THE fubject of this Book, however melancholy it facing the 'word of God, and our own experience do alfure us, that " man who is born of a woman, is of few days, and full of trouble;" and that he " is born to trouble, as the fparks by upward " Nay, God's deared children are not exempted from this common fate. We fee what is the character God giveth his church, Ifa. liv. 11. O thou afflicted, and toffer with tempeth, and not comforred!"

If in this world then we mult look for tribulation, it is highly neceffary for every man to feek direction how to provide for it, and behave under it, fo as he may glorily God, edify others, and attain to eternal happinefs at lath. The tribulations we have to look for here are manifold; but among thefe that are outward, I know none about which men ought to be more thoughtful and concerned, than bodily ficknefs, that ufual harbinger of death, and which ulters the way to judgment.

This is a fubjed mot much handled in public fermons, which are delivered only to the m that are in health, the fick being in apale to attend them. Wherefore it feems the more needf y to handle it in writing, that follow afficient may have a book in their houf's, and at their bed-lides, as a monitor to preach to them in private, when they are reffrained from hearing fermons in public.

Aud though fonetimes miniters fermons may be very fuitable to the cafe of the fick and efficied, yet, alast the most part are careleds and forgeful hearers of thefe things white they are in health and protperity, as recisoning the evil day at found ditance from them. A book tien, fuch as the following Directory, being with them in time of ficknels and affiction, may, by the divine blefing be ufeful to bring to their remembrance their counfels and admonitions which they very much neglected in the time of their health.

Again, miniters of the gofpel, though never fo much include to attend the fick, yet by reafon of difability and multiplicity of other work, cannot be always with them, to direct, refolve, and comfort them. But fach a book as this they may have fill at hand to conclude with.

And in regard the affliched, for the molt part, are out of cafe to read for themfelves, it would be a molt charitable work for friends or neighbours that attend them, to lay hold on proper feafons for reading fuch a book as this in their hearing, and efficially fuch chapters or directions as they judge m-ft fuitable for them. Thus you might be helped in fome measure to exoner your for featness, and do your laft offices of kindnefs to your fick and dying friends, when you can ferve them no longer in this world.

I might have brought in, and handled fome controverfies (had I been fond of them) in the enfuing reatile, about the adminification of the Lord's fupper to the fick, and about extreme undion, which fome alfo begin to plead for, and thence have taken occafion to touch at fome other new utiges, fuch as the Middle State, Prayers for the Dead, and other Popith errors, that fome (called Proteflants) would have reviewed and immediated amo g us B. t I have induftionfly funned what is controverfial, and kept clofe to wn practical, and owned by all true Chriftians.

For prevening, the growth of thefe, and other errors, (from which this nation hath been much longer free than others). I with all ranks among us would clofely obferve the facred rule of faith. God's word, and remember the folema and antional engagements we of this land are under, to munitain the pure truths of God therein contained, in oppofition to all forts of error, whether Popih, Pelagian, Arian, Antinomian &c. And may we ever abhor the doctrine that would-teach us to breach thefe hands afunder.

Have we not ground this day, to fulpeft that Satan is carrying on a deep and fubtle plot for flaking our covenanted reformation, and weakning a Protestant interest ? when, upon the one hand, fome are beginning openly to advance and propagate the old abjured Popilh doctrines. which our reformers did throw out, and with axes and hammers would go at once to cut down all our carved work; and at the fame time, on the other hand, fome would be at the breaking down the excellent fences of our reformation, viz. our covenants, confessions, the magistrates power, &c. For this end, papers are spread, and politions advanced, impugning the warrantablenefs of our national covenants and confessions, and the obligation thereof; reflecting allo upon our worthy reformers and ancettors, as unenlightened, who framed and took them, or died adhering thereunto; and allo denying the magiltrate's power circa facra, (for the fupport of truth, and suppressing of herefies), accknowledged by the word of God, and our Confession of Faith ; and all this, forfooth, to make way for a toleration of all errors and fects among us : though they cannot but know, that tolerating of falfe religions is expressly ranked among the fins forbidden in the fecond commandment, according to the expolution of our Larger Catechilm; and is alto condemned by the xxiiid chapter of our Confestion : in both which, we may fee the clear fcripture-text . cited by the Affembly, for refuting and condemning any fuch toleration. Ah! what joy may all this caufe at Rome! therefore tell it not in Gath, &c.

As the Lord dd fignally continenance our reformers practice, in entering into folern and national covenants with God, and among themfelves, for religion and reformation, by the pouring out of his Spirit from on high, for bringing in of many foulds to himfell, and for overturning idolatry and inperfition and advancing reformation to a great pith, in fpite of all the enemies and difficulties that were in the way. If o their practice of national covenanting, even under the New-Teitament differilation, is fulficiently warranted both by the light of nature, and by the word of God, and that in both Teltaments. And this will appear, if we conlider the forpure-precedents.

together with the promifes and prophecies of the Old Teltament relating to golpel-times, and compare them with the New; and especially thefe which foretel the unchurching of the Jewilli nation, and the ingrafting of the Gentile nations in their room; and that thereupon the national church-flate and privileges of the Jews, were to be transferred to Christian nations, and particularly this of being nationally in covenant with God. Which prophecies are to have their special and full accomplishment at Bablyon's downfal. For illustrating these points, and applying the fcripture-texts relative thereto, I might expatiate in feveral fheets of paper, if it were proper here. I shall only at this time cite fome of the texts that may be well improven to the forefaid purpofes; which the reader may turn to, and confider at his leifure, fuch as Ifa. xix 18, 21, 23, 24, 25. Ifa. xlv. 23. Jer.1. 4,5 the lx.lxi. and lxii. chapters of Itaiah throughout. 11a. lv. 3, 4. 5 Micah iv. 1, 2. Zech.viit 21, 22, 23. Rev. ii. 15 Rom. xi. 17. 19. Rom. x. 12, 19. Matth. iii. 5, 6. Acts viii. 6, 12. 2 Cor. viii 5 Matth. xxi. 43. Rom. 1x 24, 25, 26. compared with Hol. i. 9, 10. 11. Hof. ii. 23. Likewife 1 might cite feveral prophecies with respect to the islands, and utmost ends of the earth, which were peopled by Japhet, that have a very peculiar and favourable afpect to this covenanted land.

Befides all which, it is evident from the firth and great command of the law, which is directed to I fixed as a natien, and obligatory under the New Taltament as well as the Oild, that it is a moral duty univ.rfally and perpetually bunding upon nations and locieties, as well as ingle perfors, to chuie, acknowledge, and avouch the Lord to be their God, to walk in his ways, and keep his flatutes. This is required in the first commandment, according to the expolution of our Lirger Catechilm; and is three confirmed by thefe texts, that warrant and exemplify the practice of national covenauing, then as Deut, xivi, 15, 17, Joh, xivi 22. If tuch a national way did our fashers of old acknowledge and avouch the Lord to be there God, and devote themfelves and their polerity to the Lord. And bleffed be the Lord our God, who did many ways declare himfelf to be well pleafed with the bargain, and efpecially by filling the temple with his glory.

As the prophets and godly Jews were at great pains to convey to polt rity hiltorical accounts of the wonderful deliverances God wrought for Ifrael at the Red-lea, and in refering them from Egypt, Babylon, and other enemies: for it would be ufeful to fortify our reformation, if we were careful to hand down to the rifing generation a fenfe of God's diffinguilhing mercies to this land, in delivering us from foritual Bibylon, and in refcuing us from time to time from thele captains that have fought to lead us back thicher. Many a time hath he delivered us, when we have been brought very low.

By many inflances it hath appeared, that the glorious JEHOVAH hath not been ashamed to own his covenantrelation to this finful and unworthy land. God forbid that we of this age should be ashamed to own our covenant-relation to him. This hath been both our glory and our fafety; and I hope, their will ftill be found a remnant to own it, and plead it with God in the time of danger. Surely, it is not time now to difclaim it, when the enemies of our Zion are combining together, and feeking to raze her to the foundation. Let all her lovers cry mightily to her covenanted Lord, in her behalf, in thefe fhaking times: let them join to put up that prayer of the Pfalmift, Pfal. lxviii. 28. " Strengthen, O God, that which thou halt wrought for us;" and that of Habakkuk, Hab. iii. 2. " O Lord, revive thy work in the midit of the years." May 27. 1727.

N. B The forcfaid digrefilion in the preface to the first edition was occasioned by the browing of ione Sectarian notions, which introduced great reellogs and flakings in this corner, and other parts of this church; fince which time, also the hath enjoyed httle peace within her walls, or profperity wit in her palaces; but, init ad thereof. In thath been toll'd with tempelis and troubles of various kinds, whereby the children of Zion have been brought and full he under great diffres and affidition. The firl imprefion of this book being difpiced of, and a fecond called for, I have the more readily confented to it, at this time of general calmuty and differis, feeing that book is intended as a directory to Chrittians under affiction, whatever fort it be. It cannot but be obvious to every icrious obferver, that the Lord's judgments are in the earch at this day, and that the inhabitants of this land are generally vifited with calamites of divers kinds, both fipiritual and temporal; which makes a Directory how to manage and carry under them the more feationable and necefierv.

Ali! the Lord's hand is visibly lifted up against us at this day, and hath been for fome years paft, in flutting up the church's womb, blafting golpel ordinances, and withdrawing his Spirit from the alfemblies of his people, and from our judicatories. The flood gate is opened for error, infidelity, and loofenefs to overfpread the land; fo that the gofpel of Chrift, the holy fcriptures, and all revealed religion, are contemned and ridiculed by many. " The anger of the Lord hath divided us both in church and ftate, and hath mingled a perverse spirit in the midit of us ;" yea, hath made fuch woful breaches amongft godly ministers and Chriftians, who are aiming at the fame things, that no balm can be found for healing them. There is a way opened for a carnal felf feeking ministry to get into the vineyard, when faithful labourers are thruft out, and godly preachers and fludents are difcouraged from entering in. Not a few Christian congregations, who lately were harmonious and united in partaking of gofpel-ordinances, are now fo miferably rent and feattered, through mournful intrufions, and dividing courfes, that they cannot worship God together; and many of them are wandering like theep having no thepherd, expoled to bealts of prey, and liable to perith in a flate of ignorance or negligence.

L'kewife, the Lord's hand is remarkably lifted up againit u, in the variety of temporal judgments and calamities brought upon us within a very ihort time bypaft. Sometimes the Lord fends forth his flormy winds with extraordinary violence, fo as to carry terror and deftruction alongft with them both by fea and land, and even threaten to bury us in the ruins of our houles. Sometimes he fends fuch long continued rains in time of harveft, as threaten to deftroy the whole crop before our eyes. Sometimes fuch extraordinary florms of froft and fnow, as to bind up the waters and mills, that food cannot be prepared for us, and we are ready to familh in midit of plenty. Sometimes he fends fuch deftructive ftorms of lightening and thunder from heaven, and kindles fuch violent fires on earth, that whole cities with their inhabitants are like to be confumed therewith. Upon our neighbouring countries dreadful inundations have been fent of late, for destroying the inhabitants with their cattle and effects. Again, God hath vifited us with long continued drought, cold, and unnatural forms in the spring, and sometimes with frost in midst of summer, which have brought on extraordinary fearcity and dearth of victual; fo that there are great diforders committed in the land by riots and tumults for want of food, and multitudes of families are diffolved, and forced to wander begging their bread ; and the cattle alfo are famifhed for want of grafs and food to fuftain them. In the mean time we are engaged in way with cruel enemies, who feize our fhips, carry our countrymen captive, throw them into dungeons and noifome prifons, where they ufe them barbaroufly; yea, much of their blood is fhed. and many valuable lives are loft in our defence. And befides our other calamities, we fuffer greatly through decay of trade and merchandife, and penury of money : in many places merchants, tradefmen and artificers want bufmefs ; there is no work nor hire for labourers, and for those who would use honest industry for bread, whether men or women; fo that want is " come upon us as one that travelleth, and poverty like an armed man;" and many are reduced to extreme milery, and flarving circumftances for lack of bread.

By all which proceedings it appears that God hath a peculiar controverfy with Scotland, and threatens to punish her remarkably for her hainous fins and provocations. The Lord's hand hath been long lifted up againit us, and now it is higher lifted up than ever; and the higher it is lifted up, the blow is like to be the feverer when given. He hath fent many leffer ftrokes and judgments upon us, as forerunners and warnings of greater, which he hath still in referve for us, if we repent not ; for his magazine is far from being exhausted. As there are many caufes for these calamities of ours, fo I think there is a principal one mentioned, Matth. xxiv. 12. " Iniquity doth abound, and the love of many is waxed cold." Infidelity, immorality, and contempt of the gospel, are come to a prodigious height; our hearts are become cold and frozen to Chrift and his interest, to his people and holy laws; for which caufe God is provoked to fend fuch judicial cold and frofts upon our land, and the fruits of the earth, fo as to mar and diminish our crops, and reduce both men and beafts to the greateft itraits .--And yet fo great is our impenitency and perverfenels, that we will not fee the Lord's hand, nor be reformed by all these judgments.

It might well be expected, when the Lord's judgments are fo visibly in the earth, that not only his people by profeffion, but even the inhabitants of the world would learn righteoufnefs, according to Ifa. xxvi. 9 But, alas! fo perverie are we in walking contrary to God, that neither the inhabitants of the world, nor thefe who profefs to be feparated from the world, will alter their courie, nor learn righteoutnels; nay, initead of that, many are learning ftill more wickednefs. " Shall I not vifit for thefe things? faith the Lord : and fhall not my foul be avenged on fuch a nation as this ?" Alas ! hath he not been provoked to fay concerning us, as he did concerning his ancieut people, Lev. xxvi 23. 24 " If ye will not be reformed by these things, but will walk contrary unto me; then will I alfo walk contrary unto you and will bring feven times more p'agues upon you, according to your fins." And likewife to fay unto us. as unto them, "Wh n ye spread forth your hands, I will hide mme eyes from you; and when ye faft and make many prayers, I will not hear; but I will confume you with the fword, with the famine, and with the peftilence," as in Ifa. i.15. Jer. xiv.12.

The fword, famine, and peftilence, are God's three mortal arrows, which he commonly threatens to shoot against impenitent and incorrigible offenders. Two of thefe are already fhot against us: the fword is drawn, and much of our count: ymen's blood is already thed; and what further ftreams of it may flow before it be put up in its fheath, God only knows. The evil arrow of famine (as God calls it, Ezek.v. 16.) is let fly againft us at the fame time, and famine is the arrow which is the foreft of the three. When it was put to David's choice which of the three he would be the butt of, he would not chufe famine. The prophet Joel doth bewail and deprecate this judgment in the most pathetic manner, and calls the whole land to failing and prayer for removing it. [oel i. 10, 14. and we fee, when God is most angry, and threatens to fpend his arrows upon a guilty people, he begins with the arrow of famine, as the foreft, as in Deut. xxxii. 23, 24. " I will fpend mine arrows upon them; they shall be burnt with hunger." And we fee what the Spirit of God faith of these who die by this arrow, Lam. iv. o. " They that be flain with the fword are better than they that be flain with hunger; for these pine away. Stricken through for want of the fruits of the field ;" and therefore their death is most lingering and miferable. Likewife famine ufeth to bring on the most noifome and mortal difeafes. and frequently the p-ftilence doth follow upon the back of famine. Is it not high time then, for our land to take the alarm, when God begins to thoot his evil arrows? When the lion roars, it becomes us to fear. yea, to humble ourfelves in the duft, and mourn for our iniquities. which kindle the fire of his wrath.

Let us fearch and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord, from whom we have deep'y revolted: and particuletly, let us mourn for and turn from thefe fins which the word of God points out as bringing on famine; fur as, 1. Afcribing our earthly comforts and bleffine ad g be-other things than God, the true author. This fin we find threatened with fearcity and famine, Jer. xliv. 17, 26, 27. Hof. it. 5,  $0 \approx 2$ . Perverting of plenty to luxury and prodigality, fenfuality and excefs, revellings and dancings, balls and affentbles. We fee how thele are threatened, If a. v. 11, 12, 13. Amos vi. 4, 6, 7. 3. Rejefting the bread of life, and delpifting the food of our fulls. God ufeth to poulinh men for this fun, by depriving them of bread for their budies, Jer. xia 21, 22. 4. Mens minuting their own things more than the things of God; and neglefting to build his houfe, and pur refepct upon his ordinances. Upon fuch accounts God brings on fearcity and famine, Hag. i. 9, 11. 5. Covenant-breaking, and dealing cruelly with the poor, or with firangers that live among us; it is for thefe fins that God fern the three years famine upon the land of lifeal, 2 Sam xxii. I.

<sup>6</sup> Morover, let us look upon all thefe temporal forms and calanities which are come, or coming upon the land, as warnings to prepare for a more awful form that we muth all meet with, namely, the form of death and judgment; let us findh abiunally prepared for that form, and then other florms will not fo much affect us. If it be afked, What we fhall do to be fafe in the time of that trying florm? the anfwer is, Let us fee that we be among the broken in heart, or fincere penitents, who are hearily grieved for all known fins: that we be true believers in Chrift, who truft in nothing but his rightreoutinefs and merits for juffification and falvation: that we be born again, and made new creatures by a faving change both in heart and life : that it be our great bulanefs to clear up oar evidences of peace with God through Chrift, and our title to the manfions which he hath purchafed by his blood. O that God's judgments, when they are in the earth, were means to awaken us to flee from the wrath to come, to Chrift our refuge! When the floods of great waters are fwelling up to the brim, our only fifty is to feure a hiding-place in Chrift's wounds.

fin. Let us follow the example of Noah, who when he faw ye toflood coming, took warning, and prepared an ark for faving himfelf and his houfehold, Heb. xi. y-. Let us even imirate the Egyptians that feared the Lord; they, when warned of the dreadful florm of hail that was coming on the land, made their fervants and cattle to flee into the houfes, Exod. ix: 20. God hath in mercy provided chambers for his people to hide themfelves in when thorms are coming, even the chambers of his attributes and promifes, and the chambers of Chrift's wounds and interceffion; in thefe only we can find fafety: let us then enter into them by faith, when he invites us, Ha xxvi, 20, 21.

Seeing, in these evildays, we have fomany harbingers and forerunners of death before our eyes, it will be highly our wifdom to keep ourfelves ftill in a waiting pofture, always ready and willing to die. What is there in this weary land to tempt us to defire to abide in it? Is it not a laud overwhelmed with fin and forrow? O believers, are you toffed with tempelts here? Seek the wings of a dove, that you may flee away, and be at reft. Be habitually defiring to depart, that you may be with Chrift. Surely for you to die is gain, yea, infinite gain ! What are the imaginary p'easures of this world to the real happiness of the next? Though the ftrugg'es of death be grievous to nature, yet the gain of dying thould reconcile you to it. You do not flick at the trouble of putting off your cloaths at night, to gain a little reft to your bodies; and why fhou'd you flick at uncloathing yourfelves of the garment of fleth at God's call, to gain everlatting reft to your fouls, and the fruition of Chrift's glorious prefence for ever? Let the thoughts of this gain put you upon uling all means to get your hearts weaned from the love of the world, and its comforts. Keep the mantle of earthly enjoyments hanging loofe about you, efpecially in these calamitous times, that fo it may be eafily dropt when death comes to carry you to the eternal world. O for more of the lively faith of that world, and of him that is the Lord and purchafer of it ! But feeing this fubj ct is more largely infifted on in the book itfelf, I shall add no more here upon it. Only I shall subjoin a collection of some fweet and comfortable texts of fcripture, very proper for dving believers to meditate and feed on by faith, to grip to and

O Let me fleep in Jefus! I would not live aways in this evil world, that has little in it tempting, and feems ftill to grow worfe, and where the torrent of fin and backfliding feems to grow ftronger.

I would defire to depart, and to be with Chrift, which is far better than to be here. I am willing rather to be ablent from the body, and prefent with the Lord. Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none upon earth I defire befides thee: for though my heart, firength, and fielh fail; yet the Lord will be the firength of my heart, and my portion for ever. I refolve to obey, to fubmit to the Lord's will, to die like Mofes and Aaron, the one at mount Hor, the other at mount Abarim. They went up, and died there at the command of the Lord.

Nothing but an intereff in Chrift can give peace in life, or comfort in destth. He is the chief among ten thouland, and altogether lovely.—My body is in part dead, but I know, I cannot die eternally while Jefus lives. Oh, delightful thought! that I, who was going on in fin, fould be plucked as a brand out of the burning .- Oh, how will they lie on a death-bed that have nothing but their own works to fly to! with only this to depend on, I should be the most miferable of all creatures; but the long white robe of my Redeemer's righteoufnefs is all my defire. They are truly bleffed, they alone arc happy, who are enabled to exult in the garment of celeftial glory, which never waxeth old, in the illuftrious robes of a Saviour's confimmate righteoufnefs, which are incorruptible immortal. ## A Directory for a Family or Perfon under Affliction, by Sicknefs or otherwife.

The INTRODUCTION.

MAN, when he first dropt from his Maker's hands, was a holy and innocent creature, pure from fin, and confequently free from fickness and trouble, enjoying uninterrupted health and profperity both in body and foul. But no fooner was he tainted with fin, but he became liable to all forts of miferies, temporal, spiritual, and eternal : his foul being the refidence of fins and lufts, his body turned the receptacle of fickness and dileafes. And feeing God's own children have the relicks of fin and corruption in them, while in this world, they are not to expect exemption from fuch afflictions; and the infinitely wife God fees meet to make use of bodily diftempers to correct the corruptions, and try the graces of his people, and to promote both their ipiritual and eternal advantage. Hence it is faid of Lazarus, Behold, he whom thou loveft, is John s beloved, and yet fick. It is no e dearest of God's faints to be like cranes, and mourn like sion of fore ficknefs; as Hezekiah d ale Notwithstanding the cafe is fometimes most trying and exercifing to the beft of God's people : and they are never more ready to queftion God's love, or quarrel with his providence, than under heavy fickness and bodily diffress. It is therefore highly the concernment of all, whether families or private perfons, to enquire how they ought to behave under or after afflicting ficknefs; and how they shall provide for fuch an evil time before it come. And for the help of all that defire inftruction in this matter. I have written the following directory; which, for method's fake, I fhall divide into feveral chapters.

CHAP. I.

Containing general directions to all families and perfons vifited with ficknefs

DIRECT. I. Diligently enquire into the ends and defigns, for which utually God fends ficknefs and affliction upon Perfons.

A N infinitely holy and gracious God hath various and wife ends in afflicting the children of men, whether they be converted or unconverted; which ought to be duly confidered by all, and efpecially by those who are vifited with ficknes; fome whereof I shall inflance.

I. God vifits with ficknefs, to caufe carelefs finners bethink themfelves concerning their fouls effate and condition, who perhaps had never a ferious thought about it before. There are many who, when in health and fitrength, are for intent upon the pleafures and profits of the world, that they mind nothing elfe; all the worlds, exhortations and counfels of minilings beckers, and friends, are loft upon the nil they cannot endure to entertain a thought of God of the foul, of death, of heathought of I, or of judgment to come; till God

THE AFFLICTED

doth caft them into fome fickness or bodily diftrefs; and then, fometimes, they begin, with the prodigal, to come to themfelves, and bethink themfelves, concerning their fouls, and a future life. Now, this is God's defign, 1 Kings viii. 47. " If they bethink themfelves in the land whe-" ther they they are carried captives, and repent," dec. By ficknefs. God gives a man, that before was wholly diverted from foul-matters by bufinefs, company, and pleafures, occafion to bethink himfelf. The man is now confined to his chamber, is deprived of his former company and diversions, and so gets time and leafure to commune with his own heart, and reflect on his former ways, and to hear what confeience fpeaks concerning a judgment day, and a world to come, and the need of a Saviour. And fo, by the bleffing of God upon fuch afflictions, not a few have begun their first acquaintance with God and Chrift, and ferious religion. Nay, the furnace is Chrift's ufual work-houfe, where he has formed the most excellent yeffels of honour and praife, Ifa. xlviii. 10. " I have chofen "thee in the furnace of affliction." Manaffeh, the Prodigal, Paul, and the Jailor, were all

Now, there are feveral remarkable leffons which God would teach us by the rod.

1/f, The knowledge of God, it is faid of Manafich, 2 Gron. xxxiii. 12, 13. "When he " was brought to affliction, &c. then Manaffeh " knew that the Lord he was God." Though Manaffch was well educated, and early taught the knowledge of God, yet till now he knew not the Lord: But now he knew him in his power and greatnefs, his holinefs and hatred of fin; now he knew God in his goodnefs and metey, and wondered that he had kept him fo long out of hell.

adly. Another leffon is the knowledge of ourfelves. In time of health and profperity, we are apt to forget ourfelves, and our mortality s but ficknefs caufeth us to know that we are but men, and frail men, Pfal. ix 20. that God bath an abfolute fovereignty over us, and can as eafly cruth us, as we do a moth.

3dy, He teacheth us the emptinels of the world. How vain a help is that, which fails a man in the time of his greateft need! and oft-times we fee, that worldly means and friends can neither give the leaft eafe to the bodics, nor comfort to the fouls of perform under ficknefs and diffrefs.

. 4thly, Another leffon is the great evil of fin, which is the caule of all fickneff's and differes whatfoeger, F Cor. xi. 30. " For this caule " many are weak and fickly among you."— Ah! what a root of bitternefs mult that bey which brings forth fuch bitter frail!

THE AFFLICTED

sthly, He fneweth us the precionfacts and excellency of Chrift and his promites; which only can enable a Chriftian to rejoice in tribulation, and be early under the greateft pains and difeafes. There are many who are indifferent about Chrift in time of health, that when ficknefs comes, do change their note, and cry, O for an intereft in Chrift, above all things!

III. God fends fuch trials and diffreffes, in order to mortify and kill fin in us, Ifa. xxvij 9. " By this shall the iniquity of Jacob be purged, " and this is all the fruit to take away his fin." And indeed fickness and affliction, through the bleffing of God, hath a native tendency to weaken and fubdue our prevailing fins and lufts. O man, is thy heart turned hard, fo as thou art not feufible of thy own fins, or of others fufferlogs ? God fees meet to try the fire of affliction, to lee if it will melt thy frozen heart. Haft thou undervalued health, and flighted thy mercics ? Now God removes them from thee, that by the want of them, thou mayeft know the worth of them. Art thou turned proud and felf-conceited ? God fends thee a thorn in the flefh, to prick the fwoln bladder of pride, that thou mayeft not be puffed up above measure; God lays thee low upon thy bed, that thou mayeft be lowly in thy heart. Doth love to the world prevail in thee ? God fends affliction to diffeover its emptinels, and wean thee from it. Art thou fallen fecure, dead, and formal ? God fends affliction to awake thee, that thou mayft not fleep the fleep of death.

MAN'S COMPANION.

IV. God fends ficknefs, to awaken in us the Spirit of prayer and supplication, and make us more earnest and importunate in our audresses to the throne of grace. I here is a great difference betwixt our prayers in health and in ficknefs, betwixt-our humiliations in profperity, and in advertity. In profperity we pray heavily and drowfily, but adverfity adds wings to our defires. Ila xxvi 16. Lord, in trouble have they visited thee. they poured out a prayer when thy chastening was upon them. Though they were backward enough to prayer before, yet they pour it out most freely now. The very heathen mariners cried aloud to God in a ftorm .--What a famous prayer did Manasseh make when he was under his iron fetters! We find it thrice mentioned, 2 Chron. xxxiii. 13, 18, 19. And the voice of fervent prayer, is what the Lord defires to hear.

V. Another end is, to loofe our hearts from the things of this world; and caufe us to look and long for heaven. When we enjoy health and cafe in this world, we are apt to fay with Peter on the mount, It is good for us to be here: : but, when diffreds cometh, God's people will turn their tongue, and fay with the Pfalmift, Pfal. heading in the good for me to draw night to God. When things here go well with us, we are apt to think ourfelves at home : but, when trouble arifeth we begin to fay. "A rife, let us depart, this is not our reft " Though heaven was much out of fight and out of mind before, yet, when fillding ficknel's comes, the poor believer will figh, and tay with David, Pfal. ly, 6. O that I had wings like a dove! for then would I fly away, and be at reft: I would haften my ejcape from the windy tempeft.

VI. God defigns to make the world bitter, and Chrift fweet to us. By fuch afflictions, he lets men fee, that the world is nothing but vanity and vexation of fpirit; that riches avail not in the day of wrath : then it is, that they may fee the infufficiency of the world to relieve them : that, as one faith, " A velvet-flipper " cannot cure the gout ; a golden cap cannot " drive away the head-ach; nor a bed of down " give eafe in a fever." And as the world turns bitter, fo Chrift grows fweet to the believer. In time of cafe and health, Chrift is often very much neglected and forgot. As the difciples. while the fea was calm, fuffered Chrift to fleep with them in the fhip, thinking they might make their voyage well enough without his help; but when they were ready to be drowned, then they fee their need of Chuilt, they awake him, crying, Master, fave us, or elfe we perish. So the beit of faints, when all is eafy about them. are prone to fuffer Chrift to fleep within them, and to to neglect the lively actings of faith on Chrift; but when the florm of affliction begins to arife, and they are ready to be overwhelmed with diffrefs, then they cry, " None but Chrift, none but Chrift."

VII. God tryfts with ficknefs and diffrefs, in order both to prove and improve his prople's graces, Deut. viii. z. Rev. ii. 10. Grace is hereby both tried and firengthened. 1/7, Such afflictions do prove both the truth and firength cf oar graces, as they ferve to try if we love God for himfelf; if we can endure and hold out in ferving him, waiting and depending upon him, notwithflanding of difcouragements. That faith will liftlice for a little affiction, that will not fuffice for a great one. Peter had faith enough to come upon the fea at Chrift's call; but as foon as the waves began to fwell, his faith began to fail, and his feet to fink, till Chrift mereifully caught hold of him, faying, " O thou of little faith, wherefore didft thou doubt?" Matth. xiv. 31. Little did Peter think his faith was fo weak till now.

adly, They tend to improve our graces alfo, by quickening and ftrengthening them. They ferve as a whetflone to fharpen faith, fo as the foul is made to renounce carthly flielters, and to clafp about God in Chrift, as its only refuge and portion. They excite to repentance and ferious mourning for fin; for, like the winter frost and fnows, they make the fallow-ground of our heart more tender. They prompt us to heavenly mindedness, felf-denial, and patient waiting on God. Yea, the experience of God's people can atteft it, that grace is never more lively, than under affliction. David never found himfelf better, as to his fpiritual flate, than when he was perfecuted and hunted as a partridge on the mountains : and hence he fays, Pfal cxix. 71. " It is good for me, that " I have been afflicted."

VIII. God's aim is, to awaken us to redeem time, to prepare for flitting, and clear up our evidences for heaven. In the time of health we are apt to trifle away time, to loiter in our journey, and forget that we are pilgrims on the earth; wherefore God fends ficknefs as his medfenger, to mind us thereof.

Now it highly concerns us, when ficknels attacks us, to confider and meditate upon thefe ends for which God brings on diffrefs, and pray earnefly that they may be accomplifhed in us; and fo our ficknels fhall not be unto death, (fpiritual or eternal), but to the glory of God, and good of our fouls.

DIRECT. II. Let all who are vifited with ficknefs and diffr fs. fearch for the Achan in the camp, and enquire diligently what is the ground and caufe of God's controverfy with them.

I T hath been the practice of God's people in feripture-times, to enquire into the caufe and meaning of God's rods which have been laid upon them. So David, 2 Sam. xxi. when the land of lfreel was three years under the froke of famire, he enquired into the meaning of it. So Job is exceedingly deficous to know why God let him up as a mark for his arrows, Job vii. so. and hence it is that he makes that petition, Job x. 2. which is moft fuitable for every man in diffrefs, " Shew me wherefore thou contendeft with me "

I grant indeed, that God fometimes vifits his people with affliction, for the trial and exercife of their grace, and for their fpiritual influction, more than for the correction of their fin. But fin being the original and foundation of all affliction, it is fafeft, when it is our own cafe, and most acceptable to God, to look on fin as the procuring caufe. Or, if our fins have not immediately procured the prefent affliction, yet the beft of God's children muft own that they have at least deferved it. We fee the fin of the Corinthians is mentioned as the caufe of their fickneis, 1 Cor. xi 30. " For this caufe many are weak and fickly among you." The Pfalmift concludes the very fame thing, Pfal. cvii. 17, 18. " Fools, becaufe of " their tranfgreffions, and their iniquities, are " afflicted : their foul abhorreth all minner of " meat; and they draw nigh unto the gates of " death." But ordinarily, by ficknefs, the Lord points at fome one fin in us, more than another, fome Jonah in the fhip, that hath raifed the a ftorm, which the Lord would have us to fearch out, and throw over-board without delay.

Quest. But how shall we discover and find out the particular, fin for which God afflicts us with fickness and diffress ?

Anf. 1/t, Study the Lord's word, and the chastifements there recorded, which he hath inflicted upon people for their fins; and enquire if you be guilty of the like. Obferve what hath been God's mind to his people, and what fin he hath pointed out to them, when they have been brought under fuch a rod : and fo you may learn his mind to you, Rom. xv. 4. " For whatfoever things were written aforetime, were written for our learning."

adly, Confider what is the fin which confeience doth most of all accuse thee for, in thy most ferious and folitary hours. Confcience is God's deputy, and thy bofom-monitor, whofe voice, perhaps, thou hast little regarded in the day of thy health; wherefore God hath fent a fharper meffenger, to fecond the voice of confcience. Hear now the voice of the rod, for it is the fame with the voice of confcience. In the day of prosperity, carnal profits and pleafures made fuch a noife, that the voice of confcience could not be heard ; wherefore God hath brought on thee the filent night of adverfity, that his deputy may obtain audience. Well then, give ear; what faith concience now ? may you not hear it faying, as Reuben to his brethren in diffrefs, Spake I not to you in the day of health, do not commit fuch a fin, and do not delay repenting for fuch a fin, but you would not hear? O man, let conscience get a hearing at laft, as it got with the patriarchs, when they were brought to diffrefs in Egypt, and made them to confess their fin, in felling of Joseph, Gen. xlii. 21. "We are verily " guilty concerning our brother, in that we " faw the anguish of his foul, when he be-" fought us, and we would not hear : therefore " is this diffrefs come upon us."

3dly, Confider what are thefe evils, that others have obferved in you, whether they be friends or focs. Hearken to what a Chriftian friend noticeth in you, either when fpeaking to you, or to others about you. " Let the righte-" ous finite me, (Lith David) and it fhall be a

" kindnefs." Yea, do not difregard what even enemies fay of you: as David got good by the malicious reproaches of Shimei, in the day of his affliction, fo may you, in the time of diftrefs; for, fometimes, malice itfelf will fpeak truth. Enemies are fharp-fighted to fpy out our faults, and fo may, through the divine bleffing, prove monitors to us, both with refpect to fin and duy.

4thly, Confider the nature and circumflances of thy diffrefs. Off-times the affiltion is fo fuitable to the trangreffion, that we may clearly read our fin written on the forehead of our punifiment, as in the cafe of Adonibezek, and many others. And alfo you may be helped to find it out, by the Lord's timing of the rod to you. Was it fent when you was under much formality in duty ? or when you was eagerly purfuing the things of the world ? or when you was under the power of fome prevailing luft or other ? Then the rod comes to reprove you, and awake you to fee the evil thereof.

514/y, Confider what is the fin that halt been formerly molt affrighting to thy thoughts, and perplexing to thy conficience, when thou haft been in the immediate view of death and a tribunal. It is very likely (if thou haft not truly repeated of it) that is the fin which God now intends to awake thee to fee the evil of, that thou mayeff fincerely mourn for, and turn from it, looking to God in Chrift for pardon and mercy.

Object. Ah (faith one) it is my lot to ly under a dumb and filent rod, I do not understand its language, I cannot hear its voice, I cannot find out the fin that is pointed at by it; what courfe fhall I take ?

Aufw. 1. Be deeply humbled under this trial, and bewail thy cafe before the Lord; for it very much aggravates the affliction to God's people, when they know that the language of it: Hence was it that Job lamented fo heavily, that his way was hid, and he knew not the reafon of God's contending with him, Job iii. 23.

2. A believer's cafe may be fometimes fo dark, that it requires a great deal of fpiritual art and wildom to enable him to hear the voice of the rod, and underftand its langage. Hence it is faid, "He is a man of wildom that feeth "God's name upon it," Micah vi. 9. Now, this wildom mult only come from above: Therefore,

3. Go to God, and earnefily beg for this wildom, that you may know his mind, and the meaning of the rod. Do as Kebekah, when the children ftruggled in her womb, the went to enquire of the Lord, faying, "Why "am I thus!" Gen. xxv. 22. Cry to God to give you his Spirit, to teach and enlighten you to fee fin in its evil, and the particular evils you are guilty of. This was Job's courfe in his affliction: "Shew me (lays he) wherefore it thou contended with me. That which I "fee not, teach thou me. Make me to know "my tranfgrefion and my fin." There is no better way for a prioner to know the readon of his confinement, than to afk the magiltrate that committed him. God is a wife agent, and can give beft account of his own actions.

4. If thou can't not find out the particular fin for which God afflicts thee, then labour to repent of every known fin, and cry for pardon of every unknown and forgotten fin alfo. Do that out of wifdom, which Herod did out of malice, who, becaufe he could not find out the babe Jelus, killed all the children of Bethlehem, that he might be fire to kill Jeliss among them. Let us feek the utter ruin and death of all our fins, that we may be fire to deflroy that fin for which God afflicts us.

5. Study to exercife a firong faith, and a humble fubmificon, while God keeps you under the filent rod. Believe firmly, that God is juft, though you know not for what he contends. And however long he thinks fit to make you walk in the dark, refolve humbly to wait on him, and commit yourfelf to him, who has many times guided the blind in the way they knew not.

DIRECT. III. When any fit of ficknefs attacks you, think ferioufly upon death, and make diligent preparation for it.

Do not mean that any man may delay the work of preparation for death, till ficknefs cometh: No, no; this fhould be the great and uptaking belincfs of every man in the time of his health and firength. But ficknefs and difeafes being the harbingers of death, and meffengers fent from God to warn us of its coming; every man is thereby called to renew the work of preparation for death, with all carnelfnefs and application. God's voice, by every fit of fickeris, is that in Deut xxxii.  $z_9$ . "O that " they were wife, that they underflood this, " that they would confider their latter end!" G d isnows our folly, and readinefs to forget this great work in the day of health; and the effore, in his mercy, he fends ficknefs and alliftion, to teach us fo to number our days, that we may apply our hearts to this picce of heavenly wildom, of making preparation for death.

And here I shall drop, 1/f, Some motives to prefs it. 2dly, Advices for the doing it aright.

I. For motives, confider thefe things :

1/2. Confider God's mercy and patience towards you, in giving you fo many warnings, and fo many years, to prepare for death; and in fending his meffengers and warnings fo gently and gradually, to excite you to this work ; when many younger and fironger than you, are hurried into eternity, and little or no time given them to think where they are going. Have you not been fpared many years, in the midft of dangers, when you have feen that bold archer Death, fhooting his arrows, and killing thoufands of your neighbours and friends round about you? Sometimes the arrow hath glanced over your head, and flain fome great man, your fuperior : Sometimes it hath alighted at your feet, and cut off a child or a fervant, your inferior : Sometimes it hath gone by on your left hand, and killed your enemy; at other times it hath paffed on your right hand, and killed your near relations. So that you have feen friends and foes, fuperiors and inferiors, relations and strangers, dropping down dead round about you; and all this for a long tract of time, to give you warning to prepare for death. O let the goodness and forbearance of God, towards you, lead you to repentance, and perfuade you to flee speedily to Christ, for refuge and protection from wrath.

adly, Confider how terrible death will be, if it meet you in an unprepared flate, in a Chriftless and impenitent condition. What a fearful change will it bring upon you ! A change from earth to hell, from hope to difpair, from pleasure to pain, from comforts to terrors; a change from the offers of grace, to the revelation of wrath: a change from probabilities, to utter impossibilities of falvation. Death will cut off all your hopes and expectations of mercy for ever, Job xxvii. 8. There is no coming back, to amend what hath been done amifs here ; and there is no work nor device in the grave, whither you go. As the tree falls, fo will it ly, through all eternity.

II. I come to give fome advices, in order to the right preperation for death. 1/2, Set about felf-examination work. Enquire if you be in Chrift or not; if you be yet far off from God, or if you be brought near by the blood of Jefus. And fee that you be impartial in this fearch. and willing to find out the truth of this important question. Be not foolishly tender of yourself, and apt to believe that you are safe, when it is not fo; for, this way, thoulands do ruin themfelves. But be content to know the worft of your cafe, and thoroughly to underftand your foul's danger, that you may be moved to take the right way to elcape it. Wherefore take a view of the marks of Chridlefs and unconverted perfons fet down in God's word, and judge yourfelf by them : And confider alfo the figns of true grace there recorded, and fee if they be applicable to you or not.

2dly, If after enquiry, you find your state is bad; that you have been a lover of the world, more than of God ; you have minded your body more than your foul; you have lived in the neglect of precious Chrift ; allowed yourfelf in known fin : O then be convinced of your inabiliy to help yourfelf, and your need of Chrift to help you. And labour to be deeply humbled before God, under a fenfe of your fin and folly. " Ah, how foolifhly, how rebellioufly, how unthankfully have I carried ? I have abufed God's mercies, and left undone the work for which I was made, and preferved, and enjoyed the gospel. Oh ! I had all my time given me, to make preparation for endlefs eternity, and I have never minded it, till now that ficknefs, the harbinger of death, is come upon me : And now, what shall I do to be faved ?" Well, then, in order to convince and humble you the more, caft back your eyes upon the fins of your nature, and of your bypaft life; view them in their nature, number, aggravations and defervings. O do not fo many years fins need a very deep humiliation ? O do you not fland greatly in need of fuch a perfon as Chrift, to be your Saviour and Ranfomer from fuch a yaft number of fins? O but their weight will prefs adly, O finner, art thou deeply humbled, and defirous of mercy upon any terms ? Believe then, that thy cafe is not remedilefs, but that there is a facrifice provided for your fins, and an able and all-fufficient Saviour in your offer. Believe that the Lord Jefus Chrift is the Son of God, and become flefh to be a furety for you; that he is both able and willing to fave to the uttermost all that come unto God by him. Though your fins, your dangers and your fears, were never fo great, yet he is able and willing to fave. O flee prefently to this refuge-city, whole gates are open to receive you. Truft your foul upon Chrift's facrifice and meritorious blood, for mercy and falvation. Apply humbly to him, that he may teach you the will of God, reconcile you to his Father. pardon your fins, renew you by his Spirit, and fave you from eternal wrath.

4thly, Give up yourfelf to God in Chrift, by way of covenant and folemn refignation. Every man doth this facramentally in baptifm; but you muft allo renew it perfonally and explicitly, and thereby give a cordial and voluntary confert to the covenant of grace. Acquiefee chearfally in the gofpel-way of falvation thro' Chrift and his righteoufnets; and accept of God in Chrift, as thy portion. Make choice of God the Father, as thy reconciled Father in Chrift; and God the Son, as thy Redeemer and Saviour; and God the Holy Ghoft, for thy Sandtifter, Guide and Comforter. And likewife give up thyfelf, foul and body, and all thou haft, to be the Lord's; engaging, in Chrift's firength, to live for God, and walk with him in newnefs of life. And fludy to do all this deliberately, unfeignedly and chearfully. Though, perhaps, you have done this, hypocritically, at former times, you have profaned God's covenant, and behaved unftedfaltly and perfidioufly therein ; yet now endeavour to be fincere with God for once.

5thly, Be living daily in the excercife of faith and repentance : renew the acts thereof frequently, in proportion to your renewed fins and guiltinefs. Cleave clofe to glorious Chrift, your High Prieft and Surety, and be ever washing in his blood. As long as you are in the world, you'll need to wash your feet, John xiii. 10. Come death when it will, let it find you at the fountain, always looking to, and making use of Jesus Christ. You have great need of Chrift every day of your life, more especially in ficknefs; but most of all at a dying hour. O what need will you have of Chrift, then, as an Advovate with God, when the queftion is to be determined, Where your manfion is to be affigned, through all eternity, whether in heaven or hell ? O then, be looking always to Chrift, with the eye of faith. Live in the conftant thoughts of this bleffed Mediator. Let him be first in your thoughts, in the morning, and laft in your thoughts, at night.

6thly, Be firiving to morify every fin and luft, both outward and inward. Be dying to fin daily, that fo you may not die for fin eternally. O that fin may be daily lofing its ftrength, and dying in you! fo that it may be certainly dead before you. Pray earnefly, that your fins may die, before you die: For, if they die not before you, but out-live the dying body, they will live eternally to fling and torment the never-dying foul.

DIRECT. IV. Be not anxious for recovery to health; but leave the iffue of the prefent ficknc/s, to the will and pleafure of the infinitely wife God.

R Emember, O man, thou art the clay, and God is the Potter; he is abfolute Lord of thy life and times, therefore learn to adore his fovereignty over thee, and all thy enjoyments. David did fo, when he faid, " Lord, my times " are in thy hand," Pfal. xxxi. 15. And indeed hey are only best in his hand, for he best knows now to difpose of them. The prophet faith, fa. xxx. 18. " The Lord is a God of judgment, pleffed are they that wait for him." Judgment there fignifies wildom : The Lord is a God of wifdom, and will order and time all things well; and therefore it becomes us quitely to wait for his pleafure, faying, " The will of the Lord be done." It is taken notice of, as a great fin in the lfraelites, that they waited not for his counfel, but limited the holy One of frael, Pfal. lxxviii. 41. What an unaccountable folly and prefumption is it, for worms of he earth, to feek to flint and limit the Soveeign of heaven, to their measures! It becomes us at all times, and especially in fickness and affliction, to have low, fubmillive thoughts of ourfelves, and high exalted thoughts of God's fovereignity, fuch as Nebuchadaezzar had, Dan. iv. 35. " And all the inhabitants of the " earth are reputed as nothing : And he doth " according to his will in the army of heaven, " and among the inhabitants of the earth: and " none can stay his hand, or fay unto him, " What doft thou ?" We should therefore refer all to his wife determination, and be willing to die or live, as he shall be pleafed to appoint. I remember I have read of a godly woman, who, in her ficknefs, being afked by one, Whether fhe was most defirous to die, or to live? She answered, ' I have no choice in that matter, but refer myfelf to the will of "God." "But, (faid the other) suppose God fhould refer it to you, whether to die, or " to live, which of them would you chuse?" ' If God (replied fhe) fhould refer it to me, " I would even refer it back again to him." It becomes thee, O man, to be entirely refigned to the will of thy Maker, and to ftand like a centinel in thy station, ready to move, as thy great General and Commander shall give order. concerning thee. It would be pleafant, and acceptable to God, to fee thee more defirous to be delivered from fin, than from ficknefs. O but fin is a far worse disease, than any fickness in the world! beg importunately, that the great Phyfician may cure this woful foul-difeafe, and let him do with the body what he pleafeth. This was David's practice in his affliction, Pfal. xxv. 18. "Look upon my affliction, and "my pain; and forgive all my fin." As for his pains and afflictions, he afks no more, but that God would regard them, and look upon them, and do with them as he thought fit; but, as for his fins, no lefs will fatisfy him than a pardon, and blotting them entirely out, fo as they might be remembered no more.

DIRECT. V. Bind your/elf with holy purpofes and refolutions, in Chrift's firength, to be more watchful againf fin, more diligent in duty, and to improve the time of health better, if God fiall be pleafed to reflore it again to you.

X7HEN God is vifiting your iniquities with rods, and pleading a controverfy with you for your omiffions and flacknefs in duty, he expects that you will return from your backflidings, and fet about a ferious reformation and change of life. Hofea v. 15. " I will go, " and return to my place, till they acknowledge " their offence, and feek my face: In their " affliction they will feek me early." See then that you open your ear to discipline : fludy to answer God's call and expediation, and in his ftrength refolve to enter upon a new life. " Surely now it is meet to be faid unto God, " I have born chaftifement. I will not offend " any more. That which I fee not, teach thou " me: If I have done iniquity, I will do fo no " more," Job xxxiv. 31, 32. Now is the feafon you fhould fay with Ephraim, Hofea xiv. 8. " What have I to do any more with idols !"

Having duly examined yourfelves, and fearched out your fins, you ought to put a bill of devorce into each of their hands. Deliberately refolve againft all your fins, whether fecret, or open; and elpecially refolve againft your darling and beloved fins, thefe fins of which do moft eafily befet you. Refolve alfo againft all temptations to fin, and particularly againft the fnares of bad company, whereby you have been formerly enticed; fay now with David, Platcxix.115." Depart from me, ye evil doers: For " I will keep the commandments of my God."

You mult not only purpose to forfake all fin, but also to mind every known duty: That you will make religion your one thing needful; the pleasing of God, the chief businets of your life; that you will fet the Lord always before you, give him your heart in all duties, aim at nearnefs and communion with God in every one of them; and fill prefs forward to the full enjoyment of God in heaven, through eternity.

Refolve alfo, thro' grace, that you will, in a fpecial manner, mind feeret duties, which the eyes of men do not obferve, and thefe duties which confeience doth moft challenge you for negleding. And you that are heads of families, refolve to make more confeience of family-religion, of worfhipping God with your families, both morning and evening; influcting your children and fervants in the knowledge of Chrift, and recommending religion and godlinefs to all round about you, whether relations or frangers.

