I can drefs a hor:e, and " Thoe him, and bleed and rowel him ; and as for " the practife of fow-gelding, I won't turn my " back on e'er a he in the county of Wilts-Then " I can make hog's puddings and hob nails, mend " kettles, and tin fauce-pans-" Here uncle burft out a laughing; and erquired, what other accomplfhments he was mafter of - " I know fome"t thing of a fingle-ftick; and pralmody, (proceeded "Clirker) I can play upon the jew's harp, fing " Black-ey'd Sufan, Arthur o'Bradley and divers "cther fongs ; I can dance a Welfh jig, and " Nancy Dawfon; wrefle a fall with any lad of "s my inches, when I'm in heart ; and, under cor"rection, I can find a hare when your honour
"wants a bit of game." "Foregad! thou art a " complete
"s complete fellow, (cried my uncle, ft:ll laugh"s ing) I have a good mind to take thee into my "s family_Pr'ythee, go and try if thou canit 's make peace with my fifter-Thou haft given her much offence by fhewing her thy naked tail," Clinker accordingly followed us into the room, cap in hand, where, addreffing himfelf to Mrs. Tabitha, "May it pleafe your lady Mhip's worfhip * (cried hey to pardon and forgive my offences, and, with God's affiftance, I fhall take care that my tail fhall never rife up in judgment againft me, to offend your ladyrhip again-Do, pray, good, fweet, beautiful lady, take compaffion on a poor finner-God bleis your noble coun6 tenance; I am fure you are too handiome and generous to bear malice - I will ferve you on may bended knees, by night and by day, by land and by water ; and all for the love and pleafure of ferving fuch an excellent lady-"
This compliment and humiliation had fome efect upon Tabby; but fhe made no reply ; and Clinker, taking filence for confent, gave his attenance at dinner. The fellow's natural awkwardefs and the flutter of his fpirits were productive If repeated blunders in the courfe of his attendance -At lengit, he fpilt part of a cuftard upon her ght fhoulder ; and ftarting back, trod upon Chowder, who fet up a difmal howl Poor Iumplry was fo difconcerted at this double mifke that he dropt the china difh, which broke into thoufand pieces; then, falling down upon his hees, remained in that pofture garing, with a eft ludicrous afpect of diftrefs - N/2rs. Bramble w to the dog, and, fnatching him in her arms, efented him to her brother, faying, "f This is a:1 a concerted fcheme againft this unfortunate animal, whofe only crime is its regard for me-

$$
\text { F } 2 \text { "Here }
$$

12.4

The EXPEDITION of
" Here it is: kill it at once: and then you'll b "f fatisfied."

Clinker, hearing thefe words, and taking ther in the literal acceptation, got up in fome hurr) and, feizing a knife from the fide-board, cried "Not here, an pleafe your ladyfhip-it will dau "s the room-Give him to me and I'll carry hir " in the ditch by the road fide-" To this pre pofal he received no other anfwer, than a heart box on the ear, that made him flagger to the othe fide of the room. "What! (faid fhe to her bri 's ther) am I to beaffronted by every mangy houn " that you pick up in the highway? I infift uf " 6 on your fer.ding this rafcallion about his bufi "t nefs immediately-" "For God's fake, fiften "compofe yourfelf, (faid my uncle) and confider " that the poor fellow is innocent of any intenti "6 on to give you offence-" "Innocent as th "babe unborn"-(cri d Humphry.) "I fee "plainly, (exclaimed this implacable maiden) to
"a acts by your direction ; and you are refolved t "f fupport him in his impudence-This is a ba " return for all the fervices I have done you ; fc " nurfing you in your ficknefs, managing you " family, and keeping you from ruining yourfe "6 by your own imprudence- But now you fhat "s part wi it, that rafcal or me, upon the fpot, with " out $\mathrm{f}: 1$ th r lofs of time; and the world fhall fer " whether you have more regard for your ow "flefh and Mcod, or for a beggarly foundling "t taken from the dunghill-" Mr. Bramble's eyes began to gliften, and $h$ teeth to chatter. "If ftated fairly, (laid he, rai ' 6 ing his voice) the queftion is, whether I havt " (pirit to thake off an intollerable yoke, by on "cffort of refolution, or meannefs enough to " an act of cruelty and injuftice, to gratify ti © sancuur of a capricious woman--Hark
${ }^{16}$ Mrs. Tabitha Bramble, I will now propofe an " alternative in my turn-Either difcard your fouraror footed favourite, or give me leave to bid you eternally adieu-For I am determined that he and I fhall live no longer under the fame roof; and now to dinner witb what appetite you may-"
Thunder-ftruck at this declaration, fhe fat down in a corner ; and, after a paufe of fome minutes, Sure I don't underftand jou, Matt ! (faid Me)," And yet I fpoke in plain Englifh-" anfwered he 'fquire, with a peremptory look. "S Sir, (refumed this virago, effectually humbled) it is your prerogative to command, and my daty to obey. I can't difpofe of the dog in this place ; but if you'll allow him to go in the coach to London, I give you my word, he fhall never trouble you again -"
Her brother, entirely difarmed by this mild reply, declared, fhe could afk him nothing in reafon that he would refufe; adding, " 1 hope, fifter, " you have never found me deficient in natural af"c fection." Mrs. Tabitha immediately rofe, and, throwing her arms about his neck, kiffed him on the cheek : he returned her embrace with great emotion, Liddy fobbed, Win. Jenkins cackled, Chowder capered, and Clinker fkipped about, rubbing his hands for joy of this reconciliation.

Concord being thus reftored, we finifhed our meal with comfort ; and in the evening arrived at London, without having met with any other adventure. My aunt feems to be much mended by the hint fhe received from her brother. She has been gracioully pleafed to remove her difpleafure from Clinker, who is now retained as a footman; and in a day or two will make his appearance in a new fuit of livery ; but as he is little acquainted with London, we have taken an occafional valet,

126 The EXPEDITION of whom I intend hereafter to hire as my own fervant. We lodge in Golden-fquare, at the houle of one Mrs. Nurton, a decent fort of a woman, who takes great pains to make us all eafy. My uncle propoles to make a circuit of all the remarkable fcenes of this metropolis, for the entertainm ent of his pupils; but as both you and I are already acquainted with moft of thole he will vifit, and with fome others he little dreams of, I thall only communicate what will he in fome meafure nen 10 your obfervation. Remember me to our jefuitical friends, and believe me ever,

Dear knight, yours affectionately
London, May 24. J. Melford.

ติล
To Dr. Lewis.

DEAR DOCTOR,

I ONDON is literally new to me; new in its ftreets, houfes, and even in its fituation; as the Irifhman faid, "London is now gone out of town." What I left open fields, producing hay and corn, 1 now find covered with ftreets, and iquares, and palaces, and churches. I am credibly informed that in the fpace of feven years, eleven thoufand new houfes have been built in one quarter of Weftminfter, exclufive of what is daily added to other parts of this unweildy metropolis. Pimlico and Kni htrbridge are now almoft joined to Cheliea and Kenfington ; and if this infatuation continues for half a century, I fuppofe the whole county of Middlefex will be covered with brick.

It muft be allowed, indeed for the credit of the prefent age, that London and Weftminfter are much much better paved and lighted than they were formerly. The new ftreets are fpacious, regular and airy; and the houfes generally convenient. The bridge at Blackfriars is a noble monument of tafte and public fpirit-I wonder how they ftumbled upon a work of fuch magnificence and utility. But, notwithflanding thefe improvements, the capital is become an overgrown moufter; which, like a dropfical head, will in time leave the body and extremities without nourifhment and fupport. The abfurdityanwill appear in its full force, when we confider, that one fixth part of the natives of this whole extenfive kingdom, is crowded within the bitls of Mortality. What wonder that our villages are depopulated, and our farms in want of day-labourers? The abolition of fmall farms, is but one caufe of the decreafe of population. Indeed the incredible increafe of horles and black cattle, to anfwer the purpofes of suxury, requires a prodigious quantity of hay and grafs, which are raifed and managed wishout much labour; but a number of hands will always be wanted for the different branches of agriculture, whether the farms be large or fmall. The tide of luxury has Fwept all the inhabitants from the open countryThe pooreft 'fquire, as well as the richeft peer, muft have his houfe in town, and make a figure with an extraordinary number of domeftics. The plough-boys, cow-herds; and lower hinds, are debauched and feduced by the appearance and difzourfe of thofe coxcombs in livery, when they nake their fummer excurfions. They defert their Hirt and drudgery, and fwarm up to London, in hopes of getting into fervice, where they can live uxurioufly and wear fine clothes, without being obliged to work; for idlenefs is natural to manGreat numbers of thefe, being difapponited in their expectation, become thieves and fharpers; and $F_{4}$

London

128 The EXPEDITION of

London being an immenfe wildernefs, in which there is neither watch nor ward of any fignification, nor any order or police, affords them lurkingplaces as well as prey.

There are many caufes that contribute to the daily increafe of this enormous mafs; but they may be all refolved into the grand fource of luxury and corruption-About five and twenty years ago, very few, even of the moft opulent citizens of London, kept any equipage, or even any fervants in livery. Their tables produced nothing but plain boiled and roafted, with a bottle of port and a tankard of beer. At prefent, every trader in any degree of credit, every broker and attorney, maintains a couple of footmen, a coachman and poftillion. He has his town-houfe, and his countryhoufe, his coach, and his poftchaife. His wife and daughters appear in the richeft ftuffs, befpangled with diamonds. They frequent the court, the opera, the theatre, and the mafquerade. They hoid affemblies at their own houfes: they make fumptuous entertainments, and treat with the richeft wines of Bourdeaux, Burgundy, and Champagne. The fubftantial tradefman, who wont to pafs his evenings at the ale-houfe for four-pence half penny, now fpends three fhillings at the tavern, while his wife keeps card-tables at home ; The muft likewife have fine clothes, her chaife, or pad, with country lodgings, and go three times a week to public diverfions. Every clerk, apprentice, and even waiter of tavern or Coffee-houfe, maintains a gelding by himfelf, or in partnerfhip, and affumes the air and apparel of a petit maitreThe gayeft places of public entertainment are filled with fafhionable figures; which, upon enquiry, will be found to be journeymen taylors, fervingmen, and abigails, difguifed like their betters.

In fhort, there is no diftinction or fubordination left - The different departments of life are jumbled together--The hod-carrier, the low mechanic, the tapfter, the publican, the fhop-keeper, the pettifogger, the citizen, and courtier, all tread upon the kibes of one anotbor: actuated by the demons of profligacy and licentioufnefs, they are feen every where, rambling, riding, rolling, rufhing, juftling, mixing, bouncing, cracking, and crafhing in one vile ferment of ftupidity and corruption-All is tumult and hurry; one would imagine they were impelled by fome diforder of the brain, that will not fuffer them to be at reft. The foot-paffengers run along as if they were purfued by bailiffs. The porters and chairmen trot with their burdens. People, who keep their own equipages, drive through the ftreets at full fpeed. Even citizens, phyficians, and apothecaries, glide in their chariots like lightning. The hackney-coachmen make their horfes fmoke, and the pavement fhakes under them; and I have actually feen a waggon pafs through Piccadilly at the hand-gallop. In a word, the whole nation feems to be running out of their wits.

The diverfions of the times are not ill-fuited to the genius of this incongrous monfter, called the public. Give it noife, confufion, glare, and glitter; it has no idea of elegance and proprietyWhat are the amufements at Ranelagh ? One half of the company are following one another's tails, in an eternal circle; like fo many blind affes in an olive-mill; where they can netther difcourfe, diftinguifh, nor be diftinguifhed; while the other half are drinking hot water, under the denomination of tea, till nine or ten o'clock at night, to keep them awake for the reft of the evening. As for the or cheflra, the vocal mufick efpecially, it is well for the performers that they cannot be heard diftinely. Vauxhall is a compofition of baubles, overcharged with paltry ornaments, ill-conceived, and poorly exccuted; without ary unity of defign, or pro.

Y 30 The EXPEDITION or

priety of difpofition. It is an unnatural affembly of objects, fantaftically illuminated in broken marfes; feemingly contrived to dazzle the eyes and divert the imagination of the vulgar-Here a wooden lion, there a ftone ftatue; in one place, a range of things like coffee-houfe boxes, covered atop; in another, a parcel of ale-houfe benches; in a third, a puppet fhew reprefentation of a tin: cafcade; in a fourth, a gloomy cave of a circular form, like a fepulchral vault half-lighted; in a fifth, a fcanty flip of grafs-plat, that would not afford pafture fufficient for an afs's colt. The walks, which nature feems to have intended for folitude, fhade, and filence, are filled with crowds of noify people, fucking up the nocturnal rheums of an aguifh climate; and through thefe gay feenes, a few lamps glimmer like fo many farthing candles.

When I fee a number of well dreffed people, of both fexes, fitting on the covered benches, expofed to the eyes of the mob; and, which is worfe, to the cold, raw, night-air, devouring fliced beef, and fwilling port, and punch, and cider, I can't help compaffionating their temerity, while I defpife their want of tafte, and decorum ; but, when they courfe along thofe damp and gloomy walks, or crowd together upon the wet gravel, without any other cover than the cope of Heaven, liftening to a fong, which one half of them cannot pofibly hear, how can I help fuppofing they are aetually poffeffed by a fpirit more abiurd and pernicious than ary thing we meet with in the precinets of Bedlam? In all probability, the proprietors of this, and other public gardens of inferior note, in the fkirts of the metropolis, are, in fome fhape, connected with the faculty of phyfic, and the company of undertakers; for, confidering that eage:nefs in the purivit of what is called pleafure, which now predominates through every rank and denomination of life, I am perfuased, that more gouts, rheumatifms, catarrhs, and confumptions are caught in thefe nocturnal paftimes, fub die, than from all the rifques and accidents to which a life of toil and danger is expofed.

Thefe and other obfervations, which I have made in this excurfion, will fhorten my ftay at London, and fend me back with a double relifh to my folitude and mountains; but I fhall return by a different route from that which brought me to town. I have feen fome old friends, who conftantly refided in this virtuous metropolis, but they are fo changed in manners, and difpofition, that we hardly know or care for one another-In our journey from. Bath, my fifter Tabby provoked me into a tranfport of paffion; duriug which, like a man who has drank himfelf pot valiant, I talked to her in fuch a ftile of authority and refolution, as produced a moft bleffed effect. She and her dog have been remarkably quiet and orderly, ever fince this expoftulation. How long this agreeable calm will laft, Heaven above knows-I Hatter myfelt the exercife of travelling has been of fervice to my health; a circumftance, which encourages me to proceed in my projected expedition to the North. But 1 muft, in the mean time, for the benefit and amufement of my pupils, explore the depths of this chaos; this mifhapen and monftrous capital, without head or tail, members or proporticn.

Thomas was fo in olent to my fifter on the road, that I $u$ as obliged to turn bim off abruptly, betwixt Chippenham and Marltorough, where our coach was overturned. The fellow was always fullen and felfinh; but, if he fhould return to the country, you may give him a character for honefty and fobriety; ard, provided he bchaves with proper refpect to the family, let him have a couple of guineas in the name of Loadon, May 29. Matt. Bramble.

To Mifs Letitia Wileis, at Gloucefter.

MYDIAR LETTY,

INEXPRESSIBLE was the pleafure I received from yours of the 25 th, which was taft night put into my hands by Mrs. Brentwood, the milliner, from Gloucefter-I rejoice to hear that my worthy governefs is in good health, and, ftill more, that fhe no longer retains any difpleafure towards her poor Liddy, I am forry you have loft the fociety of the agreeable mifs Vaughan; but, I hope, you won't have caufe much longer to regret the departure of your fchool companions, as I make no doubt but your parents will, in a little time, bring you into the world, where you are fo well qualified to make a diftinguifhed figure. When that is the cafe, I flatter myfelf you and I fhall meet again, and be happy together; and even improve the friendfhip which we contracted in our tender years-This at leaft I can promife-It fhalt not be for the want of my utmoft endeavours, if our intimacy does not continue for life.

About five days ago we arrived in London, after an eafy journey from Bath ; during which, however, we were overturned, and met with fome other little incidents, which had like to have occafioned a mifunderftanding betwixt my uncle and aunt; but now, thank God, they are happily reconciled: we live in harmony together, and every day make parties to fee the wonders of this vaft metropolis, which, however, I cannot pretend to defcribe; for I have not as yet fcen one hundredth part of its curiofities, and I am quite in a maze of admiration.

The cities of London and Weftminfter are fpread out into an incredible extent. The ftreets, fquares, rows, lanes, and alleys, are innumerable. Palaces, public buildings, and churches, rife in every quarter; and among thefe laft, St. Paul's appears with the molt aftonifhing preeminence. They fay it is not fo large as St. Peter's at Rome; but, for my own part, I can have no idea of any earthly temple more grand and magnificent.

But even thefe fuperb objects are not fo friking as the crowds of people that fwarm in the ftreets. I at firf imagined, that fome great affembly was juit difmiffed, and wanted to fand afide till the multitude fhould pafs; but this human tide continues to flow, without interruption or abatement, from morn till night. Then there is fuch an infinity of gay equipages, coaches, chariots, chaifes, and other carriages, continually rolling and fhifting before your eyes, that one's head grows giddy looking at them; and the imagination is quite confounded with fplendour and variety. Nor is the profpea by water lefs grand and aftonifhing than that by land: you fee three ftupendous bridges, joining the oppofite banks of a broad, deep, and rapid river ; fo vaft, fo ftately, fo elegant, that they feem to be the work of giants : betwixt them, the whole furface of the Thames is covered with fmall veffels, barges, boats, and wherries, paffing to and fro; and below the three bridges, fuch a prodigious foreft of mafts, for miles together, that you would think all the fhips in the univerfe were here affembled. All that you read of wealth and grandeur in the Arabian Night's Fintertainment, and the Perfian Tales, concerning Bagdad, Diarbekir, Damafcus, Ifpahan, and Samarkand, is here realized.

Ranelagh looks like the inchanted palace of a genie, adorned with the moft exquifite performan-

134

 The EXPEDITION osces "of painting, carving, and gilding, enlightened with a thoufand golden lamps, that emulate the noon-day fun; crowded with the great, the rich, the gay, the happy, and the fair; glittering with cloth of gold and filver, lace, embroidery, and precious ftores. While thefe exulting fons and daughters of felicity tread this round of pleafure, or regale in different parties, and feparate lodges, with fine imperial tca and other delicious refrefhments, their tars are entertained with the moft ravifhing delights of mufick, both inftrumental and vocal. There I teard the famous Tenducci, a thing from Italy-It looks for all the world like a man, though they fay it is not. - The voice, to be fure, is reither man's nor woman's; but it is more melodious than either; and it warbled fo divinely, tha', while I liftened, I really thought myfelf in paradife.

At nine o'clock, in a charming moon-light evening, we embarked at Ranelagh for Vauxhall, in a wherry, fo light and flender, that we looked like fo many fairies failing in a nut-fhell. My uncle, being apprehenfive of catching cold upon the water, went round in the coach, and my aunt would have accompanied him, but he would not fuffer me to go by water if the went by land; and. therefore fhe favoured us with her company, as fhe perceived I had a curicfity to make this agrecable voyage-Afier all, the veffel was fufficiently loaded; for, tefides the watermen, there was my brother Jery, ard a friend of his, ene Mr. Barton, a courtry enteteman, of a gocd fortune, who had dired at our houfe - The pleafure of this little excurfen wes, foucver, damped, by my lieing fadly fughted at curlanding; where here was a terrible coniufin of uherries, and a croud of pecple tawling, and fwearing, and cuarrelling: ray, a parcel of ugly-leching fellows came rurning into the water, and laid hold on our boat with great violence, to pull it afhore; nor would they quit their hold till my brother fluck one of them over the head with his cane But this flutter was fully recompenfed by the pleafures of Vauxhall; which I no fooner entered, than I was dazzled and confounded with the variety of beauties that rufhed all at once upon my eye. Image to yourfelf, my dear Letty, a fpacious garden, part laid out in delightful walks, bounded with high hedges and trees, and paved with gravel ; part exhibiting a wonderful affemblage of the moft picturefque and ftriking objects, pavilions, lodges, groves, grottces, lawns, temples, and cafcades; porticoes, colonades, and rotundos; adorned with pillars, flatues, and painting: the whole illuminated with an infinite number of lamps, difpofed in different figures of funs, ftars, and conftellations; the place crowded with the gayeft company, ranging thro' thofe blifsful fhades, or fupping in different lodges, on cold collations, enlivened with mirth, freedom, and good humour, and animated by an excellent band of mufick. Among the vocal performers I had the happinefs to hear the celebrated Mrs. -, whofe voice was fo loud and fo fhrill, that it made my head ake through excefs of pleafure:

In about half an hour after we arrived we were joined by my uncle, who did not feem to relifh the place. People of experience and infirmity, my dear Letty, fee with very different eyes from thofe that fuch as you and I make ufe of-Our evening's entertainment was interrupted by an unlucky accident. In one of the remoteft walks we were furprifed with a fudden fhower, that fet the whole company a running, and drove us in heaps, one upon another, into the rotundo; where my uncle, finding himfelf wet, began to be very peevifh and urgent to be gone. My brother went to look for the coach, and found it with much difficulty; but as it could not hold us all, Mr. Barton ftayed behind. It was fome time before the carriage could be brought up to the gate, in the confufion, notwithftanding the utmoft endeavours of our new footman Humphry Clinker, who loft his fcratch periwig, and got a broken head in the fcuffle. The moment we were feated, my aunt pulled off my uncle's fhoes, and carefully wrapped his poor feet in her capuchin; then fhe gave him a mouth-full of cordial, which fhe always keeps in her pocket, and his clothes were fhifted as foon as we arrived at our lodgings; fo that, bleffed be God, he efcaped a fevere cold, of which he was in great terror.

As for Mr. Barton, I muft tell you in confidence, he was a little particular; but, perhaps, I miftake his complaifance; and I wifh I may, for his fake -You know the condition of my poor heart; which, in fpite of hard ufage-And yet I ought not to complain: nor will I, till, farther information.

Befides Ranelagh and Vauxhall, I have been at Mrs. Cornely's affembly, which, for the rooms, the company, the dreffes, and decorations, furpaffes all defcription ; but as I have no great turn for card-playing, I have not yet entered thoroughly into the fpirit of the place: Indeed I am ftill fuch a country hoyden, that I could hardly find patience to be put in a condition to appear, yet I was not above fix hours under the hands of the hair-dreffer, who ftuffed my head with as much black wool as would have made a quilted petticoat; and, after all, it was the fmalleft head in the affembly, except my aun's-She, to be fure, uas fo particular with her rumpt gown ard petticcat, her icanty curls, her lappet-head, deep triple rufles, and high ftays, that every body looked at her with furprife; fome whifpered, and fome tittered; and lady Grikin, by whom we were introduced, flatly told her, the was twenty good years behind the fathion.

HUMPHRY CLINKER. ${ }^{37}$

Lady Grifkin is a perfon of fafhion, to whom we have the honour to be related. She keeps a fmall rout at her own houfe, never exceeding ten or a dozen card-tables, but thefe are frequented by the beft company in town-She has been fo obliging as to introduce my aunt and me to fome of her particular friends of quality, who treat us with the moft familiar good humour: we have once dined with her, and fhe takes the trouble to direct us in all our motions. I am fo happy as to have gained her good will to fuch a degree, that fhe fometimes adjuits my cap with her own hands; and the has given me a kind invitation to fay with her all the winter. This, however, has been cruelly declined by my uncle, who feems to be (I know not how) prejudiced againft the good lady; for, whenever my aunt happens to fpeak in her commendation, I obferve that he makes wry faces, though he fays nothing-Perhaps, indeed, thefe grimaces may be the effect of pain arifing from the gout and rheumatifn, with which he is fadly diftreffed-To me, however, he is always good natured and generoirs, even beyond my wiff. Since we came hither, he has made me a prefent of a fuit of clotbes, with trimmings and laces, which coft more money than I fhall mention; and Jery, at his defire, has given me my mother's diamond drops, which are ordered to be fet a-new ; fo that it won't be his fault if I do not glitter among the ftars of the fourth or fifth magnitude. I wifh my weak head may not grow giddy in the midft of all this gallantry and diffipation; though, as yet, I can fafely declare, I could gladly give up all thefe tumultuous pleafures, for country folitude, and a happy retreat with thofe we love; among whom, my dear Willis will always poffers the firft place in the breaft of her ever affectionate,

138 The EXPEDITION of

London, May 3 r.
Lydia Melford.

To Sir Watkin Phillips, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxon.

DEAR PHILLIPS,

I SFND you this letter, franked by our old friend Barton; who is as muchialtered as it was poffible for a man of his kidney to be-Inftead of the carelefs, indolent floven we knew at Oxford, I found him a bufy talkative politician ; a petitmaitre in his drefs, and a ceremonious courtier in his manners. He has not gall enough in his conftitution to be inflamed with the rancour of party, fo as to deal in fcurrilous invectives; but, fince he obtained a place, he is become a warm partizan of the miniftry, and fees every thing through fuch an exaggerating medium, as to me, who am happily of no party, is altogether incomprehenfibleWithout all doubt, the fumes of faction not only difturb the faculty of realon, but alfo pervert the organs of fenfe; and I would lay an hundred guireas to ten, that if Barton on one fide, and the moft conficienc:ous patriot in the oppofition on the other, were to draw, upon honour, the picture of the k - or m -, you and I , who are fill uninfected, and unbiafed, would find both painters equally difiant from the truth. One thing, however, muft be allowed for the honour of Barton, he never breaks out into illiberal abufe, far lefs endeavours, by infamous calumnies, to blaft the moral character of any individual, on the other fide.

