INTRODUCTION

THE Seventeenth Century Records of the Presbytery of Inverness, so far as known to exist, consist of one volume, containing the proceedings of the Presbytery from 5th April 1670 to 19th September 1688.<sup>1</sup> The minutes of the year 1643 are printed from a copy taken from an older volume, unfortunately now lost; and there is recorded on 2nd July 1672 a copy of the minute of a meeting of the Presbytery held at Boleskine on 26th May 1632, which is the earliest record of the Presbytery now extant. That minute is not flattering to the people of Stratherrick, whose minister complained 'that he could not live in Boleskine for the evill neighbourhood of the tenents y<sup>r</sup>of, who would not permitt his goods [i.e. his cattle] to pasture on his own grasse, and that the Tutor of ffoyer attempted not only to denude him of the grass, but also a part of the land designed aheadie'; but it is interesting as containing early mention of crofts and crofters, and the earliest account probably now known of the formal designation of a glebe in the Highlands.

The Seventeenth Century Records of the Presbytery of Dingwall now extant consist of three volumes, in which are found the proceedings of that Presbytery between 19th June 1649 and 13th October 1687.<sup>2</sup> It appears, however, from the Minutes of 17th March and 21st April 1653, that there existed in that year an 'old pbrie booke being at the beginning thairoff of the daite 12 Novemb. 1633 zeires, and ending at the daite 18 Octob. 1637.' That old book has, like many another church register, fallen a prey to the troubles or the carelessness of the olden times.

The editor, with the approval of the Council of the Society, has not always given the full minute in the following pages. Such portions—chiefly of a formal nature—as were in his opinion of no value from a historical or social point of view have been omitted. Again, such paragraphs as are within brackets [ ] only give the purport of the minutes to which they refer. Certain lists, however, of persons charged with the offence of supporting Montrose and the Royalist cause, which have been omitted from their proper places, have been given as an Appendix.

The Presbyteries of Inverness and Dingwall were both proposed by the General Assembly in April 1581, and it is probable that they were erected soon afterwards. The Inverness Presbytery is mentioned in 1593:<sup>1</sup> but probably the earliest reference to that of Dingwall is in the records printed in this volume. The bounds of the former embraced in the seventeenth century its present parishes of Inverness and Bona, Kirkhill or Wardlaw, Kiltarlity, Urquhart and Glenmoriston, Dore, Daviot and Dunlichity, Moy and Dalarossie, and Petty; as well as Boleskine and Abertarff, which was disjoined on the erection of the Presbytery of Abertarff in 1724,<sup>2</sup> and Croy, disjoined on the erection of the Presbytery of Nairn in 1773. The bounds of the Presbytery of Dingwall embraced its present parishes of Dingwall, Alness, Contin, Fodderty, Kilmorack, Kiltearn, Urquhart and Logie Wester, and Urray; together with the wide western parishes of Applecross, Gairloch, Kintail (including the present parish of Glenshiel), Lochalsh, Lochbroom, and Lochcarron, which are now within the Presbytery of Lochcarron, erected in 1724. The two Presbyteries thus exercised between them an almost unlimited jurisdiction over an extensive district stretching from sea to sea across the heart of the Highlands, and inhabited by all sorts and conditions of men, from the peace-loving, money-making shopkeepers of the burghs of Inverness and Dingwall, to the wild, kilted, Gaelic-speaking mountaineers, who to-day followed their cattle in the glens, and to-morrow their chiefs on the field of battle—from the stern Covenanters of Alness and Kiltearn to the careless, easy-minded Roman Catholics of Strathglass, Glenmoriston, and Abertarff. On the history of that district, and the religious and social condition of its inhabitants, these Records throw light of no inconsiderable power and value.

The period covered by them was one of turbulence and unrest, in things temporal as in things spiritual—the last years of Charles the First, the years of Cromwell's rule, and the reigns of Charles the Second and James the Seventh. In 1638, the 'Second Reformation' in Scotland was effected by the Glasgow General Assembly, and Episcopacy for a time gave place to Presbytery. Guthrie, Bishop of Moray, in whose province the Presbytery of Inverness lay, was deposed; and the scholarly Maxwell, within whose diocese of Ross the Presbytery of Dingwall was situated, was deposed and excommunicated. Still, the Covenant of 1638, which was subscribed with enthusiasm in the South, met but with scant welcome in the North, and it was subscribed by few within the bounds of our Presbyteries, except in the parishes of Alness and Kiltearn, which were subject to the influence of Munro of Fowlis. Fowlis and most of his relatives and clansmen were keen Covenanters, and his admiration for 'y<sup>e</sup> godlie in y<sup>e</sup> West Cuntrey'<sup>1</sup>—that is, the extreme Remonstrants of the south-west of Scotland—was so great at a later period that he refused to accept any minister for the parish of Kiltearn who was not approved of by them. The inhabitants of our bounds, as a rule, continued faithful to

Episcopacy and the King, and even such of them as had no great objection to the Covenant of 1638, strongly opposed the more revolutionary Solemn League and Covenant of 1643. In every movement of the time in defence of the monarchy, they had their share. They fought under the banner of Montrose in his brilliant first campaign, and thus won for themselves the title of 'Malignants.' They subscribed to the Earl of Seaforth's 'Remonstrance.' They joined the 'Engagement' of 1648, and followed the Duke of Hamilton into England. They followed Lord Reay and Mackenzie of Pluscardine in the rising of 1649 in support of Charles the Second, and before their defeat at Balvenie helped to capture Inverness, and to expel the garrison and demolish the town's walls. And when Montrose landed in Caithness, and entered on his unfortunate campaign of 1650, they openly expressed their sympathy with him, although his defeat before he reached the bounds probably prevented their actually joining him to any considerable extent. These courses led to numerous prosecutions by the Solemn Leaguers, and the Malignant ministers of Dingwall, Contin, Fodderty, Kiltearn, and Urray, were deposed, while the elders of Urray, Lochalsh, Lochcarron and other parishes were declared incapacitated. The few ministers who were thus left in the Presbytery of Dingwall combated Malignancy for a time with vigorous zeal. The guilty were fined, placed on the stool of repentance, and in some cases excommunicated; and, lest they should, before giving due satisfaction, become partakers of the Lord's Supper, ministers and sessions were warned not to administer the Communion to any person without the Presbytery's advice and sanction. But this zeal did not last long. The masterful activity of the English Sectaries, not only in civil affairs, but also in matters spiritual, gradually estranged their Scottish adherents; and when, early in 1651, preparations were being made for that invasion of England which ended so disastrously at Worcester, the Dingwall processes were brought to an end with speed and clemency, to enable the accused to join the expedition. After Worcester, Cromwell's soldiers overran Scotland, planting garrisons, among other places, at Inverness and Brahan within our bounds. 'It were vain,' wrote Mr. James Fraser, a member of the Presbytery of Inverness, who experienced the goodwill and hospitality of the English soldiers, 'to relate what advantages the country had by the Inverness garrison.' The advantages were undoubtedly great—for a time war and spoliation ceased—but nevertheless the presence of the English at Brahan was not liked by the gentlemen who constituted the Presbytery of Dingwall. Probably they had good reason for disliking it. On 16th December 1651, the Presbytery met at Logie Wester privately, 'in regaird of the enemye.' Fifteen days later the brethren were unable to meet at Urray as arranged, 'in respect of ane conventione of the Englishes at Urray' the same day. At the meeting of 16th March 1654, Mr. Donald Macrae, minister of Urray, 'was excused for his last dayis absence, being impeded and molested be the English garisone.' And in the following December the brethren had not the usual 'exercise,' 'in respect the exerciser was abstracted be quartering on.'

One effect of these unpleasantnesses with the English was to cause the members of the Presbytery of Dingwall to think more kindly of the Malignant brethren who had been deposed. No new ministers had been found to fill the pulpits of these unfortunate men, and for years their stipends were diverted from their proper purposes and applied to such objects as the support of lads at schools and students at college, the building of the bridges of Dingwall and Alness, and the construction of public works within the parish of Contin. A more charitable spirit, however, now took possession of the Presbytery. The vacant stipends were, to some extent at least, employed in relieving the poverty and distress of the deposed and their families, and a few of the deposed themselves were restored to their parishes.

The references in the Dingwall Records to the efforts made to place Charles the Second on his father's throne are not without interest. Charles landed at Speymouth in June 1650, and was enthusiastically received. In July the moderator addressed letters to the other members of the Presbytery, urging 'a present dilligence for collecting y<sup>e</sup> Levie money' which Royalists were endeavouring to raise among the heritors or landowners; and on the 30th of that month the brethren reported that they had received the letters, 'and accordinglie 'wer useing dilligence, bot hade great difficulties to get y<sup>e</sup> 'same.' At the next meeting, 'the Brethren c'sidering the 'necessitie of their using diligence in provyding their propor- 'tionones of the levie money not as zet provyded for ordeins all 'to meete Twesday nixt, and bring the same with them, to be 'delivered to the Modr., and to be sent south with all 'c'venient diligence, and each of them to pay sixtene shillings 'by and attour their proportionones, to be given to a bearer: 'and c'sidering the vacancie of Contin and Fottertie, they 'appoynt a warrant to be given to Mr. Coline Mackenzie for 'seeking and uplifting the proportionones of the said Kirks from 'the Heritors of them respue [respectively].' On 20th August a number of clergymen paid the proportions from their parishes, amounting to one hundred merks each. Charles's adherents, for whom the money was intended, were routed by Cromwell at Dunbar on 3rd September; but steps were immediately taken to raise a new army to follow him into England. Provision was made for the spiritual wants of this army. On 14th January 1651, a letter was read from the Commission of the General Assembly, desiring that clergymen should be sent out of the respective bounds of Presbyteries to minister to the combatants from those bounds. On 11th February it was reported that the heritors of Contin were employed in the West Highlands in connection with the levy. On 20th March a letter was submitted from Mackenzie, Lord Tarbert, requesting that a minister should be nominated for Lord Kintail's regiment, and a letter from the Master of Lovat desiring that Mr. Donald Fraser of Kilmorack should be appointed chaplain of the Fraser regiment. The appointment of Mr. Donald Macrae to the chaplaincy of the Kintail regiment is recorded on 8th April, and on the same day a fast is ordained in connection with which instructions are given to pray 'that God wald be

'pleasit to stirre up the spirits of people for their dewties to
'doe in there places as he calls them, y<sup>t</sup> magistrats may be 'faithfull in there place, studying the publick good, and be 'furnished with counsell unto the end y<sup>t</sup> officers and souldiers
'may be sanctified and fitted with faithfullnes, abilitie, and
'courage for y<sup>r</sup> places'; and, further, 'that God wald make 'his people willing, and stirre them up for the defence of there
'brethren, and blesse and gathere there armie together, and
'may sanctifie them to be holie unto and instrumentall for the 'delyverie of his distressed land, and y<sup>t</sup> the Lord wald judge
'those who haue unjustlie invaded his kingdome and spoiled and
'trampled and trod downe God's sacred ordinances, and mur'dered so many of God's dear people.' On 27th May it is recorded that the heritors are absent on the 'present expedition,' and that the land is 'pressed with diverse impositions.' On 19th June and following Sunday, a fast is kept, in connection with which the Lord is earnestly wrestled with, and prayed that He 'wald provyde for the necessare preservation of the 'lives of his people from sword and feared famine, y<sup>t</sup> the Lord
'wald mercifullie lead ovt ovr armie, inable everie one y<sup>r</sup>in to
'keipe themselves from everie wicked thing, covere there head
'in the day of battell, teach their hands to warre, and there
'fingers to fight, and make them have guid successe y<sup>t</sup> the
'emie may flie and fall before, and y<sup>t</sup> the Lord wald grati-
'ouslie please by there means to delyvere ovr brethren y<sup>t</sup> are
'wnder the foot of the emie, and preserve the remanent of
'this oppressed kirk and kingdome from the wnjust wiolence of
'the cursed and cruell adversaries.' And on 8th July, Simon Mackenzie of Lochslin, father of the 'Bluidy Mackenzie,' King's Advocate, is unable to attend the Presbytery meeting, 'in regard of his imployment in the present expedition.' At the battle of Worcester, fought on 3rd September, the Scots were totally defeated. Many of the Highlanders were seized and condemned to slavery in the West Indies and the American plantations. Others perished in the attempt to reach their homes through an unfriendly country, whose language they neither spoke nor understood. Lochslin, however, returned, and the process against him was resumed, although apparently never brought to an issue.

In 1654 the noted Mr. Thomas Hogg, an earnest evangelist, became minister of Kiltearn, and three years later his almost equally noted friend, Mr. John Mackillican, was admitted to the parish of Fodderty, notwithstanding that he was a native of the lowlands of Moray, and consequently weak in the Gaelic tongue. These two clergymen were extreme Solemn Leaguers, and there was soon bad blood between themselves and certain of the older and more conservative members of the Presbytery. They were especially obnoxious to Mr. John Macrae, minister of Dingwall, a son of the manse of Kintail, who believed in Episcopacy, and who was, 'from his learning and piety, more fit for a chair than the pulpit.' Macrae and his party took to badgering Mackillican. In October 1657 he was somewhat sarcastically ordained 'to indeavour to pray in the Irishe [Gaelic] language,' and ordered to own a portion of Strathconon for a part of his parish, which he had previously declined to do. Hogg was at the time moderator of the Presbytery, and Mackillican clerk, and they soon took their revenge. In the minutes of 19th January, 15th February, and 30th March 1658 they record Macrae's needless strife, his great miscarriage deserving sharp censure, his litigiousness, needless contention and untractableness, his stubbornness and wilfulness, his wearying tediousness, his misapplication of Scripture, and his pertinacity and loquaciousness. Matters, indeed, had come to such a pass that some of the brethren were forced to declare 'y<sup>t</sup> that part of the ministrie was bitterness to them, ' and wished a destruction of the Presbytery, and to be annext ' to other presbyteries.' The Presbytery was not destroyed, but, probably as the result of the quarrel, there was no meeting between April 1658 and May 1663, when the first meeting under the Episcopacy established by Charles the Second was held. One result of the change in the Establishment was the deposition of Hogg and Mackillican; and Mr. John Macrae, who of course conformed, had the satisfaction of seeing the objectionable minutes deleted, and the expressions 'shamelesse lying' and 'the spirit of lieing and malice' written on their margins. The outed ministers, however, continued to preach to the Covenanters of Easter Ross, and the Records contain notices of attempts made to suppress conventicles in the parish of Kiltearn from time to time down to the year 1686.

With the exception that we meet such titles as bishop, archdeacon, deacon, chancellor, vicar, treasurer, and sub-dean, there is little in the Records to show that any change took place in the Church courts on the establishment of Episcopacy. Presbyteries and sessions still continue, and consist of ministers and elders. Proceedings are conducted in the manner which prevailed when there were no bishops; and delinquents are processed and punished in the old style. Neither was there change in the days and form of public worship, except that under Episcopacy the clergy were 'more mindfull' of the Lord's Prayer and the Doxology, and that they preached on Christmas Day, as well as on the anniversary of the Happy Restoration (29th May), and the King's Birthday (14th October).

For some time after the Restoration comparative peace reigned within the bounds of our Presbyteries in connection with Church affairs. With the exception of Hogg and Mackillican, the clergy of both Presbyteries conformed to Episcopacy; and, except in their cases, and in the case of Mr. Angus Macbean, of Inverness, who was admitted by the bishop, and thereafter became a Covenanter, there was little suffering within the bounds for conscience' sake. Roman Catholics, indeed, were harassed by the Episcopalians, but their persecution was of a mild type. Not so the persecution of the three Covenanters. Hogg suffered fines and privations, imprisonment on the Bass Rock, and exile on the Continent; but he lived to be restored to his parish after the re-establishment of the present Church of Scotland in 1689. Mackillican also was fined, and imprisoned on the Bass and elsewhere; but he returned to Ross-shire in 1686, and spent the remaining years of his life at Alness in peace. In June 1687, Macbean, who was a son of the laird of Kinchyle in the parish of Dores, began to absent himself from the meetings of his Presbytery, and it was soon ascertained that he 'did disown the Government of the Church of Scotland as it is now established by Law, by Archbishops, Bishops, and Presbiters.' He further declared his conviction 'that Presbitrie was the only government that God owned in these nations.' He was at first gently reasoned with, but without result. Instead of returning to the 'Armes of the Church,' which were still open and ready to receive him upon his repentance, he 'publicly demitted his charge of the ministry under the present Government,' went to Ross-shire to preach to the Covenanters of that county, and, returning to Inverness, held a conventicle there, 'and so began his schisme in one of the most loyall, orderly, and regular cities in the nation.' His brethren, without an exception, joined in urging the Episcopal authorities 'to use all ordinar means for suppressing the schisme begun at Inverness.' In February 1688, he was, after suffering imprisonment, summoned before the Archbishop of St. Andrews, the Bishop of Moray, and other dignitaries, and invited to return to the Episcopal fold. He refused, and was deposed. His sentence was read from the pulpit of the Inverness High Church, 'for vindicating the Church's authority, and Terror of such Back-slyders.' His was the last sentence of deposition under the Episcopal estabishment. The imprisonment and treatment to which he was subjected ruined his health, and he died in 1689, in the thirty-third year of his age. The Covenanters of Ross and the South regarded him with great affection and esteem; but he had few followers within the bounds of his own Presbytery, where, as well as within the greater portion of the bounds of the Dingwall Presbytery, Episcopacy flourished and prevailed for many years after its disestablishment by law.

The repose from war and spoliation which the Highlands enjoyed during the last years of Cromwell's rule came to an end at the Restoration, and reavers began their old work of cattle-lifting. From these evils parsons and people suffered alike. The Highlander's respect for the Church and the ministers of religion is of comparatively recent origin. In Roman Catholic times churches were burnt, and the clergy freely robbed. After the Reformation the state of matters was for generations even worse. The Records throw vivid light on the sufferings of the ministers, from their own heritors and parishioners as well as from outsiders. In 1649, Mr. Donald Macrae's starved condition compelled him to pray the Presbytery to remove him from Urray to another sphere. In 1665, Mr. Murdoch Mackenzie, minister of Lochbroom, was 'constrained to leave his ministry' for want of maintenance. In 1672, the same minister was unable to attend Presbytery 'for fear of caption'—imprisonment for debt. In June 1670 Mr. Thomas Houston, minister of Boleskine, complained that 'his house had been laity seized upon by 'Lochabber Robbers, himselfe threatened with naked swords 'and drawne durks at his brest, his money and household 'stuff plundered; and seeing that one of their number suffered 'death laity therefor at Inuerness the rest of them were lieing 'in wait for his life, and threatening his ruine and dammage, 'so that in y<sup>e</sup> evening he is affrayed to [be] burnt to ashes 'or [i.e. before] morning.' Mr. Houston had reason to be alarmed, for his predecessor had been barbarously murdered.

In March 1671 the minister of Dores complained that ‘he had ‘ no maintenance among them [his gentlemen and elders], nor ‘ could he gete so much of his own stipend as would carry him ‘ through the parish to manage his Masters affairs, but was ‘ kepted as a poor mendicant ever since he came amongst that ‘ people; that they had no inclination to doe him the least ‘ duty herein, though he had sought after it in the most ‘ peacable manner that could be, as if, chameleon-like, he ‘ could live upon the aire’; and in August following he was unable to attend Presbytery for the reason that his horse had been stolen. Next month, Mr. Duncan MacCulloch, minister of Urquhart and Glenmoriston, complained, with reference to the elders and gentlemen of his parish, ‘that ‘ he had neither countenance nor maintenance among them,
 ‘ and that when he is wronged or injured in his person or ‘ means, they have not that due regard to him as to resent these ‘ wrongs and injuries.’ In 1682 ‘the straites and indigencies’ of Mr. Robert Munro, who had Abertarff and Glenmoriston under his charge, were such that his brethren contributed towards his relief.

Frequently, too, the ministers were without the manse and glebe with which the law was supposed to provide him. In 1649 there was no manse or glebe in Kintail, Lochalsh, Lochcarron, or Lochbroom. In 1671 there was no manse in Dores or Kiltarlity, and none in Daviot or Moy as late as 1678. The churches in which the poor pastors preached were frequently ruinous and unfurnished. In 1649 the church of Kintail was without proper ‘thacking’ [thatching], because of ‘the troubles of the tymes,’ and there was no pulpit or desk.
 In Lochalsh there was ‘nothing found in this kirk but the bare walls.’ The church of Lochcarron boasted of a stool of repentance, but it had neither pulpit nor desks. In 1665 there was in Lochbroom no ‘convenient meeting place for preaching, the kirk of Lochbroom being unthatched’; and in 1681 a general regret is recorded by the brethren of the Presbytery of Dingwall 'that their churches are werie ruinous.' Until well into the eighteenth century few churches were furnished with pews or seats—the people standing or moving about during service, or, in the case of the aged and infirm, sitting on small stools provided by themselves. Notwithstanding laws and ordinances against 'burials in churches,' the rude but sacred buildings were universally made the last resting-places of the people. In 1684, the minister of Boleskinè reported 'that all ' persons of all ranks indifferently buried their dead within his ' church, not only his own parishioners, but some others of the ' neighbouring parishes, so that several coffins were hardly under ' ground, which was like to be very dangerous and noisome to ' the hearers of the word within the said church.' Boleskinè was not worse than other parishes. The dogs that followed the people to church fought over the human bones that protruded through the earthen floor; and for the malignant fevers that so often ravaged the country, the foul air which the worshippers breathed while they worshipped was not less responsible than the insanitary condition of their dwelling-houses.

Not only were ministers often deprived of their just rights, but insults and threats were frequently their reward for trying to do their duty. In 1671 the minister of Daviot had occasion to give John Mackintosh, a brother of the laird of Aberarder, the first public admonition from the pulpit in connection with a charge of breach of the Seventh Commandment. John did not like the minister's plain speaking, and at the close of the service he came up to him at the church door and thus addressed him in presence of the whole congregation: 'You ' base raskall, how durst yee bee so peart as to abuse mee this ' day? Yee wes too bold to doe it; yee might hav used your ' own equals so and not me.' Upon the minister calling the gentlemen of the parish as witnesses Mackintosh retorted: ' You base raskall, think you will I eat my words? Were not ' for little to mee I wold bruiss y<sup>or</sup> bones.' In 1674 the minister of Boleskinè summoned a young breaker of the same commandment before his Session. Instead of obeying, the accused sent his father, Donald dow Mack Conachie nan Each—Black Donald son of Duncan of the Horses—in Glenlia, who ‘menaciouslie threatened the minister with many opprobrious ‘and barbarous malicious speeches.’ In 1652 Mr. John Macrae, the learned minister of Dingwall, is publicly called a knave and a liar; and about the same time Thomas M<sup>c</sup>Naoise confesses his malicious imprecations against the ministry generally, and is condemned to stand in sackcloth in all the churches within the Presbytery of Dingwall. In 1673 Mr. Donald Ross, who is always in trouble, is struck by his church-officer, who is consequently dismissed by the Presbytery and ordained to do penance in the church of Contin.

The ministers were greatly obstructed in their work by the troubles of the times. On 2nd August 1649, Duncan M<sup>c</sup>Alister vic conill dowy—Duncan son of Alexander son of Black Donald—an Urray relapser in adultery, failed to appear before his Presbytery because ‘his guids [cattle] were stollen from him, ‘and he was upon the pursuit of them.’ On the 15th, no elders or people attended a presbyterial visitation of Kintail, ‘except ‘some few that were not considerable,’ for the reason that ‘they were on the persuit of guids that were stollen and tacken ‘away from the severall corners of the countrie.’ Reference has already been made to the charge of obstruction brought against Cromwell’s soldiers. In July 1674, Hugh Mac Allister vic ean roy, in Dores, a captain of ‘The Watch’—a band of volunteers raised for the purpose of protecting cattle and property—who had been summoned before the Presbytery of Inverness, was unable to appear ‘to vindicat himself in thir troublesome ‘tymes, wherein thieves and robbers have turned insolent and ‘resolute in wickedness’; and in July 1676, the heritors and elders of Daviot and Dunlichity declared their inability to attend a proposed visitation of their parish, ‘seeing they are ‘necessitat to abyd in the Glens to shelter and keep their ‘bestiall and goods from the Lochaber and Glencoia robbers.’ Several ministers were absent from the meeting of the Presbytery of Inverness, held on 8th July 1685, because they ‘could not wait upon the dyet considering the great stirrs that were in the ‘countrie in respect of the preparatiōne to his Majesty’s host’—an allusion to the proposed Royalist expedition into Argyllshire in connection with Monmouth’s Rebellion; and on 5th September 1688, there only met the Moderator and the minister of Kirkhill, all the rest being absent, ‘some by reason of the ‘great stirrs that were in the countrey anent the late rebellion ‘and bloodshed in Lochaber’—a reference to the fight of Mulroy. These troubles were but the forerunners of the War of the Revolution. In that struggle the great majority of the inhabitants of our bounds sided with King James, and many of them fought under the banner of Dundee. Ecclesiastically, the result was the legal re-establishment of Presbyterianism; but the bulk of the people and the majority of the clergy continued to adhere to Episcopacy, and for many years after the Revolution there was virtually no Presbytery either of Inverness or of Dingwall, and every man within the bounds did what was right in his own eyes.

Notwithstanding their many discouragements, the ministers, whether under Presbytery or under Episcopacy, on the whole faithfully laboured for the good of the people. Members of the better classes—sons of lairds or of the larger tacksmen or farmers—they were, with few exceptions, men of intelligence and education, who far surpassed their perhaps more earnest brethren of the Lowlands in charitableness and toleration. To these Lowland brethren their ways were sometimes strange, especially when they went about, not in the orthodox clerical garb, but in all the glory of the Highland dress. To appear in the Church courts in kilt and bonnet, and wearing their hair long like the ordinary Celt of the time, was in the highest degree barbarous, and attempts were early made to put down the unseemly custom. At a meeting of the Synod of Moray, held at Elgin in April 1624, the 'visitors' or examiners of the Presbytery Book of Inverness reported that the brethren of that Presbytery 'haunts to the Presbytrie with uncomly habits, 'such as bonats and plaides; whairfor the Assemblie ordaines 'them not to haunt the Presbytrie any mair with uncomly 'habitts.' Again, in 1640, the same Synod ordained 'that 'all ministers be grave and decent in their apparell, in their 'carriage and behaviour; that none weare long hair, but that 'bothe in lyfe and habite they may be knowne by their men 'to be the ministers of Jesus Chryst.' But it was difficult to reconcile Highland parsons to Lowland fashions. As late as 1671, the Presbytery found it necessary to ordain Mr. Roderick Mackenzie, minister of Moy, 'to goe in a ministeriall habite whan he went to set about any pairt of his work.' According to tradition, the Highland dress was not entirely discarded by the ministers until after Culloden; and breacan nan cleireach (the clergy's tartan) is still reproduced in books on tartans.

The old minister's chief duty was of course to preach. This he did as a rule twice every Sunday—first in Gaelic and thereafter in English. In the burghs of Inverness and Dingwall, where the Saxon tongue was known from very early times, the Gospel has no doubt been preached in that tongue from the period of the Reformation. It is difficult to say when it was first preached in English in the country parishes, where Gaelic was universally spoken. Our Records, however, show that English was preached in several churches within our bounds during the period covered by them. In 1651, Mr. Donald Fraser, minister of Kilmorack, had such a command of that language that his removal 'to ane English congregation' was apprehended, 'if not tymlic prevented.' Mr. Donald Ross, minister of Contin, preached in English at the same period; and so, a few years later, did his neighbour Mr. Mackillican—who, indeed, could hardly preach in Gaelic—in the parish of Fodderty. Mr. Thomas Hogg preached in Kiltearn in both English and Irish [Gaelic] in 1654, and his Episcopalian successor, Mr. John Gordon, preached in both languages thirty years later. In 1671, the people of Dores 'were refreshed very much by 'their minister Sabbathly both in the English and Irish 'language'; and on 23rd July 1672, a sermon was preached at Wardlaw (Kirkhill) in 'Irish,' and another in 'Scots.' In these parishes, as in all the parishes within our bounds, divine service is still conducted in both tongues, Gaelic being still the popular tongue—so long does it take a new language to supplant an old, even when the new is the language of culture and of commerce.