And if you would have your refolutions effectual, fee that they be accompanied with a deep fenfe of your infufficiency to perform them in your own firength. Bear always in mind the corruption and deceitfulnefs of your own heart, and make all your refolutions in a bumble dependence on the fufficiency of Jefus Chrift your furety. Obferve the apofile Paul's advice to his fon Timothy, 2 Tim. ii. 1. " Be firong in the grace that is in Jefus Chrift." All your fock, O believer, is in his hand, fo that without him you can do nothing; but, through Chrift ftrengthening you, you are able to do all things.

DIRECT.VI. Set your house in order, by making your latter-wills, and jettling your domefic and fecular affairs, while you have freedom and capacity for doing it.

A Fter the heart is fet in order, the next work is to fet your houfe in order, acxxviii. 1. It is recorded of the patriarch Abraham, that he was careful to fettle the affairs of his family before his death, Gen. xxv. 5, 6. He dipofed of his effate to lfaae, and legacies to the fons of his concubines. It is too general a fault, that men delay and put off making their wills, as they do their repentance, to the very laft, and fo too frequently never make them at all. Confider the evil of deferring or neglectng this neceffary affair: For if you, upon whom God hath beflowed means, thall die inteffate, your cflate may defeend otherwife than you intended; much of it may be fpent in tedious and expensive law-fuits: fuch differences may fall out among relations, that fhould live in friendfhip and mutual affection, as cannot be healed; fome of them may be reduced to extreme want; when a fmall legacy might have put them in a way of living: And many fuch inconveniencies may follow. Well then, if your negled fhould bring on thefe evils, and involve pofterity into endlefs firifes and contentions; may you not juffly fear that the guilt thereof will purfue you into another world, whole wretched careleffnefs

Pray, what is the reafon that men put off this affair? Is it not, becafe they do not incline to think fo ferioufly on death, as this will occafion them to do? Doth not this finell of abominable earthly-mindednefs, and fpeak as if a man defired all his portion in this life, and cared not for a better? and that he is fo far from preparing for death, that he cannot endure to think of it? Alas that this worldly difpofition floudd fo far prevail among us! Bat furely there is no wife man will fay, that the putting, off the thoughts of death will keep death at the greater diflance; or that preparing for death, and making our wills, will bring on death the floorer.

It were furely beft to order our affairs timeoufly; yea, do it in time of health, rather than delay it unto a fick-bed, or a death-bed; for tither you may be fatched off fiddenly, and have no time for it; or you may be taken with fuch a diftemper as fhall feize your tongue, fo as you cannot exprefs your mind; or feize your underfhanding, fo as you cannot rationally difpofe of your effects. And though none of thefe fhould happen, yet certainly it proves a great diffurbance to a dying man, to be cafting up, ordering and fettling the affairs of his family, when he fhould be fecuring a heavenly manfion for his foal, and clearing up his evidences thereunto. It is great wiftlom to put this affair by hand; that you may have as little to do with the world as may be, and all occafions of diftraction to your immortal foul may be prevent-6d, when it is near to its flitting into an eternal and unchangeable fate.

Moreover, in fettling your fecular affairs, obferve thefe following advices. 1. Make your wills chearfully, and freely lay down whatever you enjoy, when God calls you to it. Praife God that you had thefe things while you needed them; and when you have no longer ufe for them, leave them without repining, to thefe that come after you. Look not back to Egypt, when you are upon your march to Canaan.

adly, See that you deal juftly, in providing for your family, paying all your juft debts, and making refliction if you have wronged any. Abhor all defigns of defrauding any of your lawful cieditors: For, if your laft act fhoold be unjuft, you leave a blot upon your name here ; and fince you cannot repent of this wickednefs, it being among your laft deeds, you expofe yourfelf to a fearful doom in the world whither you are going.

3dly, In fettling your eftates, fee that God and good ules be not forgot nor left out. When you are leaving the world, and can glorify God no longer here by your words or actions, fee to honour the Lord with your substance, by leaving fome part thereof to a pious and charitable use. I know, it is a work of charity to give for maintaining the bodies of the poor; and efpecially the poor of God's people, who belong to his family : But it is much more pious and charitable, to leave fomewhat for propagating Christian knowledge in dark places, for educating poor children to read the fcriptures, and inftructing ignorant fouls in the knowledge of Jefus Chrift. It is much to be lamented, that fo many rich men among us die, and leave nothing to fuch pious uses. The liberality of papifts on their death-beds, may give a fharp challenge to many professed protestants. O what a fhame is it to the profeffors of the doctrine of grace, that the falle doctrines of merit and purgatory fhould produce fo many donations and mortifications among the papifts, and the faith of Chrift's most glorious gospel should not do the like among true believers ! Shall the proud conceit of merit, and the imaginary fear of purgatory, prompt men to do more this way, than the certain perfualion of the love of God in Chrift, and the well grounded hope of eternal life through the alone merits of Jefus Chrift? O what a reproach is this to our holy religion !

athly, it might be much to the glory of God, and good of fouls, that a great part of our teftaments and latter-wills should confift of folemn charges, and exhortations and bleffings to our children, or thofe to whom we bequeath any legacy; fo as they can never open our teftaments, or look into them, but they might hear fomething that may make improfilons on their fouls, for their fpiritual edification, and for quickening them to the diligent practice of both family and perfonal godlinefs.

CHAP. II.

Containing fome particular Directions to those who are sharply afflicted with Sickness and long Trouble.

DIRECT. I. Juflify God in the greatest afflictions which befal you.

THOUGH God fhould condemn you, fee that you acquit him, and fay, he is righteous in all his dealings. When the church was under the heavieft diftrefs, fhe finds caufe to juftify God, Lam. i. 18. " The Lord is righteous, for " I have rebelled against his commandment." So doth godly Nehemiah, Neh. ix 23. " Howbeit thou art just in all that is brought upon us; for thou halt done right, but we have done wickedly." The fame doth holy David acknowledge, Pfal. cxix. 75. " I know, O Lord, that thy judgments are right, and that in faithfulneis thou haft afflicted me." Now, in order to bring you to this agreeable frame, and to convince you of the equity and juffice of God in his difpenfations, however heavy and long 54 your diffrefs be, I fhall lay before you the following confiderations :

 $1/\ell$ , Confider the infinitely holy and righteous nature of that God who finiteth thee, Pfal. exis. 137. "Righteous art theu, O Lord, and upright are thy judgments." We prefume it of a righteous man, that he will do righteous things; and hall we not much more believe fo of a holy and righteous God? We cannot be infallibly certain that a righteous man will always do fo; for a righteous man may leave his righteoufnefs, becaufe the creature is mutable: but God is immutably righteous; fo that we may be confident of it, that the Judge of all the earth will do right, for it is impofible he can do otherwife, Zech. iii. 5. "The juft Lord is in the midft thereof, he will not do iniquity." He will not, he cannot; for it is contrary to his nature.

2dly, Confider that God never brings on any affliction without a caule, I Cor. xi. 30. "For this caule many are fick." He hath fill juft ground for the heavieft affliction, from thy fins and provocations, and may always fay to thee, as to liftael, Jer. ii. 17, 19. "Haft thou not procured this unto thyfelf, in that thou haft forfaken the Lord thy God, when he led thee by the way? Thine own wickednefs fhall correct thee, and thy backlidings fhall reprove thee: know therefore; and fee, that it is an evil thing and bitter, that thou haft forfaken the Lord." There is fill ground enough for afsliction to be found in the beft of God's people; and therefore it is faid, Lam. iii. 32. "For he doth not afflift willingly, nor grieve the children of men." No; it is our fins that oblige him to it. As Chrift whipped the fellers of oxen and fheep out of the temple with a whip as is generally thought) made of their own cords: so God never fcourgeth us but with a whip made of our own fins, Prov. v. 22. " His own iniquities shall take the wicked himfelf, and he shall be holden with the cords of his fins." If we confider the mighty God as a Lord difpenfing grace, then we find he acts fovereignly, and according to his will and pleafure, Matth. xi. 26. " Even fo, Father, for fo it feemeth good in thy fight." But, if we confider him as a Judge difpenfing judgments, he never doth it without a foregoing caule on the creature's part. God's treasure of mercy is always full and ready to be let out to them that feek it; but his treafure of wrath is empty till men fill it up by their fins, Rom. ii. 16. " Thou treasurest up to thyself wrath against the day of wrath." We do always provide fewel for God's wrath before it kindle and break out upon us.

3dy, Confider forther this inflance of God's equity, that when there is a caufe given, God doth not prefently take it, but continues to threaten oft, and warn long, before he execute as warnings of greater, if we repent not; and he repeats his warnings many times, both by his word and providence, before he fmite. Yea, even when repeated warnings are flighted, he delays a long time, and waits to be gracious, Ha. xxx 18. And when man's obfinacy and incorrigiblenefs arrive to fuch a height, that he can fpare no longer; yet, how loth is he to give them up to fevere judgments! Hof. xi. 8. "How hall I give thee up, Ephraim? How fhall I deliver thee, Ifiael? How fhall I make thee as Admaln? How fhall I fet thee as Zeboim?"Mine heart is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together." When the Lord hath finners in his arms, ready to give them up to fevere judgments, yet he makes a ftand, and would fain be prevented before he proceed to his firange work; for 16 he calls his acts of judgment, Ifa, xxviii. 21. Afts of mercy are co-natural, moft agreeable and pleafant to God, Micah vii. 18. "He delighteth in mercy: but judgment is his frange act, and his frange work.

Athly, Confider, that when at last he fends ftrokes on us, they are always fhort of the caufe; he exacts not the whole debt that finners owe to his juflice, as Ezra doth acknowledge, Ezra ix. 13. " Thou haft punished us less than our iniquities deferve." The ftroke he there is fpeaking of, was a most heavy judgment ; fearful ruin and defolation came upon Jerufalem. and the whole land of Judah; the city and temple were burnt to affres, the people carried captives to a ftrange land, and treated as bond flaves among the heathen: Yet, faith the holy man, " Thou haft punished us less than our iniquities deferve." q. d. It is true, we have been carried to Babylon, but in justice we might have been fent to hell : our houfes were burnt. but our bodies might have been burnt too: We have been drinking water, but we might have been driuking blood: We have had grievous aurdens en earth, but we might have been groaning in hell: We were banifhed from the temple, but we might have been eternally banifhed from God's prefence." We think it a great favour among men, when any punifhment is mitigated, when the fentence of death is changed into banifhment, or when banifhment is turned into a fine; or a great fine is made finalter: And will you think that God deals feverely or rigoroufly with you, when he lays you on a fick-bed, when he might juftly have laid you in hell, and poured eut all his wrath upon you there? You but tafte of the brim of the cup, when God might caufe you drink of the bottom and dregs thereef.

Have you not caufe then to acknowledge God's juftice, nay, even his mercy too; in his dealings with you, however rough they feem to be ? May you not, with good reafon fay, 'any thing lefs than hell is a mercy to fuch an ill-deferving creature as I am? If even a hardhearted Pharaoh, under diftrefs, came the length to own the juffice of God, Exod. ix. 27. "I have finned; the Lord is righteous:" fhall any profeffed Chriftian fall fhort of that obflinate Egyptian ?

DIRECT.II. Labour still to be fensible of God's hand under heavy affliction, and beware of stupidity and unconcernedness under it.

I is a fin to faint under heavy affliction, but it is a duty to feel it, Heb. xii. 5. "My fon, defpife not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him." The apoftle there doth caution against two extremes which every Chriftian under the rod fhould be careful to avoid, 1. Despising or making light of affliction. 2. Sinking or desponding upon affliction. We are in great hazard of running into the one or the other. As to the first, We may be faid to defpife the chaftening of the Lord when we do not observe God's hand in our affliction, fo as to reform the things whereby he was difpleafed : Or when we refolve to abide the trial, by the ftrength of our own refolutions and ftout-heartednefs, without looking to God for fupporting grace: Or when we turn flupid and infenfible under the heavy and long continued rod. This despising and flighting of the rod, is not patience, but flupidity; it is not Christian magnanimity, but a stoical temper of mind, most finful and provoking to God. We fee how angry God is with finners, when his ftrokes are not felt, lia. xli. 25. " He hath poured upon him the fury of his anger; and it hath fet him on fire round about, yet he knew not; and it hath burned him, yet he laid it not to heart." Jer. v. 3. "Thou haft firicken them, but they have not grieved : thou haft confumed them, but they have refused to receive correction : they have made their faces harder than a rock, they have refused to return." There is little hope of a fcholar minding his leffon, that is regardlefs of whipping. It is a dreadful fign to be like Pharaoh, fleeping in our fins, when God is thundering in his wrath. He that will fleep when his house is on fire, or lie still in bed, as if he was not concerned, may affuredly expect to be confinmed in its flames. As David could not bear it, when the meffengers, he fent to the Ammonites out of good will, were affronted and defpifed; fo neither will God endure it, when the meffengers he fends to finners are flighted; for he that flights a meffenger, affronts his mafter. Thefe who make light of affliction, make light of God that fends it, and make light of fin that procures it.

Queff. But, when is it that people are fuitably concerned under a heavy rod ? An/w. When they fee God's hand, hear God's voice, anfwer his intent, are curious to know his mind, defirous to do thefe things he requires, and reform thefe things he is difpleated with.

Remember, every affliction is a meffenger from God, and deferves a hearing from you. It comes to thee with fuch a meffage as Ehud did to Eglon, Judges iii. 20. " I have an errand from God to thee, O king :" I have a meffage from God to thee, O Chriftian, O finner. Well, lend an ear, and hearken with reverence and attention to this errand ; fay, " Speak, Lord, for thy fervant heareth, what would't thou have me to do ?" Believe it, that God speaks as really to you by his rod, as by his word; therefore he fays. " Hear ye the rod." God Spake as truly by his ten plagues to Egypt. as he did by his ten precepts to Ifrael. And if the calm voice of the word were more regarded, we fhould hear lefs of the rough voice of the rod. As Gideon took briers and thorns of the wilderness, and with them taught the men of Succoth, who would not be taught by fairer means, Judges vili. 16. fo God takes the flarp prickles of fore afflictions, to teach you his flatutes, when you will not be, taught by fofter methods. Beware then of grieving God's Spirit, by turning flupid and infenfible under flarp or long continued trials z But, the more pains God is at with you by his rod, hearken the more carefully to his voice; and labour to make the greater proficiency in the fehool of affliction, where he thinks fit to continue you; that fo you may inherit that bleffing, Pfal. xciv. 12. "Bleffed is the man whom thou chafteneft, O Lord, and teacheft him out of thy law."

DIRECT. III. Beware of milconfiructing God's dealings towards you, and of charging him foolifhly.

WE are apt to believe Satan's fuggeftions under heavy trials, and to entertain wrong thoughts of God and his difpenditions. Now, thefe you ought to guard againft: as, for inflance, 1/2, Beware of harbouring athelitical thoughts, as if there were no providence, no wife governor of this lower world, no diffinction betwist the good and bad; and that it is to no perpofe to be religious, like thefe mentioned in Mal. iii. 14. "Ye have faid, it is vain to ferve God: and what profit is it, that we have kept his ordinances, and walked mournfully before the Lord of hofts i" Yea, even the Pfalmift, when he begins to compare his own fharp trials with the wicked's cafe and profiperity, is tempted to think all religion in vain, and fey, Pfal. Ixxiii.

13, 14. "Verily I have cleanfed my heart in vain, and wafhed my hands in innocency. For all the day long have I been plagued, and chaftened every morning." But thefe are nothing but the hellift fuggeftions of Satan, that irreconcileable enemy of God, and precious fouls, againft which we fhould clofely flop our ears.

2dly, Beware of charging God in your hearts with rigour or injuftice in his dealing, like thele, Exek. xviil. 25. Tet ye Jay, the way of the Lord is not equal. How highly unjuft and injurious, are fuch thoughts to him. who is the Judge of all the earth, and cannot do but right 1

349, Beware of thinking that heavy afflictions do always fpeak wrath in God againft the: : No, fometimes they fpeak forth love, and God may be carrying on a love-defign thereby to thy foul, wiz. to fubdue thy ftrong lufts, and draw thee nearer unto himfelf. As for thefe who think that the finarting rod and divine love cannot dwell together, let them read that paffage, Heb.xii. 5, 6. "And ye have forgotten the exhortation which fpeaketh unto you as untochildren, My fon, defpife not thou the chaftening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him. For whom the Lord loveth, he chafteneth; and fcoargeth every fon whom he receiveth."

4thly, Beware of defponding and diffrufful thoughts of God, under fharp affiliations. Some are ready to raze the foundation, quit their intereft in God, and the promifes, and caR away their hope and confidence, faying with Gideon, Judges vi. 13. Oh my lord, if the Lord be with we, why then is all this will be failen un? So David was ready to drw a hafty conclusion, Pfal. xxxl. 22. I faid in my hafte, I an cut off from before thine eyes. But this was the effect of unbelief; for he that believeth, will not make hafte.

DIRECT. IV. Under fore trouble and diffrefs, labour to exercife a firong and lively faith.

T was a noble and heroic refolution in that holy man Job, under his fingular trials, Job stii, 15, Though he flay me, yet will 1 truft in him. q. d. Let my throkes be never fo fore and heavy, yet I will not let go my grips of his word and promifes; I will not raze thefe foundations of my hope. It was the way the Pfalmift kept himfelf from finking under his heavy burdens, Pfal. xwiii, 13. I had fainted, unlefs I had bedivered to fee the gaodnefs of the Lord, in the land of the triving. Confider but a little, the noble influence that faith hath to ftrengthen and fupport the foul under fore trials.

1/f, Faith grips to the great gofpel promife of falvation in and through Jefus Chrift, and fo fecures the foul's main intereft through eternity; which may make the foul eafy in every lot.

2dly, Faith views God in Chrift, at the helm. in the greateft ftorm, and fo it endures, as feeing him who is invifible, Heb. xi. 27.

3dly, Faith cafts the foul's anchor upon the Rock of Ages, and ftays itfelf on God, and the faithful promifes; whereby the foul is eafed and difburdened of its fears and melancholy apprehenfions, Pfal.iv. 22. Ifal. 1.0

Athly, Faith brings new ftrength and auxiliary fupplies of grace from heaven, when the former fupply is exhaufted and fpent; where of David had the fweet experience, I'fal.xxvii.rg. As God doth plant and actuate grace in the foul, fo he is pleafed to come in with feafonable fupplies and reinforcements to the weak and decayed graces of his people, anfwerable to their prefent exigencies and prefures: And thus he doth from time to time feed the believer's lamp with frefh oil, give in more faith, more love, more hope, and more defires : and thereby he gives power to the faint, and Arengthens the things which remain, when ready to die.

sthly, Faith keeps the foul from finking under heavy trials, by bringing in former experiences of the power, mercy and faithfulnefs of God to the afflicted foul : Hereby was the Plalmift fupported in diftrefs, Pfal. xiii. 6. Pfal. Ixxxvii 4. O, faith faith, remember what God hath done both for thy outward and inward man; he hath not only delivered thy body when in trouble. but he hath done great things for thy foul; he hath brought thee out of a ftate of black nature, entered into a covenant-relation with thee, and made his goodnels pals before thee; he hath helped thee to pray, and many times hath heard thy prayers and thy tears. Hath he not formerly brought thee out of the horrible pit, and out of the miry clay, and put a new fong in thy mouth, and made thee to refolve never to give way to fuch unbelieving doubts and fears again? And how unbecoming is it for thee now to fink in trouble? Fa adly, Faith reprefents Chrift as putting in his almighty arm under the believer's head, and conveying invifible ftrength to fupport and hold him up under his greateft preffures.

7thly, Faith gives great fupport, by the encouraging repretentations it makes of Chrift, and of his prefent concern for the believer while under affliction. As for inflance, t/f, Faith reprefents Chrift to a believer under trials, as fympathizing with him under his diffrets, feeling his pain, hearing his groans, bearing his burdens, and ready to relieve him in his own appointed time, which it well becometh him to wait for.

3dly, Faith reprefents Christ as pleading the afflicted believer's caufe with God, and aniwering all the charges of the law, the challenges of conficience, and accufations of Satan against him.

4thly, Faith reprefents Chrift as flanding by the furnace as a refiner where his gold is melting; carefully overfeeing the trials of his people, that they may work for their good; and ready to bring them out thereof, when they are fufficiently purified from their drofs.

sthly, Faith reprefents Chrift as fmiling on his people under the croß, whilpering peace into their ear, and faying, Well done, good and faithful fervant.

DIRECT.V. Labour to bear with patience whatever load of trouble the Lord appoints for you.

WE will perhaps obferve fome who are ftrangers to religion contentedly enduring very painful evils; and this they may do by virtue of a natural hardinefs and refolution which fome are endowed with, or upon the account of arguments furnished by human prudence : This is only patience as a moral virtue, which fome attain to. But it is patience as a fpiritual grace, or a fruit of the Spirit, which we must aim at under our trials ; that we may bear them contentedly from divine principles, to divine ends. Now this grace of patience we must earnestly beg from God under heavy afflictions, for it is only he that must work it in us; and therefore he is called the God of patience, Rom. xv. 5. And in order to your attaining of this grace, I shall lay before you the following coufiderations, which may be ulcful, through the Lord's bleffing, for that end.

1/l, Confider the patience of our Lord Jefus Chrift under fufferings inexpreffibly greater than yours. When it pleafed the Lord to bruife him, and put him to grief; how patiently did he bear all? according to that remarkable word, lfa. liii. 7. "He was oppreffed, and he was allifted, yet he opened not his mouth; he is brought as a lamb to the flaughter, and as a fleep before her fhearers is dumb, fo he openeth not his mouth." Now, Chrift fuffered as an example of patience, though it was not his chief end; and furely all the members of the body fhould fludy to imitate the head in patience. Did your bleffed Saviour patiently endure fuch agonies and preffares of wrath for you; and, will you decline to undergo fome fhort pains or ficknefs in obedience to his commands?

2dly, Confider God's fovereignty over you. He is the great Potter, and you are his clay: and why may he not do with you as he pleafeth? If your children offend you, you feourge them, and perhaps do it fometimes without reafon; yet how ill do you take it, when they refule to fubmit? How will you drive and fpur your horfes under you, and may be fometimes unreafonably? Yet they bear all quietly, and make no refiftance. Shall they take blows from their mafter ; and will not you from your Maker, that has far more power over you ? If any challenge you for cruelty to your children or beafts, you take it not well, because you think you may do what you will with your own, and no man hath a right to quarrel you : But, hath not God a greater property in you, than you in your children or cattle ? And, will you not patiently fubmit to your wife and abfolute Sovereign ?

3dly, Confider thy fin as the meritorious caufe of all thy afflictions, however heavy they be. If thou haft right thoughts of thy fins, and the aggravations thereof, thy mind maybe compofed to a patient fubmillion to God's hand : If fin be heavy on thee, all thy afflictions will be light. Luther gives this as a reafon why he flighted the rage of the pope and emperor, and all his outward troubles: They are all little to me, becaufe fin is fo weighty on me. Hence it was that Paul complained not at all of his fufferings, for as great as they were; but he cried out much of his fins, Rom. vii. 24. O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death ! Senfe of fin doth fwallow up the fenfe of affliction, as the ocean doth little brooks. For, with whom fhouldit thou guarrel, but thyfelf, when thou bringest troubles on thyself? This confideration fhould bring thee to refolve and fay with the prophet, Micah vii. o. I will bear the indignation of the Lord, because I have finned against him.

4thly, Confider, how fharp foever the pains are, you are called to bear, yet they fall infinitely fhort of what you have juftly deferved at God's hands. It is of his infinite mercy that death and everlafting deflruction have not been your portion long fince; and that you are not now roaring under the extremity of his indignation in the bottomlefs pit, together with the devil and his angels. And confequently, whatfoever falls fhort of this, is truly a great mercy; and is fo far from being ground of quarrelling, that the greatelf fofferer on this fide hell, hath just cause to admire God's elemency in dealing more favourably with him than he hath deferved.

5thly, Compare thy cafe with others that have been, or prefently are in diffrefs. Do not fay there is none fo hardly dealt with as thou art : for thou knoweft not the affliction of others. Confider duly the trials of that eminent faint Job, in all the circumstances thereof, and fee if you can fay that your forrow is near fo great as his forrow was. Again, compare your cafe with that of the damned in hell, who lie and fry in endlefs and eafelefs flames, fo that they have no reft day nor night, but the fmoke of their torment afcends for ever: And think what a bleffing it is, that you are yet in a flate of falvation, and not delivered over to these everlafting burnings, which were the due demerits of your fins, and to which you might long ago have been juftly condemned, had it not been for the patience and long-fuffering of Almighty God, who waiteth to be gracious to guilty finners. When you confider these things, instead of being diffatisfied with the divine difpenfations, you have caufe to blefs God, that matters are not worfe with you; and that you are kept out of hell to this day, where thoufands, no more guilty than you, are prefently roaring in endless desperation.

Unto these confiderations I shall subjoin fome few helps or advices, in order to the attaining of patience under fore troubles. 1. Labour to get pardon of fin and peace with God, fecured to thy foul, and this will enable you to bear the heavieft crofs with patience. Hence it was that Luther cried, "Smite. Lord, as thou will, I take all in good part, feeing my fins are pardoned: 0! pardon of fin is the crowning blefling, therefore will I bear any thing, I will fivallow up quarrelling into admiring; I will welcome the pruning knife, feeing there is no fear of the bloody ax to fell me down."

2. Labour to be God's hand in thy affliction. Do not, like the dog, finard at the flore, but look up to the hand that throws it. And furely a view of the hand of a holy God, may ferve to calm all the boilterous waves of thy corruption; to did it with David, Pfal. xxxix 9. Twas dumb, I opened not my mouth, becaufe thou didf it. When he looked to the infruments and fecond caufes of his afflictions, his heart waxed hot, and the fire of his inward paffion began to burn and break out; but when he once efpied God's hand and feal to the warrant for his correction, he became filent, and patiently fubmitted to the divine will.

3. Get a humble and felf-denied frame of fipirit, that year may have low thoughts of yearfelves, and of all year attainments whatfomever. A proud man cannot think of fubmitting to the divine will, but will break before he bow. Hence we fee a vaft difference betwixt a proud Pharaoh, and an humble Eli, under the rod : The one fays, Who is the Lord, that I flould abey him ? But the other faith, It is the Lord, let him do what fermeth him good.

4. Get love to Jefus Chrift. Love is an enduring principle, 1 Cor. xiii 7. it endureth all things. It makes the foul, like the kindly child, draw nearer to Chrift, the more it is beaten.

5. Interpret God's ways and dealings with you always in the beft fenfe. And, lafty, Be earneft in prayer, that God may conquer your rebellious will, and fubdue thofe mutinous rifings of heart within you againd himfelf.

DIRECT. VI. Beware of envying wicked men, when you fee them in health and prosperity.

THE Pfalmift, when he was chaftened every morning and in great adverfity, was liable to this evil, Pfal. 1xxiii. 3. I was envious at the foolish, when I faw the prosperity of the wicked. Corrupt nature doth ftrongly incline us to this finful difposition, especially in the day of fore affliction; for the spirit that dwelleth in us, lusteth to envy, James iv. 5. But, did we rightly confider the flate of wicked men, we would fee greater ground to pity than envy them in the most prosperous condition : Why ? The prosperity of the fools shall destroy them, Prov. i. 32. It makes them forget God, and turn hardened and fecure in fin, which haftens their ruin. Who would envy a malefactor's going up a high ladder, and being mounted above the reft of the people, when it is only for a little, and in order to his being turned over and hanged? This is just the cafe of wicked men, who are mounted up high in profperity; for it is fo, only that they may be caft down deeper into destruction. Obferve that word, Pfal. xxxvii. 1, 2. " Fret not thyfelf becaufe of evil-doers, neither be thou envious against those that work iniquity: For they fhall foon be cut down like grafs," &c. And that word, Pfalm xcii. 7. " When the wicked fpring as the grafs, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish, it is that they shall be destroyed for ever." It would be a brutifh thing to envy an ox his high and fweet pafture, when he is only thereby fitted to the day of flaughter. Who would have envied the beafts of old, the garland and ribbons with which the heathen adorned them when they went to be facrificed ? Thefe external ornaments of health, wealth, pleafures and preferments, wherewith wicked men are endowed, cannot make their flate happy, nor change their natures to the better. Whatever appearance thefe things make in the eyes of the world, they are but like a noifome dunghill covered with fcarlet, as vile and loathfome in God's fight as ever. How quickly is the beauty of earthly things blafted? The triamphing of the wicked is (hort, lob xx. 5. They live in pleasures on the earth, for a while ; but God fets them in flippery places, from whence they foon flide into perpetual pain and anguish. They have a short time of mirth, but they shall have an eternity of mourning. The longer their profperity is, their fins are the greater, and their fufferings will be more grievous. But, O believer, it is in mercy to thee, that God doth hedge up thy way with thorns, that thou mayeft not find thy paths: whilft he turns the wicked loofe, and fuffers them to ftray, and wander whither they will, to their eternal ruin. God takes this method with thee, to make you meet for an inheritance, and prepare you for a crown of glory; but he takes a contrary way with the wicked, to fit them for deftruction : Therefore you ought not to be fretful under his hand, but thankful. We read of queen Elizabeth, when the was in prifon, how the envied the poor milkmaid the faw paffing by, and would have thought herfelf happy to have been in her condition : but had that afflicted princels known the glorious reign of forty-four years the was foon to enter upon, the would not have repined at the happinefs of fo mean a perfon. But, O afflicted believer, it is not a glorious reign for a fet number of years, that is provided for thee; it is even a reign with glorious Chrift thy Redeemer for ever and ever : And, haft thou any ground to be difcontented or envious?

DIRECT. VII. Guard against repluing complaints and diffontented murmurings against the providence of God, under heavy fickness and affliction.

WE fee, the murmurers and complainers are claffed with thefe that walk after their own lafts, Jude ver. 16. I know, the people of God are liable to murmuring and impatience alfo under affliction; but there is a great difference betwist them and the wicked. I'll have occafion to (peak of believers murmurings afterwards, when I come to (peak of their cafe in particular; but here I thall handle the fin of murmuring in general, and as it appears mainly in the unregenerate, under heavy affliction.

This fin of murmuring is the froth of impatience, and ferm of diffeontent; it is first cheristhed by repining thoughts, and then vented by unfuitable complaints and expollulations, taxing the administration of providence, as if God dealt too hardly with us. Our very thoughts are audible with God, yee, as loud in his ears, as words are in ours; but it is yet worfe, when repining thoughts are not crussed, but fuffered to break out into words tending to the dishonour of God.

Queff. But, is it altogether unlawful to complain of affliction, whatever be our cafe ?

Anfw. Humble complaints are not murmurings, nor finful in themfelves; otherwife there would be no room for prayer, and for fpreading out our distreffed cafe before the Lord, We find God's children making complaints in affliction; but then they do not complain of God, but to God, with a humble enquiry into the caufe and meaning of his difpenfations, and laying all the blame upon themfelves, as did Job, chap. x. 1, 2. " I will leave my complaint upon myfelf; I will fpeak in the bitternels of my foul, I will fay unto God, do not condemn me : fhew me wherefore thou contended with me." Thus the bleffed Son of God himfelf did, in his diftrefs, when he cried, My God, my God, why hast thou for faken me? But there we may obferve, he complains to God, not of God; he hath not a hard word or thought of God, but expreffeth a holy confidence in God, My God, my God; he hath two words of faith for one word of fear, he humbly enquires into the caule of the difpenfation, and defire to bring up his will to God, not that God fhould bring down his will to him: If it be poffible, favs he, let this cup pafs ; however, glorify thy name, provide for thy own glory, and do with me what thou pleafeft. In this matter our Lord doth fet himfelf as an example of patience to us, teaching us to beware of impatient murmuring and quarrelling with God's providence in our affliction; which many times we are guilty of, either when we harbour harfh thoughts of God's dealings, or break forth into rafh and unadvifed fpeeches; when we charge God foolifhly, and complain either of too much feverity, as Ezek. xviii. 2, 25. or too long delay, as Ifa. xlix. 14. or when our complaints are mixed with unbelief and diffruft, as Pial. lxxviii. 19. or when we complain more of our punifiment than we do of our fin, and nothing will fatisfy us but deliverance from trouble.

Now, to deter you from thefe murmurings and complaints in trouble, I fhall lay before you the following confiderations: 1/h, They who deferve worlf do commonly complain and murmur moft, and are moft ready to think they are hardly dealt with. The unthankful firaelites were fill murmuring. Ambitious Abfalom was difficiented. Bloody Haman, in midft of all his greatnefs, cries out, What doth all this avail me ? But humble Jacob faith, he was not worthy of the leaft of all the mercies and truth which God, and patiently fubmits, when he took from him, as well as when he gave him.

adly, Murmuring is a fin that God takes fpecial notice of, and looks on as an injury and affront done immediately againft himfelf, Numbsiv. 27. "I have heard the murmurings of the children of Ifrael, which they murmur againft me." He that gives ear to the grouns of inis own Spirit, doth alfo hear the grumblings of thine, and will reckon with thee for them.

3dly, it can no wife benefit or relieve us in differeis. I may fay of finful complaining, (as Chrift of finful care.) Which of you, by complaining, can add one cubit to his flature? What cafe or relief can you get by contending with God? Nay, inflead of cafing you of your burden, it will make it the heavier; as a child, the more be firuggles with his parents, he is the more beaten. The lifealites were once within eleven days journey of Caraan; bit by their murmurings they provoked God to lead them forty years march in the wildernefs before they could reach it.

Athly, Whatever be your diffred, there is in juit ground for complaints, whilh thou haft thy life for a prey. Remember that word of the afflicted church, Lam. iii. 39. "Wherefore " doub a living man complain, a man for the " punitment of his fins !" A man living, a man upon the earth, a man out of hell hath no caufe to complain, whatever be his affliction. For, let him compare his fin and punithment together, he will find there is no proportion : fin is a tranfgreffion againd the infinite God; punithment is but an affliction upon the finite creature : fin frikes at the very being of God; but punithment only at the comfort of the creature. So that whatever your punifiment be, you have more caufe to give thanks than to complain; and to fay with Ezra, Than haff punified us lefs than our iniquities deferve. It might have been a thoufand times worfe, if ftrift jultice had been the rule: It is of the Lord's mercies we are not confumed.

5thly, When you murmur under ficknefs, you quarrel with the meffenger of that fovereign God, who gave you your lives, and can take them again when he thinks fit; and we know meffengers ought not to be maltreated or abufcd, whatever be their commission, and far less when they are fent upon a good defign. Now, if you confider the defign of this meffenger and his errand to you, infread of fretting and quarrelling at his coming, you ought rather to blefs God that fends fuch a fuitable harbinger and forerunner to tell you that death is approaching, and that he vouchfafes to take fo much pains on you, to wean you from the world, and make you willing to be gone, by long continued trouble ; when he might have feized you in a violent manner, and driven you away by main force, without using any means to obtain your confent. Have not many, who were molt unwilling to die, at the beginning of a ficknefs, been brought, by the increase and continuance of it, to be well fatisfied to leave the world, and long to be with Chrift ? And was not this for their advantage ?

6thly, Confider the great evil and finfulnefs of impatient murmurings, complaints and quarrellings under affliction.

1. Murmuring listh in it much unbelief and didtuft of God, Pfal. cvi. 24, 25. They believed not his word, but murmured in their tentr. They could not believe that the wildernefs was the way to Canaan, that God would provide and furnifh a table for them there, and relieve them in all their fraits. So it is with us in trouble, we quarrel with God's providence, becaufe we do not believe his promiles; we do not believe that this can be confiftent with love, or can work for good in the end.

2. It hath in it unthankfulnefs. While we complain of one affliction, we overlook a thoufand mercies. The Ifraelites murmured fo for what they had not, that they unthankfully forgot all they had. Whereas a thankful perfor is fo far from fretting that God doth not give him every thing, that he wonders that God fhould give him any thing. I am lefs than the least of all thy mercies, faid Jacob. We are perplexed, faid Paul, but not in de/pair : we have God to go to, which is matter of praife. But the murmurer unthankfully overlooks all his prefent, and forgets all his former mercies; and gives not God thanks for any thing. Becaufe God removes his comforts, his health, frength and cafe for a time; all the years he formerly enjoyed them, though most undefervedly, are quite buried in oblivion.

3. It implies much pride and felf-conceit. He that complains of God's dealings, feerely applauds his own defervings. Only by pride comes contention. When men have a conceit of themfelves, they pick quarrels with God's providence, being apt to think they deferve better treatment at his hands: Whereas the humble foul is fenfible he deferves nothing but wrath, and therefore lays his hand on his mouth when the Lord afflicts him.

4. It involves men into rebellion againft God. When God flrikes men for fin, murnurs fly in his face, and kick againft his frockes, like bullocks unaccufomed to the yoke. They in fome refped refemble that defperate apoftate Julian, of whom it is written, that he finds up his darts againft beaven, when he was in diffrefs. They fulfil that word, Prov. xis. 2. The foolihuefs af man perverteth his usay, and his heart fretteth againft the Lord. The repining heart boils with rage againft God and his diffeofations, like thefe wicked Jews when hungry and hardly beftead, fin. viii. 21. They fhalt fret them/elves, and curfe their king and their God, and look upward.

5. It imports much impenitoncy and unhumblednels for fin; and that we have feen little of the intrinfic evil of fin; and of our ill-defervings for it. Can we truly believe that our fins deferve hell-fire, and yet impatiently repine at ficknels and leffer firekes upon our bodies ?

6. It includes much atheifm and blafphemy againft God, and his infinite perfections in feveral refpects :

(1.) By our impatient murmurings, we either virtually deny that things here below are governed by God's providence; or elfe,

(2) We tax his providence with unrightecufnels in the managements thereof; as if God did withhold from as what is due, or inflict on us what we have not deferved. Oh what atheifm is this ! Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right? May he not, upon the jufteft ground, anfwer every nurmur, as Matth. xx. 13. Friend, I do thee no warong?

(3.) We in effect grafp at the fovereignty, and ulorp the throne of the moft high God, and would have the difpofal of things in our hands; yes, we prefume to fummon God to our bar to give account of his adminifications, when we take upon us to quarrel any of his difpenfations. Alas, we little remembered the wo that is pronounced againf to doing, Ifa. xiv.9. "Wo unto him that friveth with his Maker; fhall the clay fay to him that fafhioneth it, What makeft thou? or thy work, He hath no hands?"

(4.) We on the matter take fin's part againft God; we either juftify ir, or extenuate its evil, and alledge, by our murmurings, that God is unrightcous to punifh fuch fmall fins with fuch heavy afflictions.

(5.) We virtually quefilon God's power to reach us a greater blow, when we enter the lifts with God, and contend with our Maker; is it not in effect to fay, we know how to reduce him to our terms, or make our party good againft him.

(6.) We difparage his wifdom, and take upon us to be his confielders, as if we could infruct him better in the management of affairs, and teach him what is fit to be done with his creatures. Hear what the Lord faith, Jobxiaz. "Shall he that contendeth with the Almighty, infruct him? He that reproveth God, let him anfwer it." Murmuring is a reproving of God, and a charging him with ill conduct, laying, in effect, with Abfalom, "There is none that takes care to order mens affairs: O that I were king of the world I then hould things be better ordered than they now are." So blafphemous is the language of our impatient murmurings.— Let us therefore be affamed of them, and abhor ourfelves in duft and aftes for our foolfinnels in cenfuring the adtions of the only wife God.— Shall a poor ignorant paffenger, that underflands not the ufe of the compafs, be angry that the failful pilot will not fleer the veffel according to his pleafure?

(7.) We hereby flight and undervalue the riches of divine goodnels, of which we have formerly flurred, and do fiil partake: Like foolinh and petific children, if they cannot have their will, or get fome things they want, do prefently throw away the things which they have, faying with unthankful Haman, All this availeth me nothing.

Laftly, I might add, This in lath fome refemblance to hell lifelf; for there the danned do continually vex and torment themfelves with their fretting and impatient thoughts, which caufe them to break out in fearful rage and blafphemy againft God.

Queft. But how shall we prevent such difcontented murmurings? for fometimes trouble is so great, we cannot bear it patiently.

Anfw. God hath given you reafon, to bear rule over paffion, and furnished you with strong arguments to prevail againft diffeontents. Why then fhould you be fo brutifh as to dethrone reason, and fuffer fenfe and paffion to govern in you? Are you not Chriftians, and fworn to live according to the rules of that excellent religion? Why then do you act fo contrary to your profefion and engagements?

Befides what I have already faid, I fhall add fome few remedies more for the cure of this murmuring diftemper.

1/t, Look on thy murmurings as worfe than all thy pains and troubles whatfoever; thofe are but afflictions from God, but thefe are fins grievous and provoking unto God.

2dly, Remember the judgments which murmuring hath brought down from heaven upon finners. Miriam was fmitten with leprofy for it; Dathan and Abiram were fwallowed up alive: fiery ferpents, plagues, and exclution from Canaan, were liracl's judgments for this fin, 1Cor.x. 10. "Neither nurmur ye, as fome of them murmured, and were deftroyed of the deftroyer." The arrows which murmurers fhoot againft heaven, do foon return upon their own heads.

3dy, Whatever thy fufferings are for the prefent, yet full believe thy cafe might be worfe. The troubles that light upon the body are nothing to terrible as thefe that light on the foul, Prov. sviii. 14. A wounded fpirit who can bear 2 They are nothing to what thy innocent Saviour foffered upon the crofs, yea nothing to what fome martyrs have endured for the truths of the goffel.

4*lhly*, Get very low thoughts of yourfelf, and a deep fenfe of ill-defervings for fin. O! fhould a fire-brand of hell murmur for temporal affictions ?

5thly, Be fill examining thyfelf, rather than cenfuring God. Doth God feem to neglect thee, fay alas, it is molf juft! Have not I neglected him, and given a deaf ear to his calls many a day?

6thly. Bear in mind that these troubles will not laft, there is a great change near; either they will iffue in life or death. If life, you will be ashamed you had no more patience when fick ; if death, then, if you belong to Chrift, it will give a finishing stroke to all troubles and complaints, and heaven will make amends for all. But if you be not in Chrift, whatever your afflictions be now, troubles a thoufand times worfe are abiding you in another world : death will turn thy croffes into pure unmixed curfes; and then, how gladly wouldeft thou return to thy former afflicted state, and purchase it at any rate, were there any poffibility of fuch a return? You now fly out in a paffion, and fay, you are not able to bear what you complain of: But confider, if you will not obediently bear God's rods now, you will then bear more, whether you will or not; and God will make you able to bear more, when there will never be any hopes of relief.

7thly, Study to give vent to thy forrows in a way of prayer and praile. An oven ftopped is the more hot within; but the breath of prayer or praife gives cafe. If we did complain more to God, we fhould complain lefs of God. What a mercy is it, that you have flill God to go to ? improve the privilege, confefs unworthinefs, and beg the grace of patience and fubmiffion out of Chrift's full treafures. Be alfo praifing God for mercies received; and however bad thy cafe is, blefs God it is not in hell, you are in the land of hope.

C H A P. III.

Containing special Directions to the Children of God, when under Sickness or any other Affliction.

DIRECT. I. Let believers especially guard against fainting or desponding under God's afflicting hand.

TIIIS is an exhortation which God in a peculiar manner directs unto his children, Heb. xii. 5. My Jon, defpije not thou the chaftening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him. There are two extremes mentioned, delpifing and fainting; I fpoke of the fift before, in Chap. II. Direct. II. It is a duty to feel our affliction, but a fin to faint under their trials, when they fick, or delpond, or give way to fretting or replaing under them. In the preceding Direction, I fpoke of the evil of murmuning in general; here I thall fpeak of believers faintings in particular.

1. I fhall enquire whence their fainting under affliction doth proceed.

2. Bring fome arguments and helps against this evil.

I. As to the firft, Whence these faintings in believers do proceed. 1/A, They proceed from the grievous fields of their affliction, and the ineavines's of their burden, which is ready to amaze and flagger their thoughts, and fink their fpirits with fear and defpondency. Hence did the Pfalmit complain, Pfalm Ix. 3. "Thou haft fnewed thy people hard things: thou haft made us to drink the wine of affonithment." And Pfalm lxix. 2. "I fink in deep mire, where there is no flanding; I am come into deep waters, where the floods overflow me."

adly. From the fmallnefs of their fpiritual ftrength, and particularly the weakness of their faith. Prov. xxiv. 10. If thou faint in the day of adversity, thy strength is small. Whence was it that Peter fainted and began to fink in the waters, but from the weakness of his faith, Matth. xiv. 30, 31. We know not our ftrength till it be tried. Sometimes we have fuch a conceit of it, that we think, like Peter, we can walk upon a fea of trouble: but in a little, behold, fome furprifing blaft affaults our confidence: and then we faint, or cry out with him, Help, Lord, or elfe we perish. Peter reckoned only upon the fea, but he did not think of the boifterous wind; and he looked to dangers, more than to the power that was to carry him through them.

3dly, From their impatience of delay, when deliverance is long a-coming, it is not eafy to wait God's leifure, and to keep the heart from defperate conclutions, Pfalm xxxi. 22. "I faid in my hafte, I am cut off from before thine eyes."

 $4\hbar ly$ , From the power of Satan's temptations, and furious affaults. When Satan is fet looke in time of afficition to throw in his fiery darts, the believer is ready to faint, and fay, as Plal, bxxvii. 8. "Is his mercy clean gone for ever?"  $\sigma_c$ .

sthly, For their wearifome conflicts with a body of death and an ill heart. Thefe in time of affliction do add affliction to the afflicted.

6thly, From long and great defertions. When God hides his face from the believer in affliction, his foul faints under it, as in Ifa. xliv. 14. "Zion hath faid, the Lord hath forfaken me, my God hath forgotten me."

7thly, From the conficience of their guilt, and ill defervings before God, upon the account of old fins, abufe of mercies, and untender walking before God. Affliction doth revive old fins, as with Job, Job xiii. 26. "Thou writeft bitter things againft me, and makeft me to poffers the fins of my youth." His old fins, and guilt of his youthful follies, now revived upon him, and fat clofs to his conficience; which occafioned his fainting under his burden.

Lafily, Great afflictious do frequently cloud the believer's graces and evidences for heaven, and difeover their corruptions; whereby they are made to fink under their trial. They fee more unbelief, impatience, diffruft and eamity to God in them, than they faw before: Whereby they are fometimes tempted to raze the foundation, and fay all their former attainments were but delufions, and their profeffions but hypocrify. Thefe things make afflictions fometimes very heavy and finking to the people of God.

II. In the next place, for preventing and helping this evil of fainting under affliction; let believers confider,

1/2, These heavy trials are all needful for you. Deep waters are not more needful to carry a fhip into the haven, than great afflictions are to carry the yeffels of our fouls into the port of blifs. Strong wind and thunder are frightful, but they are necessary to purge the air. One of the tharpest calamities that ever befel Ifrael, was the Babylonifh captivity, yet even this was in mercy to them ; for the Lord faith, Jer. xxiv. 5. " I have fent them out of this place into the land of the Chaldeans for their good." Strange ! Of freemen to be made prifoners, and that in a ftrange land among the heathen; to be removed far from their own houses, vineyards, friends, nay, and from the temple of God and his ordinances; and yet all this for their good ! why ? they were hereby effectually weaned and broke off from their darling fin of idolatry.

adly, Confider, that your affliction. however heavy it be, will foon have an end; Ifa. Ivii 16. "For I will not contend for ever, neither will be alwayes wroth; for the fpirit thould fail before me, and the fouls which I have made." The goldfmith will not let his gold lie any longer in the furnace than it is purified. The wicked have a fea of wrath to drink; but, O drooping believer, take comfort; you have but a cup of affliction, which will foon be exhaufted. The time is near when all thy trials fhall have an end: In heaven there is  $p \sim crols$ , no complaint, no tears nor forrows for ever.

3dly, Faint not, O child of God; for thefe afflictions are all the hell which thou that have; thou haft nothing to fear hereafter. Judas had two hells, one in time, by terror in his conficience, another after this life, which endures to eternity: but all the hell that a believer hath is but this light affliction, which is but for a moment.

4thly, Defponding or murmuring in affliction is cyil in any, but in none it is fo bad as in the children of God. It doth very ill become their covenants, their privileges, their hopes. Have they refigned and given up themfelves and all they have to God, by a folemn covenant, and will they fret when he disposeth of them ? Didst thou not fay, O believer, in the day when thy heart was flung with fin, and the terrors of God made thee afraid, O let me have Jefus Chrift for my Saviour and portion, and I will be content, though I fhould be firicken with boils like Job, or beg my bread with Lazarus ? Now, God tries thee if thou wilt fland to thy word : O beware of retracting. Hath not that foul enough, who hath an all-fufficient God for his portion ? If God be thine in covenant, that comprehends all things.

sthly, It doth difcompofe and unfit the foul for any duty. It is ill failing in a form, fo it is ill praying when the heart is in a form of difquiet and defpondency. 6110/y, Your fainting under affliction, and carrying as if the confolations of God were fmall, is enough to flumble others at religion, and make them call the truth of it in queflion. When they fee those that profess religion, and have oft declared that their rejoicing is in Chrift Jefus as their portion, begin to fink and defpond under outward affliction: O may they not be tempted to fay, "Where is the truth of religion ? Where are these divine fupports and confolations we have often heard of ?"

Laftly, O then feek to get faith revived, and ' frenghtened, and refolve with Job to truft in God, though he fhould flay you. This would f be of noble ufe to keep the heart from finking under preffures of affliction, as the Pfalmift found it to his fiveet experience, Pfalm xxvii, 13. "I had fainted unlefs t had believed to fee the goodneis of the Lord in the land of the living."

III. I come to answer some objections or excuses of fainting believers, which they do commonly alledge as the ground of their difcouragement in their affictions.