Ever

Ever fince we came hither, he has been remarkably affiduous in his attention to our family ; an attention, which in a man of his indolence and avocations, I fhould have thought altogether oidd, and even unnatural, had not I perceived that my fifter Liddy has made come impreffion upon his heart. I can't fay that I have any objection to his trying his fortune in this purfuit ; it an opulent eftate, and a great fock of good-nature are fufficient qualifications in a hufband, to render the marriage-itate happy for life, fhe may be happy with Barton : but, I imagine, there is fomething elfe required to engage and fecure the affection of a woman of fenfe and delicacy: fomething which nature has denied our friend-Liddy feems to be of the fame opinion. When he addreffes bimfelf to her in difcourfe, the feems to liften with reluctance, and indufrioufly avoids all particular communication ; but in proportion to her coynefs, our aunt is coming. Mrs. Tabitha goes more than half way to meet his advances; fhe miffakes, or affects to miftake, the meaning of his courtefy, which is rather formal and fuliome; the returns his compliments with hyperbolical intereft, fhe perfecutes him with her civilities at table, fhe appeals to him for ever in converfation, fhe fighs, and flirts, and ogles, and by her hideous affectation a: d impertinence, drives the poor courtier to the very extremity of his complaifance : in fhort, fhe leems o bave undertaken the fiege of Barton's heart, and carries on her approaches in fuch a de perate nanner, that I don't know whether he will not be bliged to capitulate. In the mean time, his averion to this inamorat a ftruggling wih his acquired iffability, and his natural fear of giving offence, hrows him into a kind of difterefs which is exremely ridiculous.
Two days ago, he perfuaded my uncle and me to uccompany him to St. James's, where he undertook to make us acquainted with the perfons of all the great men in the kingdom; and, indeed, there was a great affemblage of diftinguifhed characters, for it was a high feftival at court. Our conductor performed his promife with 'great puncuality. He pointed out almof every individual of both fexes, and generally introduced them to our notice, with a flourifh of panegyrick- Seeing the King approach, "'There comes (faid he) the moft amia-
" ble fovereign that ever fwayed the fceptre of En-
" land; the delicice bumani generis; Augu fus, in " patronizing merit ; Titus Vefpafian in generofi-
"ty ; Tragan in benificence; and Marsus Aure-" lius, in philofophy." "A very honeit kind " hearted gentleman (added my uncle) ; he's too " good for the times. A king of England fhould " have a fpice of the devil in his compofitut.." Barton, then turning to the duke of C - , proceed-ed,-"Youknow the duke; that illuftrious hero, " who trod rebellion under his feet, and fecured us " in poffeffion of every thing we oughtto hold dear,
" as Englifhmen and Chriftians. Mark what an " eye, how penetrating, yet pacific! what dignity
" in his mein! what humanity in his afpect-
" Even malice muft own, that he is one of the
"g greateft officers in Chriftendom." "I think he
" be (faid Mr. Bramble); but who are thefe young " gentlemen that ftand befide him?"" "Thofe!
" (cried our friend) thofe are his royal nephews;
"the princes of the blood. Sweet young princes!
" the facred pledges of the Proteftant line; fo fpi" rited fo fenfible, for princely-" "Yes; very "fenfible! very fpirited! (faid my uncle, inter-
"6 rupting him) but fee the queen! ha, there's the " queen-There's the queen! let me fee-Let me
" fee-Where are my glaffes ? ha ! there's mean"s ing in that eye-There's fentiment-There's "' expreffion. Well, Mr. Barton, what figure do
" you call next?" The next perfon he pointed " out, was the favourite yearl; who food folitary by one of the windows-" Behold yon northern "flar, (faid he) foorn of bis beams-" "What! " the Caledonian luminary, that lately blazed fo " bright in our hemifphere !methinks, at prefent, "s it glimmers through a fog; like Saturn without " his ring, bleak and dim, and diftant- Ha , there's 's the other great phenomenon, the grand penfi" onary, that weather-cock of patriotifm that veers " about in every point of the political compafs, " and ftill feels the wind of popularity in his tail.
" He too, like a portentous comet, has rifen above
" the court horizon; but how long he will con" tinue to afcend, it is not eafy to foretell, confi6 dering his great occentricity - Who are thofe " two fatellites that attend his motions?" When Barton told him their names, "To their charac" ters (faid Mr. Bramble) I am no ftranger. One " of them, without a drop of red blcod in his veins, " has a cold, intoxicating vapour in his head; and, " rancour enough in his heart to incculate and af. " fect a whole nation. The other is (I hear) in. " tended for a fhare in the ad- $n$, and the penfi" onary vouches for his being duly qualified - The " only inftance I ever heard of his fagacity, was " his delerting his former patron, whell he found " him declining in power, and in difgrace with " the people. Without principle, talent, or in" telligence, he is as ungracious as a hog, greedy " 6 as a vulture, and thievifh as a jackdaw ; but, it "' mult be owned, he is no hypocrite. He pretends " to no virtue, and takes no pains to diguife his " claracter-His miniftry will be attended with " one advantage, no man will be dilappointed by '" his breach of promite, as no mortal ever trufted
" to his word. I wonder how lord -_ firit
" difcovered this happy genius, and for what pur-
" pofelord- has now adepted him : but one " would think, that as amber has a power to at${ }^{\text {'s }}$ tract dirt, and ftraws, and chaff, a minifter is 's endued with the fame kind of faculy, to lick " up every knuve and blockbe d in bis wayHis euligium was interrupted by the arrival of the old duke of $\mathrm{N}-$; who, fqueezing into the circle witha bufy face of importance, truft his head into every countenance, as if he had been in fearch of fome bcdy, to whom he wanted to impart fomething of great confequence- $\quad \mathrm{My}$ uncle, who had been formerly known to him, bowed as he paffed, and the duke, feeing himfelf faluted fo refpectully by a well-dreffed perfon, was not flow in returning the curtefy He even came up, and, and taking him cordially by the hand, "My dear friend, Mir. A-C, (faid " he) I am rejoiced to fee you-How long have " you been come from abroad?-How did you " leave our good friends, the Dutch ? The king " of Pruffia don't think of another war, ah ?-
"He's a great king! a great conqueror! a very "great conqueror ! Your Alexanders and Han" nibals were nothing at all to him, Sir-Cor"porals! drummers ! drofs ! mere trafh "Damned trafi, heh ?-" His grace beitg by this time out of breath, my uncle took the opfortunity to tell him he had not been out of England, that his name was Bramble, and that he had the honour tofit in the laft parliament but one of the late king, as repreiertative for the borough of Dymkymraig. "Odfo! (cried the " duke) I ramember you perfectly well, my dear " Mr. Bramble-You was always a good and " loyal fubject-a flaunch friend to adminiftra-
" tion-I made your brother an Irifh bifhop"Pardon me, miy lord, (faid the 'quire) I once " had a brother, but he was a captain in the "army-" "Ha ! faid his grace) he was fo-He "' was, inideed! But who was the bithop then? "Bifhop Blackberry - Sure it was Bifhop Black-"6erry-Perhaps fome relation of yours-" * Very likely, my lord (replied my uncle) ; the
'Glackberty is the fruit of the Bramble-But, I
"s blieve, the Bimop is not a berry of our bufh - -" ${ }^{6}$ No more he is-No more he is, ha, ha, ha !
'G (exclaimed the duke) there you gave me a fcratch, good Mr. Bramble, ha; ha, ha!-
's Well, if fhall be glad to fee you at Lincoln's" inn-fields - You know the way-Times are altered. Though I have loft the power, I re' tain the inclination- Your very humble fervant, "s goud Mr. Blackteerry-" So faying, he fhoved to another corner of the room. "What a fine "s old gentleman! (cried Mr Barton) what fpirits! "' what a memory ! 1 He never forgets an old " friend." "Je does me too much honour, is (obferved our 'Tquitc)' to rark me among the " number-W hilft I at in parliament, I never ${ }^{66}$ voted with the miniftry but three times, when 6 my confcience told me they were in the right : ${ }^{16}$ however, if he fill keeps levee, I will carry "my nephew thither, that he may fee, and learn "to avoid the fcere; for, I think, an Inglifin © gentleman never appears to fuch diadvantage, * as at the levee of a minifter- Of his grace I \%6 fhall fay no:hing at prefent, lut that for thirty " years he was the conffant and common but of "ridicule and execration. Ife was generally " laughed at as an ape in politics, whole office " and influence ferved only to render bis folly the " more notorious; and the oppofition curfed him, " 6 as the indefatigable drudge of a firit-mover, " who wa juftly ftiled and figmatized as the fa"s ther of corruption: but this ridiculous ape, ${ }^{6}$ this venal drudge, no fooner left the places he was fo ill qual: fied to fill, and unfurled the ban${ }^{\text {sc }}$ " ners of faction, than he was metamorphcfed into " a pattern of public virtue; the very people who "reviled himbefore, now extolled him to the " 1 kies, as a wife, experienced ftatefman, chief " pillar of the Proteftant fucceffion, and corner 's ftone of Englifh liberty. I fhould be glad to " know how Mr. Barton recunciles thefe contra"didions, without obliging us to refign all title "to the privilege of common fenfe." My dear "s fir, (anfwered Barton) I don't pretend to juftify " the extravagations of the multitude ; who, I "fuppofe, were as wild in their former cenfure, as " in their prefent praife : but I fhall be very glad 's to attend you on Thurfday next to his grace's 's levee; where, I'm afraid, we fhall not be crowd"s ed with company; for, yon know, there's a "s wide difference between his prefent office of pre " fident of the council, and his former poft of firft " lord commiffioner of the treafury."

This communicative friend having announced all the remarkable characters of both fexes, that appeared at court, we refolved to adjourn, and retired. At the foot of the flair-cafe, there was a crowd of lacqueys and chairmen, and in the midft of them ftood Humphry Clinker, exalted upon a ftool, with his hat in one, hand and a paper in the other, in the act of holding forth to the peopleBefore we could inquire into the meaning of this exhibition, he perceived his mafter, thruft the paper into his pocket, deicended from his elevation, bolted through the crowd, and brought up the carriage to the gate.

My uncle faid nothing till we were feated, when after having locked at me earneftly for fome time, he burft out a-laughing, and afked if I knew upon whar fubject Clinker was holding for thto the mob:
${ }^{6}$ If (faid he) the fellow is turned mountebank, "I muft turn him out of my fervice, otherwife " he'll make Merry Andrews of us all-" I obferved that, in all probability, he had ftudied medicine under his mafter, who was a farrier.At dinner, the 'fquire afked him, if he had ever practifed phyfic? " Yes, an pleafe your honour, (faid " he) among brute beafts ; but I never meddle with "t rational creatures." "I know not whether you "s rank in that clafs the audience you was ha" ranguing in the court at St. James's, but I fhould 's be glad to know what kind of powders you was " diftributing; and whether you had a good "fale-" "Sale, fir ! (cried Clinker) I hope I " fhall never be bafe enough to fell for gold and 's filver, what freely comes of God's grace. I dif" tributed nothing, an like your honour, but a "word of advice to my fellows in fervitude and " fin." "Advice concerning what ?" " Con"cerning profane fwearing, an pleafe your ho"s nour; fo lorrid and fhocking, that it made my "s hair ftand on end." "Nay, if thou can'ft cure st them of that difeafe, I fhall think thee a won"derful doctor indeed-" "Why not cure them, my good mafter ? the hearts of thofe poor people are not fo ftubborn as your honour feems to think-Make them firft fenfible that you have nothing in view but their good, then they will liften with patience, and eafily be convinced of - the fin and folly of a practice that affords neither "profit nor pleafure-" At this remark, our untle changed colour, and looked round the company, confcious that his own witbers were not altoretber unwrung. "But, Clinker, (faid he) if is you fhould have eloquence enough to perfuade & the vulgar, to refign thofe tropes and figures of ${ }^{6} 6$ rhetoric, there will be little or nothing left to is diftinguifh their converfation from that of their Vol. I.

146 The EXPEDITION of

" betters." "But then your honour knows, 's their converfation will be void of offence; and, " at the day of judgment, there will be no dif" tinction of perfons."

Humphry gowing down ftairs to fetch up a bottle of wine, my uncle congratulated his fifter upon having fuch a reformer in the family; when Mrs. Tabitha declared, he was a fober civilized fellow, very refpectful; and very induftrious; and, the believed, a good Chriftian into the bargain. One would think, Clinker muft really have fome very extraordinary talent, to ingratiate himfelf in this manner with a virago of her character, fo fortified againft him with prejudice and relentment ; but the truth is, fince the adventure of Salt-hill, Mrs. Tabby feems to be entirely changed. She has left off fcolding the fervants, an exercife which was grown babitual and even feemed neceffary to her conftitution ; and is become fo indifferent to Chowder, as to part with him in a prefent to lady Grifkin, who propofes to bring the breed of him into fathion. Her ladyfhip is the widow of fir Timothy Grikin, a diftant relation of our family. She enjoys a jointure of five hundred pounds a-year, and makes fhift io fpend three times that fum. Her character before marriage was a little equivocal; but at prefent the lives in the bon ton, keeps card tables, gives private fuppers to felect friends, and is vifited by perfons of the firft fafhion-She has been remarkably civil to us all, and cultivates my uncle with the moft particular regard; but the more fhe flrokes him, the more his briftles feem to rife-To her compliments he makes very laconic and dry returns-T'other day, fhe fent us a pottle of fine ftrawberries, which he did not receive without figns of difguft, muttering from the Eneid, timeo Danaos et Dona ferentes. She has twice called for Liddy, of a forenoon, to take an airing airing in the coach; but Mrs. Tabby was always fo alert, (I fuppole by his direction) that the never could have the niece without her aunt's company. -I have endeavoured to found Square-toes on this fubject; but he carefully avoids all explanation.

I have now, dear Phillips, filled a whole fheet ; and if you have read it to an end, I dare fay, you are as tired as

your humble fervant,

London, June 2. J. Melford.

To Dr, Le wis.

YES, Doctor I have feen the Britifh Mufeum ; which is a noble collection, and even ftupendous, I we confider it was made by a private man, a Shyfician, who was obliged to make his own forune at the fame time : but great as the collection s, it would appear more itriking if it was arrangd in one fpacious faloon, inftead of being divided to different apartments, which it does not entire-fill-I could wifh the feries of medals was onnected, and the whole of the animal, vegetable, nd mineral kingdoms completed, by adding to ach at the public expence, thofe articles that are anting. It would likewife be a great improvetent. with refpect to the library, if the deficienes were made up, by purchafing all the books of paracter that are not to be found already in the Hlection-They might be claffed in centuries, acrding to the dates of their publication, and calogues printed of them and the manufcripts, for e information of thofe that want to confult, or mpile from fuch author ties. I could alfo wifh the honour of the nation, that there was a comte apparatus for a courfe of mathematics, me- falary fettled upon an able profeffor, who fhould give regular lectures on thefe fubjects.

But this is all idle fpeculation, which will never be reduced to practice-Confidering the temper of the times, it is a wonder to fee any inftitution whatfoever eftablifhed, for the benefit of the public. The fpirit of party is rifen to a kind of phrenzy, unknown to former ages, or rather degenerated to a total extinction of honefty and candour - You know I have obferved, for fome time, that the public papers are become the infamous vehicles of the moft cruel and perfidious defamation : every rancorcu. knave-every defperate incendiary, that can afford to fpend half a crown or three fhillings, may fkulk behind the prefs of a news-monger, and have a ftab at the firft character in the kingdom, without rumning the leaft hazard of detection, or punifhment.

I have made acquaintance with a Mr. Barton, whem Jery knew at Oxford; a good fort of a man, though moft ridiculoufly warped in his political principles; but his partiality is the lefs offenfive, as it never appears in the ftile of fcurrility and abufe. He is a member of parliament, and a retainer to the court; and his whole converfation turrs upon the virtues and perfections of the minifters, who are his patrons. ' I'other day, when he was bedaubing one of thofe worthies, with the moft fulfome praife, I told him I had feen the fame nobleman charatterifed very differently, in one of the daily-papers ; indeed, fo ftigmatized, that if one half of what was faid of him was true, he muft be not only unfit to rule, but even unfit to live: that thole impeachments hid been repeated again and again, with the addition of fref matter ; and that as he had taken no fteps towards his own vindication, I began to think there was fome foundation for the charge. "And pray, fir, (faid " Mr. Barton) what fteps would you have him " take ?-Suppofe he fhould profecute the pub" lifher, who fcreens the anonymous accufer, and " bring him to the pillory for a libel; this is fo " far from being crunted a punifhment, in terro"rem, that it will probably make his fortune. 's The multitude immediately take him into their " protection, as a martyr to the caufe of defama" tion, which they have always efpoufed - 't hey " pay his fine, they contribute to the increafe of " his flock, his fhop his crowded with cuftomers " "and the fale of his paper rifes in proportion to 's the fcandal it contains. All this time the profe" cutor is inveighed againft as a tyrant and op" " preffor, for having chofen to proceed by the way 's of information, which is deemed a grievance ; " but if he lays an action for damages, he muft " prove the damage, and I leave you to judge, " whether a gentleman's character may not be " brought into contempt, and all his views in life " blafted by calumny, without his being able to 's fpecify the particulars of the damage he has " fuftained."This fpirit of defamation is a kind of herefy, "6 that thrives under perfecution. The liberty of " the pre/s is a term of great efficacy; and, like " that of the Proteflant religion, has often ferved " the purpofes of fedition-A minifter, there's fore, mult arm himfelf with patience, and " bear thofe attacks without repining - What"s ever mifchief they may do in other refpects, " the certainly contribute in one particular, to the advantage of government ; for thofe defamotory articles have multiplied papers in fuch a manner, and augmented their fale to fuch a degree, that the duty upon ftamps and advert fements has made a very confiderable addition to "the revenue." Certain it is, a gentleman's G 3

HUMPHRY CLINKER. I49

honour is a very delicate fubject to be handled by a jury, compofed of men, who cannot be fuppofed remarkable either for fentiment or impartiality - In fuch a cafe, indeed, the defendant is tried, net only by his peers but alfo by his party ; and I really think, that, of all patriots, he is the moft refolute who expofes himfelf to fuch detraction, for the fake of his country-If, from the ignorance or partiality of juries, a gentleman can have no redrefs from law, for being defamed in a pamphlet or news-paper, I know but one other method of proceeding againft the publifher, which is attended with fome rifque, but lias been practifed fuccefffully, more than ence, in my remembrance-A regiment of horfe was reprefenied, in one of the news-papers, as having mifbeliaved at Dettingen; a captain of that regiment broke the publifher's bones telling him, at the fame time, if he went to law, he fhould certainly have the like falutation from every officer of the corrs. Governortook the fame fatisfaction on the ribs of an author, who traduced him by name in a periodical paper. -I know a low fellow of the farre ciais, who, being turned out of Venice for his impudence and fcurrility, retired to Lugano, a tewn of the Grifons, (a free people, God wot) where he found a printing prefs, from whence he fquirted his filth at fome refpectable characters in the republic, which he had been obliged to abandon. Some of thefe, finding him out of the reach of legal chaftifement, employed certain ufeful inftruments, fuch as may be found in all countries, to give him the baftinado; which, being repeated more than once, effectually ftopt the current of his abufe.

As for the liberty of the prefs, like every other privilege, it muft be reffrained within certain bounds; for if it is carried to a breach of law, religion, and charity, it becomes one of the greateft evils evils that ever annoyed the community. If the loweft ruffian may ftab your good name with impunity in England, will you be fo uncandid as to exclaim againft Italy for the practice of common affafination? To what purpofe is our property fecured, if our moral charaeter is left detenclefs ? People thus bated, grow defperate; and the defyair of being able to preferve one's character, untainted by fuch vermin, produces a total neglect of fame; fo that one of the chief incitements to the practice of virtue is effectually deftroyed.

Mr. Barton's laft confideration, refpecting the ftamp duty, is equally wife and laudable with another maxim which has been long adopted by our financiers, namely, to connive at drunkennefs, riot, and diflipation, becaufe they inhance the receipt of the excife; not rcflecting, that in providing this temporary conventience, they are deftroying the morals, health, and induftry of the people-Notwithftanding my contempt for thofe who flatter a minifter, I think there is fomething ftill more defpicable in flattering a mob. When I fee a man of birth, education, and fortune, put himielf on a level with the dregs of the people, mingle with low mechanics, feed with them at the fame board, and drink with them in the fame cup, flatter their prejudices, harangue in praife of their virtues, expofe themfelves to the belchings of their beer, the fumes of their tobacco, the groffnefs of their familiarity, and the impertinence of their converfation, I cannot help defpifing him, as a man guilty of the vileft proftitution, in order to effect a purpofe equally felfifh and illiberal.

I fhould renounce politics the more willingly, if I could find other topics of converfation, dif cuffed with more modefty and candour; but the G 4
dæmon

152 The EXPEDITION of

dæmon of party feems to have ufurped every department of life. Even the world of literature and tafte is divided into the moft virulent factions, which revile, decry, and traduce the works of one another. Yefterday, I went to return an afternoon's vifit to a gentleman of my acquaintance, at whofe houfe I found one of the authors of the prefent age, who has written with fome fuccefsAs I had read one or two of his performances, which gave me pleafure, I was glad of this opportunity to know his perfon ; but his difcounfe, and deportment deftroyed all the impreffions which his writings had made in his favour. He took upon him to decide dogmatically upon every fubject, without deigning to fhew the leaft caule for his differing from the general opinions of mankind, as if it had been our duty to acquiefce in the ipfe dixit of this new Pythagoras. He rejudged the characters of all the principal authors, who had died within a century of the prefent time; and, in this revifion, paid no fort of regard to the reputation they had acquired-Milton was harfh and profaic ; Dryden, languid and verbofe; Butler and Swift, without humour ; Congreve, without wit ; and Pope deftitute of any fort of poetical merit-As for his cotemporaries, he could not bear to hear one of them mentioned with any degree of applaufe - They were all dunces, pedants, plagiaries, quacks, and impoftors; and you could not name a fingle performance, but what was tame, ftupid, and infipid. It muft be owned, that this writer had nothing to charge his conicience with, on the fide of flattery; for, I underfand, he was never known to praife one line that was written, even by thofe with whom he lived on terms of good fellowfhip. This arrogance and prefumption, in depreciating authors, for whofe reputation the company may be interefted, is fuch an infult upon the underftanding, as I could not bear without wincing.

I defired to know his reafons for decrying fome works, which had afforded me uncommon pleafure; and, as demonftration did not feem to be his talent, I diffented from his opinion with great freedom. Having been fpoiled by the deference and humility of his hearers, he did not bear contradiction with much temper; and the difpute might have grown warm, had it not been interrupted by the entrance of a rival bard, at whofe appearance he always quits the place-They are of different cabals, and have been at open war thefe twenty years-If the other was dogmatical, this genius was declamatory : he did not difcourfe, but harangue; and his orations were equally tedious and turgid. He too pronounces ex catbedra upon the characters of his cotemporaries; and though he fcruples not to deal out praife, even lavifhly, to the loweft reptile in Grub-ftreet who will either flatter him in private, or mount the public roftrum as his panegyrift, he damns all the tother writers of the age, with the utmoft infolence and rancour-One is a blunderbufs as being a native of Ireland; another, a half-ftarved loufe of literature, from the hanks of the Tweed; a third, an afs, becaufe he enjoys a penfion from the government; a fourth, the very angel of dulnefs; becaule he fucceeded in a fpecies of writing in which this Ariftar hus had failed; a fiffi, who prefumed to make ftrictures upon one of his performances, he holds as a bug in criticifm, whofe ftench is more offenfive thin his fting-In fhart, except himfelf and his myrinidons, there is not a man of genius or learning in the three k ngdoms, As for the fuccefs of thoe, who have written without the pale of this confederacy, he imputes it entirely to want of taffe in the public; not confidering, that to the approbation of that very aftlelefs public, he himfelf owes all the confetquence he has in life.

154 The EXPEDITION of

Thofe originals are not fit for converfation. If they would maintain the advantage they have gained by their writing, they fhould never appear but upon paper-For my part, I am fhocked to find a man have fublime ideas in his head, and nothing but illiberal fentiments in his heart-The human foul will be generally found moft defective in the article of candour-I am inclined to think, no mind was ever wholly exempt from envy; which, perhaps, may have been implanted, as an inftinct effential to our nature. I am afraid we fometimes palliate this vice, under the fpecious name of emulation. I have known a perion remarkably generous, humane, moderate, and apparently felf-denying, who could not hear even a friend commended, without betraying marks of uneafiness; as if that commendation had implied an odious comparifon to his prejudice, and every wreath of praife added to the other's character, was a garland plucked from his own temples. This is a malignant fpecies of jealoufy, of which I ftand acquitted in my own confcience-Whether it is a vice, or an infirmity, I leave you to inquire.

There is another point, which I would much rather fee determined; whether the world was always as contemptible, as it appears to me at prefent ?-If the morals of mankind have not contracted an extaraordinary degree of depravity, within thefe thirty years, then muft I be infected with the common vice of old men, difficilis, querulus, laudatur temporis acti ; or, which is more probable, the impetuous purfuits and avocations of youth have formerly hirdered me from obferving tho e rotten parts of human nature, which now appear fo offenfively to my obfervation.

We have been at court, and change, and every where; and every where we find food for fpleen, and fubject for ridicule-My new fervant, Humphry Clinker, turns out a great original ; and Tahby is a changed creature-She has parted with Chowder ; and does nothing but fmile, like Malvolio in the play-I'll be hanged if the is not acting a part which is not natural to her difpofition, for fome purpofe which I have not yet difcovered.