The Sacramental fast-day and 'preaching week,' which are now so prominent a feature in the religious life of the North, were unknown within our bounds in the seventeenth century, although they had already established themselves in the South, where they have now all but disappeared. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, indeed, was seldom administered. Mr. Robert Munro, minister of Kiltearn, admitted in May 1650 that there had been no Communion in his parish since his entry. In the same year it was reported that in Lochbroom the Sacrament had not been administered during the previous seven years. In 1665 Fodderty had been without it for twelve years; and Glen Urquhart was in the same condition during the whole incumbency of Mr. Duncan MacCulloch—1647 to 1671. Other parishes were as bad. In 1679 the Synod of Moray ordered the members of the Inverness Presbytery to administer it; but on 1st October of that year it was found that the 'bretheren have not given it, and ther reason was 'that the frequent charges that ther people gott to be in 'armes against the Macdonalds obstructed ther freedom to 'that great work.' The Synod's order was again and again renewed; but while it is found in 1681 'that the ministers of 'Inverness, Daviot, and Wardlaw have celebrated the same 'about and after Easter, the not giving it at all, or but verie 'seldome, is very much to be regrated.' In April 1684 several of the brethren of the Presbytery of Inverness reported that they had given the Sacrament that year; but 'the rest told 'that they were impeded by the greatnes of the stormie 'weather and other inevitable impediments.' In short, any and every excuse was seized to put off the sacred rite. And, as was to be expected, some of the churches were without the necessary furnishings and utensils for it. Daviot, for example, had in 1682 no 'necessaries' of any kind; Petty and Croy each rejoiced in a bare Communion table—'other necessaries were borrowed'; while the learned Mr. James Fraser of Kirkhill 'had a very good large table, two good towells, a basin also; but he borrowed silver cups yearly'—no doubt from the ministers of Inverness, who probably possessed the only silver cups of which the bounds could boast.

Although Sacramental fast-days were unknown, there was no lack of other fast and thanksgiving days, and days of humiliation. Sometimes these were kept on the Sabbath. On the last Sunday of August 1649 a fast was observed by order of the General Assembly for the continuance and increase of sin and profanity, especially the sin of witchcraft; the interruption of the Lord's work in England and Ireland, and sore oppression of His people, by the prevailing party of Sectaries in the one and Malignants in the other; and the King's failure to grant what was necessary for the security of religion, and his making peace with the Irish rebels. Prayer was to be offered on these special points; and the Almighty was also to be entreated to 'regaird the necessitie of the poore 'by giving a fair and seasonable harvest, and bestow upon 'his people a plentiful measure of the fruits of the earth, for 'preventing the famine threatened and feared, and enabling 'the Kingdome to beare necessarie burdens without repyneing.' After the King's execution and the Scots' quarrel with Cromwell, fasts were observed having special reference to the tyranny of the Usurper's 'proud party of Sectaries,' and to the efforts made to place Charles the Second on the throne.

The reasons for the great fast of June 1651, observed when the country was about to send its best blood into England to fight there for 'Kirk and Kingdom,' are of the most solemn nature, and the prayers ordained must have been joined in by thousands of men and women with unusual fervour, if, in some cases, also with sorrow and anxiety, and painful forebodings as to the fate of loved ones who were to join in the distant and dangerous invasion. Less solemn were the fasts that were in after years held by royal command. When the Dutch War of Charles the Second broke out in 1665, a fast was observed 'in behalf of the Royal Navy, and for a blessed success to the intended war against the United Provinces,' and a month later a public thanksgiving for the short-lived triumph over the Dutch. On 13th September there was a public fast and humiliation 'for the raging of the plague of 'pestilence in England [the Great Plague] and for preventing 'it in Scotland.' Printed proclamations, issued by Charles the Second, ordaining a fast on 18th December 1678 in connection with the discovery of the Popish Plot, were distributed among the brethren of the Presbytery of Inverness on the 11th of that month. On 9th September 1683 a day of thanksgiving was kept for the happy discovery of the Rye House Plot—'the late horrid plot against his sacred Majesty, his Royal 'Highness [the Duke of York], and the established government.' Similar thanksgivings were observed on 13th August 1685 for the suppression of the Monmouth and Argyll rebellion; in March 1688 'for her Majesty's being with child'; and on 28th June 'for the birth of the Prince of Scotland'—the unfortunate prince concerning whose parentage doubts were unjustly raised, and whom the Whigs consequently dubbed the Pretender. In addition to these and such incidental fasts, the 29th of May—Royal Oak Day—was for many years annually kept within the bounds as a solemn thanksgiving for the Happy Restoration; religious services were in the reign of James held on the King's birthday; and in the Episcopal time the ministers preached at Easter and on Christmas Day.

During the period of these Records, and indeed until the spread of Puritanism after Culloden, the inhabitants of our bounds were not unduly strict in matters of religion; and, especially, they had little of that Sabbatarian spirit which has characterised, and still characterises, their descendants. Towards the Sabbath the clergy themselves sometimes showed a lax spirit. They married their parishioners on that day, and after the ceremony took part in the festivities. They likewise buried on the Sabbath, frequently deserting the pulpit for the funeral and its entertainment. The Synod of Moray ordained in 1640 'that ministers exhort frome burieing on ye Sabbothe, and that heirafter no minister leave his awne flock to goe to burialls on ye Sabbothe, unless ye necessitie be ap-
'prowen be ye Presbiterie'; and, in regard to marriages, the Synod recorded: 'in respect off ye gryt disorders y<sup>t</sup> haw fallen out in dyverse parts of ye land by drunkennes and tuilzieing [fighting] at pennie brydalls, thairfor it is ordained that thair be no pennie brydalls maid on ye Sabbath.' But it was difficult to suppress old customs; and penny weddings, especially, and the irregularities connected with them, continue to be denounced in the Records. Another institutiou that troubled our Presbyteries greatly was the lykewake, at which the mirth was frequently even more boisterous than at the wedding, the chamber of death being frequently filled night after night with jest, song, and story, the music of the fiddle and the pipe, and the shout and clatter of the Highland reel.

In 1649, Mr. Donald Ross, minister of Lochbroom, was found guilty of selling wine in his house and 'keeping com-
'panie with some gentlemen drinking wyne upon the sabbath'; and in 1674 Mr. William Smith, minister of Duthel, got so intoxicated at Inverness on a Saturday night that, instead of preaching next morning at Cawdor according to appointment, he did not go near the church, but travelled home on the Lord's day. The tavern, which usually nestled close to the church, and did a roaring business before and after divine service, was a great evil; and men sometimes in their drunken excitement forgot the sacredness of the sanctuary. In 1672 two lairds, Martin Macgillivray of Aberchalder, and Alexander Mackintosh of Farr, had a 'ploy' on the Lord's day within the church of Dunlichity; in the same year John M'doir was accused of drunkenness and fighting in the church of Kiltearn; and in 1680 Andrew M'Andrew was found guilty of striking a man within the church of Urquhart of Ferintosh. If there was little regard for the Sabbath within the church there was less for it outside, and until things were changed by the spread of Puritanism already referred to, the old Highlander gave up the greater part of the day to pleasure, sports, and his worldly avocations. From the Dingwall Presbytery's minute of 31st July 1649, it appears that dealers in the famous whisky of Ferintosh carried on their trade on Sunday, as did the fishermen of the district their fishing. In the same year an attempt is made to put down Sunday fishing in Kintail; and in 1650 a number of persons in Lochbroom are ordered to be processed for the same offence.

Closely connected with the minister's pulpit ministrations was the catechising of his parishioners, and the pressing upon them of the duty of family worship. In this work, judging from the Records, he failed. For this he cannot be blamed. There was neither Gaelic Bible nor Gaelic Catechism; and, as few of his flock knew English, home services were well-nigh impossible, and were, we may assume, seldom attempted. The calls upon his own time were too many to admit of anything like regularity or thoroughness in his extra-pulpit teaching; and frequently he wholly neglected the duty. His elders were chosen on account of their social position and influence among the people; and while they were helpful in bringing delinquents to justice, they were utterly unable to assist in purely spiritual things. It was long after the period to which these Records refer, that 'The Men,' who have for the last century and a half been so noted as catechists and expounders and men of prayer, first appeared within the bounds of our Presbyteries.

The frequency of the Presbytery meetings—sometimes two or three within the month—greatly interrupted and interfered with the minister's pastoral work. To these meetings he rode on horseback, in some cases for fifty or even seventy miles, over rough tracks and through unbridged rivers; and when a visitation of the West Coast churches, or the Highland churches as they are called in contra-distinction to the East Coast or Lowland churches, was on hand, the journey was one of weeks. Attendance at the synod, which, in the case of Moray, met at Elgin, and in the case of Ross, at Tain, was also a serious business, involving—taking the return journey into account—a ride ranging from twenty-five to two hundred miles. No wonder we find more excuses for absence than were offered to the giver of the marriage supper. It is my marriage day, said the minister of Urquhart and Glenmoriston to his bishop and synod, in 1626, and therefore I cannot come. My child is at the point of death, said Mr. John Macrae of Dingwall to his Presbytery in 1649; I pray you have me excused. I am tormented with the worm, wrote Mr. Donald Macrae of Urray in 1650; pray, therefore, pardon my absence. I have taken physic, was the message sent by Mr. Farquhar MacIennan to his Presbytery in 1656, and must stay at home. I am tender, and not able to travel, pleaded the minister of Croy in 1677. On the last day of 1650, Mr. Colin Mackenzie was excused, as he was 'attending Reidcastle, who was at the point of death.' On the same date Mr. John Munro of Alness wrote 'that he came getward to keipe the Presbytrie, 'bot that his horse fell under him, and that he was not able to 'ryde.' It fared worse with the minister of Dores in 1671, for his horse had been stolen. In 1675 Mr. Houston of Boleskine was preparing his flock for a long neglected Communion. Mr.

Fraser of Kiltarlity is in 1676 'South about some law affaires'; in 1680 he is in Inchgald, or the Hebrides; in 1685 he is in the South again. His namesake of Daviot went even further afield, for in 1682 we find him in England. In 1650 the minister of Ferintosh was attending the Committee of War at Inverness; and his neighbour of Urray was in March 1654 impeded and molested by the English garrison at Brahan, and on 12th December following, abstracted by quartering on by the English. The Moderator was unable to attend a meeting held at Kilchumen (Fort Augustus), on 25th September 1677, 'beeing ordered by the Magistrats to preach that day the electione sermone for choosieing the Magistrats of Inuerness.' Spates in the river Nairn, which was at the time without a bridge, prevented the attendance of Mr. Mackenzie of Moy on more than one occasion; and there are other instances of members being storm-stayed or 'impeded by the waters.' Funerals, also, interfered. In 1650 an appointed meeting was not held at Dingwall on account of the funeral of Mackenzie of Coul. In 1665 the ministers of Alness and Contin were absent at the burial of Balnagown's brother; and in November 1686 a meeting of the Presbytery of Inverness was put off, 'because the Bretheren did atend the Funeralls of the Right Reverend Father in God, Colin, late Lord Bishop of Murray, whom God called out of this Life, November 11, 1686, to the enjoyment of eternall hapines, whose Funerals were honourably and solemnly celibrat with great greef at Elgin, Novemb. 22.'

When a reasonable excuse was offered, it was readily accepted; but absence or unpunctuality without cause was resented and punished. On 28th July 1657 it is recorded in the Dingwall register that 'the Moderator not coming precise lie at tenn o'clocke, tho shortlie efter, the rest of the brethren for the most part would not stay anie longer then the peremptorie heure appointed'—a somewhat severe piece of boycotting, seeing that the Moderator was in all probability without clock or watch. The Presbytery of Inverness suspended brethren who 'willfully thryce or oftener absents themselves 'from the Presbytrie without any excuse'; and the Court of Dingwall had a rule 'that everie brother cuming late should give in a sexpens to be given to the poore.' But it was difficult to enforce such regulations, and on 13th October 1663 there was a lively discussion at Dingwall over the refusal of certain dilatory brethren to pay their sixpences; and the momentous matter was referred to the bishop.

The meeting of Presbytery was opened with prayer, after which a member 'exercised' and another 'added' on a text from Scripture. The exercise and addition were thereafter discussed by the brethren, and usually approved; but sometimes approval was withheld, and on 29th December 1657 the brethren were so much dissatisfied with Mr Donald Ross' 'method, matter, and weaknes' that they 'desyred he should 'be reprehended with a premonire.' At certain meetings 'expectants' or aspirants to the ministry were put through their 'Trials'; and sometimes such common heads were discussed as De transubstantione, De peccato originali, De extensione mortis Christi, De infallibilitate Ecclesiae, De justificatione, De satisfatione Christi, De gratia universali, De perseverantia sanctorum, De primatu Petri, De potestate clavium, De libero arbitrio, De peccato veniali et mortali, De propagatione peccati originalis, De paedobaptismo, De voluntate Dei, De notis ecclesiae, De justitia originali, De certitudine salutis, De Dei scientia, De praedestinatione, De creatione hominis, De anima, De universali redemptione.

It was the duty of the members of Presbytery to inquire into each others' diligence and faithfulness in the ministry; and in connection with this we find such charges recorded against ministers as preferring their private business to their public duties; neglect of the Communion, and of catechising and family prayer; celebration of mock and irregular marriages, and the disorderly giving of baptism; drunkenness and swearing; malignancy; worshipping with excommunicated persons; and breaches of the Seventh Commandment. As a rule, however, the minister's life and labour are approved; and sometimes the minutes record some special feature which has met with the brethren's appreciation. In 1649, when political excitement ran high, it is noted with satisfaction that the minister of Kiltearn 'attends his charge and meddles not with civil affairs,' and that his brother of Kilmorack 'is no tryster in civill business.' Would that some of our modern ministers held themselves under equal restraint. In 1677 the Presbytery of Inverness, sitting in Glen Urquhart, blessed the Lord for the good applause the minister of that Glen had of his elders, and for the sweet harmony that prevailed; and in the same year the people of Kirkhill declared that their pastor observed all his ministerial duties, 'and was so panefull that they were 'affrayed that he should thereby shorten his own dayes, in all 'likliehood.' It is pleasant to record that the worthy pastor—Mr. James Fraser, author of the unpublished local history known as the Wardlaw ms., and of one or two other manuscripts, which are now in the Advocates' Library—lived and laboured till the year 1709. The 'Bill of Mortality' kept by him from 1663 to the time of his death—a register of deaths in his parish and neighbourhood, but in which general events connected with the district are also recorded—was discovered in the parish a few years ago and placed in the General Register House, where it now is—the most interesting record of its kind in Scotland.

Next to the brethren's duty of finding out and reporting upon each other's shortcomings and failings was that of detecting and suppressing crime and immorality, Popery and idolatry, witchcraft and superstition, and other evil habits and customs among the people; of searching after truth and justice in quarrels between spouses, and in cases of irregular marriages, disputed paternity, and slander; of providing for the honest poor, and bringing vagrants and sturdy beggars to punishment; and of seeing that no strangers settled in their parishes without certificates of good character and freedom from Church censure. They, in short, exercised in a strangely mixed manner the functions of the modern civil magistrates and police authorities; and when they found themselves with a weak jurisdiction, or experienced difficulty in executing their judgments, they invoked the aid of justices and lairds, with the result that offenders seldom escaped. Thus, the Presbytery of Dingwall, after inquiring into a case of child murder in 1685, 'finding that cryms of that nature were above their 'cognizance and decision, determined to represent the case to 'the civil Judge, quhich was accordingly done, the clerk with 'the desire of the Presbyterie haveing wrote a letter to Sir 'Rorie M'Kenzie of Findon, Shereff Deput of Ross, to that 'effect.' In connection with the discovery of gross superstitions in the remote district of Applecross in 1650, the justices were enjoined by the Presbytery 'to doe there duties in suppressing of the foresaid wickedness': the goodman of Culcowie (Kilcoy) was requested in 1656 to 'interpone his authoritie' in compelling certain sacrificers on his West Highland estates to appear before the Synod; in 1663 the heritors of Urray were called upon to deal with a disobedient delinquent 'as powerfullie as they could'; and in 1668 Lady Seaforth was urged to cause her chamberlain to make stubborn offenders yield obedience. In 1670 the Presbytery of Inverness appoints the minister of Dores 'to give a list of all the obstinat delinquents within his Parish to Alex<sup>r</sup> Chissolme, as Bailie of 'Stratharrick and Comissar depute of Inverness, to see if that 'rude people and obstinate generation may be brought to a 'more Christian subjection and orderly conformity'; and in 1682 the minister and elders of Croy were recommended 'quhen 'delinquents were obstinat and refractory in paying penalties, 'to have immediat recourse to the Authority of the Com- 'missary.' The Church officers had sometimes cause to welcome such outside aid. In 1665 the officer of Urquhart of Ferintosh was deforced; and in 1672 the officer of Dunlichity confessed that he was 'affrayed' to summon the delinquents of that parish to the Presbytery. No wonder. The lairds of Aberchaldar and Farr, and a brother of the laird of Aberarder, were of their number.

Among the ordinary crimes and offences into which we find the Presbyteries inquiring are murder, wife murder, child murder, assault, adultery (in connection with which the penalty of death is alluded to), incest, perjury, drunkenness, failure to support child, and wife desertion. Sometimes it was the woman who deserted the man. We also meet such offences as taking God's name in vain; scandalous usurpation of the ministerial function by John MacFinlay vic Conil Donich, who disorderly baptized infants in the parish of Contin; blasphemy by a would-be theologian from Ferintosh, who declared 'that Christ Jesus was a sinner all the tyme he lived on earth'; and desecration by Kiltearn drovers, who made a cattle fold of the ancient church of Kilchrist, which had been without roof or door since the Glengarry men destroyed itself and its congregation by fire in the famous raid of 1603.

Breaches of the Seventh Commandment were common within our bounds, as they were in every parish in Scotland; and the Records are full of unsavoury processes. When the wretched offenders tried to escape from punishment and exposure they were followed with marvellous persistency and success. Margaret Fraser, an Inverness schoolmaster's frail daughter who refused to disclose the father of her child, and whom the bishop consequently ordered to be excommunicated, fled the country in 1674, and was traced to London, where for two years or more she was the recipient of unwelcome messages from the Presbytery, conveyed to her on one occasion at least by the Inverness merchants, who journeyed to the great city annually in May to purchase commodities for their Highland customers. In 1676 Donald Miller, a sinner who had escaped from Inverness, is found to be in remote Assynt in Sutherland-shire, and 'the Moderator is desyred to wryt to the minister of Assint to send him back to satisfie the kirk discipline.' Alexander Besack and Janet nein vic Gillmichael (Janet daughter of the son of the servant of St. Michael), fugitives from Inverness, are traced to Orkney, and the ministers there are put on their track with such effect that they are glad to recross the stormy Pentland. Next year they are 'reported ' to be att Tung in Strathnaver,' and the ministers of Inverness ' are ordained to wrytt to the minister of the foresaid place to ' remitt them back againe, quhich they promised to doe quam ' primum.'

In connection with lapses of this sort the paternity was, of course, frequently denied by the male transgressor. If the minister and session failed to bring him to a confession by ordinary dealing, the Presbytery took him in hand and applied a very drastic test of truthfulness. In 1665 William Macleod was ordained to clear himself by oath before the congregation of Fodderty. The minister of Kiltarlity was in 1677 ordered to take Donald Roy, a sheriff officer who was so obstinate in his denial that there was no 'hope of confession except the ' extraordinarie divyne hand of God work on him,' ' diverse ' Lord's dayes before the pulpit in presence of the whole congregacion, and to offer him the oath, and pray for him that God ' may open his obdured heart to confess the truth, and if he ' continu obstinat, to tak his oath at last upon the head of the ' child, as is the practise of this Kirk and Kingdome.' In 1684 Donald Bain, who denied the paternity of Agnes Mackenzie's child, ' is ordained to purge himselfe by his oath befor ye congregacion of Inverness with his hand on ye child's head, and in ' presence of ye forsaid Agnes, and that ye Ministers are apointed ' to be at pains w<sup>t</sup> him, to sie if it be possible to bring him to ' any aknowledgement.' James Fraser was in 1681 put to a greater trial still—he was to take the oath publickly before the congregation of Kiltarlity, with one hand on the child's head and the other upon the Bible. Few guilty persons even in those wild times, were strong enough in their wickedness to be able to go through so solemn an ordeal, and the fortitude of most men gave way before the oath was administered. Their desire to escape punishment and liability is easily accounted for; but we can only conjecture the reason why Charles Mackenzie, son of the laird of Pluscardine, took his illegitimate child into his own charge, and refused to disclose the mother. She was probably of gentle blood, and he, as became the son of the chivalrous leader of the Royalist rising of 1649, did what he could to save her from public shame, and to atone for the wrong he had done her. In Mr. Rorie Mackenzie, minister of Moy, he found a loyal clansman to baptize the infant. For this Mr. Rorie got into trouble with his presbytery and synod, the latter ordaining him to 'mak search for a mother to the child hee baptised to Charles Mackenzie.' The child was nursed by an honest woman in Moy till it was a year old, when Charles 'and his company' appeared and removed it to Strathglass. It is there lost sight of; and, so far as the Records show, the mystery of its maternity was never solved.

Delinquents were punished by being mulcted in pecuniary penalties; placed in the joughs, which usually adorned the church wall near the principal entrance; made to stand before the pulpit in sackcloth, Sabbath after Sabbath, for weeks if not for years, or to sit on the stool of repentance in the most conspicuous part of the church; and, in the worst cases, placed beyond Christian help and hope, here and hereafter, by the dread sentence of excommunication. They sometimes, as we have seen, fled to other bounds. In 1677 William Macpherson elected to serve in Holland as a soldier rather than stand the censure of the Presbytery of Inverness; and in 1686 Ewen Mac Huchon, in the parish of Kilmorack, leapt out of the frying-pan into the fire, by 'professing himself a Papist to shun the censure of the Church.' Absolution sometimes tardily came. In 1675, William Macpherson, Inverness, who had sinned with women married and unmarried, 'haveing appeared

 ' severall yeares in sacco, evidencing his publict remorse for his
 ' saids gross sinns, supplicated the Presbytrie to be absolved,
 ' and hee appeareing before them with teares and other signes
 ' off his repentance, is referred to the ministers of Inverness to
 ' be absolved, and to report ther diligence.' In special cases justice was wisely tempered with mercy. In 1679 a Glenmoriston delinquent, Dugald Macconachie vic Conill, pleaded for a modification of the process against him, and the Presbytery 'judged expedient, because of the distance of the place
 ' and rudeness of the people, to yeild to his humble demand,
 ' and the minister [was] exhorted in his owne pastorall prudence
 ' to use all lenity and meikness to gain such.' And, again, in 1687, John Grant, a son of the laird of that Glen, 'a papist
 ' excommunicat 20 years ago for ane incestuous mariage, he
 ' being irregularly married be a popish priest to his uncle's wife,
 ' and now she being dead, and the said John haveing forsaken
 ' the errores of the popish Church, and returned and imbraced
 ' the Orthodox Religion,' applied to be relaxed from the dread sentence, and to be received into Mother Church, and, after inquiry, was encouragingly referred by the Presbytery to the bishop and synod—the said John 'being a gentleman of good
 ' accompt in his own countrey, and liveing near by Glengarie,
 ' the inhabitants of quhich countrey are for the most part all
 ' papists, and are using many endeavours to make the said
 ' John relaps into his former apostacie.'

Popery, indeed, was a source of considerable trouble to our Presbyteries. Into the Chisholm's country of Strathglass, lying partly in the parish of Kiltarlity and Presbytery of Inverness, and partly in the parish of Kilmorack and Presbytery of Dingwall, the doctrines of the Reformation had scarcely penetrated; and there were also many Roman Catholics in the Braes of Glenmoriston, and the district of Abertarff.
 One effect of the religious rebound and uncertainty that followed the Restoration was to make people look with a kindlier eye on the ancient Church, which appeared to have no variableness or shadow of turning; and a stream of apostasy began to flow within the bounds of our Presbyteries which the Episcopal ministers of the time found it impossible to stem. Sir John Byres, of Coates, near Edinburgh, and his wife, Liliast Grant, daughter of the ultra-Protestant Laird of Grant, apostatised, and, burning with the proselyte's zeal, entertained Romish priests and laymen within the castle of Inverness, of which he was governor. They were excommunicated, but that only added to their zeal. They celebrated Easter, 1674, by holding 'a greatt conventione of papists' in the castle, notwithstanding the Presbytery's appeal to the Sheriff-Depute to prevent the gathering by enforcing 'the last and late strick act of counsell' against the Roman Catholics. They sheltered and encouraged priests, the most prominent of whom were Robert Munro, who acted as their chaplain, and served also in Strathglass; Father Hugh O'Rien, who also laboured in that Strath, 'under the notion of a physician'; Priest O'Neil, who resided for a time in the castle in 1681, and Priest Francis Macdonald, who took Glengarry as his corner of the vineyard. Munro's success in seducing souls was such that the Earl of Moray, principal Sheriff of Inverness-shire, undertook, in 1676, to 'cause secure his persone, that he may not mislead the people any longer.' Next year, the Synod of Moray ordained 'that bretheren take narrow inspectione anent 'trafficking priests their preaching or saying mass in families 'or conventicles, and upon certaine informatione to transmit 'their names to the Bishope'; and in 1682, it ordered the ministers 'to give up to the Bishop the names of seminary 'priests, and such as mary and baptise with them, the obstinat 'to be processt; and, to the end that letters of intercom- 'muning may be obtained against the excommunicat, the 'brethren at their next meeting not to faile to send to the Bishop 14 shillings Scots from every brother for the expense 'of the said letters of intercommuning.' But no serious attempt was made to put these resolutions in force, and the priests continued to go up and down through the parishes 'avowedly, confidently, and affrontedly,' teaching, marrying, and baptizing. It was complained that they even married persons under process, and baptized their ill-gotten issue. Among those who (in addition to Sir John Byres and his wife, and John Grant, of Glenmoriston, already referred to) came under their glamour and renounced Protestantism, were several members of the family of The Chisholm; Colin Chisholm of Buntait, and his wife; David Baillie, of Dochfour; James Baillie, there, and his wife; Allan Macdonald, of Kyltrie, and his wife, and all his children, servants, and tenants; Donald Macdonald, of Culachie, and Ranald Macdonald, of Pitmean, and their wives, servants, and tenants; Alexander Fraser, of Kinneras; the Rev. Colin Dalgleish, and many others of less note. Dalgleish was brought to see the error of his ways, and made a public recantation of Popery within the High Church of Inverness. After the Revolution many of the other perverts and their families returned to Protestantism. Strathglass, however, which the Dingwall parsons declared, in 1678, to be 'pestered with poperie,' continued, and still continues, to be the pride and the pleasure of devout members of the ancient Church.

Certain idolatrous and superstitious customs which prevailed in pagan and early Christian times lingered on for generations after the Reformation. The image called St. Finane, which the Protestant people of Dunlichity worshipped as late as the year 1648, deserved a better fate than burning at the market cross of Inverness, after sermon. Probably the ministers who did the burning did not know that they were destroying the last representation, rude and imaginary though it might be, of one of the most earnest evangelists of the early Celtic Church. There is reason to believe that other saints had similar effigies. When Mackenzie of Kintail and Macdonald of Glengarry were before the Privy Council in connection with that feud the leading feature of which was the Raid of Kilchrist, Mackenzie proved Glengarry to have been a worshipper of the Coan, 'which image was afterwards brought to Edinburgh, and burnt at the cross.'<sup>1</sup> In that case, also, was destroyed, in ignorance, the effigy of a venerated apostle, that prince of Leinster who in the early centuries of our era renounced the world and devoted his life to the Christianising of the Celt, and who was the patron saint of the Macdonald district of Knoydart, where the ruins of his chapel are still to be seen. But the most extraordinary story of idolatry which we know in connection with the Highlands is that told so graphically in the Dingwall minutes of 5th and 9th September 1656. Fortunately, the heathenish practices which had gathered around the memory of St. Mourie greatly impressed the brethren of the Presbytery, and the clerk records details with the relish of an antiquary, if also with indications of horror at the darkness of the superstition. But in this instance, again, the brethren had no idea that they were dealing with customs which, having their origin in remote pagan times, had, after the introduction of Christianity into the Highlands, engrafted themselves on the memory of an eminent Celtic cleric. 'Whether this Mourie,' wrote the late Rev. Dr. Kennedy of Dingwall, 'was a heathen deity, a Popish saint, or one of Columba's missionaries, it may be impossible to determine.'<sup>2</sup> Much light has been thrown on such matters within the last forty years, and what baffled the Doctor is now easy of determination. Mourie, or Maelrubha, as his name was originally written, was that distinguished saint who crossed from Ireland to Scotland in 671, founded the church of Apurcrosan, now Applecross, and evangelised the district which, roughly, now forms the county of Ross and Cromarty. After his death, Applecross, which is still known in Gaelic as A' Chomaraich—the Sanctuary—became sacred ground and the most noted place of refuge in the Highlands ; and around the name of the saint himself customs clustered which strongly savour of paganism, and which no doubt had, before his time, some connection with the heathen religion of the country. These survived for centuries. The Presbytery found, in 1656, that the Protestant inhabitants of Applecross, Lochcarron, Lochalsh, Kintail, Contin, Fodderty, Gairloch, and Lochbroom, were in the habit of sacrificing bulls to the saint on his annual festival day (25th August); of giving the sacrificed meat and other offerings to those poor, mentally deranged persons who were known as St. Mourie's afflicted ones—derilans<sup>1</sup>—and who owned his special protection; of making pilgrimages to his monuments of idolatry in various places, including Isle Maree, to which, as well as to Loch Maree, he gave his name; of visiting and 'circulating' ruinous chapels associated with his memory—marching round them sun-wise, no doubt; of learning of the future, 'in reference especiallie to lyf and death in taking of jurneys,' by trying to put their heads into 'a holl of a round stone,' which, if they 'could doe, to witt, be able to put in thaire heade, they 'expect thair returneing to that place; and faileing, they 'conceaved it ominous'; and of adoring 'wells and uther 'superstitious monuments and stones, tedious to rehearse.' So far as divination by the hole in the stone was concerned, the man of small head had evidently an advantage over the great-heads of the period. The Presbytery took such steps as were within their power to suppress the 'abominations'; but it was difficult to destroy what had flourished for ages. As late as 1678, Hector Mackenzie, in Mellan of Gairloch, and his sons and grandson, sacrificed a bull on St. Mourie's Isle, 'for the recovering of the health of Cirstane Mackenzie, spouse 'of the said Hector Mackenzie, who was formerlie sick and 'valetudinarie'; and the mentally afflicted are to this day taken to the island to be cured.