Object. I. "O (faith one) my afflictions are not ordinary; they are fore preffures 1 lie under, and of various kinds too."

An/w. 1. O believer, God hath taken the ordering of your lot in his own hand, and he knows what is fitteft for you. Should a man be left to carve out his own portion, it would foon appear he would be his own greatest enemy. We would all be for the dainties of pleasure and profperity, which would not be for our foul's health; as children think green fruit the beft diet, becaufe they pleafe their tafte; but their parents are wifer to keep them from them.

zdly, God may fee you have many and ftrong lufts to be fubdued, and that you need many and fore afflictions to bring you down. Your pride and obffinacy of heart may be ftrong, your diftempers deeply rooted, and therefore the phylic must be proportioned to them; as with the Ifraelites, Pfal. cvii. 11, 12. " Becaufe they rebelled against the words of God, and contemned the counfels of the Moft High : therefore he ; brought down their heart with labour." O bcliever, your God and Father, that bath the mixing of your cup and portion, is a wile and fkilful phyfician, who knows your conflitution and your need, 1 Pet. i. 6. " If need be you are in heavinels through manifold temptations." And as he knows your need, fo he underflands your ftrength, 1 Cor. x. 13. Faithful is he, that will not fuffer you to be tempted above what you are able "

3d/y, God fends great and fore troubles, that you may have the more experience of God's witdom and mercy in your fupport and deliterance: Pfalm Isxii. 20. "Thou which haft fnewed me great and fore troubles, fhall quicken and bring me up again from the depths of the earth."

Object. II. "But (faith another) my affliction is fingular; there was never any in my condition."

Anfw [1/l. It is very ordinary for every man in great diffrefs to reckon his cafe fingular, becaule he feels beft what is neareft him/elf, bus is a ftranger to what his neighbour feels.

2dly, This fuggeflion is one of Satan's devices, that he may tempt a child of God to queftion his Father's love; but he is a liar, and not to be credited in what he faith: For others of your brethern have been afflicted in the fame kind aud degree, if not worle, 1 Pet. v. 9. "Knowing that the fame afflictions are accomplifhed in your brethren that are in the world."

3dly. Whatever your cafe be, you muft own your fufferings are not fo great as your fins. The trials of God's people in Babylon were fingular; yet Ezra owns, Ezra ix. 13. Thou haft puni/hed us lefs than our iniquities deferve. If our provoked Jadge fiall in his clemency fend us to Babylon inflead of hell, we have no caufe to complain.

4thly But, O child of God, however thou complained of the fingularity of afficition now, all fuch complaints will be taken cut of thy mouth ere long, and that time is near when thou thalt be made to wonder at the wildom of God in guiding fo many fons and daughters to glory, through fluch a variety of Trials, Exercifers Afflicitions and Temptations; and made to fay as thefe in Mark vii. 37. He hatk done all things twell.

Object. 11. "But, faith one, my affliction is long continued, and I fee no outgate; and how can I but faint under it?"

Anfw: ift, it is not fo long as your fins deferve; for in juffice it might be for ever, it might be, the worm that never dicth, and the fire that is never auenched. adly, Your fufferings on earth is not fo long as your reward in heaven, Rom. viii. 18. "For I reckon that the fufferings of the prefeat time, are not worthy to be compared with the glory which fhall be revealed in us."

adly, No length or continuance of affliction here should hinder a believer's comfort, if we take a view of our head and pattern Jefus Chrift. How long did his afflictions continue ! No end was put to them, till he cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghoft. Though he was the Son of God, yet from the hour of his birth to the moment of his death, from his manger to his crofs, his afflictions still encreafed, and he ended his days in the midft of them. Now, Chrift is the head of the church, and your great reprefentative, O believers, into a conformity with whom you are predefinated : be content then to be like your head and pattern, to have no cafe or reft from afflictions till you lie down in the grave; it is "there the wicked ceafe from troubling, and there the weary be at reft," Job iii. 17.

4thly, Remember that your afflictions are a part of Chrift's crofs, which your loving Redeemer hath contrived for your good, and hath appointed you to take up and bear with him. Now love to Chrift fhould keep you from wearying to bear off a part of Chrift's crofs, efpecially when he himfelf bears the heavieft end of it, nay, bears you and your crofs both. It is faid of Jacob, Gen, xxix. 20. that "he ferved feven years for Rachel, and they feemed to him bat a few days, for the love he had to her."

And, fhall we not endure a few years affliction for our Lord Jefus Chrift, who lived a life of forrows, and died a curfed death for our fakes? Had we more love to Chrift, his crofs would not be to tedious to us.

stilly. Should it not be good news to thee, that there is a deliverance for thee at death from all thy troubles, and that this time is haftening and very near? Be not anxious for an outgate here in time, for that favours too much of unbelief and love to the world. Doth it not feem to fay, that you would be better content to be turned back again to the fromy tumultuous fea of this world, than to be fafely landed at your reft above? That you would be gladder of a few temporal mercies on earth, than to enter upon your eternal inheritance with Chrift?

Object. IV. "No wonder (faith one) that I faintunder my affliction, for I want these confolations and supports which God useth to referve for afflicted faints."

Anfw.ift. If God be prefently chaftening you for your fins, you mult be content to feel the bitternefs of fin, before you can tafte of the freetnefs of God's confolations.

edly, Can you fay that your afflictions have daily humbled you, and fitted you for comfort? Have they yet brought you to a willingned's to quit and renounce all your beloved fins, and even to part with all your earthly enjoyments and comforts at God's call, and be content with God in Chrift alone for your happincfs and portion? If this be not done, your afflictions have not had their due effect, to prepare you for comfort, and till then you cannot expect it. You are in the hands of a wife and fkilful phyfician, who will not too haftily heal and bind up your forcs, fo as to let them fpoil and fefter at the bottom.

3dly, Though you have no fenfible confolations from God in your prefent trials, yet you much fill labour to keep in the way of duty, and live by faith on his promifes. Believe firmly that God is good to them that love him, and that there is forgiveneds with him to the penitent finner. And if all flars withdraw their light whilf you are in God's way, then affure yourfelf the fun is near the ariling.

Object. V. "But my affliction is fuch, that it dilables me from duty, and makes me ufclefs and unprofitable; and this makes me faint under my burden."

Anfw, 1ft. God fends afflictions never to unft, but to quicken you for the performance of duty; to make you repent more thoroughly, pray more fervently, flee to Chrift more earneftly, and mind heaven more intenfely.

2dy, If it be your duty to others that your affiction incapacitates you for, then remember, if God in his providence ditable you for that, it is no longer a duty incumbent on you, and you mult not grudge if God take you off, and put others in your room. God is a free and fovereign agent, and will be tied to no mean or influmment what lomever for carrying on his work.

DIRECT. II. Let all the children of God be exemplary in patience and fubmillion to God under their offliction.

I Treated of patience, and gave fome motives and helps to it, to all afflicted perfons in general, Chap, II. Direck V. But here I full bring fome fpecial argument to Chriftian patience and fubmiffion proper for believers. You that God hath done for much for beyond others, ought to fhine in this grace of patience, and be examples to others for it, when God chaftens you, though with very fore affliction.

1/t. Sudy patience under affliction : for it is the common path and beaten road to heaven. that all the faints have trode, who have gone thither before you. Behold the print of the foot-fleps of all the cloud of witneffes in this road: and would ye be fingular, and chufe a way of your own ? When God folemnly renewed his covenant with Abraham, and he had prepared the facrifice, whereby it was to be ratified and confirmed, God made a fmoking furnace to pais betwixt the pieces of the facrifice, Gen. xv. 17. to let him know that there was a furnace of affliction attending the covenant of grace and peace, and all that entered thereto. God has appointed that all the ftones of this fpiritual and heavenly building fhall be hewed and polifhed by affliction here; and we are not to think that God's ordinary way will be changed for us. We must not think to walk on roles, when fo many worthics have marched through briers and thorns to heavers.

2dly, Confider, that the greateft afflictions you meet with are confiftent with the love of God, nay fpring from his love to you. Every fanctified rod is a gift and royal donation fent by the hand of God to you, Phil. i. 29. " To you it is given, in behalf of Chrift, not only to believe on him, but allo to fuffer for his fake," Now furely, if we looked on the crofs as a gift, an honour, an advantage, and bleffing, we would bear it patiently, Pfalm xciv. 12. " Bleffed is the man whom thou chastness. O Lord." O believer, thy temporal crofs comes from the fame love that thy eternal crown comes from. according to Rev. iii. 19, 21. Men will not take pains to correct flubborn fervants, but will turn them out of doors ; but love conftrains them to chaftife their fons. God out of hatred lets many a finner go unpunished in this world : for, why should he prune or drefs the tree which he intends for the fire : the malefactor escapes scourging that is condemned to the gallows, Job xxi. 3. " The wicked is referved to the day of destruction ; they shall be brought forth to the day of wrath." But it is far otherwife with the childern of God. That is a ftrange word which Job hath, Job vii. 17, 18. "What is man that thou shouldest magnify him ; and that thou fhouldeft fet thine heart upon him : And that thou flouldeft vifit him every morning, and try him every moment ?" Now, if we compare this place with others in the context, we will fee how he acknowledgeth that the most overwhelming distress proceeds from the love and care of God, yea, from his fixing his heart on him, to magnify him, and do him good; and that for this end he doth chaften him every morning, and try him every moment; and that with fuch afflictions as for the prefent are fo far from being joyous, as that they give the foul no reft, but even make the man weary of his life; as he expreffeth what effects his affliction had on him felf. Yea, it may be obferved in the providence of God from the foundation of the world, that thole who have had moft afflictions have had moft grace, and the moft afflictions of any; and yet the Father always loved him, and was well pleafed with him.

3dly, Confider the bright examples of patience which God fets before you in his word. Befides that of his dear Son, the Lord Jefus Chrift, of which I fpoke before ; confider the patience of Job, when he was ftript of all earthly comforts, and laid under the greateft afflictions, yet he calmly falls down and worthips God, Job i. 21. and faid, " Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked fhall I return : The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away, bleifed be the name of the Lord. In all this Job finned not, nor charged God foolifhly." Confider the patience of David when he was driven from his throne, from his house, and from God's fanctuary, and all this by his own fon : yet how fubmillive is he to God ? 2 Sam. xv. 26. "Behold, here I am, let him do to me as feemeth good to him." And when Shimei cur-fed him, and threw ftones at him, he patiently bore it, and would fuffer no harm to be done him for it, faying, as in 2 Sam. xvi.11. " Let him alone, and let him curfe, for the Lord hath biden him." Confider the patience of holy Eli when, tho' he heard fuch news as like a fudden clap of thunder made the ears of fuch as heard it to tingle, and their hearts to tremble, yet he calmly and quietly fubmitted to it, 1 Sam. iii. 18. " It is the Lord, let him do what feemeth him good." He doth not fly in God's face in a pallion, but falls down at his feet in a humble fubmillion. Observe also the wonderful patience of Aaron, when God afflicted him very fore he is filent and fubmiffive under the Lord's hand. Lev. x. 3. And Aaron held his peace. If we confider the greatness of the punishment, we will fee the more caufe to commend the greatness of his patience, 1. Aaron loft his children; not his cltate or worldly fubftance, but his children, these are a part of a man's bowels; other earthly loffes are not comparable to this; therefore it was that Satan that cunning enemy referved the loss of Job's children to the last onfet, as his great mafter-piece and fharpeft attack. How fadly did Rachel lament and weep for her children ! Matth. ii. 18. Aaron held his peace. 2. Aaron loft his two fons at once. How pathetically did David bewail the lofs of one fon, 2 Sam. xviii. 33 "O my fon Abfalom, my fon, my fon," &c. yet Aaron loft both his fons together, and faith not one word ; He held his peace .--- 3. Aaron loft them by a fudden death, of which he had no warning: Sicknefs ufually 08 prepares men for the firoke that is coming by death; but Aaron met with a furprifing blow, yet he held his peace. -4, Aaron's fons were not taken away by an ordinary firoke of God's hand, but by an extraordinary fupernatural rod; for it is faid, "i There went out fire from the Lord, and devoured them, and they died before the Lord," Lev. x. 2. He loft them in fuch a manerr as might fpeak forth God's anger; now, a religious father had rather lofs all his children in the favour of God, than one child in his anger; yet, whatever were the bitter ingredients of this cup, Aaron was not impatient againft God that mixed it for him, but held his peace, becaufe God did it.

4thly, To engage you to patience under your trials do but compare your cafe with that of others. Do not fay, there is none afflicted as you are ; for there are many far deeper plung-ed in the waters of Mara than you are ; fome are still upon the rack. and spend their whole days and years in continual fighting and ftruggling; as in Pfal. xxxi. 10. "My life is front with grief, and my years with fighing." Have you fore diffrefs in your bodies? others have grievous wounds in their fouls. Do you bear the wrath of man? others bear the wrath of God. You have but one fingle trial, others have many twifted together. Some are ftript of all comforts, you have comfort ftill remaining. You may have many fad things in your trial, but you have not ground as yet to com-plain as the Pfalmift doth. Pfal. xlii 7. "All thy waves and thy billows are gone over me."

Take a view of what the Son of God, what the apoftles, and what the martyrs and other worthies have endured. They had trial of cruel mockings, fcourgings, bonds and imprifonments : they wandered in defarts, in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth, being deftitute, afflicted. tormented. They were tempted, they were crucified, ftoned to death, fawn affunder, flain with the fword, Gc. And yet, how well did they take with the crofs ? faith Paul, "We glory in tribulation," Rom. v. 2. And what faith James ? James i. 2." My breth-ren, count all fhall joy when ye fall into divers temptations." As if he had faid, Rejoice ave more and more that you are afflicted : God is magnifying you, he is visiting you, doing you good, taking the more pains on you, and fitting you for glory.

sthly, The confideration of God's former mercies and kindneffes to you fhould engage you to patience in trouble, and make you blufh to take any thing ill out of God's hand. Thus Job taught his impatient wife, Job ii. 10. " What ? fhall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil ?" O beliver, let not thy afflictions caufe thee to bury thy mercies in oblivion. Has not God brought thee from Satan's family, and put you among his children ; and will you forget to undervalue that hour ? Hath he ftruck off thy fetters, taken off thy prifon-garments, and fet you at liberty; and, will you be unthankful ? Hath he given thee Chrift for thy treasure and portion, and entitled you to his unfearchable riches ; and, will you be difcontented ? hath he given you the graces of his Spirit, which are more precious than rubies; and, will you quarrel when he finites in fome outward things ? hath he made you an heir of glory, and provided eternal manfions above for you; and will you be fretful for want of fome triffes here ? The view Mofes had of the recompence of reward in heaven, caufed him chufe to fuffer affliction patiently with the people of God.

6thly, The time of affliction is ufually God's gracious tryfting feafon with his people, in. the time of their rareft comforts and fweeteft foretaftes of heaven, according to 2 Cor. i. 5. Paul and Siles did never fing more joyfully than when they were laid in the inner prifon, with their backs torn with fcourges, and their feet fast in the flocks, Acts xvi. 24. And when was it that Jacob faw the angels of God afcending and defcending upon the ladder that reached betwixt heaven and earth, but at the time when he was in a deflitute cafe, forced to lie in the open field having no canopy but the heavens, and no pillow but a flone ? When was it that the three children faw Chrift in the likenefs of the Son of man walking with them, but when they were in the furnace, and when it was hotter than ordinary ? When was it that Ezekicl had a vision of God, but when fitting foliatry by the river Chebar in the land of his captivity ? When was it that John got a glorious vision of Chrift, but when he was an exile in the ifle of Patmos ? And, when was it that Stephen faw the heavens opened, and Chrift flanding at the right hand of God pleading for him, but when they were ftoning and bruiling him to death ? So that the molt remarkable experiences of God's kindnefs, that believersget in this world, have been tryfled to the time of affliction: the confideration whereof fhould move every Chriftian to wait on the Lord, and bear his crofs with patience.

7thly, When you are helped to chriftian patience and fubmilion under God's hand, it doth contribute much to the credit of religion, and to the conviction of the world, that there is a scertain reality in the truths of the golpel, and a great efficacy in the grace of God, which bears you up, and carries you through, beyoned the fhrength of nature.

Laftly, O believer, bear up with patience under the crofs, for thou halt not long to bear it. God's wrath on the church abideth but for a moment, yea, a little moment, lfa. xxvi. 20." Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and fhut thy doors about thee, hide thyfelf as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast." Surely a moment, a little moment, which is the finalleft part of time, will foon be over; and wilt thou not have patience for a moment ? The Pfalmift supported himself with this confideration, Pfalm ciii. 9. " He will not always chide, neither will he keep his anger for ever." The time of indignation will foon be over-paft, and the time of confolation will fucceed. Obeliever, the end of all thy trials is near; think on it, and look for it. Is it bodily pain or fickness that is thy affliction ? then confider, the end of it will be either life or death ; if death, then what thou fuffereft is the laft burnt, bear it patiently. Thefe enemies you now fee, you will fee them again no more In the manfions above there is no pain nor crying: the inhabitants there fhall never fay they are fick ; and one hour with them will make thee forget all thy momentary afflictions. If the inflic fhall be life, you will be afluaned, when well, that you had no more patience whill fick.

I fhall clofe this direction with the words of the apoftle James, James v. 10. "Take, my brethren, the proph.ts, who have fpoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of fuffering affliction, and of patience. Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Joh, and have feen the end of of the Lord, that the Lord is very pittiful, and of Lorder mercy."

DIRECT. III. Let believers be much employed in the praifes of God, while they are under afflection, by fickness or otherwise.

A S we thould blefs the Lord at all times, every occalion; to effectively in the time of affleton. Hence we are commanded to glorify the Lord in the fires, Ifa. xxiv. 15. And this the three children did, in the hotteft formace. So Job bleffed. God when he had taken away his greateft comforts. Job i. 21. and this is agreeable to that command, 1 Fheff. v. 18. "In every thing give thacks." I grant indeed we cannot give thanks for affliction as afflidion, but either as it is the means of fome good to us, or as the gracious hand of God is fome way remarkable therein towards us, In this refpect, there is no condition on this fide of hell, but we have caufe to praik God in, even in the greatedt calamities. Hence it was that David, when he fpeaks of his affliction, Pial. exix 67, adds prefently, "Thou art good and doff good." And he declares, ver. 65, "Thou haft cealt well with thy fervant, "O Lord, according unto thy word." Hence Paul and Silas prailed God when they were feourged and imprifoned.

Well then, O believer, obey the command of thy God, and imitate his worthics, by praifing God under thy affliction. 1. This practice would be very pleafant and acceptable to God: for as mufic is fweeteft on the waters, fo praife is most agreeable to God from an afflicted foul on the waters of trouble. It is a fign of a noble and generous fpirit, to fing the praifes of God's. goodnefs, while his hand is afflicting us. Diffrefs. and danger will make the wickedeft to pray; but it is a principle of love and gratitude that makes the foul to praile 2. It would bring credit to religion, to fee faints thankful and praifing God under the crofs : it would make people fay, furcly they find fweetnets in God and his ways, that we fee not; they have ment to eat that the world knows not of. And this would invite ftrangers to come and try a religious life. The joyful praifes of the martyers at the flakes and in the flames, made people go home with love to religion in their hearts. 3. If the iffue of your affiltion fhould be death, this employment of praife would be a fweet preparative to fit and difpofe you for the work of heaven. Uie yourfelf much to this heavenly life, and be off trying to fing the fong of Moles and the Lamb in time of ficknels and trouble ; and this would fweeten the thoughts of death, and make you incline to be there, where praife is their conflant work.

Queft. What flould be the fubject of a believer's thank fgiving and praife under affliction?

Anfw He bath manifold grounds of praife; as 1/k, Upon the account of God's mercies to lyim through the bypaft part of his life. His mercies to thee, O believer, cannot be numbered; compare thy mercies with thy croffes, and thou wilt foon fee thy receivings are far greater than thy fufferings Thou haft had many days of plenty for one day of ficartity, many days of liberty for one day of ficatis, and are not thefe to be remembered with praife ?

adly, And more particularly, in thy greatch affliction, thou haft ground to praife God, O believer, thou waltborn in a land of light, where thou hadit the means of convertion to God, and acquaintance with Jefus Chrift; and efpecially, that God of his free grace made thefe means effectual to work a faving change on you, when others were paffed by. Is not this matter of praife, that he opened your eyes, humbled your foul, and renewed your heart? that he gave you Chrift, forgave your fins, and adopted you into his family, and made you an heir of heaven ? Oh ! what a fad cafe would it be. if you were yet in your fins, and in the bendage of Satan ; if you had convertion work to begin to, if you had your faith and justification and interest in Christ all to feek, and all your preparations for heaven to make : if you had all this to do with a fick and pained body, and a difordered mind that cannot command one fettled thought, with the terrible view of death and eternity before your eyes. This is the cafe that. God in justice might have left you to. Well then, ought you not to praile God, that fent his Holy Spirit in time to determine yuor heart to close with Chrift, and be reconciled to that God, you are mortey to appearbefore; and that thefe fins, which now would have been your terror are all forgiven and wallien away through the blood of Jefus Chrift.

3.4/y, is it not matter of praife in thy greateft trouble, fithat thou haft a great High Pricft, that is paffed into the heavens, to provide a manfion with the Father for thee, and to receive thy foul when feparated from the body ? "that, where he is, there you may be allo?"

4thly, You have caule to blefs God, that he fends lich fuitable harbingers, as ficknets and trouble, to tell you that death is approaching, and that he fhould take fuch pains on you to we an you from the world, and make you wiling to be gone. Many of God's people, that have been averife to dying at the beginning of a ficknets, by the inercafe and continuance of it, have been brought to be well fatisfied to depart that they may be with Chrift.

5thly, You have ground to blefs God for timing your afflictions to well, that he fent them not till he faw you ftood in need of them; he faw a need for them, as I Pet. i.6. and he would not let you want what was needful.

6thly, You ought to praise God, that he mitigates your trials, and proportions your burden for your back, that when he takes a rod to you, he hath not made it a fcorpion ; that when he deprived you of one comfort and enjoyment, he did not ftrip you of all, and leave you wholly comfortlefs: that when you fuffer in one thing, he hath not made you to fuffer in every thing, in foul, body, effate, relations and all . together; that inftead of afflicting you for a few days, he hath not made your whole life a fcene of milery and affliction. Blefs God, that he punisheth you lefs, unspeakably lefs, than your iniquities deferve ; that your fick-bed is not hell, your fever is not everlasting burnings, your pain is not the gnawing of the worm that never dieth.

7tMr, You have caufe to praife God. that your affliction is not to great as that of fome others, and even of fome that were very dear to God, and had not grieved him fo much as you have done. Remember the trials that fome have endured, of "whom the world was not worthy," which I mentioned before, as recorded, Heb. xi. Yours are nothing to theirs, nothing to Job's, that eminent fervant of God. Obferve the difference with thankfgiving and praife.

8thly, You have reafon to blefs God for the ftrength and fupport he hath given you under affliction. You would foon fink and fuccumb under a finall burden, if he did not fupport you by his grace; but, when he bears you up, the heavieft trial fhall not fink you. Have you not met with fome afflictions, you have thought at a diftance you would never have been able to bear up under them? yet, when they have come, you have found them light and portable, by reafon of the firength God hath beflowed on you.

othly, You have ground of thankfgiving that the mercies and bleflings which God hath continued with you, are far greater than thefe he hath taken from you: For tho' he hath taken this and that temporal blefling from you, yet he hath not taken Chrift from you, nor his holy Spirit from you; he hath not Geparated you from his love, nor cut you off from all hopes of heaven. However great your trials be, yet fill there is a mixture of mercy in your lot, which should be matter of praife.

Laftly, You have caufe, O believer, to blefs God, that all the afflictions he brings on you are in love, and for your profit. All his ways are mercy and truth to you. If he fmile, it is in mercy; and if he fmite, it is in mercy. God may change his difpendations, but his heart is fill towards them, and the cords wherewith he feourgeth them, are cords of love. Their profit is the great thing he aims at, in all their chaftifements, Heb. xii. to. He defigns thereby to reclaim them from their wanderings, cut off provifions for their lufts, make them pant and long for a better flate, and caufe them mend their pace toward it. Hence David faith, " It is good for me that was affiliced : For before I was affiliced, I went affray, but now I have learned to keep thy word," Pial. exist  $\delta_{7}$ , 71. From all which it appears you have manifold grounds of praife, even in the time of afficition.

DIRECT. IV. Let the children of God, when wifited with fickness, set about actual preparation for death and eternity.

E Very believer hath his main work done, and is always in a gracious flate, by realon of his union with Jefus Chrift, his reconciliation with God, through the merit of his blood, and the univerfal change that is wrought in him by regenerating and fanctifying grace: upon which account every child of God hath habitual preparation for meeting with death. Yet becaufe frequently, when fickness cometh, there are many things out of order with them, that make death frightful and undefirable, they must fet about actual preparation for death, and feek to have their fouls made ready for the bridegroom's coming. And here I shall shew wherein this actual readiness of believers doth confift, which should be their proper work and exercise in time of ficknefs, efpecially when ficknefs is lingering, and doth not deftroy the use of reason. But beware of thinking that this fhould be delayed till fickoefs come : No, no; the time of health is the main working feafon, and all fhould be then by-hand, as far as poffible. But, feeing even the beft generally find much to do at the very laft, I fhall give the following advices for your actual preparation.

1/l, Seeing ficknets is a mean appointed of God for his people's good, and particularly for fitting them for a better world; labour carneftly to reap the benefit of ficknets, feck God's bleffing upon it, that thereby you may be helped to difcover more of the evil of fin, that you may hate and abhor it the more, and that you may fee more effectually the vanity and vexation of the world, and get your heart loofed from all the things of time, and brough to a willingnets to be diffolved, that you may be with Chrift.

adly, Seeing the time of ficknefs and death is the time of your greateft need, beg earnefly of God, for your Redeemer's fake, fuch fpecial affiftance, influences and operations of his holy Spirit, as he knows needful for you in your prefent low and weak condition, in order to earry on and compleat your actual readincifs for meeting with himfelf at death, and entering into the invifible world, and being fixed unalterably in your everlafting flate.

3dly, Renew the exercise of repentance, and of faith in the blood of Chrift, for removing all grounds of quarrel and controverfy betwixt God and your foul. And in order thereto, review your bypaft life, and look into your heart alfo, and fearch out every predominant fin and idol of jealouly; for if there be any iniquity regarded in your heart, and unrepented of by you, it may occafion no hitle anguift and biternefs of fpirit in a dying hour. Well, when thou haft difeovered fin, humbly confels and bewail it before the Lord, and afk forgivenefs for it thro' the blood of Jefus Chrift the Son of God, which cleanfeth from all fin. Yea, make confession of all thy fins, and particularly reflect upon the fountain and fpring of them, viz. thy original fin. Know the plague of thy own heart, and mourn over it, mourn for the lofs and mil-fpending of much precious time. Mourn for the unprofitablenets of thy life. Now, when the ax is laid to the root of the tree by ficknefs, it is high time to mourn for your unfruitfulnefs under the means of grace and waterings of the holy Spirit. Mourn for your finning against such light and love as have been many days difplayed to you in the glorious gofpel. And, in a fpecial manner, mourn for your fins of omiffion, which commonly are but little minded by us. Thus mourn for all thy fins, till thou doft water thy couch with tears. It is moft fuitable that death fhould find every man, even every child of God, in the exercife of mourning and repentance : for they that thus fow in tears, shall eternally reap in joy. But fee that your tears run much in the gofpel channel, and flow from the believing views of a crucified Chrift, whom you have pierced by your fins. And, in the midft of your mourning, be fill aiming to take faith's grips of the clefts of this rock, for fheltering thy foul from the guilt of bypaft fins ; fay, " Lord Jefus, I have no refuge but thy wounds, no fountain but thy blood, no covert but thy righteoufnefs. And feeing thou freely makeft offer of thy merits for my protection, and inviteft even the chief of finners to come unto thee, faying, Look unto me, and be ye/aved ; Lord, I embrace the offer, and flee to thee to cover me." O believer do this, not once or twice, but do it a hundred times over ; do it as long as thou haft breath to draw in the world. Be ftill breathing to the very laft, after a crucified Jefos for relief again the guilt of fin, which thou art always contracting, and wilt be till the carthly houfe of this tabernacle be diffolved.

4thly, In order to your actual readinefs to go forth to meet the bridegroom, when coming to you by death, you must do as the wife virgins, Matth. xxv. 7. " Arife and trim your lamps." As it is not enough to have a fair lamp of a profeffion, fo it is not fufficient to have only the oil of grace in the lamp; nay, or to have it burning in fome degree. There is more requifite at this time, that the foul may be actully ready ; the lamp must be trimmed, which imports, 1/t, A fuppying it with more oil; you must feek to have your grace increased, to have new degrees, new ftrength, and new fupplies of grace given you from God, to fit you for the last conflict with your spiritual enemics, and efpecially the laft enemy death. 2dly, It imports a flirring up of the oil, and raifing the wick fome higher: So there must be an excitatian of grace, which may be in a low declining condition : you must endeavour to ftir and raile it up to a more lively exercife, and more elevated acts. Stir up the gift that is in thee : make the oil burn clear and fhine bright. Bring faith, love, repentance and holy defires, to a lively exercife. 3dly, Thistrimming imports the cleanfing of the lamp, by taking away the dead allos that hinder the light, or prevent its burning fo clearly as otherwife it would. So you muft labour to take away the dead aftes of corruption, that hinder the fining of grace : remove all unbelief, earthlinefs, deadnets, felf, and formality, and whatever elle doth fupprefs the exercife of faith, love, and heavenlymindednefs : let all thefe dead aftes be fnuffed away by repentance and mortification. As you ought to firive earnefily againft all thefe heart-evils in time of health, fo now labour to give them a dead firoke when deata's harbinger gives you a fummons.

5thly, Be diligent in gathering and fumming up all your evidences for heaven and eternal life, that fo you may not venture into the dark valley at an uncertainty. The comfort of dying will much depend on the clearness of your evidences; it is therefore your wildom to examine there carefully, and fee if you can fay, "I know in whom I have believed; I have confented with my foul to the method of falvation laid down in the covenant of grace. I am defirous that the glory of it should be eternally afcibed to the free grace of God, and the creature be wholly abafed in his fight. I have chosen God for my portion, and Chrift for my only Saviour ; and the happiness which I aim at is, to enjoy God in Chrift for ever. And, in order thereto, I depend on the holy Spirit to apply the redemption which Jefus Chrift hath purchased to me, and to fanctify me perfectly. There is no fin but what I hate and define to part with. I would rather have more holine's, than to have health and all the pleafores in the world. I earneftly defire the flourithing of Chrift's kingdom, and prefer J-rufalem to my chiefeft joy." If this your evidences be clear, you may chearfully take death ty the cold hand, and welcome its grim mellengers, and long to be gone that you may be with Chrift. You may fay as Ptalm xxiii 4. "When I walk through the valley of the fladow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me." You may go off the flage with the Ptalmitt's words in your mouth, Ptal. xxii, 5. "Into thine hand I commit my fpirit, for thou haft redeemed me, O Lord God of truth."

6thly Labour earnefly to overcome the love of life and fears of death, fo as to be content to part with all things here at God's call. O believer, what is there in this earth to tempt thee to hang back, when God calls thee to depart ? while you are here, you may lay your account with many loffes, croffes, dilappointments, griefs, and calamities of all forts. Friends will fail you, enemies will hate you, lufts will moleft you, Satan will tempt you, and the world will deceive you. Death is the way that the dearch of God's faints, and all the cloud of witneff s have gone before you ; yea, the Lord J: fus your head hath trode this path, and hath taken the fling out of death, and have paved a way through its dark valley, that his people may fafely follow him Hath the Captain of your falvation gone before you, and will any of his foldiers fhrink to follow him ? Art thou content to remain always at the fame diftance from him. and to enjoy no more of his prefence than now you have ? Are you fatisfied to live for ever with no more knowledge of God, no more love to Chrift, no more holinefs or heavenly-mindednefs, than at prefent you have ? Do you not groan under your remaining ignorance, deadnels, wanderings, pride, paffion, unbelief, felfifhnefs, worldlinefs, and other fins and lufts that here befet you ? And, are you not defirous to go to the place where you will be eternally free of them all, and where you shall never complain of a dull, dead, and fenfeleis frame of heart, or of any heart-wearinefs, or wandering in duty any more ? For the heart shall then be as a fixed pillar in the temple of God, and fhail go no more out; the eternal adoration and praifes of God shall be the foul's delight and element for ever. By fuch confiderations ftrive to conquer the fears of death and defires of life, which are often great clogs to the people of God in their preparations for flitting.

7t/dy, Be off meditating upon the heavenly glory which flortly all believers will fee and cojoy. Be much in the contemplation of the glorious company above; behold Chrift upon his glorious throne, at the right hand of God, and Abraham, David, Peter, Paul, and all the reft of the faithful ones, with their crowns of righteoufnefs, triumphing about their Redeemer. Think, O believer, how happy will that day be, when thou flat meet with thy father, and thy brethren, and when thou flath fee thy elder brether on the threne, ready to pafs fentence in thy favours. What melody will that fentence found in thine ears, Come ye ble [led of my Father, &c. What frame wilt thou be in, when he fets the crown of glory on thy head? O eternally free love! wilt thou cry, " O Saviour, thou didft wear a crown of thorns. that I might wear a crown of glory; thou didft groan on the crofs, that I might now fing .-Wonderful free love, that chufed me, when thousands were paffed by; that faved me from ruin, when my companions in fin must burn in hell for ever." Think how ravishing it will be to meet with your godly acquaintances in hea-ven, with whom you prayed, praifed, and converfed here ! Will you not then cry out, " O my brethren, what a change is here ! This glorious place is not like the poor dwellings we had on earth; this body, this foul, this state, this place, our clothes, our company, our language, our thoughts, are far unlike those we had then! The bad hearts, the body of death, the corruptions and temptations we then complained of, are all now gone. We have no more fears of death or hell, no more ule for repentance or prayer, faith or hope ; these are now fwallowed up in immediate vition, eternal love, joy and praife." And for thy help, O believer. in meditating on these things, read some parts of the book of Revelation, or caufe them to be read to you; and suppose with yourself, you had been a companion with John in the life of Patmos, and had got fuch a view of the glorious Majefty, the bright thrones, the heavenly hofts, and thining fplendour which he faw; the faints

In their white robes, with crowns on their heads, and pal ns in their bands, and heard them finging the fong of Moies and the Lamb, and trumpeting forth their eternal hallelujaks; what a heavenly rapture wouldft thou have been in 1 Well tues. O believer, thou fhalt thortly have clearer and fweeter fights than all thefe which John or any of the faints ever faw here upon earth. Surely that heivenly glory is a fubj & worthy of thy thoughts, and molf fuitable tor thee to mediate on in time of ficknefs, and when in the view of death.

8thly, It would be also very fuitable at this time, in order to your actual readiness for death, to be frequently looking out and longing for Chrift's coming. As Abraham flood in his tentdoor, ready to go forth to meet the angels that were fent unto him, fo fhould the believer keep himfelf in a waiting pofture at this time. He fhould be like the loving wife, that longs and looks for the coming of her ablent hufband, according to his letters to her. By this time (thinks fhe) he will be at fuch a place, and against fuch a time be will be at another place, and fo in a few days I will fee him. It is the character of believers, they are fuch as love his appearing, 2 Tim. iv. 8 They defire his coming, Cant. viii. 14. Make hafte. my beloved: Even Jo come, Lord Jefus, come quickly. Believers flould look upon themfelves as pilgrims here, wandering in a wildernels, abfent from home, and at a diffance from their father's house; and in time of affliction it is very proper for them to be crying as David doth, Pfal, ly. 6, " O that I had wings like a dove! for then would I fly away, and be at reft : I would haften my efcape from the windy tempeft." "O when shall the time of my pilgrimage, and the days of my banifhment be finished, that I may get home to my country and friends above ! Oh! my Lord is gone, my Saviour hath left the earth, and entered into his glory! my friends and brethren are gone to their bleffed reft, where they fee God's face, and fing his praise for ever : and, how can I be willing to ftay behind, when they are gone ? Mult I be finning here, when they are ferving God above? Muft I be groaning and fighing, when they are triumphing and dividing the fpoil? Surely I will look after them, and cry, O Lord, how long? When shall I be with my Saviour and my God ?"

DIRECT.V. Let believers in time of ficknefs endeavour all they can to glorify God, and edify those that are about them, by their speech and behaviour.

If ever a child of God be active to promote in time of ficknefs, and when death may be approaching. And there is good reation for it; for, t/t, This may be the laft opportunity that ever thou fhalt have to do any thing for God, and therefore thou fhould fittudy to improve it to the utmoft. Heaven, to which thou art going, is the place where thou fhalt receive thy reward; but thou canft have no accefs there to advance God's glory, by commending God and Chrift, and religion to finners, or weak believers. Upon this account, many of God's children have been content to fufpend their heavenly happinels for a while, and to flay upon the earth for fome longer time. I have read of a certain martyr, when going to fuffer, who expreffed fome forrow that he was going thither, where he fould do his God no more fervice, to wit, in the fenfe above explained. And of another, that faith. " If it were poffiple there could be place for any grief in heaven, it would arife from the Christian's confidering, that he did for little for God while he was upon earth." Now is the working feafon, O believer, be bufy while it lafts, according to the example of thy bleffed Saviour, John ix. 4. " I must work the work of him that tent me, while it is day; for the night cometh wherein no man can work." This confideration flould make thee beftir thyfelf with the greatest activity, like Samfon before his death, who, when he could have no more opportunity to ferve God and his church, he cried to God, and faid, Judges xvi. 28. " O Lord God, remember me I pray thee, and firengthen me this once." And, then, he bowed bimfelf with all his might, to pull down the pillars of Dagon's temple, being willing to facrifice his life to the ruin thereof.

zdly, The holy fpeech and carriage of dying believers may, through the blefling of God, make deep impreflion upon the hearts of nurcgenerate men that are witheffest to them. Thefe who have derided the prople of God for the hithmfs of their lives, and defined their courfels and reproofs, as proceeding from humour or precisencis; yet have begun to notice their words and actions, when they have feen them on fick-beds, and on the borders of eternity, and to have other thoughts of religion and holinefs than formerly they had. Now they think the man is in good earnest, and speaketh the thoughts of his heart ; and, if ever he can be believed, it must be now. It is most convincing to carnal perfons, to fee believers bearing up with patience in their fickness ; to hear them fpcaking good of God, commending his ways, and rejoicing in God as their portion, in midft of their fharpest pains; to fee them behaving as those that are going to dwell with Christ. fmiling and praifing God, when friends are fighing and weeping about them. This inclines them to think, furely there must be a reality in religion, there is a visible difference betwixt the death of the righteous and of the wicked. Hence a wicked Baalam wished to die the death of the rightcous, and to have his laft end like his. It left a conviction upon that young man's confcience, who faid to his loofe companion. after they had vifited godly Ambrofe on his death-bed, and faw how chearful he was, and triumphing over approaching death, " O that I might live with thee, and die with Ambrofe!" Nay, fuch fights might draw them not only to defire to die the death of the righteous, but alfo to refolve to live their lives. If carnal men faw believers going off the ftage with fuch confidence and joy, as becomes these that are entering into eternal reft with Chrift, and thefe that are going out of a howling wildernefs to a glorious Canaan; it might be a powerful invitation to them to go and feek after the fame felicity.

adly. This likewife would be very edifying and confirming to all that fear God. How much would it contribute to establish them in the practice of holinefs, and to quicken them in their diligence in ferving and glorifying of God in the days of their health, to hear a dying believer fay, "Of all the time which I have lived, I have no comfort now in reflecting upon one hour, but what I fpent in the fervice of God. Were I to begin my life, I would redeem time more carefully than ever. One hour in communion with God is far fweeter than many years spent in worldly pleasures. Come here, then, all ye that fear God, and I will tell you what he hath done for my foul. O tafte and fee that God is good ?"

4/h/y, Confider the examples of God's children in former ages, how uleful and edifying their words have been, at fuch a time, to all round about them. But this head l intend to infilt fully upon afterwards.

Quefl. But how thall I behave fo as I may glorify God and edify others, when I am fick or dying ? I would have fome particular directions for it.

Anfw. i/f, You may do this by your patience under pain, and fubmillion to God's will, with refpect to the event, whether life or death. It is fumbling to others, to fee believers fretful in trouble, and unwilling to leave the world, when God calls them. But it is moft convincing and confirming to fee them frankly refiguing themfelves to God's difpofal, faving, "Let God himfelf choose for me; he is wile, and knoweth beft what is needful and most proper for me : have no will, but God's will." For any man to defire to live when God calls him to die, or to defire to die when God calls him to live, is equally a fign of cowardice : for he that defires to live, is afraid to look death in the face; and he that defires to die, would flee from fome calamity, and take facter in death. But he is the most valiant man that can die willingly when God would have him die, and live as willingly when God would have him live ; this is true Chriftian valour.

2dly. By pious exhortations and warnings to thefe that are about you. It may be the laft occasion you may have of glorifying God this way: O do not lofe the feation which may be usefully improven for the good of fouls. For thus a believer may bring more honour to God, and more advantage to precious fouls by his ficknefs and death, than ever he did by all his health and life in the world: for their fpeeches have more weight with people at fuch a time, than at any other. Hence the Patriarchs, knowing the prevalency of fuch words, do urge Jofeph with Jacob's dying charge, Gen. l. 16, 17. " And they fent a meffenger unto Joseph, faying, Thy father did command before he died, faying, So fhall ye fay unto Jofeph, Forgive, I pray thee now, the the trefpafs of thy brethren." &c. And as we ought to be ready to give good counfel to all when we lie on fickbeds, fo efpecially we fhould be concerned for children and near relations: they are more affected than others with our ficknefs, and fo will they be with our fayings; our admonitions may do them good, when we are rotting in the duft.

Queff. What ought to be the fubject of our diffeourfes and exhortations to others at fuch a time ?

Anfw. 1/t, It is very proper to be much in commending the Mafter you have ferved, and the excellency of his fervice, to thefe that are about you. Tell them of the equity and goodnels of these laws which you have obeyed, and of the bounty and faithfulnels of that Lord whom you have worthipped, loved, and praifed; and of the greatnels and eternity of that reward you are going to poffefs. Let the children of God extol their Father, and his care of them, and kindnefs to them. Let the ranfomed of the Lord magnify their Redeemer, and his wonderful love and fufferings for them. Tell others what fweetnefs and fatisfaction you have found in your own experience in attending God's ordinances, and in fecret duties; what comfort you have found in Chrift, and the promifes of his covenant. And thus let your laft breath be fpent in exalting and commending Chrift and religion to others.

2dy, Be warning others of the vanity of the world, and of all its wealth and pleatures. Tell them that they may fee by your cafe, that thefe things which people are bewitched with in the day of their health, can fignify nothing to a fick or dying man; they cannot eale is in our pains, they can afford no peace to a troubled foul, they cannot lengthen our lives one hour, and far lefs can they five from the wrath of an angry God. "Oh," may you fay, "what a miferable cale had I been in at this time; if I had had no better portion than this world, and nothing elfe to look to but its riches and pleafarres! Wherefore, Sirs, fet not your hearts upon it, but forfake it before you be forfaken by it, and make choice of that which will be fupporting to you in the evil day."

3dly, Be warning them of the evil of fin, and what milchief and deceitfulnets you have found in it. Tell them, that though the devil and the field would tempt you to look on fin as a harmlefs thing, yet the pleafure will foon be gone, and a flurp fling will be left behind. Sin will appear no light matter, when the foul is going hence into the uwful prefence of a holy God. You would give a thouland worlds then for Chrift, and the blood of atonement to anfwer for your fins.

4/hly, Tell them of the great difference betwixt the godly and wicked man's choice. The godly man chufeth the better part that cannot be taken from him; he lays up his treafure in heaven where none can reach it fo that it yields him rich fupplies when ficknefs and death come upon him. But O how foolifh is the wicked man's choice, that for a moment's fieffly pleafure, doth lofe his immortal foul, and everlaffure hole his immortal foul, and everlaffure hole his immortal foul, and everlaftthing needful in time, and not to pamper their bodies for the worms, but to fet themfelves prefently to clofe with the offers of Chrift, and make fure an intereft inhis righteoufiefs to cover them in the evil day.

5thly, Be telling them of the evil of floth and negligence in the work of their falvation : and be exhorting them to mind it, and do it with all their might. For however fome may cenfure and deride God's people now for their ftrictnefs, diligence, and zeal in the matters of religion; yet, when they come to die, they will be ready to wifh that they had been more diligent in falvation-work ; that they had loved God, fled to Chrift, and had fought and ferved him with all their hearts and fouls; and to cry, "O for a little more time! O if God would recover and try us once more with health, how diligent would we be !" And tell them, that thefe who have been most ferious and painful in falvation-work, yet, when they come to die, do much lament their floth and negligence : yea, thefe that have been most reproached by the world for their diligence and fervency, do often with at that time, " O that we had been a thousand times more diligent and laborious in God's fervice l"

6thly, Labour to perfinde others of the precounces of time, the wildow of improving the time of youth, and of health; and the great folly of delaying repentance, and putting it off to a fick-bed. Say to them, "I find now by experience, that a time of fickreds is a moft unfit feafoa to do any thing to purpole for the foul;

my mind is fo diverted and indifpofed for fpiritual work by ficknefs and pain, that I cannot attain to any fuitable composition for it. And how miferable were I if I had all my work to begin at this time ! O take warring, and improve precious time, and efpecially the day of the gofpel, the time of the Spirit's firvings, and the time of youth, which is the moft ufual feafon of the convertion of fouls, and of bringing finners into acquaintance with lefus Chrift."

DIRECT. VI. Let God's children, when fick or dying, be expression a great concern for the advancement of the kingdam of Chrift, and of true religion in the riftag generation.

7 EAL and public-spiritedness for Christ's intereft is very becoming his people in all the periods of their life, but more efpecially at this time. When Chrift is ready to take you to his kingdom in heaven, O be not unmindful of his kingdom on earth. It would be acceptable to God, and pleafant in the fight of men, to fee you expreshing a warm concern for the rifing age, and for promoting the welfare of the fouls of your children, and others that furvive you : and feeng you can be no longer ufeful to thefe you leave behind, by your counfels, examples, or prayers, as formerly ; do your utmoft for them now. And this concern the children of God in time of ficknefs may evidence feveral ways.

1/t, By carneft prayers to God, both for the prosperity of his church, and the fourifhing of religion in general ; and alfo for your children and relations in particular, that they may be a holy feed, and a generation to ferve God, and thew forth his praife in the world, when you are gone off the flage.

2dly, By intrufting the care of your childrens education to fuch tutors and guardians as will be much concerned for their fouls, and will fet before them godly examples and infunctions in their young and tender years.

3dly, By filling your latter-wills and teflaments with many pions advices and folerm charges to your children and relations, with refpect to their ferving of God, and worthipping him in their families and in feeret; fo as they can never look into your teflaments, and the legacies left to them, but they will hear fomething that may be affecting, upflirring, and colifying to their fouls.

4*i*My, By honouring the Lord with your fibfrance, and leaving formething of what God hath bleffed you with to pious ules; particularly for the religious education of the children of the poor, for buying Bibles to them, and other good books; and for propagating of Chriftias knowledge in ignorant places, fuch as the highlands and illands, by erecting and maintaining (chools therein : which glorious work is happily begun, and pretty far advanced by that honourable fociet at Edinburgh, whofe treafurer is ready to preceive donations from all fuch as the Lord pleafeth to move to make a free-will offering for promoting that pious defign. Many pious perfons have contributed already thereto : and it were definable that others, whom God hath enabled for it, fhould mind it before they die : for by fatal experience we may obferve, that the moft godly parents do not know how their chileren will employ the eftate they leave them, whether as fuel for their lufts, or as oil to feed the lamps in God's fandtuary. It is proper for themfelves then, before they go off the flage, to difpole of fome part of their fubflance, for the glory and fervice of that God who gave it unto them.

sthly, It might contribute to promote piety, and to make the deeper impreffions upon the minds of your children and friends, if, under the warnings of death, you fhould imitate the example of the prophet Elijah, who in his lifetime made a writing which he procured to be delivered to king Jehoram after his death, 2 Chron. xxi. 12. So in like manner, you might write letters, and leave them in the hands of your friends and executors, full of advices, charges, admonitions, confolations, or threatenings, to be delivered to your children or friends, upon occasion either of their good or bad conversation after your death : which probably would be more regarded by them, than the counfels you gave them in the time of your life ; for in fome refpect they would be received and read by them, as if they were letters from heaven.

DIRECT. VII. Let the children of God labour to fortify themfelves what they can ag infl all Sutan's temptations and affaults, which they may expect to meet with in time of ficknefs and efficien.

A TIME of affliction is commonly a time of fitter freations: for the old lerpent knows the fitter freations for affaulting the children of God 3 and he will not be wanting to imrove this opportunity of advantage for letting upon the poor foul. When Pharaon heard that the people were entangled in the wildernet's, he purfued them; fo, when Satan fees a foul entangled with differed and troubles, he thinks it high time to make an attack. He feeks to winnow and fit away the believer's grace, and therefore he comes when the corn is a threfhing by the rod. When Job was finitren in his clate, health, and all other comforts, then this coward falls upon him, and tempts him to impatience, mermining, and wrong thoughts of God.