With refpect to the characters of mankind, my curiofity if quite fatisfied: I have done with the fcience of men, and muft now endeavour to amufe myfelf with the novelty of things. I am, at prefent, by a violent effort of the mind, forced from my natural bias; but this power ceafing to act, I fhall return to my folitude with redoubled velocity. Every thing I fee, and hear, and feel, in this great refervoir of folly, knavery, and iophiftication, coutributes to inhance the value of a country life, in the fentiments, of
yours always,

London, June 2. Matt. BaAmble

To Mrs Mary Jones, at Brambleton-hall.
DEAR MARY JONES,
LADY Grifkin's botler, Mr. Crumb, having got '〔quire Barton to frank me a kiver, I would not neglect to let you know how it is with me, and the reft of the family.

I could not rite by John Thomas, for becaufe he went away in a huff, at a minute's warning. He and Chowder could not agree, and fo they fitt upon the road, and Chowder bitt his thumb, and he fwore he would do him a mifchief, and he fpoke faucy to miftrefs, whereby the 'fquire turn'd him off in gudgeon; and by Ged's providence we picked up another footman called Umphry Klinker; a good fole as ever broke bread; which fhews that a fcalded cat may prove a good moufer, and a hound be ftaunch, thof he has got narro hare on his buttocks; but the proudeft nofe may be bro't to the grine-ftone, by ficknefs and misfortunes.

O Molly ! what fhall I fay of London? All the towns that ever I beheld in my born-days, are no more than Welfh barrows and crumlecks to this wonderful fitty! Even Bath itfelf is put a fillitch, in the naam of God-One would think there's no end of the ftreets, but the land's end, Then there's fuch a power of people, going hurry fkurry! Such a racket of coxes! Such a noife, and hali-balloo! So many ftranges fites to be feen! O gracious! my poor Welfh brain has been fpinning like a top ever fince I came hither! And I have feen the Park, and the paleafs of Saint Gimifes, and the king's and the queen's magifterial purfing, and the fweet young princes, and the hillyfents, and pyebald afs, and all the reft of the royal family.

Laft week I went with miftrefs to the Tower, to fee the crowns and wild beaftis; and there was a monftracious lion, with teeth half a quarter long; and a gentleman bid me not to go near him, if I wasn't a maid; being as how he would roar, and tear, and play the dickens-Now I had no mind to oo near him; for I cannot abide fuch dangerrus honeymils, not I- but, miftrefs would go ; and the beaft kept fuch a roaring and bouncing, that I tho't he would have broke his cage and devour d us all; and the gentleman titered ferfoo:h; but I'll qo to death upon it, I will, that my lady is as good a firchin, as the child unborn; and, the efore, either the gentleman told a $\mathrm{f} b$, or the lion (ft io be fet in the ftocks for bearing falfe witnefs gain his reighbour; for the commandment fay $1^{1 \text {, }}$, Thout balt not bear falfe witnefs again/t thy neigblour.

HUMPHRYCLINKER.

I was afterwards of a party at Sadler's wells, where I faw fuch tumbling and dancing upon ropes and wires, that I was frightened, and ready to go into a fit-l tho't it was all inchantment ; and, believing myfelf bewitched, began for to cry-You knows as how the witches in Wales fly upon broom-fticks, but here was flying without any broom-ftick, or thing in the varfal world, and firing of piftols in the air, and blowing of trumpets, and fwinging, and rolling of wheel-barrows upon a wire, (God blefs us!) no thicker than a fewing-thread; that, to be fure, they muft deal with the devil !-A fine gentleman, with a pig's.lail, and a golden ford by his fide, came to comfit me, and offered for to treat me with a pint of wind; but I would not ftay; and fo, in going through the dark pallage, he began to fhew his cloven futt, and went for to be rude; my fellowfarvant, Umphry Klinker, bid him be fivil, and he gave the young man a dowfe in the chops; but, I fackens, Mr. Klinker wa'n't long in his debt-With a good caken fapling he dufted his doublet, for all his golden cheete-toafter; and, fipping me under his arm, carried me huom, I nofe not how, being I was in fuch a fluftrationBut, thank God! I'm now vared from all fuch vanities; for what are all thole marities and vagaries to the glory that fhall be revealed hereafier? O Molly ! let not your poor heart be puffed up with vanity.

I had almoft forgot to tell you, that I have had my hair cut and pippered, and finged, and bolitered, and buckled, in the neweft fafhion, by a French freezer,-Purley wow Francey - Vee Madmanfoll-I. now carries my head higler than arrow private gentlewoman of Yales. Laft night, coming huom from the meeting, I was takerr by lamp-light for an imminent poulerer's daughter, a great beanty

$15^{8}$ The EXPEDITION of

- But as I was faying, this is all vanity and vexation of fpirit-The pleafures of London are no better than fower whey and ftale cyder, when compared to the joys of the new Gerufalem.

Dear Mary Jones! An pleafe God when I return, I'll bring you a new cap, with a turkeyThell coom, and a pye-houfe fermon, that was preached in the Tabernacle; and I pray of all love, you will mind your writing and your fpilling; for, craving your pardon, Molly, it made me fuet to diffeyffer your laft fcrabble, which was delivered by the hind at Bath-O, voman! voman! if thou had'ft but the leaft confumption of what pleafure we fcullers have, when we can cunfter the crabbidft buck off hand, and fpell the etchnitch vords without lucking at the primmer. As for Mr. Klinker, he is qualified to be clerk to a parifh-But I'll fay no more-Remember me to Saul-poor fole! it goes to my hart to think fhe don't yet know her letters-But all in God's good time-It fhall go hard, but I will bring her the A B C in gingerbread; and that, you nofe, will be learning to her tafte.

Miftrefs fays, we are going a long gurney to the North; but go where we will, I fhall ever be, Dear Mary Jones,
yours with true infection,
Lendon, June $\hat{3}$.
Win. Jenkins.

To Sir Watkin Phillifs, of Jefus college, Oxon.

DEAR WAT,
I MENTIONLED in my laft, my uncle's defign of going to the duke of N - 's levee; which defign has been executed accordingly. His grace has been fo long accuftomed to this kind of homage, that though the place he now fills does not imply the tenth part of the influence, which he exerted in his former office, he has given his friends to underftand, that they cannot oblige him in any thing more, than in contributing to fupport the fhadow of that power which he no longer retains in fubftance ; and therefore he has ftill public days, on which they appear at his levee.

My uncle and I went thither with Mr. Barton, who, being one of the duke's adherents, undertook to be our introducer-The room was pretty well filled with people, in a great variety of drefs; but there was no more than one gown and caffock, tho' I was told his grace had, while he was minifter, preferred almolt every individual that now filled the bench of bifhops in the houfe of lords; but, in all probability, the gratitude of the clergy is like their charity, which fhuns the light-Mr. Barton was immediately accofted by a perfon, well ftriken in years, tall, and raw boned, with a hooked nofe, and an arch leer, that indicated, at leaft, as much cunning as fagacity. Our conductor faluted him, by the name of captain C-, and afterwards informed us he was a man of fhrewd parts, whom the government occafionally employed in fecret fervices-But I have had the hiftory of him more at large, from another quarter-He had been, many years ago, concerned in fraudulent practices; as a merchant in France; and being convicted of fome of them was fent to the gallies, from whence he was delivered by the intereft of the late duke of Ormond, to whom he had recommended himfelf in a letter, as his name-fake and relation-He was, in the fequel employed by our miniftry as a 'spy; and in the war of 1740 , traverfed all Spain, as well as France, in the difguie of a capuchin, at the extreme hazard of his life, in as much as the court of Madrid had actually got fcent of him, and given orders to apprehend him at St. Sebafti-

160 The EXPEDITION of

an's, from whence he had fortunately retired but a few hours before the order arsived. This and other hair-breadth 'fcapes he pleaded fo effectually as a merit with the Englifh miniftry, that they allowed him a comfortable penfion, which he now enjoys in his old age-_He has ftill accels to all the minifters, and is faid to te confulted by them on many fubjects, as a man of uncommon underftanding and great experience- He is, in fact, 2 fellow of fome parts, and invincible affurance; and, in his difcourfe, he affumes fuch an air of felf-fufficiency, as may very well impore upon fome of the fhallow politicians. But if he is not at the helm of the adminiftration. But, if he is not belied, this, is not the only impoffure of which he is guilty-They fay, he is at bottom not only a Roman-catholic, but really a prieft; and while he preterds to difclefe to our ftate-pilots all the fprings that move the cabinet of Verfailles, he is actually picking up intelligence for the fervice of the French minifter- Be that as it may, captain C- entered into converiation with us in the moft familiar manrer, and treated the duke's character without any ceremony-" This wife-acre " (faid t.e) is ftill a-ted; and I think, the beft ' thirg lie cends, is io fleep on till Chriftmas ; for, "s when le gets up, he does nothing but expofe " his own iolly.-Since Granville was turned out, " there has been no minifter in this nation worth " the meal that whitened his periwig - They are " fo ignoranit, they fcarce know a crab from a "s cauliflower: and then they are fuch dunces, that, " there's no making them compreherd the plaineft "propefition-In the beginring of the war, this "poor half-witted creature told me, in a great " fright that thirty theufard French had marched "from Acadie to Cape Breton"-"W tere did they " fird rerforts?" (faid I) " Trarfperts! (cried "h.e) It tell jcu , they marched by lavd-" "By

He feemed difpofed to entertain us with more enecdotes of this nature, at the expence of his grace when he was interrupted by the arrival of he Algerine ambaffador; a venerable Turk, with a long white beard, attended by his dragoman, or interpreter, and another officer of his hourshold, who had got no ftockings to his legs-Captain Cmmediately fpoke with an air of authority to a ferwant in waiting, bidding him go and tell the duke o rife, as there was a great deal of company come, ind, among others, the ambaffador from Algiers -Then, turning to us, "This poor 'Tuirk, (faid he) notwithitandiug his grey beard, is a green-horn-He has been feveral years refident in London, and is ftill ignorant of our political revolutions. This vifit is intended for the prime - minifter of England ; but you'll fee how this is wife duke will receive it as a mark of attachment "s to his own perfon-" Cer'ain it is, the duke feemed eager to acknowledge the compliment-A hoor opening, he fuddenly bolted out, with a fhaving floth under his chin, his face froth up to the eyes with foap lather; and running up to the ambalfador, grinned hideous in his face-" My dear Mahomet ! (faid he) God love your long beard, I hope the dey will make you a horfetail at the next promotion, ha, ha, ha !-Have : but a moment's patence, and l'll fend to your " in a twinkling-" So faying he retreated into his den, leaving the Turk in fome confufion. After a fhort paufe, however, he faid fomething to his interpreter, the meaning of which I had great curiofity to know, as he turned up his eyes while hefpoke, exprefling aftonifhment, mixed with de-votion-We were gratified by means of the communicative captain C-, who converfed with the dragoman 28 an old acquaintance. Ibrahim, the ambaffador, who had miftaken his grace for the minifter's focl, was ro fooner undeceived by the interpreter, than he exclaimed to this effect"Holy prophet! I don't wonder that this nation " profpers, feeing it is governed by the counfel of " idiots; a feries of men, whom all good mufful" men revere as the organs of immiediate infpira"tion!" lbrahim was favoured with a particular audience of fhort duration; afier which the duke conducted him to the door, and then icurned to diffure his gracious locks among the crowd of his worfhippers.

As Mr. Barton advanced to prefent me to his grace, it was my fortune to attract his notice, before I was announced-He ferthwith met me more than half way, and, feizing me by the hand, "My " dear fir Francis ! (cried he) this is fo kind- 1 " 6 vow to gad! I am fo obliged-Such attention " to a poer broken minifter-Well-Pray when " dces your excellency fet fail?- For God's fake " have a care of your health, and eat ftewed " prunes in the paffage-Next to your own pre"c cious health, pray, my dear excellency, take "care of the five Nations-Our good friends the "Five Nations-The Toryrories, the Maccol" macks, the Out-o'the-ways, the Crickets, and " the Kickfhaws - Let'em have plenty of blan" kets, and ftinkubus, and wampum; and your " excellency won't fail to fcour the kettle, and "boil the chain, and bury the tree, and plant
"the hatchet-Ha, ha, ba !" When he had juttered this rhapfody, with his ufual precipitat
Mr. Barton gave him to underftand, that I was neither Sir Francis nor St. Francis; but fimply Mr. Melford, nephew to Mr. Bramble; who, ftepping forward, made his bow at the fame time. "Odfo! no more it is Sir Francis- (aid this wife "ftatẹfman) Mr. Melford, I'm glad to fee you"I fent you an engineer to fortify your dock-Mr. " Bramble-your fervant Mr. Bramble-How dy'e, "good Mr. Bramble ? Your nephew is a pretty " young fellow-Faith and troth, a very pretty fel" low !-His father is my old friend-How does he
" hold it? Still troubled with that damned diforder,
" ha ?" " No, my lord, (replied my uncle) all his " troubles are over-He has been dead thefe fifteen " years." "Dead! how-Yes, faith! now I re" member: he is dead, fure enough-Well, and " how - does the young gentleman ftand for Ha" verford Weft ? or-a-what dy'e-my dear Mr.
" Milfordhaven, I'll do you all the fervice in my " power-I hope I have fome credit left-"My uncle then gave him to underftand, that I was ftill a minor ; and that we had 110 intention to trouble him at prefent for any favour whatfoever-"I came
's hither with my nephew (added lie) to pay our *s reipeĉts to your grace; and inimy verture to íay
" that his views and mine are at leaft as difinte-
"refted as thofe of any individual in this affembly."
" My dear Mr. Brambleberry! yon do me infi" nite honour-I fhall always rejoice to fee you and your hopeful nephew, Mr. Milfordhaven-My " credit, fuch as it is, you may command-I wifh
"
Then, turning to Captain $\mathrm{C}-$, ${ }^{6} \mathrm{Ha}, \mathrm{C}-$ ! (faid he) what news, C-? How does the world wag ? ha !" "The werld wags much after the old fafhion, my lord (anfwered the isc captain) : the politicians of London and Weft" minfter have begun again to wag their tongues Is againft your grace and your fhort-lived popuis larity wags like a feather, which the next puff of anti-" antiminifterial calumny will blow away-" "A " pack of rafcals (cried the duke) - Tories, Jaco" bites, rebels; one half of them would wag theit "s heels at Tyburn, if they had their deferts-, So faying, he wheeled about; and, gring rounc the levee, fpoke to every individual, with the mofl courtecus familiarity; but he fcarce ever opened his mouth without making fome blunder, in relation to the perfon or bufinefs of the party with whom he conserfed; fo that he really looked I ke a comedian hired to burlefque the character of a minifter-At length, a perfon of a very prepofferfing appearance coming in, tis grace ran up, and, hugging him in his arms, with the appellation of "My dear Ch—s!" led him forthwith intothe inner apartment, or SanClum Sanctorum of this por litical temple. "That (faid Captain $\mathbf{C}-$ ) is " my friend C-T——, almoft the only man of "parts who has any concern in the prefent ad-
6
" fion of minifters, every one more ignorant than
"
-But, to return to C-1 , he certainly
" knows more than all the miniftry and all the op-

66 any confiftency or ftability of character-Then

HUMPHRYCLINKER 165

"6 it muft be owned, he wants courage, otherwifehe would never allow himfelf to be cowed by the great political bully, for whofe underftanding he has juftly a very great contempt. I have feen him as much afraid of that overbearing Hector, as ever fchool-boy was of his pedagogue; and yet this Hector, I fhrewdly fulpect, " is no more than a craven at bottom-Befides " this defect, C- has another, which he is at "s too little pains to hide-There's no faith to be " given to his affertions, and no truft to be put in "' his promifes - However to give the Devil his " due, he's very good-natured ; and even friendly, " when clofe urged in the way of folicitation " - As for principle, that's out of the queftionIn a word, he's a wit and an orator, extreme" ly entertaining, and he Thines very often at the " expence even of thofe minifters to whom he is " a retainer-This is a mark of great imprudence, " by which he has made them all his enemies, " whatever face they may put upon the matter: " and fooner or later he'll have caufe to wifh he " had been able to keep his own couniel- 1 have " feveral times cautioned him on this fubject; " but 'tis all preaching to the defart-His vanity " runs away with his defcretion-" I could not help thinking the captain himfelf might have been the better for fome hints of the fame nature.His panegyrick, excluding principle and veracity, puts me in mind of a conteft I once over-heard, in the way of altercation, betwixt two apple women in Spring-garden-One of thofe viragos having hinted fomething to the prejudice of the other's moral charact, her antagonift, fetting her hands in her fides, replied-" Speak out, hufly-I fcorn your " malice-I own I'm both a whore an a thief; " and what more have you to fay?-Damn you, " whit more have you to fay ? bating that, which " all the world knows, I challenge you to fay
" black is the white of my eye-" We did not wait for Mr. T-'s coming forth; but after captain C - had characterifed all the originals in waiting, we adjourned to a coffee-houfe, where we had buttered muffins and tea to breakfaft, the faid captain ftill favouring us with his company-Nay, my uncle was fo diverted with his anecdotes, that he afked him to dinner, and treated him with a fine turbot, to which he did ample jultice-That fame evening I fpent at the tavern with fome friends, one of whom let me into C-'s character, which Mr. Bramble no fooner underftood, than he expreffed fome concern for the connection he had made and refolved to difengage himfelf from it without, ceremony.

We are become members of the Society for the Encouragement of the Arts, and have affifted at fome of their deliberations, which were conducted with equal firit and fagacity-My uncle is extremely fond of the inftitution, which will certainly be productive of great advantages to the public, if, from its democratical form, it does not degenerate into cabal and corruption- You are already acquainted with his averfion to the influence of themultitude, which he affirms, is incompatible with excellence, and fubverfive of order-Indeed his deteftation of the mob has been heightened by fear, ever fince he fainted in the room at Bath; and this apprehenfion has prevented him from going to the Little Theatre in the Hay-market, and other places of entertainment, to which, however, I have had the honour to attend the ladies.

It grates old Square-Toes to reflect, that it is not in his power to enjoy even the molt elegant diverfions of the capital, without the participation of the vulgar; for they now thruit themfelves into all affemblies, from a ridoto at St. James's, to a hop at Rotherhithe.

I have

I have lately feen our old acquaintance Dick Ivy, who we imagiried had died of dram-drinking; but he is lately emerged from the Fleet, by means of a mamphlet which he wrote and publifhed againit the overnment with fome fuccefs. The fale of this erformance enabled him to appear in clean linen, nd he is now going about foliciting fubfcriptions, or his Poems; but his breeches are not yet in the noft decent order.
Dick certainly deferves fome countenance for his htrepidity and perfeverance-It is not in the power If difappointment, nor even of damnation, to drive in to defpair-After fome unfuccefsful effays in the way of poetry, he commenced brandy-merhant, and I believe his whole ftock ran out through is own bowels; then he conforted with a milktoman, who kept a cellar in Petty France: but he ould not make his quarters good, he was diflodgd and driven up ftairs into the kennel by a corpoel in the fecond regiment of foot-guards-He was fterwards the laureat of Blackfriers, from whence here was a natural tranfition to the Fleet-As he ad formerly mifcarried in panegyric, he now turn$d$ his thoughts to fatire, and really feems to have pme talent for abufe. If he can hold out till the beeting of the parliament, and be prepared for nother charge, in all probability Dick will mount ie pillory, or obtain a penfion, in either of which vents his fortune will be made-Mean while he has acquired fome degree of confideration with the efpectable writers of the age; and as I have fubcribed for his works, he did $m=$ the favour t'other ight to introduce me to a lociety of thofe genifes; but I found them exceeding formal and re-trved-They feemed afraid and jealous of one 3other, and fat in a ftate of mutual repulfion, like - many particles of vapour, each furrounded by sown eleatufied atmouph re. Dick, whe has aore vivacity than judsment, tried more than once to enliven the converfation ; fometimes making an effort at wit, fometimes letting off a pun, and fometimes difcharging a conundrum ; nay at length he flarted a difpute upon the hackneyed comparifon betwixt blank verfe and thyme, and the profeffors opened with great clamour; but, inftead of keeping to the fubject, they launched out into tedious differtations on the poetry of the ancients; and one of them who had been a fchool-mafter, difplayed his whole knowledge of profody, gleaned from Difputer and Ruddiman. At laft, I ventured to fay, I did not fee how the fubject in queftion could be at all elucidated by the practice of the ancients, who certainly had neither blank verfe nor rhyme in their poems, which were meafured by feet, whereas ours are reckoned by the number of fyllables-This remark feemed to give umbrage to the pedant, who forthwith involved himfelf in a cloud of Greek and Latin quotations, which nobody attempted to difpel - A confufed hum of infipid obfervations and comments enfued; and, upon the whole, I never paffed a duller evening in my life-Yet, without all doubt, fome of them were men of learning, wit, and ingenuity. As they are afraid of making free with one another, they fhould bring each his but, or whet-ftone, along with him, for the entertainment of the com-pany-My uncle fays, he never defires to meet with more than one wit at a time-One wit like a nuckle of ham in foup, gives a zeft and flavour to the difh; but more than one ferves only to fpoil the pottage-And now I'm afraid I have given you an unconfcionable mefs, without any flavour at all, for which, I fuppose, you will beftow your benedictions upon your friend

168 The EXPEDITION of

and fervant,

London, June 5.

To Dr. Lewis.

DEAR LEWIS,

YOUR fable of the monkey and the pig, is what the Italians call ben trovata: but I fhall not repeat it to my apothecary, who is a proud Scotchman, very thin fkinned, and, for aught I know, may have his degree in his pocket-A right Scotchman has always two ftrings to his bow, and is in utrumque paratus-Certain it is, I have not 'icaped a icouring; but I believe, by means of that fcouring, I have 'fcaped fomething worfe, perhaps a tedious fit of the gout or rheumatifm; for my appetite began to flagg, and I had certain croakings in the bowels which boded me no good-Nay, I am not yet quite free of thefe remembrances, which warn me to be gone from this centre of infecti-on-

What temptation can a man of my turn and temperament have, to live in a place where every torner teems with frefh objects of deteflation and lifguft ? V/hat kind of tafte and organs muft thofe people have, who really prefer the adulterate enoyments of the town to the genuine pleafures of - country retreat? Moft people, I know, are orisinally feduced by vanity, ambition, and childifh suriofity; which cannot be gratified, but in the bufy bounts of men: but, in the courfe of this graification, their very organs of fenfe are perverted, and they become habitually loft to every relifh of what is genuine and excellent in its own nature.

Shall I flate the difference between my town rievances, and my ccuntry comforts ? At Bram-bleten-hail, I have elbow-rcom within doors, and greathe a clear, elaflic, falutary air-I enjoy re-

> Vol. I.

H frefting
ryo The EXPEDITION of refrefhing fleep, which is never difturbed by horrid noife, nor interrupted, but in a morning, by the fweet twitter of the martlet at my window-I drink the virgin lymph, pure and cryftal ine as it gufhes from the rock, or the fparkling beverage, home-brewed from malt of my own making; or I indulge with cider, which my own orchard affords ; or with claret of the beft growth, imported for my own ufe, by a correfpondent on whofe integrity I can depend; my bread is fweet and nourifhing, made from my own wheat, ground in my own mill, and baked in my own oven, my table is, in a great meafure, furnifhed from my own ground; my five-year old mutton, fed on the fragrant herbage of the mountains, that might vie with venifon in juice and flavour ; my delicious veal, fattened with nothing but the mother's milk, that fills the difh with gravy; my poultry from the barn-door, that never knew confinement, but when they were at rooft; my rabbits panting from the warren; my game frefh from the moors; my trout and falmon ftruggling from the fream ; oyfters from their native banks; and herrings, with other fea-fifh, I can eat in four hours after they are taken-My fallads, roots, and pot-herbs, my own garden yeilds in plenty and perfection; the produce of the natural foil, prepared by moderate cultivation. The fame foil affords all the different fruits which England may call her own, fo that my defert is every day frefh-gathered from the tree; my dairy flows with nectarious tides of milk and cream, from whence we derive abundance of excellent butter, curds, and cheefe; and the refufe fattens my pigs, that are deftined for hams and bacon-I go to bed by times, and rife with the fun-I make fhift to pafs the hours without wearinefs or regret, and am not deftirute of anurfements within doors, when the weather will not permit me to go abroad -I read, 'and chat, and play at billiards, cards, or back-gammon-Without doors, I fuperintend my farm, and execute plans of improvement, the effects of which I enjoy with unfpeakable delight-Nor do I take lefs pleafure in feeing my tenants thrive under my aufpices, and the poor live comfortably by the employment which I provide-You know 1 have one or two fenfible friends, to whom I can open all my heart; a bleffing which, perhaps, I might have fought in vain among the crowded fcenes of life: there are few others of more humble parts, whom I efteem for their integrity ; and their converfation I find inoffenfive, though not very entertaining. Finally, I live in the midft of honeft men, and trufty dependants, who, I flatter myfelf, have a difinterefted attachment to my perfon-You, your elf, my dear Doctor, can vouch for the truth of thele affertions.