The custom of adoring and supplicating at holy wells had also come to be associated with the memory of the ancient Celtic saints. In pagan times mysterious demons dwelt in certain fountains, which were in a sense worshipped by the people. The saints drove out the evil spirits, and the wells were consequently dedicated to themselves. The old custom was, however, continued, with the difference that the adoration was now offered not to the demon, but to the saint. The manner in which wells were changed by the Christian missionaries from pestilent disease-giving agencies to sources of health and blessing is well illustrated by the story of St. Columba and the fountain, narrated by Adamnan.<sup>1</sup> The pilgrimages to such wells are repeatedly referred to in the Records. In 1626, and again in 1642, the Synod endeavoured to repress them.<sup>2</sup> A Commission of the General Assembly sitting at Auldearn in 1649, ordered Mr. John Macrae 'to be more painfull to reforme the evil menners of Dingwall, to be [i.e. compel] ye residents to refraine from goeing to wells on the Lordes day;' the well-worshippers of Urquhart of Ferintosh were ordered to be taken in hand by the session in the same year; and in 1678 the Synod of Moray ordained the brethren of the Presbytery of Inverness 'to intimat that persons goeing to superstitious wells are to be censured.' The custom, however, continued into the present century, and has not yet altogether ceased. Among the wells to which pilgrimages are still made is that of Culloden, which is annually visited on the first Sunday of May by hundreds of people from Inverness and neighbourhood. One almost regrets to hear the interesting time-honoured custom still preached against by our clergy as it was two and three hundred years ago.

In the same far-off pagan period originated the practice of pouring milk upon fairy knowes for the purpose of appeasing the fairies,<sup>3</sup> who in Christian times became the representatives of the former spirits of the earth; and of kindling Midsummer fires.<sup>1</sup> The Dingwall Presbytery ordained in June 1655 'that

 ' the severall brethren intimate to thair congregations that ' they desist of the superstitious abuses used on St. Johnes day
 ' [24th June], by burneing torches through thair cornes and
 ' fyres in thair townes, and thaireafter fixing thair staicks in ' thair Kaileyards.' The custom, however, continued, and the Synod of Ross passed an act against it in 1671. It has long since died out in the Highlands, but it was at one time known all over Europe, and it still exists in Ireland, Norway, Greece, and, probably, other countries. The minute of July 1655 shows that the oft-repeated statement that kail was not known in the Highlands until recent times is incorrect. In that year, evidently, kailyards were common, and were, along with the corn-fields, made the object of the blessing that came through the ancient sacrifice of the Midsummer Fire.

At a time when witches were burnt in England and the Lowlands in hundreds, one would naturally expect to find similar transactions in the Highlands. But although the capital of Sutherlandshire has the unenviable honour of having burnt the last witch put to death in Scotland, the wretched creature suffered as the result of the tardy introduction into the county of that religious zeal which had already mercilessly enforced in the South the Jewish precept, 'Thou shalt not suffer a witch
 ' to live.' Generally speaking there was, as has already been indicated, little of the nature of religious fanaticism to be found within our bounds during the period of the Records, and the consequence was that when witches and charmers were brought before the Presbytery they were mercifully spared the cruelties and death which would have been their lot had their lines fallen besouth the Grampians, or in the lowlands of Moray. A notorious Fodderty witch, who rejoiced in the name of Agnes Mor nin vick ean glais—Big Agnes daughter of the son of John the Pale—publicly 'scolded, lyed, menaced, cursed, and used imprecations' against Mr.

Donald Fraser in 1672, and was brought before his Presbytery; but all that the brethren did was to ordain her 'to be publickly rebuked by her minister after sermon.' The court was equally merciful to Finlay Macconochie vic George and his wife, residents of the still witch-ridden Black Isle, for 'consulting with a witch for getting the profite of their drink [milk], formerlie taken away from them as they alleadge, and making use of a charme to that effect, and professing that it took effect to their mynd';<sup>1</sup> and to those who used charms for the recovery of Donald Glasse from sickness,<sup>2</sup> for interrupting marital relations between Alexander Mac ean vic Gillreich and his wife,<sup>3</sup> for bringing luck and good fortune in connection with a flitting,<sup>4</sup> and even for raising the devil through the turning of the sieve and the shear.<sup>5</sup> It is curious to note that this last expedient, which was resorted to for purposes of divination, was known during the same period in Ross-shire, England, Ireland, and the south of Scotland. Hudibras, expressing his disbelief in the power of telling the future by the aspect of the stars, declares:

'Nor can their aspects though you pore
Your eyes out on 'em, tell you more
Than th' oracle of sieve and shears,
That turns as certain as the spheres.'

And in 1682 a servant lass in Irvine, who had learned the art in Ireland, practised it with marvellous success.<sup>6</sup>

To ensure prosperity in their new house a Dingwall couple in 1673 'cross-cut all the couples' of the old, and 'did take a great quantitie of the earth' of it with them; to all which the owner of the old dwelling naturally objected. Other sorceries to which reference is made are the burying of a lamb under the threshold as a preventive against the death of the rest of the bestial,<sup>7</sup> and the keeping of a 'pocke of hearbs' in the milk 'as a preventative against the tacking away the substance of it.’<sup>1</sup> Against ‘witchcraft and devillish practices of that sort’ the brethren of Dingwall were in 1649 ordained by the Commission of the General Assembly ‘to preach powerfully;’ but Northern parsons were not over-zealous, and the probability is that the instruction was pretty generally ignored.

In addition to the duties of promoting the true religion and repressing the false, and of putting down crime and vice and superstition, the ministers were expected to inquire into and, to a certain extent at least, to judge in cases of slander, breach of promise, nullification of marriage, and applications for permission to marry again.

The petition of Patrick Gordon and his wife against Mr. Alexander Clerk, one of the ministers of Inverness, for slander from the pulpit, is amusing reading; <sup>2</sup> and reference may also be made to the cases of Mackenzie of Dochmoluak, whose complaint was that he had been accused of undue familiarity with the goodwife of his neighbour of Dochcarty; <sup>3</sup> John Dingwall, who was falsely said not to have been baptized; <sup>4</sup> Bailie Henry Bain, of Dingwall, who had been maliciously called a murderer; <sup>5</sup> Donald Chisholm, whom Agnes nin Donald Vicay had impudently claimed to be the father of her child; <sup>6</sup> and William Macmiller, against whom Robert Catanach, an honest man who thought he knew his own father, sought redress for having avowed and asserted strongly ‘that he wes father to the said Robert.’<sup>7</sup> When the charge was proved or confessed the usual penalty was fine, or censure in presence of the congregation. In more recent times slanders were sometimes made to stand at the gate of the churchyard while the congregation passed out, and to repeat, in Gaelic, the words, ‘This is the lying tongue.’

There are two cases of breach of promise of marriage mentioned. In the first the charge was made by the woman and the man got off.<sup>8</sup> In the second, the man was the aggrieved person, and there appears to have been ground for his complaint, for the woman, after he had been contracted with her and the banns had been proclaimed in the church of Alness, 'broke her promise to him and violated Church orders. The 'Presbyterie, taking this to ther consideratione, thought good 'to referr the said supplicant to the Sessione of Alnes, to doe 'in it as they find most convenient, the business being better 'knowne to them then to the Presbyterie.'<sup>1</sup>

Applications for divorce or freedom from the marriage tie are numerous. The most common ground is unfaithfulness in either spouse, or physical defect in the man. The case of Elspit Nickphaile is on 14th September 1670 referred to the Synod in very curious terms; and in the following January she is, on the recommendation of the Synod, 'remitted to the Comissar of Inverness for a nullity'—a course which was generally followed. In the case of Donald Kemp, whose application for divorce from Janet Urquhart was considered by the Bishop of Ross, and his assessors and the Presbytery of Dingwall in August 1666, the Bishop taking into consideration that Kemp 'had deported himself soberly without 'ony known publick scandal, and finding the said supplicatione to be of verity,' undertook 'either to speak the 'Commissars of Rosse, or els to write to the Commissars of 'Edinburgh, for a divorce from the said Jonet Urquhart.'

In 1655 and 1656 the Dingwall brethren carefully considered at several meetings the complaint of Duncan Mac Murchie vic Cuile, whose wife, Agnes Kemp, had refused to cohabit with him from the day of their marriage; 'professing 'hir unwillingnes from the beginning to marie the said 'Duncan, bot moved and threatned be the superior of the 'land.' Witnesses were examined in support of her allegations, but the decision of the Presbytery is not recorded. In another case of connubial infelicity the couple are 'bitterly rebuked' for 'their intoward cariage toward one another,' and 'ordained to behave better in tyme to come.'

Notwithstanding such unhappy experiences it is clear that marriage was not always a failure in the olden times. Sometimes we find women who had already tried the experiment applying to the Presbytery for leave to repeat it.

In June 1665 Mr. John Mackenzie, minister of Killearnan, and archdeacon of Ross, 'advysed with the Presbyterie [of 'Dingwall] in reference to a woman in his Parish whose 'husband being caried to Barbados after the battell of Woster, 'and married ther for certainty, whether the said woman 'might have the benefitt of marriage with another man.' The brethren were unable to decide the difficult question, and referred him to the bishop. In November of the same year Mr. John Gordon was also referred to the bishop for advice on the similar case of Janet Nienan (Ann's daughter) in Kiltearn, whose husband had been transported to Barbados after Worcester, and married there, as 'certified by severalls that have come from Barbados.' And in July 1678 the Minister of Contin was authorised to give Agnes nin Donald Oig vic Finlay (Agnes daughter of young Donald son of Finlay) the benefit of marriage with Muroch MacAllan, she having proved 'that Alister Mac William vic Ean vic Conel ' [Alexander son of William son of John son of Donald], 'her former husband, who went to France, was dead by 'drowning.' Evidence to that effect was given by John 'Mac Ean vic ryrie (John son of John son of Roderick) 'who deponed upon oath that he saw the said Alexander 'Mac William vic Ean dead;' and one of the brethren 'declared that the same was told him by others that came 'from France.' The old intercourse with France had evidently not yet been greatly interrupted; but one wonders how men whose only language was Gaelic, and some of whom had not even a surname, but only long Gaelic patronymics, managed to make their way among the French.

There were in the seventeenth century no church collections for home or foreign missions, or for the conversion of the Jews; but collections were, nevertheless, by no means unknown. Some of those mentioned in the Records may be referred to. The Presbytery of Dingwall ordered one in 1652 for 'the destressed people off Glasgowe.' It came 'bot slowe speide;' but at last, on 18th February 1653, the brethren paid the contributions of their congregations to commissioners duly authorised to receive the same, 'and received discharges conforme.' A collection was made in the Inverness parishes in 1679 for 'the Glasgow people.' In March 1665, the Moderator of the same Presbytery 'presented a supplicatione 'in behalf of the distrest men of Portpatrick, some whereof 'were captive with the Turks, and others of them totally 'ruined in fortune.' The Turks were no doubt the pirates of Algiers, who frequently seized British seamen and sold them as slaves, and who sometimes ventured even into British waters. In 1665, a collection was made for the relief of 'William Mackay, Merchand in Dumbarton, a sufferer under 'the late usurpatione and rebellione;' and, in 1667, one for Captain William Murray, 'a distressed gentleman'; while in 1684 the congregations within the bounds of the Presbytery of Inverness were appealed to for charity for 'Gilbert Anderson in Keith, newly cutt of the gravell.' In 1679 a collection was made for 'the Montrose merchants'—for what reason is not explained. We also find congregational contributions solicited for such purposes as the repair of the Kirk Street of Dingwall, and the bulwarks of Peterhead, Stonehaven, and Dundee; the improvement of the harbour of Portsoy; the erection of the bridge of Inverness; and the repairing of the 'bruse' or brew-house of Alness. The brethren, considering 'the usefulness of the work,' promptly promised to contribute towards the bruse—an early instance, certain modern politicians might be tempted to say, of the connection between Beer and Bible.

Collections were occasionally made to enable hopeful students to attend the University; and, in addition to this, each Presbytery maintained an 'Irish bursar'—that is, a Gaelic-speaking student—at college, towards whose expenses congregations were expected to regularly contribute. This custom was the result of an Act passed by the General Assembly of 1643, ordaining 'that young students that have the Irish language ' be trained up at colleges in letters, especially in the studies ' of divinity,' and recommending Presbyteries and Universities ' to prefer any hopeful student that have that language to ' bursaries, that they, by their studies, in process of time ' attaining to knowledge, and being enabled for the ministry ' may be sent forth for preaching the Gospel in these High- ' land parts, as occasion shall require.' The bursar, as well as the poor 'Irish' boy, who was sometimes maintained by the Presbytery at school, are continually making their appearance in the Records. Notwithstanding numerous exhortations to the contrary, their money sometimes came slowly and irregularly; and it is painful to read that in February 1664 'the brethren for the most part declynes to pay the burse to ' Mr. John Mackenzie this year, pretending they payed him ' at once for both this yeir and the last.'

The grand parochial educational system, which was the child of the Church of Knox, and which has done so much for Scotland generally, was sadly slow in extending its benefits to the Highlands. Perhaps its success would have been greater and more immediate if the Privy Council, in ordaining that a school be planted in each parish, had not so bluntly given as one of the great objects to be attained, the abolition of the Gaelic language, which, it was declared, 'is one of the chieff ' and principall causes of the continuance of barbaritie and ' incivilitie among the inhabitants of the Isles and Heylandis.' That order was passed in 1616, and was confirmed by Parliament in 1631, and again in 1646; but in some Highland parishes it was not given effect to until long after the troubles of the Forty-five. Our Records show, however, that the clergy of our bounds did make an effort to plant schools within their parishes, and that in some instances they were not entirely unsuccessful.

Early in 1649 a Commission of the General Assembly, sitting at Auldearn, ordered 'dilligence to be used for the plantation of Schooles'; and, later in the same year, a Commission sitting at Chanonry appointed 'that Schooles be erected in 'each parish, and diligence thereanent be reported to the 'next provincial [Synod] of Ross, betwixt this and the next 'visitation at Chanonrie.' There was in that year no school within the bounds of the Presbytery of Dingwall, and probably none within those of Inverness, except in the town itself. In July the minister and elders of Kiltearn promised to join Alness in erecting and maintaining a joint school for these parishes; and next year the latter parish found a schoolmaster in Mr. Donald Monro. In July 1649 the minister of Kilmorack 'presses a school,' and gets his reward in the following February, when Hew Ros is appointed schoolmaster, he having satisfied the Presbytery 'of his good education and conversation' and 'his 'abilitie for instructing of children and fitting them for gramar 'Schooles.' But the honour of establishing the first school within the bounds of the Presbytery of Dingwall belongs to the minister and elders of Urquhart of Ferintosh, who in July 1649 'were going about to seik for a man to be scholmaister and clerk to ye session,' with the result that in October William Reid accepted the charge. A Committee of land-owners and other persons of influence was appointed in September to assist the clergy in 'tacking course for erection and 'plantation of schooles within the Presbyterie, conforme to 'the tenor of the Act of Parliament'; but it was difficult to get them to act, or even to meet, and on 19th February 1650 they reported that they could do nothing 'till they did sie

‘ whether the Parliament would allow their books of revaluation of the Shyres of Ross and Inverness, in which ane modification and allocation was made for schooles in everie paroch of the Shyre, which they conceive will be competent if allowed.’ To get Parliament to grant exceptional privileges to the Highlands was probably not as easy then as it is now ; and we hear no more of the Committee.

Strange to say, the capital of Ross, and the parish in which it is situated, were without a school for years after some of their poorer neighbours had established theirs. In January 1650 the learned Mr. John Macrae ‘regrates that he cannot prevaile in the mater of planting of a schoole in Dingwall.’ The Committee was appealed to, and Macrae was ordained to summon the magistrates and heritors to appear before the Presbytery. Certain of the heritors accordingly appeared on 5th February, and declared the inability of Dingwall to maintain a schoolmaster, unless the neighbouring parish of Fodderty joined. The Committee was again called upon for assistance ; but their work closed with the reference to Parliament on 19th February. Next year Mr. John Macrae was ordained ‘ to have ane schoole ;’ but years passed before he succeeded, and we find no further mention of the matter until July 1663, when his namesake, Mr. John Macrae, was schoolmaster of Dingwall and clerk to the Presbytery. In 1667 Mr. Charles Alexander was the schoolmaster, Macrae having risen to the ministry. Alexander soon followed in his footsteps. But, notwithstanding these changes, the school flourished until it acquired the status of a grammar school. In February 1674 Mr. George Dunbar was ‘ appointed to be readie to have ane oratione, and to give ane exigesis of these words of Boethius, in his booke de Consolatione Philosophiæ—

“ Tu triplicis mediam natura cuncta moventem
Connectens animam, per consona membra resolvis,”

‘ and that as a specimen of his abilities to teach the grammare

‘ school of Dingwall, unto quhich he was latelie presented.’ At the March meeting Dunbar ‘ hade ane oratione in Latine, ‘ with ane exigesis on the poesie formerlie mentioned, in both ‘ quhich,’ it is pleasant to read, ‘ he did acquit himselfe to the ‘ full satisfacione of his hearers.’

So far as the West Coast parishes are concerned, there was not a school within them during the period covered by the Records, and no effort was made by the Presbytery to mend the state of matters.

In 1653 the Cromwellian Governor of Inverness took an interest in educational affairs, and ‘ directed ane letter to the ‘ Presbyterie [of Dingwall] for tryall quhat mortifications has ‘ formalie [formerly ?] bene allotted for maintenance of schooles ‘ in all paroches;’ and it was remitted to two of the brethren of Dingwall ‘ to goe to Inverness to answer the Governor’s ‘ letter, and to be informed in the maner of our procedors in ‘ erecting of Schooles.’ The brethren accordingly waited upon the Governor, and reported to the Presbytery ‘ that schooles ‘ ar ordained to be kept, conforme to the Act of Parliament, ‘ in the severall congregationes;’ and the members are ordered ‘ to intimate the said ordenance in their several congrega- ‘ tiones, to understand, if they consented thairto, or for the ‘ better accomodatione a conjunctiōe of paroches be made ‘ for acting the work.’ The Englishman’s interference was no doubt well meant, but it does not appear to have been followed by any practical result.

Although the early records of the Presbytery of Inverness do not now exist to show what steps were taken to enforce the provisions of the Acts of Parliament of 1631 and 1646, and to give effect to the ordinances of the General Assembly and the Governor of Inverness, it is certain that, educationally, the bounds of Inverness were on the whole in advance of those of Dingwall.

Soon after the Reformation a grammar school was established in Inverness, which was reported in 1672 to be ‘ thriveing.’

Next year it became vacant, and on 5th November Mr. Alexander Ross, son of David Ross of Earlsmill, 'was admitted schoolmaster at Invernes, of the towne of Invernes, and for his tryalls hade the third ode of Horace, and had his oratione de vanitate hum. scientiae, and all other tryalls usuall in the like case, and was fullie approven in every step of his tryalls by the Presbyterie and the magistrates and burgesses of Invernes, and was unanimouslie accepted of the magistrates and town of Invernes to be their schoolmaster of the Grammar School.' Knowledge of Latin was the great test of the schoolmaster's fitness for his work, and so much was the language studied even by the poorer class of pupils, that wonderful stories are still told of the proficiency to which boys attained in it in the past.

There was a school in Kiltarlity in 1671, the master of which, Mr. George Hutchion, gave satisfaction 'in every thing.' He was perhaps excelled by his successor, Mr. John Munro, to whom the minister and elders, in 1677, 'gave a large applaus of his painefullness and diligent attendance on school and sessione'—he being, as was usual for the teachers of the time, session clerk, and probably also precentor—'and also that he was of a Christian, civill, blameless conversation.'

In 1682, Kirkhill had a schoolmaster, Mr. Thomas Fraser, who 'besides his attendance of the schoole, was precentor and clerk, and read the scriptures publicly every Lord's Day in the Irish, betwixt the second and third bell.' For these services he was paid a 'fixed sallary' of a chalder of victual, together with £20 Scots [equal to £1, 13s. 4d. Sterling] out of the session box, 'and also the baptism and marriage money.' At the same time there was 'a flourishing schoole' in Petty, whose master was 'a great help to the minister.' The fame of the Petty school, in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, has come down to our own time. The youth of other parishes flocked to this flourishing institution, and in thoroughness of training it is said to have surpassed even the grammar school of Inverness.

But while these parishes did more or less creditably, the remaining parishes within the Inverness bounds were woefully remiss. Daviot, it is true, had 'a school' in 1672, but the schoolmaster had been 'forced to leave for want of maintenance.' Before 1682, the school itself disappeared, the minister declaring in that year 'that they could not nor had any, 'because there was no incurragement for one, nor no mediat 'centricale place quhere they could fix a schoole to the satisfaction of all concerned.'

In 1672, there was no school in Moy, 'partlie because the 'townes within the pariochin were far distant one from the 'other.' Boleskine was without one 'in regard the townes in 'the parishe were remote the one from the other, and that 'they hade no convenience of boarding children'; and Dores, Croy, and Urquhart, and Glenmoriston were in the same desolate condition. Most of the Inverness parishes, indeed, as well as the West Coast parishes, were without parochial schools for twenty or thirty years after Culloden.

It must not, however, be supposed that the youth of the period were left wholly in darkness. In 1675, the ministers and elders of Dores, while admitting that they had no public school, declared 'that severall gentlemen had schooles in their own houses for educating and traineing up of their children.' In other parishes the same system prevailed—the lairds, wadsetters, and larger tenants combining to employ some struggling student to teach their children during the college recess. Sometimes the children of the more affluent were sent to be taught at Inverness, Fortrose, or Petty. The result was that during the darkest years of the seventeenth century a few were to be found in each parish who could read and write, and express themselves in fair English, and that even the humblest classes took to committing their transactions to writing.

Early in the eighteenth century was founded the Society in Scotland for Propagating Christian Knowledge, which opened schools in the more desolate districts, and for more than a century and a half continued to do incalculable good in the cause of education, within the bounds of our Presbyteries, as throughout the Highlands generally.

In reading these Records one cannot but be impressed with the magnitude of the change that has come over church life since the times of which they speak. Many things meet us which are apt to surprise and even pain us; but with reference to these it is right to remember that the conduct of the men of the past ought not to be judged by our modern standard of right and wrong. What may appear to us heinous, may have seemed venial in the eyes of the good people of the seventeenth century; and, so far as the clergy of the Records are concerned, it is clear that the great majority of them were Christian gentlemen, who strove to be a pattern to their people, and who did what they could to keep alive the light of the Gospel during days that were, spiritually, somewhat dark.

The editor has, in conclusion, to express his indebtedness to the members of the Presbyteries, for the use of the Records; to Mr. Law, for willing aid and unfailing courtesy; and to his assistant, Mr. Mill, for the excellent Index, which is wholly his work.

RECORDS OF THE PRESBYTERY OF INVERNESS.

At Inverness, 23 November 1643.

Convened, all the Brethren.

That day report was made to the Presbitrie that there was in the Paroch of Dunlichitie ane Idolatrous Image called St. Finane, keepit in a private house obscurely; the Brethren, Mr. Lachlan Grant, Mr. Patrick Dunbar, and Alexander Thomson, to try, iff possible, to bring the said Image the next Presbitrie day.

At Inverness, 7 December 1643.

Convened, the whole Brethren.

Alexander Thomson presentit the Idolatrous Image to the Presbitrie, and it was delyverit to the Ministers of Inverness, with ordinance that it should be burnt at their Market Corse the next Tuysday, after sermone.

Wednesday the 4 of May 1670 shuld be the first Presbyteriall meeting after the Synod, and Mr. Roderick Mackenzie appointed to haue the exercise, and Mr. James Sutherland the addition. Text, colloss. 1. 24.

Being Wednesday y<sup>e</sup> first meeting after y<sup>e</sup> Synode, convened y<sup>e</sup> Moderator and remanent breyren of y<sup>e</sup> P<sup>r</sup>bytrie except Mr. Duncane M<sup>c</sup>Culloch, Mr. Thomas Huistone, and Mr. Hugh Fraser, Minister at Croy, and no letter of excuse from any of them. 7<sup>o</sup>. The Breyne are to intimate that if any person supplicat the Bishope for clandestine marriage, The meanest shall pay twenty marks, and those of quality according to y<sup>r</sup> ranks. But because that this act was looked upon as someq<sup>t</sup> obscure, it was reco<sup>m</sup>ended to the fors<sup>d</sup> delegates to the Subsynod to inquire who shuld enjoy the benefit of the fors<sup>d</sup> Act, that is, whither the fors<sup>d</sup> twenty marks, less or more according to the quality of y<sup>e</sup> persons, were to redounde to the Bishope for granting the licence, or to be made furthcoming to the Church where y<sup>e</sup> persons receive the benefit of Marriage, and so to be put into the Church treasurye of the respective parochines, and they are appointed to report ane answer to the Bretheren the next Presbytry day.

[Several cases of discipline, including Christian Chambers in the Parish of Dores, who is contumax and ordained to be processed.]

And withall the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. James Smith, Minister at Dorres, is appointed to give a list of all the obstinat delinquents within his Parish to Alex<sup>r</sup> Chissolme, as Baily of Stratharrick and Comissar depute of Inerness, to see if that rude people and obstinate generation may be brought to a more Christian subjection and orderly conformity.

That day y<sup>e</sup> Moderator presented a letter from the Bishop of Murray in favours of Mr. James Hay, Student in divinity, and residenter in the toune of Inverness, for admitting of the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. James to his tryalls in rela<sup>o</sup>n to expectancy. The quich the Breyren takeing to y<sup>r</sup> considera<sup>o</sup>n, haue appointed Mr. James Sutherland and Mr. Hugh Fraser, Minister at Kiltarlity, to confer with the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. James Hay, and to get some account from him of his reading, and to know he had improved his time since his manumission and graduation in the Colledge: and to report ther answer y<sup>e</sup> next Presbytrye day, quich is appointed to hold at Inverness, May 28, 1670.

The Meeting closed with Prayer.

Y<sup>t</sup> day y<sup>e</sup> Moderator asked y<sup>e</sup> Breyren if they had brought with y<sup>m</sup> a Catalogue of y<sup>e</sup> Papists profest or suspected to be such w<sup>i</sup>n their respective parishes, to quich it was by the Breyren then present that they had (blessed be God) few or none such known within ther congregations, or if any such shuld be found w<sup>i</sup>n either of ther res<sup>o</sup>pive bounds they shuld not failie quam primum to give ane impartiall liste of them. Only Mr. Thomas Huistone is plagued w<sup>t</sup> Papists.

[Mr. James Smith, Dores, on being asked whether he had given the list of delinquents to the Bailie of Stratherrick, 'answered y<sup>t</sup> he was taking pains upon y<sup>m</sup> at home to bring them to obedience, and if that course shuld failie he shuld follow the Presbytrie's direction as the nixt remede.']

[Mr. James Hay had his homily on John 6. 44, and, being removed, was approven. He was ordained to have the addition, and Mr. James Fraser to exercise, next day on Col. 1. 27.]

Y<sup>t</sup> day Mr. James Smith, Minister at Dorres, reported that he had given Christian Chamber there 3 publick admonitions from Pulpit on 3 seuerall Lords days: he is appointed to proceed and to make y<sup>e</sup> first prayer for her y<sup>e</sup> nixt Lords day, and so to go on till y<sup>e</sup> nixt Presbytry day, and to report his diligence to y<sup>t</sup> dyet.

he had not security for his life or goods ; his house being laily seized upon by Lochabber Robbers, himselfe threatned w<sup>t</sup> naked swords and drawne durks at his brest, his money and household stuff plundered, and seing that one of their number suffered death laily therefor at Inerness, y<sup>e</sup> rest of them were lieing in waite for his life, and threatening his ruine and dammage, so that in y<sup>e</sup> evening he is affrayed to [be] burnt to ashes or morning. Nor yet has he that mantinance of them that the laudable lawes of the Land allow him to maintaine himself and his family, and to breed his children at schooles, seeing that some of them are resting him eight yeers, some seven, some six years stipend,<sup>1</sup> and upon qhilk and many moe considerations he does (finding no redress of these unsuperable evils) make his recourse to his Reverend Breyren of y<sup>e</sup> Presbytery y<sup>t</sup> in a fellow sympathy and condolency, qhich shuld be betwixt y<sup>e</sup> members of a gracious body, they wold be pleased to grant him the benefit of that remedy which the laudable Lawes of y<sup>e</sup> Church of Christ haue afforded his servants in such unsupportable straits, by giveing a transportation from y<sup>e</sup> Ministry in that place to anye place qhere the Lord in Mercy may be pleased to call him.