At this time, O believer, you have fpecial need to be on your guard, and look out. Itcckon always, when ficknels or trouble content, the prince of this world cometh alfo. Stand then to your defence, and put on your armour, efpecially the fhield of faith, that you may be able to quench the fiery darts of the devil. You have need at this time to put in practice our Lord's direction, "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation." Pray for wifdom and fkill to counteract him, and that you may not be ignorant of his devices ; and pray particularly for grace to make you proof against all his falle representations of God and his providence to you; for he that duift represent Job falfely to an all-feeing and all-knowing God, will with much boldness represent God falfely to you, who fee and know fo little. He will be ready to tempt you to think that God is angry with you, and dealing with you as an enemy. Thus was Job tempted, Job xxxiii. 10, 11. " Behold, he findeth occasions against me, he counteth me for his evemy : he putteth my feet in the flocks, he marketh all my paths." But observe what Elihu answers, " In this thou art not just : God is greater than man. Why doft thou firive againft him ? for he giveth not account of any of his matters." But feeing I fpoke before of the wrong thoughts of God, which we are apt to harbour in time of affliction, Chap. II. Direct. 2. I shall proceed to fpeak of fome other temptations wherewith Satan doth affault God's people when in diffrefs. and furnish fome answers thereto.

 Saith the tempter, "Thou art nothing but a hypocrite; all thy religious performances have been done in hypocrify, to be feen of men: thou never haft repented or believed fincerely in the fight of God."

An/w. I acknowledge there hath been much hypocrify in me, but I hope it is not allowed and reigning hypocrify; I always wreftled againft it; wherefore I am not an hypocrite. I regarded the afteem of men too much, but I hope I value the efteem of God much more. My faith and repentance are weak, but I hope they are fincerc. And whatever defects and flortcomings have formerly cleaved to thefe graces in me, I do now unfeignedly repeat of all my fins, I look to him that I have pierced, and mourn. I am heartily willing to be jultified by the righteoutinefs of Charit alone, and to be cleaned and functified by his Spirit : and here I give up mytelf to Chrift as my only Saviour. And this I hope is, through grace, true repenting and believing, which God will accept, for Chrift's fake, whatever my former defects have been.

Tempt. 2. But faith the tempter, " Thy repentance cannot be true; for thy heart is not broken, and thine eyes do not fled tears for fin."

dn/w. It is my very great burden, and conflant complaint to God, that I cannot attain to a greater meafure of forrow and contrition for fin: but yet it is my comfort that repentance is not to be confined to fuch degrees and fymptoms of forrow as fome do win at. I hope, I can fay through grace, that my heart is fet againfi all fin, great and finall; and I would give all I have in the world to be wholly delivered from fin.

Tempt. 3. Saith the tempter, "But thy day day of grace is paft, it is too late for thee to think of repenting or believing; God will not accept of thee now."

An/w. But I hope it is not fo with me, feeing God gives me a heart that parts after God, and Chrift, in the way of commanded duty. The offers of falvation through Chrift are made to all who believe and repent; and late penitents are not excluded from the benefit of these gracious offers more than others

Tempt 4. But faith the tempter, "Thou art none of God's elect, and if thou be not chosen to falvation, thou canft not be faved."

An/w. Secret things belong to God, and it were prefumption in me to pry into his fecret decrees; but one thing I am fure of, that every foul that is chofen to faith and repentance, is alfo chofen to faivation; but I truft God hath chofen me to the former, and therefore to the latter.

Tempt. 5. But faith the tempter, "You overvalue your graces and duties, and fo they cannot be true and real."

An/w. But I count them all but lofs and dung in comparison of Chrift. I defire always to be deeply humbled under a fenfe of my finfulnefs and unworthinefs, and to abhor every motion that would carry me away from Chrift and his righteoufnefs, and would tempt me to rely on my graces or dutics, or put them in the leaft in Chrift's room.

Tempt. 6. " The iffue of thy fickness may be death, and thou art not ready ; for thou hash no affurance of thy falvation."

Anyw. A perfect certainty is not to be expected here; there will be fill fome queffioning, fome doubts and fears; but thefe I refolve not to indulge now, but to break through all, that I may embrace Chrift, and be found in him. The defires of my foul are to Chrift, and the remembrance of his name : and fuch, I believe, he will not fuffer to perifh.  $\frac{14}{10}$  lbc-lieve, Lord, help my ubbelief.<sup>2</sup>

Tempt. 7. " But thou art a firanger to the invifible world; how wilt thou adventure into that world of fpirits, with which thou haft fo little acquaintance ?"

Anfie. But Chrift, who is my head and beft friend, is no ftranger to it; he is the Lord of that land, and provides manfions for all his people there; and he will receive every one of them home, and lodge them fafely. "The fpirits of juft men made perfect," were once what wy fpirit now is; they were ftrangers to that world before they came to it, as well as 1: but their head being in it, encouraged them to go to it: and now they rejoice in it as the kindly dwelling-place of all the faints.

Tempt. 8. "But thou art vile, and God is infinitely pure and glorious; how canft thou think of approaching to near to him?"

Arfw. Though a weak eye be not able to look upon the fun, yet 1 hope to be fitted and threngthened for that glorious fight. Befides, God doth now appear to us in his Son Chrift, where his infinite glory is plcafantly vailed 'fo as the faints may behold him. Thefe glorified fouls above were once vile as well as others ; but their Saviour did cleanfe them, and prefent them to the Father without fpot or wrinkle. And whatever be my unworthineds, I am relieved by confidering my union with Chrift, and looking on the glory and dignity of my head. Surely God will not delpife the members of his dear Son, nor trample on any that are his flefh and bones.

Tempt.9. " But what will become of thy wife and children, when thou art taken from them ? "

An/w. If I truft God fo willingly with my foul, and my eternal concerns, why may I not truft him with my relations also? Have I not feen how wonderfully he bath provided for others? Both not every thing in the world depend on his will and pleafure? How cafy is it then for God to fupply his own?

Tempt. 10. "But fill death is terrible to nature, even the king of terrors."

Anjw, But my Redeemer hath taffed death for me, and taken out its fearful fling; he hath conquered death, and keeps the keys of death and hell. Wherefore through him will I fing, "O death, where is thy fling? O grave, where is thy vitcor?"

Tempt. 11. "But it is terrible to think of appearing before God's tribunal, to be tried and judged."

Anfw But my friend annd interceffor will be the Judge there. Will Chrift condemn the members of his own body, and thefe he hath fo often comforted;

But bolides all thefe, a holy God may fometimes fuffer the tempter to adhalt his own people in time of their adheltion with his fiery darts and his fierceft battering engines, fuch as, temptations to Athelim, blafphemy, defpair, &c. whereby their fouls may be terribly finken, and fore amazed.

Your relief in this cafe is to lock to your head, and remember how he was himfelf buffetted by this enemy, affaulted with the moft odious traptations, that he might thereby get an exerimental touch and feeling of your condition, in order to his fympathizing with you, and relieving you from this enemy, whom he hath already conquered in your name. But for thefe things he will be enquired of by the house of lfarel. You must act faith on your exslted head.

CHAP. IV.

Containing fome special directions to unregenerate perfons, when afflicted by sickness or otherwije.

DIRECT. I. Take a ferious view of the of the miferable condition of a Chriftles perfon under fickness or heavy affliction.

1.6. CONSIDER the valt difference betwixt your cafe, and that of a true believer; he hath ground of confolation in, the greateft diffrefs, but you have none. However tharp the rod of correction be to him, yet it is in the hand of a Fatker; but you have to do with an angry ard fin-revenging God: and, who may thand in his fight, if once he be angry? for he commands both the first and fecond death, and he can caft you both into the grave and hell at once, Rev. vi. 8. "Hell followed the pale horie." Death is the king of terrors, but hell is a thouland times more terrible. When God afflicts his children, he flands to them in the relation of a loving Father; but he deals with you as an incenfed judge. Though he fees it neceffary for their good to chaftife them, yet the doth it with a releating hand; yea, every throke goeth as it were to his heart, IIa. Isuit. 9. "In all their affliction he was afflicted." But when he arileth to punith his enemics, he ftrikes them with hatred and detentation, as a man would do a toad or venomous creature. Though they cry, he hath no pity, Prov. i. 26. "I will laugh at your calamity, and mock when your fear cometh."

2dly, If your fickness threaten you with death, what a dark and melancholy profpect must you have of your approaching change? Why, O Chriftlefs foul, it is what you are wholly unprepared for. The old house falls down about your ears, before you have another lodging provided. When death cafts you to the door, you have not where to lay your head, unlefs it be on a bcd of fire and brimftone. O how furprifing and fearful will the change be. that death will make on you! A change from earth to hell, from light to darkness, from comforts to terrors, from hope to difpair, from the offers of grace to the revelation of wrath; a change from the fociety of faints on earth. to the company of the damned in hell. Whatever fond hopes of falvation you have now, your hopes thall lead you no further than to the king of terrors, and then " your hopes shall be cut off, and your trust like a spider's web," Job viii. 14. Though it coft you much pains to weave and fupport this web now, it will prove a weak and flender defence to your foul, when death comes with his befom of deftruction, and fweeps both you and it away to hell. You will then be taken from all the means of grace you have abufed, and be for ever deprived of an opportunity of buying oil: your lamp fhall go out to death, and never be lighted any more.

adly, In this extremity, you have no airth to look to for comfort. O Chriftlefs finner, what will you do in the day of vifitation? To whom will you fice for help ? Your houfes, your lands, your money, your honours, your companions, your relations, will all be miferable comforters to you. Every thing will look black and difinal round about you. If you look without you for help, you may fee your friends weeping and lamenting your cafe; but this will do nothing but increase your vexation and mifery. If you look within you for relief, confeience, that before you would not fuffer to fpeak, will meet you with bitter flings and upbraidings. It will bring to your view the fins you had forgot, the time you have mifpent, the health you have milimproven, the offers of grace you have refuted, the great falvation you have neglected. what folly was it for thee to provoke God, and flight Chrift, for a little worldly profit, or a little brutish pleasure ? Can thefe relieve thee when the arrows of the Almighty flick within thee, and the terrors of God do fet themfelves in array against thy foul ? In the mean time, the devil, that tempted you to your foul-ruining courle, will ftep in, and reprefent your fins in their blackeft colours and aggravations, to render you altogether hopelefs and desperate. O finner, thou that refuscit relt from Chrift in the day of health, and grace, halt find no cafe from the creature in the day of ficknets and death. Your ficknets will allow ao reft to your body, and your fins will permit no cafe to your foul. You may expect the fulfilling of that threatning, Deut, xxviii.  $6_5$ .  $-6_7$ . " The Lord flull give thee a trembling heart, and failing of cycs, and forrow of mind. And thy fire final hang in doubt before thee, and thou final have fear day and night. In the morning thou thalt fay, Would God it were even: and at even thou thalt fay, Would God it were morning," becaufe of the pain of thy body, and anguith of thy fpirit.

DIRECT. II. Let unregenerate perfons carefully improve their flokness and affliction, as means to further their conversion; and pray that God may bless if for that end.

MANY have begun their acquaintance with God, and with themfelves in the time of affliction; the furnace is frequently the Spiri's work-houfe, where he forms his veffels of praife. There are many who, while health and firength continue, mind nothing but vain pleafures; one day they go to their games and fports, another day to their cups and lafeivious company, another day to their ups and lafeivious company, another day to vilting their friends; and thus they fpend the whole time of their health and profperity in fin and vanity. All the warnings, counfels, and existentians of parents, friends, and minifters, do them no good, they cannot endure to entertain a ferious thought of God or of Chrift, of death, of heaven, of hell, or judgment to come. But when God doth caft them into fickness, or fome great affliction, they, through the bleffing of God, begin to come to themfelves, like the prodigal, and think of returning again to their Father. Several inftances to this purpose might be given. The carl of Rochefter is a late one, whole life was notorioufly lewd, profane, and atheiftical, and who had wickedly employed his wit and parts to ridicule all religion; yet when he was afflicted with pain and fickness, and brought to the gates of death, he began to entertain quite other apprehensions than he had done before: he profeffed he had ferious and reverend thoughts of religion and holinefs, which before he laughed at ; he' most carneftly and affectionately warned others to abandon their evil courics, and to live religiously and foberly, and to look upon religion as the greateft reality in the world; he retracted all his impious and profane language, wherewith he uled to reflect on the ways of godlinefs, and willingly attefted all this under his hand.

Pray then for the divine bleffing on your ficknels, that it may contribute to the convertion of your foul; which it doth feveral ways. 1/2, By opening mens eyes to get a true fight of things, to behold religion in its true finape, and fin in its proper colours; hence the rod is faid to give wi/d.m., Prov. xxix. 15. They who have mocked at religion, and made light of fin all their days, have been taught by bodily fickwel's to change their tune. Then they begin to have an effect of the Bible, and to value and fend for a pious minifer, and to defire the prayers of the people of God. Now they perceive fin to be bitter as gall and wormwood, they lothe and abhor that which they liked before; now the word of God makes deep imprefion on them, and particularly fuch a word as that, Jer. ii. 19. "Know therefore and fee, that it is an evil thing and bitter, that thou haft forfaken, the Lord thy God."

zdly, Sicknefs helps to fet the word preached home upon the heart. When God ipeaks to us in the day of health and profperiy, we oft give him a deaf car, Jer. xxii. 21. But when diffrefs comes, it brings the words of God, and of his miniflers, to our remembrance, as it brought Jofeph's to the remembrance of his brethren, Gen. xlii. 21.

4thly, It fpurs a man on to prayer that formerly neglected it. When the prodigal is brought to diftrefs, he fays, "I will arife and go to my Father." He forgat his Father before, but now he will addrefs him, Hof. v. 15. "In their affliction they will feek me carly." Thus the Lord frequently begins and promotes the convertion of fouls to himfelf. And O finner, if this be the fluit of thy ficknets, it will not be unto death, but the glory of God.

DIRECT. III. Be careful to obey God's voice in the rod, and beware of flighting it.

E Very ficknels hath a meflage from God, and his voice you ought to hearken to with reverence and attention, Micah vi. 9. What faith he to you at this time? O finner, he fiith, "Retire from the world, think on death and eternity, abhor thefe luits and idols which God is finiting you for, fice fpeedily to the ftrong hold; repent, and be converted, that your fins may be blotted out." This is God's voice to you, and confider how provoking it will be to him, if you flight it.

1/t, You will provoke God to flight your voice when you cry to him, and ftop his car againft the voice of your fupplications, Zech. vii. 12.

24/y, You will provoke God to ceafe from being a reprover to you, fo that he will fpeak to you, no more.

3dly, You will provoke him to bring heavier judgments on you, yea, foto draw his fword of juffice againft you, that he will fheathe it up no more, as he threatens, Ezek, xxi. 5.

4thly, God may break off all intercourfe and correlpondence with you, as with thole, Ezek. xx, 31. "As I live, faith the Lord God, I will not be enquired of by you."

5thly, He may feal you up for ever under your fins, hardnefs, and pollution; and fay to you, as to fome we read of, Ezck, xxiv. 13, Hof. iv, 7 Rev. xxii. 11. "Becaufe 1 have purged thee, and thou was not purged, thou fhait not be purged from thy filthinefs any more, ill 1 have caufed my fury to reft upon these. Ephraim is joined to his idols, let him alone. He that is filtly, let him be filthy fill." He that is hardned againft the voice of my rods, let him be hardned fill. Well then, O finner, while God is in fpeaking terms with you, hearken to his voice, and obey it; fay, "Lord, what wilt thon have me to do?"

DIRECT. IV. Caft back your eyes upon the fins of your bypast life, and labour to be deeply humbled for them before the Lord.

C Eeing you are fummoned to prepare for go-D ing to the judgment-feat of God, where your foul is to receive its final fentence; labour to prevent the terror of that appearance, by your judging yourfelf before-hand: And this you mult do, by fummoning yourfelf before the bar of confcience, examining parrowly into your state, accusing and condemning yourfelf for your fins. And fee that you be impartial is this work, willing to know the truth, and difcover the worft of your cafe. You must fee and be duly fenfible of your danger, otherwife you cannot think to cfcape it. Take a narrow view of your fins in their nature, number, aggravations, and defervings. And in order to this, if thou haft any measure of ftrength for it, let the exposition of the ten commandments in our Larger Catechifm be diffinctly read over unto thee. Make a paule upon every queftion, and fay within thyfelf, "Have I not omitted what is here required by God? and have I not committed what is here forbidden by God? how oft have I repeated thefe fins? how long have I lived in the practice of them? O! do not fo many years fins need very ferious repentance, a very deep humiliation? "O! doth not fuch a vile finner as I, fland greatly in need of Chrift to my cautioner and ranfomer for fuch a vaft number of fins? will, not their weight prefs me eternally down to the loweft hell, if they remain unpardoned, and be laid upon my back?" Wherefore view them closely, and confess them particularly before

1/1, In the first place, bewail thy original fin, the fountain of all thy actual transpressions, as did David, Pfal. Ii 5. "Behold, I was shapen in iniquity, and in fin did my mother conceive me."

adly, Acknowledge and mourn over the finful outbreakings of thy life, whereby thou haft diffhonoured God, and grieved his holy Spirit; and efpecially fins againft light.

3dly. Be humbled for thy fins of omifion, for neglefting of commanded duties, particularly for the negleft of prayer in fecret, and of family religion.

4thly, Mourn for the lofs of precious time. Alss for the time of youth milpent, many Sabbath-days trifled away !

sthly, Lament thy long flighting of Chrift, and falvation through his righteoutinels, which fo prefingly hath been offered to thee in the golpel.

6thly, Bewail thy ftiffing the convictions, and quenching the motions of the Spirit, and thereby provoking him to depart from you.

7thly, Mourn for thy unthankfulnels to God for mercies and deliverances, which might have allured you to repentance and newnefs of life.

8thly, Confeis thy flubbornnels und erformer efflictions, which hath provoked God to fend new trials upon you.

othly, Be humbled for thy earthly-mindednefs, in that thou half all thy days been careful and cumbered about many things, and haft neglected the one thing neceffary.

tothly, Mourn for the lateness of thy repentance, and thy prodigious folly in delaying folong to bethink thyself, and turn to the Lord. "Oh how unwilely have I aded, to mission the time of health, and delay for great a work till now, that I am laid on a tick-bed I and now, if I die before I am converted, I am loss for ever. O Lord, I am ashamed and confounded at my madness and folly, and have no excuss to plead for myself, but must shand afar off with the poor publican, and similer upon my breash, and cry, God be mereifal to me a finner."

DIRCET. V. Flee prefently to Jefus Chrift by a true faith, and close with him as offered to you in the gospel.

A R T thou fenfible, O finner, of thy gricyous guilt and ill-defervings before God?

then yo not defpair; for Jefus Chrift, who hath offered to divine juffice an all-fufficient facrifice for fin, is offering himfelf to thee, faying, " O distreffed finner, look unto me, and be faved. Turn unto me, why will ye die? Come unto me, heavy laden foul, and I will give you reft. He that cometh to me, I will in no wife caft out." Will not fuch gracious words, fuch moving calls, melt thy heart within thee, and make thee cry to him, " Lord Jefus, I flee to thee as my refuge, for deliverance from fin, and protection from the wrath to come : I look to thy wounds, I truft in thy righteoufnefs, I depend on thy merit, I lie at thy feet, and this I am refolved to do as long as I have breath to draw in the world."

DIRECT. VI. Call for the elders of the church that they may pray over you in your ficknefs.

T HIS is the apofile James his direction to the fick, James v 14. He doth not fay, If any be fick, let him fend for the phyficians, but for the elders or minifters.

It is true, phyficians are to be called, but not in the first place. It was Ala's fault that in his difeafe, he fought not the Lord, but to the phyficians; and, alas, how many follow his example! Minifters are only called for in the last place, and very often when time is pail, the fick being at the point of death, and fearce capable to ipeak or hear. But if your define to reap benefit by the infructions and prayers of minifters, call for them timeoufly, and open your cale unto them; feek their counfel, and beg for their prayers. It is their effice to teach and pray for you, and they have authority to offer falvation to you through Gluit, and to minifter comfort to them that are calt down; wherefore a bleffing may be expected on their miniftrations and performances more than others. Hence God fail to Abimelech of Abraban, Gen. xx? 7. "He is a prophet, and he fhall pray for thee." And to Job's friends concerning Job, Job xill. 8. "Go to my fervant Job, and he fhall pray for you, for him will I accept: left that I deal with you after your folly."

And Lafly, Remember, that as the apofile James enjoins the fick to call for the elders to pray over them, fo at the fame time he directs you, James v. 16. to confess your faults one to another, Chriftian to Chriftian, one friend to another, the people to their minister. Not that this gives any warrant for the Papifts their auricular confession, which they force upon all men to their priefts as a fatisfaction for fin, and where they rack their confciences, (when they feel no diffreis,) to confess their moft feeret fins, to enumerate them all under pain of damnation, and which they use as a politic to dive into the fecrets of princes, flates, and all private perfons: But as Luther, Calvin, Beza, and many others of orthodex divines do teach, it is very profitable and neceffary for thefe that are inwardly troubled with a fenfe of their fins, to cafe and difburden their confeienccs, by confessing of them to the faithful minifters of Chrift, in order to their receiving fuitable counfels and confolations from them. fuch as Chrift hath left in his word for contritehearted penitents.

Thus let every man in fickness use all appointed means for preparing his foul for a future ftate. Thy preparation will by no means haften death, but fweeten it to you. Death muft furely have a most formidable aspect to an unprepared finner: he may falute it as Ahab did Elijah, "Haft thou found me, O mine enemy?" why? it brings heavy and doleful tidings to him. But a prepared foul may falute death, Welcome, O my friend, thou bringeft me tidings of great joy; everlafting deliverance from fin, and all the bitter fruits of it. I shall never complain of these any more.

CILAP. V.

Containing directions to the people of God, when the Lord is pleafed to recover them from ficknels and destres.

DIRECT. I. It is very proper, both under ficknels and after it, to examine if the affliction be fanctified to you, and hath come from the Love of God.

IT would be very comfortable for us to know that the afflictions which God vifits us with, are not the punifhment of a judge, but the chaslifement of a father; that they do not proceed from wrath, but from love : that they are not curfes, but bleffings, to us. Now, the beft way of knowing this is by the effects which they work and produce in us, through the bleffing of God.

1/f, Canft thou fay, that thy affliction hath humbled thee in the fight of God; and made thee confects and bowel thy fins and frayings from God as the procuring caufe thereof? Hath it been like Mofes's rod, that finote the rock, and fetched out much water? Did you water your couch with tears, and mourn humbly before God for all thy God-provoking fins? Then it is a good fign fickned is fandtified.

2dly, Doth thy affliction drive thee nearer God, and caufe thee aim at clofer communion with God in duty than formerly, faying, "However carelefs and overly 1 have been in duty in time paft, it is furely good for me new to draw near to God?" Then thy ficknefs is a bleffing to thee.

3db, Affliction is fanctified, when the corruption and deccitfulnels of the heart is the more difcovered and laid open to the view of the foul; fo as the man is made to abhor himfelf in duft and afhes, and ery out as the leper, "Unclean, unclean." I never could have thought my heart was fo wicked as now I fee it.

4*thly*, It is a fantified ficknefs, that purgeth the heart, and changeth the life, and gives a dead floke to thy fins and idols, and makes thee to lothe and abhor them more than ever, faying, with Ephraim, "What have I to do any more with idols?"

5thly, It is a beffed rod, when grace is more quickened and flirred up thereby, and the man turns more fruitful in holy duties and good works; when it is a budding and bloffoming rod, like to Aaron's, Numb. xvii. It is recorded there of Aaron's rod, that it brought forth buds, bloomed bloffoms, and yielded almonds. So it is happy with us, when our rods and fickaeffes do produce in us, not only the buds of a profeffion, or the bloffoms or fome beginings of a reformation; but even caule us to yield almonds, fruit favoury to God. Is conficience become more tender with refpect to fin? Are we more jealous over our hearts? Are we more fervent in prayer, more lively in praife, more mortified to the world, more defirous of communion with God? Then may we fay with David, " It is good for us we have been afflicted?" and with Hezekiah, "Thou haft, in love to my foul, delivered it from the pit of corruption."

DIRECT. II. Make cosficience of offering to God the facrifice of thankfgiving, upon his recovering thee from fickness or any distress.

THE Pfalmift gives us this direction from God, Pfal. I. 14,15, and he flows us that it was his own practice in fuch a cafe, Pfal.cwi.17, Pfal.ciii.1, 2,3 & c. The command is juft, let us obey it; the example excellent, let us imitate it. Praife is comely for the upright. Here I fhall give fome motives and advices.

 $tf_i$ , God, who is the author of all thy mercies and deliverances, gives you tongues for this very end, that you may blefs and praife him for thefe mercies, Junes ii. 9. Hence man's tounge is called his glory above the reft of the creatures, Plal. lvii. 8. There is none in the creation fo endued and qualified for praifing God, as man is. Angels have reafon and minds, whereby they adore and admire God's goodnefs and excellency, but have no tongues to praife him; beafts have tongues, but without focech or reafon to use them; but man hath both reafon and speech, that he may both admire God's goodness, and with his tongue found forth God's praife. See then, O believer, that you use your tongue to answer the end of your creation. God lofeth his due rent of praife from the reft of the world, but he expects it from his children, whom he hath formed for this end, and on whom he bath beftowed many diffinguifling favours.

ady, The facrifice of thankfaiving is moft pleating and acceptable to God. He loves your tears and prayers, O believer, but much more your praites. How well pleated was our Lord with the poor leper Samaritan, that returned and pave him than'ts for curing his bodily diftemper? Luke xvii. He difinified him with a fpecial blefing, and cured him of his foul's difcafes, as well as of his body's. And therefore,

3dy, Confider that thankfulnels for thy mercies received is a molt profitable courfe for ourfelf; for it is the way to get more and better bleffings belfowed upon you, according to Pfal. Ixvii. 5 6. "Let the people praife thee, O God. Then flall the earth yield her increafer and God, even our own God, fhall blefs us " Thankfgiving for former mercies is a kindly way of petitioning for new favours, and God will underftand it in this fenfe.

4/4/v. God is fo well pleafed with the duty of thankfgiving, that he honours it to be the eternal work of heaven. Whereas other graces, fach as, faith, hope, and repentance, will then be melted into love and joy for ever, fo other duties of worfhip, fuch as, reading, h-aving, and prayer, will then be changed into that of praife and thankfgiving: the glorified company above will never be weary of this work; and fhall not we delight in it now, when God is calling us to it by fo many new mercies?

In the next place, that thou mayeft offer the facilities of thanklgiving to God for thy recovery, with gracious acceptance, I shall lay before you the following advices.

1. See that your heart be touched with a finite of the greatnefs of the mercy, and of the groadnefs of God manifefted therein. We mult put a due value upon our mercies, and have our hearts affected with God's kind dealing towards us in them, if we would be rightly thankful to God the author of them. Hence it was that David called upon luis heart, and all within him, to blefs the Lord for his benefits, Pfal. cili. 1.; and in Pfal. exxxviii. t. he faith, "I will praife thee with my whole heart." As in an inframent of mule, the more found comes out of the belly of it, it is the fivecter; fo our praific is the more acceptable to God, when the heart is full of gracious affections.

2. Let your praife be the native refult of faith and love in your foul, otherwile it will be but an empty found. Faith is neceffary to draw by the vail, and fhew us the perfections of the invitible God, who is the fpring and author of all our mercies; love gives a deep forfe of his goodnets, enlargeth the heart towards God, and opens the lips to thew forth his praife.

3. Study to have a deep fenfe of your own unworthinets and ill-defervings at the Lord's hand, epon the account of your fins, and illimprovement of former deliverances, faying with Jicob, Gen. xxxii 40. "I am not worthy of the leaft of all thy mercies."

4. Look above infruments and fecond caufes, and do not aferibe your recovery to phyficians or outward means, but to the Lord, the prime author of it, whole blelling alone it is that gives efficacy and fuccefs to the appointed means, and by whole mercy only we are fpared and brought back from the gates of the grave. To this the apofle attributes Epaphrodius his recovery, I-hil. it. 27. "Indeed he was fick high noto death, but God had mercy on him." Hence we are told, 1 Sam. ii. 6. "The Lord bringeth down to the grave, and bringeth up."

5. Obferve narrowly the remarkable circumflances of the Lord goodnels, and the fweet ingredients of thy mercies. As for inflance, (1, )How differenable the Lord's hand was in thy deliverance, which obligeth there to fay, Surely this is the forger of Gool? this is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in mine cycs. (2.) How thy deliverance came to the east he return of prayer, makes the fay, Surely he is a prayer-hearing God. (3.) How deli-verances came when there was but little ground to hope for it. See how Hezekiah obferved this ingredient in his recovery from ficknefs. Ifa. xxxviii. 10, 11. " I faid in the cutting off of my days, I thall go to the gates of the grave: I am deprived of the refidue of my years. I faid, I shall not fee the Lord, even the Lord in the land of the living: I fhall behold man no more, with the inhabitants of the world." Verfe 15. "What shall I fay? he hath both fooken to me, and himfelf hath done it." Sometimes God fends deliverances to his people when they are most hopelefs, and faving, with the captives in Bayblon, Ezek, xxxvii. 11. " Behold our bones are dried, and our hope is loft, and we are cut off for our parts." (4.) Remember how the extremity of thy diffrefs was God's opportunity of fending relief. Abraham never forgat the feafonablenefs of God's appearing for him in his extreme need upon mount Moriah, when he called the name of the place [EHOVAH |IREH, for preferving the memorial of it: " In the mount of the Lord it will be feen." So doth David, Pfal.cxvi. "I was brought low, and he helped me."

6. Let the prefent deliverance bring all former mercies to thy remembrance, that fo thou mayeft praife God for them all, whether they be national or perfonal mercics, public or private, fpiritual or temporal. New mercies fhould revive the memory of the old, and all of them fhould come above-board at fuch a time; fo doth the Pfalmift direct, Pfal. cv. 2. " Sing to the Lord, talk ye of all his wondrous works."

And what he directs others to, he practifeth himfelf in fuch a cafe, Pfel, exvi. 12. "What fhall I render to the Lord for all his benefites towards me?"

7. Be ready to communicate to others an account of the Lord's kind dealings towards you, and the fweet ingredients of his mercies; and . particularly of his fending fpiritual deliverance to your foul, as well as outward deliverance to your body, when he is pleafed to do fo. And do this in order to recommend the fervice of God to others, and to engage and invite them to affift you in blefling and praifing the Lord. We fee how David obferved his foul-deliverances. Pfal. cxvi. 7, 8 and declares his experience to others, Pfal. xxii. 22. " I will declare thy name unto my brethren: in the midft of the congregation will I praife thee." Pfal Ixvi 16. " Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what he hath done for my foul."

Laftly, Remember always to give thanks for mercies to the Father, in the name of our Lord Jchis Climit, as directed, Eph. v. 20. Your ipiritual facrifices are: only acceptable to God, when you offer them up by Jefus Chrift, 1 Pet. i. 5. As we mult feek all our mercies in Chrift's name, fo we mult give thanks for them allo in his name. He is the Mediator of our praifes, as well as of our prayers. Believers have not one mercy, but what comes fivinnming to them in Chrift's blood, and is the fuit of his death and purchafe to them: and therefore he is to be owned and looked to in the receiving of every mercy. And as Chrift is the only mediator for conveying bleffings and mercies from God to us, fo he is the fole Mediator for conveying all our fervices and fpritual facrifices to God. God accepts of them only as they are perfumed by Chrift's meritorious lacrifice, and potent interceffion.

DIRECT. III. When the Lord is pleafed to grant thee any figual mercy or deliverance from trouble, beware of forgetting the Lord's kindnefs towards thee.

FOrgetting of God's remarkably kind providences is an evil we are naturally prone unto, when we are in a profperous flate. Hence it is that the Spirit of God gives fo many cautions against it in his word; and the faints of God do fo folemnly charge their own fouls to beware of it, as in Pfal. ciii. 2. " Blefs the Lord, O my foul, and forget not all his benefits; who healeth all thy difeafes, who redeemeth thy life from destruction." Forget not his benefits, but carefully preferve and treafure them up in thy memory. It was usual for faints under the Old Teftament to fet up fome visible monument to remind them of God's fingular favours to them; they crected flones, and built altars, to be memorials of the mercies they received, and put names on the places for this end. Let all this teach you to guard against this evil of forgetting the Lord's kind providence in recovering you from ficknefs.

You are guilty of this evil, when you do not duly value the mercy, but let it pais as a turn of common povidence. When you let the impreffion of the mercy wear foon off your hearts; when you make a bad ufe of it, or do not rightly improve it to God's glory, and your own foul's good; when you do not put on new refolutions to walk snore exaély, live more fruitfully, and ferve God more holily and humbly : then are you guilty of forgetting his benefits.

This is an evil moft grievous and provoking to a good and gracious God, as is evident from the many heavy complaints he makes of his people for it, as in Judges viii. 34. Pfal. lxxviii. 11. Pfal. cvi.13. Wherefore watch and pray againft it.

DIRECT. IV. Inquire after these fruits of rightcouldnels, which are the genuine effects of affliction in the children of God, who are duly exercised thereby.

The apofile fpeaks of thefe fruits, Heb. xii. 11. as natively following upon fanctified afflictions, and a kindly exercise of fpirit under them. And therefore it is your duty to inquire if they be produced in you.

1/f. The increase of true repentance is one of these fruits which is the product of fancified trials. Job found it in himfelf on the back of his affliction, chap.xii, 6." Now I abhor myfelf, and repent in dust and afters." It would be happy, if we could find our hearts more fost and melting upon the view if fin, after we have been in the furnace of affliction.

2dly, Another fruit is the improvement of faith. The afflicted believer is taught to lock to, and depend more upon God for help in time of need, and lefs upon the creature. He now fees that vain is the help of man in the day of calamity, and that God in Ghuit is the only proper object of the foul's truth: This was the fruit of the apoftle's affliction, 2 Gor, above fittength, infonuch that we defpaired even of life. We had the featence of death in our felves, that we fhould not truth in ourfelves, but in God that raifeth the dead: who delivered us from fo great a death, and doth deliver: in whom we truft that he will yet deliver.<sup>21</sup>

3dy, flumility and low thoughts of our felves is one of the fruits of righteoutinets which fanctified affiction doth yield. How proud and lofty was Nebuchadnezzar before he was afflicted, Dan.iv. 29, 30. But afterwards he is made to own God, and humbly fitbmit to him as his fupreme and incontroulable Sovercign, and to acknowledge, that thefe who walk in pride, he is able to abafe, verf. 37. This was God's defign in the various trials of his people Ifrael in the wildernef's, Deut. viii. 16. <sup>45</sup> That he might hnmble thee, prove thee, and do thee good at thy latter end." See then, O beliver, if this fuit he produced in thee. -

4thly, Another fruit is the fpirit of prayer and fapplication. This was vifible in the Pfalmift's cale, after God had delivered him from the forrows of death, and heard his voice, Pfal. exvi. 2. " Therefore, fays he, will I call upon him as long as I live," O, faith the true believer, God's mercy to me in trouble, and his fending me relief when I cried to him, will make me love prayer the better, and engageme to be more diligent in it all my days; for I fill fee I have daily need of his helping hand.

5thly, Heavenly-mindednels is a fruit of fanctified affl dion. Before the man was inclined to that language, It is good for us to be here, let us build tabernacles in this lower world. But now he turns his tongue, and changeth his thoughts, and faith, with the Pfalmift, "It is good for me to draw nigh to God. Anile let us depart, this is not our reft." This world is nothing but the houfe of our pilgtimage, heaven only is our home.

6thly, Another fruit of fanftified trials, is greater love to God than formerly. How much was David's heart warmed with love and gratitude to God upon the back of his affidtion, fo that he wants words to exprefs the aff-ctions of his foul? Pfal.exvi.1.B.12. "I will love the Lord becaufe he hath head my voice. I was brought low, but he helped me. Thou haft delivered my foul from failling ---What fhall I render to the Lord for all his benchts towards me ?'"

7th/y. Learning and k-reping of God's word is a fruit of fanctified affliction, Pfall, exist,  $6\gamma_*$ ,  $\gamma_1$ . Let us enquire if this finit be produced in us after ficknets. Do we attend to the word more clofely? do we believe it more firmly? do we embrace its offers more carefily? and do we live more in the expectation of that glory which the word doth reveal to us? "I then it is good for us we have been afflicted: for we have learned more of God's word."

8thly. Tendernels of confcience is a happy fruit of fanctified trouble ; when the believer, after it, becomes exceedingly afraid of fin, and of making new wounds in his confeience. He cannot think of adventuring again upon any known fin: for the limart of former wounds, and the pain they occasioned in his foul, when diftrefs lay upon him, makes deep and lafting impreffion on his mind, as it did on the afflicted church, Lam. iii. 19, 20. " Remember mine affliction, and my milery, the wormwood and the gall, my foul hath them ftill in remembrance, and is humbled within me." Now, fuch fruits of rightcoulnels are an evidence we have been fuitably exercifed under affliction: O to find them produced in us after ficknefs is over.

DIRECT. V. Be careful to perform thefe refolutions, engagements, or vows, you have come under in the time of fickness; and walk fuitably to them.

As a time of ficknefs and affliction is a proper featon for making vows to God, and binding our fouls with refolutions to morify fin-in the heart, and purge it away from the life, and to be dilgent in duty, and walk more humbly with God; fo a time of recovery from ficknefs is a proper featon for paying and performing thefe vows. This was the royal Pialmift's practice in fuch a cafe, Pfal. cxvi. 6, 16, 17, 18. "I was brought low, and he helped me. Truly

I am thy fervant, I am thy fervant. I will offer to thee the factifice of thankliving, I will pay my vows unto the Lord now in the prefence of all his people." Now for your diffuance in this matter, I offer you thele few advices,  $u\beta$ , Defer not to pay your yows, but be fpeedy, and take the first opportunity to pay them. Delays in this cafe are mold angenous; Solomon, that wife man, was fendide of this, which made him give thee this advice, Ecclef. v. 4. "When thou yow the you unto God, defer not to pay it?

adly, Be still jealous of thy heart, which is prone to deal treacheroufly with God after affliction is over. The Itraelites practice is a fad inftance of his truth, Pfal. lxxviii. 34 6.c. " When he flew them, then they fought him, and they returned and inquired early after God, &c. Neverthelefs they did flatter him with their mouth, and they lied unto him with their tongues; for their heart was not right with him, neither were they ftadfaft in his covenant." The purposes of many in affliction are like the vows of mariners in a ftorm; they are the firft things which they forget and break when once they win fafe alhore. However penitent fome feem to be in ficknefs, yet when they recover from it, they foon return to their old fins again. They are like metals in a furnace, they melt and turn liquid while in it, but when out, they foon return to their old hardnefs. There is good reafon for that caution the Lord gives us, Mal. ii. 16. " Therefore take heed to your fpirit, that you deal not treacheroufly."

3 dly, Cry continually for ftrength from above to enable you to perform your vows. The Pialmift took this courfe, and found it fucceffful, Pfal. cxxxvili. 3. " In the day when I cried to thee, thou answeredst me, and strengthenedst me with ftrength, in my foul." And forget not O believer, that God has treasured up strength for thee in thy head and furety Chrift Jefus; wherefore be ftill borrowing from him, for the performing of all thy engagements, 2 Tim. ii. 1. " My fon, be ftrong in the grace that is in Chrift Jefus." Put thy treacherous heart in thy Surety's hand; for though thou art weak, yet thy Redeemer is ftrong. Whenever then you hift perceive your heart begin to ftart afide from God, be fure to check it, and look up to God in Chrift for strength to secure it againft treachery and perfidious dealing: cry with the Plalmift, "Be furcty for thy fervant for good."

4thly, Guard diligently againft thy predominant fin, the fin that hath moft eafly befet thee, the fin that was moft bitter and uneafly to thee in the day of diffrefs. Keep a narrow eye upon it now; for if once that fin be got vanquifhed, the reft will the more eafly be put to fight.

sthly, Be frequently meditating on thy vows, and on the condition thou walt in when they were taken on, and fludy to keep alive in thy heart the fame apprehenfion of things after fickneis which thou hadft in the time of it. How vain and comfortlefs did the world and its vanities then appear to thee! how awful were the truths of God on thy fpirits! how far preferable was the loving-kindnels of God to thee than life how precious was Chrift then in thy eyes! O that your judgment, thoughts, and imprefions of thele things, may continue flill the fame !

6thly, Keep up the impressions of the precioufnefs of time, that you may diligently improve it; and thake off floth and idlenefs. Remember what a view you got in the time of ficknefs, of long-lafting eternity; and what a trouble it was to you to look black, and fee how much time you had loft in fin and vanity. When fometimes we are brought to the brink of eternity, the near views we then get of its vaftnefs and unchangeablenefs, are fometimes fo awful and amazing to us, that we are ready to think, though we had Methufalem's years to live, it would be unreafonable wilfully to mifpend one hour of them all. Well then, is ficknefs over, our time fo fhort, and fo little of it remaining behind? will we be fo foolifh, as to be lavifh of it fill, and trifle it away as before?

7thly, Set a fpecial mark upon all thefe fins, whether of om filon or commiffion, that made death to lock grim and ghaftly upon you in the time of fickacfs, and againft which you refolved; and fee to get every one of them amended and removed. Remember and confider how fad it will be for you, if ficknefs find you again in the very fame fins which formerly flung you. What will you fay to confeience, when it fhall challenge you? How will you look death in the face, if it fhould find you living in the very fame fins you formerly mourned for, and promifed againft! Death would then be the king of terrors to they foul indeed.

O then, mind thy vows, and fay with the Pfalmift, Pfal. lvi. 12, 13. "Thy vows are upon me, O God: I will render praifes to thee. For thou haft delivered my foul from death: will not thou deliever my feet from falling, that I may walk before God in the light of the living?"

CHAP. VI.

Containing directions to the unregenerate, when they are recovered from ficknefs, and reftored to health.

DIRECT. 1. Seeing the afflictions of the wicked are unfandified, it is necessary you examine what fort of affliction yours hath been, and what fruits it hath produced in you.

I HAVE in the preceding chapter flewed, that the afflictions of believers are fatherly chaftifements proceeding from love; that they are fancified, and yield the peaceable fruits of righteoninefs. I have given the marks of fanctified afflictions, and mentioned the happy fruits which they produce in the children of God.

On the other hand, it is needfary to let Chriftle's perfons know, that their afflictions are of a different kind; they are even purifhments from God as a judge, proceeding from wrath: they are unfanctified to them, and produce no fuits, but what are bitter and unfavoury.

Well then, O Chriftlefs foul, thou haft reaton to fufped the worft concerning thy ficknefs, that it hath not been fanctified, and its fruits are not good. O then, labour to know the the truth of the matter, that thou mayeft be humble under a fente of thy mifery, and flee to J. fus Chrift for relief. And for thy affitance in this inquiry I will give fome marks of unfanctimed offi fitions.

1/l, If fickueis hath not humbled thee under a fenfe of thy fins, the procuring caule thereof, nor any wile hath weakened fin in thee, nor reclaimed thee from it, but it remains in thee as firong as ever; it is a fign thy affildion is unfanctified. This was the cafe of thole of whom God complaineth, Jer. ii. 30. "In vain have 1 finitten your children; they received no correction." As if he had faid, The phyfic I gave them did not purge out fin; nor weaken corruption in the leaf. They have been firicken, but not grieved for fin; the fire hath burnt round about them, but they have not laid fin to heart, that kindled the flame.

adly, It is a mark of unfanctified affliction, when it hath no influence upon a finner to bring him to a ferious communing with his own heart concerning the effate of his foul, and to inquire in what terms he flands with God that afflicts him. God's voice by affliction is that in Hag, i. 7. "Now confider your ways." In the day of adverfity confider where you are, what you are, what you have done, and what is the meaning of the rod, and what will be the iffue of it through eternity, in cafe it hath a commiffion to cut the thread of life. Now, when a map remains flopid and carelefs about thefe important matters, and never noticeth the voice of affication, to as to inquire ferioufly about his foul's condition; "Am I under a covenant of works, or a covenant of grace? Am I a child of God, or an enemy of God? Have I field to the city of refuge, or am I fill in a fielterlefs fate? Am I full under a cloud of wrath, or am I brought under the banner of love?" I fay, where there are no fuch inquiries, the affliction is unfanctified.

3dly, It is a certain fign of unfanctified affliction, when a perfon grows worfe by it, and revolts the more he isftricken, like thefe, Ifa. i. 5.

Quest. When may it be faid, that a perfon grows worfe by affliction?

Anfw. 1. When the finner's heart turns harder than it was before: fo every plague on Egypt, increafed the plague of hardnels in Phataol's heart. It fares with many hearts, as with iron that is often heated in the fire, and queuched in the water, it fill increafeth in hardnefs. 2. When a perfon giveth way to impatience and murmuring againft God while he efflifts him. 3. When the lufts of the heart grow more firong and impetuous, and afterwards rage the more, that they have been flopt in their courfe by soffliftion. In fuch cafes a perfon grows worfe by the rod.

DIRECT. II. Confider the great danger of not being bettered by fickness, and of not complying with the voice of God's rod.

GOD's voice by his rod doth loudly call finners to repentance, and fleeing to the Lord

Icfus Chrift for refuge from wrath. Now, when this voice is not hearkened to, but men go on in their fecure and finful courfe as before, God is highly provoked, and the iffue will be terriole. For,

1/9, Though ficknefs be removed, and the farnace of affliction be cooled for the time; yet the wrath that kindled it, continues fill to burn. And you have ground to fear left you be ranked among thele who are the generation of God's wrath, againft whom he will have indignation for ever.

zdly, If leffer rods do not awaken you, you may expect greater and forer judgments are coming on you. Yee, God may caule them to come rolling thick upon you, as waves and billows in a florm, one upon the neck of another. The great depths, both above and below, may be opened together; the difpleafure of God, and wrath of men, may confpire and meet to pour out themfelves as water-fpouts upon you at once: and to whom then will yelook for help?

3dly, The Lord may give over dealing with you, or using any further means to reclaim you; he may refule to correct you any more, or bellow a rod upon you for your good, and fay of you, as of Ephraim, Hof. iv. 17. " Ephraim is joined to his idols, let him alone."

4thly, The Lord may give you up to fpiritwal plagues and judgments; and indeed this commonly is the refult of oblinacy and incorrigiblenefs under outwards rods. When Ifrael would not hearken to God's voice, he gave them up to their own hearts lufts, Pfal. laxxi.

11, 12. Now, thefe plagues are the fevereft of all others. External judgments are God's rods, but fpirtual judgments are bit fwords, which pierce the very foul. Blindnefs of mind, hardnefs of heart, fearchnefs of confeience, vile affections, and a reprobate fenfe, are the very forerunners of hell and damnation. Thefe who are impenitent and unfruitful under outward afflictions, have caufe to tremble left God be provoked to inflict thefe fpiritual judgments.

sthly, Be affured, though God fpare you long, yet the glafs of his forbearance will at length run out. God's patience towards finners hath a term and bound, over which it will not pafs. The time will come, when a long-fuffering God will at laft fay, " My Spirit fhall no longer frive;" and the angel will cry, as in Rev. xiv. 7. " The hour of God's judgment is come." You that abofe God's patience, and prelume upon it, his treaty of peace will end with you in a little, and the mafter of the house will rife up and flut to the door. Then patience will come down, and juffice will afcend the ftage, and trample upon, and triumph over, all that abuse divine patience. Sodom was a wonder of God's patience for a long time, but now it is a lafting monument of his apper.

6thly, If you he not bettered by God's rods or Iparing mercies, then your prefervation at prefeat will be nothing but a refervation for the day of God's wrath. And the longer your cup of fin is a filling, the fuller fhall the cup of God's wrath be for you: by your impenitence and shele of God's patience, you treasline up wrath for yourfelves againft the day of wrath, Rom. ii. 4.; and though you be delivered from fome judgments, you are referved for worle, yea, feven times worle, according to Lev. xxvi. 23, 24. Nay, there is a ruining blow defigied againft you, both foul and body, affoon as your cop is full; and the axe is already laid to the root of the tree, Matth. iii. To. One blow of God's axe will cut you off for ever.

Remember this, O finner, though God's hand be lifted off you at prefent, and his meffenger death be for a littlerecalled, yet he will quickly return, and knock fo loud at your door, as not to be refuïed. And what will you door, as not day of vifitation? how ghaftly muft the pale horfe be, when hell follows him at the heels? And how hot and fiery muft that hell be which is inflamed and blown up by fo long impenitence, and abufe of patience?

DIRECT III. Wonder at the patience of God in sparing such helt-deserving sinners as you are, and be thankful for it.

IT 111 a long-fuffering God preferved the alunder by the violence of fickness land has be freed you from racking pains, under which you were groating? may faved you from the grave and hell, into which you were folling? and have you not caufe of wondering and thankfgiving? To move you to it, confider thele few things.

1/1, How miferable had you been through all eternity, if your fickness had carried you off to another world in your firs? You had been howling with damned fpirits, under endlefs and eafeleis torments, and for ever cut off from thefe hopes and offers of mercy you now have. Then the mafter of the houfe would have had the door fo harred againft you, as it could never have been opened again to you, knock as you would, Luke xiii. 23.

adly, Confider how heavily you had burdered his patience with your heinous fins, and frequent relapies thereinto: and that after convictions, calls, and various rods fent to reclaim you: fo that he was put to fay, as in Amos ii, 13. "Behold, I am preffed under you, as a cart is preffed that is ful to theaves." He was overburdened with your fins fo that the axel-tree of patience was ready to break, and let you fall into hell; and yet, behold he bears with you fill.