HUMPHRY CLINKER. 171

Now mark the contraft at London-I am pent up in frowzy lodgings, where there is not room enough to fwing a cat; and I breathe the fteams of endlefs putrefaction; and thefe would, undoubtedly, produce a peafilence, if they were not qualified by the grofs acid of fea-coal, which is itfelf a Denicious nuifance to lungs of any delicacy of exture : but even this boafted corrector cannot jrevent thofe languid, fallow looks, that diftinsuifh the inhabitants of London from thofe ruddy wains that lead a country life-I go to bed after mid-night, jaded and reftlefs from the diffipations of the day - 1 flart every hour from my fleep, at he horrid noife of the watchmen bawling the hour hrough every ftreet, and thundering at every boor; a fet of ufelefs fellows, who ferve no other urpofe but that of difturbing the repofe of the inlabitants ; and by five o'clock 1 itart out ot bed, - confequence of the ftill more dreadful alarm

172. The EXPEDITION or

 made by the country carts, and noify ruftics bellowing green peafe under my window. If I would drink water, I muft quaff the maukifh contents of an epen aqueduct, expofed to all manner of defilement ; or fwallow that which comes from the river Thames, impregnated with all the filth of London and Weftminfter-Human excrement is the leaft offenfive part of the concrete, which is compofed of all the drugs, mincrals, and poifons, ufed in mechanics and manufacture, enriched with the putryfying carcafes of beafts and men; and mixed with the fcourings of all the wafh-tubs, kennels, and common fewers within the bills of mortality.This is the agreeable potation, extolled by the Londoners, as the fineft water in the univerfe As to the intoxicating potion, fold for wine, it is a vile, unpalatable, and pernicious fophiftication, balderdafhed with cider, corn-fpirit, and the juice of floes. In an action at law, laid againtt a carman for having ftaved a cafk of port, it appeared from the evidence of the cooper, that there were not above five gallons of real wine in the whole pipe, which held above a hundred, and even that had been brewed and adulterated by the merchant at Oporto. The bread I eat in London, is a deleterious pafte, mixed up with chalk, alum and bone-afhes ; infipid to the tafte, and deftructive to the conftitution. The good people are not ignorant of this adulteration; but they prefer it to whelefome bread, bicaufe it is whiter than the meal of corn: thus they facrifice their tafte and their he ath, and the hives of their tender infants, to a moft abfurd gratification of a mif-judging eye; and the miller, or the baker, is obliged to poifon tl:em and their families, in order to lise by his p:offfion. The fame monftrous depravity appears is. al.ur veal, which is bleached by iepeated biced ings, and other villancus arts, till there is not a drop of juice left in the body, and the poor animal is paralysic betore it dies; fo void of ali tafte, nourifhment, and favour, that a man might dine as comfortably on a white fricafee of kid-fkin gluves, or chip hats from Leghorn,

As they have difcharged the natural colour from their bread, their butchers-meat, and poultry, their cutlets, ragouts, fricaffees, and fauces of all kinds; fo they infift upon having the complexion of their pot-herbs mended, even at the hazard of their lives. Perhaps, you will hardly believe they can be fo mad as to boil their greens with brafs halfpence, in order to improve their colour; and yet nothing is more true- Indeed, without this improvement in the colour, they have no perforial merit. They are produced in an artificial foul, and tafte of nothing but the dunghills, from whence they fpring. My cabbage, cauliflower, and fyaragus in the country, are as much fuperior in Aavour to thofe that are fold in Covent-garden, as my heath-mutton is to that of St. James's-market ; which in fact, is neither lamb nor mutton, bue romething betwixt the two, gorged in the rank fens of Lincoln and Eflex, pale, coarfe, and frow-zy-As for the pork, it is an abominable carnivorous animal, fed with horfeflefh and diftillers grains; and the poultry is all rotten, in confeguence of a fever, occafioned by the infamous practice of fewing up the gut, that they may be he fuoner fattened in coops, in confequence of this eruel retention.

Of the filh, I need fay nothing in this hot weaher, but that it comes fixty, leventy, fourfcore and a hundred miles by land-carriage; a circumtance fufficient, without any comment, to turn a Dutchman's ftomach, even if his nofe was not Aluted in every alley with the fweet flavour of H 3
fre/b-mackarel felling by retail-This is not the featon for oyfters; neverthelefs, it may not be amifs to mention, that the right Colchefter are kept in flime-pits, occafionally overflowed by the fea; and that the green colour, fo much admired by the voluptuaries of this metropolis, is occafion ed by the vitriolic fcum, which rifes on the furface of the flagnant and ftinking water-Our rabbits are bred and fed in a poulterer's cellar, where they have neither air nor exercife, confequently they muft be firm in flefh, and delicious in flavour; and there is no game to be had for love or money.

It muft be owred, that Covent-Garden affords fome good fruit ; which, however, is always engroffed by a few individuals of over-grown fortune, at an exorbitant price; fo that little elfe than the refure of the market falls to the fhare of the community; and that is diftributed by fuch filthy hands, as I cannot look at withont loathing. It was but yefterday that I faw a dirty barrow-bunter, in the ftreet, cleaning her dufty fruit with her own fpittle; and who knows but fome fine lady of St. James's parifh might admit into her delicate mouth thofe very cherries, which had been rolled and moiftened between the filthy, and, perhaps, ulcerated chops of a St. Giles's huckfter-I need not dwell upon the pallid, contaminated mafh, which they call ftrawberries; foiled and toffed by greafy paws through twenty bafkets crufted with dirt and then prefented with the worft milk, thickened with the worft flour into a bad likeneis of crearn : but the milk itfelf fhould not pafs unanalyfed, the protuce of faded cabbage-leaves and four draff, lowered with hot water, frothed with bruifed fnails, carried through the ftreets in open pails, expofed to foul rinfings, difcharged from doors and winduws, fpittle, fpittle, fnot, and tobacco-quids from foot paffengers, overflowings from mud carts, fpatterings from coach-wheels, dirt and trafh chucked into it by roguifh boys for the joke's-fake, the fpewings of infants, who have flabbered in the tinmealure, which is thrown back in that condition a mong the milk, for the benefit of the next cuftomer; and, finally, the vermin that drops from the rags of the nafty drab that vends this precious mixture, under the refpeetable deriomination of milk-maid.

I fhall conclude this catalogues of London dainties, with that table-beer, guillefs of hops and malt, vapid and naufeous; much fitter to facilitate the operation of a vomit, than to quench thirft and promote digeftion ; the tallowy rancid mafs, called butter, manufactured with candlegreafe and kitchen-ftuff; and their frefh eggs, imported from France and Scotland. - Now, all thefe enormities might be remedied with a very little attention to the article of police, or civil regulation; but the wife patriots of London have taken it into their heads, that all regulation is inconfiftent with liberty; and that every man ought to live in his own way, without reftraint-Nay, as there is not fenfe enough left among them, to be difcompofed by the nuifances I have mentioned, they may, for aught I care, wallow in the mire of their own pollution.

A companionable man will, undoubtedly, put up with many inconveniences for the fake of en. joying agreeable fociety. A facetious friend of mine ufed to fay, the wine could not be bad, where the company was agreeable; a maxim which, however, ought to be taken cum grano falis: but what is the fociety of London, that I fhould be tempted, for its fake, to mortify my fenfes, and compound with fuch uncleannefs as my foul ab-

176 The EXPEDITION of

hors? All the people I fee, are too much engroffed by fchemes of intereft or ambition, to have any room left for fentiment or friendhipEven in fome of my old acquaintance, thofe fchemes and purfuits have obliterated all traces of our former connexion-Converfation is reduced to party-difputes, and illiberal altercation-Social commerce, to formal vifits and card-playing-If you pick up a diverting original by accident, it may be dangerous to amule yourfelf with his oddities-He is generally a tytar at bottom : a Marper, a $f p y$, or a lunatic. Every perfon you deal with endeavours to over-reach you in the way of bufinefs; you are preyed upon by idle mendisanits, who beg in the phrafe of borrowing, and live upon the fpoils of the ftranger-Your tradefmen are witheut confcience, your friends without affection, and your dependants without fidelity-

My fetter would fwell into a treatife, were I to particularize every caufe of offence that fills up the meafure of my averfion to this, and every other crowded city-Thank Heaven! I am not fo far fucked into the vortex, but that I can difengage myfelf without any great effort of philofophy - From this wild uproar of knavery, folly, and impertinence, I fhall fly with double relifh to the ferenity of retirement, the cordial eflufions of unreferved friendfhip, the hofpitality and protection of the rural gods; in a word the jucunda oblivia vite, which Horace himflf had not tafte ênough to enjoy. -

I have agreed for a good travelling-coach and four, at a guinea a day, for three months certain ; and next week we intend to begin our journey to the Nor:h, hoping ftill to be with you by the later end of Ottober-I thall continue to write from cvery fage where we make any confiderable hait as oiten as any thing occurs which I think

HUMPHRY CLINKER

can afford you the leaft amufement. In the mean time, I muft beg you will fuperintend the œconomy of Barns, with refpect to my hay and corn harvefts; affured that my ground produces nothing but what you may freely call your own-On any other terms I fhould be afhamed to fubferibe myfelf your unvariable friend,
London, June 8. Matt. Bramble.
"
To Sir Watikin Phillips, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxon

DEAR PHILLIPS,

N my laft, I mentioned my having fpent an evening with a fociety of authors, who feemed to be jealous and afraid of one another. My uncle was not at all furprifed to hear me fay I was difappointed in their converfation, "A man may " be very entertaining and inftructive upon paper, " (faid he) and exceedingly dull in common dif" courfe. I have oblerved, that thofe who fhine ' 6 moft in private company, are but fecondary ftars " in the conftellation of genius-A finall ftock of " ideas is more eafily managed, and fooner dif" played than a great quantity crowded together. *6 There is very feldom any thing extraodinary *6 in the appearance and addrefs of a good writer ; " whereas a dul author generally diftinguifhes *s himfelf by fome oddity or extravagance. For is this reafon, I fancy, that an wfembly of Grubs is muft be very diverting."

My curiofity being excited by this hint, I con fulted my friend Dick Ivy, who undertook to grakify it the very next day, which was Sunday laft.-

He carried me to dine with S-_, whom you and I have long known by his writings.-He lives in the fkirts of the town, and every Sunday his houfe is open to all unfortunate brothers of the quill, whom he treats with beef, pudding, and potatoes, port, punch, and Calvert's entire butt beer.He has fixed upon the firft day of the week for the exercife of his hofpitality, becaufe fome of his guefts could not enjoy it on any other, for reafons that I need not explain. I was civilly received in a plain, yet decent habitation, which opened backwards into a very pleafant garden, kept in excellent order; and indeed, I faw, none of the outward figns of authorfhip, either in the houfe or the landlord, who is one of thofe few writers of the age that ftand upon their own foundation, without patronage, and above dependence. If there was nothing charaEteriftic in the entertainer, the company made ample amends for his want of fingularity:

At two in the after-noon, I found myfelf one of ten mefs-mates feated at table; and, I queftion, if the whole kingdom could produce fuch a nother affemblage of originals. Among their peculiarities, I do not mention thofe of drefs, which may be purely accidental. What ftruck me were oddities originally produced by affectation, and afterwards confirmed by habit. One of them wore fpectacles at dinner, and another, his hat flapped; though (as Ivy told me) the firft was noted for having a feaman's eye, when a bailiff was in the wind; and the other was never known to labour under any weaknefs or defect of vifion, except about five years ago, when he wab complimented with a couple of black eyes by a player, with whom he had quarrelled in his drink. A third wore a laced focking, and made ufe of crutches, becaufe, oncein his life, he had bsen laid up with a broken leg, though no man could leap over a ftick with more agility. A fourth had contracted fuch an antipathy to the country, that he infifted upon fitting with his back towards the window that looked into the garden, and when a difh of cauliflower was fet upon the table, he fnuffed up volatile falts to keep him from fainting ; yet this delicate perfon was the fon of a cottager, born under a hedge, and had many years run wild among affes on a common. A fifth affected diffractionWhen fpoke to, he always anfwered from the pur-pofe-fometimes he fuddenly ftarted up, and rapped out a dreadful oath-fometimes he burft out a-laughing-then he folded his arms, and fighed and then he hiffed like fifty ferpents.

At firft, I really thought he was mad, and, as he fat near me, began to be under fome apprehenfions for my own fafety, when our landlord, perceiving me alarmed, affured me aloud that I had nothing to fear. "The gentleman (faid he) is " trying to act a part, for which he is by no " means qualified-If he had all the inclination " in the world, it is not in his power to be mad. "His fpirits are too flat to be kindled into frenzy." "' 'Tis no bad p-p-puff, how-ow-ever (obferved a " perfon in a tarnifhed laced coat) : aff-ffected " ma-madnefs $w$-will $p$-pafs for $w$-wit $w$-with nine " nine-teen out of t-wenty."-"An affected " ftuttering for humour : replied our landlord; " tho", God knows, there is no affinity betwixt "them." It: feems, this wag, after having made fome abortive attempts in plain fpeaking, had re courfe to this defect, by means of which he frequently extorted the laugh of the company, without the leaft expence of genius; and that imperfection, which he had at firit counterfeited, was now become fo habitual, that he could not lay it afide.

A certain winking genius, who wore yellow gloves at dinner, had on his firf introduction, taken fuch offence at S —, becaule he looked and talked, and ate and drank like any other man, that he fpoke contemptuoufly of his underftanding ever after, and never would repeat his vifit, until he had exhibited the following proof of his caprice. Wat Wyvil, the poet, having made fome unfuccefsful advances towards an intimacy with $\mathrm{S}-$, at laft gave him to underftand, by a third perfon, that he had written a poem in his praife, and a fatire againft his perfon; that if he would admit him to his houle, the firft fhould be immediately fent to prefs; but that if he perfifted in declining his friendfhip, he would publifh the fatire without delay. $S$ - replied, that he looked upon Wyvil's panegyrick, as in effect, a fpecies of infamy, and would refent it accordingly with a good cud-gel; but if he publifhed the fatire, he might de ferve his compaffion, and had nothing to fear from his revenge. Wyvil having confidered the alternatice, refolved to mortify $S$ - by printing the panegyrick, for which he received a found drubbing. Then he fwore the peace againft the agreffor, who, in order to avoid a profecution at law, admitted him to his good graces. It was the fingularity in s-'s conduct on this occafion, that reconciled him to the yellow-gloved philofopher, who owned he had fome genius, and from that $p \in-$ riod cultivated his acquaintance.

Curious to know upon what fubjects the feveral talents of my fellow-guefts were employed, I applied to my communicative friend Dick Ivy, who gave me to underfand, that moft of them were, or had been, underttrappers, or journeymen, so more creditable authors, for whom they tranflated, collated, and compited, in the bufinefs of bock-making; and that all of them had, at different times, laboured in the fervice of our landlord, though they had now fet up for themielves in various deparments of literature. Not only their talents, but alfo their nations and dialects were fo various, that our converfation refembled the confufion of tongues at Babel.

H UMMPHRY CLINKER. $\quad 18 \mathrm{I}$

We had the Irifh brogue the Scotch accent, and foreign Idiom, twanged off by the moft difcordant vociferation; for, as they all fpoke together, no man had any chance to be heard, unlefs he could bawl lowder than his fellows. It mult be owned, however, there was nothing pedantic in their difcourfe ; they carefully avoided all learned difquifitions, and endeavoured to be facetious; nor did their endeavours always mifcarry-fome droll repartee paffed, and much laughter was excited; and if any individual loft his temper fo far as to tranfgrefs the bounds of decorum, he was effectually cheeked by the mafter of the feaft, who exerted a fort of paternal authority over this irritable tribe.

The moft learned philofopher of the whole collection, who had been expelled the univerfity for atheifm, has made great progrefs in a refutation of lord Bolingbroke's metaphyfical works, which is faid to be equally ingenious and orthodox ; but, in the mean time, he has been prefented to the grand jury as a public nuifance, for having blatphemed in an alehoufe on the Lord's day. The Scotchman gives lectures on the pronunciation of the Englifh language, which te is now publifhing by fubfcription.

The Irifhman is a political writer, and goes by the name of my Lord Potaroe. He wrote a panphlet in vindication of a minilter, hoping his zeal would be rewarded by fome place or penfion; but finding himfelf neglected in that quarter, he whifpered about that the pamphlet was written by the minifter himfelf, and he putlifhed an anfwer to his own production. In this he addreffed the author, under the title of your lord/bip, with fuch folemnity, that the public fwallowed the deceit, and bought up the whole impreflion. The wife politicians of the metropolis declared they were both mafterly performances, and chuckled over the flimfey reveries of an ignorant garetteer, as the profound fpeculations of a veteran ftatefman, acquainted with all the fecrets of the cabinet. The impofture was detected in the fequel, and our Hibernian pamphleteer retains no part of his affumed importance, but the bare title of my lord, and the upper part of the table at the potatoe ordinary in Shoe-lane.

Oppofite to me fat a Piedmontefe, who had obliged the public with a humourous fatire, intituled, Tbe Balance of the Englifb Poets, a performance which evinced the great modefty and tafte of the author, and, in particular, his intimacies with the elegancies of the Englifh language. The fage, who laboured under the arpo甲obia, or borror of green fields, had juft finifhed a treatife on prattical agriculture, though in fact he had never feen corn g owing in bis life, and was fo ignorant of grain, that our entertainer, in the face of the whole company, made him own, that a plate of hominy was the beft rice pudding he had ever eat.

The ftutterer had almoft finifhed his travels. through Europe and -part of Afia, without ever budging beyond the liberties of the King's Bench, except in term time, with a tipflaff for his companien; and as for little Tim Cropdale, the moft facetious member of the whole fociety, he had happily wound up the cataltrophe of a virgin tragedy, from the exhibition of which he promifed himfelf a large fund of profit and reputation. Tim had made fhift to live mary years by writing novels, at the rate of five pouncs a volume; but that branch of bufinefs is now engroffed by female authors, who publifh merely for the propagation of virtue, with fo much eafe, and fpirit, and delicacy, and knowledge of the human heart, and all in the ferene tranquillity of high life, that the reader is not only inchanted by their genius, but reformed by their morality.

After dinner we adjourned into the garden, where, I obferved, Mr. S- gave a fhort feparate audience to every individual in a fmall remote filbert walk, from whence molt of them dropped off one after another, without further ceremony; but they were replaced by freif recruits of the fame clan, who came to make an afternoon's vifit; and, among others, a fpruce bookfeller, called Birkin, who rode his own gelding, and made his appearance in a pair of new jemmy boots, with maffy fpurs of plate. It was not without reafon that this midwife of the mufes ufed exercife a-horfeback, for he was too fat to walk a-foot, and he underwent fome farcafms from Tim Cropdale, on his unwieldy fize and inaptitude for motion. Birkin, who took umbrage at this poor author's petulence in prefuming to joke upon a man fo much richer than himfelf, told him, he was not fo unwieldy but that he could move the marfhalfea court for a writ, and even overtake him with it, if he did not very speedily come and fettle accounts with him, refpecting the expence of publifhing his laft Ode to the king of Pruffia, of which he had fold but three, and one of them was to Whitfield the methodift. Tim affected to receive this intimation with good humour, faying, he expected in a poft or two, from Potfdam, a poem of thanks from his Pruflian majefty, who knew very well how to pay poets in their own coin; but, in the mean time, he propofed, that Mr. Birkin and he fhould run thrie times round the garden for a bowl of punch, to be drank drank at Afhlcy's in the evening, and he would run boots againft fockings. The bookfeller, who valued himfelf upon his mettle, was perfuaded to accept the challenge, and be forthwith refigned his boots to Cropdale, who, when he had put them on, was no bad reprefentation of Captain Piftol in the play.

184 The EXPEDITION of

Every thing being adjufted, they flarted together with great impetuofity, and, in the fecond round, Birkin had clearly the advantage, larding the lean cartb as be puff'd along. Cropdale had no mind to conteft the victory further, but, in a twinkling, difappeared through the back-deor of the garden, which opened into-2 private lane, that had communication with the high road. - The fpectators immediately began to hallo,"Stole away!" and Birkin fet off in purfuit of him with great eagernefs; but he had not advanced twenty yards in the lane, when a thorn running into his foot, fent him hopping back into the garden, roaring with pain, and fwearing with vexation. When he was delivered from this annoyance by the Scotchman, who had been bred to furgery, he looked about him wildly, exclaiming, 'Sure, the fellow " won't be fuch a rogue as to run clear away with "my boots!" Cur landlord, having reconnoitred the fhoss he had left, which, indeed, hardly deferved that name, "Pray (faid he) Mr. Bir" kin, "a'n't your boots made of calf-fkin ? "Calf"fkin or cow fkin t'eplied the other) I'll find a " flip of fheep- fk in that will do his bufinefs. -I loft " twenty pounds by his farce, which you perfuaded " ne to bey. - I am out of pocket five pounds by 's his damn'd ode ; and now this pair of boots, bran "ncw, coft me thirty fhillings, as per receipt. "But this affair of the boots is felony-tranfporta-"tion.-I'll have the dog indiated at the OHd Bai" ley-I will, Mr. S-. I will be revenged,

HUMPHRY CLINKER. 185

${ }^{66}$ even though I fhould lofe my debt in confequence "6 of his conviction."

Mr . S- faid nothing at prefent, but accommodated him with a pair of fhoes; then ordered his Tervant to rub him down, and comfort him with a glafs of rum punch, which feemed, in a great mafure, to cool the rage of his indignation. "After "s all (faid our landlord) this is no more than a bumbug in the way of wit; though it deferves a more refpectable epithet, when confidered as an effort of invention. Tim being, I fuppofe, out of credit with the cord ainer, fell upon this ingenious expedient to fupply the v ant of thoes, knowing that Mr, Birkin, who loves humeur, " would himfelf relifh the joke upon a little recol" lection. Cropdale literally lives by his wit, which he has exercifed upon all his friends in their turns. He once borrowed my poney for five or fix days to go to Salibury, and fold him in Smithfield at his return. This was a joke of fuch a ferious nature, that, in the firft tranfports of my pafficn, I had fome thoughts of profecuting him for horfe-ftealing; and even when my refentment had in fome meafure fubfided, as he induficioufly is avoided me, I vowed, I would take furisfaction is on his ribs with the firft opportunity. (Tne day, :s feeing him at fome diftance in the ftrect, coming towards me, I began to prepare my colv for action, and walked in the fhadow of a por er, that 6 he might not perceive me foon enough to make 6 his efcape; but, in the very inftant I iad lified ' up the infrument of correction, I found Tim - Cropdale metamorphoied into a miférable blind ic wretch, feeling his way with a long ftick from - poft to puft, and rolling about two bald unlight-

4 ed eits mituad of eyes. I was exceedingly if fhocked at having fo narrowiy efcaped the con-

186 The EXPEDITION of

" cern and difgrace that would have attended fuch
" a mifapplication of vengeance; but, next day,
'c Tim prevailed on a friend of mine to come and
" folicit my forgivenefs, and offer his note, payable
" in fix weeks, for the price of the poney. - This " gentleman gave me to underftand, that the blind
" man was no other than Cropdale, who having
" feen me advancing, and gueffing my intent, had " immediately converted himfelf into the object a" forefaid. - I was fo diverted at the ingenuity of " the evafion, that I agreed to pardon his offence,
" refufing his note, however, that I might keep a " profecution for felony hanging over his head, as " a fecurity for his future good behaviour-But Ti" mothy would by no means truft himfelf in my " hands till the note was accepted-then he made " his appearance at my door as a blind beggar, and " impoied in fuch a manner upon my man, who " had been his old acquaintance and pot-compa-
"s nien, that the fellow threw the door in his face
" "and even threatened to gise him the baftinado.
"Hearing a noife in the hall, I wert thither, and
" immediatcly recollecting the figure I had paffed
" in the flrect, accofted him by his own name,
"to the unfprakable aftonifhment of the footman." Berkin declared he loved a joke as well as another; but afked if any of the company could tell where Mr. Cropdale lodged, that he might fend him a propofal about reftitution, before the boots fhould be made away with. "I would willingly " give him a pair of new fhoes, (faid he) and half " a guinea into the bargain, for the boots, which " fitted me like a glove, and I fhan't be able to "get the fellows of them till the good weather " for riding is over." The ftuttering wit declared, that the only fecret which Cropdale ever kept, was the place of his lodgings; but, he believed, lieved, that during the heats of fummer, he commonly took his repofe upon a bulk, or indulged himfelf in frefco with one of the kennel-nymphs, under the portico of St. Martin's church. "Pox
" on him (cried the bookfeller) he might as well
" have taken my whip and fpurs-In that cafe,
" he might have been tempted to fteal another
" horfe, and then he would have rid to the devil
" of courfe."
After coffee I took my leave of Mr. S——, with proper acknowledgments of his civility, and was extremely well pleafed with the entertainment of the day, though not yet fatisfied with refpect to the nature of this connexion betwixt a man of character in the literary world, and a parcel of authorlings, who, in all probability, would never be able to acquire any degree of reputation by their labours. On this head I interrogaied my conductor, Dick Ivy, who anfwered me to this effect:
" One would imagine S - had fome view to " his own intereft in giving countenance and af-
" fiftance to thofe people, whom he knows to be " bad men, as well as bad writers; but, if he has " any fuch view, he will find himfelf difappoint-
" ed; for if he is fo vain as to imagine he can " make them fubfervient to his fcherres of profit
" or ambition, they are cunning enowgh to make " him their property in the mean time. There " is not one of the company you have feen to-day
" (myfelf excepted) who does not owe him parti" cular obligations.-One of them he bailed out " of a fpunging-houfe, and afterwards paid the " debt-another he tranflated into his family, and
" cloathed, when he was turned out half-naked
"from gaol in confequence of an act for the relief
"6 of infolvent debtors-a third, who was reduced
" 6 to a woollen night-cap, and lived upon fheep's-
" trotters, up three pair of ftairs backward in

188 The EXPEDITION of

"Butcher-row, he took into prefent pay and free
" quarters, and enabled him to appear as a gentle" man, without having the fear of Aheriff's offi" cers before his eyes. Thofe who are in diftrefs
" he fupplies with money when he has it, and
" 6 with his credit when he is out of cafh. When
's they want bufinefs, he either finds employment
" for them in his own feivice, or recommend's
" them to bookfelters to execute fome project he " has formed for their fubfiftence. They are * always welcome to his talle, (which, though

" plain, is plentiful) and to his good offices as tar
" as they will go; and when they fee occafion,
"s they make ufe of his name with the moft pett-
" lant familiarity; nay, they do not even feruple
" to arrogate to themfeives the merit of feme of " his performances, and have heen known to fell
's their own lucubrations as the produce of lis
" brain. The Scotchman you faw at dinuer orce
"perfonated him at an ale-houfe in Weft-Snvith-
* field, and, in the character of S-- ; had his
"s head broke by a cow-keener, for having fpoke
" difrefpectfully of the Chriftian religion; but " he took the law of him in his own perfon, and
" the affailant was tain to give him ten pounds to "s withdraw his agion."