Ye Breyren, considering these sad reasons and condoling his condition, yet told him that they culd not give him ane Act of Transportation w<sup>t</sup>out y<sup>e</sup> Bishop and Synod's order, and therefor the Breyren requested him to haue patiently until the nixt Synod, casting himself upon the Lord for his shelter and refuge against al these dangers and sad discouragements ; and so referred him to the Synode.

At Innerness, June 29, 1670.

[Mr. Jas. Fraser exercised, and Mr. James Hay added on Col. 1. 27. Both being removed, were approven. Mr. James Hay ordained to haue the exercise, and Mr. Hugh Fraser, at Croy, to haue the addition next day on Col. 1. 28. Mr. Smith, Dores, reports that he has given Christian Chamber the first prayer, and is appointed to give her the 2<sup>d</sup> prayer next Lord's day.]

Moreover, the Minister at Dores reported that he was taking great pains on those obstinat delinquents y<sup>t</sup> were w<sup>in</sup> his parish, but culd not prevaile to bring them to obedience; he is appointed therefore to give a liste of them to the Commissar, qho would compel y<sup>m</sup> to obedience.

At Inerness, July 20, 1670.

[All present, except Mr. Duncan M<sup>c</sup>Culloch, 'qho never keeps meeting w<sup>t</sup> his Breyren, and Mr. Thomas Huistone, qho sent no excuse.' Mr. James Hay exercised, and Mr. Fraser, Croy, added on Col. 1. 28. Both approven. Mr. Hay 'appointed to haue his exegesis the next day, de Transubstantione, and to sustain disputes.]

August 10, 1670.

[Mr. James Hay necessarily absent, and his exegesis continued to next day. 'His Theses were distributed.' No account from the Commissar Depute as to the Dores delinquents.]

August 24, 1670.

Y<sup>t</sup> day Mr. James Hay delivered his Comon head de Transubstantione, and sustained his disputes, and, being removed, was approven. He is appoynted to haue his Popular Sermon the next day on Heb. 12. 24.

Sept. 14, 1670.

[Mr. James Hay delivers his popular sermon, approven, and is appointed 'to sustaine his questionnaire tryalls and of the Languages the nixt day.']

Y<sup>t</sup> day Mr. James Hay sustained his questionary tryalls, and was examined by the Breyren both anent his knowledge in Chronologie, Reconciliation of Scriptures, Ecclesiasticall Histories, and Greek and Hebrew Languages; and, being removed, was approven. He is referred by y<sup>e</sup> Breyren to y<sup>e</sup> Bishop for opening of his mouth.

Y<sup>t</sup> day y<sup>e</sup> Bretheren being removed one by one, and diligent search being made of every Brother's diligence in his respective charge, there was nothing found worthy of reprehension. Whereupon y<sup>e</sup> Moderator, in name of the Presbytry, Blissed God in there behalfe, and exhorted them to continue diligent in the work of there Ministry, without spot or blemish, and withall pressed each one of them In y<sup>e</sup> Lord's strength to keep y<sup>e</sup> meeting of y<sup>e</sup> Synode.

Y<sup>e</sup> nixt Presbyteriall meeting as to the dyet and place thereof is to be appointed at Elgine. Y<sup>e</sup> meeting closed with Prayer.

January 4, 1671.

At Invernes, Januar 25, 1671.

At Innernes, March 8, 1671.

At Doores, March 29, 1671.

Conveened y<sup>e</sup> Moderatour and remanent Breyren of y<sup>e</sup> Prēsbrie, except Mr. Hugh Fraser, of Croy, who sent no excuse.

The name of God was called upon. That day Mr. Hugh Fraser, Minister at Kiltarlity, according to the former ordinance, preached, text, Hos. 4. 4. The qch done, the Moderatour desyred y<sup>e</sup> Minister to give in a list of his Elders, qch he did and wer present, to wit, William M<sup>c</sup>Intosh of Borlome, Paul M<sup>c</sup>Bean of Kynkyle, Angus M<sup>c</sup>Bean of Drummin, John Fraser of Erogy, younger, Hector Fraser of Dundelchak, Lachlan M<sup>c</sup>Beane in Darres.

The Moderatour asked y<sup>e</sup> forsaid elders if ye visita<sup>n</sup> were tymously intimated, and they declared that it was two severall

Lord's dayes from Pulpit, and that besides the officer charged the people at y<sup>r</sup> dwelling houses personally to keep y<sup>t</sup> meeting. The Moderatour desyred y<sup>e</sup> Minister, Mr. James Smith, to remove, and y<sup>r</sup>after he posed all the gentlemen and elders present, one by one, how they wer satisfied with y<sup>r</sup> Minister his life and conversa<sup>o</sup>n, how with his doctrine and discipline, if he catechised his people and visited y<sup>e</sup> sick within y<sup>e</sup> parish, with every oy<sup>r</sup> query usually proponed at such visita<sup>o</sup>ns. The said gentlemen and elders answered, one by one, y<sup>t</sup> they wer wel satisfied with him, first as to his doctrine, and that they wer refreshed very much by him Sabbathly both in y<sup>e</sup> english and irish language, and that his life and conversa<sup>o</sup>n was ministeriall; only that he was not so frequent in catechising as they could wish. The Minister was called in, and y<sup>e</sup> elders report of him was declared to him, and he desyred to walk answerable to their large declara<sup>o</sup>n of him, and further was asked by the Moderatour y<sup>e</sup> reason why he was not so frequent in examina<sup>o</sup>n and catechising his people as he ought. To which he answered that of a long tyme bygone he had not any settled residence within the Parish nor mantinance to uphold him in the prosecu<sup>o</sup>n of y<sup>e</sup> work of his Ministry: however y<sup>e</sup> Moderatour desyred y<sup>t</sup> he should not be wanting any longer on this part of his ministeriall function.

The Gentlemen and Elders wer removed, and y<sup>e</sup> Minister being asked anent y<sup>m</sup>, and of what encouragement they gave him in his ministry, answered that :

1. He had no mantenance among y<sup>m</sup>, nor culd he gete so much of his own stipend as would carry him through y<sup>e</sup> parish to manage his Masters affairs, but was keeped as a poor mendicant ever since he came amongst that people; that they had no inclina<sup>o</sup>n to doe him the least duty herein, though he had sought after it in the most peacable manner y<sup>t</sup> could be, as if, chameleon-like, he could live upon y<sup>e</sup> aire.

2. He regrated y<sup>t</sup> some of his Parishoners dishaunted ordinances within y<sup>r</sup> own parish, and went sometymes to hear oy<sup>r</sup>s, and sometymes stayed at home without hearing of any, in contempt of him and his ministry.

3. That all discipline was shaken loose among y<sup>m</sup> in regard y<sup>t</sup> his elders, who should be eyes and hands to him, straitning him in y<sup>e</sup> carrying on of discipline, wer patrons and protectours of obstinat and refractory delinquents, whereby he could not doe y<sup>e</sup> work of y<sup>e</sup> Lord with joy, but with great greif, among y<sup>m</sup>; and y<sup>r</sup> upon gave in to y<sup>e</sup> clerk of y<sup>e</sup> Presbry a roll of such obstinat and hardened delinquents as wer protected by y<sup>r</sup> Masters,<sup>1</sup> and could not be brought to obedience or orderly walking. Whereupon, y<sup>e</sup> gentlemen and elders being called in, The Moderatour held forth these greivances unto y<sup>m</sup>, and first of all told y<sup>m</sup>, y<sup>t</sup> it wer a sad thing if yeir Minister should be made to succumb (as very like he was, for lack of y<sup>t</sup> mantinance qch was allotted by y<sup>e</sup> law of y<sup>e</sup> land to that charge of Doores) under his sad burden, and told y<sup>m</sup> y<sup>t</sup> it was a signe of a gasping devotion among y<sup>m</sup>, when they wer so close-handed to y<sup>r</sup> Minister, whose very cold water should not goe unrewarded; and fury<sup>r</sup> y<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> Pharisees should rise up in Judgment against y<sup>m</sup>, who payed tenth of all they enjoyed.

Whereupon, y<sup>e</sup> elders and gentlemen y<sup>n</sup> present promised to doe him duty herein, and y<sup>t</sup> y<sup>r</sup> should not be reason in any tyme coming for the like complement.

2. The Moderatour haveing asked y<sup>m</sup> why any of y<sup>m</sup> dis-haunted y<sup>e</sup> publicke ordinances within y<sup>r</sup> own Congrega<sup>o</sup>n to the great greif and discouragement of y<sup>r</sup> Minister, answered y<sup>t</sup> they y<sup>m</sup>selves (while y<sup>r</sup> affaires permitted y<sup>m</sup> to be in the coun-trey) did constantly keep, and would so doe in tyme comeing: but y<sup>t</sup> y<sup>r</sup> wer oy<sup>rs</sup> within y<sup>e</sup> paroch on whom they had no influ-ence to draw y<sup>m</sup> to such c<sup>o</sup>formity; q<sup>u</sup>pon y<sup>e</sup> Moderatour in y<sup>r</sup> present audience ordained y<sup>e</sup> Minister to draw up a list of these dishaunters of ordinances, to haue the same in readiness (in case of y<sup>r</sup> nonconformity) to be presented to the next ensueing synod, that some more effectuall course might be taken with these slighers of publick ordinances.

within y<sup>r</sup> respective bounds to give obedience to all sessionall appoyntments, but withall declared y<sup>t</sup> y<sup>e</sup> most of these delinquents wer in y<sup>e</sup> wester parish, where they could not reach unto them, they being oy<sup>r</sup> independent gentlemen's followers and servants, and y<sup>r</sup>fore desyred y<sup>e</sup> Prēsby to fall upon some way for bringing y<sup>r</sup> Masters to y<sup>e</sup> like condescendance. Whereupon the Prēsby, taking this to y<sup>r</sup> serious considera<sup>o</sup>n, haue appoynted Mr. Thomas Huiston and Mr. James Smith to meet in y<sup>e</sup> Wester Parish, and to put y<sup>e</sup> severall heretours and gentlemen there to y<sup>e</sup> like condescendance, and to cause every gentleman and heritour to be answerable for y<sup>r</sup> servants and followers, y<sup>t</sup> they may be brought to give satisfac<sup>o</sup>n to y<sup>e</sup> discipline of y<sup>e</sup> session of Doores; and they to report y<sup>r</sup> diligence herein to y<sup>e</sup> next day.

That day y<sup>e</sup> Moderatour haveing enquired y<sup>e</sup> Minister anent his Session book, Answered y<sup>t</sup> upon the forsaid accounts he had not the samen in readiness at this tyme, but withall promised to have the same in readiness quam primum.

The Officer being removed, and y<sup>e</sup> Minister and Elders being enquired anent him, they all gave him ane honest testimony of him in discharging his office; being called in was exhorted to be diligent and painfull, and so was approven.

This being the last meeting day before y<sup>e</sup> Synod, the whole Breyren wer removed one by one and particular inquiry being made anent y<sup>r</sup> doctrine, lyfe, and conv'sa<sup>o</sup>n, all of y<sup>m</sup> had a good report among y<sup>e</sup> breyren, and were approven, and each of y<sup>m</sup> exhorted to be carefull in y<sup>e</sup> Lords worke; only Mr. Rodericke M<sup>e</sup>Kenzie was ordained to goe in a ministerial habite whan he went to set about any pairt of his [work].<sup>1</sup>

No doctrine in regard y<sup>t</sup> Mr. James Smith, who should hav exercised according to y<sup>e</sup> former ordinance, was absent, who was excused by his letter, in regard y<sup>t</sup> ane horse being stollen

After prayer, the meeting being tymously intimat, y<sup>e</sup> roll off elders and deacones wes given in to read, and most of y<sup>m</sup> all were present. The Session book of Vrqr<sup>t</sup> being formerly delivered to Mr. Hugh Fraser, Minister at Kiltarlitie, to revise y<sup>e</sup> same, was exhibited, being inquired at y<sup>e</sup> formalitie y<sup>r</sup>off, Answered y<sup>t</sup> it was not a register but a minut ray<sup>r</sup>, and y<sup>n</sup> y<sup>t</sup> it was deficient, wanting three yeirs unfilled up. The s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Duncan, being rebooked for yis great oversight, was y<sup>r</sup>fore ordeaned by y<sup>e</sup> Moderator to exhibit a register, and to see q<sup>t</sup> was wanting y<sup>r</sup>in, and y<sup>t</sup> against y<sup>e</sup> nixt presbyteriall meeting.

Mr. Duncan being removed, and y<sup>e</sup> severall gentlemen being asked anent his doctrin, life, and conversa<sup>o</sup>ne, were all weill satisfied with him as to yis, but withall they regrated y<sup>t</sup> he vsed no famely visita<sup>o</sup>n, nor prayed in y<sup>r</sup> fameles q<sup>n</sup> he lodged in any of his parishoners houses; and y<sup>t</sup> he did not catechise nor administer ye sacrament ever since his entrie to y<sup>e</sup> ministrie y<sup>r</sup>; and y<sup>t</sup> he is a reproach to y<sup>e</sup> ministrie and y<sup>e</sup> Parish in going with so beggerly a habit; and, though much off his stipend be areasted in y<sup>e</sup> parishoners hands, y<sup>t</sup> yet he hath no

The gentlemen and elders being desyred to remov, and Mr. Duncan called in, was sharply rebooked for all yes omissions, and was enjoyned to mend yes things in tymes coming, and y<sup>t</sup> sub periculo gravioris censurej.

The Officer being removed, y<sup>e</sup> Minister and elders being asked anent him, Compleaned on his slacknes; hee was yrfor enjoyned to be more diligent, under pane of deposition.

That day y<sup>e</sup> Session was apoynted to reparaire y<sup>e</sup> Church windowes, and to imploy y<sup>r</sup> penalties to y<sup>t</sup> use.

The meeting closed w<sup>t</sup> prayer.

At Kiltarlatie, 6 Sept. 1671.

The Minister being removed, y<sup>e</sup> Moderator asked the elders anent y<sup>r</sup> Ministers doctrin, liff, and conversation and discipline. They all answered one by one, They were weill pleased with him in all yes [these]. The Moderator asked if he did reside w<sup>t</sup>in y<sup>e</sup> Parish; they answered, not: being asked if y<sup>r</sup> Minister did catechise y<sup>e</sup> people, answered, not; and being inquired if he did visit y<sup>e</sup> faimlies, answered, not. The Moderator asked why were yes things oमितed, answered becaus y<sup>r</sup> Minister had no sufficient Manse or biging to dwell in.

The elders and gentlemen being desyred to remove, and y<sup>e</sup> Minister called in, y<sup>e</sup> Moderator asked him why did he omit yes necessarie duties of Catechising y<sup>e</sup> people and visita<sup>o</sup>ne of faimlies and visiting y<sup>e</sup> sick. Answered y<sup>t</sup> he had no Manse and yrfor culd not reseid w<sup>t</sup>in y<sup>e</sup> Parish, q<sup>o</sup>n wes y<sup>e</sup> caus of his omitting y<sup>e</sup> fors<sup>d</sup> dueties: as also y<sup>r</sup> wes no diligence vsed for setting up his Manse; q<sup>r</sup>upon y<sup>e</sup> Moderator and breyren posed y<sup>e</sup> Minister to use all legale diligence against y<sup>e</sup> Heritors for erecting a manse as y<sup>e</sup> Law provydes, and w<sup>t</sup>all seeing y<sup>e</sup> stent for erecting a manse wes condescended upon and subscribed by each particular Heritor, He might y<sup>e</sup> more easily goe to work and put y<sup>m</sup> to it. The Gentlemen and elders being called in, y<sup>e</sup> Moderator asked y<sup>m</sup> anent y<sup>e</sup> Manse why it was not built. They answered they wold use all diligence to collect money and victuall to build it. The Moderator desired a list of the elders, q<sup>ch</sup> was deliv<sup>d</sup>, and were present as follows: wiz<sup>t</sup> Thomas Fraser of Faraline, James Fraser of Meikle Garth, Hugh Fraser of Kinmonive, James Fraser of Ardachie, Alex<sup>r</sup> Fraser of Dalcraige, Jo<sup>n</sup> Fraser of Migovie, W<sup>m</sup> Fraser, Tutor of Foyer, Hugh Fraser his sonn. Deacons, James Mackranold in Knockie, Don<sup>d</sup> M<sup>c</sup>phail in Meikle Garth, Hugh Fraser in Corthly; all present.

The Moderator declared to the Gentie and Elders the reasone of the Bretherens comeing that day to visit that congregacione, viz. to try and know how the work of God was groweing and thriveing amongst them. To this end he enquired at the Min<sup>r</sup>, Mr. Thomas Houistone, if this visitatione was tymouslie intimated to both his congregaciones of Boleskin and Kilcummeing,<sup>1</sup> he declared, and also his elders that it was, as the bretheren might see by the numerous c<sup>v</sup>entione of the people y<sup>r</sup> present.

The Minister was removed, and the severall elders and deacons were posed, one by one, upon these queries following.

[The queries are of the usual nature. The elders are satisfied with the Min<sup>rs</sup> life and doctrine and discipline. He celebrated the sacrament of the Lord's Supper at Boleskine three years ago, but at Kilcuming, 'to there knowledge, never.' 'Beeing enquired if there Min<sup>r</sup> did haunt aile houses or was given to tippleing or drunkness, answered that they knew nothing of y<sup>t</sup> in him, bot lived soberlie and rebucked others of his flock q<sup>o</sup> were given to that vice.' 'Beeing asked if he lived upon his Manss, answered positively.' 'Beeing enquired if he preached as yet upon the 29 of May, answered negativelie.' 'Being enquired if he punished Sabboth breakeing and restrained abuses at Likewaks, answered he did.']

The Minister being called in . . .

1. He was desired to celebrat the sacrament of the Lords supper yearly once, and being enquired q<sup>t</sup> was the reason that he did never celebrat the s<sup>d</sup> sacrament in Kilchuming, Answered that he had not an kirk to celebrat it in, except he should celebrat it in the open fields, y<sup>t</sup> the Kirk was fallen, and though he used the law against the Heritors, yet none of them valued any procedour he used. The Bretheren refers this case to the advise of y<sup>o</sup> Bishope and Synod, what shall such Bretheren do in reference to the celebratione of the Lords supper in such places as want an church to celebrat the same comelie and orderlie in.

The Bretheren exhorted him to preach each yeare upon the 29 of Maij, and to press and invite his parishoners from pulpit to there thankfullnesse and loyaltie upon the s<sup>d</sup> day for his Majesties happie restoratione to his prerogatives, kingdomes, and people.

[In answer to the usual queries, the elders stated that the Minister never catechised until three years ago; that he never celebrated the sacrament of the Lords Supper; that he never preached on 29 May; that he did not preach ‘befor and afternoone in the long day of Summer;’ that they were pleased with his life and doctrine; that he lived ‘soberly and examplary;’ and was zealous, impartial, and accurate in discipline. He also zealously punished sabbath-breaking, and ‘pypeing, violeing, and dancing at Lykwaks.’ He had a ‘thesaurer’ to collect and account for the penalties, but he ‘was not learned, and no account was taken of him this while ago.’

The collections for the poor were distributed ‘twice in each yeare, bot especially at Lambmess.’

‘Beeing enquired if there Min<sup>r</sup> lived in his manse and neere the Kirk, answered not, bot two or three mylls off.’]

The Minister being called in . . .

1. He was advised to examen and catechise all his congregatione at least once each yeare.

2. He is desired to give the Sacrament of the Lords supper to his people once this Summer, as he shall be answerable.

3. He is desired to preach hereafter yearly upon the 29 of Maij, as he shal be answerable, and was rebucked for neglecting this loyal dutie so long.

4. He is advised to preach in the long dayes of Summer in y<sup>e</sup> fore and afternoone to such as are neere the Kirk, within three myles.

5. He was with his Elders ordained to tak an account of the Collector, and to put up there glass windowes, and haue a treasurer that culd read and write and could keep an accurat book and accompt.

6. Being challenged and rebucked that he resided not in his manse, he answered that he culd not, for such reasones that he would comunicat to my Lord Bishope and venrable Synod; however, the Moderator pressed him to dwelle in his manse as he wish<sup>d</sup> to stope the mouthes of such that took occasione to speake of him for his non-residence there.

The Elders being removed, the Min<sup>r</sup> was enquired how he was satisfied with them, Answered that he was well satisfied in reference to discipline with them all. However, that seurall of the gentlemen had some delinquents that have not paid ther penalties to the Collector. The Elders beeing called in, y<sup>e</sup> Moderator shew them there Ministers good report of them all, and entreated them to continue in encourageing and strengthening ther Min<sup>rs</sup> hands, and to tak in these penalties y<sup>t</sup> were unpayed, y<sup>t</sup> their glass windowes may be filled up, and other places necessare of the fabrick of the Kirk repaired.

[The Session book formal, but had no cover—‘only in stormy weather they had few or no Sessiones.’]

The Moderator and Bretheren regrated that they had not an school in the Parish of Dores. The Min<sup>r</sup> and Elders answered that seuerall gentlemen had Schooles in their own houses for educateing and traineing up of their children, and they were upon an feasaible way, if this deare yeare were by, to conveene and stent themselves for an publict school for the comon good of the whole parish.

The Bretheren exhorts y<sup>m</sup> to follow and cherish this good motione, as they wish that the knowledge of God may be upon the groweing hand among y<sup>m</sup>, and y<sup>r</sup> posterities to bless there actiones q<sup>n</sup> they are gone.

Accordingly the Bretheren conferred with him severallie, and y<sup>r</sup>after joyntly, and fand y<sup>t</sup> the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Collin was truly weighted with his bakslyding, and protested in face of Presbrie by the Lo. his assistance to continew a Protestant all the dayes of his lyffe, and to evidence y<sup>e</sup> same be a publict recanta<sup>o</sup>n when and wher the Bishop and Presbrie should enjoyne him. The s<sup>d</sup> day the Bretheren wer appoynted to bring in there Burse Money to the Synod to Mr. Georg Dunbar, Bursar in Divinity, qch they promised to doe in his owne presence without fail.

The Bretheren by his report received also great satisfaction, and desyres y<sup>t</sup> Mr. Collin be present at the Synod in Elgin y<sup>e</sup> tuelff of Oct<sup>r</sup> instant with his declaration, as the same is requyred also by my Lo. Bishop.

Mr. Hugh Fraser, Minister of Kiltarlaty, is goeing on with y<sup>e</sup> process against Collin Schisolme and Christan Lauder his spouse for ther apostacie to Poperie.

[The Minister, Mr. Michael Fraser, approved, except that he had not celebrated the Lords supper since his entry to the Parish.]

The Gentlemen and Elders being enquired if there Minister resided in aither of his paroches, answered, not. The Minister replied that he had not a manse to lodge in. The heritors being asked why there was no manse in aither of the congregations, answered that they had y<sup>r</sup> joynt thoughts for building ane in Daviot a good whyle ago, and that y<sup>r</sup> conclusion is, which they were desired to intimat to the Presbytrie, that they are content to stent themselves for buildeing of a sufficient manse in the sowme of three hundred mks in hand befor the work is began, as also to furnish upon there own expensses men and horses to lead all the timber to Daviot from Strathspey, or Invernes, beside the hewen work y<sup>t</sup> is requisit to be in the house: this condescendence satisfied the minister, q<sup>o</sup> was to build the manse himselff upon the receipt of the money. The Bretheren exhorts both Min<sup>r</sup> and heritors to fulfill there engagements herein, that the minister may dwell and reside among his people. Mr. James Smith, who visited the Sessione book, declared that the same was formall and orderly.

The Min<sup>r</sup>, Mr. Robert Monro, gave a list of his Elders, which were read as followeth:—

Elders of Abertarff.

Elders of Glenmoriston.

The Minister was removed, and the Elders were enquired concerning him as to his life, conversatione, doctrine, and discipline, they answered una voce that they were wele satisfied with him (except the Elders of Glenmoristonne regrated he did not keepe with them everie sabbath per vices), and also the s<sup>d</sup> Elders reported that severalls of My Lord M<sup>e</sup>donalds familie<sup>1</sup> doeth of late come to the ordinances, and that others are expected, and that he doeth all that lieth in his power to suppress poperie.

The Minister was called in and approven for his ministeriall deportment, was exhorted to continu in weldoeing, and to studie the popish controversies whereby he would be enabled to convince gainsayers and reclame the astrayeing ignorant.

The Elders beeing removed, the Min<sup>r</sup> was enquired q<sup>t</sup> he had to say to them, answered, that he was wele satisfied with them; bot that for want of an edifice since the kirk fell, that they had no place to put delinquents in for publict repentance, y<sup>r</sup>fore he entreated the Bretheren to tak an serious course w<sup>t</sup> the heritors for seting up and building a place for Gods worship.

The Elders were called in and commended and approven in all things q<sup>r</sup>in they did favour and encurrage there minister, and they were exhorted to hold hand to discipline.

The Minister regrated that the Bridg was ruinous: the Elders were exhorted to use all diligence for setting up the s<sup>d</sup> Bridge, and that because the water is interjacent betuixt the Kirk and y<sup>e</sup> people that resort the ordinances, which the people do regrate, bot that they are not able of themselves to set up that bridge without the assistance of the whole parioch afarr off as wele as neere at hand. Herefore they entreat the Presbr̄ie to writ to my Lord M<sup>e</sup>donald and his friends, who are inhabitants of y<sup>e</sup> remotest part of the parioch, to giv y<sup>r</sup> help and concurrence. The Bretheren promises to write to his Lordship q<sup>n</sup> he returneth from Edinburgh.

The Moderator asked at the Elders p<sup>nt</sup> why they were not buildeing a kirk, they answered that they sent some gentlemen to the session of Boleskin in ther Easter Parioch to concurr with them joyntly in building the said edifice, seeing they are concerned as wele as they, and have not gott an satisfactorie answer with these commissioners.

The Presbr̄ie thinks fit that they send other two gentlemen to the fors<sup>d</sup> sessione as yet the nixt Lords day, and the minister to bring a report of there diligence to the nixt Presbr̄ie.

The Minister regrated that there was not a ferrie boat upon the water of Oviach<sup>1</sup> for transporteing of himselff and parishioners, to q<sup>ch</sup> the gentlemen present replyed that Malcome Fraser of Culduthell did oblige himselff to uphold a boat there, so that the Parishioners would pay the boatman conforme to former condescendence, which the boatman sought not as yet, y<sup>r</sup>for the Min<sup>r</sup> and Elders are desyred to keep y<sup>r</sup> condescendence to Culduthell that he may keepe conditione with them.

The Min<sup>r</sup> also regrated that there was not a boat to transport him to his charge upon the water of Glenmoristonne. Mr. James Fraser and Master Hugh Fraser promised to speak to the Laird of Glenmoristonne for the s<sup>d</sup> boat, as also anent the most comodious place q<sup>r</sup> the sermon may be heard each Lords day.

The Officer beeing removed, and enquiree beeing made anent him, it was declared both by Min<sup>r</sup> and Elders that he was deficient in his office; being called in he was rebucked by the Moderator and ordayned to waite on his office more diligently inder the paine of depositione.

[10th Oct. 1677. Meeting of Synod at Elgin. On 11th the Presbytery met at Elgin. Mr. James Fraser, Minister of Wardlaw, chosen Moderator by the Bishop.]

At Invernes the 7 Novem. 77.

[Among the refers from last meeting of Synod are:—]

2. 'That bretheren take narrow inspectione anent trafficking priests their preaching or saying mass in famillies or conventicles, and upon certaine informatione to transmit their names to the Bishope.

3. That persons in orderlie married be delated to the civill magistrate that they may be punished conforme to the late Act of Counsell.

5. That each broy<sup>r</sup> thrise every yeir preach against rebellion, chusing texts for that subject, and that the sacrament be celebrat at Ester. That the king in publick prayer be designed in all his titles, and that Archbishops particullarie be designed in publick prayers.'

William M<sup>c</sup>Phersone in Inv<sup>88</sup>, adulterer, reported to haue gone away to Holland to be a souldier.

At Invernes, 5 Decemb. 1677.

Mr Roderick M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie beeing enquired concerneing his absence the day preceding, answered that he could not cross the water of Nairne, y<sup>r</sup> beeing a great deluge that day and the day befor. That beeing a known truth, he was excused.