3 ily. Confider him from he could have eafed himitelf of the load, and haken you off into the pit of defruction. In a moment could he have done it, and yet he bears many years with your fins that are for grievous to him. Yea, it is with a fort of relationcy that he cafes himitelf of finners, after he gets the utmost provocation, if a. i. 24, 15 ah 1 will cafe me of mine adverfaries."

4/My. How ready is he to turn away his anger, and reprieve famors from definedion, when in their diffrest shay make but a thew of repentance, and turning unto God! as we fee in Pial. Isxviii '30, 33. He, like a tender-hearted prince, cells back the warrant for their execution, after it was gone forth.

sthly, Gonfider how much many Chriftlefs finners are beholden to Jefus Chrift for fparing mercy. He is reprefented by the dreffer, Luke xiii. interceeding that the fruitlefs fig-tree might be fpared and tried fome time longer, after orders given to cut it down. Were it not for for Jefus Chrift, O finner, however much you forget and flight him, you had furely been in hell long ere now. How oft doth he obtain another year, and after that another, for the unfruitful finner, and unthankful abufers of divine patience!

6thly, Confider how fparing mercy hath diftinguilhed yon from many others, who lived not fo long, nor finned to much as you have done. God hath wounded the hairy fcalp of many, and taken them away in their youth; when he hath continned you to manhood, and perhaps to old age; though your fins and ill-defervings be greater than thefe of many, on whom he hath long fince taken vergence.

God hath left many alfo tofling and groaning on beds of pain, when he hath eafed and raifed you up. O then, return like the thankful leper, and magnify the God of your health. Hath God diftinguifhed you from others, by his goodnefs? It becomes you to diftinguifh yourfelves from others, by your thankfulnefs. O that men would praife the Lord for his goodnefs! undeferved and diftinguifhing goodnefs!

To move you to this, let me fet the exampel of Hezekiah before you, lfa. xxxviii. and there fee how thankfully and effectionately he remembered the Lord's mercies in recovering and delivering him from the bitter affliction he had been under. "I faid, I am deprived of the refidue of my years, I (hall behold man no more with the inhabitants of the world. Like a crane or fivallow, fo did I chatter; I did mourn as a dove. Behold, for peace I had great bitternefs; but thou haft in love to my foul delivered it from the pit of corruption. The living thall praife thee, as I do this day." Yea, he was fo overcome with a feele of the Lord's patience and mercy towards him; that he is at I lofs how to exprefs it, verfe 15. "What fhall a fay? He hath both fpoken unto me, and himfelf hath done it."

Let all who are recovered from ficknefs, fludy to imitate that good king in holy admiration and thankfulnefs to the God of their life.

DIRECT. IV. Study to improve the fparing mercy and goodness of God to you in a right and fuitable manner.

O Sinner, hath God brought you back from the gates of death, and brink of hell, reflored you to health, and given you a new offer of mercy and falvation through Chrift in a preached gofpel, which you formerly defpifed? Strive now to improve the Lord's patience and kind dealings towards you with the utmoff care, and abufe his patience no longer. And in order thereto, take the following counfels.

I. Be deeply humbled for your former obflinacy and impenitency, notwithflanding of God's gracious and patient dealing. O let the sparing mercy and goodness of God towards thee lead thee to repentance, which is the native defign of it. according to Rom. ii 4. " Defpileft thou the riches of his goodnefs, forebarance, and long-fuffering, not knowing that the goodnefs of God leadeth thee to repentance?" As if he had faid, " Doft thou not fee, O man, the kind providence of God in sparing and recovering thee from ficknefs, taking thee by the hand, and pointing out to thee to go to thy closet to mourn and weep for all thy bypaft fins. and particularly for thy mifpending the the time of health, and abufing of the Lord's patience?" The confideration of David's goodnels and forbearance towards Saul, melted Saul's heart, for as hard and rugged as it was, and made him to lift up his voice and weep, and fay to David, I Sam. xxiv. 17. Ge. " Thou art more righteous than 1; for thou haft rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil. And thou haft fhewed this day, how that thou haft dealt well with me ; for as much as when the Lord had delivered me into thine hand, thou killedft me not. For (fays he) if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away?" Oh far more reafon haft thou, O man, to weep and cry, "God hath found me his enemy, yea in my enmity and fins, fighting againft himfelf; he had me on a fick bed, and on the very brink of hell, and the leaft touch of his hand would have thurft me in : but yet he hath fpared his enemy, and let me go well away. Oh, will not thefe cords of love draw me, and this matchlefs goodnels invite and hire me to repent? Can any confideration in the world be more powerful than this to melt my hard heart into tears of holy fhame and forrow for my fliff-neckednels and rebellion againft a gracious and long-fuffering God? Away with thefe curftd God-provoking fins of mine! down with thefe weapons of rebellion! let me never lift them more againft fuch a merciful Sovereign!"

II. Zealofly improve the time, which God in his long-fuffering hath lengthened out to you, in working out the falvation of thy foul. Have you fo long been loading the patience of God with your fins? have you many a day been grieving his holy Spirit, by trifling away your time, flighting his motions, and venturing on fins against light? O then, beware of burdening his patience any more; but diligently hearken to every motion of God's Spirit, and of your own confcience, for the time to come. You have much work to do, and but little time to do it in; therefore lay hold on every opportunity for carrying it on. The confideration of the much time you have already loft and mifpent, flould make you the more diligent in what remaineth. How much of it have you loft in youth? how much in ignorance? how much in negligence? how much in worldlinefs? how much in paftimes? how much in idle words? how much in actual fins and provocations againft God? and now it may be near the evening of your day. And will you not fpend the evening (which God is mercifully lengthening out) with extraordinary care and diligence? If a traveller lofe the beginning of the day, he muft travel the fafter in the evening, otherwife he may fall fliot of his jonrney, and have his lodging to feek when might comes. Paul had milpent much of the beginning of his life; and this confideration (when his eyes were opened) did ftir him up to be the more diligent in the friviee of God, fo that he was more zealous than any of the reft of the apoftles. O man, follow his example, and triffe no longer in the work of God. Art thou not convinced thou haft fquandred away encugh of this precious treafure of time already? And wilt thou alfo milpend and throw awy the little that remains? Oh! be not fo foolifh.

III. Be careful to raze all fall's foundations. and build your hopes of falvation; upon the only fure rock, Jefus Chrift. Let it not difcourage thee to dig to the foundation, that fo much of thy day is loft; for it is better to do it late than never. Remember how milerable is the condition of that house which is built upon the fand, Matth. vii. 27. " For when the flood comes, and the ftorm arifeth, and beats upon it, great and difmal will the fall of that house be." Do not build your hopes of heaven upon God's abfolute mercy, upon your convictions, upon your freedom from grofs fins, upon your prayers or tears, upon your morality and just dealings with men: though thefe be neceffary and excellent in themfelves, yet they are falle foundations for to build the hopes of your juffication and falvation upon, feeing they are wholly infufficient to bear fuch a weight. However much thefe things have been effected and valued by you formerly, in the matter of jufification; yet if you refolve to be a wife builder, you will let them all now go, yea, count them all but lofs and dung, that you may win Chrift, (our only hope) build on him alone, and be found in him, not having on your own righteoufnels, which is but filthy rags.

Well then, raze and tear up every falle foundation, did deep, till you win to the rock Chrift. Dig deep into the holy law and nature of God; dig till you fee the infinite ftrictnefs of divine juffice, the unfpeakable evil that is in fin, the hidden vilenefs and abominations of the heart. your own inability to do any thing for your help and relief. Dig yet further, till you fee the infinite fulnefs and freepefs of God's grace in lefus Chrift, that fuitable remedy that answers all a poor finner needs. Dig deep, anddig on, till you win to this rock; let your cry be flill to God, Lord, lead me to the rock Chrft, and his all-fufficient righteousness only. Act faith upon this rock, rely on it, build all your hopes on it, and fay, " This is my reft for ever, here will I dwell, for I have defired it. Lord, the defire of my foul is only to Chrift, and to the remembrance of his name. His name is as ointment poured forth; therefore dothe virgins love him."

IV. If you would rightly improve the fparing mercy and goodnefs of God, let it lead you to repentance and reformation of life. Turn from all thefe fins, whether of omifion or commiftion, now in the day of health, which confeience challenged you for in the time of ficknets. Mind Chrift's caution and warning to healed finners, John v. 14. "Bchold thou art made whole; fin no more, left a worke thing befal thee." O let fin die with thy ficknets; and do not relapfe into thy former facurity and finful ways. Beware of returning with the dog to thy vomit, and like the low that is walhed, to the wallowing again in the mire of thy former fins and uncleanneffes; left being entangled and overcome again with the filthinefs which thou now haft efcaped, thy latter end prove worfe than thy beginning.

Laftly, And to fum up all I shall fay in this chater, be careful to re deem time, and active in providing for an eternal flate. O prize and value the mercy of health and ftrength more than ever. Sympathize with these who are fill lying on fick-beds, and under languishing diflempers; neglect not to pity and pray for them. Remember the destress when you had no reft in your bones, when wearifome nights were appointed to you, and you were full of toffings to the dawning of the day. Confider how flippery is your flanding. Though the late form of trouble be over, yet the clouds will return after rain.

CHAP. VII.

Containing directions to those fick perfons, who are apparently in a dying condition, and drawing near to another world.

I HAVE already, in the first, third, and fourth chapters, given feveral directions concerning our fubmillion to the will of God, making preparation for death, calling for minilers, colifying others by, our difcourie, fettling our worldly aff irs, &c. which are very proper for dying perions; and therefore I fhall not repeat them, but proceed to fpeak of other things. Only let me add this word if you have hitherto negle ded to make your wills, fettle your worldly affairs, fend for miniters to difcourfe with, and pray over you; delay it no longer, but do it fpeedily, while you have the ufe of your reafon and underfranding. And what I have more to fay, take it in the following directions.

DIRECT. I. Confider when death flares you in the face, that now is the time, if ever, to exert the utmost activity in preparing to meet with it.

A LAS, it is to be regretted that the most part I of men neglect their fouls, milpend their life, mifimprove their health, and leave undone the work for which they were created; preferved, and enjoyed the gofpel. Surely a near profpect of death and judgment cannot but be uncafy to fuch perfons. What a melancholy thought must it be for a dying man, "Oh! I had all my time given me to make preparation for endless eternity: and alas, I never minded it till now, that I must leave the stage of this world. Is there any hope for fuch a carelefs and miferable finner?" I acknowledge the cafe is fad, but yet it is not remedilefs nor defperate; feeing there is a facrifice provided for your fins, and there is an all-fufficient Saviour in your offer, who never did caft out any humbled foul that came to him for mercy. You have great reafon indeed to abhor and condemn yourfelf before God, for your fin and folly; yet defpair not, but believe, whatever be your fins, your dangers, your fears, and temptations, that Jelus Chrift is both able and willing to fave to the uttermost all that come to God by him ; and that his grace aboundeth more than your fin aboundeth. O how glad would devils and damned fouls in hell be, if they were but in your cafe, and had your offers and hopes ! how diligently would they improve the time of mercy ! O be perfuaded then to fpend the little time that now remains with the utmost care, in making penitent confession of fin to God, and applying the blood of Chrift for pardon. Nay, even the best of God's people have need to be diligent at this time, in making actual preparation for dying. God is now faying to you, as Jofhuah did to the Ifraelites, Jofh. i. 11. " Prepare you victuals, for within three days ye shall pais over this Jordan, to go in to poffeis the land which the Lord your God giveth you." Lay in provision for your paffing over this Jordan of death : you know not how rough the paffage may be.

I shall give fome motives to prefs this diligent and active preparation; and therefore confider,

1/t, The fhort time of your life that remains is all the time you have for working out your falvation. What you do for attaining heaven, and avoiding hell, undt be done now or never;

for there is no work nor device in the grave whither thou goeff, nor is there any coming back to this world to a mend what hath been amifs. Dying is a thing you cannot get a trial of, it is what you can only do once, and no more, Heb. ix. 27

adly, Be diligent now; for as foon as death gets committion to cut you off, it will excerte it: it will not fpare you, nor allow you one minute more time to prepare for eternity. The molt mercilefs enemies have fometimes been overcome by the prayers and tears of fuch as on their knees do beg a little more time to prepare for another world; and do hearken to their requefts: but this enemy, death, will not grant one moment's refpite.

3dly, Confider that your eternal flate and condition will be according to the flate in which you die. Death will open the doors either of heaven or hell to you, in one of which you fhall take up your eternal abode. As the tree falls at death, fo will it liethrough eternity.

4thly, Confider what a ferious and awful matter it is to die, and go into another world, for then you will have immediately to do with God your judge; there will be no vail then betwixt him and your foul. You will then enter into a world of fiprits, wherewith you are fo little acquainted: you are frighted now to go into a room alone, that is faid to be haunted by a fpirit; how frightful then muft the cafe of thofe be, who are hurried into a world of fiprits, not knowing but devils muft be their companions for ever! Surely then it is your interefit to give all diligence now, to make your acquaintance with the Lord of that world, before you enter into it.

sthly, Put forth thy utmoft activity for thy foul now; for, to be fure, Satan will put forth his utmoft againt it. If thou be in a Chriftlefs flate at this time, he will ufe all his efforts and fratagems to keep thee from Chrift; either by flattering thee that thy flate is good, thereby to lull thee effect in fin and fecurity; or by telling there, it is ont of time to help matters with thee, thereby to drive you into defpair. The devil will leave no method unattempted to ruin thy foul, when death is near: for he knows his time is flort; and if he catch not the foul then, he will never get it: and neither can he hurt it hereafter; for if once it enter heaven, he can trouble it no more.

If thou art a believer in Chrift, Satan thy malicious enemy will not fail to attack thee, at this time, with all his might; for though he may know he cannot keep thee out of heaven, yet he will labour to render thy paffage towards it, as dark, tempefluous, and uncomfortable as poffibly he can. But it is the believer's happinels, this cruel enemy is under a firong chain, and cannot do all he would; for Jefus Chailt is the good fhepherd that hath undertaken for all his theep. Neverthelefs, by his wife permiffion, this adverfary may fometimes give great difturbance to a dying faint; which calls thee to the greateft diligence and watchfulnefs at this time. It is the observation of one, that as the devil is most busy at the conclusion of a duty, as of prayer, that the Christian may be most difturbed and diffracted, when he is to close up all in the name of Chrift, and fo all his defires be fruftrated : fo he is most buyy in the conclusion of our days, and when death is at hand, feeking by temptations, distractions, and falle imaginations, to do us all the mifchief he can, and all becaufe he knoweth his time is fhort; according to that word. Rev. xii 12. " The devil is come down, having great wrath, becaufe he knoweth that he hath but a fhort time." He may fitly be called, the wolf of the evening, mentioned in Jer. v. 6. in regard he comes forth molt fiercely in the evening of mens lives. to let upon their precious fouls. Yea, fo buly is he fometimes with believers under dangerous ficknefs, feeking to overthrow their faith and affurance, that it is the observation of a good man, that he feldom feeth a fick faint, followed close with temptations, recover of that ficknefs: for Satan, knowing he hath but little time, proves as uneafy to him as he can. Hence that great man of God, Mr Knox faid, when he came to die: " In my lifetime, the devil tempted me to defpair. cafling my fins in my teeth; but now, in my fickness, he tells me, I have been faithful in the ministry, and to have merited heaven : but bleffed be God, who brought thefe texts into my mind, Not I, but the grace of God in me: What haft thou that thou haft not received?" The children of Ifrael had never fuch hot work from their enemies, as when they just came to enter into the promifed land.

What need then haft thou, O believer, to be diligent in thy preparations ou a dying bed, to quicken grace, put forth thy turnoft firength, bring all the affittance thou canft from the Gaptain of thy falvation, when thou haft fuch a crucel enemy to encounter with! Now is the time for action, though yet it will be your wifdom to leave as little to be done at this time as poffible.

DIRECT. III. Continue to the lass in the exercise of true repentance and humiliation for sin.

DOffidonius, who wrote the life of Augustine, faith, that he heard him often fay in his health that repentance was the fitteft difpolition both for dying Christians and ministers; and for himfelf, that he died with tears in his eyes, weeping for fin. When death approacheth neareft, we should thus fir up ourfelves to give fin the most deadly blow of any we have given it all our life. As it is most laudable to die forgiving finners that have wronged us, fo alfo taking revenge upon fin that hath injured a gracious God. The apofile tells us, 2 Cor. vii. 11. that indignation and revenge attend true repentance. Wherefore, as Samuel took vengeance on Agag a little before his death, and Mofes (at God's command) avenged the childreu of Ifrael of the Midianites just before he was gathered to his people, Num. xxxi. 2. and dying Samfon gave the moft fatal blow to the Philiftines of any he had given them before; fo a dying Chriftian fhould take the fevereft revenge on fin at laft, which hath fo oft through his life difhonourcd God, pierced Chrift, and grieved his holy Spirit. It is the laft opportunity you will have to fhew your Indignation at it, and therefore do it effectually.

Again, confider it is old fins unmourned for, that many times keep believers fo much in the dark, when they come to die. These do raife many thick clouds about their evening-fun, and hinder them from going off the ftage with fuch comfortable affurance of God's love as otherwife they might attain to. Thefe did very much hinder Job's peace and fettlement, in the day of affliction, as he complains, Job xiii .26. " He makes me to poffefs the iniquities of my vouth." It is a fad thing when young fins and old bones meet together. O that young people would mind this in time! you are doing that now which will abide with you to age, if not to eternity. Sin must be bitter fome time or other, for God calls it a root that bears gall and wormwood, Deut. xxix 18. Ifrael could not have peace nor fuccefs while there was an Achan in the camp; fo neither can you have confolation or affurance while any fin lies unreckoned for in the confcience. Make a thorough fearch then into old fins, and mourn over them. We find Paul frequently calling over the fins of his life, and even thefe he was guilty of before conversion; " I was injurious, a blafphemer," Ge. whereby he maintained much inward peace and confolation. Be oft looking back to old fins, with inward forrow and faith in Chrift's blood, if you would have a death-bed cafy and foft to you.

DIRECT. III. Be mindful of all acts of justice and charity, which may be incumbent upon you at this time.

IΓ is great wildom in men to fettle their worldly affairs in the time of health, that fo their minds may be free for spiritual exercises, and not diffurbed with earthly cares and bufinefs when they come to a dying bed; but if this hath been neglected hitherto, it must not be omitted now I have given directions about it, chap. I. direct. 6. fo that I shall fay little here; only be careful to do justice to every man, as much as in you lieth; and particularly, 1. By making a just and rational provision for your wife and children. 2. By ordering payment of all your just debts, without defrauding any of your lawful creditors. 3. By making reftitution, in cafe you have wronged any man. If juflice be not done in these matters, how can your fouls be diffourdened of guilt?

In the next place, forget not the acts of eharity, which God requires of all the profefors of the golpel.

1/l, Seek reconciliaton with your neighbours, where any difference or mittakes have fallen in; that fo you may die in peace and charity with all about you.

adly, Be ready from the heart to forgive thefe that have done you any wrong. If the natural fin hould not go down upon our wrath, much lefs hould the fin of our lives. If you carry an unforgiving fipiti with you, into another world, how can you expect to meet with a forgiving God there; when he hath exprelly declared, Matth. vi. 15. "If ye forgive not men their trefpaffes, neither will your Father forgive your trefpaffes?" O then, initate your glorious Saviour, and his martyr Stephen, who at their death begged mercy from God, for, those that mortally heated them, Luke xxiii, 34. Acts vi. 60.

adly, If the Lord hath given you fubftance, honour the Lord with it, by leaving fome part of it to the poor, and to pious uses. I have preffed this once and again before: but I mention it frequently, because it is much forgotten by dying perfons in our age. Remember, it is not left arbitrary to you to give or not, as you pleafe: no, for God doth charge it upon you as a duty, yea, a debt that you owe him, 1 Tim vi. 17, 18." Charge them that are rich in this world, G.c. that they do good, be rich in good works, ready to distribute." And he pronounceth them bleffed who confider the poor, Pfal. xli. 1. I grant that people are not to leave all their works of charity to a death-bed; thefe fhould alfo be minded in our lifetime, to as to make our own hands our executors, and our own eyes our overfeers of our charitable projects : but furely it is a proper feafon for thewing charity to God's poor, when we are leaving them, and cannot have occasion for flewing it more. Remember what is recorded of Dorcas after her death, Acts ix 36. that fhe was a woman full of good works and alms-deads. And her friends, verf. 39. fhewed the effects of her charity to Peter after her death. All which is written for our example and admonition, that we may be rich in fach good works, that our friends may have them to fhow after our death. Surely it is a fign of the degeneracy of this age, and that religion is on the declining hand, when people generally fall to fhort of the zeal and piety of their fathers in his matter.

4thly, It would be a commendable work of charity in dying perfons, to be giving many good counfels to their relations and children, and to be putting many fervent prayers to God for them. So Chrift, when near to death, committed his fpiritual children to his Father, and carneftly begged his protection and care of them, John xvii. 11. " I am no more in the world, but thefe are in the world : keep them through thy name, keep them from the evil," Ge. In like manner, cry to God for your children: " Lord, thou haft gracioufly given them to me, I now reftore them back to thee .---They are born to me once, O that they may be born to thee a fecond time! I am leaving them in the midft of fnares and temptations, O that it may be their happinels to be the preferved in Chrift Jefus! Keep them by thy power through faith unto falvation. O take them within the bond of thy covenant, and be thou their Father, to protect, direct, and provide for them. Give them a name in thy house better than of fons and daughters, that I may meet with them at thy right hand with everlafting joy."

Loftly, Be fuitably concerned also for the whole church of Chrift, and especially for these

186 THE AFFLICTED

that are in affliction, that God may loofe their bonds, fend them liberty and profperity in his due time, '' Do good in thy good pleafure unto Zion, build up the walls of thy Jerufalem. Peace be within her walls, and profperity within her palaces.''

DIRECT. IV. Labour what you can to overcome the love of life, and fears of death: that you may attein to willingnofi to die, and leave the world when God calleth you to it.

TT is no wonder that a wicked man, or one I that hath no intereft in Chrift, be unwilling to die: why; he is affrighted with the guilt of paft fins, and the fears of future torments; and it is impossible to be rid of these till he become a true believer in Chrift. No man hath ground to welcome death but the believer; yet it is to be regretted, that fo many of them fhould appear unwilling to leave this world, which is nothing to them but a wilderness and weary land. Lot's foul was vexed and troubled in Sodom, and yet he was loth to leave it; fo fome believers, when called to leave a vexing world, do fhew much hankering towards it, and linger behind. This proceeds partly from nature, which dreads a diffolution, and partly from the weaknefs of grace. But O let all God's children labour to overcome this averfion, and go forth to meet death half-way, and bid it welcome. And for their help in this matter, I shall lay before them the following arguments.

1/2 Confider how little reafon a believer hath to be much in love with this prefent life. 1. It is a finful life; fin dwells in your nature, breaks out in your life, and pollutes all your duties. How oft have youg roaned under this burden? and fhould you not be glad to be eternally delivered from it? 2. It is a life of difeafes and infirmities; and fhould you not be willing to be cured of them all at once? 2. It is a life of temptation. Satan is fill haraffing thee; and fhould you not be defirous to be out of his reach? *4. It is a life of perfecutions from the wicked: they hate, reproach, and injure you many way: and is it not defirable to be, " where the wicked ceafe from troubling, and the weary be at reft?" 5. It is a life of clouds and darknefs: your fun is often vailed, and your evidences obfoured, which occasions many bitter complaints; and fhould you not defire that time, when the day fhall break, and all fhadows fly away? 6. It is a life of calamities and fears: it is like a flormy fea, where one wave rolls upon the back of another; and when one calamity is paft, we many times fear a greater is coming; and fometimes the heavens turn fo black and gloomy. that we fear a hurricane of judgments is ready to blow; and fhould you not blefs God, when he comes by death to house your fouls, and fet you out of harm's way? It is in mercy that God takes away the righteous fron the evil to come, Ifa. lvii. 1. So dealt he with Jofiali, 2 Kings xxii. 20. " I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put into thy grave in peace, and thine eyes shall not fee all the evil which I fhall bring upon this place." So it is obfery-able, that Methufelah died the very year before the flood; Augustine a little before the facking of Hippo; Pareus just before the taking of Heidelberg. Luther obfervs, that all the apofiles died before the deftruction of Jerufalem. And Luther himfelf died before the bloody wars broke out in Germany. Thus God frequently hides his people from the temptations and troubles that are coming on the carth. Why; he fees many of them not in cafe to en. dure them; and therefore, he in mercy takes them away from a tempting and finning world. to a land of holinefs and reft. While we are here, we live in a world that lies in wickednefs; every fense of the body betrays the foul into fin; the poor foul can fcarce look out at the eve, and not be infected; nor hear by the ear, and not be diffracted; nor finell at the noffrils. and not be tainted: nor tafte by the tongue, and not be allured; nor touch by the hand, and not be defiled.

O believer, what is this life that thom art fofond of; it is but a living death, or a dying life. It is full of grief for things paft, full of labour for things prefent, and full of fears for things future. The first part of our life is spent in folly; the middle part is overwhelmed with eares: and the latter part of it is burdened with infirmities and age. And what gain we by the prolonging of this life? nothing but to do more evil, fee more evil, and infire more evil. And fhold a Chriftian 'be unwilling to be rid of thole grievances?

adly, Confider that dying is appointed as the way, and the only way, to glory : there is no way to enter the promifed land, but by croffing the Jordan of death. And fhould not a ftranger defire to be at home with his friends, though he hath a rough way and ftormy fea to pafs? Is there any home like heaven, where your incomparable friend Chrift is? O what a happinels is it to be with Chrift, and to fee him as he is ? how happy do you think Peter, James, and John were, in being taken up to mount Tabor, to be eye-witneffes of their Saviour's tranffiguration ? but, O believer, death procures a greater happinels to you; it ulhers you to mount Zion, where you fhall not only fee your Saviour whiter than the flow, and brighter than the fun, but yourfelf transfigured with him, made like him, and eternally fecured of his prefence. The three apofiles faw but two prophets; but you shall Tee all the prohets, all the apoftles, all the patriarchs, all the martyrs, all the holy perfons you once converfed with on earth, and in general all the faints in heaven, each of them fhining as the fun; and how fweet will their company be? O how foon will the trifles of the world evanish, and all its pleasures be forgot, when once the believer gets a view of that captivating glory above! When the fhepherds heard but fome few notes of the angels fongs, who praifed God at the nativity of our Saviour, they prefently left their flocks, and ran to Bethlehem to behold the child Jefus lying in the manger; but much more caufe hath a believer to leave all the pleasures of the world, and run to behold an exalted Jefus fitting on the throne of his glory, with all his faints and angels finging praifes around him.

If Cato and Cleombrotus, two Heathens, after reading Plato's book of the immortality of the foul, did voluntarily, the one fall on his fword, the other break his neck from a precipice, that they might the fooner come (as they fancied) to partake of theie joys; what a fhame is it for Chrittians, who have a far furer and cleace ditcovery of thefe things from God's ownbook, to be found unwilling to enter into thefe heavenly joys, when their bleffed Redeemer calls for them thither?

3dy, Confider how willing Chrift was to come from heaven to earth for you; and fhould you be unwilling to remove from earth to heaven for hin? yea, for yourfelves, for the gain is yours? O did Chrift affume your nature, become obedient to death, and purchafe an inheritance for you with his blood; and will you be backward to go and take poffelion of it? O for a Chrift like obedience at death!

Laftly, Confider what a reproach is caft on Chriftianity, by a believer's unwillingnefs to die. For Chriftians to pray, and dpeak much of Chrift, of heaven and glory, and yet be unwilling to enter iuto that glory; what is it but a mibelieving of God, and a tempting of ftrangers to think there is no reality in religion?

Queft "Since death is not eafy to grapple with, how fhall I attain to this bleffed ditpolition, a willigneds to die ?

Anf. 1/t, Be frequently putting forth the acts of faith upon the righteousness of Christ; and believe that Chrift died to bring in a perfect righteouinels for believers, that they all might be complete in him. Now, why fhould a believer be afraid to appear before God in Chrift's righteouinels, which is fo pleafing and acceptable to him? Rev. xiv. 4.9 they are faid to be "without fault before the throne of God" if a believer were to appear before God in his own righteoufnels, clothed with his own duties and performances, it would be dreadful to think of dying; but to have the white garment of an elder brother to put on, gives another wiew of death. Alas, it is our neglecting the daily exercile of faith in the righteoufnels of Chrift, hat makes the thoughts of death fo unwelcome.

adly, When you attain to peace and reconciliation with God, labour to preferve it. Be frating and clearing counts with God every day, and watch againft thefe fins that wound confcience, wafte comfort, and grieve the Spirit of adoption. When we think God is difpleafed with us, we will be afraid of going to him.

3dly, Study to be more denied to the enjoyments of this life, and to ule them with a holy indifferency; otherwile there will be an unwillingneds to leave thefe things.

4thly, Labour to be deeply fenfible of the burden of indwelling fin and corruption, and the workings thereof in your hearts; and this will make the thoughts of death welcome, becaufe it eternally delivers you from it.

5thly, Seek further difcoveries of the loveline(s of Chrift, and the daily exercife and increafe of your foul's love to him; for it is the nature of love to long after communion with the perfon that we love.

6thly, Make death familiar to you, by the frequent forethoughts of it. Retire oft from the world to think of dying, when you are in beft health.

7thly. Be much taken up in the fweet employment of prailing God, and exalting the worthy Lamb that was flain; and this will incline you to be there, where this is the continual work.

Laftly, Be oft thinking of these warnings and forerunners of death, which God fends to wean your heart from the love of life, and difpofe you to a willingness to die. For this end, God fends manifold difeafes, pains, infirmities, wants, ftraits, loss, crosses, disappointments, &c. And in a fpecial manner, let old people view the forerunners and harbingers of death, which God fends to prepare his way : fuch as the decays and infirmities of old age, which we have elegantly defcribed in figurative expressions, Ecclef. xii. 2. " Then the light of the fun, moon, and ftars fhall be darkened;" i.e. in old perfons, the intellectual powers and faculties, which are as lights in the foul, shall be weakened. And then do " the clouds return after rain;" i. e. their diftempers are frequent, like a continual dropping in a very rainy day; and the ending of one is but the beginning of another .- Verf. 3. "Then the keepers of the house do tremble;" i. e. the head and hands, which were employed for the prefervation of the body, do flake .- "The flrong men bow themfelves;" i. e. the legs and thighs, which are the pillars of the house, become weak and feeble .-. " The grinders ceafe, becaufe they are few;" i. e. the teeth, which like the upper and nether milftone, do grind our meat, and prepare it for concoction, then ceafe to do their part .- " Those that look out of the windows are darkned;" i. e. the eyes wax dim, whereby God calls us to turn them away from beholding vanity, and to look after the things that are not feen .- Verfe 4. " The daughters of mulic are brought low;" i. e. they have neither voice nor ears; they can neither fing themfelves, nor take pleafure in the voice of finging men or women. Then death pulls us, as it were by the ear, to think on the mufic above .- Verf. s. " The almond-tree flouriflicth;" i. e. the hair grows white, like the almond-tree in the bloffom. And as the outward parts of the body do weaken and decay, fo also do the inward parts thereof: therefore it is faid, Veif. 6. " The filver cord fhall be loofed, the golden bowl broken, the pitcher broken at the fountain, and the wheel broken at the eiftern;" i. e. the filver cord of the finews is loofed. which carries the faculty of fence and motion from the head, through the body. The head, which like a golden bowl or box, contains the brain, that is the fountain of fense and motion, through age is broken, and turns crazy. The many pitchers of the veins, which carry the nourifhing blood from the well to the liver unto each part of the body, become like broken yeffels. And the wheel of the attories, which convey the vital fpirits from the heart to the feveral members, for quickening them, begin to turn faint and languid. All their things do warn old perfons to take their affections off time's things, and fet them upon things above, that they may be helped to fay, we "define to depart, and to be with Chrift."

But after all, fome believers will have objections againft willingnefs to die, fome whereof I shall confider.

Object. 1. "I am threatned to be cut off in the flower of mine age."

Anfw. Inftead of fretting on this account, you ought rather to adore and praife a gracious God, that is willing to beflow the reward of the whole day upon thee, who haf only laboured fome hours of it. Praife him, that is willing to take you fo foon home; whereby you will prevent much fin and forrow in the would.

Object. II. "I have houses and lands, and a comfortable dwelling on the earth."

Anfiv. Thefe are only needful in your paffage through the world; above there is no ufe for thefe comforts. There God provideth manfions for his people a thouland times more comfortable. John xiv.2. 2 Cor.v.1. Surely houfes of God's building, and of Chrift's furnifhing, are preferable to the cottages built by mens hands

Object. III. "But I am loth to leave God's ordinances, and the fivect communion I have had with him therein."

Anfw. Above there will be no need of ordinances, facraments, Bibles, or minifters; for the Lamb will be the light of the heavenly temple, and all hid things in religion will be diffeovered in Chrift's face. There you will celebrate an eternal Sabbath, drink the fuilt of the vine new with Chrift, be ever with the Lord, without any cloud or interruption of your communion with him. Is it any lofs to be taken from the fhallow fireams, and fet by the fountain that is ever full and running over? Object. IV. "I am loth to leave the company of godly friends and relations."

Anfw. Death will take you to your friend Ghrift, that is far better than them all. And for one friend you lofe upon earth, you fhall find an hundred in heaven; and thefe godly relations you leave here, you fhall foon meet with them again there; where you will have far fweeter communion than poffibly you can have upon earth with them, or the beft of men, who, while here, have feveral infirmities and poffions, that many times make their converife uncomfortable.

Object. V. "But I would fain fee the glory of Zion upon earth, when God's promifes to her fhall be accomplified."

An/w. So Mofes would fain have feen Ifrael's happinefs in the promifed land: but his dying in the firm belief of God's fulfiling all his promifes to them there, was more acceptable to God, than his beholding the performance. And the glory of the church militant is a fight nothing comparable to that of the church triumphant above. Objed. VI. "But I would incline to ftay to do God more fervice in his church below, whofe neceffities are clamant."

Anfw. 1. You will not want opportunity for ferving and glorifying God above, and where you will be in far better cafe for it. Here our hearts are oft out of tune for God's work, and we are forced to hang our harps upon the willows; but above there are no willows to hang them on; no faint there will ever complain of any indipofition of heart or tongue.

2 dly, God knows the neceffities of his church, and is more concerned for them than thou can't be; and it is cafy for him to raife up inftruments to carry on his work when thou art gone.

Object. VII. " I am afraid of the pain and pangs of death. The thoughts of these make me farink back."

Anfw. 1/f. Many die without much feeming fonfe of pain, and it is probable have lefs pain at the hour of death, than they have felt under feveral former difeafes.

adly, If they be fharp, they are foon over; and each pang of death will fet fin a flep nearer the door, and thy fool a flep nearer home: and therefore it becometh a Chriftian to die cheerfully, and to be glad when he can find the grave.

Now, what I have faid in this chapter is to the believing foul: for it is no wonder though the fouls of the ungodly, at death, thrink back into the body, and tremble to go forth, when they can have no profpect of any better lodging than utter darknefs.

DIRECT.V. Study to imitate the ancient worthies, by dying in faith.

THIS was the character and epitaph of the Old Teftament faints, Heb xi.13. "Thefe all died in faith." As they had lived by faith, fo they died in faith. They not only continued true believers to the laft, dying in the flate of faith, but they died in the exercise of faith alfo. Now, the exercise of faith in dying includes feveral things, worthy to be imitated by all dying believers.

if, An open and profeffed adherance to the doctrine of faith, and truths of Chriftianity. This faith all Chriftians thould zcaloufly own in the view of death, and perfevere in it to the laft without wavering. This would be to die like martyrs, though we die in our beds. How fieldaftly did old Polycarp adhere to Chrift and his truths to the laft, and fo died in faithl When he was urged by the proconful to deay Chrift, he anfwrerd, "Thefe fourfcore and fix years have I ferved him, and he never once offended me: and how shall I now deny him?"

adly, Dying in faith imports an inward, hearty, and firm belief of the fundamental articles of the Chriltian Lith; and improving them fo, as to make them the foundation of our comfort and hope at the hour of death. As for inflance, we muft yield our departing fouls, in the firm belief of their living and exitling in a feparate condition after this fife, and of that future flate of bleffednels and reft which God hath prepared for all believers. Again, we maft difmifs the body to the grave, in a firm belief and hope of a joyful refurrection at the laft day. Thus that holy man lob both lived and died in faith, Job xix 25, 26. " I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth. And though after my fkin, worms deftroy this body, yet in my flefh I shall fee God." A Christian then dies in faith, when he believes thefe truths fo, as cheerfully to obey God's call, and venture into the invisible world, upon the teftimony which God hath given concerning it; as Abraham did in going out to an unknown land, Heb. xi. 8. " By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obcycd; and he went out, not knowing whether he went."

3dly, The believer dies in faith, when he makes fresh application to Christ as his only hope and Saviour, takes him in his arms of faith, as old Simcon did before his death, faying, " In the Lord Chrift I have rightcoulnels and ftrength;" though I have neither righteoufneis nor ftrength in myfelf, yet I have both in him, my bleffed Surety and Redeemer. We have many ules for faith in Chrift at the hour death. By faith we mull depend upon Chrift's blood for making atonement, and washing away the guilt of all our bypast fins. By faith we must put on the righteousness of Christ for covering our naked touls, when they are to appear and ftand before God. By faith we muft rely on Chrift for flrength to fuffer pain, refift temptations, and conquer death and all our encmies. By faith we muft look to Chrift as our leader, and truft him for our fafe conduct through the dark valley of death, and for fafe landing on the fhore of glory.

4thly, The believer dies in faith, when he trufts his departing foul with confidence in his Redeemer's hand, faving with Paul, 2 Tim. i. 12. " I know whom I have believed, and I am perfuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed to him against that day." This was the Pfalmift's practice, Pfal. xxxi 5. " Into thy hand I commit my fpirit; for thou haft redeemed me, O Lord God of truth." So the man that dies in faith, commits the jewel of his foul to his Redeemer's keeping, and confides in his care of it. Why, he made it, he hath redeemed it, he loves it, it is his own, a member of his body, and he will not hate his own flefh. He loves his dving faints much better than we love an eye, a hand, or any other member of our body, which, to be fure, we will not lofe. if it be in our power to fave it.

5thly, Dying in faith imports, that the dying faint confides in God's faithfulnels and truth for making good all thefe promifes to his church and people after his death, which are not yet accomplished. We should go off the fage in the firm belief of God's fulfilling all his promifes concerning the profperity of his church, the calling of the Jews, the deftruction of Antichrift, and the fecond coming of our Lord; and likewife concerning our families, that God will be as good as his word, and be a Father to the fatherlefs, and a Hutband to the widow.

Would we then be fo happy as to die in faith, let us take thefe advices.

1/k, Let us be careful to get faith beforehand; for death is a time to ufe faith, not to get it. They were foolifh virgins, who had their oil to buy when the Bridegroom was come.

adly, Study to live every day in the exercife of faith, and be fill improving and making ufe of Chrift, in all his offices, and for all thefe ends and ufes for which God hath given him to believers.

3.41y, Be frequently clearing up your evidences for heaven, and beware of letting fin blot them to you.

4thly, Record and lay up the experiences of God's kind dealings with you, and be often reflecting upon them, that you may have them ready at hand in the hour of death.

Laftly, Meditate much on these promifes, which have been fiweet and comfortable to you in the the time of firait; and beg that the Lord may bring them to your remembrance when you come to die.

DIRECT. VI. Set the examples of other dying Jaints before you, and fludy in like manner to fhine in grace, heavenly difcourfe, and be exemplary in picty, and for the glory of God, and good of Jouls, when your going off the flage.

THIS is the laft opportunity you have of doing fervice to God, and the intereft of religion; wherefore furive to improve it diligently for the honour of God, and the edification of thofe that furvive you. How pleafant is it to fee God's people leaving the world, commending Chrift and his fervice, and perfuming the place they lie in with their laft breath? I have, Chap. III. Direct., s. and S. adduced feveral motives to prefs this point, and given directions concerning the fpeech and behaviour of the children of God when on fickbeds, which I hall not repeat.

That which I defign here is, to fet before you the examples of fome eminent faints, and their exemplary, pious, and holy speeches and favings, when they were a-dying; and that in order to confirm and eftablish others in religion, and alfo to excite them to imitate thefe fhining worthies when they also come to die. Surely it is for this very end, that God hath ordered us to be compaffed about with fo great a cloud of witneffes, Heb. xii. 1. Thus doth the apofile improve their example, Heb xi. And how earneft is he in this matter? Heb. vi. 11, 12. "And we defire, that every one of you do fhew the fame diligence, to the full affurance of hope unto the end: that ye be not flothful, but followers of them, who through faith and patience inherit the promifes."

I fhall begin with fome examples from the facred hiltory; and, in the first place, with the King of faints, our Lord Jefus Chrift. O how fweet and comfortable were his difcourfes unto his difciples, when his death drew nigh! and what a heavenly prayer did he make for them, and all his elect ones at that time! Thefe we have recorded in the 14th, 15th, 16th, and 17th chapters of John: which are moft feafonable at all times for us to read and meditate upon, but efpecially when death is approaching. And likewife let us read the hiftory of our Lord's paffion, in which we may obferve the wonderful exprefilons of his faith in God, his patience under fufferings, his pity to his enemies, his love to his mother and his difciples, his concern for his Fathers's glory, is obedience in his death, and his willingnefs to be offered up. Thus the bleffed Sun of rightcoufness did fine forth moft glorionfly at his fetting, with the radiant beams of his heavenly graces and virtues: and herein he hath fet himfelf a pattern to all dying faints to the end of the world.

Jacob, when he was on his death-bed, called his fons together, and gave them many fpecial charges and bleffings; we have his excellent words recorded in Gen. xlviii. and xlix. chapters. And in particular, how fweetly doth he fpeak of the coming of the Meffiah to them? Gen xlix. 10. 18. and how affectionately doth he commend God's goodnefs and kind providence towards him through his life? Gen. xlviii 15, 16. "The God which fed me all my life long unto this day." & c.

Jafeph, when he was a dying, fpoke lovingly to his brethren, who had dealt cruelly with him; and affured them of the Lord's faithfulnefs in keeping his promife to their fathers, Gen. 1. 20. "I die, and God will furely vifit you. and bring you or of this land."

Mofes, when he was to go up to mount Nebo to die there, left many bleffings, and gave many weighty charges to the children of lfrael: we have his holy and ravithing words recorded, Deut xxxii. and xxxiii. chapters. And particularly how pleafantly doth he commend God, and his ways to the people! Deut. xxxii. 4. "He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth, and without iniquity, juft and right is he."

Joshua, when he was near his end, gave many folemn charges and exhortations to the people, which we have narrated, Jofh. xxiii. and xxiv, chapters. And there we may fee the remarkable methods he takes to rivet impreffions and convictions upon them, now when he can inftruct them no longer. And, particularly, he appeals to their confciences concerning the faithfulnefs of God in keeping his word to them, that fo he might engage them to fidelity to him, Jofh xxiii 14 "And behold, this day I am going the way of all the earth, and ye know in all your hearts and in all your fouls, that not one thing hath failed of all the good things which the Lord your God fpake concerning you."

David, when his end was near, affembled the people, and folemnly charged them, as in the audience of God, to keep his commandments, 1 Claron.xxviii 8, 9. And particularly, he charged his fon and fueceffor Solomon, to "know the God of his father, and to ferve him with a perfect heart, and with a willing mind."

The apofile Paul, when taking his laft farewell of the elders of Ephefus he moft folemnly charges them, to "take heed to themfelves, and the flocks over which the Holy Ghoft had made them overfeers," Afts xx 28. And how fweetly doth he fing, in the view of approaching death! 2 Tim. iv. 6, 7, 8. "I am now ready to be offered, the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my courfe, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of rightcouncies, which the Lord the rightcous Judge shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto them also that love his appearing."

204 THE AFFLIC FED

In imitation of thefe feripture-faints, the people of God in all ages have fludied to glorify God and edify men at their death, by commending God and godlinefs to their friends and families. Thefe we ought to teach by our example, both how to live and how to die, as others have done before us. Thus faid once a dying faint to his family, "I have formerly taught you how to live, and now I teach you how to die."

Now, becaufe in all ages the fpeeches of dying Chriftians have been much obferved, and God hath remarkably bleffed them to the eftablifhment and confirmation, quickening and exciting of others to imitate them; I fhall bring feveral examples from human hiftories and writings, and moftly from Clark's Lives, of fundry eminent faints, whole graces have fhome brighteft, and their fpeeches were moft heavenly, when the fun of their life was at the fetting.

1. That old difciple, Polycarp, when he came to the flake at which he was burnt, defined to fland untied, faying, "Let me alone, for he that gave me firength to come to the fire, will give me patience to endure the flame without your tying."

2. So holy Cyprian triumphed over death, faying "Let him only fear death, who mult pais from this death to the fecond death." When he heard the fentence of death pronounced againft him, he faid, "I thank God for freeing me from the prifon of this body."

3. Bafil, when the Emperor Valens font his officers to tempt him with great preferments to turn from the faith, he rejefted them with form, faying, "You may offer thefethings to children." And when they threatened him with fuff rings, he faid, "Threaten your purple gallants with thele things, that give themfelves to their pleafures."

When Modeflus the Perfect threatened Bafil, to confifcate his goods, to tornich him, to banifh him, or kill him, he anfwered, " He need not fear confifcation, that had nothing to loke: nor banifhment, to whom heaven only is a country; nor tornents, when his body would be dafhed with one blow; nor death, which is the only way to fet him st liberty." The Perfect telling him he was mad, faid, Opto me in sternum fic delirare, I with I may for ever be thus mad.

4. Ignatias being led from Syria to Rome to be torn in pieces of wild bealts, he expreffed his fear left it hould happen to him as to fome others, that the lons out of a kind of reverence, would not dare to touch him. And therefore he oft wifhed, "That their appetites might be whitted to difpatch him. "For (faid he) the lious teeth are but like a mill, which though it bruifeth, yet wafteth not the good wheat, only prepares and fits it to be made pure bread. Let me be broken by them, fo I may be made pure manchet for heaven."

5. The great Mr Knox, our reformer, when he lay a-dying, was much in prayer, ever crying, "Come, Lord Jeffus, fwect Jefus, into thy hands I commend my fpirit." Being afked by thofe that attended him, if his pain was great? he anfwered, "That he did not effect that a pain, which would be to him the end of all trouble, and the beginning of eternal joys." Oftimes, after fome deep meditations, he faid, "O ferve the Lord in fear, and death fhall not be terrible to you: Bleffed is the death of thofe that have part in the death of Jefus."

After a fore temptation from Satan, (which I formerly mentioned) over which he triumphed at length, he faid, " Now the enemy is gone away afhamed, and fhall no more return. I am fure now my battle is at an end, and that without pain of body, or trouble of fpirit, I fhall fhortly change this mortal and miferable "dife, with that happy and immortal life which fhall never have an end." After one had prayed for him, he was afked, whether he heard the prayer? he answered, "Would to God you had heard it with fuch an car and heart as I have donc! adding, Lord Jelus, receive my fpirit." With which words, without any motion of hands or feet, as one falling afleep, rather than dying, he ended his life.

6. Dr Gouge, when he was old and dying, was fore afflicted with the ftone, and other painful maladies; yet though by reafon of his pains he was oft heard to groan, he never once grumbled against the difpensitions of God. He never cried out, a great sufferer, but oft, a great finner: yet flill comforted himfelf, that there is a great Saviour. In his greateft torments he would fay, "Well, yet in all thefe there is nothing of hell, or of God's wrath. O my foul, be filent, be patient: it is thy God and Father that thus orders thine effate. Thou art his clay; he may tread and trample upon thee as he pleafeth; thou haft deferved much more. It is enough that thou art kept out of hell; though thy pains be grievous, yet they are not intolerable, thy God affords fome intermiffions; he will turn it to thy good, and at length put an end to all; and none of these comforts can be expected in hell." In his greateft pains. he oft used holy Job's words, "Shali we receive good from the hands of the Lord, and not evil alfo?" When any of his friends would have comforted him, with telling him of his eminent gifts and fervice in the ministry, he would anfwer, " I dare not think of any fuch thing for comfort: only Jefus Chrift, and what he hath done and endured, is the ground of my fure comfort." The thoughts of death were pleafant to him, which he often termed, his best friend, next unto Jefus Christ. And he would blefs God, that he had nothing to do but like extreme pains. When he was afked, how he did? his frequent answer was, "The bush always burning, but not confumed: though my pains are above the firength of nature, yet they are not above the fupports of grace." He would pray, "Lord drop comfort into these bitter waters of Marah. Let the blood of fprinkling, which extinguisheth the fire of thine anger, allay my burning pain. Oh, if my patience were more, my pains would be lefs; Lord, give me patience, and inflict what thou wilt. This is a fiery chariot, but it will carry me to heaven. O my God, break open the prifon-door, and fet my poor captive foul free: I defire to be diffolved, but enable me willingly to wait thy time." He would again cry, "When shall the time come, that I shall neither fin more, nor forrow more : Lord, keep me from difhonouring thy name by impatience. Oh, who would not, even in burnings, have honourable thoughts of God! Lord, thou gaveft me no occafion to have hard thoughts of thee. Bleffed be God, for the peace of mine inward man, when my outward man is fo full of trouble. This is a bitter cup, but it is of my Father's mixing; and fhall I not then drink it?"