I oblerved, that ali this appearance of liberality on the fide of Mir. S - was eafily accounted for, on the fuppofition that they flattered him in privatc, and engaged his adverfaries in public; and yet I was aflonithed, when I recollected that I oftes had feen this writer virulently abufed in papers, poems, and pamphlets, and not a pen was drawn it his cefence. "But you will be more "afienifier luid he) when 1 affure you, thofe "s very guefts whom you faw at his table to-day, " yere lic authors of great part of that abufe;
" and he himelt is well aware of their particular
"favours, for they are all eager to detect and "betray one another."-" But this is doing the " devil's work for nothing (cried I.) What fhould " induce them to revile their benefactor without "provocation?" "Envy (anfwered Dick) is the " general incitement ; but they are galled by an " additional fcourge of provocation. S- di" rects a literary journal, in which their produc" tions are neceffarily brought to trial; and though many of them have been treated with fuch lenity and favour as they little deferved, yet the flighteft cenfure, fuch as, perhaps, could not be avoided with any pretenfions to candour and impartiality, has rankled in the hearts of thofe authors to fuch a degree, that they have taken immediate vengeance on the critic in anonymous libels, letters, and lampoons. Indeed, all the writers of the age, good, bad, and indifferent, from the moment he affumed this office, became his enemies, either profefied or in petto, except thofe of his friends who knew they had nothing to fear from his ftrictures; and he muft be a wifer man than me, who can tell what advantage or fatisfaction he derives from having brought fuch a neft of hornets about his ears."
I owned, that was a point which might deferve ionfideration; but ftill I expreffed a defire to know nis real motives for continuing his friendfhip to a et of rafcals equally ungrateful and infignificant.He faid, he did not pretend to affign any reafonaable motive; that, if the truth muft be told, the man was, in point of conduct, a moft incorrigible fool ; that, though he preterded to have a knack at hitting off characters, he blundercd ftrangely in he diftribution of his favours, which were genetally beftowed on the moft undeferving of thefe Who had recourfe to his affiftance; that, inded, this preference was not fo much owing to want of difcernment as to want of refolution, for he had not fortitude enough to refift the importunity even of the moft worthlefs; and, as he did not know the value of money, there was very little merit in parting with it in eafily: that his pride was gratified in feeing himfelf courted by fuch a number of literary dependants; that, probably, he delighted in hearing them expofe and traduce one another; and, finally, from their information, he became acquainted with all the tranfactions of Grub-ftreet, which he had fome thoughts of compiling, for the entertainment of the public.

I could not help fufpecting, from Dick's difcourfe, that he had fome particular grudge againft S-, upon whofe conduct he had put the worft conftruction it would bear; and, by dint of crofsexamination, I found he was not at all fatisfied with the character which had been given in the Review of his laft performance, though it had been treated civilly, in confequence of the author's application to the critic. By all accounts, Sis not without weaknefs and caprice; but he is certainly good-humoured and civilized; nor do I find, that there is any thing over-bearing, cruel, or implacable in his difpofition.

I have dwelt fo long upon authors, that you will perhaps fufpect I intend to enroll myfelf among the fraternity; but, if I were actually qualified for the proteffion, it is at beft but a defperate refource again! ftarving, as it affords no previfion for old age and infirmity. Salmon, at the age of fouricore, is now in a garret, compiling matter, at a guinea a fheet, for a modern hiftorian, who, in point of age, might be his grand child; and Pfalmonazar, after having drudged balf a century in the literary mill, in all upon the charity of a few bookfellers, juft fufficient to keep him from the parifh-I think Guy, who was himfelf a bookfeller, ought to have appropriated one wing or ward of his hofpital to the ufe of decayed authors; though, indeed, there is neither hofpital, college, nor work-houfe, within the bills of mortality, large enough to contain the poor of this fociety, compofed, as it is, from the refufe of every other profeffion.

I know not whether you will find any amufement in this account of an odd race of mortals, whofe conftitution had, I own, igreatly interefled the curiofity of

> yours,

London, June 10.
J. Melford.

To Mif Letitia Willis, at Gloucefter.

MYDEAR LETTY,

THERE is fomething on my fpirits, which I fhould not venture to communicate by the poft, but having the opportunity of Mrs. Brentwood's teturn, I feize it eagerly, to difburden my poor heart, which is oppreffed with fear and vexation. -O Letty! what a miferable firuation it is, to be without a friend to whom one can apply for counfel and confolation in diftrefs! I hinted in my laft, that one Mr . Barton had been very particular in his civilities: I can no longer miftake his meaning - he has formally profeffed himfolf my admirer; and, after a thouland affiduities, percciving I made but a cold return to his addreffes, he had recourfe to the mediation of lady Grikin, who has acted the part of a very warm advocate in his behalf :-but, my dear Willis, her ladymip overacts her part-fhe not only expatiates on the ample fortune, the great connexions, and the unt blemifhed character of Mr. Barton, but the takes the trouble to catechife me; and, two days ago, peremptorily told me, that a girl of my age could not poffibly refift fo many confiderations, if her heart was not pre-engaged.

This infinuation threw me into fuch a flutter, that fhe could not but obferve my diforder ; and, prefuming upon the difcovery, infifted upon my making her the confidante of my paffion. But, although I had not fuch command of myfelf as to conceal the emotion of my heart, I am not fuch 2 child as to difclofe its fecrets to a perfon who would certainly ufe them to its prejudice. I told her, it was no wonder if I was out of countenance, at her introducing a fubject of converfation fo unfuitable to my years and inexperience; that I believed Mr. Barton was a very worthy gentleman, and I was much obliged to him for his good opinion; but the affections were involuntary, and mine, in particular, had as yet made no concefions in his favour. She fhook her head with an air of diffruft that made me tremble; and obferved, that if my affections were free, they would fubmit to the decifion of prudence, efpecially when entorced by the authority of thofe who had a right to direct my condec. This remark implied a defign to intereft my uncle or my aurt, perhaps my brother, in lehalf of Mr. Bartor's yaffon; at c 1 am fadly afiaid that my aunt is already gaired over. Yefterday in the atterroon, he had bect wail ing with us in the Park, ard fleppirg in cur retur! at a toyfhop, he prefented lier with a very fre fruff-tex, and me with a gold etuis, which I refolutely refufed, till fhe commanded me to accept it on pain of her difpleafure : neverthelefs, being ftill unfatisfied with refpeat to the propriety of receiving this toy, I fignified my doubts to my brother, who faid he would confult my uncle on the fubject, and feemed to think Mr. Barton had been rather premature in his prefents.

What will be the refult of this confultation, Heaven knows ; but I am afraid it will produce an explanation with Mr. Barton, who will, no doubt, avow his paffion, and folicit their confent to a connexion which my foul abhors ; for, my deareft Letty, it is not in my power to love Mr. Barton, even if my heart was untouched by any other tendernefs. Not that there is any thing difagreeable about his perfon, but there is a total want of that namelefs charm whice captivates and controls the inchanted fpirit-at leaft, he appears to me to have this defect; but if he had all the engaging qualifications which a man can poffefs, they would be excited in vain againft that conftancy, which, I flatter myfelf, is the charaeteriftic of my nature. No, my dear Willis, I may be involved in frefh troubles, and I believe I fhall, from the importunities of this gentleman and the violence of my reations; but my heart is incapable of change.

You know, I put no faith in dreams ; and yet I have been much difturbed by one that vifited me aft night.-I thought I was in a church, where a certain perfon, whom you know, was on the point of being married to my aunt; that the clergyman was Mr . Barton, and that poor forlorn I ftood weeping in a corner, half naked, and without fhoes r ftockings.-Now, I know there is nothing fo hildifh as to be moved by thofe vain illufions; sut, neverthelefs, in fpite of all my reafon, this ath made a ftrong impreffion upon my mind, VOL. I. I which

194 The EXPEDITION of
which begins to be very gloomy. Indeed, I have another more fubtantial caufe of affliction-I have fome religious fcruples, my dear friend, which lie heavy on my confcience.-I was perfuaded to go to the Tabernacle, where I heard a difcourfe that affected me deeply. - I have prayed fervently to be enlightened, but as yet I am not fenfible of thefe inward motions, thofe operations of grace, which are the figns of a regenerated fpirit; and therefore I begin to be in terrible apprehenfoons about the ffate of my poor foul. Some of our family have had very uncommon acceffions, particularly my aunt and Mrs. Jenkins, who fometimes fpeak as if they were really infpired; fo that I am not like to want for either exhortation or example, to purify my thoughts, and recall them from the vanities of this world, which, indeed, I would willingly refign, if it was in my power; but to make this facrifice, I muft be enabled by fuch af fiftance from above as hath not yet been indulged to ## your unfortunate friend,

June 10.
Lydia Melford.

To Sir Watkin Phillips, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxon.

> DEAR PHILLIPS,

THE moment I received your letter, I began to execute your commiffion-With the affiftance of mine hof at the Bull and Gate, I difeovered the place to which your fugitive valet had retreated, and taxed him with his difhonefty — The fellow fellow was in manifeft coufurion at fight of me, but he denied the charge with great confidence, sill I told him, that if he would give up the watch which was a family piece, he might keep the money and the clothes, and go to the devil his own way, at his leilure; but if he rejected this bropofal, I would deliver him forthwith to the =onftable, whom I had provided for that purpofe, nd he would carry him before the juftice without urrher delay. After fome hefitation, he defired - (peak with me in the next room, where he prouced the watch, with all its appendages, and I fave delivered it to our landlord, to be fent you my the firft fafe conveyance-So much for buaners.

I fhall grow vain, upon your faying you find bertainment in my letters; barren, as they rtainly are, of incident and importance, becaufe Sur amufement muft arife, not trom the matter, at from the manner, which you know is all my wn-Animated, therefore, by the approbation of a Flon, whofe nice tafte and con ummate judgment I in no longer doubt, I will chearfully proceed with or memoirs-As it is determined we fhall fet out xt week for Yorkfhire, I went to-day in the encon with my uncle to fee a carriage, belong§ to a coachmaker in our neighbourhood-Turn3 down a narrow lane, behind Long-acre, we rceived a crowd of people ftanding at a door ; fich, it feems, opened into a kind of a metho* meeting, and were informed, that a footman s then holding forth to the congregation within. rious to fee this phenomenon, we fqueezed inthe place with much difficulty; and who fhould preacher be, but the identical Humphry nker. He had finifhed his fermon, and given a pfalm, the firft flave of which he fung with zubiar graces_But if we were aftonifhed

196 The EXPEDJTION of
to fee Clinker in the pulpit, we were altogether confounded at finding all the females of our family among the audience-There was lady Grikin, Mrs. Tabitha Bramble, Mrs. W'inifred Jenkins, my fifter Liddy, and Mr. Barton, and all of them joined in the pfalmody, with ftrong marks of devotion.

I could hardly keep my gravity on this ludicrou occafion; but old Square-toes was differently af-fected-The firft thing that ftruck him, was the prefumption of his lacquey, whom he commanden to come down, with fuch an air of authority a Humphry did not think proper to difregard. He defcended immediately, and all the people were is commotion. Barton looked exceedingly fheepifh lady Grifkin flirted her fan, Mrs. Tabby groane in fpirit, Liddy changed countenance, and Mrs. Jen kins fobbed as if her heart was breaking--My uncle with a fneer, afked pardon of the ladies, for havin interrupted their devotion, faying, he had partict lar bufinefs with the preacher, whom he ordere to call a hackney-coach. This being immediatel brought up to the end of the lane, he hande Liddy into it, and my aunt and I following hin we drove home, without taking any further notic of the reft of the company, who ftill remained filent aftonifhment.

Mr. Bramble, perceiving Liddy in great trep dation, affumed a milder afpect, bidding her under no concern, for he was not at all difpleafo at any thing fhe had done-" I have no objectie " (faid he) to your being religioufly inclined ; b " I don't think my fervant is a proper ghoft " director, for a devotee of your fex and chara " ter-if, in fact, (as I rather believe) your at " is not the fole cond etrefs of this machineMrs. Tabitha made nus anfwer, but threw up t whites of her eyes, as if in the act of ejaculation

HUMPHRY CLINKER.

Poor Liddy faid fhe had no right to the title of a devotee; that fhe thought there was no harm in hearing a pious difcourle, even if it came from a foctman, efpecially as ber aunt was prefent; but that if fhe had erred from ignorance, fhe hoped he would excule it, as the cculd rot bear the thoughts of living under his difpleafure. The old gentleman, prefling her hand with a tender fmile, flaid fhe was a good girl, and that he did not believe her capable of doing any thing that could give him the leat umbrage or difguft.

When we arrived at cur lodzings, he commanded Mr. Clinker to attend him up fairs, and lpoke to him in thefe words-c: Sirce you are called upon by the fisit: to preach and to teach, it is high tiate to lay afide the livery of an earthly " mafler; and, for my pari, I am unworthy to have an apotlle in my leivice-". "I hope "s (had Humeliry) I have not failed in my duty to your honour-I fhould be a vile wretch if I did, " confidering the mifery from which your charity and compaffion relieved me-but having an inward admonition of the firit-"" "An admonition of the devil-(cried the 'fquire, in a paffion)
6 What admonition, you blockhead ? - What right has fuch a fellow as you to fet up for "a reformer ?" " Begging your honour's par6 don, (replied Clinker) may not the new light of God's grace fhine upon the poor and the igno. rant in their humility, as well as upon the wealthy, and the philofopher in all his pride of human learning?" "What you imagine to be the new light of grace, (faid his maiter) I take to be a deceifful vapour, glimmering through a crack in your upper ftory-In a word, Mr. Clinker, I will have no light in my family but what "pays the kirg's taxes, unlefs it be the light of "reafon, which you don't pretend to follow."

198 The EXPEDITION of

"Ah, fir! (cried Humphry) the light of reafon " is no more, in comparifon to the light I mean, "than a farthing candle to the fun at noon."" Very true, (faid my uncle) the one will ferve to " fhew you your way, and the other to dazzle " and confound your weak brain-Hark-ye, Clin" ker, you are either an hy pocritical knave, or a " wrong headed enthufiant; and, in either cafe, " unfit for my ferviec-lf you are a guack in " fanctity and devotion, you will find it an eafy " matter to impofe upon filly women, and others " of crazed underflanding, who will contribure " huinly for your fupport-if you zere really fe"duced by the rever'es of a diftubed inagina"tion, the foorcr you lofe your cinfes entirely, "s the better for yourielf and the commurity. In "that cafe, fome charitable perfen might provide " you with a dark room and clean flraw in Bed" lam, where it would not be in your power to " infeat otbors with your fanaticifm; whereas, if " you have juft reflection enough left to mainaain "the character of a chofen vefiel in the meetings " of the godly, you and your hearers will be " mifled by a Will-i'the-wifp, from one error " into another, tili you are plunged into religicus "frenzy; and then, perhaps, you will hang your"felf in de'pair -" "Which the lord of his infi" nite mercy forbid! (exclaimed the affrighted "Clinker.). It is very pollible I may be under the " temptation of the devil, who wants to wreck " me on the rocks of fpititual pride-Your ho" nour fays, I am either a knave or a madman; " now, as I'll affure your honcur I am no knave, " it follows that I mult be mad; therefore, I be" feech your honour, upon my knees, to take my " cafe into confideration, that means may be ufed " for my recovery-"

The 'fquire could not help fmiling at the poor fellow's fimplicity, and promifed to take care of him, provided he would mind the bufinefs of his place, without running afier the now light of Methodifm: but Mrs. Tabitha took offence at his humility, which fhe interpreted into poornefs of ipirit and worldly mindednels.- She upbraided him with the want of courage to fuffer for confcience fake: The obferved, that if he fould lofe his place for bearing teflimony to the truth, Providerice would not fail to find him another, perhaps more advantageous; and, declaring that it could not be very agreeable to live in a lamily where an inquifition was eftablified, retired to another room in great agitation.

My uncle followed her with a fignificant look; then, turning to the preacher, "You hear what " my fifter fays. - If you cannot live with me upon " fuch terms as I have prefcribed, the vineyard of " Methodifm lies before you, and the feems very "s well difpofed to reward your labour."-"I "s would not willingly give offence to any foul up. '" on earth (anfwered Humphry); her ladyfhip has " been very good to me, ever fince we came to " Londont and furely fhe has a heart turned for " religious exercifes, and both fhe and lady Grifkin " fing pfalms and hymns like two cherubims: but, at the fame time, I'm bound to love and obey " your honour.-It becometh rot fuch a poor ig" norant fellow as me to hold difpute with gentle"s men of rank and learning.-As for the matter " " of knowledge, I am no more than 2 beaft in "comparifon of your honour; therefore I fub" mit, and, with God's grace, I will follow you to "s the world's end, if you don't think me too far "gone to be out of confinement."

His mafter promifed to keep him for fome time longer on trial ; then defired to know in what manner lady Grifkin and Mr. Barton came to join their religious fociety. He told him, that her ladyfhip was the perfon who firft carried my aunt and fifter to the tabernacle, whither he attended them, and had his cevotion kindled by Mr. W -_ 's preaching : that he was confirmed in this new way by the preacher's fermons, which he had bought and ftudied with great attention: that his difcourfe and prayers had krought over Mrs. Jenkirs and the loufe-riaid to the fame way of thinking; but as for Mr. Lation, he had never feen him at fervice before this day, when he came in company with lady Grifkin-Humphry moreover owned, that he had been encouraged to mount the reftrum by the, example ard fucceis of a weaver, who was much followed as a powerful minifter : that on his filf trial, he found himfelf under fuch ftrong impulfors, as made him believe he was certainly moved by the Spirit; and that he had affifted in lady Grikin's, and feveral private houfes, at exercifes of devetion.

Mr. Bramble was no fooner informed that her làdyfhip had acted as the primum mobile of this confederacy, than he concluded fhe had only made ufe of Clinker as a tool, fubfervient to the execution of fome defign, to the true fecret of which he was an utter ftranger-He obferved, that her ladyfhip's brain was a perfect mill for projects; and that the and Tabby had certainly engaged in fome fecret treaty, the nature of which he could not comprehend. I told him, I thought it was rodifficult matter to perceive the drift of Mrs. Tabitha, which was to enfnare the heart of Barton, and that in all likelihood my lady Grikkin acted as her auxiliary : that this fuppofition would account for their endeavours to convert him to Methodifm; an event which would occafion a connexion of fouls that might be eafily improved into a matrimonial union.

My uncle feemed to be much diverted by the thoughts of this fcheme's fucceeding; but I gave him to underftand that Barton was pre-engaged: that he had the day before made a prefent of an etuis to Liddy, which her aunt had obliged her to receive, with a view, no doubt, to countenance her own accepting of a fnuff-box at the fame time: that my fifter having made me acquainted with this incident, I had defired an explanation of Mr. Barton, who declared his intentions were honourable, and expreffed his hope that I would have no objections to his alliance: that I had thanked him for the honour he intended our family; but told him, it would be neceffary to confult her uncle and aunt, who were her guardians, and their approbation being obtained, I could have no objection to his propofal ; though I was perfuaded that no violence would be offered to my fifter's inclinations, in a tranfaction that fo nearly interefted the happinefs of her future life: that he had affured me, he fhould never think of availing himfelf of a guardian's authority, unlefs he could render his addreffes agreeable to the young lady herfelf; and that he would immediately demand permiffion of Mr . and Mifs Bramble to make Liddy. a tender of his hand and forture.

The 'fquire was not infenfible to the advantages. of fuch a match, and declared he would promote it with all his influence; but when I took notice that there feemed to be an averfion on the fide of Liddy, he faid he would found her on the fubject; and if her reluctance was fuch as would not be. eafily overcome, he would civilly decline the pro-pofal of Mr. Barton: for he thought that, in the choice of a hufband, a young woman ought not to facrifice the feelings of her heart for any confiderations upon earth-- Liddy is not fo defperate " (faid he) as to worfhip fortune at fuch an ex-

The EXPEDITION or

"pence." I take it for granted this whole affair will end in fmoke; though there feems to be a ftorm brewing in the quarter of Mrs. Tabby, who fat with all the full $n$ dignity of filerice at dinner, feemingly pregninis with complaint and expoftulation. As fhe hath certainly marked Barton for her own prey, fle cannot poffibly favour his fuit to Jiddy, and therefore I expea fomething extraordinary will attend his declaring himfelf my fifter's admirer. This declaration will certainly be made in form, as foon as the lovercan pick up refolution erough to fland the brunt of Mrs. Tabby's difappointment; for he is, without doubt, aware of her defigns upon his perfon. - The particulars of the denouement you fhall know in due feafon: mean while I am always, Your's

London, June 10.
J. Melford.

To Dr. Lewis.

dear Lewis,

THE deceitful calm was of fhort duratiorr. I am plurged again in a fea of vexation, and the complaints in my fomach and bowels are returned; fo that I fuppofe I flall be difabled from profecuting the excurfion I had planned-W hat the devil had I to do, to come a plague hunting with a leafh of females in my train? Yefterday my precious fifter (who by the bye, has been for fome time a profeffed Methodift) came into my apartment, attended by Mr. Barton, and defired an audience with a very ftately air-"Brother (faid fhe) "t this gentleman has fomething to propofe, which "I flatter my felf, will be the more acceptable, as "it will rid you of a troublefome companion."

HUMPHRYCLINKER. 203

${ }^{\circ}$ Then Mr. Barton proceeded to this effect-"I am, " indeed, extremely ambitious of being allied to " your family, Mr. Bramble, and I hope you will " fee no caufe to interpofe your authority." "As " for authority (faid Tabby, interrupting him with "f fome warmth) I know of none that he has a " right to ufe on this occafion-If I pay him the " compliment of making him acquainted with the " ftep I intend to take, it is all he can expect in " reafon-This is as much as I believe he would " do by me, if he intended to change his own fitua"tion in life-In a word, brother, I am fo fenfible " of Mr. Barton's extraordinary merit, that I have " been prevailed upon to alter my refolution of "s living a fingle life, and to put my happiners in " his hands, by vefting him with a legal title to "s my perfon and fortune, fuch as they are. The " bufinefs at prefent, is to have the writings drawn ; "s and I hall be obliged to you, if you-will recom" mend a la wyer to me for that purpofe.-"

You may guefs what an effect this overture had upon me, who, from the information of my nephow, expected that Barton was to make a formal declaration of his paffion for Liddy ; I could not help gazing in filent aftonifhment, alternately at Tabby and her fuppofed admirer, which laft hung his head in the moft aukward confufion for a few minutes, and then retired, on pretence of being fuddenly feized with a vertigo.-Mrs. Tabitha affeeted much concer. , and would have had him make ufe of a bed in the houfe; but he infifted upon going home, that he might have recourfe to fome drops, which he kept for fuch emergencies, and his inamorata acquiefced,-In the mean time I was exceedingly puzzled at this adventure (tho? I fufpected the truth) and did not know in what manner to demean myfelf towards Mrs. Tabitha, when Jery came in and told me, he had juft feen

The EXPEDITION of

Mr. Barton alight from his chariot at lady Grifkin's door.-This incident feemed, to threaten a vifit from her ladyfhip, with which we were honoured accordingly in lefs than half an hour-" I find " (faid the) there has been a match of crofs pur" pofes among you, good folks; and I'm come to "fet you to rights."-So faying, the prefented me with the folowling billet:

"Dear Sir,

"I no fooner recollected mylelf from the ex" treme confufion I was thrown into, by that un" lucky miftake of your fifter, than I thought it " my duty to affure you, that my devoirs to Mrs. ' Bramble never exceeded the bounds of ordinary
" civility, and that my heart is unalterably fixed " upon Mifs Liddy Melford, as I had the honour " to declare to her brother, when he queftioned " me upon that fubject.-Lady Grikkin has been " fo good as to charge herfelf, not only with the "s delivery of this note, but alfo with the rafk of " undeceiving Mrs. Bramdle, for whom I have "s the moft profound refpect and veneration, tho? " my affection being otherwife engaged, is no" longer in the power of, Sir, " Your very humble Servant, "Ralph Barton."