That day compeired Patrick Gordon, Burges of Invernes, before the Presbr<sup>ie</sup> y<sup>r</sup>off, presenting ane supplica<sup>n</sup> subscribed be him and Marjorie Leith, his spouse, bearing y<sup>t</sup> Mr. Alex<sup>r</sup> Clerk, ane of the Ministers of Innernes, did greivously reflect uppon him, his wyffe and family, and y<sup>t</sup> publictly in a sermon preached be him on the Lords day in the High Church of Innernes, Octo<sup>r</sup> 14, 1677, being the sabboth day immediately

Within thir few dayes I saw a lying letter wrytten be a subtyll young man, and subscrybed by a simple old man, and red in my owne audience, q<sup>in</sup> w<sup>t</sup> teares and sorrow he declares his wyffe to be both religious, holy, pious, just, and chast. As for her piety and sobriety God knowes it, and for her chastity all of you heares it. But its observable y<sup>t</sup> notorious persons are alwayes defended by persons alyk guilty as themselfs, for wee find y<sup>t</sup> q<sup>n</sup> Absolom murdered his broy<sup>r</sup> Am<sup>o</sup>n, Joab, a murderer lyk himself, sent y<sup>e</sup> widow of Tekoa with a number of subtyll, devilish, lying tales to mak his peace with his father; even so shee was defended by persons alyke guilty with herself. And uppon a tyme a Stranger asking for stabling att her house, a wyse man passing by answered y<sup>r</sup> is no stabling ther for horses, bot for men y<sup>r</sup> is stabling. But, iff hee had said right, y<sup>r</sup> is stabling for divells; and applyed thus: I desyre you all to refraine from that howse q<sup>ch</sup> is a plauge and a pest amongst us, for, Jezebell lyk, shee attyres herself as iff shee wer not guilty, but for use of terror to y<sup>t</sup>one y<sup>b</sup> hath sufferings y<sup>t</sup> it is ane earles of everlasting suffering and vengeance; and I heard of a man made honest by Act of Parliament, but her shame and reproach shall never be wipped off. They talk shee is come off in coach, but black is y<sup>e</sup> coach off it; and att the close off his discourse hee desyred all y<sup>e</sup> people to chewe y<sup>re</sup> cuide on what they heard. In his first prayer hee said, O Lord, however wicked and divellish persons may in this world have many to plead y<sup>re</sup> unjust causes, yet the day will come q<sup>n</sup> none will be found to excuse them; and in his prayer after sermon thus: God bless our Magistratts and q<sup>t</sup>ever way they be weakened be the hands of men, give thou them grace, O Lord, and strength y<sup>t</sup> that they may crush iniquity.

Your wysedomes may easily Judge the supplicants condition to be now worse than at first, beeing so publictly rendered odious in y<sup>e</sup> eyes and esteime of such as had charity for us, both in towne and cuntry, and y<sup>t</sup> at such high rate y<sup>t</sup> severalls qho formerly profesd slender kyndnes for us began att last to wonder and pity us in this peice off our usage. Yo<sup>r</sup> Reverend wysedomes may firmly believe the Supplicants to hawe no less than sadd and grieved hearts y<sup>t</sup> they should be necessitat (and to speak from our hearts ingenuity, it is no les) to mak this sadd address, especiallie y<sup>t</sup> cause and ground should be given them be ther Pastor qhom they never provoked y<sup>r</sup>to, but rather honoured and loved him as ther father and faithfull ffriend, and accordingly not only intimacie and familiaritie betwext them, but a most intire and unfainzied correspondence never violat by the Supplicants, nor cause given the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Alex<sup>r</sup> Clerk, y<sup>r</sup> Pastor, to make the least breach y<sup>r</sup>off. Howbeit hee hes taken offence, the ground q<sup>r</sup>off hee never so much as once enqyred off the Supplicants, nether footed there floore or spoke to either of them (save once in his owne house nott called be him) thir bypast fyfteen moneths.

May it y<sup>r</sup>fore please your wysedomes to consider of the above wrytten discourse, and y<sup>e</sup> scope and nature of it, and what wrong, shame, and loss y<sup>e</sup> Supplicants hawe sustained with y<sup>e</sup> former tedious proces. But worst of all this last unexpected peice of oppen and publict reproach, q<sup>ch</sup> work from the beginning hath so borne downe the Supplicants y<sup>t</sup> it hath crossed them in ther persons, wasted a considerable part of ther little interest, ecalypsed ther credit, destroyed ther lawfull calling uppon q<sup>ch</sup> y<sup>re</sup> lyvelihood depended; in a word, hath made a clear path to usher in to the supplicants and family both penury and want, iff not in danger to be utterly ruined if not speidily repaired to ther credit, q<sup>ch</sup> they begg may be looked to and regarded by your Reverend wysedomes, to q<sup>m</sup> they most humblie make address for y<sup>t</sup> effect. Almighty God, grant your Reverend wysedomes a dowble portion off his spirit y<sup>t</sup> yee may be found faithfull labourers in his vyneyard, and att last reap y<sup>e</sup> comfortable fruitts y<sup>r</sup>off to your endless comfort and joy, q<sup>ch</sup> is the strong and ardent desyres off y<sup>e</sup> supplicants, q<sup>ho</sup> shall ever pray.

PATRICKE GORDONNE.

MARJORIE LEITH.

[The above supplication taken into consideration by the Presbytry, who allowed the Supplicants to produce evidence of the statements made by Mr. Clerk, who 'hath not been weill advysed, presumeing to reflect uppon the leidges without any ground, but much more against the late act of the Bishope and Synod of Murray, q<sup>r</sup>in the s<sup>d</sup> Marjorie Leith was cleared off all q<sup>r</sup>off shee was formerly aspersed, and y<sup>t</sup> without the contradiction off any one Minister in the Synod, the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Alex<sup>r</sup> Clerk beeing then present there, and by his taciturnity seemed to consent.' After various steps, and consultation with the Bishop, the following witnesses amongst others were on 1st May 78 examined, viz.: Alex. Dunbar, Provost; Finlay Fraser, Bailie; Robert Barber, Bailie; Alex<sup>r</sup> Ross, Dean of Guild; W<sup>m</sup> Baillie, Commissar Deput; W<sup>m</sup> Cumming, Sheriff Clerk. The Presbytery found the 'lybell sufficiently proven.' On 15th May the evidence was reported to a meeting of the Bishop and Subsynod at Inverness, when the Presbytery's proceedings were approved of. The subsequent proceedings are given in the Synod Register.]

At Inverness, August 3d, 1687.

[Mr. Angus Macbean absent without any excuse.]

The said day John Grant in Glenmoriston, a papist excommunicat 20 yeares ago for ane incestuous mariage, he being irregularly married be a popish priest to his uncle's wife, and now she being dead, and the said John haveing forsaken the errores of the popish Church and returned and imbraced the Orthodox Religion, did humbly supplicat to be receaved to the publick profession of his Repentance for his guilt and scandall, to the end he might be relaxed from the dreadfull sentence of excommunication and receaved again into his mother Church; which supplication the Moderator and Bretheren having taken to their serious consideration appointed two of the Bretheren to go and speak privatly to the said John and to search further [sic] or not he was weightied with his guilt and sincerely resolved to forsake his former errores. Thereafter the two Bretheren returning, declared that they had confereed with him and found him in all appearance both weightied with his guilt and fully resolved all the dayes of his life hereafter to continue in the protestant Religion.

Therfor the Moderator and Bretheren thought fitt to call the said John befor them, who compeired in sacco and acknowledged his guilt, and after many grave, weightie, and serious exhortationes, he was remitted back to satisfie the disciplin of the Session of the United Parochins of Urquhart and Glenmoriston.

The said day the Moderator and Bretheren haveing taken to their serious Consideration the absence of Mr. Angus Macbean, one of the Ministers of Inverness, three severall dayes without any excuse, and being lykewayes informed that the said Mr. Angus did disown the Government of the Church of Scotland as it is now established by Law, by Archbishops, Bishops, and Presbiters. Therfor they did appoint the Moderator [Mr. Marshall, Inverness] and Mr. Michael Fraser, Minister at Daviot, to go and speake with the said Mr. Angus, and to enquire what was the Reasones of his absenting himselfe, and his disowning the Government as they were informed, and to give a Report of their diligence to the next meeting.

At Inverness, September 7th, 1687.

[Mr. Robert Cuming, Minister of Urquhart] reported by his said letter that John Grant who was excommunicated for his incestuous marriage, was humbly and orderly going on in the publick profession of his repentance.

The said day the Moderator and Mr. Michael Fraser being inquired what answer they hade received from Mr. Angus Mackbean anent his willfull deserting the meeting of his Bretheren, and his avowed disowning of the Government; the said Mr. Michael Fraser Reported that Mr. Angus Mackbean declared plainly that he hade no freedom to keep Synods or presbitries any mor, and that it was over the belly of conviction that he entered into the Ministrie under Bishops, and that his convictions were returning with greater force upon his conscience, he could not overcome them, and that he was convinced that Presbitrie was the only Government that God owned in these nations: and that when he inquired the said Mr. Angus what he thought anent all the Murderes, Rebelliones, and assassina<sup>o</sup>nes of the west countrey people, he answered that it was enough for the Moderat partie of these people to hold their tongue anent thes things; and that his full resolution was, which he could not win over, to make all the satisfaction he could to the Presbyterian partie, to preach for them and in their favoures for his too much appearing against them: and that he could not promise, tho he should be dispensed with by Bishop and Presbitrie, from keeping their meetings iff preaching in this Town not to give ground of misconstruction to these that owned our Government established by Law. All which Report the Moderator attested.

Lykewayes the Moderator declared that Mr. Angus Mackbean, both in his publick Lectores and sermones, did so reflect upon the Government of our Church, and was like to make such a schism at Inverness as could not be endured by any affected to the present Government, and therefor that he hade called some of his nearest Bretheren, to witt, Mr. James Fraser, Min<sup>r</sup> at Wardlaw, Mr. Michael Fraser, Min<sup>r</sup> at Daviot, and Mr. Thomas Fraser, Min<sup>r</sup> at Doores, and that by their speciall advice and consent hade caused sumond the said Mr. Angus to compear at this meeting to answer for his reproachfull doctrin, and, conform to the Synodical Referr, to give a further accompt of his absence, with which declaration and proceedor all the Bretheren mett this day were very well pleased, and did approve the same in every point.

The said Mr. Angus not apearin, the Magistrates and other persons who were charged as witnesses of his doctrin interposed themselves with the Moderator and remanent Bretheren, that all process should be delayed till the nixt Meeting, and that they should use their endeavour to persuad the said Mr. Angus to be mor orderly and to meet with his bretheren and satisfie them, which if he would not do they resolved to leav him to himselfe if he would not follow their advice. The Bretheren of the presbitrie thought it fit by reason of the present circumstances to empower y<sup>e</sup> Moderator to call a select Number of his nearest bretheren whenever necessity required, in order to the expeding of all that may contribut for the peace and unity and standing of the present Government within this precinct.

The meeting clos'd with prayer.

Conveened the Moderator and Remanent Bretheren except Mr. Angus M<sup>e</sup>bean.

Mr. Robert [Cuming] reported that John Grant in Glenmoriston, excommunicated for his incestuous mariag, is humbly and orderly going on in the publick proffession of his Repentance, and that the said John was earnestly suplicating to be relaxed from the sentence of excomunica<sup>n</sup>. The Moderator and bretheren takeing his circumstances to their serious consideration, he being a gentleman of good accompt in his own Countrey, and liveing near by Glengarie, the Inhabitants of q<sup>ch</sup> countrey are for the most part all papists, and are using many endeavours to make the said John relaps into his former apostacie, and not being willing in the least to discourrage him, Therfor they referred him to my Lord Bishop of Murray and the ensuing Synod.

The said day Mr. Angus Macbean having yet willfully absented himselfe, and neither the Magistrates nor his other freends haveing in the least prevailed with him, and the mater being of such weight and of so dangerous consequence, the Moderator and Bretheren have referred it to My Lord Bishop and Synod of Murray.

The said day the Moderator enquired if all the Bretheren had orderly read at the tymes appointed the Act against Leasing makers. They all answered affirmatively.

Lykewayes he put all the Bretheren in mynd to observe solemnly the 14 day of this instant October, being the Kings Birthday.

At Elgin, October 19, 1687.

The said day conveyed the Moderator and remnant bretheren then present at the Sinod, and appointed their next meeting to hold at Inverness the 7 of December next. The reason y<sup>t</sup> they delayed to meet till y<sup>t</sup> day was that both the Bretheren of the Sinod and of this exercise resolve to use all brotherly, prudent, and tender methods for reclaiming Mr. Angus Mackbane, one of the Ministers of Inverness, to his duty. And the Sinod lykewayes hath appointed four Reverend Bretheren to go to Inverness in their name to conferr with him in the intervall, and to carry with them a serious and brotherly letter directed from the Sinod to him. And in case these brethren should not prevaile with him, conform to our Right Rev<sup>d</sup> Ordinar his speciall advice and direction, severall Ministers from each Exercise of the Sinod are to go to Inverness at the fors<sup>d</sup> dyet to be assistants to the Moderator and Brethren in that affair.

The Brethren appointed Mr. Hugh ffraser, Minister at Kiltarlitie, to haue a sermon y<sup>t</sup> day to that purpose, it being a matter of so great weight.

At Inverness, Decr. 7, 1687.

The said day conveyed the Moderator and brethren of the Exercise, but none of the Brethren appointed by the Sinod, nor any lyne from them. Having incalled the Holy Name of God, there was no sermon this day in respect that the Moderator declar'd y<sup>t</sup> Mr. Angus Mackbane, lately one of the Ministers of Inverness, had the next and imediat Lord's Day after the Sinod last by past, being the 23<sup>d</sup> of October last, solemnly in his sermon in the forenoone, in the Church of Inverness, disowned the Church Government established be Law, and publickly demitted his charge of the Ministry under the present Government, and willfully deserted his flock, And at that same tyme did publickly exhort and entreat all men whatsoever to abstaine from speaking to him any more in that affair. The Report of which all the Brethren judged to be the reason of the absence of the Brethren appointed for their assistance, and the sermon being prepared for the intention of the meeting, the Brethren thought fitt to referr it to ane other occasion, since Mr. Mackbane had willfully deserted his charge, and the Brethren appointed did not come.

The said day the Brethren being informed that Mr. Mackbane, the verie next Lord's day after his willfull desertion of his charge, had gone to Ross, and there, in a meeting house, had preachd to the Schismaticks; and the Lords Day after that did return to Inverness, and preach y<sup>r</sup> at a conventicle, and so began his schisme in one of the most loyall, orderly, and regular cities in the Nation—Therefore the Brethren desyr'd the Moderator to write to our Ordinary the Bishop of Murray, now lying tender at Glasgow, and to acquaint his Lo/ with the whole affair, and to intreat his advice and direction how to carry herein.

The said day Mr. Robert Cuming, Min<sup>r</sup> at Urchart, Reported that John Grant in Glenmoriston, conforme to the Ordinance of the Sinod of Murray, was solemnly and publickly relax'd from the weighty sentence of excommunication; and therefore the Moderator appointed that all the Brethren should make publick intimation thereof in their severall congregationes, and likewise referred the same to the Sinod that the same might be publickly intimat by all the Brethren.

The said day Mr. Donald Forbes, Schoolmaster at Kiltarlitie and probationer in Divinitie, was appointed to haue a comon head, the next meeting day, De Schismate, seeing Mr. Thomas Huistown, who had been formerlie appointed to haue the exercise, was old, infirm, and weak, and not able to travell in the Winter season. The next meeting appointed to be at Inverness January 14, and Mr. James Fraser, Min<sup>r</sup> at Kirkhill, is appointed to supplie the vacancie at Inverness first, and the Brethren to succeed.

At Inverness, February 1, 1688.

Convein'd the Moderator and Brethren, except Mr. Michael Fraser who was chosen and elect by the Chapter to go to Edinburgh, in obedience to the commands of my Lord Arch Bishop of St. Andrews His Grace. Having incalled the name of God, the said day Mr. Donald Forbes had a comon head De Schismate, Text Rom. 16 ch. 17 v. Being removed and his labours considered, he was approven.

The said day the Moderator reported that conforme to the ordinance of presbitrie September 7, 1687, he had advised with severalls of his nearest brethren; and that he, with their advice and consent, had impowered Mr. Michael Fraser, Min<sup>r</sup> at Daviot, to intreat my Lord St. Andrews His Grace (our Diocess being now vacant) to use all ordinar means for suppressing the schisme begun at Inverness, which all the Brethren approved, and desired the Moderator to write south again to the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Michael to the same effect.

The said day the Moderator enquired all the Brethren if they had read the proclamation against Leasing-making conform to the order of Councill: they all answered affirmatively.

At Inverness, March 7, 1688.

The said day the Moderator enquired if all the Brethren had solemnised the day of Thanksgiving for her Majesties being with child, conforme to the Act of Counsel published theranent. They all answered affirmatively. The said day the Moderator reported that conforme to the ordinance of the Brethren, he had again written to Mr. Michael Fraser, and Likewayes received ane return from him showing him to be actively going about the affair entrusted to him, and that 'gainst next meeting they might expect a more full return.

At Inverness, March 27, 1688.

The said day the Moderator reported that the reason of changing the day of this meeting was ane letter he had received from Our Ordinary William, Lord Bishop of Murray, who was consecrat at St. Andrews March 11, and had appointed ane Sinod to hold at Elgin the first Tuesday of Aprill next.

The said day the Moderator reported that he had received a letter from Mr. Michael Fraser, yet at South, wherein was inclosed The Act of Deposition of Mr. Angus M<sup>c</sup>bane, lately one of the Ministers of Inverness; and likeways ane letter for Our Ordinary, my Lord Bishop of Murray, ordaining the same to be intimat in the Church of Inverness on ane Lords Day in the forenoon, after divine service: which ordinance was obeyed and performed by Mr. Hugh Fraser, Min<sup>r</sup> at Killtarlitie, March 11. And it was thought fitt by the Moderator and Bretheren that the said Act should be here insert and registrat, As after followes:

' At Edinr., February 27, 1688.

' The whilk Day, in pñt of The Most Rev<sup>d</sup> Father in God, Arthur, Lord Arch Bishop of St. Andrews, primat and Metropolitan of all Scotland, and of the Right Reverend Father in God, William, Elect Lord Bishop of Murray, Doctor Alex<sup>r</sup> Monro, Prin<sup>l</sup> of the Colledge of Edin<sup>r</sup>, Doctor John Strachan, Professor of Divinity there, D<sup>r</sup> John Robinson, Moderator of the Exercise at Edin<sup>r</sup>, D<sup>r</sup> William Gairnes, one of the Ministers of that Citie, Mr. Andrew Burnet, Min<sup>r</sup> y<sup>r</sup>, Mr. Michael Fraser, Min<sup>r</sup> at Daviot, and Mr. John Mackenzie, Min<sup>r</sup> at Kirkliston, Compeired personally Mr. Angus M<sup>c</sup>beane sometye one of the Min<sup>rs</sup> at Inverness (as being cited to the s<sup>d</sup> day) And being interrogated by the s<sup>d</sup> Lord Arch-Bishop, Praeses of the meeting, How long he had been in Holy Orders, Answered four years or y<sup>r</sup>by, and that he received Episcopall Ordination: being also inquired whether he had deserted the station and Ministry of the Church q<sup>ch</sup> had been assigned him, and whether he had affected a Schisme and separation from the said Nationall Church, and whether he was under the Oath of Canonically Obedience, Answered He could not gainsay it, and that he had interrupted his Obedience since October last bypast. And being further posed, Whether he designed and was willing to returne to his duty again (the Armes of the Church being still open and ready to receive him upon his Repentance) He declared he had no mind to doe so. Whereupon, the matter being taken to serious consideration by the s<sup>d</sup> meeting, without any dissent, the said Mr. Angus M<sup>c</sup>bean, for his Perjurie, Schisme, and Contumacie, was Judicially by the s<sup>d</sup> Lord Arch Bishop (in the vertue of his Metropolitanall capacitie) deposed from the Exercise of any part of the pastorall office, and depryved of all benefices that might accrue to him q<sup>r</sup>by, since the tyme of his willfull desertion, wherunto he acquiesced, with certification that if he should transgress y<sup>r</sup>in, the sentence of Excommunication should pass against him; and further, it was appointed that this present sentence of Deposition and Deprivation should be publickly intimat from the pulpit of Inverness, on ane Lords Day after divine service, in the forenoon, by Mr. Hugh Fraser, Min<sup>r</sup> at Killtarlity, for vindicating the Churches authority, and Terrourof such Backslyders.

<sup>1</sup> This is the last minute of the Presbytery under Episcopacy. A considerable number of leaves at the end of the volume have been cut out. They were probably not written upon. The next volume commences in 1702. The majority of the brethren of the Presbytery adhered to Episcopacy at the Revolution, but still retained their charges; and the probability is that for many years the Presbyterian clergy of the Presbytery did not hold regular meetings or keep any record of their proceedings.

Mr. Robt. Monro absent through infirmitie and weaknes, being vnable to travell.

Mr. George Monro and Mr. Dod Ma<sup>c</sup>cra absent without excuse.

Elders pnt.

The name of God being incalled by the Moderator, Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>cra was chosen clerke.

Mr. Dod Ros, Minister of the Paroch (having lectured on Math. 23. 38, et seq. and preached on Heb. 11. 24) removed, and the forenamed elders sworne, tryed, and examined c'cerning his carriage. The Brethren finds (upon inquirie made be the Mod<sup>r</sup>) by their declara<sup>n</sup> that lawfull intima<sup>n</sup> was made of the visita<sup>n</sup>. That the subject of his lecture and sermon was his ordinarie. That his usuall doctrine was edificative. That he lectures and preaches vsually once on the Lords day, and urged a c'scionable keeping of it. That they knew no fault in his personall cariage. That he visited the sicke when he wes required.

Moreover, it is found be the saids Elders declara<sup>on</sup>, That he preaches not in the efternoone of the Lords day. That he keepes not a day in the weeke for catechising or any publick exercise (for both which the peoples long distance from the Kirk wes alleadged as the caus), That he catechised none this twell month, That he vsed no particular visita<sup>n</sup> of his Paroch, That he tooke a relapser in fornicat<sup>n</sup> to be his nurse before she satisfied the Kirke. That they knew nothing c'cerning his vsing family worship except y<sup>t</sup> Rorie Mackenzie and Hector M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie declared y<sup>t</sup> themselves being one night in his house he hade no evening prayer.

Such as were pnt of the people and c'grega<sup>o</sup>n (being few) called, sworne, enquired, and examined, declaired grälly that they were well pleased with his cariage, and y<sup>t</sup> they knew nothing qrin it was requisite he sould be admonished.

The Elderes being removed, and the minister called and examined c'cerning their cariage, declaires, That they were faithfull in keeping session, delating delinquents, and assisting to censure them. That as they had declaired to him, they vsed family exercise and publick prayers: concerning which themselves being examined, acknowledges y<sup>t</sup> they used no publick prayers, and denied y<sup>t</sup> they declaired the lyke to him.

The Minister and elders being called and examined joyntly, its found y<sup>t</sup> the kirk hath no provision bot the modifica<sup>o</sup>n of the Platt 1618, bot z<sup>t</sup> there are sumonds of augmenta<sup>o</sup>m raised and executed against pairties having interest at the Ministers instance (as he declaires himselfe). In prosecuting q<sup>o</sup>ff he is appoynted to vse diligence.

That he have neither gleib nor manse, for remedieing of which he is ordained in lyke manner to use diligence.

That the sacrament of the Lords supper hath not bene administrat thir seven zeirs, the cause q<sup>o</sup>ff the minister alleadged to haue bene the troubles of the countrie, his c'tinewing for a long tyme under suspension, and the people their accession to the rebellion.

That the act of the gräll assembly against buriing in kirks is not observed, for remeid y<sup>o</sup>ff the minister is ordained peremptorily to processe the c'traveeners, and the elders exhorted to c'tribut and be assisting to the hindering it in tyme coming.

Murdo Ma<sup>e</sup>Ewir, one of the Elders, presumptuously avowing his resolu<sup>o</sup>n to bury in the Kirk, deposed from the office of eldership, and sumoned apud acta to compeir before the Pbrie at Dingwall the 24 day of Sep<sup>r</sup> instant, to receive farther censure.

[The Minister being found to be Clerk of Session, he is ordained to have another as clerk.—No collection for the Poore ordained to have collection.—The Treasurer and Kirk Officer faithfull.]

Its recomended to the Minister and Elderes y<sup>t</sup> they be cairfull no strangers be received to the Paroch without testimonials.

Sess. 3, die mercurij a meridie.

Marg<sup>t</sup> Dow sumoned for sorcerie by burieing a lamb vnder the threshold, called, compeirand, acknowledged the fact alleadged, affirming she did it only in simplicitie be the information of a poore woman that came to her house as a preventative against the death of the rest of her bestiall.

Marie neine vic neill sumoned for having a pocke of hearbs in her milk, called, compeirand, acknowledged she used it, bot in simplicity as a preventative against the tacking away the substance of her milknes, being informed of it be a woman that came from Lewise, as she alleadged.

All the forenamed persones compeiring and c<sup>f</sup>essing those practises being sharply rebuked be the Mod<sup>r</sup> for these devilish and unwarrantable practices, both they and such as did not compeire were remitted to the Session to be put to publick repentance vntill they acknowledge their error and disclaime all such lyke practices.

Christine buy sumoned for 4 lapse in fornica<sup>n</sup>, and for slandering the minister by alleadging he was father to one of her bastard children, called, not compairand, ordeined to be processed with excomunica<sup>n</sup>, and any that sall entertaine her or any other fugitive to be delated to the Pbr<sup>i</sup>e to be censured.

[Several persons found guilty of profanation of the Sabbath by fishing on that day, and remitted to the Session to be put to repentance.]

It being found z<sup>t</sup> there is little or no ordour or course taken with delinquents and transgressors within Cogaich, its earnestly recomended to the session y<sup>t</sup> this be remedied in tyme coming.

It being found y<sup>t</sup> all the malignants are not as zet received to repentance, for their accession to the rebellion, the Ministers ordained to use diligence in putting and receiving them to repentance, and when they are received to renew the league and covenant, and to send a list of them all to the Pbr̄ie with a specifica<sup>o</sup>n of the severall degrees of their guilt, and manner and tyme of their satisfaction.

Its found lykwyse z<sup>t</sup> there are escaps and informalities of diverse sorts in his session booke, formerly observed and remarked as errata be the comission of the gräll assembly for visiting the Kirk of Ros, and not as zet helped by him according to the remedies prescribed be the said Comission. His escaps in this and all others his escaps found be the visitors, are referred by them (being bot few) to the c<sup>s</sup>ideration of the Pbr̄ie, and for that effect they ordeine Mr. Dod. to send the Kirk officer (Don<sup>d</sup> Urquhart) to the Pbr̄ie the 24 of Sep<sup>r</sup>. instant y<sup>t</sup> he may report to him from the Pbr̄ie q<sup>t</sup> they sall determine theranent.

Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> Monro ordeined to preach in the Kirk of Fottertie, and to require the Parochinars to thinke upon and follow some speedie course for planta<sup>o</sup>n of the said Kirk with a minister.

Therefore supplicating the Pbr̄ie to c'tinew the processing of him vntill his brother's coming, and in caice he would not bring his reference, y<sup>t</sup> they would be pleased to c'tinew him to the Provinciall or the nixt quarterly meiting of the Comission of the gr̄all assembly in No<sup>r</sup>. Quhich the brethren tacking to their c'sidera<sup>on</sup>, they c'tinew his processe till the Provinciall, appoynting him in the meantyme, if his brother come ere y<sup>t</sup> tyme and bring a reference of him, y<sup>t</sup> he present the same to the Pbr̄ie.

The Referrs of the Visita<sup>on</sup> of Lochbroome.

Murdo M<sup>c</sup>ewir called, not compeirand, ordeines to be sumoned pro 2<sup>do</sup>.

The Kirk Officer of Lochbroome, not come to the Pbr̄ie as and for the effect the visitors appoynted.

The whole procedors of the visita<sup>on</sup> of Lochbroome being read in pleno Pbr̄io, and Mr. Dod. Ros his escaps being c'sidered, the Brethren c'sidering he was absent himselfe and y<sup>t</sup> the Kirk officer came not (according to the visitor's ordinance) for acquainting him with the Pbr̄ies determination, and c'ceiving the caus and reasone of his not coming to be the storme and great inundation of waters; they c'tinue the determining anything c'cerning these escaps and him vntill the nixt day.

Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> Munro excused for his absence, being necessarilie withdrawn to Straneyver, as his letter did propoerte.

Hew fraser of Belladrum and Thomas fraser of Eskadle, Comissioners from the paroch of Kilmorack, compeired and did give certaine reasones against the said transportation of there minister, with a protestation that they suld haue pover to adde to them heirafter, which the brethren taking to there consideration, with othere reasones given for the said transportation, and considering the paucitie of the number p<sup>n</sup>t. they continued the determining anything in the matter wntill the next day, at which tyme it is granted to the parochiners of Kilmorak to adde to there reasons according to there protestation.