7. I have read of another minister under the

8. Mrs Jean Afkew, who was a martyer in King Henry's reign, to her confefion in Newgate fhe thus fubferibed; "Written by me Jean Afkew, that neither witheth death, nor feareth its might, and as merry as one bound towards heaven." When the chancellor fent her letters at the ftake, offering her the king's pardon, if . the would recant; the refuling to look, upon them, gave this anfwer : " That fhe came not hither to deny her Lord and Mafter."

9. Mr James Bainham, when he was at the flake in the midfl of the burning fire, which had half confumed his legs and arms, fpake thefe words; " O ye Papifsl behold ye look for miracles, and here now ye may fee a miracle; for in this fire I feel no more pain, than if I were in a bed of down; it is to me as a bed of rofes."

to. John Lambert, as hewas burning in Smithfield, and his legs were quite condumed with the fire, he lift up his hands, his fingers flaming like torches, but his heart abcunding with comfort, crying out, "None but Chrift, none but Chrift."

11. Mr. Robert Glover, a little before his death, had loft the fenfe of God's favor, for which he was in great heavinefs and forrow; but when he came within fight of the ftake at which he was to fuffer, he was on a fudden fo filed with divine comfort, that, clapping his hands together, he cried out to his fervant, " He is come, he is come;" and fo died moft chertfully.

12. It was a faying of Auguftine, "Boughs fall off trees, and flones out of buildings; and and why flould it floem firange that mortal men die?"

13. Mr John Dod had a violent fever, that there was but little hope of his life; yet at length his phyfician coming to him, faid, "Now I have hope of your recovery." To whom Mr Dod anfwered, You think to comfort me with this, but you make my heart fad. It is as if you should tell one who had been fore weatherbeaten at f:a, and conceiving he was now arrived at the haven where his foul longed to be, that he mult go back again to be toffed with new winds and waves."

He would often fay in his laft ficknefs, "I am not afraid to look death in the face. I can fay, Death where is thy fling? death cannot hurt me."

He ufed to fay, " The knowledge of two things would make one willing to dic, viz. What heaven is, and that it is mine." "Yes, (faid one) if a man were fure of that." To whom he anfwered, "Truly afforance is to be had; and what have we been doing all this while?"

Some others of the flyings of this holy man were fo pithy and remarkable, I cannot pafs them here.

Once Mr Dod coming to vifit a godly minifler on his death-bed, who was much opperfied with melancholy, and complained to him, faying, "O Mr Dod, what will you fay of him who is going out of the world, and can find no comfort?" To whom Mr Dod anfwered, "What will you fay of our Saviour Chrift, who, when he was going out of the world, found no comfort, but cried out, My God, my God, why haft thou forfaken me?"—He faid of affl. dions, "they are God's portions, which we may fweeten by faith and faithful prayer; but we, for the moft part, make them better, puting into God's cup the evil ingredients of our impatience and unbelief .- He called death the friend of grace, though it be the enemy of nature; for whereas the word, facraments, and prayer, do but weaken fin, death kills it." He uled to fay, " A man is never in a hard condition, unleis he have a hard heart, and cannot pray." He inftructed Chriftians how they fhould never have a great nor lafting affliction, and that was, by looking upon the things that are not feen, which are eternal, 2 Cor. iv. 17, 18. For what can be great to him that counts the world nothing? And what can be long to him. that accounts his life but a fpan long?--When he faw a chriftian look fad, he would fay as Jonadab did to Amnon, " Art thou a king's fon, and lookeft fo ill?" And when fuch complained to him of their loffes and croffes, he would ufe the words of Eliphaz to Job, " Do the confolations of God feem finall unto you? God hath taken from you your children, your goods, G.c. but he hath not taken from you himfelf, his Chrift, nor his Spirit, nor heaven, nor eternal life."

To a friend of his that role from a mean to a great eflate, he fert word, " That this was but as if he should go out of a boat into a barge or fhip; but he ought ferioufly to remember, that whill he was in this world, he was but upon the floating fea.

He oft faid, " That if it were lawful to envy any, he would envy those that turn to God in their youth, whereby they escape much fin and forrow, and are like Jacob, that ftole the blefling betimes.—He used to compare reproofs given in paffion, to fealding potions, which the patient could not take down: in reproofs we fhould labour for mecknefs of wifdom, ufing foft words and hard arguments.

He was a molt popular minifler, but much perfecuted. Once he took a journey to fee his father-in-law, Mr Greenham, and to bemoan himfelf to him, upon account of his croffes and hard ulage. Mr Greenham, having heard all he could fay, anfwered him thus; "Son, fon, when affliction lieth heavy, fin lieth light." Mr Dod ufed oft to blefs God for this fpeech, faying; "I fM Greenham had bemoaned him as he expected, he had done him much hurt." He forgot not this faying in his old age, but made excellent ufe of it for himfelf and others.

14 Occolampadius, that famous divine of Switzerland, when lying on his death-bed, and being afked, Whether the light did not offend him? he anfwered, pointing to his breaft, Hic fat lucis, "Here is abundance of light;" meaning of comfort and joy. He afked one of his friends, What news? His friend anfwered, none. Then, faith he, I will tell you fome news; I fa fall prefeatly be with my Lord Chrift.

15. A certain godly man pafing through his laft ficknefs with extraordinary calmacks of conficience, being afked by fome of his friend's anent it, he anfwered, that he had ftedfally fixed his heart upon that fweet prom le, lia. xxvi. 3. "Thou will keep him in perfect peace whofe mind is flaid on thee; becaufe he truffeth in thee." And my God (faid he) hath gracioully made it fully good unto my foul.

16. Mr Robert Bolton, minister at Broughton, well known by his writings, in the time of his laft ficknefs, which was long and fharp, he often breathed out thefe words: " Oh, when will this good hour come? when fhall I be diffolved ? when fhall I be with Chrift?" Being told, that to be diffolved was indeed better for him, yet it would be better for the church that he would ftay here; he answered, "If I shall find favour in the eyes of the Lord, he will bring me again, and fhew me both it and his habitation; but if otherwife, lo, here I am, let him do what feemeth good in his eyes." Being afked by another, If he could not be content to live, if it pleafed God? he answered, " I grant that life is a great bleffing of God, neither will I neglect any means that may preferve it; and do heartily fubmit to God's will; but of the two, I infinitely defire more to be diffolved, and to be with Chrift." He hade all that came to fee him, make fure of Chrift before they came to die, and look upon the world now as a lump of vanity .- He encouraged the minifters that came to him, to be diligent and courageous in the work of the Lord, and not to faint nor droop for any affliction that fhould arife thereupon.

When he found himfelf very weak, he called for his wife and children. He defired her to bear his diffolution, which was now at hand, with a Chriftian fortitude, a thing he had been preparing her for by the fpace of twenty years; and bade her make no doubt but fhe fhould meet him again in heaven. He exhorted his children to remember thefe things he had frequently told them before; adding. "That he hoped and believed, that none of them durft think to meet him at that great tribunal in an unregenerate fate."

Some of his parifh coming to watch with him, it was moved, that as by his doftrine he had difeovered to them the exceeding comforts that were in Chrift, fo he would now tell them what he felt in his own foul. " Alas, (faid he) do you look for that of me now, that wants breath and frength to fpeak? I have told you enough the woulderful mercies of God, as full of comfort as my heart can hold; and I feel nothing in my foul but Chrift, with whom I heartily defire to be." And obferving fome weeping, he looked to them and faid, " Oh, what a deal ado there is before one can die.

When the pangs of death were upon him, being told, that fome of his dear friends were about him, to take their laft farewell, he caufed himfelf to be raifed up in his bed; and after a few galpings for breath, he faid, "I am now drawing on apace to my diffolution; hold out, faith and patience, your work will fpeedily be at an end." And then fhaking them all by the hands, he prayed hartily and particularly for them; and defired them to make fure of heaven, and to bear in mind what he had formerly told them in his ministry, protesting to them, that the doctrine he had preached to them for the fpace of twenty years was the truth of God. as he fould answer it at the tribunal of Christ, before whom he fhould fhortly appear.

When he was firuggling with death, a very dear friend taking him by the hand, afked him, If he felt not much pain? "Truly no, (faidh), the greateft I feel is your cold hand."

17. Mr John Holland, a godly minifter, continued his usual practice of expounding the fcripture in his family to the laft: and the day before his death he called for a Bible, and caufing another read the 8th chapter of the Romans. he discoursed upon it verse by verse; but on a fudden he faid, "O flay your reading; what brightness is this I fee! have you lighted up any candle?" A ftander-by faid. No, it is the funfhine, (for it was about five o'clock in a clear fummer's evening), " Sun-fhine! faid he, nay, it is my Saviour's fhine. Now farewell world: welcome heaven; the day ftar from on high hath vifited my heart: O fpeak it when I am gone, and preach it at my funeral; God dealeth familiarly with man; I feel his mercy, I fee his majefty; whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell, God he knoweth; but I fee things that are unutterable." And in this rapture he continued till he died.

13. I knew not long ago, an eminently godly man G. M. that fell into feveral fuch extraordinary raptures fometime before his death, fuch as his bodily firength and fpirit were not able to fupport under, though he had no ficknefs. Sometimes he was fo fwallowed up and overcome by the manifeflations of God's love to his foul, that his words could not be well underflood; his natural colour, heat, and freeghth, would fog of eff, that all about him would conclude him to be dying: but when he was able to get words uttered, they were fo heavenly and ravifhing concerning the love of Chrift, and freedom of grace, that by-ftanders could not hear him without weeping Sometimes minsfters, when they came to visit him, and found him in these raptures, were forced to to turn all their prayers in his behalf into praifes; except fome petitions they would put up to God, " That he might gracioufly fpare and be tender of his weak body, and enable him to bear that load of loving-kindnet's God was pleafed to let out to him, and which his prefent bodily ftrength was not fufficient for." Yea, they would be put to cry. " Lord, if it be thy will, hold thy hand, for he is but a clay veffel; this new wine will burft the old bottle; preferve him in life as a monument of the rich grace of God, for the conviction of Atheifts and carnal people and for the confirmation of the faith of the children of God."- Sometimes he would cry in abrupt expressions, O angels! help me to praife him! O faints admire his love, and wonder at him .- Again, O flames of love ! my foul feeth Chrift! the heavens open ! I fee a throne, and the Lamb in the midft of the throne! O what think ve of Chrift? my foul breathes, breathes towards him! my fpirit is exhaled out of me by the manifestations of God!"-He uled frequently to lay with a heavenly air to his friends, O what think ye of Chrift?--When his extacy did fomewhat abate, fo that he attained a pleafaut calmaels of thought, and freedom of fpeech, he would discourse of the mysteries of religion, the clefting love of God, the freedom of grace, the unfearchable riches of Chrift, and the glorious contrivance of redemption through his death and facrifice; I fay, he would talk of these things more like an angel than a man. For fuch was his heavenly eloquence, fluency of words, and facility of ipcaking upon their fubjects, (which otherwife was not natural to him), that these who came to see him were exceedingly furprifed and aftonished to hear him. His body gradually weakened under thefe raptures of fpirit, and he longed much to be off the world, becaufe he thought he could be fo little uleful in it for advancing God's honour. He reckoned himfelf bound to improve the fhort time he was like to have here, in commending Chrift and religion to all that he had accefs to, and alfo to admonifh them of any thing he knew amils in them, which he did most convincingly. And having occasion to fee fome who vilipended the established church and the ordinances difpenfed in it; he highly commended the ordinances, and told them, that from his own fweet experience he could fay, that God was to be found in them .- He feemed to have fin wonderfully mortified; for he complained of no other heart-pleague but felf, and it was his great exercise to get felf wholly fubdued; he purfued it through many of its windings and lurking-places, and after all he would regret his little fuccels against it. " For (faid he) when I am in my most elevated frames, and admitted to the nearest access to my Redeemer, that fubtle enemy felf will enter in with me, and offer to pull the crown off his head before my face."

Once after hearing a fermon on Pf.1. Isxxv. 8. "I will hear what God the Lord will fpeak," he broke out in a raptirous difcourfe to one that came to fee him, bleffing God that he had fpoke to him in that fermon. "And O (faid he) what am I, that the Rock of Ifrael fhould have fpoke to me thefe three fermon-days bygone, aff ring me that all my fins are forgiven! What am I, a vile worm, that he fhould be fo kind and condefeending, as to difcover Chrift and heaven in fuch a manner to me, and affure me that I will fhortly be with him! Oh. I thought that 1 had finned him away from me, but I fee he will not bide away! O admirable free grace! O help me to praife him!"

When death drew near, there was fome alteration in his eafc; yet he never quefitioned his intereft in Chrift; but till afferted, '' I know he is my God and my Redeemer, and I will fhortly be with him.'' And once when he was ready to complain for want of God's wonted mani.cfthations, he faid, '' The Lord knew his body was now weak, and could not bear what formerly he had met with, yet (faid he) glory to his name, he hash given me three blinks fince my laft illnefs began.''

19. Dr Harris, head of Trinity-college in Oxford, in his Lift ficknels ufed to exhort all about him to get faith above all things. "It is (faid he) your victory, your peace, your life, your erown, and your chiefeft piece of fpiritual armour. Howbeit, get on all other piece, and go forth in the Lord's might: Sand to the fight, and the iffue fhall be glorious. Only forget not to call in the help of your General. Do all from him and under him."—On the Lord's days he would not have any kept from the ordinances upon his account; and, when they returned from the fermons, he would fay to them, " Come, what have you for me?" And when any gave him account of what they have heard, he would refume the heads thereof and fay, "O what excellent truths are thefe! Lay them up carefully, for you will have need of them." —When friends came to vifit him, he would fay, "I cannot fpeak, but I can hear." Being alked, where his confort lay? He anfwered, "In Chrift, and in the free grace of God."

One telling him, that he might take much comfort in his labours, and the good he had done; his anfwer was, "tAll is nothing without a Saviour, without him my beft works would condemn me. Oh, I am afhamed of them, they are to mixed with fin. I have done nothing for God as I ought —Oh, lofs of time fits very heavy upon my fpirit. Work, work apace; affure yourflyes nothing will more trouble you when you come to die, than that you have done no more for God, who hath done fo much for you."

Sometimes he ufed thus to breathe out himfelf. I never in all my life faw the worth of a Chridt, nor talled the five:tnefs of God's love in that measure as now 1 do."—Being asked by miniflers, what they should chiedly request for him? he answered, "Do not only pray for me, but praife God that he fupports me, and keeps off Satan from me in my weaknefs; beg that 1 may hold out. I am now a good way home, near the fhore, I leave you toffing on the fea; Oh, it is a good time to die in."

In all the letter-wills which he made, he took care this legacy fhould fiill be inferted; "Item, Ibequeath to all my children, and to their children's children, to each of them a Bible, with this infeription, None but Chrift." that I had the tongues of men and angels, to praife him!" When he was advifed to lie quiet, he faid, "Whereon fhould a man beftow his laft breath, but in commending the Lord Jefus Chrift, God clothed in our nature, dying for our fins?"

He cauled read one of Mr Rutherford's Letters, viz. that to Mr John Mein, and thereafter faid, "That is a book I would commend to you all, there is more practical religion in that letter, than in a book of a larger volume."

He exhorted fome ministers that came to fee him to faithfulnels. " As for the work of the ministry (faid he) it was my deliberate choice. were my days lengthened out much more, and days as troublefome as they are like to be, 1 would rather be a contemned minister of God, than the greateft prince on earth."-He faid, when taking farewell of his wife, children, and fervants, " Here is a demonstration of the reality of religion, that I a poor, weak, timorous man, as much afraid of death as any, am now enabled, by the power of grace, compofedly and with joy to look death in the face. I dare look it in the face in its most ghaftly shape, and hope within a little to have the victory. I cannot but commend the Lord Jofus. As far as my word will go, I must proclaim it, he is the best Mafter that ever I faw." To his fon, who was a child, he faid, " If I had as many fons as there are hairs in your head, I would beftow them all. on God,"- To fome prefent he faid, "O Sirs, I dread mightily that a rational fort of religion is coming in among us; I mean by it, a religion that confifts in a bare attendance on outward duties and ordinances, without the power of godlinefs: and thence people shall fall into a way of ferving God, which is mere Deilin, having no relation to Chrift Jefus and the Spirit of God."-He expressed his fears of a ftorm coming on the church of Scotland; but he faid, " The day would break, and the Lord would arife, and he hoped the church would be made a wonder, and the Lord will fay, Lo, this people have I formed for myfelf; he can make a nation to be born at once."-He cried often with the fpoufe in the Song, "When shall the day break, and the fhadows fly away? I'urn my beloved, and be thou as a roe, or a young hart on the mountains of Bether."

He faid, " Shall I forget Zion? Nay, let my right hand forget her cunning, if I prefer not Terufalem to my chiefest joy. O to have God returning to this church, and his work going on in the world! If every drop of my blood, every bit of my body, every hair of my head, were all men ; they fhould all go to the fire to have this going on."---He faid, "If I would fay, that I would speak no more in the name of the Lord, it would be like a fire within me. I am calling you to fee a miracle, God is melting me down into corruption and duft, and yet he is keeping me in a calm .--- 1 could not believe that I would have born, and born cheerfully this rod fo long; this is a miracle, pain without pain; and this is not a fancy of a man difordered in his brain, but of one lying in full composure. O bleffed be God, that ever

I was born. I have a father and mother, and ten brethren and fillers in heaven, and I fhall be the eleventh. I fhall flortly be at that glory I have been long expecting: I hough I come not near Mr shield's glory, nor Mr Anderlon's, yet I will be well enough if I win in. Worthy is the Lamb to receive glory."

23. Mr Hugh Mackaill, in his speech before his death, faith, "I have effeemed the folemn engagements of this nation to the Lord, pregnant performances of that promife, Ifa. xliv. 5 where it is evident, that where church-reformations come to any maturity, they arrive at this degree of faying, I am the Lord's, and fubferibing with the hand, unto the Lord. So was it in the days of the reforming kings of Judah, and after the refloration from the captivity of Babylon in the days of Nehemiah. This fame promife did the Lord Jetus make Yea and Amen to us, when he redeemed us from spiritual Babylon .--- I glorify him, that he bath called meforth to fuffer for his name and ordinances, and the folemn engagements of the land to him. Hereafter 1 will not talk with flefh and blood, nor think on the worlds confolations. Farewell all my friends, whole company hath been refreshful to me in my pilgrimage. I have done with the light of the fun and moon. Welcome eternal life, everlasting love, everlasting praife, everlafting glory. Praife to him that fits upon the throne, and to the Lamb for ever."

When he was fonctimes much fpent with his labours, he would appeal to God, that though he might be wearied in his fervice, he would neverbe weary of it...Being oft diftempered in his bddy, he would fay, he was never better than in the pulpit, and that it was the beft place he could with to die in.

A little before his laft illnefs he wrote to a reverend brother, ". Methinks it is firange, that it fhould be your lot and mine to abide fo long on earth by the fluff, when fo many of our friends are dividing the fpoil above; but God will have it fo; and to be; willing to live in obedience to his holy will, is. as true an act of grace, as to be willing to die when he calls." One afking him how he did, he answered, " I find the chips fly off apace, the tree will be down fhortly." Holy and learned Mr Rutherford, a little before his death, left a written teftimohy to our covenanted work of reformation; and therein he proves the warrantablenefs of nations enterning into covenant with God under the New-Testament times, and shews, that this practice is the accomplifhment of feveral Old-Teffament prophecies, fuch as Jer. h. 4. 5. Ifa. ii. 3. Zech. viii. 2. Ifa. xix. 23. 24. 25. which relate to gofpel-times. And when he was dying, he fent feveral meffages to the prefbytery of St Andrews, defiring them to adhere to God's caufe and covenant .- In his fickness he oft broke out in facred raptures, extolling and commending the Lord Jefus, whom a often called his bleffed Mafter, his kingly King. When his death drew near, he faid I fhall fhine, I fhall fee him as he is, I shall fee him reign, and all his fair company with him, and I fhall have my large fhare: my eyes fhall fee my Redeemer, thir very eyes of mine, and no other for me." -When exhorting one to be diligent in fceking God, he faid, "It is no eafy thing to be a Chriftian; but for me, I have gotten the victory, and

Chrift is holding out both his arms to embrace me."-He was wonderfully ftrengthened againft the fears of fuffering and of death, " For," fays he, "I faid to the Lord, if he should flay me five thousand times five thousand times, I would truft in him; and I fpoke it with much trembling, fearing I should not make my put good. But as really as ever he fpoke to me by his Spirit, he witneffed unto my heart, that his grace should be fufficient for me."-He faid to fome minifters that came to fee him, " My Lord and Mafter, is the chief of ten thousand of thousands, none is comparable to him in heaven, or in earth. Dear brethren, do all for him, pray for Chrift, preach for Chrift, feed the flock committed to your charge for Chrift; vifit and catechife for Chrift: do all for Chrift, and beware of man-pleafing. Feed the flock out of love, the chief Shepherd will appear fhortly."-Once when he recovered from a fainting fit, he faid, "I feel, I feel, I believe, I enjoy, I rejoice, I feed on manna."- is he took a little wine in a fpoon, Mr Robert Blair faid to him, You feed on the dainties of heaven, and think nothing of our cordials on earth. He answered, " They are all but dung, yet they are Chrift's creatures, and in obedience to his command, I take them." -After fome discourse, Mr Blair faid to him, What think you now of Chrift? To which he replied, I fhall live and adore him; glory, glory, to my Creator, and to my Redcemer for ever. Glory fhines in Emmanuel's land -Afterwards he faid, "O that all my brethren did know what a Mafter I have ferved, and what peace I have this day! I thall fleep in Chrift, and when I awake I fhall be fattisfied with this likenets "--Then he taid, "This night thall clofe the door, and put my anchor within the vail; I thall go away in a fleep by five o'clock in the morning?" which exactly fell out. That night, though he was very weak, he oft had this exprefilion, O for arms to embrace him! O for a well-tuned harp!

When fome fpoke to him of his former painfulnels and faithfulnels in the work of God: he faid. " I difclaim all that: the port I would be in at, is redemption and forgiveness of fins through his blood." His laft words were. "Glory, glory dwelleth in Emmanuel's land." 29. Hugh Kennedy, provoft of Ayr, when he was a dying, a minister faid to him, You have caufe, Sir, to be affored that the angels of God are now waiting at the floups of this bed to convey your foul to Abraham's bofom : to whom his answer was, " I am fore thereof; and if the walls of this houfe could fpeak, they could tell how many fweet days I have had in fellowfhip with God, and how familiar he hath been with my foul "-He was one of the greateft wreftlers with God that was in the age wherein he lived, and had moft remarkable returns of prayer. The great Mr Welfh, in a latter from France, faid to him, " Happy is that city, yea, happy is that nation, that hath a Hugh Kennedy in it; I have mylelf certainly found the anfwers of his pravers from the Lord in my behalf."

20. The great Mr Robert Bruce, minister of Edinburgh, when dying through weaknefs and old age, being afked by one of his friends, How matters flood now betwixt God and his foul ? anfwered, " When I was young, I was diligent, and lived by faith on the Son of God; but now I am old, and not able to do fo much: vet he condescends to feed me with lumps of fenfe." That morning before he died, he came to breakfast at his table, and having eat, as he uled, one fingle egg; he faid to his daughter. I think I am yet hungry, you may bring me another. But prefently he fell into a deep meditation; and having muled a while, he faid, " Hold, daughter, hold, my Mafter calls me." With these words his fight failed him, whereupon he called for the Bible : but finding his fight gone, he faid, " Caft me up the eight chapter of the epifile to the Romans, and let my finger on theie words, " I am perfuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor ang 1s, Ge. fhall be able to separate me from the love of God; which is in Chrift Jefus my Lord." Now, faith he, is my finger upon them? they told him it was. Then, without any more, he faid, " Now God be with you, my children, I have breakfasted with you, and shall fup with my Lord Jefus Chrift this night." And to gave up the ghoft.

31. John Stewart, provoit of Ayr, was a lingularly pious many yet when he lay a dying, he faid to forme about him, 41 Ig other way of all flefh, and it may be forme of you doubt nething of my well-being: yea, I teflify, that except when I flept, or was on buffnels, I was not thefe ten years without thoughts of God, fo long as I could be in going from my houte to the crof; and yet I doubt myfelf, and am in great agony, yea, at the brink of defipair." But a day or two before he died, he turned his face to he wall from company for two hours. Then Mr Fergufon the minifter coming in, afked what he was a-doing? upon which he turned himfelf, with thefe words, 'i have been fighting and working out my falvation with fear and trembling; and now I blefs God, it is perfected, fealed, confirmed, and all fears are gone."

Festis eram vivus, moriens ero mors tua, Papa.

In his laft will, he faith, "O Lord God, I thank thee that thou wouldft have me live a poor and indigent perfon upon earth. I have neither houfe nor lands, nor polfeffions, nor money, to leave. Thou, Lord, haft given me wife and children; them, Lord, I give back unto thee. Nourifh, inftruck, and keep them. O thou the Father of orphans, and judge of the widows, as thou haft done to me, fo do to them."

In his laft prayer, Feb. 18th, 1546, he hath theie words: "I pray God to preferve his gofpel among us; for the Pope, and the council of Trent, have grievous things in hand." O heavenly Father, I give thee thanks that thou haf revealed to me thy Son Jefus Chrift, whom I believe, whom I profets, whom I glorify, and whom the Pope and the root of the wicked perfecute and difhonour." Mr Fox faith of Luther, " That a poor friar fhould be able to fland againft the Pope was a great miracle; that he fhould prevail againft the Pope was a greater; and after all to die in peace, having 10 many enemies, was the greateft of all."

33. Mr Jofeph Allein, a moft painful, laborious minifter, being deprived of the ufe of his arms and legs before his death, was afked by a friend, How he could be fo well contented to lie fo long in that condition? He anfwered, "What! is God my Father, Jefus Chrift my Saviour, and the Holy Spirit my Sanctifier and Comforter; and fhall I not be content without limbs and health? He is an unreafonable wretch that cannot be content with a God, though he had nothing elfe."

When his people of Taunton came to Dorchefter to fee him, where he lay; he was much revived, and would be fet up in his bed, have the curtains drawn by, and defired them to ftand round about the bed; and caufed take out his hand, and hold it out to them, that they might take it, as he used formerly to do, when he had been abfent from them. And though very weak, yet he fpake to them thus, " O how it rejoiceth my heart to fee your faces, and to hear your voices, though I cannot fpeak as heretofore unto you. Methinks, I am now like old Jacob, with all his fons about him. Now you fee my weak eftate; thus I have been for many weeks fince I parted with you, but God hath been with me. My freinds, life is mine, death is mine; in that covenant of which I preached to you, is all my falvation, and all ny defire: although my body do not profper, I hope through grace my foul doth. I have lived a fweet life by the promifes, and I hope through grace can die by a promife. It is the promifes of God that will fland by us. Nothing but God in them will ftand us in a day of affliction. My dear friends, I feel the power of thefe doctrines I preached to you on my heart, the doctrines of faith, of repentance, of felf-denial, of the covenant of grace, of contentment, e.c. O that you would live them over, now I cannot preach them to you! It is a fhame for a believer to be caft down under afflictions, that hath fo many glorious privileges, justification, adoption, fanctification, and eternal glory .- We fhall be as the angels of God in a little while; nay, to fay the truth, believers are, as it were, little angels already, that live in the power of faith. O my friends, live like believers, trample this dirty world under your feet; be not taken with its comforts, nor difquieted with its croffes, you will be gone out of it fhortly."

When they came to take leave of him, he would needs pray with them as his weak flate did foffer him — Then he faid, "Farewell, my dear friends; go home and live over what I have preached to you, and the Lord provide for you when I am gone. Now leannot preach to you, but let my wafted flrength, and ufelefs limbs, be a fermon to you. I am afraid of fome of you, after all I have fpoken to you. of Chrift another day. You have your trades, your effates, your relations; be not taken with thefe, but with God: O live on him. For the Lord's fake, go home and take heed of the of the world, worldly cares, worldly comforts, worldly relations, &c. Oh! let not my labours and fufferings, let not my wafted flrength, and ufelefs limbs, rife up in judgment against you at the great day of the Lord."-Then he faid, " The Lord having given authority to his minifters to blefs his people, accordingly I blefs you in his name," (ufing the words he always ufed after facraments), "The Lord blefs you and keep you, the Lord caufe his face to fhine upon you, and give you peace. And the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jefus, that great Shepherd of the fheep, through the blood of the everlafting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will, working in you that which is well pleafing in his fight, through Jefus Chrift; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen."

In the mornings, his first fpecches would be (which he alfo ufed in his health), "Now we have one day more; this is one more for God; now let us live well this day, work hard for our fouls; lay up much treature in heaven this day, for we have but a few to live."

Being taken to the Bath, where he met with extraordinary kindnefs from firangers. for many reforted to him, to fee him, and hear him fpeak, having heard what a monument of mercy he was: he did delight him/elf much in the confideration of the Lord's kindnefs to him, and the tokens of firangers their love, and would often fay, "I was a flanger, and mercy took me in; in prifon, and it came to me; fick and weak, and it vifited me." N. B. He had been much perfecuted, and put in prifon, for no other crime but preaching the golpel.

He had a most pious and affectionate wife, that waited clofely upon him, to whom he faid, "Now, my dear heart, my companion in all my tribulations and affictions, I thank thee for all thy pains and labours for me at home and abroad, in prifon and liberty, in health and ficknefs." And he prayed, that the Lord would requite her, fill her with all manner of grace and confolations, and fupport and carry her through all difficulties.

He had fome conflicts with Satan a little before his death: once he uttered thefe words. "Away, thou foul fiend, thou enemy of all mankind, thou fubtile fophifter, art thou come now to moleft me? Now I am just going! Now I am fo weak, and death upon me! Trouble me not, for I am none of thine! I am the Lord's: Chrift is mine, and I am his, his by covenant; I have fworn myfelf to be the Lord's, and his I will be; therefore be gone." Thefe laft words he repeated often, as pleading his covenanting with God, as a mean to refift the devil and his temptations. When he looked on his weak confumed hands, he would fay, " Thefe shall be changed: this vile body fhall be made like to Chrift's glorious body. O what a glorious day will the day of refurrection bc! Methinks I fee it by faith: how will the faints lift up their heads, and rejoice! and how fadly will the wicked world look then! O come let us make halte, our Lord will come fhortly! If we long to be in heaven, let us halten with our work; for when that is done, away we thall be fetched. O this vain, foolith, dirty world! I wonder how refonable creatures can fo dot upon it! What is in it world the looking after! I care not to be in it longer than while my Mafter hath either doing or fulfering work for me: were that done, farewell to earth."

This eminent faint had this teftimony given him by one; It may be faid of him, in as high a degree as of molt faints on earth, that each thought was to him a prayer, each prayer a fong, each day a Sabbath, each meal a facrament, and fo his life on earth a forctafte of that eternal repail, to which he hath now arived.

24. The noble Marquis of Argyll, being a zealous friend of our covenanted reformation, was put to death May 27th, 1661. His friends contrived methods for his making his efcape out of the caftle of Edinburgh; but he thanked them, and told them, he would not difown the good caufe he had fo publicly efpoufed, but refolved to fuffer the utmoft. When the fintence of death was paffed by the parliament, on Saturday May 25th, he faid, " I had the honour to let the crown upon the king's head, and now he haftens me to a better crown than his own." Then he was fent to the tolbooth. His excellent lady embracing him when he entered, wept bitterly, faying, feveral times, " The Lord will require it." Not any in the room could refrain from tears; but the Marquis himfelf was perfectly composed, and faid, "Forbear, forbear; truly I pity them, they know not what they are doing: they may that me in where they please, but they cannot shut out Ged from me. For my part, I am as content to be here as in the caftle, and as content in the caftle as in the tower of London," (where he was first put), " and as content there as when at liberty; and I hope to be as content upon the fcaffold as any of them all."-He added, that he remembered a feripture cited to him lately by an honeft minister in the caffle, and endeavoured to put it in practice, when Zigleg was taken and burnt, and the people fpoke of ftoning David, " He encouraged himfelf in the Lord his God." All his fhort time, till Monday, he fpent with, the greateft ferenity and cheerfulnefs, and in the proper exercifes of a dying Chriftian. He faid to fome ministers, allowed to be with him in the prifon, that fhortly they would envy him who was got before them .- And added, " Mind that I tell you, my skill fails me, if you who are miniflers will not either fuffer much, or fin much: for though you go alongit with thefe men in part, if you do it not in all things, you are but where you were, and fo must fuffer; and if you go not at all in with them you shall but fuffer."

The Marquis was naturally timorous, but he defired thole about him to obferve, as he could not but do, that the Lord had heard his prayers, and removed all fear from him. And indeed his friends work was to reflrain and qualify his fervent longings after his diffolution, and not to support him under the near views of it. The Lord was exceeding kind to him at this time; for upon Monday-morning, that day he fuffered, when he was in the midft of company, and thronged in fubfcribing papers relating to his eftate, he was fo overcome with a fingular manifestation from God, that he broke out in a rapture, and faid, " I thought to have concealed the Lord's goodnefs, but it will not do; I am now ordering my affairs, and God is fealing my charter to a better inheritance, and juft now faying to me, Son, be of good cheer, thy fins are forgiven thee." After he had retired fometime alone, when he opened the door, Mr Hutcheson, one of the ministers that attended him, faid to him, What cheer, my lord? he anfwered, " Good cheer, Sir, the Lord hath again confirmed and faid to me, from heaven, Son, be of good cheer, thy fins are forgiven thee." And he gushed out in abundance of tears of joy, fo that he retired to the windows, and wept there. Afterwards he faid in a perfect rapture to Mr Hutchefon, " I think his kinduefs overcomes me; but God is good to me, that lets not out too much of it here, for he knows I could not bear it: get my clock and let us go." But being told that the town-clock was kept back, fo that the hour was not yet come; he answered, " They are far in the wrong;" and prefently kneeled down, and prayed before all prefent, in a most fweet and heavenly manner, to the refreshment of all that were there.

When he was going out to the fcaffold, he faid, I could die like a Roman, but I chufe rather to die as a Chriftian. Come away, genlemen, he that goes firft, joors cleanlieft."—— When going down, he calied Mr James Guthrie to him, and embracing him in the moll endearing way, took his farewell of him. Mr Guthrie, at parting, addreffed the Marquis thus, " My lord, God hath been with you, he is with you, and God will be with you; and fuch is my refpect for your lordfhip, that if twere not under the fentence of death mylelf, I could cheerfully die for your lordfhip." So they parted for a fhort feafon, in two or three days to meet in a better place.

The Marquis, in his fpeech on the fcaffold, hath thefe words, "God hath laid engagements upon Scotland; we are tied by covenant to religion and reformation. Thole that were then unborn are engaged to it, and it paffeth the power of any under heaven to abfolve a man from the oath of God."

35. Mr John Wellh, minifter of the golpel at Ayr, whom Mr Rutherford (in his preface to bis furvey of Antinomianifm) calls that apoftolic, heavenly and prophetical man of God; and there tells us, that he had it from thofe that were witheffes of his life, that of every twentyfour hours he gave ufually eight to prayer, and that he fpent many nights in prayer to God, interceeding for fuffering Proteflants abroad, as well as for his mother-church. This holy man, when prifoner in the eaftle of Blacknefs, and in the view of death, (heing condemned to it for maintaining the liberties of this church, though afterwards the fentnee was changed into banishment), in his letter to a christian lady liath these words:

" I long to eat of that tree which is planted in the midfl of the paradife of God, and to drink of the pure river clear as crystal, that runs through the freet of the New Jerufalem. I long to be refreshed with the fouls of them that are under the altar, who were flain for the word of God, and the testimony that they held; and to have thefe long white robes given me, that I may walk in white raiment with these glorious faints, who have washed their garments, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Why fhould I think it a ftrange thing to be removed from this place, to that. where my hope, my joy. my crown, my elder Brother, my Head, my Father, my Comforter, and all the glorious faints are, and where the fong of Moles and the Lamb is fung joyfully; where we fhall not be compelled to fit by the rivers of Babylon, and hang up our harps on the willow-trees, but shall take them up, and fing the new hallelujah, Bleffing, honour, glory, and power, to him that fits upon the throne, and to the Lamb, for ever and ever? What is there under the old vault of the heavens, and in this old-worn earth, which is groaning under the bondage of corruption, that thould make me defire to remain here? I expect that new heaven and new earth, wherein righteousncis dwelleth, wherein I shall reft for evermore. I look to get entry to the New Jerulalem at one of these twelve gates, whereupon are written the names of the twelve tribes of Ifrael. I know that Jefus Chrift hath prepared them for me. Why may I not then, with boldness in his blood, ftep into that glory, where my Head and Lord hath gone before me? Jefus Chrift is the door and the porter; who then fhall hold me out? O thou faireft among the children of men, the delight of mankind, the light of the Gentiles, the glory of the Jews, the life of the dead, the joy of angels and faints, my foul panteth to be with thee. I refule not to die with thee, that I may live with thee; I refuse not to fuffer with thee, that I may rejoice with thee. O when shall I be filled with his love! Surely, if a man knew how precious it is, he would count all things but drofs and dung to gain it. I long for that fcaffold, or that ax, or that cord, that might be to me that laft ftep of this my wearifome journey, to go to thee, my Lord. Who am I, that he should first have called me, and then conflitute me a minifler of the glad tidings of the gospel of falvation these many years, and now laft of all to be a fufferer for his caufe and kingdom? Thefe two points, 1/t, That Chrift is the head of his church: 2dly, That fhe is free in her government from all other jurifdiction, except Chrift; yea, as free as any kingdom under heaven, not only to convocate, hold, and keep her meetings and affemblies; but alfo to judge of all her affairs amongst her members and fubjects: thefe are the caufe of our fufferings. I would be most glad to be offered up as a facrifice for fo glorious a truth; but, alas! I fear that my fins, and the abufe of fo glorious things as I have found, deprive me of 16 fair a crown: Yet my Lord doth know, if he would call me to it, and frengthen me in it, it would be to me the most glorious day, and gladeft hour I ever faw in my life; but I am in his hands, to do with me whatfoever fhall pleafe him.

This eminent faint fpent much of his time in the mount of prayer and wreftling with God; was admitted to very intimate nearnefs with him, and had many ferret things revealed to him from God. He ufed to fay, "He wondred how a Chriftian could lie in bed all night, without rifing to fpend fome of the night in prayer and rraife."

In his laft illnefs he had a great weaknefs in his knees, caufed by his continual kneeling at prayer, the fleft thereof became infentible, and hard like a fort of horn; but when in his weak, nefs he was defired to remit formewhat of his former painfulnefs, his anfwer was. "I he had his life of God, and therefore it fhould be fpent for him." During his ficknefs he was fo filled with the fentible enjoyment of God, that he was fometimes overheard in prayer to have thefe words; "Lord, hold thy hand, it is enough, thy fervant is a clay veffel, and can hold no more."

36. Mr Chriftopher Love, minifter of Laurence-Jury, in London, who was beheaded on Towerhill, Anguft 22. 1651, in time of Cronwell's ufurpation, and for fulpefted plotting againft his government; his words on the f affold wree moft pathetic and weighty.—"Although (faid he) there be but little between me and death; yet this bears up my heart, there is but little beween me and heaven. It comforted Dr Taylor the martyr, when he was going to execution, that there were but two fliles between him and his Father's house : there is a leffer way between me and my Fathers's house, but two fteps between me and glory. It is but lying down upon that block, and I shall ascend upon a throne. I am this day failing towards the ocean of eternity, through a rough paffage, to my haven of reft, through a red fea to the promifed land. Methinks I hear God fay to me, as he did to Mofes, Goup to mount Nebo, and die there; fo to me. Go up to Tower-hill, and die there. Ifaac faid of himfelf, that he was old, and yet he knew not the day of his death: but I cannot fay fo. I am young, and yet I know the day of my death; and I know the kind of my death. and the place of my death allo. I am put to fuch a kind of death, as two famous preachers of the gospel were put to before me; John the Baptift, and Paul the apofile, they were both beheaded. I read alfo in Rev. xx. 4. The faints were beheaded for the word of God. and testimony of Felus. But herein is the difadvantage which I lie under in the thoughts of many; they judge, that I fuffer not for the word of God, or for confcience, but for meddling with flate-matters. To this I fhall briefly fay, that it is an old trick of Sutan, to impute the caufe of God's peoples fufferings, to be contrivements against the state, when, in truth, it is their religion and conficence they are perfecuted for. The rulers of lirael would have put Jeremiah to death upon a civil account, though indeed it was only the truth of his prophofy that made the rulers angry with him: and yet upon a civil account, they pretend he must die, becaufe he fell away to the Chaldeans, and would have brought in foreign forces to invade them. The fame thing is laid to my charge, of which I am as innocent as Jeremiah was. So Paul, though he did but preach Jefus Chrift, yet his enemies would have had him put to death, under pretence that he was a mover of fedition, Upon a civil account, my life is pretended to be taken away; whereas it is, because I purfue my covenant, and will not profitute my principles and confcience to the ambition and lufts of men. I had rather die a covenant-keeper, than live a covenant-breaker. Beloved, I am this day making a double exchange: I am changing a pulpit for a fcaffold, and a fcaffold for a throne: and I might add a third, I am changing the prefence of this numerous multitude on Tower-hill, for the innumerable company of faints and angels in heaven, the holy hill of Zion; and I am changing a guard of foldiers for a guard of angels, which will receive me, and carry me to Abraham's bofom. This feaffold is the beft pulpit that ever I preached in: in my church-pulpit, God through his grace made me an inftrument to bring others to heaven; but in this pulpit, he will bring me to heaven." Afterwards he faid, --- " Though my blood be not the blood of nobles. yet it is Chriftian blood, minifters blood, yea more, it is allo innocent blood. I magnify the riches of God's mercy and grace towards me, that I who was born in Wales, an obfcure country, and of obscure parents, should be fingled out to honourable fuffering. For the first fourteen year of my life I never heard a fermon preach-. ed; yet in the fifteenth year of my life, it pleafed God to convert me. Bleffed be God, who not only made me a Chriftian, but alfo a minister, judging me faithful, and putting me into the ministry, which is my glory. I had rather be a preacher in a pulpit, than a prince upon a throne: I had rather be an inftrument to bring fouls to heaven, than that all nations fhould bring tribute to me .- Formerly (faid he) I have been under a fpirit of bondage: yea. fometimes I have had more fear in drawing out a tooth, than now I have for cutting off my head. When fear was upon me, death was not near; now when death is near to me, my fear is evanished --- I am comforted in this, though men kill me, they cannot damn me; though they thrust me out of the world, yet can they not flut me out of heaven. When I have fled my blood. I expect the full declaration of there miffion of fins through the blood of Jefus Chrift. I am going to my long home, and ye to your fhort homes; but I shall be at my home, before ye be at yours."-Ile prayed, that feeing " he was called to do the work which he never did, he might have the firength which he never had."

Dr Wild, in his clegy, hath thefe lines. Methinks I hear beheaded faints above Call to each other, Sirs, make room for Love:

37. Mrs Joyce Lewis, being condemned to be burnt for the Proteflant religion in queen Mary's reign, when fhe heard that the writ for her execution was come, the faid to her fiiends, "As for death, I fear it not; for when I behold the amiable countenance of Jefus Chrift my dear Saviour, the ugly face of death doth not much trouble me."

38. Bullinger of Zurich, in his ficknefs faid to his friends, "If the Lord will make any furthere use of me and my miniftry in his church, I will willingly obey him; but if he pleafe (as I much defire) to take me out of this miferable life, I shall exceedingly rejoice, that he pleafeth to take me out of this corrupt and wretched age, to go to my Saviour Chrift. For (Iaid he) if Socrates was glad when his death approached, becaufe (as he thought) he should go to Homor, Hefiod, and other learned men, whom he expected to meet with in the other world; how much more do looy, who am fire that I shall fee my Saviour Jeius Christ, as allo the faints, patriarchs, prophets, aposlles, and all the holy men who have lived from the beginning of the world? Now, when I am fure to fee them, and to partake of their joys, why should I not willingly die, to enjoy their perpetual fociety and glory?"

29. Mr Theodore Beza, a famous paftor in Geneva, when he apprehended the approach of death, revifed his will; and fo, caling himfelf of all worldly thoughts, wholly betook himfelf to expect the time of his departure, which he had much longed for. He oft ufed the apolitle's faying, "We are his workmanfhip, created in Chrift Jefus unto good works." And that of Augustine, Domine quod capifi perfice, ne in portue naufragium accidat. "Lord, perfect that which thou haft begun, that I fuffer not (hipwreck in the haven." And that faying of Bernard; Domine, Sequemur te, per te, ad te. Te, quia veritas; Per te, quia via: Ad te, quea vita. " Lord, we will follow thee, by thee, to thee. Thee, because thou art the truth; by thee, becaufe thou art the way; to thee, because thou art the life."

40. Mclandthon of Wittemberg, Luther's dear companion, faid, "That he much longed to be diffulved; and that for two reafons: 1/?, That he might enjoy the much-defired prefence and fight of Chrift, and of the heavenly church. 2dly, That he might be freed from the cruel and implacable differeds of divine:,"

41. Mr John Bradford, a minister and martyr in queen Mary's reign, when the keeper told him, that the next day he was to be burnt in Smithfield, he put off his cap, and, lifting up his eyes to heaven, faid, I thank God for it, it comes not now to me on a fudden, but as a thing waited for every day and hour; the Lord make me worthy thereof." One Creffwell offering to interpole for him, and defiring to know what his request was, he faid, " I have no request to make; if the queen give me my life, I will thank her; if the will banish me, I will thank her; if fhe burn me, I will thank her; if the will condemn me to perpetual imprisonment, I will thank her." The chancellor preffing him to do as others had done, in hopes of the queen's mercy; he faid, " My lord, I defire mercy with God's mercy; that is, without doing or faying any thing againft God and his truth. But mercy with God's wrath, God keep me from .- God's mercy (added he) I defire, and alfo would be glad of the queen's favour, to live as a fubject without clog on confcience: but otherwife the Lord's mercy is better to me than life. Life in his displeasure is worfe than death, and death with his favour is true life."

In his letter to Dr Granmer, Dr Ridly, and Dr Latiner, he hath thefe words; "Our dear brother Rogers hath broken the ice valiantly. This day, or to morrow at the uttermoft, hearty Hooper, fincere Saunders, and trufty Taylor, will end their courfe, and receive their crown. The next am I, who hourly look for the porter to open me the gates after them, to enter into the defired reft. God forgive me my unthankfulaefs for this exceeding great merey. Though I fuffer juffly, (for I have been a great hypocrite, unthankful Greather Lord pardon me, yea, he hath done it, he hath done it indeed), yet what evil hath he done ? Chrift, whom the prelates perfecute, his truth which they hate in me, hath done no evil, nor deferved death. O what am I, Lord, that thou thouldft thus magnify me? Is it thy wont, to fend for fuch a wretched hypocrite in a fiery chariot, as thou didft fend for Elias?"

In one of his mediations, after confelling of fin, faith he, "O what now may we do! defpair? no, for thou art God, and therefore good; thou art merciful, and therefore thou forgivent fin: with thee there is mercy and propitiation, and therefore thou art worfhipped. When Adam finned, thou gavelt him mercy before he defired it; and wilt thou deny us mercy, who now defire the fame; Adam excufed his fault, and acculed thee; but we accule ourfelves, and excufe thee : and fhall we be fent empty away? How often in the wildernefs didft thou fpare Ifrael, and defer thy plagues at the requeft of Mofes, when the people themfelves made no petition to thee? Now we do not only make our petitions to thee, but alfo have a Mediator, far above Mofes, to appear for us, even Jefus Chrift thine own Son; and fhall we (dear Lord) depart ashamed?-O merciful Lord, for thine own glory. fuffer not the enemy of thy Son Chrift, the Romifh Antichrift, thus wretchedly to delude and draw from thee our poor brethren, for whom thy dear Son once died, &c. Suffer him not to feduce the fimple fort with his fond opinion, that his falfe gods, his blind, mumbling, feigned religion, or his foolih foperfittion, doth give him fuch conquefts, fuch victories, and fuch triumphs over us. But, O Lord, this is thy righteous judgment, to punifu us with the tyrannical yoke of blindnefs, becaufe we have caft away from us the fweet yoke of the wholefome words of thy Son our Saviour."

In his letter to Mrs Anne Warcup, he faith, My ftaff flandeth at the doer. I look continually for the fheriff to come for me; and I bleis God I am ready for him.—Now go I to practife that which I have preached.—Now I am climbing up the hill; it will caufe me puff and blow before I come to the cliff. The hill is fleep and high, my breath is fhort, and my flrength is feeble. Pray therefore to the Lord for me, that, as I have now through his goodnet's even almoft come to the top, I may by his grace be flrengthened, not to reft till I come where I fhould be."

He was fingular for humility and felf-abafement, though a moft eminent faint. He fubferibed fome of his letters, The moft miferable, hard-hearted, unthankful finner, John Bradford. A very painted hypocrite, John Bradford. Miferrimus peceator, John Bradford. The finful John Bradford.

42. Mr Edward Deering, a little before his death, faid to his friends, "As for my death, I blefs God I feel and find fo much inward joy and comfort to my foul, that, if I were put to ny choice, whether I would die or live, I would a thousand times rather choose death than life, if it may fland with the holy will of God."

43. Mr Robert Rollock, when a-dying, praycd, Lord, 1 have hitherto feen but darkly in the glaß of thy word; now grant that I may enjoy the eternal fruition of thy countenance, which I have fo much defired and longed for. Hafle, Lord, and do not tarry; I am weary both of nights and days: come, Lord Jefus, that I may come to thee. Break theie cyc-firings, and give me others; I define to be difolved, and to be with thee; hafte, Lord Jefus, and defer no longer. Go forth, my weak life, and let a better fucced. O Lord Jefus, thurt thy haud into my body, and take my foul to thyfelf. O my fweet Lord, fet this foul of mine free, that it may enjow her hufband."