Having caft my eyes over this billet, I told her lady fhip that I would no longer retard the friendly office the had undertaken ; and $I$ and Jery forthwith retired into another room. There we foon. perceived the converfation grow very warm betwixt the two ladies; and, at lergth, could diAtinctly hear certain terms of altercation, which we could no longer delay interrupting, with any regard to decorum. When we entered the fiene of cortention, we found Liddy had joined the difputants, and flood trembling betwixt them, as is if the had been afraid they would have proceeded to fomething more practicable than words-Lady Grifkin's face was like the full moon in a ftorm of wind, glaring, fiery, and portentous; while Tabby looked grim and ghaftly, with an afpect breathing difoold and difmay.-Our appearance put a fop to their mutual revilings; but her ladyfhip turning to me, "Coufin (faid fhe) I can't help faying I have met " " with a very ungrateful return from this lady, " for the pains I have taken to ferve her family.-" "My family is much obliged to your ladythip, " (cried Tabby, with a kind of hyfterical giggle) "' but we have no right to the good offices of luch "an honourable go-berween." "But, for all "that, good Mrs. Tabitha Bramble, (refumed the " other) 1 fhall be content with the reflection, that " virtue is its own reward; and it fhall not be my " fault if you continue to make yourfelf ridicu" lous-Mr. Bramble, whe has no little intereft " of his own to ferve, will no doubt, contribute " all in his power to promote a match betwixt Mr. $\because$ Barton and his niece, which will be equally ho" nourable and advantageous; and, I dare fay, " Mifs Liddy hericlf will have no objection to a " meafure fo well calculated to make her happy in " life."-" I beg your Ladyfhip's pardon, (ex"claimed Liddy, with great vivacity) I have nc" thing but milery to expect from fuch a mea-uit ; " and I hope my guardians will have too much "compaffion, to barter my peace of mind for ary "confideration of intereft or fortu: e."-" Upon " my word, Mifs Liddy ! (faid fhe) you have "prefited by the example of your good aunt-I 8: comprehend your meaning, and will explain it is when I tave a proper opportunity - In the mean "time, I fhall takemy leave-Madam, your moft ak obedient, and devoted humble fervant," faid fhe,

206 The EXPEDITION of
advancing clofe up to my fifter, and curtfying fo low, that I thought the intended to fquat herfelf down on the floor-This falutation 'Tabby returned with equal folemnity; and the expreffion of the two faces, while they continued in this attitude, would be no bad fubject for a pencil like that of the incomparable Hogarth, if any fuch fhould ever appear again, in thefe times of dullnefs and degeneracy.

Jery aecompanied her ladyfhip to her houfe, that he might have an opportunity to reftore the etuis to Barton, and advife him to give up his fuit, which was fo difagreeable to his fifter, againft whom, however, he returned much irritated. Lady G rifkn had affured him, that Liddy's heart was pre-occupied; and immediately the idea of Wilfon recurring to his imagination, his familypride, took the alarm- He denounced vengeanceagainft that adventurer, and was difpofed to be very peremptory with his fifter ; but I defired he would fupprefs his refentment, until 1 fhould have talked with her in private.
'The poor girt, when I earneftly preffed her on this head, owned, with a flood of tears, that Wilfon had actually come to the Hot Well at Briftol, and cven introduced himfelf into cur lodgings as a Jew pedler: but that nothing had paffed betwixt them, furthor than her begging him to withdraw immediately, if kie had any regard for her peace of mind: that he had diappeared accordingly, after having attempted to prevail upon my fifter's maid to deliver a letter; which, however, fhe refufed to receive, though fhe had confented to carry a meflage, importing that be was a gentleman of a gecd family, and tha: in a very little time, he would avow his paffion in that character-She confeffed, that a'though he had not kept his word in this particular, he was not yet al ogether indifferint to her affection; but folemnly promifed, fie would never carry on any correfpondence with him, or any other admirer, for the future, without the privity and approbation of her brother and me.

By this declaration, fie made her own peace with Jery ; but the hotheaded boy is more than ever incenfed against Wilfon, whom he now confiders as an impoftor, that harbours forme infamous defign upon the honour of his family -As for Barton, he was not a little mortified to find his prefent returned, and his addreffes fo unfavourably received; but he is not a man to be deeply affected by fuch difappointments; and I know not whether he is not as well pleated at being difcarded by Liddy, as he would have been with a permiffion to profecute his pretenfions, at the rifque of being every day expored to the revenge or machinations of Tabby, who is not to be flighted with impunity.-I had not much time to moralize on there occurrences; for the houfe was vifited by a conftable and his gang with a warrant from juftice Buzzard, to fearch the box of Humphry Clinker, my footman, who was jut apprehended as a highwayman -Thisincident threw the whole family into confusion. My filter folded the constable for prefuming to enter the lodgings of a gentleman on fuch an errand, without having firf afked and obtained permiffion; her maid was frightened into fits, and Liddy fled tears of compaffion for the unfortunate Clinker, in whole box, however, nothing was found to confirm the fulpicion of robbery

For my own part, 1 made no doubt of the eellow's being miftakien for forme other perfon, and Iwent directly to the justice, in order to procure his difcharge; but there I found the matter much more furious than I expected -Poor Clinker floc trembling at the bar, furrounded by thief-takers; and, at a little distance, a thick, fquat fellow, a poftillion, his accufer, who had feized him in the itreet, and fwore pofitively to his perfon, that the faid Clinker had, on the 15 th day of March laft, on Blackheath, robbed a gentleman in a poftchaife, which he (the poftillion drove) - This depofition was fufficient to juftify his commitment; and he was fent accordingly to Clerkenwell prifon, whither Jery accompanied him in the coach, in order to recommend him properly to the keeper, that he may want for no convenieace which the place affords.

The fpectators, who affembled to fee this highwayman, were fagacious enough to difcern fomething very villanous in bis afpect, which (begging their pardon) is the very picture of fimplicity; and the juftice himfelf put a very unfavourable conftruction upon fome of his anfwers which, he faid, favoured of the ambiguity and equivocation of an old offender; but, in my opinion, it would have been more juft and humane to impute them to the confufion into which we may fuppofe a poor coun try lad to be thrown on fuch an occafion. I am ftill pelfuaded he is innocent; and in this pertuafion, I can do no leis than ufe my utmott endeavours that he may not be oppreffed- I fhall, tc-morrow, fend my nephew to wait on the gentleman who was rolbed, and beg he will have the humanity to go and lee the prifoner; that in cafe he fhould find him quite different from the perfon of the highwayman, he may bear teftimeny in hisbe-half-Howfoever it may fare with Clinker, this curfed affair will be to me productive of intolerable chagrin-I have already caught a dreadful cold, by tufting into the epen air from the juftice's par1 ur, where I tad been flewing in the crowd ; and tho' I flould rot be laid up with the gout, as I believe I fhall, I muft ftay at London for fome weeks, till this por devil comes to his trial at Rochefter;
chefter ; fo that, in all probability, my Northern expedition is blown up.

If you can find any thing in your philofophical budget, to confole me in the midit of thefe diftieffes and apprehenfions, pray let it be communicated to

Your unfortunate friend,
London, June 12. Matt. Bramble.

ToSir Watkin Phillips, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxo n

DEAR WAT,

THE farce is finifhed, ant! another piece of a graver caft brought upon the ftage.-Our aunt made a defperate attack upon Barton, who had no other way of faving limfelf, but by leaving her in poffeffion of the field, and avowing his pretenfions to Liddy, by whom he has been rejected in his turn. Lady Grifkin acted as his advocate and agent on this occafion, with fuch zeal as embroiled her with Mrs. Tabitha, and a high feene of altercation paffed betwixt thefe two religionifts, which might have come to action, had not my uncle interpofed. They are, however, reconciled, in con equence of an event which hath involved us all in trouble and difqtiet. You mult know, the poor preacher, Humphry Clinker, is now exercifing his miniftry among the felons in Clerkenwell prifon.-A poftillion having fworn a robbery againft him, no bail could be taken, and he was committed to goal, notwithftanding all the remonftrances and intercflt my uncle could make in his behalf.

All things confidered, the poor fellow cannot poffibly be guilty, and yet, I believe, he runs fome rifque of being hanged.- Upon his examination, he anfwered with fuch befitation and reerve, as perfuaded moft of the people, who crowded the place, that he was really a knave, and the juftice's remarks corfirmed their opinion. Exclufive of my uncle ard mylelf, there was only one perfon who feemed inclined to favour the culprit.- He was a young man, well dreffed, and from the manter in which he crofs-examined the eviderce, we look it for granted, that he was a fudent in ore of the inns of courts-He freely cliecked the juftice for fome uncharitable inferences he made to the prejudice of the prifoner, and even ventured to dipule with his worfhip on certain points of !aw.

My uncle, provoked at the uncornected and dubious anfwers of Clinker, whe feemed in danger of falling a facrifice to his own fimplicity, exclaimed, "In the Name of God, if you are iunoceut, fay "" fo." "No (cried he) God forbid that I fhould " call myfelf inmocent, while my concience is bur"dened with fin." "What then, you did com" mit this robbery ?" refumed his mafter," "No, "fure (faid he) bleffed be the Lord, I'm free of " that guilt."

Here the juftice interpofed, obferving, that the man feemed inclined to make a difcovery by turning king's ev dence, and defired the clerk to take his confeffion; upon which Humphry declared, that he looked upon confeffion to be a popifh fraud, invented by the whore of Babylon. The Templar, affirmed, that the poor fellow was non compos; and exhorted the juftice to difcharge him as a lunatic. "Ycu know very well (added he) that the rob" bery in queftion was not committed by the pri"foner."

The thief-takers grinned at one another ; and Mr. Juftice Buzzard replied with great emotion, " Mr. Martin, I defire you will mind your own " bufinefs; I fhall convince you cne of thefe days "that I underftand mine." In fhort, there was no remedy ; the mittimus was made out, and poor Clinker fent to prifon in a hackney-coach, guarded by the conftable, and accompained by your humble fervant. By the way, I was not a little furprifed to hear this retainer to juftice bid the prifoner to keep up his fpirits, for that he did not at all doubt, but that he would get off for a few weeks confinement.-He faid, his worfhip knew very well that Clinker was innocerit of the fact, and that the real highwayman, who robbed the chaife, was no other than that very individual Mr. Martin, who had pleaded to ftrenuoufly for honeft Humphry.

Confounded at this information, I afked, " Why then is he fuffered to go asout at his li" berty, and this poor innocent flllow treated as a " malefactor?" " We have exact intelligenes of " all Mr. Martin's tranfactions; (faid hey but as " yet there is no evidence fufficient for his con" victon; and as for this young man, the juftice " could do no lefs than commit him, as the poftil" lion fwore point-blank to his iderrity." "So " if this rafcally poft llion fhould perfift in the fal"fity to which he is fworn, (faid I) this innocent "lad may be brought to the gallows."

The conftable obferved, that he would have time enough to prepare for his trial, and might prove an alibi; or perhaps, Martin might be apprehended and convicted for another fact; in which cafe, he might be prevailed upon to take this affair upon himfelf; or finally, if thefe chances fhould fail, and the evidence ftand good againft Clinker, the jury might recommend him to mercy, in confideration of his youth, efpecially if this fhould appear to be the firft fact of which he had been guilty.

Humphry owned he could not preterd to recollect where he had been on the day when the robbery was committed, much lefs prove a circumfarce of that kind fo far back as fix monthis, theugh he knew he had been fick of the fever and ague, which, hovever, did not prevent him frem going about-then, turning up his eyes, he cjaculated, "The Lord's will be done! if it be - my fate to foffer, I tope I flall not difgrace "the faith, of which, though unworthy, I make "profeffion."

When I exproffed my furprize, that the accufer fhould perfift in charging Clinker, without taking theleaft notice of the real robber, who ftood before him, and to whom, indeed, Hnmphry bore rot the fmaileft refermblance; the conflatle (who was himfelf a thief-taker) gave ne to urderfland, that Mr. Marin was the beft qualified for bufinefs of all the gentlemen on the road le had ever known; that be always acted on his own bottom, witheut partner or correffondent, and rever went to work, but when he was cool and $r$. ber; that his courage and prefonce of mind rever failed lim ; that his addrefs was genteel, and his behavicur void of all cruelty and infolerice; that he rever ercumbered limfelf with watches or trinke's, roer even with bank-notes, but always dealt for ready moncy, and that in the current coin of the kingdom ; and that he could difguife timfelf and his horfe in fuch a manner, that, after the action, it was impoffible to recognize either the one or the other - "This great man (faid he) " has reigned paramount in all the roads within is fifty miles of London above fifteen months, and " has done more bufinefs in that time, than all
" the reft of the profeffion put together ; for "s thofe who pafs through his hands, are fo delicate" Iy dealt with, that they have no defire to give " lim the leaft difturbance; but for all that, his " race is almoft run-he is now fluttering about " juftice, like a moth about a candle-there are "fo many lime-twigs laid in his way, that I'll " bet a cool hundred, he fwings before Chrift" mas."

Shall I own to you, that this portrait, drawn by a ruffian, heightened by what I myfelf had obferved in his deportment, has interefted me warmly in the fate of poor Martin, whom nature feems to have intended for a ufeful and honourable member of that community upon which he now preys for fubfiftence? It feems he lived fome time as a clerk to a tember merchant, whofe daughter Martin having privately married, was difcarded, and his wife turned out of doors. She did not long furvive her marriage ; and Martin, turning fortune-hunter, could not fupply his occafions any other way, than by taking to the road, in which he has travelled hitherto with uncommon fuccefs. -He pays his refpects regularly to Mr. Juftice Buzzard, the thief-catcher-general of this metropolis, and fometimes they fmoke a pipe together very lovingly, when the converfation generally turns upon the nature of evidence. - The juftice has giving him fair warning to take care of himfelf, and he has received his caution in good pait -Hitherto he has baffled all the vigilance, art, and activity of Buzzard and his emiffaries, with fuch conduct as would have done honour to the genius of a Cæfar or a Turenne; but he has one weaknefs which has proved fatal to all the heroes of his tribe, namely, an indifcreet devotion to the fair fex, and in all probability, he will be attacked on this defencelefs quarter.

214 The EXPEDITION of

Bethat as it may, I faw the body of poor Clinker configred to the gaoler of Clerkenwell, to whofe indulgence I recommended him fo effectually, that he received him in the moft hufpitable manner, though there was a neceffity for equipping him with a fuit of irons, in which he made a very rueful appearance. The poor creature feemed as much affected by my uncle's kindnefs, as by his own misfortune. When I affured him, that nothing fhould be left undone for procuring his enlargment, and making his confinement eafy in the mean time, he fell down on his knees, and kiffing my hand, which he bathed with his tears, " O 'fquire! (cried he, fobbing) what fhall I fay ? " - I can't-no-, I can't ípeak-my poor heart " is burfting with gratitude to you and my dear " -dear-generous-noble benefactor."

I proteft, the fcene became fo pathetic, that I was fain to force myfelf away, and returned to my uncle, who fent me in the afternoon with a compliment to one Mr. Mead, the perfon who had been robbed on Black-heath. As 1 did not find him at home, I left a meffage, in confequence of which he called at our lodgings this morning, and very humanely agreed to vifit the prifoner. By this time, lady Grifkin had come to make her formal compliments of condolance to Mrs. Tabitha, on this domeffic calamity; and that prudent maiden, whofe paffion was now cooled, thought proper to receive her ladyfhip fo civilly, that a reconciliation immediately enfued. Thefe two ladies refolved to comfort the poor prifoner in their own perfons, and Mr. Mead and I 'fquired them to Clerkenwell, my uncle being detained at home by fome flight complaints in his ftomach and bowels.
'The turnkey, who received us at Clerkenwell, looked remarkably fullen; and when we enquired for Clinker, "I don't care if the devil had him ; " (faid he) here has been nothing but canting and "s praying fince the fellow entered the place. '! Rabbit him! the tap will be ruined-we han't " fold a cafk of beer, nor a dozen of wine, fince " he paid his garnifh-the gentlemen get drunk "s with nothing but your damned religion.-For " my part, I believe as how your man deals with " the devil.- Two or three as buld hearts as ever st took the air upon Hounflow, have been blub" bering all night; and if the fellow an't speedily "s removed by Habeas Corpus, or otherwife, I'll 's be damn'd if there's a grain of true fpirit left " within thefe walls-we fhan't have a foul to do " credit to the place, or make his exit like a true" born Englifhman-damn my eyes! there will " be nothing but fnivelling in the cart-we fhall "t all die tike fo many pfalm-finging weavers."

In fhort, we found that Humphry was, at that very inftant, haranguing the felons in the chapel ; and that the gaoler's wife and daughter, together with my aunt's woman, Win. Jenkins, and our houfe-maid, were among the audience, which we immediately joined. I never faw any thing fo itrongly picturefque as this congregation of felons clanking their chains, in the midft of whom ftood orator Clinker, expatiating, in a tranfort of fervour, on the torments of hell, denounced in fcripture againft evil-doers, comprehending murderers, robbers, thieves, and whoremongers. The variety of attention exhibited in the faces of thofe ragamuffins, formed a groupe that would not have difgraced the pencil of a Raphael. In one it denoted admiration ; in another, doubt; in a third, difdain; in a fourth, contempt; in a fifth terror; in a fixth, derifion; and in a feventh, indignation. -As for Mrs. Winifred Jenkins, the was in tears, overwhelmed with forrow; but whether for her own fins, or the misfortune of Clinker, I cannot pretend to fay. The other females feemed to liften with a mixture of wonder and devotion. The gaoler's wife declared he was a faint in trouble, faying, fhe wifhed from her heart, there was fuch another good foul, like him, in every gaol in England.

Mr. Mead, having earneftly furveyed the preacher, declared his appearance was fo different from that of the perfon who robbed him on Black-heath, that he could freely make oath he was not the man: But Humphry himfelf was by this time pretty well rid of all apprehenfions of being hanged; for he had been the night before folemnly tried and acquitted by his fellow prifoners, fome of whom he had already converted to methodifm. He now made proper acknowledgments for the honour of our vilit, and was permitted to kifs the hands of the ladies, who affured him, he might depend upon their friendfhip and protection. Lady Grikkin, in her great zeal, exhorted his fellowprifoners to profit by the precious opportunity of having fuch a faint in bonds among them, and turn over a new leaf for the benefit of their poor fouls; and, that her admonition might have the greater cffect, fhe reinforced it with her bounty.

While the and Mrs. Tabby returned in the coach with the two maid-fervants, I waited on Mr. Mead to the houfe of juftice Buzzard, who, having heard his declaration, faid his oath could be of ro ufe at prefent, but that he would be a material evidence for the prifoner at his trial ; fo that there feems to be no remedy but patience for poor Climker; and, indeed, the fame virtue, or medicine, will be neceflary for us all, the 'iquire in particular, particular, who had fet his heart upon his excurfion to the northward.

While we were vifiting honeft Humphry in Clerkenwell prifon, my uncle received a much more extraordinary vifit at his own lodgings. Mr. Martin, of whom I have made fuch honourable mention, defired permiffion to pay him his refpects, and was admitted accordingly. He told him, that having obferved him, at Mr. Buzzard's, a good deal difturbed by what had happened to his fervant, he had come to affure him he had nothing to apprehend for Clinker's life; for if it was poffible that any jury could find him guilty upon fuch evidence, he, Martin himfelf, would produce in court a perfon, whofe depofition would bring him off clear as the fun at noon.-Sure, the fellow would not be fo romantic as to take the robbery upon himfelf!-He faid, the portillion was an infamous fellow, who had been a dabbler in the fame profeffion, and faved his life at the Old Bailey by impeaching his companions; that being now reduced to great poverty, he had made this defperate pufh, to fwear a way the life of an innocent man, in hopes of having the reward upon his conviction; but that he would find himfelf miferably difappointed, for the juftice and his myrmidons were determined to admit of no interloper in this branch of bufinefs; and that he did not at all doubt but that they would find matter enough to fhop the evidence himfelf before the next gaol delivery. He affirmed, that all thefe circumflances were well known to the juftice; and that his feverity to Clinker was no other than a hint to his mafter to make him a prefent in private, as an acknowledgment of his candour and humanity.

This hint, however, was fo unpalatable to Mr Bramble, that he declared, with great warmthhe would rather confine himfelf for life to London'

Vol. I
K
which

218 The EXPEDITION of which he detefted, than be at liberty to leave it to-morrow, in confequence of encouraging corruption in a magiftrate. Hearing, however, how favourable Mr. Mead's report had been for the prifoner, he is refolved to take the advice of counfel in what manner to proceed for his immediate enlargement. I make no doubt, but that in a day or two this troublefome bufinefs may be difcuffed; and in this hope we are preparing for our journey. If our endeavours do not mifearry, we thall have taken the field before you hear again from

> Yours,

London, June 11 .

> To Dr. Lewis.

THANK Heaven! dear Lewis, the clouds are difperfed, and I have now the cleareft profpect of my fummer campaign, which, I hope, I thall be able to begin to-morrow. I took the advice of counfel, with refpect to the cafe of Clinker, in whofe favour a lucky incident has intervened. The fellow who accufed him, has had his own battery turned upon himfelf.-Two days ago, he was apprehended for a robbery on the highway, and committed on the evidence of an accomplice. Clinker, having moved for a writ of babeas corpur, was brought before the lord chief juftice, who, in confequence of an affidavit of the gentleman who had been robbed, importing that the faid Clinker was not the perfon who ftopped him or the highway, as well as in confideration of the poftillion's character and prefent circumftances was pleafed to order, that my fervant fhould be admitted to bail, and he has been difcharged accordingly, to the unfpeakable fatisfaction of our whole family, to which he has recommended himfelf in an extraordinary manner, not only by his obliging deportment, but by his talents of preaching, praying, and finging pfalms, which he has exercifed with fuch effect, that even Tabby refpects him as a chofen veffel. If there was any thing like affectation or hypocrify in this excefs of religion, I would not keep him in my fervice; but, fo far as I can oblerve, the fellow's character is downright fimplicity, warmed with a kind of enthufiafm, which renders him very fufceptible of gratitude and attachment to his benefactors.

As he is an excellent horfeman, and underftands farriery, I have bought a ftout gelding for his ufe, that he may attend us on the road, and have an eye to our cattle, in cafe the coachman fhould not mind his bufinefs. My nephew, who is to ride his own faddle horfe, has taken, upon trial, a fervant juft come from abroad with his former mafter, fir William Strollop, who vouches for his honefty. The fellow, whofe name is Dutton, feems to be a petit-maitre. -He has got a fmattering of French, bows, and grins, and fhrugs, and takes fnuff a la mode de France, but values himfelf chiefly upon his fkill and dexterity in hair-dreffing-If I am not much deceived by appearance, he is, in all refpects, the very contraft of Humphry Ciinker.

My fifter has made up matters with lady Grifkin; though, I muft own, I fhould not have been forry to fee that connexion entirely deftroyed: but Tabby is not of a difpofition to forgive Barton, who, I anderftand, is gone to his feat in Berkfhire for the rummer feafon. I cannot help fufpecting, that in the treaty of peace, which has been lately ratified betwixt thofe two females, it is ftipulated, that her ladyfhip thall ufe her beft endeavours to provide an feems to be quite defperate in her matrimonial defigns. Perhaps, the match-maker is to have a valuable confideration in the way of brokerage, which The will moft certainly deferve, if the can find any man in his fenfes, who will yoke with Mrs. Bramble from motives of affection or intereft.

I find my fpirits and my health affect each other reciprocally-that is to fay, every thing that difcompofes my mind, produces a correfpondent diforder in my body; and my bodily complaints are remarkably mitigated by thofe confiderations that diffipate the clouds of mental chagrin-The imprifonment of Clinker brought on thofe fymptoms which I mentioned in my laft, and now they are vanifhed at his difcharge.- It muft be owned, indeed, I took fome of the tincture of ginfeng, prepared according to your prefcription, and found it exceedingly grateful to the ftomach; but the pain and ficknefs continued to return, after fhort intervals, till the anxiety of my mind was entirely removed, and then I found myfelf perfectly at eafe. We have had fair weather thefe ten days, to the aftonifhment of the Londoners, who think it portentous. If you enjoy the fame indulgence in Wales, I hope Barns has got my hay made, and fafe cocked, by this time. As we fhall be in motion for fome weeks, I cannot expect to hear from you as ufual ; but I fhall continue to write from every place at which we make any halt, that you may know our track, in cafe it fhould be neceffary to communicate any thing to

your affured friend,

Liondon, June 14.
Matt. Bramele.

To Mrs. Mary Jones, at Brambleton-hall, &c.

DEAR MARY,

HAVING the occafion of my coufin Jenkins of Aberga'ny, I fend you, as a token, a turkey-fhell comb, a kiple of yards of green ribbon, and a farment upon the nothingnefs of good works, which was preached in the Tabernacle; and you will alfo receive a horn-buck for Saul, whereby fhe may. learn her letters; for I'm much confarned, about the flate of her poor fole-and what are all the purfuits of this life to the confarns of that immortal part ? - What is life but a veil of affliction? -O Mary ! the whole family have been in fuch a conftipation I-Mr. Clinker has been in trouble, but the gates of hell have not been able to prevail againt hin?.-His virtue is like poor gould, feven times tried in the fire. He was tuck up for a rubbery, and had before guftals Buishard, who made his mittamoufe ; and the pore youth was fent toprifon upon the falfe oaf of a williai, that wanted to sware his life away for the looker of cain.

The 'fquire did alt in his power, but could not: prevent his being put in chains, and confined among common manufactors, where he ftud like an innocent fheep in the midft of wolves and ty-gers.- Lord knows, what mought have happened to this pyehoufe young man, if mafter had not applied to Apias Korkus, who lives with the ould bailiff, and is, they fay, five hundred years ould, (God blefs us!) and a congeror: but, if he be, fure I am he don't deal with the devil, otherwife he wouldn't have fought out Mr. Clinker, as he did, in fpite of ftone walls, iron bolts, and double locks, that flew open at his command; for Ould Scratch has not a greater enemy upon hearth than Mr. Clinker, wha is, indeed, a very powerfull

222 The EXPEDITION of
labourer in the Lord's vineyard. I do no more than yufe the words of my good lady, who has got the infectual calling; and, I truft, that even myfelf, though unworthy, fhall find greafe to be excepted.-Mifs Liddy has been touch'd to the quick, but is a little timorfome: howfomever, I make no doubt, but the, and all of us, will be brought, by the endeavours of Mr. Clinker, to produce bleffed fruit of generation and repentance. - As for mafter and the young 'fquire, they have as yet had narro glimpfe of the new light. 1 doubt as how their harts are hardened by worldly wifdom, which, as the pyebill faith, is foolifnnefs in the fight of God.