The reasones of the parochiners of Kilmorak against the transportatione are these :

1. We knov no priviledge the paroch of Fodertie hes above the paroch of Kilmorak to wrge ovr Minister with ane transportation.

2. To interrupte what is alreadie begune of the lords worke amongst ws is fearfull, pastor and people going about there deveres joyallie in ane street (?) harmonie to prosecute the same.

3. The experience we haue of his abilitie for the charge, and the not knowing of few or any so fitting for it that we can come be, doth fullie persuade us that the transporting of [him] were the onlie meane to advance and enlarge the Kingdome of Satan both in the height of this Paroch and the most remote places of the next adjacent paroch, which we are confident no honest man fearing God will enterpryse or seike after, neither countenance such as intends the same, bot rather (by interpoing there authoritie) obviate the same and prove assisting to ws, that therby the Kingdome of Christ may daylie more and more advanced and enlarged amongst us.

4. Considering the wastnes of the paroch, and withall it being populous, ovr ministers acquaintance both with the bounds and people, the conformitie which now (by the grace of God and his labours) that ovr people is brought to, and the prosperitie of the worke of God amongst ws, It is evident that he may doe more guid where he is then to be transported to Fodertie, It being alwayes easier to find ministers to lesser then greater charges, no reasonable man can deny bot that it is more expedient and necessarie for Gods glorie and his churches weill that largest and most populous parochines suld be plenished with the ablest and most fitting men.

Continews the former ordinance annent the Kirk of Containe in regaird of the heritors absence, being employed annent the pñt levie, and the kirk officiere of Containe is ordained to sumond the heritours of Containe to compeire before the pñie when they shall come home, to nominate one of the last list given in for the Kirk of Contain.

Continues the former ordinance anent the Kirk of Containe, for the former reasones.

The said day it was declared y<sup>t</sup> Rorie M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Corie was in Keipach, y<sup>r</sup>fore ordaines him to be sumoned to the next day if he comes home.

No exercise in regaird y<sup>t</sup> Mr. Dod M<sup>c</sup>Kra, who suld exercise, was not in health, and declared y<sup>t</sup> he was not able to delyver the exercise altho prepared for it; y<sup>f</sup>ore continues the exercise as befor, and ordaines Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra to exercise the next day, if Mr. Dod M<sup>c</sup>Kra shall march with my Lord of Kintail his regiment according as he was appointed by the meitting at Kirkmichael.

No meitting since the 20 of March in regaird y<sup>t</sup> the brethren keiped the severall meittings att Kirkmichael.

Hew Fraser of Belladrum and Thomas fraser of Eskadle being cited compeired for receiving the reasons of the parochiners of Fodertie, and the reasons having gone by his hand who had them, namelie, Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> Munro, he is appointed to send them with the first to Mr. Dod fraser, and he giving them to the parochiners, they appointed to reparaire with them to the p̄rie the next day.

The said day Mr. Coline M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie declared y<sup>t</sup> the Kirk officere of Containe did sumond the heritours of Containe conforme to the ordinance of the p̄rie the 25 of februarye, and in regard y<sup>t</sup> they have not compeired this day, and that the most pairt of them consents to the last list y<sup>t</sup> was given, as also the p̄rie finds y<sup>t</sup> Mr. James M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, who is one of the list, is impeded by the p̄rie of Tayne, Therefore referres the consideration y<sup>r</sup>of to the next provincially assemblie.

Mr. George Munro and Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra declared y<sup>t</sup> they spoken the gentlemen of the name of M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie annent the enormities within Mr. Dod Ros his paroch according as his letter did beare, and y<sup>t</sup> they did find them willing to concurre to punish these delinquents y<sup>t</sup> are in there bounds, y<sup>r</sup>fore ordaines Mr. George Munro, Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra, and Mr. Dod M<sup>c</sup>Kra to meitt at Logie the next fryday, and to wreitt ane letter to the officers of the Regiment, to cause the said delinquents to compeir before them the said day, if they be come dovne to the countrie, if not Mr. Dod Ros to summond them before the p̄rie.

Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra declared y<sup>t</sup> Rorie M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Corie did satisfie for his accession to the severall rebellions, according as he was enjoyned by the p̄rie the last day.

The said Hector Munro of Coul did supplicate the p̄rie, humblie acknowledging his accession to the laite wnlavfull ingagment, and desiring to be received to his publick repentance, qlk the p̄rie taking to there consideration, in regiard y<sup>t</sup> he had beine before active in God's cause, and since the said ingegment hes carried himselfe as a man abhoreing all malignant courses, as it was made known to the p̄rie, and now being of intention to march to the p̄it expedition for the defence of religion, king, and countrie, y<sup>r</sup>fore the p̄rie hes ordained him to make his repentance the next saboth in his ovne habite in the Kirk of Alnes.

Mr. Dod fraser declared y<sup>t</sup> he did preach at fodertie conforme to the ordinance of the p̄rie March 11.

The brethren declared y<sup>t</sup> the solemne warning was read conforme to the ordinance of the Comission of the gräll assemblie qlk came to the Moderator since the last p̄rie day and y<sup>r</sup>after was directed to the severall breyren.

That day there was ane letter received of the Comission of the Kirk of the daite of the 20 of March ordaining a fast to be keiped the next sabboth after the receipt y<sup>r</sup>of, Therefore the prie ordaines the fast to be intimated the next Sabbath and keiped the sabbath y<sup>r</sup>after.

The causes q<sup>o</sup>f are these :

We neid not to search farre in the causes of humiliation, y<sup>r</sup> is none who lookes wpon the pīt pousture of the Kingdome, the sad judgments y<sup>t</sup> are incumbent, and the fulnes y<sup>r</sup>of notwithstanding of all y<sup>t</sup> is come upon ws, bot will find them palpable.

1. Our continuing in the guiltines of our sinnes formerlie mourned for, though the lord's hand hes beine stretched out against us, the same seids of evill flowing afresh, even while the lord is pleading against ws.

2. Our gräll securitie and wniversall wnprofitablenes, wnanerable unto the lord's whethere of goodnes or severitie, so y<sup>t</sup> we are ney<sup>r</sup> bettered by the one nor the othere, q<sup>r</sup>by if mercie prevent not our wounds may become wncuirable.

3. The prophanitie of many in the land, even of those who are employed in armes, who makes unfaithfullnes in levies, oppression, and wiolence in quartering, to the hazard of the worke and scandall of the gossell.

4. The slovnes and negligence against the enemie of truth, and of the peace of this kingdome, and ye governments notwithstanding of the pressure of the troubles y<sup>m</sup>selves, cryes and groanes of the people and frequent exhortations and remonstrances of this kirk, as it cannot be looked upon bot as a great token of wrath from the lord upon us, so must we acknowledge it to be a great p<sup>t</sup> of guiltines y<sup>t</sup> now after so many monthes q<sup>r</sup>in God hath wonderfullie given us a breathing in this p<sup>t</sup> of the land, y<sup>t</sup> yet little or nothing is done against the enemie.

5. The selfines of the tyme so y<sup>t</sup> many in the 3 kingdomes, and even members of this same kingdome, as particularlie those of y<sup>e</sup> cheife citie be suffering, yet the most p<sup>t</sup> of the land is secure and tenacious and selfie in particulare interest, as if the publick were not concerned.

6. The rising of great differences of Judgments wpon the wncleannes of some annent the publick resolutiones, q<sup>r</sup>by the work of God and delyverance of his Kirk and kingdome is obstructed.

7. The extreme distres of our brethren and desolation of the land besouth forth, of our cheife citie, the cruell and barbarous wsage of our brethren y<sup>t</sup> are prisoners, y<sup>e</sup> feare of famine, the manie scattered congregations whose pastors are driven away and necessarlie detained from them, the hazard of there soules y<sup>t</sup> are wnder the feitt of the enemie, the falling away of some in there privious wayes, and the sad distress of some of ovr brethren and fellow covenanters in England and Ireland.

8. That the lord in his iust displeasure against ovr manifold sinnes goes not forth with ovr armies, bot gives up the most considerable pts of the land and ovr strongholds y<sup>r</sup>in wnto the hands of the enemie.

1. We are y<sup>r</sup>fore in all humilitie and earnestnes to pray y<sup>t</sup> God would poure ovt the spirit of repentance wpon all sorts, y<sup>t</sup> we fast not to strife and debaite bot there may be ane imptiall searching of the sinnes which haue provoked God, and a sincere turning from them wnto the Lord, and y<sup>t</sup> he wald forgive the iniquities of all rankes in the land, and turne from his feirce wrath which is burning against the same.

2. That God wald be pleasit to stirre up the spirits of people for there dewties to doe in there places as he calls them, y<sup>t</sup> magistrats may be faithfull in there place, studying the publick good, and be furnished with counsell unto the end y<sup>t</sup> officers and souldiers may be sanctified and fitted with faithfullnes, abilitie, and courage for y<sup>r</sup> places, y<sup>t</sup> all who wsed repentance in turning from there former malignant wayes may be established by grace to walke so as the gossell may not suffer by there miscarriages.

3. That God wald delyvere his kingdome from the pnt enemies, and restore the whole land to the former beautie of injoying the libertie and puritie of ordinances, and y<sup>t</sup> he wald guard his people from these snares, and reclaime any y<sup>t</sup> are fallen y<sup>r</sup>in.

4. That God wald make his people willing, and stirre them wp for the defence of there brethren, and blesse and gather there armies together, and may sanctifie them to be holie wnto and instrumentall for the delyverie of his distressed land, and y<sup>t</sup> the lord wald judge those who haue unjustlie invaded his kingdome, and spoiled, and trampled, and trod dovne God's sacred ordinances, and murdered so many of God's dear people.

5. That the lord, who is one, wald give his people and servants one heart and one way to serve him in his worke with one consent against all the enemies of his kingdome, and y<sup>t</sup> he wald remove the groving offences of the times.

6. That God wald looke wpon the royall familie and blesse the King, and y<sup>t</sup> he may be keiped frie both from the snares and dangers of the tymes, and in due tyme restore him to his right, sett him on the throne of all his 3 kingdomes, made ane instrument for the good of the worke and people of God, and terrible to all the enemies within the samen.

7. That the lord wald mercifullie remember ovr distressed brethren in ovr chiefe citie, and y<sup>t</sup> desolate p<sup>t</sup> of the land, and to bring the scattered congregationes to publick and frie use of the ordinances, and to lift up the standard of the gospell in all the 3 kingdomes.

8. That till the delyverance come the lord's people may glorifie him in patient bearing of the crosse, without grudging and murmuring, till he plead there cause and bring them forth to the light.

Ordaines the brethren to meitt here this day fyfteene dayes.

The meitting closed with prayer.

Dingwall, 22 Aprill 1651.

The reasons of the paroch of Fodertie not being sent to the parochiners of Kilmoracke for want of occasion, bot brought this day to the p<sup>rie</sup>, they were this day delyvered in p<sup>br</sup>io to Mr. Dod fraser to be brought to his parochiners, and they appointed to comper before the p<sup>rie</sup> with the same reasones and ther anser to them the next day peremptorlie.

The reasons are these :

1. It hath beine Mr. Donald's owne [desire ?]<sup>1</sup> heirtofore to be transported, and accordingle by Act of the lait comission of the gräll assemblie for wising the Church of ros he is declared transportable and the p<sup>rie</sup> appo[inted to]<sup>1</sup> transport him actuallie whenever he had a lawfull call, and nov he hes a fair and lawfull call to the Kirk of Fodertie.

2. Qras the said Act of Comission grounded upon Mr. Donald's abilities, and it is specialle provyded by Act of the Gräll assemblie y<sup>t</sup> places of noblemens residence be planted with able men considering y<sup>t</sup> the favour granted to noblemen be y<sup>t</sup> act is not grounded, as we conceive, upon there titles bot upon the considerableness of there condition in othere respects. Therefore for as much as Sir Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Tarbit, a man in many respects right considerable in there pairts, hes his ordinarie residence in the paroch of Fodertie, it may be humblie conceived y<sup>t</sup> the p<sup>r</sup>ie granting and passing a formall act for his transportation will be a reall homologating with the said Act of Assemblie.

3. A maine reason of Mr. Donald's former desyre to be transported and (as may appeare) of the said Act of Comission was the distance of his present charge from the p<sup>r</sup>ie seate, the large extent of bounds of it, and the necessitie of serving ordinarlie att diverse places, which, together with diverse othere incomodities, being considered, with reference to his weake bodie, the burden y<sup>t</sup>of will clearlie appeare to be insupportable to him, and to inferre and carie along with it not onlie great prejudice to his health, bot also the shortening of his life to the making of him altogether unusefull for the church of God, all which difficulties and inconveniencies may be removed and prevented by his transportation, the paroch of Fodertie, being both compact of itselpe and adjacent to the p<sup>r</sup>ie seat.

4. The most part of the parochiners of Fodertie having in tymes bygone miscarried by following severall courses no wayes agrieable to the statutes and ordinances of Kirke and state, all such like miscarriages and ovtbreakings may be prevented and remedied by this transportation having one wpon the watch-tower to forsie and forvarne of the like dangers.

5. Considering ovr Saviours saying, y<sup>t</sup> a prophet is not despised bot in his ovne countrey, and y<sup>t</sup> native countrey men anywhere may be thought, yea in effect may prove, too favourable in conniving att or reproving of men's escapes, this transportation may be humblie conceived to be verie expedient, the said Mr. Dod being a stranger to ws, and a native countreyman where he has his present charge.

6. The said Act of Comission may prove a way, and open a dorre (if not tymelie prevented), for the said Mr. Donalds his removeall out of his p<sup>r</sup>ie, yea out of this province, and perhaps to ane English congregation, all which severallie, much more probable will carie alongs with them great prejudice, as is apparent from the great scarcitie of Irish preachers throghovt the kingdome, and from the greater and ordinarie neid y<sup>t</sup> this province, and more especiallie this p<sup>r</sup>ie, have to drave men to them for supplieing of, rathere as to let any from them, for adding unto the too many vacancies y<sup>t</sup> are among them alreadie.

So that the expediancie of the said transportation as māias bonum ecclesie being cleirly evidenced (as we conceive) by the premisses, and fortified with the authoritie of the grāll assemblie, as may appeare from the first reasone grounded upon ane act of Comission alreadie approven of by the grāll assemblie, by the second grounded imediatelie upon ane act of assemblie, we trust that your w/, taking the same to your consideration, together with the daylie increasing groūth of sinne amongst ws, through the wacancie of our Church, calling for remeid att your hands by this transportation, you wilbe pleased, without any further delay, to proceid in it, and put it to a poynt and closure, in confidence q<sup>r</sup>of, as we referre the matter to your consideration, so we commend you and your proceiders in it unto the lord, and your w/ anser we crave and expect.

The brethren declared y<sup>t</sup> the fast was keiped conforme to the ordinance, as also that they received the Remonstrance of the Comission of the Kirk to King and state, and the anser of the Comission to the Quere from the parliament.

The said day the brethren being severallie removed, tryed, and examined, were approven in there life and doctrine, and Mr. Donald M<sup>c</sup>Kra to haue a care of Kilichrist, in Strathorin, and Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra was ordained to repaire his kirk, reside and labour, to have ane schoole, and to cause his people to repaire to the Presbyteriall meittings.

This day being the first day of our meitting after the provinciall assemblie, according as it was concluded by the brethren att Chanorie after the said provinciall assemblie.

The said day Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> Munro and Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra was listed for the election of the moderator, and the said Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> Munro was chosen.

Ordaines Mr. Donald Fraser to continue clarke till the next provincially assemblie.

Mr. Donald Fraser, Minister at Kilmorack, being inquired concerning his diligence in delyvering the reasons of the parochiners of Fottertie for transportation to the parochinars of Kilmorack, and in requiring them to compeire before p<sup>r</sup>ie this day with the said reasons, and there anser to them conforme to the ordinance thereanent, at Dingwall, Aprill 22, 1651, reported he did obey the said ordinance in all points, Whereupon the said parochinars of Kilmorack being called, and none of them compeiring, there was ane missive letter presented to the p<sup>r</sup>ie from the Maister of lovat, Hew Fraser of Belladrum, Thomas Fraser of Eskadle, and Ronald M<sup>c</sup>Ronald in Kilmorack, sheving they culd not keipe the meitting be reason they were called South, and desyreing the P<sup>r</sup>ie not to proceid in the said Transportation without there presence. The P<sup>r</sup>ie tacking the same to there consideration, and considering that notwithstanding of there ovne absence they might haue comitted the matter to others who stayed att home, or sent to the p<sup>r</sup>ie in wreitt what they had to obiect to the reasons of the parochiners of fottertie, they constructed there said letter to be nothing bot a delator, yet finding Mr. Dod fraser (whose transportation was sought) scrupolous in the matter, and as yet wnresolved, and promising to give to the p<sup>r</sup>ie in wreitt the next day peremptorlie what he had to say, they continue to fall upon the discussing of the reasons to the said day, giving withall way to such as are att home of the heritors and elders of Kilmorack to alleadge what they haue to say against the reasons of fottertie, with certification whethere they would compeire or not the p<sup>r</sup>ie wald proceid in the matter without farder delay.

That day there was received 12 copies of a short exhortation and warning from the Comission of the gräll assemblie, ordaines to make use of them, and to report there diligence the next p<sup>r</sup>ie day.

Ordaines the brethren conforme to the ordinance of the last provincially assemblie to use diligence in setting doven a solid course for the Irish boy his maintenance, and to make report the next day.

Ordaines Mr. Robert Munro to preach att Fottertie or the next prie day.

Ordaines the brethren to use diligence to try if Mr. Rorie M<sup>c</sup>cleod had any accession to malignancie or malignant courses, and to make report y<sup>r</sup>of the next prie day.

The said day Mr. George Munro handled ane comon head de Transubstantione, his text was Math. 26. 25.

Mr. Donald fraser, being inquired concerning his ovne mynd and resolution annent his transportation to fottertie, and required to give in wreitt what he had to say according to his former promise, declared y<sup>t</sup> he culd not find himselve resolved to embrace the call he had to fottertie. And Thomas Fraser in Beulie compeiring before the prie alleadging a Comission (bot producing none) from the Session of Kilmorack, desyred the Prie suld not proceide further in the matter of the said Transportation, be reasone of y<sup>e</sup> superiors and cheife heritors of the paroch there absence, which being tacking to consideration be the prie, they conceive all of them to be using dilaters, yet considering the nearnes of the provinciall meitting to hold at Dingwall the        day of        they waive the matter to be advysed with the said meitting, and in regaird Mr. Dod did not give in reasons of his willingnes to imbrace the call this day, they appoint and ordaine him to give them in the next prie day peremptorlie, without farder delay.

The brethren declared y<sup>t</sup> use was made of the warning of the Comission conforme to the ordinance the last day.

The brethren declared that they have used diligence for the Irish boyes maintenance, yet in regaird of the heritours absence, being called to the present expedition, as also the land being pressed with diverse impositions, they culd not proceid to take such a settled course as was expected for the said maintenance, yet they promised to doe there best to maintaine the said boy heerafter as they have done hitherto untill it please the lord to remove the present troubles of the Kingdome, y<sup>t</sup> so the said maintenance may be stented wpon the land according as it is ordained.

The said day Mr. Robert Munro and Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra declared y<sup>t</sup> they conferred with Mr. ferq<sup>r</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Lennan, as also Mr. Dod M<sup>c</sup>Kra and Mr. Dod fraser declared y<sup>t</sup> they did conferre with Mr. Murdo, conforme to the former ordinance, and y<sup>t</sup> they did find them humbled for there former miscarriages, and resolved heirafter to walke more circumspectlie as the Lord wald inable them, as also the said Mr. ferq<sup>r</sup> and Mr. Murdo declared themselves att length before the p<sup>r</sup>ie, acknowledging there former miscarriages and there grieffe and sorrov for the same.

The brethren being weill pleasit with the report of the for-said brethren, as also with the said Mr. ferq<sup>r</sup> and Mr. Murdo there declaration, y<sup>r</sup>fore recomends the said Mr. ferq<sup>r</sup> and Mr. Murdo to the next provinciall meitting y<sup>t</sup> is to be keipe att Dingwall the      day of June next.

This day the brethren declared y<sup>t</sup> conforme to the former ordinance they wsed diligence in trying if Mr. Rorie M<sup>c</sup>cleod had any accession to malignancie, and y<sup>t</sup> after due tryall they culd find no accession to any malignant courses, y<sup>r</sup>fore ordaines ane testificate to be given to him.

The said day Jo<sup>n</sup> Bayne of Tulloch did supplicate the p<sup>r</sup>ie in name of the parochiners of Contin that they might haue the benefite of the last list given in by them with Mr. Dod Ros and Mr. James M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, qlk the p<sup>r</sup>ie tacking to there consideration, ordaines Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra to repaire to Contain, there to preach, keipe session, and to desyre the elderes to nominate one of the said list, and he to produce ane act ther-upon the next p<sup>r</sup>ie day.

Ordaines the brethren to keipe the provinciall wisitation att Dingwall the      day of June next.

Mr. Dod fraser, minister at Kilmorack, having given in to the P<sup>r</sup>ie this day reasons against his transportation to fottertie,

The Prie considering y<sup>t</sup> the discussing of them and of the othere reasons given in formerlie by the parochiners of fottertie and Kilmorack required a more full tyme then culd be spaired this day in regaird y<sup>t</sup> we are to send away ovr Comisioner for the g<sup>r</sup>all assemblie, they continued the discussing of them to the next day.

The reasons are these :

1. As a minister suld not be thrust upon a people or paroch against there Will, so a minister suld not be wrged against his will to embrace a charge not being p<sup>s</sup>uaded in conscience he hes a lawfull call, from any reason that is given in be the parochiners of fottertie.

2. Hovsoever the Comission of the g<sup>r</sup>all assemblie for wisiting the province of Ros declared me transportable, yet there act must be still wnderstood so as God's glorie may be required in the first place, and no act of g<sup>r</sup>all assemblie be infringed, bot in this intended transportation, if it be proceeded in, both are evidentlie wronged as shall appeare by those reasones following, first, It is known that the Station wherin I remane in that condition as what in respect of my father's weaknes who is nov ane infirme and aged man, and in regaird of the largenes of the bounds wherein my fathere and I are ministers att, that if I be transported my infirme fathere, not being able to attend devties requisite at all tymes, throgh my Removing great prejudice may arise, which without any neglect of devtie incumbent to me may be prevented, and devties p<sup>f</sup>ormed, there being bot the breidth of the water betuix both the Kirks, as also what desolation may follow in these farre distant bounds of both paroches may be easilie knoven, and how farre soules coft [purchased] by the blood of Christ may suffer wrong and perish, may be easilie judged.

3. It was nevere the purpose of the g<sup>r</sup>all assemblie, whose acts regulates Comitties appointed by them, to make men's condition worse by there transportation, bot to better them, as appeares directlie by the acts of ye g<sup>r</sup>all assemblie, bot in this intended Transportation my condition shall be made worse, ney<sup>r</sup> being designed Manse and Glebe nor modified provision by autoritie of parliament or any othere wayes which cannot be sufficient without ane act of parliament.

4. I was declared transportable by the Comission of the g̃ral assemblie in regard of the wastnes of the bounds of my paroch (besides othere reasones knowen to them), qlk is not taken away in this intēded transportation in respect the paroch of Contain is intercected betuix the paroch of fottertie, and pairt of it qlk is in Strachonin, as also pairt of it marches with Stragairve.

The said day Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra declared that conforme to the former ordinance the last p̃rie day that he did repaire to Containe, and there preached and keiped session, and that the people did wnanimouslie call Mr. Dod Ros to be there minister, and therewpon produced ane act of Session purporting there willingnes to embrace the said Mr. Dod to be there minister, as also the said Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> declared that the parochiners desyred the p̃rie to interpone there authoritie for transporting of the said Mr. Dod with all convenient diligence to be admitted to the forsaid charge of Contain, qlk the p̃rie tack- ing to there consideration, and withall considering that the said Mr. Dod is declared transportable by the Commission of the g̃ral assemblie, and he willing to embrace the said charge, Therefore ordaines ane edict to be served the next sabboth att Contain, and the said Mr. Dod Ros to preach there the said day, and the execution of the said edict to be sent heire this day fowrteine dayes.

The said day Mr. Ferq<sup>r</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra being cited (being sumoned to this day conforme to the ordinance of the provinciall visitation att Dingwall the        day of June) compeired not bot a letter was receiued from him propoting his inabilityie to travell this length, as also regraiting his p̃nt condition that he wes put ovt of the house of the Ile of Douman,<sup>1</sup> qrin he dwelt since he had not a designed gleibe, etc: as also there was ane letter receiued from Symon M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, laird of Lochsline,<sup>2</sup> purporting that he was not able to keipe this meitting accord- ing as he was advertised (conforme to the ordinance of the <sup>1</sup> The Castle of Eilean Donan in Kintail of which he is said to have been constable. He really appears only to have been allowed to live in it, as he had no glebe and manse of his own.

Provinciall wisitation att Dingwall the        day of June) in regard of his employment in the present expedition, qlk the prie tacking to there consideration, as also the assessors appointed by the said provinciall wisitation not coming as they were appointed, y<sup>r</sup>fore continues to proceide in the said matter wntill the said Mr. ferq<sup>r</sup> be able to travell.

The said day Mr. Dod M<sup>c</sup>Kra was chosen Comissioner to the g<sup>r</sup>all assemblie, and Hew Fraser of Struy as Ruling Elder, giving them full pover to reparaire to the said g<sup>r</sup>all assemblie, and there to proceide and conclude with the rest of the Members of y<sup>t</sup> assemblie according to the word of God and acts of the reformed Church of Scotland.

Ordaines Mr. Dod Ros to make intimation to his parochinners of Lochbruine to compeir here this day fyfteine dayes if they have anything to object against his transportation to Contain.

The brethren did not meitt heire presbyteriallie this last month in regard that we keiped the severall meittings with the rest of the province the first att Dingwall and the second at Alnes.

Ordaines the brethren to meitt heire this day fyftein dayes.

Ordaines Mr. Dod Ros to preach att Contain and Mr. Alex<sup>r</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie att fottertie.

The brethren declared that the fast was keiped conforme to the ordinance of the provinciall meitting att Dingwall, qlk ordinance annent the said fast was received att the said meitting, ordaining the said fast to be keiped the 19<sup>t</sup> of June and the Lords day y<sup>r</sup>after.

The reasons qrof are these :

1. We are to bevaile the great stupiditie and prophanitie which everiewhere abounds in all the land, so as there are werie fev who are sensible of there sinnes or sorrowfull for there chastisement wherewith God hath chastised ws, or who stand in the gape to make the hedge y<sup>t</sup> the fierce wrath of God doe not overturne the remanent pairt of this land, ney<sup>r</sup> doe they so profit by the rod as to turne to him y<sup>t</sup> smiteth them.

2. Though manie in the army and g<sup>n</sup>allie throughtout all the land haue professed there repentance for there former malignant courses, and haue beine received into ecclesiasticall societie, yet those who were in that course ought constantlie to remember there evill wayes and be ashamed, and mourne after the lord for the same.

3. We are to wrestle earnestlie with the lord y<sup>t</sup>, laying aside his fierce wrath, he wald be graciouslie pleasit to blesse ovr king, restore him to the possession of his just rights, and sanctifie him to be the instrument of God for the promoting of the work of reformation in England and Ireland, and preserving it in Scotland, thae the lord wald be pleasit to assist him particularlie in the conduct of the armie, and to blesse all y<sup>t</sup> have charge wnder him with faithfullnes, covrage, and authoritie, and sanctifie and strengthen the souldiers to doe there devties effectuellie and obedientlie.

4. That wee, sieing this blasphemous enimie infesting the land is a most wiolent enimie to the work of reformation and wnion of the Kirks of the thre kingdomes in religious worshipe and government according to the Solemne league and Covenant, y<sup>t</sup> the trulie godlie in all the 3 Kingdomes are wnder the wiolence of his p<sup>r</sup>secution, the lord wald poure abundance of the spirit of grace and supplication, and stirre wp the spirit of all the godlie in the 3 kingdomes to wrestle with god for a delyverance att his tyme from this ovr comon and traiterous enimie.

5. That god wald graciouslie unite the heart of those who are concerned and in hazard by the p<sup>r</sup>nt enimie to act joyntlie in there stations for the cause of God and against the enimie with one heart and mynd, and remove all jealousie and heart burning from amongst them.

6. That as God hath gotten honour in making many of all rankes who were opposit to the worke of reformation to acknowledge there guiltines, and to submit to discipline, so he wald graciouslie please to make them manifest the realitie of there repentance by there sincere and effectuall actings against the enimie, and constant guid carriage in all tyme coming.