44. Galeacious Carracciolus, marquis of Vico, when a-dying, took his leave of his wife, and all his Chriftian friends, telling them, that he would lead them the way to heaven. And he cried to Jefus Chrift, that "Ashe had fought him all his life, to now he would receive and acknowledge him as his own."

45. The famous Lord Duplefis in France, when a-dying, was much concerned for the church of God in differels, praying carnelly for her deliverance. He particularly bleffed fuch of his grandchildren as were following the fludies of learning, faying, that he was affured they fhould be bleffed with the bleffings both of heaven above, and of the earth beneath." When a minilter fpoke of the fervice he had done the church by his writings, he faid, " Alas, what was there of mine in that work? Say not, that it was I, but God by me." Then, lifting up his hauds above his head, he cried three times. Mercy, mercy, mercy." Adding, " that he did it, to fhew that it was the alone mercy of God to which he had recourfe,"-And declared, that his faith was altogether founded upon the goodnefs of God in Jefus Chrift, who by the Father had been made unto him, as to all others that believe in him, wildom, righteoufnefs, fanctification, and redemption .- " Away (faid he) with all merit; I call for nothing but mercy, free me, cy." When one was blefling God for giving him fuch peace and comfort at his end, he faid, I feel, I feel, what I fpeak. As to his faith of the truths of God, he faid, " He was entirely perfuaded thereof, by the demonstration of God's holy Spirit, which was more powerful, more clear, and more certain, than all the demonftrations of Euclid." When fecretly praving, he was overheard faying in broken fentences, "I fly, I fly to heaven. Let the angels carry me to the bofom of my Saviour." Afterwards, he faid, "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and I shall fee him with thefe eyes. Hifce oculis :" which words he repeated four or five times.

46. Jerome of Prague, when he was fallened to the flake, and the executioner began to kindle the fire behind him, he bade him kindle it before his face. "For (faid he) if I had been afraid of it, I had not come to this place, having had fo many opportunities offered me to elcape it."

47. Mr Hooker, a minifter in New-England, seen one that flood weeping at his bed-fide, seen he lay a-dying, faid to him, Sir, you are sing to receive the reward of all your labours; replied, "Brother, I am going to receive prev."

48 Mr Heron, another minister there, when ing, and leaving a family of many finall chillen; his poor wife fell a-weeping, and faid. as!what will become of all these children? He efently and pleafantly replied, " Never fear; that feeds the young ravens, will not flarve the bung Herons." And indeed it came to pals acordingly. It was an ancient obfervation conerning the English martyrs under the bloody Iarian perfecution, " That none of them went nore joyfully to the flake, than those who had he greatest families to commit unto the Lord." 49. Chryfoftom, when the empress Eudoxa, an Arian), fent a threatning meffage to him, e faid, " Go tell her, Nil nist peccatum timeo, fear nothing but fin." When he was fentened to banifhment, he faid, None of these things rouble me; for I faid before within myfelf, If he empress will, let her banish me; the earth s the Lord's, and the fulnels thereof. If the will, let her faw me afunder; Ifaiah was o used: If she will, let her cast me into the fea; I will remember Jonah: If the will, let her caft me into a burning fiery furnace, or to the wild beafts; the three children and Daniel were to ferved: If the will, let her ftone me, or cut of my head; I have St Stephen and the Baptift for my companions. If the will, let her take away all my fubftance; Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked fhall I return thither again."

But I must break off, for time would fail me to enumerate the many inflances of the faith, love, patience, hope, courage, and conflancy of the faints and martyrs of Jefus, when in the view of death. Some have told the perfecutors, " That they might pull the hearts out of their bodies, but they could never pluck the truth out of their hearts." Others have faid, " That if every hair of their heads were men, they fhould all fuffer death for Chrift and his truths. — The (faid one of them) can I die but once fo Chrift?"

To conclude; let thefe examples prompt us to feck grace from God, and make it our earneft fludy to imitate and follow lich a Cloud of Witneffes, that we may die martyrs in refolution, our graces may be moft lively at the laft, our evening-fun may fhine brighteft, and we may go off the flage gloifying God, and leaving a fweet favour behind us, as thefe famous worthies, whofe praife is in the churches, have done before us.

DIRECT. VII. Let dying perfons be much in prayer and ejaculations to God.

PRAYER is the native breath of renewed fouls; it is as nearfury to their fpiritual life, as breach is to the natural life, Lam. iii, 56. "Hide not thise car at my breathing." The first thing a child of God doth, when he is newborn, is to breathe by prayer. Acts ix. II. " Behold he prayeth." And it is alfo his laft work in the world to pray, Acts vii. 59, 60, " And they floned Stephen, calling upon God, and faying, Lord Jefus, receive my fpirit. And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this fin to their charge. And when he had faid this, he fell afleep." A dving Chriftian hath many to pray for; he is to pray for the church of God, for his friends and relations, and alfo for his enemies, as Stephen did; of which I fpake before. But efpecially he muft pray for himfelf, that fin may be forgiven, and that he may have fafe conduct through the dark valley. I have heard of fome that have been found dead upon their knees: a noble posture to die in! How agreeable is it, to enter praying into the land of praife? So did Stephen, yea, fo did our bleffed Saviour himfelf; "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do. Father, in to thy hands I commend my fpinit." The laft words that holy Ufher uttered were, " Bat, Lord, in fpecial forgive my fins of omiffion." " Lord, (fail dying Beza), perfect that which thou haft begun, that I fuffer not fhip-wreck in the haven." I remember to have read of an old minister. when he found death approaching, he faid, " I defire to die like the poor thief, crying to the crucified Jefus for mercy. 1 am nothing. I have nothing, I can do nothing, except what is unworthy. My eye, and hope, and faith, is to Chrift on his crofs. I bring an unworthinefs like that of the poor dying thief unto him, and have no more to plead than he. Like the poor thief crucified with him, 1 am waiting to be received by the infinite grace of my Lord, into his kingdom." Let us in like manner die, crying to a crucified Jefus for mercy. Lord, remember me, now thou art in thy kingdom.

O dying Christian, remember the time of prayer is near an end; after death there will be no more occasion for prayer. O then beg that the fpirit of prayer may be fo poured down upon you at this time, that you may be enabled to pour out your heart before God, both for yourfelf and others. O how earnestly should you pray then, when you are taking your leave of prayer! Mind the example which your Redeemer gave you; it was before his death that he offered up prayers and fupplications with flrong crying and tears unto God. I acknowledge, fick and dying perfons are frequently out of cafe for making prayers of any great length or continuance, (which confideration fhould excite us to the greater diligence in prayer in the time of our health); and therefore they ought to be the more frequent and fervent, in fort and fuitable ejaculations and petitions to God, as their exigencies do require.

Some MEDITATIONS and EJACULATIONS, proper for fick and dying perjons, and especially for a dying believer.

O LORD, thou art the God of my life, and halt the keys of death in thy band. Thou halt meafured the length of my life, and appointed the hour of my death. The number of my months and days is with thee, and thou haft appointed the bounds over which I cannot pafs.

What is my life but a vapour, that appeareth for a litle time, and then vanifheth away? At the longeft, how flort is it and at the florongeft, how weak! "What man is it that liveth here, and final not fee death? When a few days are come, I will go the way whence I fual not return." God hath decreed it, fin hath deferved it, my frailty demonfrates it, death's harbingers proclaim it, and I muft expect it.

There is no difcharge in this war, no exemption from death's flroke. Death's meffengers are come to warn me, that my laß day and laßt hour draweth nigh. The found of their maßter's feet is behind them. This clayhoufe mußt be diffolyed, my foul diflodged, and my place here fhall know me no more; I will be quickly as water fpilt on the ground, that cannot be gathered up again.

O that I may be fuitably exercifed in my prefent weak and dying condition! When my fielh faileth, and my heart fainteth within me, O that Gód may be the firength of my heart, and portion for ever! When the keepers of the houfe do tremble, let God watch over it, and be the keeper of my foul! When the grinders do ceafe, becaufe they are few, let my foul be fed with manna from heaven. When the daughters of mulick are brought low, let my foul be difpofed for hearing the fong of Mofes and the Lamb, in the temple above. When thefe that look out at the windows are darkened, let the cycs of my foul be enlightened to behold, with the dying martyr Stephen, the heavens opened, and the glorious Jefus flanding on the right hand of God, making interceffion for me, and ready to receive me. Let my hope and defire look out at the windows, and fay, " Why is his chariot fo long accoming? and why tarry the wheels of his chariot? Make hafle, my beloved, and be thou fike a recor a young hart on the mountains of Bether."

O that I may observe the affitting hand of God in my prefent fickneis! Surely affittion cometh not out of the duft, nor doth trouble ipring cut of the ground. O Lord, rebuke me not in thine indignation, nor chaften me in thy hot difpleafure. Have mercy on me, O Lord, for I am weak; and heal me, for my bones are vexed. When thou with rebukes doft corred man for iniquity, thou makeft his beauty to confume away like a moth; furely every man is vanity. The forrows of my heart are enlarged, O bring me out of my diftreffes. Look upon my affliction and my pain, and forgive all my fin. 1 look for fympathy to my great High Prieft, who is touched with the feeling of my infirmities. My help and ftrength is in him.

O that, when I am afflicted, I may not defpile the chaltening of the Lord, nor faint when I am rebuked of him! Let me hear the rod, and him that hath appointed it. Let me kils the rod, and accept of the punifhment of mine injuly. O that in my affliction I may be helped to humble myfelf greatly before the God of my fathers, and make a true and penitent confelion of my fins!

Oh! what fhall I fay to thee, O thou Preferver of men? I will fay, Lord, be merciful to me; heal my foul, for I have finned against thee. I acknowledge, that through an evil heart of unbelief, I have many a time departed away from the living God. O how vainly and foolifhly have I lived in the world! How lavish of my precious time! How unmindful of my latterend! How carelels of my immortal foul! How little in preparation for eternity! Oh, my own heart condemns me, my fins teflify against me; and thou who knoweft them better than I do myfelf, together with their feveral aggravations. mighteft juftly condemn me too. But my comfort is, that with thee the Lord there is mercy, that thou mayeft be feared; and with thy Son there is plenteous redemption: wherefore, for his fake, be pleafed to forgive me all my by-paft tranfpreffions, whether in thought, word, or deed, those I remember, and those I have forgotten, and let them neither be charged on me to my fhame and confusion in this world, nor to my everlasting ruin in that which is to come. Lord, forgive the follies of my childhood, the extravagancies of my youth, and all the iniquities of my riper years.

Oh! I am polluted with fin, and dare not appear before God with my own filthy rags upon me. When Adam loft the garment of original righteouficts, he fied from God, and dreaded the fummons of offended juffice. Now, there is no appearing before God with acceptance, but in the garment of his Son my elder brother. Now can have boldnefs to enter into the holiest of all, but by the blood of Jefus. O enable me to difclaim whatfoever duties I have performed, or graces I have exercifed, and to rely on a crucified Chrift alone for pardon and life. Though thou flayeft me, let me die trufting in and cleaving to a crucified Jefus.

Now the powers of darknels will feek to raife tempeft to hipwreck the vefiel of my foul, when it would enter into the eternal haven; O that like the wife mariner, when the florm approacheth, I may endeavour to fecure the veffel with the anchors of faith and hope faltened on the Rock Chrift!

O that, when the time of combat with my laft enemy cometh, 1 may above all take the fhield of faith, whereby 1 may be fheltered from the fling of death, and may quench the fiery darts of the wicked one!

O that the Lord of hofts, the Captain of my falvation, may be with me in my last conflict, and may help me to put on the whole armour of God, and give me fkill to use it, that I may be able to fland in the evil day! Teach my hands to war, and my fingers to fight, that through thee I may do valiantly, and tread down all mine emenies. O that now I may fo finish my course, and fight the good fight of faith, that at death I may receive the crown of righteousnefs, which the righteous Judge will give to all that love his appearing. O that my faith may ripen into a full afforance, that I may go off the flage with joy, and an abundant entrance may be administred unto me into the kingdom of my Lord and Saviour Jefus Chrift!

O that the night of my death may fhine bright with the fiparkling flars of heavenly graces! Lord, increafe my faith! let the pilgrim's flaff of faith be never out of my hand, till 1 come to my journey's end. O let me get Chrift all in my arms, like old Simcon before his death, that I may fay, like him, " Now let thy fervant depart in peace; for mine eyes have feen thy falvation." Kindle the fire of heavenly love in my foul, and give me a taft of heavenly joys. O for one beam of thy light, to banifh away all my doubts and fears! Lord, let in fomething of heaven to my foul, before itfelf go into heaven.

Lord, take me not out of this life till thou haft fitted me for a better. May I be fitted for heaven before I leave the carth, and finish my work before I finish my course! Make me ready to meet thee at thy coming, that fo thy coming may not be the matter of my terror, but the matter of my hope, defires, and joy ful expectations. O that I may be in a longing frame for that bleffed time, when he will come, and put a period to all my fins, forrows, troubles, and temptations here; and when I shall exchange my prefent being in the body, for an everlafting being with the Lord! Lord, frengthen my faith and hope, that fo neither the fweetnefs of life, the pain of death, nor apprehenfions about my future flate, may make me unwilling to die. Is my Redeemer afcended, and gone before me to prepare a place for me; why then fhould I be flothful to go in, and poffels the good Mercy hath filled up all my life, and brought me near to the end of it; O let it not leave me now, when all the enjoyments of the world are nothing to me, and I am to take an everlafting farewell of them all. Now one finile of thy face, one tafte of thy love, would be frength and joy to my departing foul. O remember the word to thy fervant, upon which thou haft cauted me to hope; haft thou not faid, " I will never leave thee, nor for fake thee?" O fulfil this word to me in the time of my need. O let me never go off the flage with a heavy heart, or a guilty confcience; but may I depart in peace, and fleep in Jefus. Let me breathe out my departing foul to thee, and truft it in thy hand and fafe-keeping: and let my flefh reft in hope of rifing glorioufly at the laft day, through him who is the refurrection and the life, the Lord Jefus Chrift.

Love and praife is the exercise of faints for every may 1 be acquaint with it here! O fhall 1 not love and praite him, who hath forgiven all my iniquities, healed all my diffeates, redeemed my life from defruction, and crowned me with loving-kindness and tender mercies? He hath caused goodness and mercy follow mg all the days of my life; and fhall not 1 follow him with praits at the end of it?

Now the time of my departure is at hand, and the lamp of life is ready to be extinguilhed. O that I may die in faith, that whether the lamp go out of its own accord, or by fome fudden blaft, it may be lighted again by the inmortal beams of the Sun of rightcoulinch! And hough I be overtaken with the fleep of death, and lie down in the bed of the grave; yet fhall awake again in the morning of the refurreccion, that morning which fhall never be fucceeded by an evening; when I fhall behold thy face in righteoufnefs, and be eternally fatisfied with thy likenefs.

Now I am going the way of all the earth, ready to launch forth into eternity, where I fhall be fixed in my everlafting condition. Grant me, Lord, the perfect use of my fenfes, of my reafon and understanding, that I may glorify thy name, and edify my neighbours to the laft moment of my departure. And now, when I am to conflict with the king of terrors, O fupport and affilt me in my foreft extremities and last agonics. O mercifully mitigate death's pangs, and let my paifage be eafy, and my landing fafe. Stand by me in my dying moments, and fuccour my foul in thy hands from all its deadly enemies. And when I am numbered among the dead, let me alfo be numbered among the redeemed and bleffed of the Lord for ever.

O Lord, thou determineft both the bounds of man's life, and the bounds of his habitation. If a hair of my head cannot fall to the ground without thy providence, far lefs can my whole body fall into the grave without it. Thou haft told me plainly, that I muft die; but mercifully haft concealed the time, place, and manner, that I might always ftandupon my guard, every hour expect thy coming, and have my accounts in my hand, always prepared to give them up to thee my Jadge. Juftly mighteft thou have fnatched me away by a furprifing call, and fudden firoke: but in thy goodnets thou giveft me warning, and time to iet my houfe and foul in order. O gracionly finish what is now wanting of the work of thy grace in my heart and foul, and throughly accomplish and furnish me to appear in thy blefted prefence. May I now die to fin every hour, that I may not die for fin hereafter. Caufe fin wholly to die before me, that it may not rife in judgment against me after death.

O God, be thou my refuge and ftrength, and a very prefent help in trouble; and then I will not fear though the waters of affliction rage, and be troubled, and though all the mountains of earthly comforts shake with the swelling thereof. There is a river, the ftreams whereof thall make glad the city of God. O let my foul dwell befide thefe living ftreams, and drink of them for ever. In the valley of the fhadow of death, Lord, be thou prefent as the good Shepherd with thy guiding rod, and fupporting ftaff; and make my departure eafy, and full of peace and hope. Lord, carry me fafe through the dark paffage upon which I am entering, and let me find it a gate of glory, a door opened into the everlasting kingdom and joy of the Lord. Lord Jefus, receive my fpirit, and let it be prefented, justified, and spotles to the Father, that it may come to the fpirits of just men made perfect, and join with them in finging the new fong, " Worthy is the Lamb that was flain, and hath redeemed us to God by his blood, to receive power, honour, glory, and bleffing for ever. Amen."

Some Meditations for drooping Believers, when death is near.

Ravellers, who have met with many florms, troubles, and dangers in their journeys, reobse when they come near to their own counry; and thall not I, a ftranger and pilgrim, that iath been long wandering in a wildernefs, be glad when I come near my bleffed home, my dear friends, and eternal habitation?

With what cheerfulneis do fome women endare the pains of child-bearing, being furpored with the hopes of a child's being born in the world? And what is the joy of a man-child being brought into this finful and miferable world, to the joy of a fanditied foul's being brought out of it into heaven for ever? It is pleafant when the hard winter goeth over, the meffengers of the fpring, the finging of bids doth come: and fhall not I rejeice, when ficknefs and forerunners of death do tell me, that the winter of my darknefs and trouble is paft, and the fummer of my cternal light and joys is at hand?

What though death be the king of terrors? is not glorious Chrill the King of comforts? Have not 1 met already with this bloffed King; and why fhould 1 fear to meet with the other? Olet my fircugth and fupport at this time come from Chrift, my covenanted Redeemer.

O Lord, deliver my foul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling! O bring me out of the miry clay, fet my feet upon a rock, and eftablifh my goings, and put a new foug in my mouth, even praifes to our God!

If Jacob went down to cheer fully into Egypt, when God hadfaid unto him, "Fear not to go down; for I will go down with thee, and I will bring thee up again;" why fhould a believer fear to go down to the grave, when God hath undertaken to go down with him thither, and to bring him up again? His body may be turned into duft, but God is in covenant with his duft, and will not fuffer the leaft particle of it to be loft.

Are not the rightcous taken away from the evil to come? Do they not reft in their beds, and enter into peace? Why then fhould 1 grudge at dying? When the Lord is to bring heavy wrath and judgments upon a land, he frequently houfeth many of his people in heaven before-hand: and how happy are thefe that win the houfe before the fweeping hallfhower doth fall. A believer needeth not to look for any fettled fair weather in this world: it will be nothing but one fhower up, and another down, till he be houfed in heaven. O why then fhould 1 linger in this wildernefs!

How highly dignified is the believer, in being made an heir of God, and a joint heir with his owh Son Jcfus Chriftl fo that Chrift and the believer do, as it were, divide heaven betwist them; they have the fame Father, dwell in the fame house, fit at the fame table, reign on the fame throne, and partske of the fame glory. O what honour is this, which is pat upon a worm of the earth! It is indeed but little that the yeang heir enjoys of the inheritance while in this world; no more than will ferve to bear his charges to heaven, where he shall get all, forget his prefen ftraits, and remember his poverty no more. O why then fhould not I, like a young heir, be looking and longing for the expiring of my minority, when I shall arrive at ripe age, and enter upon the full poffcffion of the inheritance! O that I could fend out faith and hope, these two faithful spics, to furvey the promited land, or at least to visit the borders of my elder brother's country! what an encouraging report would they bring back! My gorious Lord is gone, he hath left the earth, and entered into his glory; my brethren and friends have many of them arrived there allo. How great is the difference betwixt my flate and theirs! I am groaning out my complaints, but they are finging God's praife: I am in darknefs, and cannot fee God; but they are in light, and fee him face to face. O my Lord, fhall I flay behind, when they are gone? Should I be fatiffied to wander in the wildernefs, far diffant from my Father and my God, when they are triumphing above, dividing the fpoil? No, I will look flill after them with a fledfaft eye, and cry, O Lord, how long? I will wait now in hope, yea, rejoice in the forethoughts of the day. when my minority fhall be expired, my pilgrimage finished, my banishment over, that I may get home to my country and friends above.

What though my days be dark and gloomy now, my winter be tharp and florm;? why, it is but thort, and near over; the eternal former approacheth: the long day, the high fun, and the fair garden of my well-beloved, above the fe vifible leavens, will quickly make amends for all. Let me get up by faith, and wilt the new land, view the fair city, and behold the white throne, and the Lamb that fits thereon, that I may rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

Shall many of the heirs of wrath go finging and rejoicing to hell; and will an heir of God go drooping and forrowing to heaven? Oh, let me not, by my behaviour on a death-bed, bring up a bad report upon Chrift's good way, and the land which he hath purchafed.

Have I fuch great and precious promifes left me, and (hall I not live and feed upon them in the time of my need? Shall I not truft the word of him that is faithful and true ? Hath he not faid to me, "When thou paffeft through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers they thall not overflow thee: when thou walkeft through the fire, thou fhalt not be burnt; neither fhall the flame kindle upon thee!" When the difciples were fore toffed with winds and waves, thou cameft to them in the fourth watch of the night, walking on the waters; and when their fears were increased, thou faidst, " It is I, be not a afraid." Thou rebukedft the winds, and there prefently followed a great calm. My Redeemer's compassions continue; his bowels are not fhut up this day, more than in the days of his flefh. " Jefus Chrift is the fame to-day, yefterday, and for ever."

Ah! I have too little improven my acquaintance with precious Chrift in the day of my life! How ready am I to mifken and miftake

tim, when he changeth his difpositions towar's ane! Though I have been long, at Chrift's fchool, what finall proficiency have I made in the work and myttery of faith ? How little have I learned to believe in the dark, and to drop an anchor at midnight upon the Rock of ages, and to look out for the dawning of the day?

Surely the day fhall break, and the fhadows five away: my King courth, my well-beloved is on liss way; he hath feat his letter before him to warn me of it, faying, "Behold I come quickly." O that like the cold and wearied night-watch, I may be looking out for the apof the morning-flar, and the breaking of the eaftern fky; and may be fill crying, "Even fo, come Lord Jefus, come quickly."

Thou haft faid, " Light is fown for the rightcous, and gladness for the upright in heart." Surely God's feed thall not lie always beneath the clods; the time is at hand, when it shall fpring; and joyful will the corp be at laft. O that, like David in affliction, I would encourage myfelf in the Lord my God, and fay, "The Lord liveth, bleffed be my rock!" why fhould I droop, while my Lord liveth, and my rock flandeth? My hopes may die, my comforts may die, my gifts die, my riches die, my relations die, and my body die; but good news, " The Lord liveth, bleffed be my rock !" The difciples had a melancholy time while Chrift was dead, and lying in the grave; but that fad time is over, he is now rifen, and will die no more. Nay, he hath proclaimed it for my comfort, faying, "Fear not, I am the first and the last. I am he that liveth, and was dead; and behold, I am alive for evermore, amen; and have the keys of heil and death."

When my foul is caft down within me, let me remember God from the land of Jordan, and the hill Mizar; that I may reafon myfelf out of all my fears and difcouragements; for yet, " the Lord will command his lovingkindneis in the day-time, and in the night his fong thall be with me, and my prayer to the God of my life."

<sup>4</sup> Why then art thou caft down, O my foul, and why art thou difquieted within me? hope thou in God, for I shall yet praife him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.<sup>96</sup>

Now, when death is at hand, let not my Sa-. viour be far off. He who remembered the dying thief, and fpoke comfortably to him. let him now remember me when he is feated in his kingdom, and fay to my foul, " This day thou . fhalt be with me in paradife." When it is abfent from the body, let it be prefent with the Lord. Let the angels now be ready to do their office, to carry my departing foul into Abraham's bofom. Let me now depart, that I may be with Chrift; yea, be for ever with the Lord, that I may fee his face. Let me dwell there, where they have no night, need no candle, nor light of the fun for ever; where God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither forrow nor crying.

Father, into thy hands I commit my fpirit. By the hands of him who hath redeemed it, let .it be prefented to thee without fpot or wrinkle, or any fuch thing.

An addition of Some further Meditations proper for any fick perfon in the view of death.

THE Lord is pleafed fometimes to caft men down on beds of fickuefs, and draw the curtain betwist the world and them, that they may take a view of their by-paft life, and future flate. Now is it time for me to look into my foul, and examine my flate. Oh, how many do mit's falvation, when they think themfelves fare of it! They miltake a form of godlinefs for the power of it, and thereby deceive themfelves, thinking themfelves formething when they are mething.

Some come the length as to fhed tears, as Effaudid; profetis fair, yea, fight for the Lord, as Saul and Jehu did; with for the end of the righteous, as Balaam did; defire God's people to pray for them, as Pharach and Simon Magus did; wakk foltly, and monrn for fear of judgments, as Ahab did; joy in golpel-ordinances, and reform in many things, as Herod did; prophefy and tipeak well of Chrift, as Gaiaphas and Judas did; be convinced and tremble at hearing a fermon, as Felix did; yea, tafte the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, as apoltates have done: and yet for all thefe attainments, remain firangers to the faving work of the Spinit on the heart.

O that the confideration of hypocrites attainments might alarm me out of my fecurity, and make me reflefs till I find the diffinguifning marks of true grace, and fincere faith in my fool! O that I could fay, there is a principle in 258 me, that will not fuffer me to build on any foundation in the world but Chrift and his rightcouincifs; that makes me concent with Chrift, with all his offices, with all his precepts, and with his very crofs for his fake! Doth the love of Chrift keep me back from fin, more than,the law, or fear of hell? Have I aimed at God's honour in all my actions, civil, natural, and religious? Am I humbled, and denied to mine own will, wit, credit, cafe, and honour, and to all the cojoyments of the world? Am I acquaint the cojoyments of the world? Am I acquaint with the throne of grace, and defin ous to kéep up a conftant correspondence with it? O let me not refit till I perceive thefe things in my foul which accompany falvation.

O how comfortable would it-be to me now, if I could fay with good Hezckiah in his ficknecfs, "Remember now, O Lord, how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy fight?" O that I could pray, and fay, with Jelus my Saviour, when in the view of death, "Father, I have glorified thee on the earth; I have finithed the work which thou gaveft me to do: and now,OF ather, glorify thou me with thine own feif, with the glory which thou hadft ordined for me before the would was!"

Alas, Lord, I muft confels, my iniquities have gone up above mine head; my mifpent time, my mifuitfaluefs under the means of grace, and vaterings of ordinances, may caufe me to cry out, Wo is me for the leannefs of my foul, and barrennefs of my heart! I have been an empty vine, bringing forth fruit only to myfelf. I have hid my Lord's money, and therefore deferve the doom of the wicked and flothful fervant. But my relief is in my Surety's righteoufnefs. Bleffed be the Lord, who hath fent his Son to blefs those who by nature lie under the curfe. and to intercede for those that cannot speak for themfelves. O how fuitable is he to my foul's cafe! I have indeed a multitude of fins, but he hath a multitude of tender mercies; I have deep and heinous guilt, but he hath a deep fountain for walhing it out: I am fold under fin, but he hath a ranfom to buy me back again; my fore is broad, but his plaister is answerable; my wound is great, but his balm is excellent. Surely it is my wildom to go to Chrift with all my grievances, and always to lie and cry at my Redeemer's door.

O that now, when the fun of my life is fetting, the bleffed Sun of righteoulnels may arife and fhine upon my foul! Goodness and mercy hath followed me while I lived: O that Chrift and glory may meet me when I die! I must acknowledge thy goodnefs; were this the laft hour I had to live, and this the laft word I had to fpeak in the world, I behoved to fay, Lord, thou haft been a merciful and gracious God to me; my whole life hath been a continued track of mercy; Lord, crown the end of it with mercy alfo -Surely the fea is not fo full of water. nor the fun to full of light, as thou art full of grace and mercy. O let not my fins ftop the the current of thy tender mercies at this time. Lord, drown all my fins in the fea of Chrift's blood, that my foul may not be funk by them 950 in the ocean of divine wrath. Lord Jefus, embrace my perifhing foul in thy arms: let thy crofs be my fecurity, and thy wounds my refuge.

O thou that heareft the young ravens which ery, be not filent to me at this time, left if thou be filent to me, I be like them to go down to the pit.

Lord, I am now called to the work I never did; give me the flrength I never had. Surely it is an important matter to die, and my etcrnal flate dependeth upon dying aright. What I do amifs in my life one day, I may amend it in the next: but not fo here, I can die but once: if I mar this piece of work, I cannot come back to mend it again; if I forget any thing neceffary for my journy, I cannot return to fetch it. Oh, a wrong flep in going out of this life is highly dangerous. In one relpect it is like the fin againft the Holy Ghoft, and can never be forgiven: for I cannot come back to mourn for it. Of all the bufinefs I ever undertook, I have moft need to take care of my dying.

Oh, is death coming to take dawn this earthly tabernacle, and to put the one half of me in the dark grave, and the other half of me in heaven or in hill; and thall I give fleep to mine eyes, or flumber to mine eye-lids, till I find myfelf in that cafe, that I dare lock death in the face, and dare hazard my foul upon eternity?

O to have right imprefions of the certainty of death, and the uncertainty of life? What is my life but a vapour, a fand glafs of fixty or feventy years, which will foon run out? Eterniv and a judgment-feat are now hard upon ne. The blaft of the laft trumpet is at hand. There will fhortly be a proclamation by one landing in the clouds that time shall be no more. -The world looks big in mens eyes in time of health; but when the eye-firings break, the breath turns cold, and the imprifoned foul looks put at the windows of the clay houfe, ready to cap out into eternity, can the world give any atisfaction? No, no; a lamp full of oil will be valued then more than a houle full of gold. The fineft things on earth will then appear nothing but a piece of painted duft, and gilded clay. How gladly would the greateft worldling. then, give all his gold and filver, riches and honours, for one fight of Chrift's fair face, one mile of his countenance? O wherefore (hould men in health neglect the market of grace, and flight the pearl of great price ? Why fhould they fpend their money for that which is not bread, and their labour for that which fatisfieth mot?

Lord, fave me from the hypocrite's cafe at death, whole candle of profellion and of hope ourns and blazes fair all the way with him, but goeth out in the dark trance of death; and there he flumbles and falls, and fhall rife no more. O that my profellion and hope may be of God's creating! If God light my candle, then fhall my feet be enlightened through the dark valley, and death nor hell fhall not be able to put it out.

Lord, fubdue fin in me, and let it be continually dying now, that it may certainly be dead before me. God forbid that my fins fhould furvive me!

O that, when the ftroke of death diffolves my body, my foul may efcape as a bird out of the fnare of the fowler, and may afcend to the heavenly regions to enjoy God himfelf.

Olet me look through the grates of mortality, and long for the jailor's coming to fet me at liberty. God help me to overcome the love of life, and fears of death. If my neighbour lend me any thing, I pay it again with thanks; and fhall 1 not reflore my life to God with thanks; who hath been pleafed to lend me it fo long? Arife, and let me depart, for this is not my refl: heaven is my home, Lord, bring me to it; the joys of it are too great to enter into me, O make me fit to enter into them.

While I lie on a fick-bed. Lord, help me to patience in my ficknefs without murmuring.

How willingly would the damned in hell endure my pains a thouland years, if they had my hopes of being faved at laft! Bleffed be God, that my ficknefs is not hell, that my pains are not eternal.

O that I may lock on my affiction as coming from the hand of him that is the Lord of bealth and of fickneds, of life and of death, who killeth and maketh alive, bringeth down to the grave, and raifeth up again? That foverign and wile Lord hath determined the time when my affiction thall end, as well as the time when it began. Thirty-right years were appointed the fick man at Bethefda pool; cighteen years the woman that Satan kept bound; twelve years to the wom m with the bloody iffue; tendays tribulation to thole of Smyrna; three days pleague to

David. The number of the godly man's tears is registered in God's book; yea, the hairs of his head are numbered

When David got his choice of his own chaftifement, he chose rather to be corrected by the hand of God, than by any other means, faying, " Let me fall into the hands of the Lord, for his mercies are great." I was dumb, and opened not my mouth, because thou didst it. Glory to God, that I am fallen into his merciful hand. Hath God appointed, that man's coming into the world shall be attended with pain and crying, and his going out of it with grief and trouble; and fhall I quarrel at it? No, I defire humbly to underly the correction of mine iniquitiy, and to bear the indignation of the Lord, because I have finned against him. O that the ficknefs of my body may be a means of health to my foul! May I be chaftned of the Lord, fo that I may not be condemned with the world!

It is good for the believer that he is afflicted, why? it fprings from divine love, and it works for his foul's good. Affliction is a feal of his adoption, and no fign of reprobation. The pureft gold is ofteft tried, the fweeteff grape is hardeft perfled, and the trueft Chriftian is heavieft croffed. But O how foon will the Chriftian forget all his groans when he comes to heaven? As foon as Stephen faw Chrift, though at a diflance, he forgot all his wounds and bruifes; he minded no more the terror of the flones about his ears, but fiveetly yielded his fool into his Redeemer's hands.

I read of many in the gospel, that by ficknes-

fcs and difeales were driven unto Chrift, who, if they had enjoyed health and profperity, would have neglected, like many others, to come to him. O bleffed is that crofs, that draweth a finner to Chrift. to lay open his own mifery, and implore Chrift's mercy. And bleffed be that Chrift, who never refufeth the finner that cometh to him, though driven by affliction and mifery. To whom fhall fuch a diffreffed creature as I go, but to him who is the only phylician, that can both cure my foul from fin, and my body from ficknets?

Lord, thou never deniedft thy mercy to any finner that afked it with a pepitent heart. There were many forts of fick finners that came to thee in the days of my flefh; the blind, the deaf, the lame, the lepers; thefe that were fick of palfies, dropfies, fevers, fluxes, and were poffeffed with devils: and yet never one of them came crying for mercy, that went away without his errand, were his fin never fo great, his difease never fo grievous. Nay, fo merciful is my Redeemer, that he offered and gave his mercy to many that never afked it, being moved with the bowels of his own compaffion, and the fight of their mifery; fo dealt he with the woman of Samaria, the widow of Nain, and the man that lay thirty-eight years at the pool of Betheida. Oh, if he gave his mercy fo willingly to them that did not afk it, and was found of them that fought him not, will he deny mercy to my foul that is crying for it?

There is but a flep betwixt me and death; Lord, feal my pardon to me, before I go hence, and be no more. O draw nigh to me, and fave me: for my foul is full of trouble, and my life draweth nigh unto the grave. Thy loving-kindnefs is better than life; O make me fure of that, and I will willingly part with this mortal life.

O thou who willeft not that any fhould perifh, but that all fhould come to repentance: be pleafed to make use of the challifement of my body, as a medicine to cure my foul, and bring me to a true and fincere repentance. One day is with thee as a thousand years; O work in me in this, which may be my laft day, whatfoever thou feeft wanting in me. Enable me to prefent unto thee the facrifice of a broken and contrite heart, which thou haft promifed not to defpife. Give a true and lively faith in the the bleffed Jefus, who is the propitiation for our fins! He was wounded for our transgreffions, he was bruifed for our iniquities, the chaftifement of our peace was upon him; O heal me by his ftripes. Let the cry of his blood drown the clamour of my fins. I am indeed a child of wrath, but Chrift is the Son of thy love; O pity me for his fake, and let my foul find fanctuary in his wounds.

O Lord, the waters of affiftion are come in even unto my foul; O let the Spirit of God move on thele waters, that, like the pool of Bethefda, they may cure whatever fpiritual difeafes thou feelt in me. O Lord, confider my affiftion, accept my tears, affuage my pain, increafe my patience, and finith my troubles. Correct me with the chaftifement of a Father, and not with the wounds of an enemy; and and though thou take not off thy rod, Lord, take away thine anger.

Lord, the prince of this world cometh, O let him have nothing in mc; but, as he accufeth, do thou abfolve. I have nothing to fay for myfelf, but be thou my advocate, Lord; and do thou answer for me. I am clothed with filthy garments, and Satan flands at my right hand to refift me: O Lord, rebuke him, and pluck me as a brand out of the fire. Caufe mine iniquities to pass from me, and clothe me with the righteoufnels of thy dear Son. I know, O Lord, that no unclean thing can enter into thy kingdom, and thou feeft I am nothing but pollution, yea, my very righteousness is filthy rags: O wash me, and make me white in the blood of the Lamb, that I may be fit to fland before thy throne. O take me from the tents of Kedar, to the manfions of light and purity. When my earthly house of this tabernacle is diffolved, O let me have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. O bring my foul out of prifon, that I may eternally give thanks unto thy name. Amen.

CHAP. VIII.

Containing Directions to the friends and neighbours of the fick who are themfelves in health for the time.

W HEN the Lord fends fickness and affliction to our neighbours, we ought not to be idle and unconcerned (prefators of his difpenfations; but we (hould hearken to the voice of God's rod upon others, and coafider what it is that the Lord is calling for at our hands. These following directions may be useful to those that are in health.

DIRECT I. Be very thankful to God for the great mercy of health and firength, and improve it to his glory.

C URELY an healthful perfon hath fill great D'caufe to be a thankful perfon. Health is a mercy that doth feafon and fweeten every other temporal mercy; without it the greateft wealth and honours, nay, a king's crown, can give no fatisfaction. It is far more eligible to be a healthy beggar than a fickly king. What comfort could it afford us, under tofling ficknefs, and tortering pains, to have the greateft heaps of money to look to, or thousands coming to pay us homage; alas, for our upthankfulnefs to him who is the God of our health! How little do we prize his goodnefs, in continuing with us fuch a long tract of health and ftrength, together with the use of our reason and fenfes, when many others are deprived of them. Surely God were rightcous, fhould he teach us to value the worth of thefe mercies by the want of them.

Let us confider how many milerable perfons there are in the world, and who it is that maketh us to differ from them; how many difeafed, diffracted, deformed, lame, blind, deaf, and dumb people, there are; and how cafy it had been for God to have put us in their condition, and them in ours. The difference is not owing to any thing in us : their fins are not greater than ours. Had we a due fense of our fins and ill-defervings, we would acknowledge ourfelves unworthy of the least of all God's mercies; we would reckon every common mercy a special bleffing, and an unmerited favour to us .- Again, let us take a view of the fainting ficknefs, racking pains, and reftlefs nights of others. Let us look upon our fick friends fweating and burning under fevers; let us hear them groaningand moning under ftrong pain. "Their foul abhors all manner of meat, and they draw near unto the gates of death." Sometimes we fee them panting and fainting, and not able to fpeak a word to us. And what is the language of all this to us? Is it not, that we should thankfully adore our gracious God, and blefs and magnify him, for his diftinguishing goodness to us? O how much are we bound to the Lord, that it is not fo with us as with others! while wearifome nights are appointed to them, and and their bones are full of toffing; all the comforts of this life are taftelefs to them, their friends are weeping about them, but cannot help them: "It is far otherwife with me, (may you fay), my mercies and relations are comfortable and helpful to me, I relifh my food, my bed gives me eafe, my fleep is refreshing: I have freedom to read and pray, meditate and attend the public ordinances. Praife the Lord, O my foul; and all that is within me, blefs his holy name. Forget not this benefit of health, that is the chief of all my outward bleffings, Some would part with all their worldly wealth, to have fo much bodily health as I have. Long have I undervalued and abufed this choice mercy of health: O that I could mourn for my negleft, and refolve in God's ftrength to improve my remaining health, for the praife and fervice of that merciful God who is the author and preferver of it! Let me fpend and be fpent for God, that gives me all my health and ftrength for his glory. Let me abhor the ingratitude of those who employ the health which God giveth, in the fervice of his encmies: and make a facrifice of it to the devil. the world, and the fiefh. O what prodigious folly are these guilty of, who, for fatisfying their fensual appetite, do often deprive themfelves of health, which is in itfelf a thousand times of more value than all their brutish pleafares! God help me to prize this mercy, that can never be prized enough."

DIRECT. II. Make conficence of visiting your fick friends and neighbours, believing that it is your duty and interest fo to do.

Vifiting of the fick is not only the duty of the miniflers of Chrift, but likewife of all the members of Chrift: for we are all enjoined to remember them that are in adverfity, and to fympathize with the afflicted, as being ourfelves allo in the body. "To him that is afflicted, pity fhould be flewn by his friends," faith Job. And our Loid gives it as a character of thole-whom he will own and acquit at the great day, Matth. xxv. 36. "I was fick, and ye vifited me." This is the way to be likehim, who is the Father of mercies, and whofe foul was grieved for the miferies of Ifrael, Judg. x. 16. We read how tenderly David fynpathized with his enemies when they were fick, Pfal. xxxv. 13, 14, and much more ought we to vifit and fympathize with our fick friends. To vifit the profperous and healthy, is an act of courtefy and civility; but to vifit the afflicted and fickly, is an act of charity and Chriftianity.

And as it is your duty, fo it is your interest and advantage to visit the fick. The wife man tells you, Ecclef. vii. 2. " It is better to go to the house of mourning, than to the house of feafling." King Joafh went to fee Elifha in his ficknefs, and wept over him; and he loft nothing by fo doing, 2 Kings xiii. 14. for he obtained thereby three famous victories over the Syrians. Though it be not warrantable to enquire at the dead, Dcut. xviii. 11. yet we may learn many wholefome leffons from the dying, and even though they be speechles. As for instance, we may hereby be instructed how to prize health, mind our own frailty, and provide for the time of ficknefs. When we behold their ftrength languifhing, their tongues faultering, their eyes failing, their countenance pale; we should think with ourfelves, "This will be my cafe ere long: the next arrow that death fhoots, may be levelled at me: how much is it my concern to prepare for it!" Alfo we may think, what a bitter thing fin is, that is the caufe of all thefe pains and diffreffes, and how mad they are who love fin and take pleafure in it .- We may fee likewife the great folly of courting and trufting the world, which leaves the fick and dying man in the time of the greateft extremity .- And we may observe, how happy the man is, that hath an interest in Christ, the peace of a good confcience, and a well-grounded hope of heaven: to yield support and confidence to him under his ftrugglings with fickness and death. When we hear the dying man's complaints of his fins, and his lamenting his neglect of duty, and mifpending of precious time, we may learn repentance and reformation. When we observe their profeffions of love to Chrift, and their hope in him to the laft, it doth contribute to the quickening and ftrengthening of our faith. A right fight of dying perfons, is a good mean to increase the Spirit of grace and supplication in us. We may fitly allude here to the answer which Elijah gave to Elifha, when he fought a double portion of his Spirit, 2 Kings ii. 10. " If thou feelt me when I am taken from thee, it shall be fo unto thee." A double portion of the Spirit shall be the allowance of these who make confcience of this duty.

DIRECT. III. Let the friends of the fick, and thele who visit them, deal faithfully with them about their fouls.

Confider, this may be the laft opportunity you may have of doing any thing for your friend's foul. If he die, he is fixed in his everlafting flate, fo that all advices and counfels then will be fruitlefs. It is now, or never, you mußt exert yourfelf for your friend's advantage; there is no knowledge nor wilfom in the grave, to which he is going, "God's loving-kindnefs cannot be declared in the grave, nor his faithfulnefs in deftruction," Pfal.Lxxxviii. 11. Now is the proper time for doing good to your neighbour's foul. When affliction opens the ear to difcipline, be careful to drop in wholefome influctions into it; and when the heart is made tender by ficknefs, it is a fit feafon for good counfel to make imprefitors on it. Let the opportunity then be improven with faithfulnefs and prudence. And, in order thereto, obferve the following advices

1. Labour to know the fick man's fpiritual condition, that your applications may be fuitable thereunto. The knowledge of the difeafe is previoully requifite unto the cure: as the miftake of a phyfician about a man's difeafe may be as dangerous as the difeafe itfelf; fo here it is highly dangerous to miftake the cafe of the fick man's foul; for then lenitives may be applied, when corrofives are needful; promifes may be adminifired, when threatnings are more proper.

II. Beware of flattering the fick with vain hopes of life, when he is more likely to die; left he be thereby tempted to delay of flacken his preparation for another world. It is fit that plainnefs be ufed with refpect to his danger, that he may be quickened to his work.

III. The fick performs to be admonifhed and told, that fickness comes not by chance, nor by fecond caufes merely; but by the wife direction nd special providence of God: that sometimes God fmites, out of difpleafure for fin, and for he finner's correction and amendment; and ometimes for the trial and exercise of his peobles graces: that the fharpeft afflictions fhall work together for good to them that love God, fund are rightly exercifed under God's hand: that it is a great mercy to a finner, when God by his rod gives him warning and fpace to repent, and flee to the blood of fprinkling, and to ry to God for pardon; and doth not fnatch him at of the world by a fudden death. Upon which account the voice of the rod fhould be carefully hearkened to, and thankfully obeyed. IV. If the fick perfon be ignorant, he is to be catechifed and inftructed in the principles of religion, efpecially concerning his faith and repentance, and his uptaking of the covenant of grace, and the method of pardon and falvation. through the righteoufnels of Chrift apprehended by faith. And it may be proper to demand his affent to fome of the fundamental truths of Christianity, or his answer to fuch questions as thefe: 16. Do you believe in God the Father. Son, and Holy Ghoft, one God in three perfons, the maker and governour of the world? 2dly, Do you believe that Jefus Chrift, who affumed our nature, obeyed the law, died on the crofs, rofe from the dead, and ascended to heaven, is the eternal Son of God, and the only Saviour of finners? 3dly, Are you fenfible that you are a loft finner by Adam's fall, and, befides that, guilty of innumerable actual fins; and that you have broken God's holy commandments in thoughts, words, and deeds, and for fo doing do deferve God's wrath both in this life and that which is to come? 4thly, Are you truly grieved and forry for breaking God's law, ne glecting his worfhip, milpending your time, and purfuing the vanities of the world? And would you do as you have done, or live otherwife, i you were to begin your life again? sthly, How do you think to get your guilt removed, your fins pardoned, and your peace made up with God? Are you defirous from your heart to be reconciled to God through Jefus Chrift, the bleffed Peace-maker? 6thly, Do you heartily approve of the gospel-method of reconciliation. by the righteoufnels and facrifiee offered up by the Lord Jefus Chrift, as your forety, in your name and flead? And is your foul defirous te chuse and accept of Christ for your Mediator and Saviour, in all his offices, of Prophet, Prieft, and King? 7thly, Do you renounce all confidence in any other, all dependence on your own duties and righteoulnels, and put your whole truft and confidence in Chrift, and the merits of his blood, faying, " Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none in earth that I defire befides thee." Do you believe that there is no falvation in any other; and that there is no name under heaven whereby you can be faved, but Jefus Chrift only? 8thly, Do we defire to be wholly renewed and fanctified by virtue of Chrift's blood, and to fhew forth the reality of your faith by good works and a holy life for the time you have to live in the world? And, as an evidence thereof, are you willing to repre what you have taken wrongfully from iy, and to forgive all wrongs done to you by y, and to caft out all malice or hatred you ive borne to any, and alk forgivenels of any u have injured? gth/y. Do you believe that arift is coming at the laft day to judge all the orld, both the quick and the dead, whom he all then raife from the grave, and that your ead body fhall rife with the reft? to th/y. Do u believe the immortality of the foul, and i living in a feparate flate after death, and at the fouls of believers do immediately pafs to glory, where they fhall be ever with the ord?

V. In dealing with the fick you are to fepaate betwixt the precious and the vile, and nake a difference betwixt the converted and ne unconverted. And feeing different applicaons are requifite, you are, according to your nowledge, to fludy to fuit your counfels, adnonitions, and prayers, to their flate and conition; not using the fame words to the ungodly s you use to the godly, left you flatter them with ill-grounded hopes that their flate is fafe, while they are ftrangers to a work of regeneration. That great truth is to be declared to Il, that, "unlefs, a man be born again, he cannot fee the kingdom of God." O it is dangerous to fpeak peace, where God fpeaks war. VI. If the fick perfon feem to be fecure, or have not a due fenfe of his fins: endeavours must be used to convince him of the guilt, polution, and danger of them, in order to his numiliation. Prefumptuous finners are not te be flattered, left we betray their fouls into eternal ruin, and fo their blood be required at our hand. No fond love, no flavifh fear, muft keep us from telling them the hazard of their profent flate. The fecure confeience muft be awakened to fee the demerit of fin, and the terriblenefs of the juffice of a fin-revenging God, before whom no Chriftlefs impenitent finner can fland: this is neceffary in order to a finner's difcovering his loft cafe in himfelf, and his fleeing to Chrift for refuge. It is God's method, firft to caft down the foul before he lift it up; to plow the heart by conviction, before he caft in the feed of confolation.