O Mary Jones, pray without feizing for greafe to prepare you for the operations of this wonderful inftrument, which, I hope, will be exorcifed this winter upon you and others at Brambleton-hall.-To-morrow, we are to fet out in a cox and four for Yorkfhire; and, I believe, we fhall travel that way far, and far, and farther than I can tell; but I man't go fo far as to forget my friends; and Mary Jones will always be remembered as one of them by her

> humble farvant,

London, June 14.
Win. Jenkins.

To Mrs. Gwyllim, houfe-keefer at Bram-bleton-hall.

MRS. GWYLLIM,
I CAN'T help thinking it very frange, that I never had an anfwer to the letter I wrote you fome weeks ago from Bath, concerning the four bear, the gander, and the maids eating butter, which which I won't allow to be wafted-We are now going upon a long gurney to the north, whereby I defire you will redouble your care and circumflexion, that the family may be well manged in our abfence ; for, you know, you muft render account, not only to your earthly mafter, but alfo to him that is above : and if you are found a good and faithful farvant, great will be your reward in heaven. I hope there will be twenty ftun of cheefe ready for market by the time I get huom, and as much owl fpun, as will make half a dozen pair of blankets; and that the favings of the butter-milk will fetch me a good penny bafore Martinmafs, as the two pigs are to be fed for baking with bitchmaft and acrons.

I wrote to doctor Lews for the fame purpufs, but he never had the good manners to take the leaft notice of my letter; for which reafon, I fhall never favour him with another, though he befhits me on his bended knees. You will do well to keep a watchfull eye over the hind Villiams, who is one of his amiffories, and, I believe, no better than he fhould be at bottom. God forbid that I fhould lack chriftian charity; but charity begins at huom, and fure nothing can be a more charitable work than to rid the fanily of fuch vermine. I do fuppofe, that the brindled cow has been had to the parfon's bull, that old Moll has had another litter of pigs, and that Dick is become a mighty moufer. Pray order every thing for the beft, and be frugal, and keep the maids to their labour.If I had a private opportunity, I would fend them fome hymns to fing inftead of profane ballads ; but, as I can't, they and you muft be comtented with the prayers of your affured friend,
London, June 14 . T. BRAMBEE,

> To Sir Watkin Phillips, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxon

DEAR PHILLIPS,

THE very day after I wrote my laft, Clinker was fet at liberty - As Martin had foretold, the accufer was himfelf committed for a robery, upon urqueftionable evidence. He had been for fome time in the fnares of the thief-taking fociety; who, refenting his prefumption in attempting to incroach upon their monopoly of impeachment, Tad him taken up and committed to Newgate, on the depofition of an accomplice, who has been admitted as evidence for the king. The poftillion being upon record as? an old offender, the chief juftice made no fcruple of admitting Clinker to bail, when he perufed the affidavit of Mr. Mead, importing that the faid Clinker was not the perfon that robbed him on Blackheath ; and honeft Humphry was difcharged-When he came home, he expreffed great eagernefs to pay his refpects to his mafter, and here his elocution failed him, but his filence was pathetic; he fell down at his feet, and embraced his knees, fhedding a flood of tears, which my uncle did not fee without emotionHe took fnuff in fome confufion; and, putting his land in his pocket, gave him his bleffing in fomething more fubitantial than words-"Clinker, " (faid he) I am fo well convinced, both of your " honefty and courage, that I am refolved to make " you my life-guard-man on the highway."

He was accordingly provided with a cafe of piftols, and a carbine to be flung a-crofs his fhoulders; and every other preparation being made, we fet out laft Thurfday, at feven in the morning; my uncle, with the three women in the coach;

Humphry

Humphry, well mounted on a black gelding bought for his ufe: myfelf a-horfeback, attended by my new valet, Mr. Dutton, an exceeding coxcomb, frefh from his travels, whom I have taken upon trial-The fellow wears a folitaire, ufes paint, and takes rappee with all the grimace of a French marquis. At prefent, however, he is in a ridingdrefs, jack-boots, leather breeches, a fcarlet waiftcoat, with gold binding, a laced hat, a hanger, a French pofting-whip in his hand, and his hair en queue.

Before we had gone nine miles, my horfe loft one of his fhoes ; fo that I was obliged to ftop at Barnet to have another, while the coach proceeded at an eafy pace over the common. About a mile fhort of Hatfield, the poftillions, fopping the carriage, gave notice to Clinker that there were two fufpicious fellows a-horfeback, at the end of a lane, who feemed waiting to attack the coach. Humphry forthwith apprifed my uncle, declaring he would ftand by him to the laft drop of his blood; and, unllinging his carbine, prepared for actior. The 'fquire had piftols in the pockets of the coach, and refolved to make ufe of them directly; but he was effectually prevented by his female companions, who flung themfelves about his neck, ard fcreamed in concert-At that inftant, who fhould come up at a hand-gallop, but Martin, the high--way-man, who, advancing to the coach, begged the ladies would compofe themfelves for a moment; then, defiring Clinker to follow him to the charge, he pulled a piftol out of his bofom, and they rode up together to give battle to the rogues, who, having fired at a great diftance, fled acrofs the common. They were in purfuit of the fugitives when I came up, not a lutle alarmed at the fhrieks in the coach, where I found my uncle in a violent rage, without his periwig, Atruggling to difentan-

$$
K_{5} ;
$$

226 The EXPEDITION of

gle himfelf from Tabby and the other two, and fwearing with great vociferation. Before I had time to interpofe, Martin and Clinker returned from the purfuit, and the former payed his compliments with great politenefs, giving us to underftand, that the fellows had fcampered off, and that he believed they were a couple of raw 'prentices from London. He commended Clinker for his courage, and faid, if he would give him leave, he would have the honour to accompany us as far as Stevenage, where he had fome bufinefs.

The 'fquire, having recollected and adjufted himfelf, was the firft to laugh at his own fituation; but it was not without difficulty, that Tabby's arms could be untwifted from his neck, Liddy's teeth chattered, and Jenkins was threatened with a fit as ufual. I had communicated to my uncle the character of Martin, as it was defcribed by the conftable, and he was much ftruck with its fingula-rity-He could not fuppofe the fellow had any defign on our company, which was fo numerous and well armed; he therefore thanked him for the fervice he had juft done them, faid he would be glad of his company, and afked him to dine with us at Hatfield. This invitation might not have been agreeable to the ladies, had they known the real profeffion of our gueft, but this was a fecret to all, except my uncle ard myfelf-Mrs. Tabitha however, would by no means confent to procced with a cafe of loaded piftols in the coach, and they were forthwith difcharged in complaifance to. her and the relt of the women.

Being gratified in this particular, fie became remarkably good-humoured, and at dinner behaved in the moft affable manner to Mr , ivartin, with whole polite addrefs and agreeable converlation fie fermed to be much taken. After dinrer, the lando.d acco?ing me in the yald, afked, with a fignificant look, if the gentleman that rode the forrel belonged to our company ? -I underftood his meaning, but anfwered no; that he had come up with us on the common, and helped us to drive away two fellows, that looked like highwaymenHe nodded three times diftinctly, as much as to fay, he knows his cue. Then he inquired, if one of thofe men was mounted on a bay mare, and the other on a chefnut gelding with a white ftreak down his forehead? and being anfwered in the affirmative, he affured me, they had robbed three poft-chaifes this very morning-1 inquired, in my turn, if Mr . Martin was of his acquaintance ? and, nodding thrice again, he anfwered, that be bad feen. the gentleman.

Before we left Hatfield, my uncle, fixing his eyes on Martin with fuch expreffion as is more eafily conceived than defcribed, afked, if he often travelled that road ? and he replied with a look which denoted his underftanding the queftion, that he very feldom did bufinefs in that part of the country. In a word, this adventurer favoured us with his company to the neighbourhood of Steven, age, where he took his leave of the coach and me, in very polite terms, and turned off upon a crofsroad, that led to a village on the left.-At fupper, Mrs. Tabby was very full in the praife of Mr. Martin's good-fenfe and good-breeding, and feemed to regret that fhe had not a further opportunity to make fome expreriment upon his affection. In the morning, ny uncle was not a little furprifed to receive from the waiter, a billet couched in thefe words:-

> "Sir,
"I could eafily perceive from your looks, whien "I had the honour to converfe with you at Hat-
"field, that my character is not unknown to you;
" and, I dare fay, you won't think it ftrange, that "I fhould be glad to change my prefent way of " life, for any honeft occupation, let it be ever fo
" humble, that will afford me bread in moderati-
" on, and fleep in fafety.-Perhaps you may think
"I flatter, when I fay, that from the moment I " was witnefs to your generous concern in the " caufe of your fervant, I conceived a particular
" efteem and veneration for your perfon ; and yet
"6 what I fay is true. I fhould think myfelf hap" py, if I could be admitted into your protection
" and fervice, as a houfe-fteward', clerk, butler, or
" bailiff, for either of which places I think myfelf
" tolerably well qualified; and, fure I am, I fhould
" not be found deficient in gratitude and fidelity :
" 6 at the fame time, I am very fenfible how much
"s you muft deviate from the common maxims of
"s difcretion, even in putting my profeflions to the " trial; but I don't look upon you as a perfon that thinks in the ordinary ftile; and the delicacy of my fituation will, I know, juftify this address to a heart warmed with benificence and compaf-${ }^{6}$ fion.-Underftanding you are going pretty far " 6 north, I fhall take an opportunity to throw my" felf in your way again, before you reach the "6 borders of Scotland; and I hope, by that time,
" you will have taken. into confideration the truly ce diftrefsful cafe of,
" honoured fir, " your very humble, " and devoted fervant, "Edward Martin."

The 'fquire, having perufed this letter, put it into my hand without faying a fyllable and, when I had read it, we lonked at each other in Flence. From a certain fparkling in his eyec, 1 difsovered there was more in his heart, than he cared to exprefs with his tongue, in favour of poor Martin; and this was precifely my own feeling, which he did not fail to difcern, by the fame means of communication-" What fhall we do (faid he) " to fave this poor finner from the gallows, and " make him a ufeful member of the common"s wealth ? And yet the proverb fays, Save a thief "from the gallows, and he'll cut your throat." I told him, I really believed Martin was capable of giving the proverb the lie; and that I fhould heartily concur in any ftep he might take in favour of his folicitation. We mutually refolved to deliberate upon the fubject, and in the mean time, proceeded on our journey. The roads, having been broke up by the heavy rains in the fpring, were fo rough, that although we travelled very flowly, the jolting occafioned fuch pain to my uncle, that he was become exceedingly peevifh when we arrived at this place, which lies about eight miles from the poft-road, between, Whetherby and Boroughbridge.

Harrigate-water, fo celebrated for its efficacy in the fcurvy and other diftempers, is fupplied from a copious fpring, in the hollow of a wild common, rourd which, a good many houfes have been built for the convenience of drinkers, though few of them are inhabited. Moft of the company lodge at fome diftance, in five feparate inns, fituated in different parts of the common, from whence they: go every noorning to the well, in their own carriages. The lodgers of each inn form a diftinct fociety, that eat together; and there is a commodious public room, where they breakfaft in difhabille, at feperate tables, from eight o'clock till eleven, as they chance or choofe to come in-Here alfo they drink tea in the afternoon, and play at cards or dance in the evening. One cuftom, however, prevails, which I look upon as a folecirm in politenefs.

- politenefs. -The ladies treat with tea in their turns; and even girls of frxteen are not extempted from this Thameful impofition. - There is a public ball by fubfcription every night at one of the houfes, to which all the company from the others are admitted by tickets; and indeed, Harriga'e, treads upon the heels of Bath, in the articles of gaiety and diffipati-on-with this difference, however, that here we are more fociable and familiar. One of the inns is already full up to the very garrets, having no lefs than fifty lodgers, and as many fervants. Our family does not exceed thirty-fix; and I fhould be forry to fee the number augmented, as our accommodations won't admit of much increafe.

At prefent, the company is more agreeable thanone could expect from an accidental affemblage of perfons who are utter ftrangers to one another.There feems to be a general difpofition among us to maintain good fellowfhip, and promote the purpofes of humanity, in favour of thofe who come hither on the fcore of health. I fee feveral faces which we left at Bath, although the majority are of the Northern counties, and may come from Scotland for the benefit of thefe waters-In fuch a variety, there muft be fome originals, among whom Mrs. Tabitha Bramble is not the moft incon-fiderable-No place where there is fuch an intercourfe between the fexes, can be difagreeable to alady of her views and temperament-She has had fome warm diputes at table, with a lame parfon from Northumbertand, on the new birth, and the infignificance of moral virtue; and her arguments have been reinforced by an oid Scotch lawyer, in a. tye-periwig, who, though he has lott his teeth, and the ufe of his limbs, can, ftill wag his tongue with great volubility. He has paid her fuch fulfome compliments, upor her piety and learning, as feem to have wonher leart; and fhe, in her turn, treats him with fuch attention as indicates a defign upon his perfon; but, by all acounts, he is too much a fox to be inveigled into any fnare that fhe can lay for his affection.

We do not purpofe to ftay long at Harrigate, though, at prefent, it is our head quarters, from whence we fhall make fome excurfions, to vifit two or three of our rich relations, who are fcttled in this county.-Pray, remember me to all our friends of Jefus, and allow me to be ftill,

Yours affectionately,
Harrigate, June 23.
J. Melford.

To Dr. Lewwis.

dear doctor,

CONSIDERING the tax we pay for turnpikes, the roads of this country conftitute a moft intolerable grievance. Between Newark and Weatherby, 1 have fuffered more from jolting and fwinging, than ever I felt in the whole courle of my lite, although the carriage is remarkably commodious. and well bung, and the poftillions were very careful in driving. I am now fafely houfed at the New Inn at Harrigate, whither I came to fatisfy my curiofity, rather than with any view of adyantage to my health; and truly, after having confidered allthe parts and particulars of the place I cannot account for the concourle of people one finds here, upon any other principle but that of caprice, which feems to be the character of our nation.

Harrigate is a wild common, bare and bleak without tree or fhrub, or the leaft figus of cultiwation; and the people who come to drink the water, are crowded together in paltry inns, where the few tolerable rooms are monopolized by the frien's. and favourites of the houfe, and all the reft of the lodgers are obliged to put up. with dirty holes, where where there is neither fpace, air, nor convenience. My apartment is about ten feet fquare; and when the folding bed is down, there is juft room fufficient to pafs between it and the fire. One might expect, indeed, that there would be no occation for a fire at midfummer; but here the climate is fo backward, that an afh tree, which our landlord has planted before my window, is juft beginning to put forth its leaves; and I am fain to have my bed warmed every night.

As for the water, which is faid to have effected fo many furprifing cures, I have drank it once, and the firft draught has cured me of all defire to repeat the medicine.-Some people fay it fmells of rotten eggs, and other's compare it to the fcourings of a foul gun.-It is generally fuppofed to be ftrongly impregnated with fulphir; and Dr. Shaw, in his book upon mineral waters, fays, he has feen flakes of fulphur floating in the well--Pace tantiviri; I, for my part, have never obferved any thing like fulphur, either in or or about the well, neither do I find that any brimftone has ever been extracted from the water. As for the fmell, if I may foe allowed to judge from my own organs, it is exacly that of bilge-water; and the faline tafte of it feems to declare, that it is nothing elle than falt water purrified in the bowels of the earth. I was obliged to hold my nofe with one hand, while I advanced the glafs to my mouth with the other; and after I had made fhift to fwallow it, my ftomach could hardly retain what it had received. The only effects it produced were ficknefs, griping, and infurmountable difguft-I can hardly mention it without puking.-The world is ftrangely mifled by the affectation of firgularity. I cannot help furpecting, that this water owes its reputation in a great meafure to its being fo ftrikingly offenfive.On the fame kind of analogy, a German doctor has introduced bemlock and other poifons, as fpecifics, into the materia medica.-I am perfuaded, that all the cures afcribed to the Harrigate water, would have been as efficacioufly, and infinitely more agreeably performed by the internal and external ufe of fea-water. Sure I am, this laft is much lefs naufeous to the tafte and fmell, and much more gentle in its operation as a purge, as well as more extenfive in its medical qualities.

HUMPHRYCLINKER. 233

Two days ago, we went acrofs the country to vifit 'fquire Burdock, who married a firft coufin of my father, an heirefs, who brought him an eftate of a thoufand a year. This gentleman is a declared opponent of the miniftry in parliament; and, having an opulent fortune, piques himfelf upon living in the country, and maintaining old Englifb boppitality. - By the bye, this is a phrafe very much ufed by the Englifh themfelves, both in words and writing ; but I never heard of it out of the ifland, except by way of irony and farcafm. What the hofpitality of our forefathers has been, I fhould be glad to fee recorded, rather in the memoirs of ftrangers who have vifited our country, and were the proper objects and judges of fuch hofpitality, than in the difcourfe and lucubrations of the modern Englifh, who feem to defrribe it from theory and conjecture. Certain it is, we are generally looked upon by foreigners, as a people totally deftitute of this virtue; and I never was in any country abioad, where I did not meet with perfons of diftinction who complained of having been inhofpitably ufed in Great Britain. A gentleman of France, Italy, or Germany, who has entertained and lodged an Englifhman at his houfe, when he afterwards meets with his gueft at London, is afked to dinner at the Saracen's head, the Turk'shead, the Boar's-head, or the Bear, eats raw beef and

But to return from this digreffion, which my feeling for the honour of my country obliged me to make-our Yorkfhire coufin has been a mighty fox-hunter before the Lord; but now he is too fat and unweildy to leap ditches and five bargates; neverthelefs he ftill keeps a pack of hounds, which are well exercifed; and his huntfman every night entertains him with the adventures of the day's chace, which he recites in a tone and terms that are extremely curious and fignificant. In the mean time, his bread brawn is feratched by one of his grooms.-This fellow, it feems, having no inclination to curry any beaft out of the fta. ble, was at great pains to fcollop his nails in fuch a manner that the blood followed at every ftroke. -He was in hopes that he would be diffmiffed from this difagreable office, but the event turned out contrary to his expectation-His maiter declared he was the beft feratcher in the family; and now he will not fuffer any other fervant to draw a mail upon his carcafe.

The 'iquire's lady is very proud, without being ftiff or inacceffible.-She receives even her inferiors in point of fortune with a kind of arrogant civility; but then fhe thinks fhe has a right to treat them with the meft ungracious freedoms of fpeech, and never fails to let them know fhe is fenfible of her own fuperior aflluence. - In a word, fhe fpeaks well of no living foul, and has not one fingle friend in the world. Her hufband hates her mortally ; but, although the brute is fometimes fo very powerful in him that he will have hisown way, he generally truckles to her dominion, and dreads like a fchool-boy, the lafh of her tongue. On the other hand, fhe is af raid of provoking him too far, left he fhould make fome defperate effort to fhake of her yoke.-She, therefore, acquiefces in the proofs he daily gives of his attachment to the liberty of an Englifh freeholder, by faying and doing, at his own table, whatever gratifies the brutality of his difpofition, or contributes to the cafe of his perfon. The houfe, tho' large, is reither elegant nor comfortable.-It looks like a great inn, crowded with traveliers, who dine at the landlord's ordinary, where there is a great profufion of victuals and drink, but mine hoft feems to be mirplaced; and I would rather dine upon filberts with a hermit, than feed upon venifun with a hog. The footmen might be aptly compared to the waiters of a tavern, if they were more ferviceable and lefs rapacious; but they are generally infolent and inattentive, and fo greedy, that, I think, I can dine better, and for lefs expence, at the Siar and Garter in Pall-mall, than at cur coufin's cafthe in Yorkfhire. The 'fquire is alfo bleffed with an only fon, about two and twenty, juft returned from ltaly, a complete fidler and dillettante; and he flips no opportunity of manifefting the moft perfeet contempt for his own father.

When we arrived, there was a family of foreigners at the houfe, on a vifit to this virtuofo, with whom they had been acquainted at the Spa; it was the count de Melville, with his lady, on their way to Scotland. Mr. Burcock had met with an accident, in confequence of which both the count and I would have retired but the young gentleman and his mother infifted upon our faying dinner; and their ferenity feemed to be fo little ruffled by what had happened, that we complied with their invitation. The 'fquire had been brought home over night in his poftchaife, fo terribly belaboured about the pate, that he feemed

236 The EXPEDITION of
to be in a flate of ftupefaction, and had ever fince remained fpeechlefs. A country apothecary, called Grieve, who lived in a reighbourirg village, having been called to his affiftance, had let him blood, and applied a poultice to his head, declating, that he had no fever, nor any other bad fymptom but the lofs of fpecch, if he really had loft that faculty. But the young 'fquire faid this practitioner was an ignorantaccio, that there was a fracture in the cronium, and that there was a neceffity for having him trepanned without lofs of time. His mother efpoufing this opinion, had fent an expre's to York for a furgeon to perform the operation, and he was already come with his 'prentice and inftruments. Having examined the patient's head, he began to prepare his dreffings; though Grieve ftill retained his firft opinion that there was no fracture, and was the more confirmed in it as the 'fquire had paffed the night in profound fleep, uninterrupted by any catching or convulfion. The York furgeon faid he could not tell whetter there was a fracture, until he fhould take of the fcalp, but, at any rate, the operation might be of fervice, in giving vent to any blood that might be extravafatcd, either above or below the dura mater. The lady and her fon were clear for trying the experiment ; and Grieve was dilmiffed with fome marks of contempt ; which, perhaps, he owed to the plainnefs of his appearance. He feemed to be about the middle age, wore his own black hair without any fort of dreffing; by his garb, one would have taken him for a quaker, but he had rone of the ftiffnefs of that fect, on the contrary, he was very fubmiffive, refpectful, and remarkably taciturn.

Leaving the ladies in an apartment by themfelves, we adjourned to the patient's chamber, where the dreffings and inftruments were difplayed in order upon a pewter difh. The operator, lay ing afide his coat and periwig, equipped himfelf with a night-cap, apron, and fleeves, while his 'prentice and footman, feizing the 'fquire's head, began to place it in a proper pofture.——But mark what followed.- The patient, bolting upright in the bed, collared each of thefe affiftants with the grafp of Hercules, exclaiming, in a bellowing tone, "I ha'n't lived fo long in Yorkfhire "to be trepanned by fuch vermin as you;" and leaping on the floor, put on his breeches quietly, to the aftonifhment of us all. The furgeon ftill infifted upon the operation, alledging it was now plain that the brain was injured, and defiring the fervants to put him into bed again; but no body would venture to execute his orders, or everr to interpofe: when the 'fquire turned him and his affiftants out of doors, and threw his apparatus out at the window. Having thus afferted his prerogative, and put on his cloaths with the help of a valet, the count, with my nephew and me, were introduced by his fon, and received with his ufual ftile of ruftic civility; then turning to fignor Macaroni, with a farcaftic grin, "I tell thee " what, Dick, (faid he) a man's foull is not to " be bored every time his head is broken ; and I'll " convince thee and thy mother, that I know " as many tricks as e'er an old fox in the Weft "Riding."

We afterwards underftood he had quarrelled at a public houfe with an excifeman, whom he challenged to a bout at fingle ftick, in which he had been worfted; and that the fhame of this defeat had tied up his tongue. As for madam, the had fhewn no concern for his difafter, and now heard of his recovery without emotion.-She had taken fome littie netice of my fifter and niece, though rather with a view to indulge her own petulance, than out of any fentiment of regard to our family. -She faid Liddy was a fright, and ordered her woman to adjuft her head before dinner; but the would not meddle with Tabby, whofe fpirit, the foon perceived, was not to be irritated with impunity. At table, fhe acknowledged me fo tar as to fay the had heard of my father; though fhe hinted, that he had difobliged her family by making a poor match in Wales. She was difagreeably familiar in her inquiries about our circumftances; and afked, if I intended to bring up my nephew to the law. I told her, that, as he had an independent fortune, he fhould follow no profeffion but that of a country gentleman; and that I was not without hopes of procuring for him a feat in parliament.-6s pray, coufin, (faid fhe) what " may his fortune be?" When I anfwered, that with what I fhould be able to give him, he would have better than two thoufand a year, the replied, with a difdainful tofs of her head, that it would be impoffible for him to preferve his independence on fuch a paltry provifion.

Not a little nettled at this arrogant remark, I told her, I had the honour to fit in parliament with her father, when he had little more than half that income ; and I believed there was not a more independent and incorruptible member in the houfe. " Ay; but times are changed, (cried of the 'fquire) - Country gentlemen now-a-days, c: live after another fathion.-My table alone " flands me in a cool thoufand a quarter, though "I raife my own ftock, import my own liquors, " and have every thing at the firft hand.-True " it is, I keep open houfe, and receive all comers, "for the honour of Old England." "If that " be the cafe, (faid I)'tis a wonder you can main" tain it at fo fmall an expence; but every private ${ }^{\text {'s }}$ gentleman is not expected to keep a caravanjera
"6 for the accommodation' of travellers: indeed, " if every individual lived in the fame ftile, you "s would not have fuch a number of guefts at your *s table, of confequence your hofpitality would " not fhine fo bright for the glory of the Weft "Kiding." The young 'fquire, tickled by this ironical obfervation, exclaimed, " O cbe burla :" -his mother eyed me in filence with a fupercilious air: and the father of the feaft, taking a bumper of OCtober, "My fervice to you, coufin Bram" ble, (faid he) I have always heard there was 's fomething keen and biting in the air of the " Welfh mountains."