7. That the lord wald provyde for the necessare preservation of the lives of his people from sword and feared famine, y<sup>t</sup> the lord wald mercifullie lead ovt ovr armie, inable everie one y<sup>r</sup>in to keipe themselves from everie wicked thing, covere there head in the day of battell, teach their hands to warre and there fingers to fight, and make them have guid successe y<sup>t</sup> the enemie may flie and fall before, and y<sup>t</sup> the lord wald gratiouuslie please by there meanes to delyvere ovr brethren y<sup>t</sup> are wnder the foot of the enemie, and preserve the remanent of this oppressed kirk and kingdome from the wnjust wiolence of the cursed and cruell adversaries.

The meitting closed with prayer.

Continues the discussing of Mr Dod. fraser his reasons against his transportation to the next day, in regard of the paucitie of the number.

This day the parochiners of Contin being cited to compeire if they had any thing to object against the said Mr. Dod, conforme to the Edict served y<sup>r</sup>anent, and none compeiring to object against the said Mr. Dod his admission to the said Kirk, the brethren continues to appoint ane dyet for his admission to the next p<sup>r</sup>ie day, in regaird of the paucitie of the number. *

This day there was ane letter received from Mr. Donald Ros shewing y<sup>t</sup>, conforme to the ordinance of the p<sup>r</sup>ie the last day, Intimation was made to the parochiners of Lochbrune to compeire this day if they had anything to object against the said Mr. Dod his transportation, and accordinglie they being called, and none compeiring, the p<sup>r</sup>ie resolves to proceid as before.

The said day it was declared y<sup>t</sup> Mr. Dod Ros preached Att Contain, and Mr. Alex<sup>r</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie att fottertie, conforme to the former ordinance.

Dingwall, 6 Agust 1651.

The said day the p<sup>r</sup>ie tacking to there consideration the matter of Mr. Dod fraser his transportation to fottertie and having tacken a wiew of the severall reasons formerlie given in pro et contra, respective, they find some of the difficulties and inconveniences proponed in Mr. Dod fraser his third reason concerning the provision, gleib, and manse of the Kirk of fottertie to be reall, and conceiving y<sup>t</sup> the same might happilie be removed be the heritours of fottertie, and hearing y<sup>t</sup> S<sup>r</sup> Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Tarbat, the chiefe heritour, was already on the way coming home from the South, They thought fitt to continew the further discussing of the matter att this tyme, in expectation of the Laird Sir John M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie his coming, and his giving satisfaction in y<sup>t</sup> particulare against the next day.

Ordaines the brethren to meitt the 19 day of Agust att Contain to admitt Mr. Dod Ros to the Kirke of Contain, and ordaines Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> Munro, Mod<sup>r</sup>, to preach there y<sup>t</sup> day.

The said day the Mod<sup>r</sup> did pnt ane letter of the Comission of the Gñall assemblie (qlk came laitlie to his hands) of the dait of the 24 of Maij 1651 yeires, informing the place and dyet of the next gñall assemblie, as also ordaining the pñie to tacke notice if there were any of there number y<sup>t</sup> were contrare to the gñall resolutions of the kingdome etc., as also ane act y<sup>r</sup>upon ordaining such to be censured and the manner of it, qlk the brethren tacking to there consideration, the brethren are ordained to wse diligence in obedience to the forsaid lettere, and to make report y<sup>r</sup>of the next day.

Ordaines Mr. Dod Ros to wse diligence annent what was recomended to him at the wisitation of his kirk, and to exhibite his diligence the next day att Contain.

The said day the brethren did meitt conforme to the ordinance the last day att Dingwall for admitting of Mr. Dod Ros to this Kirk, and finding y<sup>t</sup> the people did not meitt according as they were advertised, as also the Notar not coming whose presence was necessare for the worke, y<sup>r</sup>fore continues the same till Thursday come aught dayes, the 28 of this instant, and resolves to meitt the said day for the effect forsaid.

This day the pñie tacking to there consideration the reasons given in pro et contra annent Mr. Dod fraser his transportation, and especiallie the inconveniences and difficulties proponed in Mr. Dod his third reason, and Sir Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Tarbat being present and wring them to proceid in the matter of the said transportation, the pñie did represent the said difficulties to the said Sir Jo<sup>n</sup> sheving him y<sup>t</sup>, although the reasons given in for the said transportation suld happilie be fovnd and judged to dovne weigh the reasons given in to the contrare, in other respects, yet in respect of the said difficulties and inconveniences Mr. Dod culd not be wrged to yeild to the transportation vnles these difficulties were removed, considering it wald put him in a worse condition as he is in for the pñt, having a sufficient gleib and manse, and (as he alleedges himselfe) his pñt provision being worth a thousand marks per annum. To which the said S<sup>r</sup> John ansered as follows, wiz:— y<sup>t</sup> if the pñt gleib y<sup>t</sup> was att fottertie wald not be found be the pñe to be a full gleib or any othere way incommodious for the minister, he wald give way to the pñe to designe a full gleib beside the Kirk; and, wntill he might have way be lav to cause the heritours build a sufficient manse conforme to the act of parliament, y<sup>t</sup> he wald give him a werie sufficient manse to dwell in, and as for the provision of fottertie y<sup>t</sup> it had fyve chalders wictuall and two hundreth marks alreadie, of which the laite minister was in possession, and, besid this, some tacks of some teynds in the paroch already expired and run ovt, which would make up beyond a chalder of wictuall to him; in consideration of all which he conceived his condition wald be bettered and not made worse by the said transportation. The Pñe taking all to there consideration, finding it requisite to knov more particularlie the way hov the said chalder of wictuall of augmentation might be had, and S<sup>r</sup> Jo<sup>n</sup> promising to give them a further cleiring in it the next day, they continued the matter upon y<sup>t</sup> consideration to this day fyfteine dayes.

The brethren declared y<sup>t</sup> they had wsed diligence, conforme to the former ordinance, to try if any within there paroches was contrare to the publick resolutions of the kingdome, and y<sup>t</sup> they culd not find certaine knowledge of any.

The said day Mr. Dod Ros declared y<sup>t</sup> conforme to the former ordinance he did cause sumond to this day * * and Murdo M<sup>c</sup>Iver for burying within the Kirk of Lochbrune, all of which p<sup>o</sup>ns being cited, and not compeired, they are ordained to be sumond pro 2<sup>do</sup>.

The said Mr. Dod M<sup>c</sup>Kra having returned from the gñall assemblie, and his diligence being required after, the brethren findes themselves satisfied y<sup>r</sup>with, withall the said Mr. Dod did pñt reasons of a solemne and publick humiliation to be keiped upon the last Sabboth of agust, y<sup>r</sup>fore ordaines the brethren to intimate the samen the next sabbboth and keipe it the next sabbboth y<sup>r</sup>after.

The reasons yrof are these following.

1. Albeit the lord be evidentlie p'seving his controversie for the abounding of sinne in the land, yet no man sayth what have I done, bot everie man folloving his ovne way as the horse rusheth into the battell.

2. Tho in the midst of wrath the lord doth remember mercie towards ws, and stretcheth forth his arme still with the offer of reconciliation throug Christ in the preaching of the gospell, yet the offer of his grace is not seriouslie imbraced.

3. The holie ordinance of God nov in so long a tyme continued with ws in puritie and plentie are neglected and dis-haunted by many, sleightlie and p'functoriouslie made use of by others.

4. The wniversall evill of preferring ovv things of ch. [Christ's.]

5. Ovr obstinate continuig in those evils qlk we must have palpablie read in the rod, qrbv the lord hath beine scourging ws, such as covetousnes, etc.

6. As if continuance in sinne wnder judgment were too little we grov worse wnder affliction, fighting with God in the furnace, blasphemie, etc.

7. As for these thingis, and many things els which the prudence and faithfullnes of Ministers will easily lead them to observe, we ought to be humblie before the lord and poure spirits before him ; So we are particularie to pray and request y<sup>t</sup> the lord wald be pleasit to give pardon to ovr king, states, airmie, ministerie, and people of all rankes, y<sup>t</sup> the lord wald looke wpon the lov condition of the land, how justlie soever smitten by him yet most wnjustlie invaded by a blasphemous and p'fidious enemie.

8. That as he hes made judgment begin att his ovne house, he wald make the enemies drink of the dregs of the cup, heale ovr backslydings, make wp our begun rentings, save us from the spirit of separation, prosper ovr wndertakings, and yet be pleasit to goe ovt with ovr airmie and relieve his borne done truth and oppressed people in the 3 kingdomes, y<sup>t</sup> truth may triumph over error, Gods people may after there sad dayes injoy peace and truth, and our king, now in covenant with God and ws, may be restored wnto and settled in his due right, for the good of religion in the thre kingdomes, in Scotland, England, and Ireland, according to the covenant.

The said day Mr. Dod Ros was admitted minister att Contan, and gott institution in all points conforme to the practise of this Kirk.

Dingwall, 2 September 1651.

The p<sup>r</sup>ie requiring of S<sup>r</sup> Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie a farther cleiring of the way hov the chalder of augmentation might be had to fottertie, all the cleiring he gave them was werball assurance y<sup>t</sup> certaine lands within the paroch, viz. the lands of Tollie and Dunglust, had no tacks of there teynds, or if they had they were null, being given a non potestatem. The p<sup>r</sup>ie considering the matter (att the best) to be but disputable, and proponing to S<sup>r</sup> Jo<sup>n</sup> it was hard to wrge Mr. Dod to quite ane certaine for ane wncertaine thing, especiallie att such tymes as lawes were not potent in, he replies if he culd get the rest of the heritours to contribute with him he wald make wp ane hundreth merks of money to be payed to him yeirly wntill he got way to evict these teynds, for which effect he sought continuation to the next day, for dealing with the rest of the heritours. Which the P<sup>r</sup>ie tacking to there consideration, and judging his forvardnes and willingnes for advauncing the plantation of the church commendable, granted his desyre, and continued the matter to the next day.

Mr. Dod Ros declared y<sup>t</sup> he went not to Lochbrune since the 19 of Agust, when he gave in diligence annent the delinquents in Lochbrune, yrfore ordaines him to summond them to the next day.

Ordaines Mr. Rorie M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie to repaire to Lochbrune, there to preach, and to declare the Kirk vacant, to represent to them the necessitie of provyding the Kirk with a qualified pastor, and to exhort them to be instant with the lord that he wald pro-vyde a pastor for them according to his ovne heart; and he is ordained to report his diligence to the next provinciall assemblie.

This day Sr Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Tarbat being employed in the publick and therethrough absent from the p<sup>r</sup>ie, and not able to give in any diligence annent his dealing with the rest of the heritours of fottertie for contributing to the advauncement of the plantation of the Kirk according to his wndertaking the last day, be reason yrof, and of the paucitie of the number present, the p<sup>r</sup>ie continues the discussing of the reasons, and determining of the matter of Mr. Dod fraser his transportation to the next day.

Mr. Robert Munro sent ane letter sheving y<sup>t</sup> he was necessitate to goe to Stranaver to speake my lord Rea, continues the consideration yrof till his ovne coming.

The brethren declared y<sup>t</sup> the warning and exhortation of the Comission of the G<sup>n</sup>all assemblie conveyned at Forfar 9 Agust 1651, was read conforme to the ordinance of the said Comission, qlk warning came to the Moderator since the last p<sup>r</sup>ie day, and he yrafter sent the same to the brethren.

Dingwall, 30 Sept 1651.

This day Sr Jon. M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Tarbat compeiring and wring the P<sup>r</sup>ie to proceide without funder delay in the matter of Mr. Dod fraser his transportation, being inquired concerning his diligence in dealing with the rest of heritours for contributing to make wp a hundreth marks of augmentation to the minister according as he had formerlie promised, ansered he had not occasion to meit with all the heritours, bot y<sup>t</sup> he would oblidge himselve to make it good, and what els he offered concerning the gleibe and manse, so y<sup>t</sup> they would make him sure of Mr. Dod fraser. Whereupon the P<sup>r</sup>ie falling upon the consideration giuen in pro et contra annent the said transportation, and considering them severallie after p<sup>t</sup>iculare examination of them and colla<sup>o</sup>ning them together, they judge the reasons of the parochiners of Fottertie for the said transportation of greaver weight then the reasons given in against it, notwithstanding yrof, be reason of the said Mr. Dod wnvillingnes to yeild to the said transportation, they thought fitt not to determine anything in the matter yrof wntill Mr. Dod were dealt with, imbracing it willinglie, who being accordingleie dealt with both in publick and private, yet continued still wnvilling, which being represented to Sr Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, commissioneere for the paroch of fottertie, condescended y<sup>t</sup> the p<sup>ri</sup>e suld continue the determining any thing in it wntill he wald try whethere himselfe and the rest of the parochiners might find anothere more speedie and faire way for planting the Kirk ; qrvpon the p<sup>ri</sup>e continued the matter to the next day.

Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra to wreitt ane letter to Culcoie y<sup>t</sup> he may cause her [Marie Do<sup>d</sup> wic wurchie, Lochbrune, mother of an illegitimate child whose father she refused to reveal] give obedience, seing he is maister of the ground qron she resydes.

Dingwall, 14 October 1651.

This day report coming from Sr Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Tarbat y<sup>t</sup> he was sicke, and by reason yrof not able to be advysed with the rest of the parochiners annent any othere (besydes Mr. Dod fraser his transportation) for plantation of the kirk of fottertie. The P<sup>ri</sup>e considering this and the nearnes of the provinciall assembleie to be holden att Tayne the last Tuesday of this instant, The p<sup>ri</sup>e thought fitt to continue the matter to be advysed with the said provinciall, and to waive it for this tyme wntill anothere dyate.

The delinquents of Lochbrune, wiz Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Iver etc. cited and not compeired ordaines ane letter to be directed to Symon M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, laird of Lochsline, to the end he may interpone himselfe to cause them to give obedience.<sup>1</sup>

Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kra declared that he had spoken with Culcoie

The Mod<sup>r</sup> haveing inquired qt dilligence had been vsed in reference to the former ordinance annent the serving of ane edict annent the designa<sup>o</sup>ne of a Gleib at Fottertie, The said edict was found to be duly served and indorsit, execu<sup>o</sup>ne's y<sup>re</sup>of being pnted, the pnt day being apointed for the designa<sup>o</sup>ne, and finding no appearance of any oppositione, haveing lykwayes the advise of Sir George M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Tarbat, heritor of the gleib to be designed, and consent of James M<sup>c</sup>dod [Macdonald] pnt possessor, they resolved to goe about the business, which efter prayer they did effectuallie, goeing to the place appointed of ther orderlie walking, and legall steps and [ ]<sup>1</sup> descriptione lykwayes of the Gleib and its marches.

Dingwell, Penult Decr. 1656.

The said day Mr. John Monro made report of his obtempering the pbries desyre by preaching and keeping Sess. at Vrqt the day appointed, the result yrof was ane letter sent to Mr. W<sup>m</sup> fraser intreating to exercise them whither he conceived he might fastly loused from his pnt charge, however this might have been [ ]<sup>1</sup> to be ane formall progress in calling a M<sup>r</sup> to that place, yet it was thought expedient to wait for y<sup>e</sup> result of y<sup>e</sup> forsaid dilligence.

That day was pnted a supplica<sup>o</sup>ne in name of Jo<sup>n</sup> Mackra, student in humanitie, for a part of y<sup>e</sup> wacand stipend of Wrray, to his better mentenance at the Pbrie Schooles. The supplicant was referred to obtaine the heritors consent, weh being pnted, the petitioune vas to be considered.

The said day the Brethren, Masters Johne Munro, Johne M<sup>c</sup>cra, Don<sup>d</sup> Fraser, Johne M<sup>c</sup>Kilican, Don<sup>d</sup> Ross, Thomas Hog, being met together prayer was made.

There had beene no exercise becaus the time was conceived short enough for goeing about intimelie the exec<sup>u</sup>ti<sup>o</sup>ne of there intenti<sup>o</sup>ne at yt time, to witt, the designa<sup>o</sup>ne of a Glebe. Mr. Johne M<sup>c</sup>cra presented a supplicati<sup>o</sup>ne in name of Johne M<sup>c</sup>cra. The Brethren referred anie anser till Mr. Donald M<sup>c</sup>cra suld be present in person, when, with consent of the heretours, they ar to grant his petitioune as sallbe thought expedient.

That day Johne Munro of Limlaire renewed his petitioune in behalfe of Christiane Munro, relict to the late deceist Mr. George Munro, and anser was continued till the full number of hands of the heritours concerned should be at the condescendence, which being presented lacked many subscriptiones mainlie requisite; Thereafter the Brethren having ane intentione to goe about the designati<sup>o</sup>ne, which was done warrantable thereafter according to the law of the natione and practice of the Church in such cases, as th<sup>e</sup> designati<sup>o</sup>ne subscribed by the Brethren's hand, containing the bounds and marches thereof, can evidence. The nixt dyett being appointed to be at Ding<sup>w</sup>.

At Dinguall, June 2, 1657.

Mr. Johne Munro, upon certain considerati<sup>o</sup>nes mouing him, amongst others the incompleti<sup>o</sup>ne of his present provisions, in-treated the Brethren for ane Act of Transportabilitie.

Some of the brethren informing the meeting that there wer specious grounds to hope the occasi<sup>o</sup>ne of his moti<sup>o</sup>ne might be remoued, ane anser was continued till the nixt meeting.

That day Christiane Munros supplicati<sup>o</sup>ne was renewed, together with the consents of the heritours represented, and her desyre granted therin, and withall the Brethren being privie to and having compassion on the supplicants low conditione, and considering how of the s<sup>d</sup> stipend of fiftie sex appointed to be disposed of in anser to the supplicatione forsaid, that some part was allotted to Mr. Murdoich M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, they conceiued it there duetie in charitie that the part allotted to Mr. Murdoich being as yet onuptaken, should contineue with her, and for satisfactiōe to the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Murdoich, that, with the consent of the heretours, Farburns proportiōe of the yeire fiftie seven be added to Couls out of 56, q<sup>ch</sup> make an 100 merks, of yis Couls proportiōe, being 26 merks, is all q<sup>ch</sup> is excepted of the stipend 56 indisponed of to y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> relict.

The Commissioners from Wrq<sup>rt</sup> appearing by there applicatione to the Presrie, did seeme to passe from there applicatione, and prest concurrence of the Presrie as formerlie.

The Brethren, taking there desire to consideratione, found ane impediment then q<sup>ch</sup> appeared not formerlie, which occasioned yet more a retreating from progress in y<sup>t</sup> business, for one of y<sup>r</sup> number gave in some scruples as reasones of his dissent against the sending a Commissionere from the Presbrie, and protested for libertie to add as convenientlie he might and conceiued duetie thereafter.

1. Of these were given in the s<sup>d</sup> day tuo following, first—private correspondence and condescendence of the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. William<sup>1</sup> with the parochiners by letter and promise, possible before the presbries call was obtained, and so preposterous, before the ordinarie way of learning the Lords mind was known.

2. The said Mr. William his professing of ane intention willfullie to desert the parochin q<sup>in</sup> he is for the time, notwithstanding of all satisfactiōe offered by them to him, especiallie his present dispositione being compared with his severall transplantationes before, in some of which, (as is supposed) his way was neither orderlie nor himself patient therein. These being pondered, and y<sup>t</sup> others were promised, the Brethren conceiued it duetie not to proceed untill the nixt Presbyterie day, when the member informer is required to haue in readinesse all the known exceptions he hath, ore then they not to be relevant for obstructing the progresse of the fors<sup>d</sup> businesse after.

Mr. Murdoich M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie requireing a testificatt, receiued no anser untill the nixt meeting, appointed to be this day twentie dayes.

The appointment anent burials in Kirks is reported by the brethren to be obtempered.

That day compeared Commissioners from Wrq<sup>rt</sup>, with ane letter from Mr. William Fraser, q<sup>r</sup>in (as it appeared) hauing perused them, he alleadged the reasons were aspersions and detractiones and calumnies, wishing the brother to disown them, otherwayes he would studie his own reparatione, which the brother refused, apprehending it duetie not to disown that which he conceived to be truth, which the brethren signified in ther returne to him by a letter q<sup>r</sup>in they desired him to doe as he thought expedient.

That day the brother fors<sup>d</sup> gaue in some other additionall reasons, first the sinnfullnesse of emptieing Invernes (in case Mr. William be a qualified man) of a Minister, together with the disadvantage may be sustained by transporting of such a man (it being as is supposed) not onlie out of such ane eminent place of itselfe, but where there is comonlie repairing and residing a confluence of strangers and intelligent countrey gentlemen.

2. Secondlie, the disconformitie of y<sup>t</sup> transplantation with severall acts of assem.

3. 3<sup>d</sup>lie. The nonharmonious concurrence of the parochiners to that transplantation, in that severalls of note and qualitie concerned in the place being strangers to and dissenting from the calling of the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Will.

4. 4thlie, the said Mr. Will was observant of keeping presbyteriall meetings while he was in this province before, together with the dissatisfaction he gaue to the samen, and especiallie to the presb<sup>rie</sup> of Chanrie (as may be seen in retentes q<sup>n</sup> he transplanted himselfe to Invernes.)

It was judged requisite that the Pres<sup>rie</sup> sould be satisfied, and these exceptiones discussed; And it was apprehended yt uthers more weightie might be after added, as should be found expedient, therefore as yet they proceeded not in that business.

A testimonie was giuen to Mr. Murdoich M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, as no known cleare guilt was to be layed to his charge discovered to the presb<sup>r</sup>ie.

At Dingwell, Jul. 28. 1657.

That day the Brethren ordinarlie conveening were mett, except the clerke, whose excuse of his infirmitie was sent. The Moderator not coming preciselie at teun o'clocke, tho shortlie efter, the rest of the brethren for the most part would not stay anie longer then the preemtorie houre appointed.

The next meeting they resolved should hold that day fourth-night.

At Dingwall, Aug. 11, 1657.

That day a letter was appointed to be writtin from the Pres<sup>r</sup>ie to Mr. Donald Ross to direct it to the Highland ministers, relateing to there negligence in obtempering the act of the Synod anent there monthlie meeting at Kainlochew, and there corresponding with the Presb<sup>r</sup>ie.

At Dingwall, Septemb. 1, 1657.

That day Mr. George Munro, Minister at Rosemarkine, presented a letter from the Presb<sup>r</sup>ie of Chanrie anent the transporting of Mr. Johne Munro, minister at Alnes, to the Kirk of Killicuddin, some gentlemen being present from the fors<sup>d</sup> parochine for that effect.

But the brethren considering that after inquire these gentlemen had no commissione, and some of the brethren being absent, continued the anser to the next dyett.

In the meanetyme Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>ra was appointed to returne ane anser to the Presbyterie of Chanrie's letter, with Mr. George Munro fors<sup>d</sup>.

There was ane appointment y<sup>t</sup> day that the brethren of the Highlands sould be acquainted againe to repaire to the pres<sup>r</sup>ie according to the act of Synod, to exercise and concurr with y<sup>r</sup> brethren as sall be required and injoined.

That day the brethren considering how Mr. Donald Ross had severall times regrated, and as yet did, the bad encouragement he had in the parochine of Conton, by reason y<sup>t</sup> he was not at all duellie satisfied of y<sup>t</sup> small provisione which he had in the place, as also of the peoples want of accommoda<sup>o</sup>ne, by reason of wantinge bridges vpon the waters, and dasks in the church to sit.

The nixt dyet was appoynted to be at Conton y<sup>t</sup> day twentie dayes, to comone with the parochiners in the fors<sup>d</sup> particulars, and Mr. Donald Ross was appointed to make intima<sup>o</sup>ne to them and the people for there convoca<sup>o</sup>ne to the s<sup>d</sup> day, q<sup>n</sup> Mr. Johne M<sup>c</sup>Kilican was appointed to preach, and in case of his necessarie abstractione, which he feared, Mr. Johne Munro was appointed to be advertised tymeouslie to undergoe y<sup>t</sup> dutie.

[No meeting at Contin on 23 Sept. as some of the heritors from home.]

At Conton, Octob. 6, 1657.

That day these concerned in the parochine of Conton, as Coul and some others, being present, who being inquired of anent the discouragement of their minister, by reasone of unsatisfactorie deliverie of his provisione, made it evidentlie appeare y<sup>t</sup> the blame should be transferred wpon Mr. Don<sup>d</sup> Ross, whose remisnesse and unfittnesse to take ane effectual course for uplifting the samen onlie occasioned ane ondutifullnesse to him, and likewayes promised to be assisting to him to make his due provisione forthcuming. As for anie disadvantage ore hinderance the people might haue by want of bridges and seats in the church [Minute stops here, being incomplete].

At Dingwall, Octob. 20, 1657.

That day conveyned all the brethren ordinarie conveeners, except Mr. Tho. Hog.

Prayer was made. The reasone of Mr. Thomas Hog his absence was his waitting my Lo. Seafort, who representing the Parochine of Urray in calling of Mr. Geo. Cuming, then at Elgine, had gone from Invernes thitherwards, but upon the 16 of the instant month, and upon supplica<sup>o</sup>ne to the Presb<sup>r</sup>ie for one of there number [Record destroyed].

The s<sup>d</sup> day compeared Mr. Coline M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, desiring the transplantation of Mr. Johne Munro to the Kirk of Kilcuddin.

Likewayes Mr. Johne Munro required ane anser to ane petitione formerlie given in by him anent his transplantabilitie.

In the meantime compeared also F[ ] and George Munro, in Alness, Commissioners from the parochine therof, for retentione of the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Johne with his present charge, and to impd the intended transplantatione.

Thereafter compeared from the parochine of Kilcuddin, Ardullie, Kinbeachie, and Charles M<sup>e</sup>leane, commissioners, pressing the transplantatione of the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Johne.

The Presb<sup>rie</sup>, after solid consideratione, hauing heard both parties, Judgeing it requisit, ordained ane edict to be served at the Church of Alnes the nixt Lords day, intimating the desire and diligence of the parochiners of Kilcuddin to have the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Johne transplanted from Alnes and settled with themselves, that in case the parochiners of Alnes haue anie laüfull objections against the progresse of the s<sup>d</sup> businesse they may haue seasonable advertisement to give in ther reasons the nixt pb<sup>rie</sup> day, being the tent of Novēm., with certifica<sup>o</sup>ne to them if they fail to doe as s<sup>d</sup> is the Presb<sup>rie</sup> sall proceed in the due and orderlie steps as is requisit in such cases.

As also Mr. Johne Munro desired y<sup>t</sup> ane act of transplanta<sup>o</sup>ne might be insert in the Edict, which was agreed.

That day the brethren present being severallie removed and tryed, Mr. Donald Ross was exhorted to be painfull and diligent in wisiting and examining the people.

Mr. Johne M<sup>e</sup>Killican to indeavour to pray in the Irishe language, and to own a portione of Strachonin for a part of his parochine, which he profest he could not condescend on, not knowing the samen to be annexed to the parochine of Fottartie at his entrie to the ministrie. This matter was referred to the consideratione of the Synod at Chanrie Oct. 27.

The rest of the Brethren exhorted to be painfull and diligent.

Dinguel, November 10, 1657.

It pleased the Brethren to choose and constit y<sup>t</sup> Mr. Thomas Hogge be Moderator of the Presbyterie, and Mr. John M<sup>e</sup>Killican clark.

The execution of the edict served at Alnes relative to Mr. John Monros transportabilitie was returned to the Presbyterie.

The Laird of foulis, zounger, and the goodman of Assin, Commissioners from the parochin of Alnes, compeared, and intreated no act shuld be givin that day for declairing ther minister transportable, But that the Presbytrie shuld be pleased to appoint ther nixt days meeting to be at Alnes, wher they engaged in the names of the rest, that rational satisfaction shuld be given for the pleasant commodious settling of Mr. John amongst them, else they suld woluntarlie condescend to his transporta<sup>n</sup>.

The Commissioners beeing removed, the presbytrie considered y<sup>e</sup> mater, and thought it convenient the desir shuld be granted, wherfor the nixt days meeting was appointed to be Alnes.

Rorie M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Davauchmaluack, and the Goodman of Farbourn, younger, Commissioners from the Parochin of Urray, compeared and requested the Presbyteries concurrence for calling of Mr. Georg Cuming to enter on such parts of his qualifica<sup>ns</sup> befor them as was requisit, that with al possible diligence he might be planted actual minister among them.

Those gentlemen being removed the Brethren thought fit to appoint Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>Killican to go alongs with them whenever they pleased.

The heritors, gentlemen, and parochiners of Alnes compeared befor the Presbytrie, and after some debats and reasonings ther was ane harmonious condescendens for Mr. John Monros accomodation at that place, and not onlie for him but also for his successors after him serveing ther.

Neil Monro of Findon, and some other gentlemen, commissioners from Wrquhart, compeared, and intreated one suld be given them to preach the nixt Lords day that a call might be dravin vp for Mr. Robert Rosse—the Brethren, taking this to consideration, appointed Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>Killican to preach at Wrquhart the nixt day.