I was much pleafed with the count de Melville, who is fenfible, eafy, and polite; and the countefs is the moft amiable woman I ever beheld. In the afternoon they took leave of their entertainers, and the young gentleman, mounting his horfe, undertook to conduct their coach through the park, while one of their fervants rode round to give notice to the reft, whom they had left at a public houfe on the road. The moment their backs were turned, the cenforious dæmon took poffeflion of our Yorkfhire landlady and our fifter Tabitha. The former oblerved, that the countefs was a good fort of a body, but totally ignorant of good breeding, confequently aukward in her addrefs. The 'fquire faid he did not pretend to the breeding of any thing but colts; but that the jade would be very handfome, if the was a litle more in flefh. " Handfome! (cried Tabby) the has indeed a pair or of black eyes without any meaning; but then "t there is not a good feature in her face." "I " know not what you call good features in Wales; " (replied our la idlord) but the'll pafs in York" fhire." Then turning to Liddy, he added, "What fay you, my pret*y Redifreak ?-what " is your opinion of the countefs?" "I think, " (cried

240

The EXPEDITION of

" (cried Liddy with great emotion) fhe's an an" gel." Tabby chid her for talking with fuch freedom in company; and the lady of the houfe faid, in a contemptuous tone, fhe fuppofed mifs had been brought up at fome country boardingfchool.

Our converfation was fuddenly interrupted by the young gentleman, who galloped into the yard all aghaft, exclaiming, that the coach was attacked by a great number of highwaymen. My nephew and I rufhing out, found his own and his fervant's horfe ready faddled in the ftable, with piftols in the caps.-We mounted inftantly, ordering Clinker and Dutton to follow with all poffible expedition ; but notwithftanding all the fpeed we cculd make, the action was over before we arrived, and the count with his lady fafely lodged at the houfe of Grieve, who fignalized himfelf in a very remarkable manner on this occafion. At the turning of a lane, that led to the village where the count's fervants remained, a couple of robbers a-horfeback fuddenly appeared, with their piftols advanced: one kept the coachman in awe, and the other demanded the count's money, while the young 'fquire went off at full (peed without ever cafting a look behind. The count defiring the thief to withdraw his piftol, as the lady was in great terror, delivered his purfe without making the leaft refiftance: but not fatisfied with this, booty; which was pretty confiderable, the rafcal nfifted upon rifling her of her ear-rings and necklace, and the countefs fcreamed with affright. Her hufband, exafperated at the violence with which fhe was threatened, wrefted the piftol out of the fellow's. hand, and turning it upon him, fnapped it in his face; but the robber knowing there was no charge in it, diew another from his bofom, and in ail probabiity would have killed him on the fpot, had not his life been faved by a wonderful interpofition. Grieve, the apothecary, chancing to pafs that very inftant, ran up to the coach, and with a crab ftick, which was all the weapon he had, brought the fellow to the ground with the firft blow; then feizing his piftol, prefented it to his colleague, who fired his piece at random, and fled without further oppofition. The other was fecured by the affiftance of the count and the coachman ; and his legs being tied under the belly of his own horfe, Grieve conducted him to the village, whither alfo the carriage proceeded. It was with great difficulty the countefs could be kept from fwooning; but at laft fhe was happily conveyed to the houfe of the apothecary, who went into the fhop to prepare fome drops for her, while his wife and daughter adminiftered to her in another apartment.

I found the count ftanding in the kitchen with the parfon of the parifh, and expreffing much impatience to fee his protector, whom as yet he had fcarce found time to thank for the effential fervice he had done him and the countefs-The daughter paffing at the fame time with a glafs of water, monfieur de Melville could not help taking notice of her figure which was frikingly engaging."Ay, (faid the parfon) fhe is the prettieft girl, "s and the beft girl in all my parifh; if I could "give my fon an eftate of ten thoufand a year, he "s fhould have my confent to lay it at her feet. " If Mr. Grieve had been as folicitous about get"s ing money, as he has been in performing all "6 the duties of a primitive Chriftian, Fy would "6 not have hung fo long upon his hands." "What " 6 is her name?" faid I. "Sixteen years ago " (anfwered the vicar) I chriftened her by the "t names of Seraphina Melvilia." "Ha ! what ! " how! (cried the count eagerly) fure you faid VoL. I. L "Seraphina

242

 The LXPEDITION or"Seraphina Melvilia." "I did; (faid he) Mr. " Grieve told me thofe were the names of two " noble perfons abroad, to whom he had been " obliged for more than life."

The count, withcut fpeaking another fyllable, rufhed into the parlour, crying," This is your " god-daughter, my dear." Mrs. Grieve, then feizing the countefs by the hand, exclaimed with great agitation, " O madam!-O fir!-I am-I " am your poor Eleanor.-This is my Seraphina " Melvilia.-O child! thefe are the count and " countefs of Melville, the generous-the glori" ous benefactors of thy once unhappy parents." The countefs rifing from her feat, threw her arms about the neck of the amiable Seraphina, and clapfed her to her breaft with great tendernefs, while fhe herfelf was embraced by the weeping mother. This moving fcene was completed by the entrance of Grieve himfelf, who falling on his knees before the count, Behold (faid he) a peni" tent, who at length can look upon his patron " without fhrinking," Ah, Ferdinand! (cri"ed he, raifing and folding him in his arms) the "play fellow of my infancy - the companion of " my youth!-Is it to you then I am indebted "for my life?" "Heaven has heard my prayer, " (faid the other) and given me an opportunity to "prove myfelf not altogether unworthy of your "clemency and protection." He then kiffed the hand of the countefs, while monfieur de Melville faluted his wife and lovely daughter, and all of us were greatly affected by this pathetic recognition.

In a word, Grieve was no other than Ferdinand coun ${ }^{\text {t }}$ Fathom, whofe adventures were printed many years ago. Being a fincere convert to virtue, he had changed his name, that he might elude the inquiries of the count, whofe generous allowance he determined to forego, that he might have no dependence but upon his own induftry and moderation. He had accordingly fettled in this village as a practitioner in furgery and phyfic, and for fome years wreftled with all the miferies of indigence, which, however, he and his wife had borne with the moft exemplary refiguation. At length, by dint of unwearied attention to the duties of his profeffion, which he exercifed with equal humanity and fuccefs, he had acquired a tolerable fhare of bufinefs among the farmers and common people, which enabled him to live in a decent manner. He had been fcarce even feen to finile; was unaffectedly pious; and all the time he could fpare from the avocations of his employment he fpent in educating his daughter, and in ftudying for his own improvement.-In fhort, the adventurer Fathom was, under the name of Grieve, univerfally refpected among the commonalty of this diftrict, as a prodigy of learning and virtue. Thefe particulars I learned from the vicar, when we quitted the room, that they might be under no reftraint in their mutual effufions. I make no doubt that Grieve will be preffed to leave off bufinefs, and re-unite himfelf to the count's family; and as the countefs reemed extremely fond of his daughter, the will in all probability infift upon Seraphina's accompanying her to Scotland.

Having paid our compliments to thefe noble perfons, we returned to the 'fquires, where we expected an invitation to pafs the night, which was wet and raw ; but it feems'fquire Burdock's hofpitality reached not fo far for the honour of Yorkfhire: we departed in the evening, and lay at an inn, where I caught cold.

244 The EXPEDITION of

In hope of riding it down before it could take faft hold on my conftitution, I refolved to vifit another relation, one Mr. Pimpernel, who lived about a dozen miles from the place where we lodged. Pimpernel, being the youngeft of four fons, was bred an attorney at Furnival's-inn ; but all his elder brothers dying, he got himfelf called to the bar for the honour of his family, and foon after this preferment, fucceeded to his father's eftate, which was very confiderable. He carried home with him all the knavifh chicanery of the loweft pettifogger, together with a wife whom he had purchafed of a drayman for twenty pounds; and he foon found means to obtain a Dedimus as an acting juftice of peace. He is not only a fordid mifer in his difpofition, but his avarice is mingled with a fpirit of defpotifm, which is truly diabolical.- He is a brutal hufband, an umnatural parent, a harfh mafter, an oppreffive landlord, a litigious neighbour, and a partial magiftrate.—Friends he has none ; and in point of hofpitality and good breeding, our coufin Burdock is a prince in comparifon of this ungracions mifcreant, whofe houfe is the lively reprefentation of a goal. Our reception was fuitable to the character I have fketched. Had it depended upon the wife, we fhould have been kindly treated. -She is really a good fort of a woman, in fpite of her low original, and well refpected in the country; but the has not intereft enough in her own houfe to command a draught of tablebeer, far lefs to beftow any kind of education on her children, who run about, like ragged coits, in a ftate of nature.-Pox on him! he is fuch a dirty fellow, that I have not patience to profecute the fubject.

By the time we reached Harrigate, I began to be vifited by certain rheumatic fymptoms. The Scotch Scoth lawyer, Mr. Micklewhimmen, recommended a hot bath of thefe waters fo earneftly that I was over-perfuaded to try the experiment.- He had ufed it often with fuccefs, and always flayed an hour in the bath, which was a tub filled with Harrigate water, heated for the purpole. If I could hardly bear the fmell of a fingle tumbler when cold, you may guefs how my nofe was regaled by the fteams arifing from a hot bath of the fame fluid. At night, I was conducted into a dark hole on the ground floor, where the tub fimoaked and ftunk like the pot of Acheron, in one corner, and in another flood a dirty bed provided with thick blankets, in which I was to reat after coming out of the bath. My heart feemed to die within me when I entered this difmal bagnio, and found my brain affaulted by fuch infufferable effluvia.-I I curfed Micklewhimmen for not confidering that my organs were formed on this fide of the Tweed; but being afhamed to recoil upon the trefhold, i fubmitted to the procefs.

After having endured all but real fuffocation for above a quarter of an hour in the tub, I was moved to the bed and wrapped in blankets-There I lay a full hour panting with intollerable heat; but not the leaft moifture appearing on my fkin, I was carried to my chamber, and paffed the night without clofing an eye, in fuch a flutter of fpirits as rendered me the moft miferable wretch in being. I fhould certainly have run diftracted, if the rarefaction of my blood, occafioned by that Stygian bath, had not burft the veffels, and produced a violent hæmorage, which, though dreadful and alarming, removed the horrible difquiet.-I loft two pounds of blood, and more, on this occafion; and find myfelf ftill weak and languid; but, I believe, a little exercife will forward my recovery;

$$
\text { L. } 3 \text { and }
$$ for York, in my way to Scarborough, where I propofe to brace up my fibres by a fea-bathing, which, I know, is one of your favourite fpecifics. There is however, one difeafe, for which you have found as yet no fpecific, and that is old age, of which this tedious unconnected epiftle is an infallible fymptom:-wbat, therefore, cannot be sured, muft be endured, by you, as well as by

Yours,

Harrigate, June 26.
Matt. Bramble.

To Sir Watkin Phillips, Bart. of Jefus college, Oxon.

DEAR KNIGHT,
THE manner of living at Harrigate was fo agreeable to my difpofition, that I left the place with fome regret - Our aunt Tabby would have probably made fome objection to our departing fo foon, had not an accident embroiled her with Mr. Micklewhimmen, the Scotch advocate, on whofe heart fhe had been practifing, from the fecond day after our arrival-That original, though feemingly precluded from the ufe of his limbs, had turned his genius to good account-In fhort, by dint of groaning, and whining, he had excited the compalfion of the company fo effectually, that an old lady, who occupied the very beft apartment in the houfe, gave it up for his eafe and convenience.

When his man led him into the Long Room, all the females were immediately in commotion.One fet an elbow-chair; another fhook up the cufhion ; a third brought a ftool ; and a fourth a pillow, for the accommondation of his feet-Two ladies (of whom Tabby was always one) fupported him into the dining-room, and placed him properly at the table; and his tafte was indulged with a fucceffion of delicacies, culled by their fair hands. All this atention he repaid with a profufion of compliments and benedictions, which were not the lefs agreeable for being delivered in the Scottifh dialect. As for Mrs. Tabitha, his refpects were particulary addreffed to her, and did not fail to mingle them with relighous reffections, touching free grace, knowing her bias to methodiim, which he alfo profeffed upon a calviniftical model.

For my part I could not help thinking this law. yer was not fuch an invalid as he pretended to be. I obferved he eat very heartily three times a-day; and tho' his bottle was marked fomacbic tincture, he had recourfe to it fo often, and feemed to fwallow it with fuch peculiar religh, that I fuppected it was not compounded in the apothecary's fhop, or the chemift's laboratory. One day, while he was earneft in difcourfe with Mrs. Tabitha, and his fervant had gone out on fome occafion or other, I dexteroully exchanged the labels, and fituation of his bottle and mine; and having tafted his tincture, found it was excellent claret. I forthwith handed it about to fome of my neighbours, and it was quite emptied before Mr. Micklewhimmen had occafion to repeat his draught. At length, turning about, he took hold of my bottle, inftead of his own, and, filling a large glafs, drank to the health of Mrs. Tabitha-It had fcarce touched his lips when he perceived the change which had been put nance-He feemed to retire within himfelf, in order to deliberate, and in half a minute his refolution was taken; addrefling himfelf to our quater, "I give the gentleman cradit for his wit (faid " he) ; it was a gude practical joke; but fome"times bi joci in feria ducunt mala.-I hope, for " his own fake, he has na drank all the liccor ; for " it was a vara poorful infufion of jallop in Bour" deaux wine : as it's poffible he may ha ta'en fic a " dofe as will produce a terrible cataftrophe in his " ain bcoels." -

By far the greater part of the contents had fallen to the thare of a young clothier from Leeds, who had come to make a figure at Harrigate, and was, in effect, a great coxcomb in his way. It was with a view to laugh at his fellow guefts, as well as to mortify the lawyer, that he had emptied the botthe, when it came to his turn, and he had laughed accordingly: but now his mirth gave way to his ap-prehenfion-He began to fpit, to make wry faces and writhe himfelf into various contorfions " Damn the ftuff, (cried he, I thought it had a " villainous twang-pah! He that would cozen a "Scot mun get oop betimes and take old "Scratch for his counfellor."- "In troth, mef"t ter whet d'ye ca'um, (replied the lawyer) your " wit has run you into a filthy puddle-I'm truly " confarned for your waeful cafe-The beft ad"s vice I can give you, in fic a delemma, is to "fead an exprefs to Rippon for doctor Waugh,
" without delay, and, in the mean time, fwallow "t all the oil and butter you can find in the hoofe,
" to defend your poor ftomach and intaftins from " the villication of the particles of the jallap, " which is vara violent, even when taken in mo"deration."

The poor clothier's torments had already begun : he retired, roaring with pain, to his own chamber ; the oil was fwallowed, and the doctor fent for; but before he arrived, the miferable patient had made fuch difcharges upwards and downwards, that nothing remained to give him further offence; and this double evacuation was produced by imagination alone ; for what he had drank was genuine wine of Bourdeaux, which the lawyer had brought from Scotland for his own private ufe. The clothier, finding the joke turn out fo expenfive and difagreeable, quitted the houfe next morning, leaving the triumph to Micklewhimmen, who enjoyed it internally, without any outward figns of exultation;-on the contrary, he affected to pity the young man for what he had fuffered, and acquired frefh credit from this fhew of moderation.

It was about the middle of the night, which fucceeded this adventure, that the vent of the kitchen chimney being foul, the foot took fire, and the alarm was given in a dreadful manner-Every body leaped naked out of bed, and in a minute the whole houfe was filled with cries and confufionThere were two ftairs in the houfe, and to thefe we naturally ran ; but they were both fo blocked up, by the people preffing upon one another, that it feemed impoffible to pafs, without throwing down and trampling upon the women. In the midft of this anarchy, Mr. Mickley, himmen, with a leathern portmanteau on his back, came running as nimble as a buck along the paffage; and Tabby, in her under petticoat, endeavouring to hook him under the arm, that fhe might efcape thro' his protection, he very fairly pufhed her down, crying, "Na, na, gude faith, charity begins at " hame!" Without paying the leaft respect to the fhrieks and intreaties of his female friends, he charged charged through the midft of the crowd, overturning every thing that oppofed him, and actually fought his way to the bottom of the ftair-cafeBy this time Clinker had found a ladder, by which he entered the window of my uncle's chamber, where our family was affembled, and propofed that we fhould make our exit fucceffively by that conveyance. The 'fquire exhorted his fifter to begin the defcent; but, before the could refolve, her woman, Mrs. Winifred Jenkins, in a tranfport of terror, threw herfelf out at the window upon the ladder, while Humphry dropped upon the ground, that he might receive her in her defcent-T his maiden was juft as the had ftarted out of bed, the moon fhone very bright, and a frcfh breeze of wind blowing, none of Mirs. Winifred's beauties could poffibly eicape the view of the forturate Clinker, whofe heart was not able to withftand the united force of fo many charms; at leaft, I am much miftaken, if he has not been her humble Qave from that moment-He received her in his arms, and, giving her his coat to protect her from the weather, afcended again with admirable dexteriky.

At that inflant, the landlord of the houfe called out with an audible voice, that the fire was extinguifhed, and the ladies had nothing to fear: this was a welcome note to the audience, and produced an immediate effect; the fhrieking ceafed, and a confufed found of expoftulation enfued. I conducted Mrs. 'Tabitha and my fifter to their own chamber, where Liddy fainted away; but was foon brought to herfelf. Then I went to offer my fervices to the other ladies, who might want affiit-ance-They were all fcudding through the paffage to their feveral apartments; and as the thoroughfair was lighted by two lamps, I had a pretty good obfervation obfervation of them in their tranfit; but, as moft of them were naked to the fmock, and all their heads flhrowded in huge night-caps, I could not diftinguifh one face from another, though I recognized fome of their voices-Thefe were generally plaintive; fome wept, fome fcolded, and fome prayed-I litted up one poor old gentlewoman, who had been overturned and fore bruifed by 2 multitude of feet; and this was alfo the cafe with the lame parfon from Northumberland, whom Micklewhimmen had in his paflage overthrown, though not with impunity ; for the cripple, in falling, gave him fuch a good pelt on the head with his crutch, that the blood followed.

HUMPHRY CLINKER. 25 I

As for this lawyer, he waited below till the hurly-burly was over, and then fole foftly to his own chamber, from whence he did not venture to make a fecond fally till eleven in the forenoon, when he was led into the public room by his own fervant and another affiftant, groaning moft woefully, with a bloody napkin round his head. But things were greatly altered-The felfifh brutality of his behaviour on the ftairs had fteeled their hearts againft all his arts and addrefs-Not a foul offered to accommodate him with a chair, cuhhion, or footflool; fo that he was obliged to fit down on a hard wooden bench-In that pofition, he looked around with a rueful afpect, and, bowing very low, faid, in a whining tone, "Your mo $\AA$ humble fer"vant, ladies-Fire is a dreadful calamity." "Fire purifies gold, and it tries friendhhip," cried Mrs. Tabitha, bridling. "Yea, madam (replied "Micklewhimmen) and it trieth difcretion alfo." " If difcretion confifts in forfaking a friend in ad" verfity, you are eminently poffeffed of that vir" tue," refumed our aunt. " Na, madam (re" joined the advocate) well I wot, I cannot claim
's any merit from the mode of my retreat-Ye'll
" " pleafe to obferve, ladies, there are twa indepen" dent principles that actuate our nature-One is
" inftinct, which we have in common with the " brute creation, and the other is reafon-Noo, " in certain great emergencies, when the faculty " of reafon is fufpended, inftinct takes the lead, " and, when this predominates, having no affinity
's with reafon, it pays no fort of regard to its con's nections; it only operates for the benefit of " 'the individual, and that by the moft expeditious and effectual means ; therefore, begging your " pardon, ladies, I'm no accountable in foro cen"fcientie, for what I did, while under the influ" ence of this irrefiftable pooer."

Here my uncle interpofing, "I fhould be glad "s to know (faid he) whether it was inftinct that " prompted you to retreat with bag and baggage ; 's for, I think, you had a portmanteau on your " fhoulder." -The lawyer anfwered, without hefitation, "Gif I might tell my mind freely, 's without incurring the fufpicion of prefumption,
' I fhould think it was fomething fuperior to ei" ther reafon or inftinct which fuggefted that mea-
" fure, and this on a twafald account : in the firft
" place, the portmanteau contained the writings
" of a worthy nobleman's eftate; and their being
's burned, would have occafioned a lois that could " not be repaired : fecondly, my good angel feems
" to have laid the portmantle on my fhoulders,
" by way of defence, to fuftain the violence of a
" moft inhuman blow, from the crutch of a re" verend clergyman, which, even in fpite of that
"s medium, hath wounded nie forely, even unto the "pericranium." By your own doctrine (cried
" the parfon, who chanced to be prefent) I am
"r not accountable for the blow, which was the ef" feat
" feet of inftinct." " I crave your pardon, re" verend fir (faid the other) inftinct never acts " but for the prefervation of the individual ; but " your prefervation was out of the cafe-You " had already received the damage, and therefore " the blow mult be imputed to revenge, which " is a finful paffion, that ill becomes any Chriftian, " efpecially a Proteftant divine ; and let me tell " you, moft reverend doctor, gin I had a mind " to plea, the law would hauld my libel relevant." " Why, the damage is pretty equal on both fides " (cried the parfon) ; your head is broke, and my " crutch is fnapped in the middle-Now, if you " will repair the one, I will be at the expence of "s curing the other."

This fally raifed the laugh againft Micklewhimmen, who began to look grave; when my uncle, in order to change the difcourfe, obferved, that inftinet had been very kind to him in another refpect; for it had reftored to him the ufe of his limbs, which, in his exit, he had moved with furprifing agility. -He replied, that it was the nature of fear to brace up the nerves ; and mentioned fome furprifing feats of ftrength and activity performed by perfons under the impulfe of terror; but he complained, that, in his own particular, the effects had ceafed, when the caufe was taken away.-The 'fquire faid, he would lay a tea drinking on his head, that he fhould dance a Scotch meafure, without making a falfe ftep; and the advocate grinning, called for the piper.-A fiddler being at hand, this original flarted up, with his bloody napkin over his black tye-periwig, and acquitted himfelf in fuch a manner, as excied the mirth of the whole company; but he could not regain the good graces of Mrs. Tabby, who did not underftand the principle of inftinet; and the lawyer did not think it worth his while to proceed to further demonitration.

From Harrigate we came hither, by the way of York, and here we fhall tarry for fome days, as my uncle and Tabitha are both refolved to make ufe of the waters. Scarborough, though a paltry town, is romantic, from its fituation along a cliff that overhangs the fea. The harbour is formed by a fmall elbow of land that runs out as a natural mole, directly oppofite to the town; and on that fide is the caftle, which ftands very high, of confiderable extent, and, before the invention of gunpowder, was counted impregnable. At the other end of Scarborough are two public rooms for the ufe of the company, who refort to this place in the fummer, to drink the waters or bathe in the fea; and the diverfions are pretty much on the fame footing here as at Bath. The Spa is a little way beyond the town, on this fide, under a cliff, within a few paces of the fea, and thither the drinkers go every morning in difhabille; but the defcent is by a great number of fteps, which invalids find very inconvenient. Betwixt the well and the harbour, the bathing machines are ranged along the beach, with all their proper utenfils and attendants-You have never feen one of thefe machines-Image to yourfelf a fmall, fnug, wooden chamber, fixed upon a wheel-carriage, having a door at each end and on each fide a little window above, a bench below-The bather, afcending into this apartment by wooden fleps, Thuts himfelf in, and begins to undrefs, while the attendant yokes a horfe to the end next the fea, and draws the carriage forwards, till the furface of the water is on a level with the floor of the dreffing-dreffing-room, then he moves and fixes the horfe to the other end - The perfon within being Atripped, opens the door to the fea-ward, where he finds the guide ready, and plunges headlong into the water—After having bathed, he re-afcends into the apartment, by the fteps which had been fhifted for that purpofe, and puts on his clothes at his leifure, while the carriage is drawn back again upon the dry land; fo that he has nothing further to do, but to open the door, and come down as he went up-Should he be fo weak or ill as to require a fervant to put off and on his clothes, there is room enough in the apartment for half a dozen people. The guides who attend the ladies in the water, are of their own fex, and they and the female bathers have a drefs of flan. nel for the fea; nay, they are provided with other conveniencies for the fupport of decorum. A certain number of the machines are fitted with tilts, that project from the fea-ward ends of them, fo as to fcreen the bathers from the view of all perfons whatfoever-The beach is admirably adapted for this practice, the defcent being genily gradual, and the fand foft as velvet; but then the machines can be ufed only at a certain time of the tide, which varies every day; fo that fometimes the bathers are obliged to rife very early in the morn-ing-For my part, I love fwimming as an exercife, and can enjoy it at all times of the tide, without the formality of an apparatus, - You and I have often plunged together into the Ifis; but the fea is a much more noble bath, for health as well as pleafure. You cannot conceive what a flow of fpirits it gives, and how it braces every finew of the human frame. Were I to enumerate half the difeafes which are every day cured by fea-bathing,

256 The EXPEDITION, &c you might juftly fay you had received a treatife, inftead of a letter, from

your affectionate friend,

and fervant,

Scarborough, July 1.
J. Melford.

[^0]:    Clifton, April 6.
    Lydia Melford.