The Brethren inquired what diligence was used in the matter of Urray, the Commissioner reported if the people and presbytrie were striving and serious that Mr. Georg Cuming might be engaged and gained.

Noe exercise this day because of the exerciser's (Mr. John Munro) bodilie infirmitie and weaknes.

No addition, because the adder, Mr. Donald Rosse, was not prepared, for which the Brethren thought fit to give him an admoniti<sup>o</sup>n be way of reproofe.

There was ane heavie and a sad regrait made by Mr. Farquhar M<sup>c</sup>ra of Kintail in a letter sent to the Presby, upon the wnnatural, wnchristian, and unministerial carriag of his sone Mr. Donald, in depriveing him of his livelehood by wnjust, obscure, and wnlawful ways, as his letter doth more fullie declair; the Brethren, seriouslie considreing the matter, ordained a letter (containeing a somance) shuld be written to Mr. Donald for presenting himself the nixt day befor the presbitrie.

The Brethren inquired what was doen at Urquhart, the report was that y<sup>e</sup> parochiners wnanimouslie subscribed a Cal for Mr. Robert Rosse, and besought the Presbytrie, because none of them culd be present, to appoint on of ther number with a cal to goe alongs with ther commissioners on such a day [ ] to invite him. The Brethren appointed Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>Killican to goe with the cal for Mr. Robert.

Dinguel, 29 December 1657.

Mr. Donald Rosse added, and the brethren was much dissatisfied with his method, matter, and weaknes, and desyred he should be reprehended with a premonire.

Mr. George M<sup>c</sup>ulloch is to add.

Mr. Donald M<sup>c</sup>ra was this day present in presby; and the Mod<sup>r</sup> inquired what was the reason of his cruell and wnhumane dealing with his father, his replie was y<sup>t</sup> he had as great reason if not mor to complaine on his father, but for the tyme he would forbear reflex<sup>o</sup>n and recrimination, onlie he desired to have two of the Brethren to whom he would communicat his mind in privat—which was granted him.

These brethren (when returned) culd not learn by what he informed the certaine ground of the controversie, but suspected ther was foul play among them, and therfor the presbytrie thought it necessarie a visitation shuld be at Kintail, haveing the concurrence and assistance of the Sinod alongs with them, and in the meantyme ordained that Mr. Don<sup>d</sup> shuld restore his livelehood to his father againe, especiallie the wiccarage, which Mr. Do<sup>d</sup> promised to performe.

Mr. Thomas Hogg, Mod<sup>r</sup>.

Mr. Georg M<sup>c</sup>ulloch exercised vpon Acts 7. 35, and

Mr. George Cuming added—the Brethren were weil satisfied with both, and desired the Mod<sup>r</sup> to encourage them.

Mr. Georg Cuming is to exercise the next day; and Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>cra is appointed to add because he was spared the last day for his bodilie infirmitie. But Mr. John began to controle the presbitries apointment, and entred in a needlesse strife, and becam untractable, and would not by ani fair means or entreatie wndertak his duetie. Wherefore the Presbytrie was forced to remove him, and when the thoughts of all the Brethren round about were inquired (he being removed) of his carriage, all thought he greatlie miscaried, and deserved a sharpe censure. Mr. John beeing called for, the Mod<sup>r</sup> signified the Presb. mind to him, and rebuked him for his litigiousnes, needlese contention, and wntractablesse. But he remaneing and insisting in his former stubbournesse and wilfulnes, would not accept of, nor wndergoe the censur, But declaired by way of protesta<sup>n</sup> ag<sup>t</sup> it, and desired his declara<sup>n</sup> (as he tearmed it) to be insert. The Brethren thought it necessar that no such thing shuld be insert in ther scoles until he gaue it in writ wnder his own hand, and gaue him continuation to the next day, at which tym he promised to present it.

Ther was a letter directed to the presby. from the Erle of Seafort intreating the accelera<sup>n</sup> of Mr. Georg Cumming his trials, that with al diligence he might be admitted actual minister at Urray; Which desir was granted.

Mr. George M<sup>c</sup>ulloch is appointed to haue a common head vpon Universal redemption, and to give his theses the next day.

Februar 15, 1658.<sup>2</sup>

[The Mod<sup>r</sup> and remanent Brethren present.]

Mr. Georg Cuming exercised on Acts 7. 37, and was approwin.

<sup>1</sup> The portions of this and next Minute through which the lines are drawn are, in the original, deleted in different ink. On the margin are written, in a different hand, the words, 'Shamelesse lying.' The Minutes are written by Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>Killican.

Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>cra added vpon the same words, and the Brethren were not a little dissatisfied with his wearieing tediousnes, mis-applica<sup>o</sup>n of scripture, want of edification in severall farr off sought passages savouring of much bitterness and disaffection, and for something that the Brethren judged wnsound, viz. that the mane and principal qualifica<sup>o</sup>n of a minister as such was knowledg. For these things the brethren desired the Mod<sup>r</sup> to give him an admonition.

Mr. Georg Cumming is appointed to haue a disput on the perseverance of the sancts and to hav his thesee in readines ag<sup>t</sup> the next day.

The Mod<sup>r</sup> presented an appella<sup>o</sup>n received from Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>cra to the next ensuing Provincial, and the Brethren finding it to be extrajudicial (no word being of it the day before) unecessar, and unexpedient, dealt with Mr. John, both in privat and publick, to tak up his paper, but he would not, But gave in a second paper how to tearm it we knew not, but he called it himselfe a supplica<sup>o</sup>n for inserting his appella<sup>o</sup>n, and for receaveing an extract of a processe winder the clark's hand. The Brethren finding his deportment unbeseeing a supplicant, and much mor a minister of the Gospel that desired to live in peace with his brethren, Judged it convenient no anser shuld be givin him til the Sinod; and that the authentick papers shuld be onlie kept (without transcribing them) to the provincial.

The Brethren ordained Mr. Do<sup>d</sup> Rosse to writ a letter to the high-land Ministers to inquire why y<sup>e</sup> Sinods ordinance was neglected.

March 2, 1658.

Rorie M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Tollie, beeing referred from the session of Dinguel to the presbyterie for drunkenesse, but the fact culd not be judicial provin; wherefor the Mod<sup>r</sup> in the nam of the presbyterie exhorted the supposed delinquent that he shuld watch ag<sup>t</sup> that evil, and seek the lord to guard him ag<sup>t</sup> that tempta<sup>o</sup>n.

March 9, 1658.

Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>Killican sought the Brethrens advise, what shuld be doen with a young man falling in incest and not coming to the years of discretion. The finding the matter difficult referred it to the Sinod.

Mr. George Cuming is to preach in Irish the next day.

March 16, 1658.

The Brethren ordained Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>Killican to drav vp an edict to be served at Urray by Mr. Rosse the nixt Lords day in relation to Mr. Cumings planta<sup>n</sup>.

Mr. George M<sup>c</sup>culoch is licensed to preach publicklie when and whereever he is lawfullie called.

Coul M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie and Garloch, Commissioners from Urq<sup>rt</sup>, compeired, and intreated the Presbyterie shuld goe alongis with them to invit Mr. Fraser of Invernes to be ther minister. The anser is referred to the nixt day.

Mr. George Cuming is to be admitted to the Church of Urray on the last day of March.

March, Penult., 1658.

The Commissioners of Urquhart compeired and desired to know why the presbyterie did not concurr willinglie and cordialie with them in calling Mr. W<sup>m</sup> Fraser, and the Brethren told they had some exceptiones ag<sup>t</sup> it, and desired that the Mod<sup>r</sup> shuld deliver these exceptiones to Coul M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie, who was on of the Commissioners.

On of the Brethren inquired of Coul if he had ani assurance of Mr. W<sup>m</sup>, and he told that Mr. W<sup>m</sup> promised to com.

The Master of Lovat and young Farbourn, with others of the parochin of Urray, compeared and desyred the Presbytrie shuld not proceed in Mr. Cumings plantation till they shuld have a hearing of his Erish. The Presbyterie offered a hearing to them on the morow, But this would not please their fancie wnesse they shuld hear him on a Lords day. The Brethren conceiving that their drift was rather to hinder his admission then to receive ani satisfaction of his qualifica<sup>ns</sup>, they granted their demand to shonne contention, and so Mr. George's admission was prorogate.

The Presb. resolved to go on cum periculo with Mr. Cumings admission on the 13th of April, after his preaching at Urray. But Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>cra stickled ag<sup>t</sup> the resolution, and became pertinacious and was loquacious, that some of the Brethren were forced to say y<sup>t</sup> that part of the ministrie was bitternes to them, and wished a destruction of the presbi. and to be annexed to other preb.<sup>1</sup>

Urray, April 13, 1658.

All the Brethren, except Mr. Thomas hogg and Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>cra, convened, and desired the lords presence by prayer.

After sermon preached by Mr. John Munro,

Mr. George Cuming was admitted without any let or protestation, and received by all concerned in the parochin of Urray who were present.

Coul M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie and others of the Parochiners of Urquhart complied and professed they would no further prosecute their calling of Mr. Fraser to be their minister, but the presbytrie would be pleased to send one of their number to preach to them the next lords day. It pleased the Brethren to appoint Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>Killican to preach at Urquhart.

[At the end of the Minute of 13th April 1658, which also closes the volume, is written by the hand which wrote the marginal remarks on the previous Minutes:—‘Maister Johne Macgillican was clk. to thir lying Records.’ No further Minutes are recorded until 1663—after the Restoration, and the establishment of Episcopacy.]

anent the Test, together with the Councells explanation, and his Majesties approba<sup>o</sup>n y<sup>r</sup>of. The tenor of which Letter sent from the Bishop follows :

‘ REVERED BRETHEREN,—You have had under your consideration for some good tyme the oath q<sup>ch</sup> the King and Parliament have judged necessarie to require of all who have now, or who hereafter shal haue, any publict trust, office, or imployment, in this Church or Kingdome. The designe of which oath is verie distinctly expressed in the act, viz. to cut off al hope from papists and other dissenters of being hereafter imployed in anie office of publict trust ; which designe being good, and nothing unlawful contained in the oath, I cannot conjecture why anie man who is a true Protestant and loyal subject should refuse to take this oath, being enjoined be lawful authoritie. It is now high tyme to be at ane end of your resolutione in this mater, and in case you should inclyne to refuse, which I hope none of you will, I would haue you remember that they cannot be anie light or frivolous pretenses or exceptions that will ether satisfie your owne consciences or vindicat you from the slighting or contempt of the comands of that authoritie which yourselves acknowledge to be the highest under God, without whose countermand you ought not to withdraw your readie obedience. And that you may yeeld it in this case with safe and comfortable consciences I earnestly advise not to put rigid meanings upon anie clause of the oath (as I have perceaved some haue been too apt to doe) but to think, as in al dutie you should, that the meaning of the King and parliant in al the parts of it, was no other then what may consist with the Law of God, the Law of the Kingdom, and sound reason ; and if al the articles of the oath (as I judge they are) be capable of a sense agreeable with these, and not contrarie to anie of them, I see not why anie honest man who is a protestant may not take it. Therefor I beseech you use no longer delay in tacking up your final resolutions to obey, which will prove a more effectual meane for preserving religion then anie thing we can hope may follow your refusal. I shal be here, God willing, to attend you till the first of Januarie ensueing, and so praying God to give you counsel what you ought to doe in this and whatever else is incumbent to you, I continue,

‘ Your most affectionat brother,

Some of y<sup>e</sup> Brethren upon her denyall replied they were informed she hade said to severall women in Dingwall, y<sup>t</sup> Mr. Gordon was ffay<sup>r</sup> to her last Birth; and y<sup>t</sup> she spoke so pa<sup>r</sup>rtarly to Kath. Agnes Dingwell declared she was not present at the delivery, and y<sup>r</sup>fore she was not in bona fide to say, she heard Jean Bayne averring Mr. John Gordon to be y<sup>e</sup> fay<sup>r</sup> of her child at y<sup>t</sup> time and in y<sup>t</sup> place, but y<sup>t</sup> she heard her alleadge no less elseq<sup>r</sup> and at oy<sup>r</sup> times.

Kath: Monro haveing succumbed in proba<sup>o</sup>n by the former witsesse is againe called, and being askt whether or no she hade oy<sup>r</sup> witnesses could prove the truth of her former declarat<sup>o</sup>n, answered she hade, and being desyred to name y<sup>m</sup>, spoke of

The Moderator and remanent B<sup>r</sup>en, takeing to considera<sup>o</sup>n whether or no they should proceed to censure Kath. Monro and Jean Bayne for y<sup>r</sup> falsifications in the slander alleadged by y<sup>m</sup> ag<sup>t</sup> Mr. Gordon, resolved it was not fit to proceed to any present censure untill Mr. Gordon were brought to the utmost tryall anent y<sup>t</sup> slander, q<sup>ch</sup> they judged could not be done by y<sup>m</sup> in the absence of y<sup>r</sup> Ordinary, or at least w<sup>t</sup>out a license from him; q<sup>r</sup>fore being for the present deprived of both, they suspend all future proceeding in y<sup>t</sup> affair till Providence send y<sup>r</sup> Bp. amongst y<sup>m</sup>, or y<sup>t</sup> he declare his pleasure y<sup>r</sup> anent. And least in the mean tyme the said Jean should make her escape and leave the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Gordon under the slander, they reco<sup>m</sup>end to the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. John to affoord her maintenance a peck of vict<sup>1</sup> weekly, q<sup>ch</sup> at the B<sup>r</sup>ens desire the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. John Gordon aggreed to.

The Moderator preached in the English language on first Pet. 3. 16, and in Irish, Jam. 3. 1.

After Prayer,

The M<sup>r</sup> being removed, W<sup>m</sup> Urquhart was called and being examined whether or no he could give any account of the originall of y<sup>t</sup> scandall charged upon his paroch M<sup>r</sup>, declared as follows, y<sup>t</sup> Jean Bayne was charged to compear before y<sup>r</sup> session touching a suspicion of her being w<sup>t</sup> child, and being askt if she was w<sup>t</sup> child, acknowledged she was, and being further interrogat q<sup>o</sup> was the fay<sup>r</sup> y<sup>o</sup>f refused to tell, and, being more hotly put to it, askt q<sup>t</sup> was y<sup>r</sup> concern, she was able to free herself from all men in y<sup>t</sup> paroch, q<sup>r</sup>upon she was y<sup>n</sup> dismissed, and a little after craved a testifica<sup>o</sup>n of her honest behaviour dureing her abode amongst y<sup>m</sup>, q<sup>ch</sup> she obtained.

Mr. Andrew Ross, M<sup>r</sup> at Contan, Clerk to y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> visita<sup>o</sup>n, being desired by the Moderator to get a list of y<sup>e</sup> heritors of y<sup>t</sup> paroch, hade account of y<sup>m</sup> from Hugh Munro of Swardale and oy<sup>rs</sup> as follow :

the scandall charged upon y<sup>r</sup> Mi<sup>r</sup>, answered y<sup>t</sup> for y<sup>r</sup> pts [parts] they had nothing to say, but referred the evidence of y<sup>e</sup> matter to such witnesses as were personallie summoned to give y<sup>r</sup> declara<sup>o</sup>ns anent the s<sup>d</sup> scandall; q<sup>ch</sup> witnesses are as follows, Kath. nin doil vic horish, woman-servant, and Ronald M<sup>c</sup>indoir and John M<sup>c</sup>phail, men-servants to the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. John Gordon; Muirach Reildach, Kath. nien ullay ic ulliam, James Logan, Christian nien doil ic allen in the paroch of Kilterne, Agnes Bayne, Elspit Bayne and Agnes Dingwall, in Dingwall, and Donald Deisse, Beddall to the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon being askt whither he could except ag<sup>t</sup> any or all these witnesses, answered he excepted ag<sup>t</sup> Kath. nin doil vic horish because of her nonage, being but sixteen years old as herselfe declared; ag<sup>t</sup> Murach Reildach as Minor, because clade w<sup>t</sup> a husband; ag<sup>t</sup> Christian nine doil ic allen as no sufficient witsesse in a matter criminall because a woman; ag<sup>t</sup> Agnes Bayne because a whore and a scold; ag<sup>t</sup> Agnes Bayne and Elspet Dingwall as no fit witsesse in a matter criminall, being women; ag<sup>t</sup> James Logan, because a thiefe as he alledged; ag<sup>t</sup> Donald Deisse because a lyar and a talebearer. No exception ag<sup>t</sup> Ronald M<sup>c</sup>indoir or John M<sup>c</sup>phail, who being y<sup>r</sup>fore called and deeply sworn to declare q<sup>t</sup> they knew anent the s<sup>d</sup> scandal, John M<sup>c</sup>Phail (the oy<sup>r</sup> being removed) declared y<sup>t</sup> by night or by day, hour or moment, he never could observe any unseemly behaviour betwixt the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Jo<sup>n</sup> Gordon and the s<sup>d</sup> Jean Bayne: being hereupon removed, Renold M<sup>c</sup>Indoir is called to the effect fors<sup>d</sup> and deponed as s<sup>d</sup> is.

Therefore the B<sup>r</sup>en taking to considera<sup>o</sup>n y<sup>t</sup> the Moderator hade alreadie written to the Bp to know his mind anent the visita<sup>o</sup>ns progresse at Kilterne, and y<sup>t</sup> he hade not as yet received a return, they thought fit to suspend all further processe till the Bp's homecoming, and ordained y<sup>e</sup> nixt meeting to be kept at Dingwall the first tuesday of Dec<sup>r</sup>, and ordained Mr. Walter Ross to acquaint Mr. W<sup>m</sup> M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie and Mr. James Houston of the pb<sup>r</sup>ies resolution anent the premisses.

Mr. John Gordon at the B<sup>r</sup>ens desire promised to keep his man-servant to the next meeting if it should hold twixt and Candlemas.

This day the Moderator made account of a letter received from the Bp anent Mr Gordon's processe, in q<sup>ch</sup> the Bp desired Jean Bayne should be sum<sup>d</sup> to compear before this seat, and askt whether or no she should adhere to the Synods sentence, if not y<sup>t</sup> she should be processed. The Moderator haveing y<sup>r</sup>fore caused summond her to this dyet, and she being called and compearing, was askt as s<sup>d</sup> is, but she obstinately refusing to adhere to the Synods sentence, was told she should be processed according to the Bp's order. But the B<sup>r</sup>en referred y<sup>o</sup> matter to further considera<sup>o</sup>n.

April 7, 1685.

This day the B<sup>r</sup>en takeing to considera<sup>o</sup>n y<sup>t</sup> Jean Bayne obstinately refused to submitt to the Synods sentence, advised q<sup>o</sup> should processe her, But the Moderator advertised he wrote for further advice to the Bp, and y<sup>r</sup>fore the matter was delayed to the next meeting, being May 5, 1685.

May 5, 1685.

There being a standing statute for perpetuall solemnization of the 29 of May, in comemora<sup>o</sup>n of our late Sovereigne Charles the 2<sup>d</sup> of blessed memorie his birth and restoration, the Moderator recomended to the B<sup>r</sup>en to observe y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> anniversary as formerly.

That day Jannet Fraser in the paroch of Dingwall, and serv<sup>t</sup> in Tulloch's familie, was conveyed before the P<sup>b</sup>rie on presump<sup>o</sup>n of her being big w<sup>t</sup> child, and destroying yrof, of q<sup>ch</sup> presump<sup>o</sup>n y<sup>e</sup> Min<sup>r</sup> of y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> paroch produced written evidences upon the disposition of severall persons examined by him to y<sup>t</sup> effect, as the s<sup>d</sup> evidences in y<sup>r</sup>selves doe bear; But the B<sup>r</sup>en finding y<sup>t</sup> cryms of y<sup>t</sup> nature were above y<sup>r</sup> cognizance and decision, determined to represent y<sup>e</sup> case to the civil Judge, q<sup>ch</sup> was accordingly done, the clerk w<sup>t</sup> the desire of the P<sup>b</sup>rie haveing wrote a letter to Sir Rorie M<sup>c</sup>Kenzie of Findon, Shereff Deput of Ross to y<sup>t</sup> effect; The s<sup>d</sup> Jannet being sent also to him accompanied w<sup>t</sup> the Kirk Officers of Dingwall and Urquhart.

This day the B<sup>r</sup>en mett be vertue of the Bps and Synods order to examine the witnesses adduced in Mr. John Gordons processe, and accordingly Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>ra and Mr. Walter Ross, to q<sup>m</sup> it was recomended to examine the witnesses led in the Paroch of Kilterne on some stated occasion preceeding this meeting, being askt whether or no they were carefull of this trust, Mr. Walter Ross answered it was not possible for him to attend it y<sup>e</sup> day appointed, because the waters interjected twixt his and Kiltern paroch were unpassable.

Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>ra answered he went to the s<sup>d</sup> paroch and examined the witnesses, q<sup>o</sup> names are as follows, viz<sup>t</sup>, Kath. nin ulla vic ulliam, Christian ni vic allan, and being further askt q<sup>t</sup> y<sup>r</sup> depositions were, answered y<sup>t</sup> Christian ni vic Allan deponed she was never wisse to any of Mr. John Gordons and Jean Baines converse, and y<sup>t</sup> she was never to her knowledge in one house or town w<sup>t</sup> y<sup>m</sup> both together, except q<sup>n</sup> the visita<sup>o</sup>n held at Kiltern, but y<sup>t</sup> she heard Kath. nin doil vic horish say, y<sup>t</sup> she saw the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. John Gordon and the s<sup>d</sup> Jean Bayne miscarry.

her, y<sup>r</sup>fore they thought fit to examine the witnesses adduced by Mr. Gordon, whose names are as follows: John M<sup>c</sup>Curchie, a married man of age fourtie year, Mary Chisholm, ane unmarried woman of age 30 year, and Mary nin doil uyre, ane unmarried woman, about 40, q<sup>o</sup> being all deeply sworn, and the two women w<sup>t</sup> Mr. Gordon being removed,

Mary nin doil uyre deponed she was in certaine knowledge of her stealing small linnens, some cheese, and ane white plaid from y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Gordon and his wiffe.

Thereafter the B<sup>r</sup>en proceeded to examine the relevancie of Mr. Gordons exceptions ag<sup>t</sup> Agnes Bayne, and Mr. Gordon being askt if he called his witnesses to this effect, answered he did. Their names are as followes, viz., Don<sup>d</sup> Ross and Gilbert Robertson, both in the Paroch of Kilterne, and Jannet nin can vic ulliam, the latter absent; the oy<sup>r</sup> two comp. viz., Don<sup>d</sup> Ross and Gilbert Robertson, the former a married person about fourtie, the latter unmarried about one and twentie years.

That day Agnes nin Dod vicay, referred from Contan, who brought a child a whyle ago and fathered the same on Keneth M<sup>c</sup>Curchie in Dingwell, who then acknowledged the same and satisfied the discipline of the Church, yet now it is found out that the said Keneth was not indeed the father of it bot one John M<sup>c</sup>finlay duj in Contan, who was married to the s<sup>d</sup> Agnes hir sister, and that the said Kenneth owned the said child out of his relation to the said John M<sup>c</sup>finlay duj being his vncl, and to clock y<sup>t</sup> Incest. The said Agnes being present, was inqyred who was the reall father of her child answered, That Donald Chisolm in Contan was the father of it, and neither the said John M<sup>c</sup>finlay duj nor the said Kenneth M<sup>c</sup>Curchie. The said Donald Chisholme called, compeared, and being inquired, denyed the same, and did instantlie prove that the said Agnes nin Dod vicay did confess before the Session of Contan, that ther was scandalous converse betwixt hir and the s<sup>d</sup> John M<sup>c</sup>finlay duj.

That day Keneth M<sup>c</sup>Curchie, referred from Dingwell, called, and not compearing, to be cited pro 2<sup>o</sup>, and the s<sup>d</sup> Agnes nin vicay su<sup>m</sup>ded apud acta to compeare the next meeting day.

The presbiterie therefor appoynted the said Keneth M<sup>c</sup>curchie to stand in sack cloath in the Church of Contan untill signes of repentance should be seen in him.

Donald Chisolme in Contan regrated to the Presbiterie that the said Agnes nin do<sup>d</sup> vicay had impudentlie and felslie slandered him by alledging that he was father to the child that she brought to John Du in Contan. The Presbiterie, after search, finding that the said Donald Chisolme was wronged by hir, absolved him, and censured the s<sup>d</sup> Agnes.

Dingll., 6 April 1686.

Mr. Donald Forbes preacht a populare Sermon, Heb. 12. 12, and was approven, and the Brethren considering that the said Mr. Donald Forbess had past all the ordinarie steps off tryall as Expectant, and had given sufficient prooffe of his abilities for the ministrie, and had given abundant satisfaction to the B<sup>r</sup>en in all the forsaid steps, did therefore recommend him to the R. R. Bishop for a license to preach the Gospell, and appoynted the Clerk of the Presbiterie to draw up a recomenda<sup>n</sup> to be sub<sup>t</sup> be the Mod<sup>r</sup> and the said Clerk to y<sup>t</sup> effect.

On 2d Feb. he 'maintained disputs upon the theses de satisfactione Christi, and was approven,' and was 'appoynted to exercise the nixt day of meeting on Rom. 9. ch. 15. 16 v<sup>ses</sup>.' [The Brethren had all preached on 14th October, the Kings Birth day.]

[Finlay M<sup>c</sup>ean vuy, Sum<sup>d</sup> from Kintail for not cohabiting with Duesh his wife, 'confest that he was impotent and not able to do his wife the dutie of ane husband. Mr. George Cuming declared that (as the Brethren had recomended to him) hee had represent to the Justices of peace, particularly to the Laird of Coul, the s<sup>d</sup> Donald M<sup>c</sup>Leay his liveing in habituall adulterie.

The Brethren considering that though their supplying the Parish of Contan was someq<sup>t</sup> troublesome to them, yet nevertheless, diverse of the parishinoers did repine verie much that they were left so long unprovided of a settled minister, they judged it fit to haue the desolate condition of the s<sup>d</sup> parish of Contan represented to the R. R. Bishop and Synod.

6 Decr. 1687.

There was no doctrine delivered that day, Mr. John M<sup>c</sup>cra, late Schoolmaster of Dingwall (who was appointed to exercise), having gone to Aberdene in order to attend the profession of Theologie.

Feb. 7, 1687.

[Donald M<sup>c</sup>Lennan was suspected of 'being guiltie with Jonat Fraser.' On 6 Dec. 1687 he appeared before the Presby. at the Bishop's request (he having failed to appear at previous meetings of the Synod and Presbytery), and denied guilt, 'q<sup>r</sup>upon he was then ordained to compeare before the session of Urq<sup>rt</sup> q<sup>r</sup> that scandal had been raised on him and Jonat Fraser, and that in order to further examination and getting clearnesse in that matter: and the min<sup>r</sup> of Urq<sup>rt</sup> was ordained to take his oath before the congregation after his compearance and examination before the Sessione.' On 3d January 1688 'the Min<sup>r</sup> of Wrq<sup>rt</sup> reported that Donald M<sup>c</sup>Lennan had not compeared before the Session of Wrq<sup>rt</sup> as was ordained, the reason q<sup>r</sup>of could not be known till Mr. Walter Ross came, in whose Paroch the s<sup>d</sup> Donald resides.' On 7th Feb. the Minister reported that M<sup>c</sup>Lennan had appeared 'as was ordained, and haveing been seriouslie exhorted to deal ingenuously, did still adhere to his innocencie: q<sup>r</sup>upon since clearing him of the scandal under q<sup>ch</sup> he lay but his oath, he was ordained to be readie to give his oath before the congregation of Wrq<sup>rt</sup> Sabboth come eight dayes thereafter.' Then follows the above report as to public prayers for him. These had their effect, for on 7th March, the Minister having reported that M<sup>c</sup>Lennan 'had confessed before the Session guilt with Jonat Fraser, and therefore had referred and caused summoned him to compeare before the p<sup>nt</sup> meeting, the said Donald compeared in sacco, confessing that he was guiltie with the said Janet, yet denying he was father of the child lately brought furth by hir: being seriously exhorted to glorifie God in the true and full confession of his sin, was remitted to the Session to satisfie Church discipline.]

Aug. 2, 1687.

The Minister of Kiltiern informing that John M<sup>o</sup>halich awoues himselfe to be a conventicler, the B<sup>r</sup>en thought it not their concern to follow him further untill they advise with the Bp and Synod.

<sup>1</sup> The last Minute recorded in volume iii. is dated 13th Oct. 1687. The next volume begins in 1716. In the interval there was not a sufficient number of Presbyterian ministers within the bounds to constitute a meeting, and, other Northern presbyteries being in the same position, an attempt was made by Mr. William Stewart, minister of Kiltearn, Mr. Hugh Anderson, minister of Cromarty, Mr. William Mackay, minister of Dornoch, and Mr. Walker Denune, minister of Golspie, to carry on the work of the Church, by getting themselves formed into the 'Presbytery of Ross.' That Presbytery did not long survive. Its records, beginning 25th July 1693, and ending 12th November 1701, contain some interesting reading.