VII. If the fick perfon hath fludied to walk uprightly, but is at prefent difcouraged upon account of the fharpness of the rod. Satan's temptations, the guilt of fin, fear of death, or the like; then fuitable counfels, refolutions, and comforts, are to be tendered, in order to his fettlement and fupport. Particularly he may be told, that fharp rods are no-wife inconfiftent with divine love; nay, frequently, they are a fign of it: for as ftanding waters turn corrupt, becaufe they have no current; and thefe who are not poured from veilel to veilel, their tafte remains and their fcent is not changed: therefore, God, in order to take away the fcent of the corrupt nature from us, is pleafed to change us from state to state, by crosses and sickness, to falvation. And as Noah's ark, the higher it was toffed with the flood, the nearer it mounted towards heaven; fo the fanctified foul, the more it is exercifed with affliction, the nearer it is ifted towards God. Again, it is proper to fet pefore him the freenels and fulnefs of God's grace, the fufficiency of righteoufnets in Chrift. and his rich and gracious offers in the goipel, by which we are affured, that all who repeat and believe with all their heart in God's mercy through Chrift. renouncing their own rightcoufnefs, fhall not posifh in their fins, but have life and falvation in him; and that believers in Chrift are affured of victory over Satan, death, and all their enemies, becaufe Chrift their head hath by his crofs conquered the devil, unftinged death, triumphed over the grave, and obtained victory for all his members; fo that neither life nor death, principalities nor powers, shall be able to feparate them from God's love in Chrift.

VIII. If a fick man be fo tempted and troubled in conficience, that he is in hazard of difpairing of God's mercy; it is neceffary to inform him of the greatness and infiniteness of God's mercy; that the most notorious finners have been pardoned and faved by it, and it is fill offered in the gospel to the vileft of finners. Though God forelaw all the fins which the world would commit, yet thefe did not hinder him from loving the world fo, that he gave his only begotten Son to death, to fave as many as would believe and repent: fo that the firs of one man can never hinder God from loving his foul, and forgiving his fins, when he fincerely defires to repent and believe. The cry of the most grievous fins that are recorded (fuch as thefe of Sodom) could never reach higher than unto heaven, Gen. xix. 13. But David affures us, Pfal. cviii. 4 that the mercy of God is great, and reaches higher than the heavens, to that is overtoppeth the greatest of all our fins. If the mercy of God be greater than all his works, it must furely be greater than all our fins .- Again, lay before him the infinite virtue of Chrift's blood : why? it is not the blood of a mere man, but the blood of God, Acts xx. 28. And are there any fins fo great, or guilt fo heinous, but the blood of God can wash away? This was godly Cranmer's fupport that day he fuffered martyrdom, when his fin of renouncing the Protestant doctrine flared him in the face: "Surely (faid he) God was made flefh, and fhed his blood, not for leffer fins only, but for greater fins alfo." He was fadly difcouraged, and went abundantly, till he eyed this meritorious blood; and then he took heart and died with courage. O this price was fo great, that it could have merited pardon for the fins of all the devils in hell, as well as of all the men on earth, though every one of them had been red as crimion. Yea, the leaft drop of this blood is of more merit to procure the mercy of God for our falvation, than all our fins can be of force to provoke the wrath of God for our damnation; why, the greatest of our fins are but the fins of a man, but the leaft drop of Chrift's blood is the blood of God.

Moreover, Let him be put in mind of the willingnets and readinets of our Redeemer to receive all finners that came to him in the days of his flefth, though driven to him by ficknets and affliction: fo that he never put any of them away without their creand, that came crying for mercy. Nay, he many times fought out objects for his mercy, that were not thinking of coming to him, as finewed before. Obferve the gentlenefs of our Lord's carriage to Jadas himfelf, in calling him Friend, after this moft treacherous dealing, Matth. xxvi. 50. "Friend, (faid he), wherefore art thou come?" Had wretched Judas Iaid hold on the word Friend, out of the mouth of Chrift, as Benhadad did the word Brother from the mouth of Ahab; doubtlefs Judas thould have found the God of Ifrael more merciful than Benhadad found the king of Ifrael.

Laftly, Let him confider, that to difpair of God's mercy, calls the preateft diffonour upon the divine Majsfly, and is a fin more behaves than all the fins which we have before committed: why, it doth clarge the great God as guilty of perjury, who hat holemby twern, that he defires not the death of a finner, but rather that he fhould repent and live, i zek, xxxiii 11. God was more difflacifed with Gain for defpairing of his mercy, than fir murdering his brother; and with Jadas for hanging imfelf than for betraying his Nafler: why, becaufe that by their defpair they would make the firs of mortal men greater than the infinite mercy of the etenal God.

DIRECT. IV. Be earneft in prayer to God for your friends when fick or dying, Pray with them and for them.

F Requestly fick perfons are fo difquieted with pain and trouble, that they are out of cafe to pray for themfelves, and therefore they have the more need of the prayers of others. David fasted and prayed for his enemies when they were fick, Pial. xxx.13.; much more ought we to pray for our friends in that cafe. Never did they need our prayers fo much, as when they are called to enter upon an unchangeable condition, to go to their long home, even that place wherein they must abide for ever. Now they are in the land of prayer, and it is now or never that you must pray and beg mercy for them. When their life is gone, they go from the land of prayer, and is fixed in that place whence they fhall never remove: then all your prayers and cries for them will be in vain. If your friend be a ftranger to Chrift, he is on the brink of hell, and knows it not; and will you not cry to God to open his eyes, and fave him from falling into that devouring pit, out of which there is no redemption? You would be willing to fit up a whole night for the relief of his body; and will you not fpend a part of a night for the good of his foul, that is a thoufand times more valuable? Now the quefton is, whether this precious foul fhall be Chrift's or the divel's for ever? And when will you wreftle for your friend, if you do it not now? If the fick perfon be a child of God, you may pray with him with the more comfort, and expectation to be heard. You may, in that cale, fend the fame meffage by prayer to Chrift, that the fifter of fick Lazarus did, John xi 3. "Lord, behold, he whom thou loveft, is fick." Lord, pity him, comfort him, abate his diftemper, and relieve him from it, if it be thy will: if not, grant him thy gracious prefence and fafe conduct through the Jordan of death, and a happy landing in the Canaan of glory.

We are told, that the prayers of the righteous, in fach cafes, doth avail much, James v. 16. and this to encourage us to pray one for another. Whatever be the fick perfon's condition, fuch confefions and petitions as thefe following may be made uie in prayer for him.

Petitions for the Sick.

L ORD, thou first breatheds into man the breath of life; and when thou takest away that breath, he dies, and returns again to his duft. May we be duly fenfible of our dependence on thee for all that we enjoy. We acknowledge, that our great abule of the many days of heath and welfare thou affordeft us. doth juftly deferve the vifitation of fickness and difeales. Wo's us, we lie under a burden of fin, both original and actual: we are all children of wrath by nature, and under the curfe of a broken law; and all other miferies temporal and fpiritual, diftempers, pains, death, and hell itfelf, are the iffues thereof. Be merciful to the fick perfon under thy hand; difcover to him his fins, and the caufe why thou contendeft with him. Make him fee that he is loft in himfelf. and wholly unable to fatisfy the demands of offended juffice; and do thou reveal Chrift to his foul for righteoufnefs and life. O give him thy holy Spirit to create and flrengthen faith, that he may lay hold on Chrift as offered in the gofpel; work in himthe grace of true repentance. Enable him to fearch his heart, and try his ways, fo as he may difcover every accurfed thing, every Achan in the camp, that hath provoked the Lord against him. When thou putteft him in the furnace, be pleafed to stand by it, and overfee the metal while it is melting in it. Try him as filver is tried, and bring him out purified, and let him lofe nothing in the furnace but his drofs. Remove his fins from thy prefence as far as east is from the west, that they may never trouble his confcience, nor rife in judgment againft his foul. However bitter the cup may be, let it be medicinal to cure all the difeafes of his foul. O that thefe afflictions, which are but for a moment, may work for him a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory, through Jefus Chrift the purchafer!

Look down from heaven, the habitation of thy holinnels, behold his affiction and his pain, and forgive all his fin. Shew fuch hits pain, as a father doth to his child, and lay no more upon him than he is able to bear. Lord, give patience and ftrength anfwersble to the burden of trouble thou haft laid on him. In time of his weaknels, uphold him by thy ftrength. Relieve his wants out of thy infinite fulnels. Lord, thou knoweft his frame, and rememberch that he is duft; fave him from extremity of trouble; either abate his pain, or increafe his patience to endure what thou meafureft out to him. Give him the evidences of all the graces of thy Spirit. Arm and defend him againft all the fuggeftions wholly off the world, and fet his affections on things above .- Lord, make use of this chaftifement of his body as a medicine to cure his foul, by drawing his foul, that is fick of fin, to thyfelf. O enable him in a penitent believing manner to come by repentance to Chrift his foulphyfician, to get it healed of all its maladies. Sanctify his ficknels, and let the fruit of it be to purge away his fin.

If God shall be pleafed to add to his days, blefs all means of his recovery. Remove the difeafe; renew his ftrengh both outward and inward; heal his foul as well as his body. And enable him to walk tenderly before God, and carefully to remember and perform fuch vows and promifes of obedience as men are apt to make in time of ficknefs.

If God hath determined to finish his days by the prefent vifitation; let him find fuch evidence of the pardon of his fins, of his intereft in Chrift. and eternal life, as may caufe his inward man be renewed, while his outward man decayeth: that he may meet death without fear, caft himfelf wholly on Chrift without doubting, and defire to be diffolved, that he may for ever be with Jefus Chrift .- Lord, make his laft works better than his first, and the day of his death better than the day of his birth. Make his laft words his beft words, his laft thoughts his beft thoughts, and his last hour his best hour. O let him die the death of the righteous, and let his laft end be like his. Let the eyes of his foul be opened to fee his fins and his Saviour, before the eyes of his body be fhut by death. Take away the fting of death, the guilt of fin, that he may walk through the valley of the fhadow of death, and fear no evil. Open thou his lips. that his mouth may fhew forth thy praife, before he go to the place of filence. And when his ftrength doth fail, and his tongue is not able to utter words, let the blood of Chrift fpeak for him in heaven: and let thy holy Spirit within him make requefts for him with fighs and groans that cannot be uttered .- When the fight of his eyes doth fail him, let the eyes of his faith be ftrengthened, that his foul (with Stephen at his death) may behold Jefus Chrift in heaven ready to receive him. Lord, fland by him in his laft conflict with his enemies, Satan and death, that he may overcome both, and be more than a conqueror through Chrift that hath loved him. Into thy hands we commend his fpirit.

Lord, teach us who do furvive, by this and other like daily fpc@tacles of our mortality, to fee how frail and uncertain our condition is, and fo to number our days, that we may ferioufly apply our hearts to heavenly wildom, through Jefus Chrift. Amen.

DIRECT. V. Be careful to furnish your friends with juitable company, and jpiritual converse, when they are fick or dying.

As worldly company and converfe are great hindrances, fo fpiritual company and converfe are fpecial helps to the fick and dying. Now, that the friends of the fick may prevent the one; and provide the other, let the following advices be remembered.

1/f. Mind your friends timeoufly to make their wills, and difpatch the fettlement of their worldly affairs, that fo they may not be difturbed at the laft, nor any wile diverted from their main work, by thoughts or difcourfes about the world. A mind abfracted from the world is a molt fuitable difpolition for a dying man. You cannot carry the things of this world with you when you go hence; and it is not fit you fhould carry the thoughts of them.

adly, Keep carnal company from them as as much as polible, and all thefe that would divert them by idle or worldly difcourfe. It is both impertinent and cruel, to throw in fuch impediments in the way of those that are going (peedily to their endless flate.

3dly, Do what you can to get faithful minifters and godly Chriftians to be much about them, who are fit to inftruct and counfel them about their foul's matters, and alfoto pray with them and for them.

 $4^{\mu}dy$ , Be often minding your fick friends of their chief work, and thefe things which belong unto their peace. Whatever be their flate, whether gracious or gracelefs, it is proper to be minding them, 1. Of the vanity and emptinefs of the world, that can neither give cale to the body, nor comfort to the foul, when either of them is in trouble. 2. Of the finfulnefs of fin, which is the fpring of all difeafes and mifergies whatever. 3. Of the precioufnefs and ulfefulnefs of Chrift to a finner in all cafes, and efpecially at a dying hour. 4. Of the inexprefible felicity of believers in Chrift after death, dre.

Lafly, If you think yourfelves not able to inftruct or advife your fick friends as they fland in need, then read fome good book to them, that may be fuitable to the condition of their fouls: and, if you have not a fitter at hand, read fome chapters or directions of this book to them, as you may see most proper for them. But, above all books, read to the fick the holy feriptures, particular chapters and Pfalms there. fuch as the three laft chapters of Gen :- the laft chapter of Deuteronomy;-the 17th chapter of the first book of Kings; and 2d chapter of the 2d book of Kings; - the 14th and 19th chapters of Job;-the Pfalms of David; and particularly the oth, the 23d, 25th, 30th 38th, 41ft, 42d, 49th, 51ft, 71ft, 73d, 77th, 88th, 89th, 90th, 103d, 116th, 118 h, 130th, 142d, 143d, and feveral other Plalms, --- the 12th chapter of Ecclefiafles; -the 38th. 53d, 54th, and 55th chapters of Ifaiah;-the three last chapters of Luke;-- the 14th. 15th, 16th, 17th, and 20th chapters of John;-the 8th chapter of the Romans;-the 15th chapter of the 1st Cor.; -the 5th of the 2d Corinth .- the 4th of 1ft Theff -the 11th and 12th of Heb -the three laft chapters of the Revelation; and the like.

DIRECT. VI. Be likewife fuitably concerned for the bodies of your friends, when they are fick.

IF you would evidence a fuitable concern for them, then you mult dial tenderly and compaffionately with them in their ficknefs, bear with their impatience and fretting, weary not of them, nor grudge at the trouble they put you to: for fhortly you yourfelves may be in the like cafe, when you fhall be as great a trouble to others, as your friends are now to you.

Again, it is neceffiry to employ phylicians, and ule the beft means for the recovery of your friend's health. The means indeed muft not be trufted to inflead of God, but offed in fubferviency to him, who hath appointed them, and can only give fuccefs to them. We muft be ware of Ala's fin, that fought to the phyficians, and not to the Lord. Let us neither take food nor phylic without prayer to God for his bleffing thereupon.

DIRECT. VII. When the ficknefs of your relations or neighbours doth iffue in death, fludy a Chriftian and fuitable behaviour under fuch a difpenjation.

WHEN a parent lofeth a promifing child, or a child lofeth a loving parent, or when death deprives us of any near relation, it is a fpraking and trying providence; and we have much need of grace and coundel from God to carty aright under it. Letus obferve thefe advices.

1. It is neceffary in fuch a cafe, that we have a tender fenfe and feeling of Gods affifting hand. There are two extremes which we mult equally avoid, viz. to make light of the d. ath of relations; and to be exceffively grieved on that account. God will have us neither to defpife his rod, nor to faint under it, Heb.xii 5.God is difpleafed with those that are flupid and infenfible under fuch afflictions. Why ? They defpife his rod, and make light of his corrections. Hence he complains of thefe, Jer. v. 3 " I have fmitten them, but they have not grieved." God will have us to feel his hand, to enquire into the meaning of the rod, and fearch for these fins that have provoked God to fmite us. It is a fign of a naughty, felfifh, and unchriftian fpirit, to be unconcerned for the death of friends : and it is much more fo in children, who have a fecret fatisfaction in the death of parents, becaufe of the worldly riches or liberty which they get thereby. God ulcth to follow this wicked temper with his heavy judgments even in this life.

II. Confider, that God is calling you, by the death of others, to keep up lively and lafting impreffions of death and eternity upon your fpirits. God knoweth how advantageous it would be for men fo to do; and therefore he fets frequent spectacles of mortality before their eves for this end. But fuch is the corruption and earthline's of our minds, that we foon forget the thoughts of death. When we fee our friends in the pangs of death, or laid in the grave, it ftrikes us with some fear and concern, to think, that one day this will be our own cafe; but no fooner is the dead interred, and the grave filled up again, than all these ferious thoughts begin to vanish, and men return to their fins and pleafures as before. Ah, what folly is this! Should not men always keep alive the ferious thoughts of death and a future flate?

Are we not always alike mortal? Are we not as liable to death's arreft at other times, as when examples are before our eyes?

III. When God takes away your children or relations, let it draw your hearts and affections more towards God and things above. As when a shepherd taketh up in his arms a lamb of the flock, the ewe followeth him of her own accord, and will not leave him: fo when the great Shepherd of the fheep taketh a child or frierd from you, it should cause you to follow after him, and defire to be with him But one may fay, That is not the cafe with me ; I fear the wolf hath got the ftraying fheep, and devoured it. Then even that furpicion should make you run to the good Shepherd, abide with him, and keep clofe by the footfteps of the flock, and beware of ftraying in thefe paths wherein destroyers go. When God taketh from you thefe relations whom you dearly loved, he calls you to take your love off the fading creature. and fet it on the eternal Creator: when the weak branch is lopt off, then clasp to the body of the tree, which will not fail you.

IV. In fuch trials, fludy a humble and patient fubmifion to the will of God, who in his fovereign wifdom and pleafure that taken your child or friend from you. Remember who hath done it, even he, who gave all men their lives, and hath the abfolute power and right to difpole of mens lives, as he thinks beft. If your fellow-creature do any thing that difpleafeth you, you may both afk who did it, and why he did fo? But when God doth any thing to 290 you, you must remember he is the Potter, and you are the clay; and that he may make or mar his clay veffels, yea, break them in pieces at his pleafure; and "there is none can ftay his hand, or fay to him, What doft thou? Be ftill, and know that I am God," Pfal xlvi. 10. The mafter of a family gathers at his pleafure the flowers and fruits of his garden; fometimes he cuts off the buds, fometimes he fuffers them to bloffem : fometimes he gathers the green fruit, fometimes he flays till they be ripe; and every body thinks he may do with his own what he pleafeth; and fhall not the Almighty God have liberty much more to dispose of all that grows. in his own territories at his pleafure ? The mafter of the family hath not created the trees and plants of his garden; but God bath made and fashioned all the children of men with his almighty hand.

It is the fenfe of this fovereign right and dominion of God over his creatures, that hath made his people to be filent under the greateft loff.s. Hence Aaron when he loft his two fons by a fudden and extraordinary flroke, it is faid of him, Lev.x. 9. "And Yaron held his peace." He opened not his mouth, becaufe it was a fovereign God that did it. So holy Job, when he loft all his children by one blow, patiently fubmits to this abfolute Lord, Job i. 21. "The Lord gave, and the Lord-hath taken away; bl.fed be the name of the Lord." Job knew that God's relation to them was far nearer than his, and his right to difpofe of them was indifputable. It was a holy and excellent ipeech of that hom-ourable perfon, lord Dupleffis, at the death of his only fon; "I could not have borne this from a man, but I can from God."

V. Guard againft immoderate grief and exceffive lorrow fof the death of children or near relations; for this is finful and dir.finite to God. Now, grief is finful and immoderate, when it makes you grudge at God's difpendation, murmur at his will, turn unthankful to him for the mercies you enjoy, overlook all bypalt favours, and lament a temporal more than a fipritual lofs. Alas! there are many who can bewail a dead friend far more than the lofs of God's countenance. Now, for preventing this exceffive forrow, confider thefe things.

1/2, If you be Chriftlefs and impenitent, you have reafon to blefs God that the froke was not at your own life, for then you had been eternally miferable, and without hope. What is the temporal lofs of a child, to the eternal lofs of thine own foul? O it is far better to be childlefs and friendlefs on earth, than to be hopelefs and remedilefs in hell.

adly, Confider how little ground you have to complain of any lofs or firoke you meet with on carth. If you eye God's fovereignty and power over you, you have caufe to be thankful that he hath not annihilated you and your relations both long ere now, feeing he hath as full a dominion to reduce you to nothing, as to bring yon from nothing. Though God thould dafh us againft the walls, as a potter doth his wiftel, no man could have reafon to fay, What doft thou? or, why doft thou use me fo? Jer. xviii. 6. " O houfe of lfrael, cannot 1 do with you as this potter? faith the Lord." Nay, he hath a greater right to deal fo with us, than a potter with his veffel, for God hath contributed all to his creature that it hath; but the potter never made the clay which is the fubftance of the veffel, nor the water that is needful to make it tractable. All that the potter doth, is only to mould the clay into fuch a fhape; befides, the potter's body is no better than the clay he makes his veffel of; nay, perhaps that very clay might once have been fome part of the body of a man as good as the potter himfelf. Now, thall the potter have fuch abfolute power over that which is fo near and like to him; and shall not God have it over that which is infinitely diftant from him? That word, Dan.iv. 34, 35. " The Moft High doth according to his will," is enough to filence the murmurings of all men under ftrokes and loffes.

2. If you eye the hand of God, as moft juft and righteous in what you have met with, you have no good ground to complain. "Have you not procured all this to you: felf?" Is not God moft juft in all that hath come upon you? Nay, if you confider your fins, and God's abfolute dominion over you, you muft own he might have dealt with you in a fmarter way than be hath done; inftead of one affliction, you might have had a thoukand.

3. Look to the mercy that is mixed with the rod. It is a wonder that this great Sovereign, who is fo provoked by us, should allow us any mercy at all, and yet we receive innumerable benefits from him. Whatever be our afflictions, furely they are far lefs than our injulies deferve. Hath he caft your child into the grave? he might juftly have thrown your foul into hell. It is of the Lord's mercies you are not confumed. Why fhould a living man complain? a man out of a grave, and out of hell too, hath furely no reafon.

4. If you compare your affliction with the trials of others of God's people, yea, and thefe faints who have been most eminent, you have no reason to grudge at your lofs. You have one child dead, but Aaron (who is called the faint of the Lord, Plal. cvi. 16.) had two at a ftroke; nay, Job, whom God commends above all the faints in his day, had all his children flain by one blow, and both thefe eminent faints had thefe loffes by an immediate and extraordinary ftroke from God Some godly parents have feen their children live to prove fcandals to religion, and a grief of mind to themfelves, and would have thought it a mercy if God had taken them away when young. Say not then, there is no forrow like your forrow; for the cup which many others have drunk, hath had more bitter ingredients in it than yours.

3dly, Confider, that exceflive grief cannot better your cafe, it may well make it worfe. If you fruggle and contend under God's hand, you act a foolifh part; as a bullock unacenflomed to the yoke, that by his flruggling galls his neck, and makes the yoke the more uneafy: or like a bird fluttering in a net, that, inflead of freeing, doth the more intangle itfelf. Thus, by immoderate forrow and fretting under the ftroke, you fin the more againft God, and make your burden the more heavy.

4thly, Remember the transactions of thy foul with God in the day thou enteredit into covenant with him. When thou fawefl thyfelf on the brink of hell, and a burden of fin preffing thee down, and no hope for thee but in Chrift; then your cry was, " None but Chrift : take children, relations, riches, and all things in a world from me, and give me Chrift. I give up myfelf, and all I have, to be difpofed at thy pleafure; thy will, Lord, fhall be my will," &c Now, God is taking thee at thy word, and trying thy fincerity in what thou faidft and profeffedft to him fo folemnly. He hath difpofed of thy dear relation as pleafed him: O believer, doft thou rue the bargain? wouldft thou take thy word again? where is thy covenanted fubmiffion to the will of God, and thy promifed contentment with all his difnofals?

sthly, Doft thou not believe that a covenanced God is better to theethan all the friends in the world' cannot God foon make up the greateft lofs to thee, if thou turn to him by prayer, and pour out thy heart and forrows in his bofom? What are the world's counforts to God's comforts? a finile of God's face in prayer, can foon fweeten thy bitter cup, and make the forget all thy forrows. Pfal. xeiv. 19. * In the multitude of my thoughts within me, thy comforts delight my foul." The Author of the Fulfiling of the Scriptures tells us of one

Patrick Mackilwrae, an eminent faint in the weft of Scotland, who having loft his dear and only fon, got to his closet, and there poured out his foul freely to the Lord. When he came out to his friends at length, who were waiting to comfort him, and fearing how he would take fuch a heavy ftroke, he returned from prayer with a cheerful countenance, and told fome of his friends, who afked him the reafon of his cheerfulnefs, " that he had got that in his retirement with the Lord, that to have it afterwards renewed, he would be content to lofe a fon every day."

6thly, Serioufly confider, that you are but a few days journey behind him for whom you mourn, and that you will quickly overtake him, and be with him again. This allayed David's forrow for his child, 2 Sam. xii. 23. " I shall go to him." It is our expecting to live here, to enjoy the comfort of relations, that commonly makes us grieve fo much for their death; for if we looked on ourfelves as men that were to die in a few days, we would not be fo troubled for our friends, that are gone but a little fpace before us.

7thly, If your friends are gone to heaven, you have more reason to rejoice with them than to mourn for them; feeing they are unipeakably happier where they now are, than they could have been with you. It is the most fervent defire and with of every true Christian to be in heaven: and will you grieve, because God hath taken your relations thither, where you defire to be yourfelf above all things? As Chrift faid to his 206

difciples before his death, John xiv. 28. "If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, becaufe i go onto the Father:" fo, if your departed friend could fpeak to you from heaven, he would fuy, "If you loved me with a pure fpiritual love, ye would rejoice that 1 am gone to my Father, where I am more happy than you can poffibly conceive of me."

Object. " Had I ground to think that my friend is gone to heaven, it would cafe me; but, alas, I fear it is otherwife."

 $\hat{\mathcal{A}}n/w$ , 1. It doth not belong to us to dive into the eternal flate and condition of thefe that are gone off the flage. Thefe fecret things belong to God, who exercifeth his mercy or juftice towards finners according to his fovereign will.

2. Suppofing the worft, you ought to fubmit to the incontroulable fovereignty of God, who hath mercy on whom he will have mercy, and whom he will be hardeneth. "He is of one mind, and who can turn him?" The Lord cut off Aaron's two fons in the very act of fin and rebellion againft him, and yet Aaron held his peace, and fo ought you.

3. Whatever be the lot of others hereafter, you have realon to be thankful to God for his diffioguilhing mercy, in faving you from thefe flames that others fall into, and giving you good hope through grace of glorifying God above for ever.

DIRECT. VIII. Let the ficknefs and death of others be a warning to you in time of health, to make due preparation for the time of ficknefs and of dying, which is before your hands.

W HEN you fee your friends and neigh-bours in a fickly. weak, or dying condition, the language of the dilpenfation to you that are in health is, Prepare for fickness alfo. Nay, the feeble voice of the fick doth proclaim this warning as loudly, as if they flould lift up their voice like a trumpet, and fay to you, " Remember that you must lie in the fame cafe ere long; you must also groan under pain, lose your firength and beauty, leave your mirth and company, bid adieu to all the world, and look out for the grim meffenger death, that is a-coming to diffolve the carthly tabernacle, fend the body to lie in a putrifying grave, and the foul to ftand before God's tribunal, to be fentenced to an endl is flate." This will thy cafe, O young man, ftrong man, healthful man, as really in a little, as it is of thefe now before your eyes. O how foon will it come! what thoughts will you then have of the world, of fin, and vain company! Will any thing comfort you then but the favour of God, the love of Chrift, and the review of a holy well-fpent life? Wherefore do with all thy might now what thy hand finds to do: employ the time of health well in preparing for fickness, and leave nothing to do in time of fickness, which is a most unfit feation for a man to do foul-work and falvation-work in.

I. I shall begin with those of the family where the harbingers of death do prefently refide. Surely the warnings of fickness and death ought to be louder in your cars than others, and moft diligently hearkened unto by you, that lodge under the fame roof with the meffengers of the king of terrors. 1/t, Remember that word, 1 Pet. v. 6. " Humble yourfelves therefore under the mighty hand of God." It well becomes guilty finners, all the members of the family, to be humble before a holy God, when he is finiting any of the them. Humbly acknowledge his fovereignty and abfolute dominion over you, faying, "Lord, thou art the author and founder of families, and thou mayft afflift and punish them as thou thinkest fit. Thou fetteft the folitary in families, and multiplieft their number: and thou mayft diminifh them, yea, lay them defolate according to thy pleafure. Thou mighteft have made all the members of the family fick, as well as one; thou mighteft have given a deadly blow to parents, children, and fervants at orce, yea, have made the house in which we live a common grave, and buried us all together in its ruins." Humbly acknowledge the juffice and mercy of God in the prefent visiation. " Lord, instead of one, we all deferved to have been thrown on fick-beds, and all of us to have been fmitten by death. Thou punisheft us less than our iniquities deferve." Acknowledge allo God's wifdom and love in the prefent affliction, and humbly fubmit to take the cup which he hath mingled for you. " The cup which our heavenly Father hath ordered for this family, fhall we not drink t? It is a gracious and wife God that doth what is done in the family; therefore it is our part to be dumb, and not to open our mouths to quarrel it."

2dly. The command which the king of Nineveh gave to all his fubjects, when threatened with ruin, Jonah iii. 8. is very proper for a master of a family to give to all under his charge, when fickness doth rage among them; " Faft, and cry mightily to God, and turn every one from his evil way .--- Who can tell if God will turn away from his fierce anger, that we perifh not?" When the deftroving angel gets a commission to smite families with mortal and infectious difeafes, which fometimes go from house to house like a plague, fweeping many old and young off the flage; then efpecially it should be a time of mighty crying and pleading with God for mercy. And fince our pleading is wholly ineffectual without an atoning facrifice to incenfed justice, let us not forget to bring the all-fufficient facrifice of Chrifl's blood alongft with us, and plead it with God for averting his wrath from our houses and families. As Mofes faid to Aaron in a time of common calamity, Num. xiv. 46. fo may I fay to you that are heads of families, " Take a cenfer and incenfe, and go quickly and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from the Lord; the plague is begun." Bring the incenfe of Chrift's fatisfaction, that great atonement to divine juffice, which was typified by the legal facrifices and oblations. Humbly and earneftly plead that great facrifice with God, for turning away the fercencks of his wrath. Get the bunch of hyflyp, faith, in order to the fprinkling of your houfes with that atoning blood, that fo you and your families may be among the preferred in Chrift lefus.

Laftly, Let all in the family where fickness is, and especially the head of it, remember that word, Job xxii. 23. " I'hou fhalt put away iniquity far from thy tabernacles " God hath fent ficknefs with this meffage to you, " Search out family fins, whether of omiffion or commiffion; mourn over them, turn from them, banifh them far away. Let no vice lodge under your roof. Let family-worthip be no more neglected, nor flightly performed. Let God have both the morning and evening facrifice." Now, if the members of these families visited with ficknefs, who are in health for the prefent, would thus humble themfelves, cry to God, plead the blood of Chrift, and reform what is amifs among them; the prefent affliction would be fanctified, and they in fome measure prepared for the like trial, when God shall be pleafed to put the cup in their hands.

* II. In the next place, let me warn all the friends and neighbours of the fick, whether they be in the family or not, to improve the day of health, in making ready for the time of ficknels. Be much in the exercise of felf examnation, humiliation for fin, believing in Chrift, renewing covenant with God, mortifying of fin, trimming the lamp, meditating of heaven, living by faith, denicdnels to the world, fludying

o overcome the love of life, and fears of death. Concerning all which, I have given directions a the foregoing chapters of this book, when peaking to the fick and diffreffed. Thefe exreifes are not only proper for the fick, but alfo for thefe in health; and are fuitable preparaions for ficknefs and death, to be fludied by all men in every condition. But there are fome hings further moft neceffary to be minded by people in time of their health, in order to prepare them for the time of ficknels and of dying, pefore it come.

1*fl*. Make your latter-will, and keep it by you, that you may not be encumbered with your worldly affairs, in time of ficknets, or at a dyng-hour. Surely it is great wildom to put this py-hand in time of health. But I have fpoken argely of this Chap. I. Dir. 6.

2dly, Take heed in time of health, that you ay not up fad provision against the day of ficknefs, by your carelefs and untender walk. As t is fin that brings on ficknel's upon us. fo it is in that embitters it unto us. O beware of all known fin, and particularly the fin of carthlymindednefs, unthankfulnefs for mercies, lukewarmnefs in religion, neglect to improve Chrift, reglect of prayer, and formality in it, quenchng of the Spirit, falling from your first love, preach of vows, milcarrying under fignal merrics, finning after aiffletions, turning to old fins. Buard against these evils now in time of health. otherwife they will put thorns in your pillow when ficknefs cometh. Dare not to live in iuch a courfe as you would not adventure to die in. How do you know but your next ftep may be into the grave? and would you be willing to lie down there in your fins, with earthly, dead, formal, wandering, and unbelieving hearts?

3dy, Sit loofe from the world, and live as ftrangers in it, that you may be able to pack and be gone from it upon thort warning. Let death find you dead before-hand, dead to the world. If your affections be glewed to the world, it will be a violent rending and fad parting you will have with it when the dying hour conteth. You will be ready, like Lot's wife, to linger, hanker, and look greedily back again.

4/h/y, Keep fhort reckonings with God and confisience, that you may not have old fcores to reckon upon when you come to the death-bed. O what flinging pain and tornient may one fin unnourned for coft you at that time! Let conficience then bing in the accounts of every day before you sleep, and fpeedily take up every controverfy that may fall out betwixt God and thy foul.

5thly, Dwell much upon the thoughts of death, that you may learn to be acquaint and familiar with it; as Job was, who faid, beforehand, "to corruption, Thou art my father; and to the worm, Thou art my mother and my fifter," Job xvii. 14. For this caufe the Egyptians uiced to place a dead man's fcull in fome confpicuous place of their rooms; likewife the Jews had their fepulchres in their gardens of pleafure, that fo in midft of their delights they might think on their dying time. We read of

"hilip king of Macedon, that ordered a page every morning to rouze him from fleep with hefe words, "O king, remember thou att a mortal man." By this often-repeated leffon, telaboured to humble his lofty mind, and make his acquaintance with death, that it might not feem firange or furpriling to him when it hould actually come and fnatch him away.

6thly, Study to fpend every day as it were to be your laft, and perform every duty as it were the laft, ftill looking on fickness and death as very near. That which makes most men fo unconcerned about fickness, death, and eternity. is, they view them as things afar off, at thirty or forty years diftance. " They think their time will be long here: why, they are healthy, of a ftrong conftitution, and their fathers lived fo long;" which furcly are falfe rules to judge by. It was the expectation of many years that helped on the ruin of that rich fool in the gofpel. It were far better for every man to look on himfelf as flanding every day and night at the very door of eternity; and hundreds of difeates ready to open the door and let him in. When you lie down at night, leave your heart with Chrift, and compose your spirits so, as if you were not to awake till the heavens are no more; for certainly that night cometh, of which you will never fee the morning, or that morning of which you will never fee the night. But which of your mornings, or nights thefe will be, you know not, feeing your times are not in your own hands.

7thy, Set apart fome time, daily, for thinking, in a retired way, on your time that is paft, and upon eternity that is to come. The negleft of this duty of meditation, and retired thinking, is very prejudicial, both to the godly and ungodly. It was David's practice to think, and to think upon his ways; which engaged him to reform whatever he found amils in them, Pfal cxix. 59. Oh! it is the ruin of many a foul, they are utter ftrangers to this way of thinking. I have read of a father, who on his death-bed, left it as a folemn charge upon his only fon, who was a prodigal, that he fhould fpend a quarter of an hour every day in retired thinking, and let him chufe any fubject he pleafed. The fon thinks this an cafy tafk, undertakes it, and after his father's death let himfelf to perform his promife. One day he thinks upon his bypaft pleafures; another day he contrives his future delights; after a while he begins to think ferioufly what might be his father's defign in laying this tafk upon him: at length he thinks, his father was a wife and good man, therefore furely he intended and hoped that, among the reft of his meditations, he would fome time or other think of religion. When this had truly poffetfed his thoughts, one thought and queftion comes upon the back of another, about his bypastlife and future state, that he could not contain himfelf in fo fhort a confinement, but was that night without fleep; yea. and afterward could have no reft till he became ferioufly religious. O that I could perfuade all carelefs and unthinking fouls to go and do likewife! Ah! how many fpend their days in a hurry about their worldly affairs, and perifh for want of thinking !

8thly. Among other fubjects of your retired thoughts, fpend fome time in thinking, how awful and terrible a thing it must be for a poor Chriftles foul to make its appearance before an angry God after death, "For who (faith the prophet) can dwell with devouring fire? who can abide with everlafting burnings?" I have read of a certain king of Hungary, who being on a time marvelloufly fad and heavy, his brother, who was a brifk and gallant man, would needs know the reafon: " Oh brother, (faith hc), I have been a great finner against God, and I know not how I shall appear before his judgmentfeat." His brother answered, "These are but melancholy thoughts;" and fo made light of them, as most courtiers use to do. The king replied nothing at that time; but the cuftom of that country was, (the government being abfolute), if the executioner founded a trumpet at a man's door, he was prefently to be led to. execution. The king fent the executioner in the dead time of the night, and cauled him found his trumpet at his brother's door, who hearing and feeing the meffenger of death, fprang in trembling into his brother's prefence. falls down upon his knees, and befeeches the king to let him know wherein he had offended him. "O brother, (faid the king), you never offended me, but loved me; but is the fight of an earthly executioner fo terrible to thee; and fhall not I, who am fogreat a finner, fear much more to be brought to the judgment-feat of an angry God!"

to with they had lived, when they come to the fick and dying time. Thefe who have fpent their time most carclessly, begin to have other notions of religion when they fee the grim meffenger approaching. Go to their bed-fides, and afk them, Whether floth or diligence, formality or fervency, drinking or praying, loving the world or loving Chrift, be the beft; would they not tell you, that there is none fo wife as they that are most religious? Think, O man, in health, with thyfelf, if thou wast just now upon thy death-bed, and faweft thy friends flanding mourning round about thee, but unable to help thee, what would be thy thoughts and difcourfe at that time? Othen, let fome of the fame thoughts and difcourfe fill up every day and hour of thy life now. Why, thou knoweft not but this moment thou mayft be as near death, as if thy friends and phyficians too were defpairing of thy life, and had given you over for dead.

tothly. Be employed now in fighting the good fight of faith. You have many enemiest o deal with, and death is the laft of them. Would you obtain the victory over them? Then get on the Chriftian armour, and make much ufe of the fhield of faith. We read in the book of Efther, that king Ahafuerus would not recal the proclamation he had emitted againft the Jews; but he gave them full liberty to take up arms to defend themfelves, and attack their enemies: fo here, God will not recal the fentence of death he hath paft upon all men in the garder; but neverthelefs he allows, yea commifficiates all true (frachites to take up arms againft death, to comper and trample it under foot by faith.

Laftly, Be bufy now in health, providing, and laving up a flock against the time of fickness and affliction; which may contribute to your comfortable living then, when the world's good things will be tafteless and comfortless to you. As these who have a voyage to go, do victual the fhip; and thefe who have a fiege to hold out. take in provisions : even fo do ye.

1. Get a flock of graces against that time, efpecially a flock of faith, of patience, of humility, felf-denial, &c. There will be ufe for all these then. A little grace, or a little faith. is not enough: for this will faint under afflictions. We read, Matth. xiv. that, when the winds began to blow fiercely, Peter's little faith began to fail. You have need of a great meafure of patience against that time, that you may wait quictly on God, till he come to your relief. You know not but he may lengthen out your trials and tarry till the fourth watch of the night before he come with deliverance.

2. Provide a flock of evidences or marks of grace, and of the love of God, that you may be able to affert your intereft in him as your portion in Chrift, and may be perfuaded, that neither death nor life will ever separate you from him.

3. Get a flock of divine experiences. Lay up all the experiences you have had of God's loving-kindnefs, and thefe will give great relief and encouragement to the foul in the day of diffrefs.

4. Lay up a flock of fermons. Treasure up the counfels and cordials which they bring you from God's word, that fo you may, according to Ifa, xlii, 23. "hear for the time to come;"

and efpecially for fick-beds, when you cannot get fermons to hear. Then it is, that you ought to live and feed upon the fermons you have heard.

5. Lay up a flock of prayers. Be much in wreftling with God for help and throughbearing in the day of affliction; and fo you may expect the gracious returns thereof in the day of calamity.

6. Provide a flock of promifes. Be now gathering thefe flowert cor itals from God's word, lay them up in your heart and memory, and they will be very refreching and fupporting to you in the day of affliction.

DIRECT. IX. Let these who are in health set about the work of repentance, and turning to God in Ghrist timeously and quickly: and beware of delaying this work until the time of sickness and of dying.

G OD's command to you is, to fet about the work prefently, without any delay, Heb. iii. 15. "To-day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." Matth. xxi. 28. "Go work to-day in my vineyard." Ecclef. xii. 1. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." Well, God's voice to you, O man in health, is to-day. But the devil's voice to you is to-morrow. And which of the two will you hearken to? Surely it is your wildom to obey the voice of your Creator and Friend, and not of your enemy and deftroyer. Why, to-day thou art in health, to-morrow thou mayfib to in ficknefs; to-day thou art on earth, to-morrow thou mayft be in hell; to-day Chrift is inviting you to come to him, to-morrow he may be fentencing you to depart from him. And confider, that the devil, who tempts you to delay this day, will be as ready to tempt you to the fame to-morrow; and fo the devil's to-morrow will never come. It will fill be to-morrow with him till the laft hour, that fo he may get you cheated out of your whole time and falvation together.

Here I shall endeavour two things; 1. Bring arguments to perfuade you to repent and close with the offers of Chrift prefently, without any delay, as God requires. 2. Shew the evil and danger of delaying till the time of sickness and of dying. As to the first, viz. Arguments for prefent repentance, and against delaying the work.

1A. Confider the uncertainty of your life and time to repent. Your life is but a vapour, a little warm breath that is going out and in at your noftrils, which may be ftopped by death ere you be aware: thou knoweft not what will be to-morrow, Prov. xxvii.1. It was the faving of a godly man, when invited to a feaft upon the morrow, " I have not had a morrow, for these many years." It was a bad use these Epicures made of this uncertainty, Ifa. xxii. 13. " Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we shall die." It is much wifer to fay, " Let us pray, and turn to the Lord, for to-morrow we shall die." Nay, you have not fecurity for one hour to repent in; for God hath a thousand difeafes and accidents ready to ftop your breath, and end your days, whenever he pleafeth to give them orders. There are many fecure finners, who prefume on long life, but there are none nearer destruction than fuch; for God loves to difappoint thefe that promife themfelves a long life in fin and impenitency, as he did that rich man who was laying up for many years, Luke xii. 19. " This night shall thy foul be required of thee." And O what a dark and difmal night will it be, if death come before thy repentance! O man, thou never didft lie down one night with affurance of rifing again; thou never heardst one fermon with affurance of hearing another; thou never didft draw one breath with affurance of drawing another. What madnefs is it then to delay falvationwork one day or hour longer, and fo to leave the weightieft matter in the world at the greateft uncertainty!

adly, Confider, that though God in his wonderful mercy and patience fhould prolong your days, yet the longeft life is first enough for the work you have to do, fuppofe you begin it prefently. Nay, had you Methulalem's years to fpend, they would be no more than fufficient to repent and mourn for the fins and guilt which you have been fo long contracting; to reform and amend the many things that have been amifs; to perform all the duties incumbent on you; to make fure your calling and election, and put your fouls in a good poflure and preparation for an eternal flate, and get them made meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the faints in light. Now, do ye think that all this work can be done in an inftant, or in a time of fickneis, or old age, when ye are hardly fit to do any thing? When a man's fpirit is unable to bear the infirmities of nature, how will he be able to bear the lafhes of a guilty confeience, or a wounded fpirit? When the understanding is weak, the memory frail, the will obstinately bent the wrong way, by a long cuftom of finning, and neglecting of duty; will that be a fit time to begin the work of repentance and conversion to God? When nature is decayed, and the candle of life just finking in the focket, will you begin then to act for God, and make your light thine before men to his glory? Oremember, your work is long, your time is thort; and though you begin this very hour, you will have no time to fpare.

'adly, Delay not this work, becaule it is not in your power to do it when you pleafe. It is a delufion of the devil, to imagine you may repent when you will. No, no; it is God only that giveth repentance, and he gives it when, and to whom he pleafeth, Acts v.12. And it is a mere peradventure, if ever he give it to a delaying finner, 2 Tim. ii. 25. When is it that you may have hopes he will give repentance, but when he calls you to it, and preferibes means to be used for that end? Now that is to-day. " To-day, if ye will hear his voice: now is the accepted time, now is the day of falvation." To-day, when God is calling, and the Spirit firiving, is the time of finding the Lord, and and getting repentance from him. To-morrow it may be too late; the Lord's hand may be clofed, and the door of mercy fhut. If you refufe the Spirit when he ftrives with you, he may leave you, and never put another ferious thought in your heart of turning to the Lord. O defer not feeking repentance till it be too late: for there is a time when the Lord will not be found, and then repentance will not be found, though you feek it with tears. Indeed, God hath promifed mercy to penitent finners: but he hath no where promiled the aids of his grace and Spirit to them that put off their repentance: and he hath no where promifed acceptance to mere grief and forrow for fin, without faith, and fruits meet for repentance : he hath no where promifed to pardon thefe, who only promife to leave their fins, when they can keep them no longer.

4thly, The longer repentance and clofing with Chrift is delayed, the difficulty thereof is every day increafed. Why, 1. Becaufe of the deceitful nature of fin, which doth daily bewitch and harden the heart more and more in the praftice of it. 2. Cuftom in any thing hath a flrong influence on us, and becomes a kind of fecond nature, and breeds an almost invincible inclination to whatGever we have long additted ourfelves unto, whether it be in aftions natural or moral. Hence Ovid gives that good advice.

Sed propera, nec te venturas differ in horas; Qui non est hodie, cras minus aptus crit.

"Be fpeedy, put not off till another time; "He who is not prepared to-day, will be "more unprepared to-morrow."

He that goes on from day to day in fin, will find his indifpolition to repeat daily increaled, the habits of fin firenethened, and himfelf brought at length under the power of an inveterate cuftom. And if it be hard to break any cuftom, much more a cuftom in finning, which is fo agreeable to deprayed nature. Hence faith the Spirit of God, Jer. xiii. 23. " Can the Ethiopian change his fkin, or the leopard his fpots? Then may ye alfo do good, that are accuftomed to do evil." 3. The longer Satan keeps poffeffion, the more difficult will his ejection prove. The devils that poffeffed the man from the womb up, could not be caft out but by fome extraordinary way. 4. Delays bring on fpiritual judgments from God, fuch as judicial hardnefs on the heart, which will make repentance impossible, according to that terrible place, Ifa. vi. 9, 10. " Make the heart of this people fat," &.c. which is quoted no lefs than lix times in the New Teftament, as if it belonged only to them that linger and fit impenitent ander gotpel-calls.

Laftly, We would reckon fuch delays madnefs in earthly affairs, which are but trifles when rompared to falvation-work. If a man's house vere on fire, we would count him mad, if he hould fay, it is time enough to quench it tomorrow; or, if he were flung with a venomous erpent, he would be mad that neglected to feek prefent cure : or, if he had got poilon in his tomach, he would never think he could foon mough vomit it up. If a malefactor were conicmned to a cruel death to-morrow, but had Ee a promife of a remiffion if he fhould look after it to-day; would he be fo foolifh as delay it till next morning? But how much greater madnefs is it to delay repenting and fleeing to Chrift, when God's calls and promifes relate to the prefent time, and our danger in delaying is infinitely greater than in any of the forefaid cafes? Surely there is no fting fo dangerous, no poifon fo deadly as fin; and can we too foon feek after the balm of Gilead, the blood of Chrift for its cure? There is no death like the fecond death. no fire fo dreadful as the eternal fire of God's wrath : Now, this fire is already kindled againft your fouls; and if it be not timeoufly quenched, it will burn to the loweft hell. Lofe no time to get it extinguished, by fleeing to the blood of Julus.

II. The next thing is to fhew the evil and danger of delaying this work until the time of ficknels and of dying. Alas, it is the common practice of the most part! But confider, if, What wretched ingratitude and bafeneis there is in it. Whether is it fit ye fhould give the beft of your time to God that made you, or to the devil that feeks your deftruction? 'Is it reafonable that the d vil fhould feaft on the flower and prime of your youth and ftrength, and your Creator have no other but the fragments of the devil's table? When the dregs of your time are come, your frength gone. your fenfes failed, your understanding and memory weak, your aff: ctions ipent upon the creature, yea, when you are good for nothing elfe; will ye be fo bale as think, you are then good enough for God, and for falvation-work, which requires all your firength and might? But remember, if you be fo bafe as referve the dregs of your time for God, you may expect he will be fo just as referve the dregs of his wrath for you, according to that word, Mal. i. 14. " Curfed be the deceiver, which hath in his flock a male, and facrificeth unto the Lord a corrupt thing." Your youth, ftrength, health, gifts, and talents, are the males of the flock; if you give thefe to the devil, and referve the weakness of fickness and old-age for God, you draw down his curfe upon your heads; and how long will you be able to bear up under the weight of God's curfe ? Now, O delaying finners, why thould you be fo ungrateful to God, and enjurious to yourfelves? God had early thoughts of mency to you; and will you have nothing but late thoughts of duty to him ? Chrift did not defer his dying for us till he was old; and thall we defer living to him, till we be old? Oh, we do not deal with God as we would have him to deal with us. When we need help in trouble, we cry, as Pfal. cii. 2. " Lord, hear me; in the day when I call, answer me speedily." To-day we flill make the feafon of mercy, but to-morrow the feafon for duty. When mercy is delayed, we impatiently cry, How long? how long? We will not wait God's holy leifure. But alas! we would have God to wait our finful leifure. Oh, let us be afhamed of fuch difingenuous dealings with our Creator.

adly, Death may get a commission to take you off fuddenly, without giving you any time to repent. You are not fure to fee the evening ftar of fickness, before the night of death overtake you, or that you will have any warning given you before the fatal ftroke. For how many are there who project long lives, and look for time before death to repent, that get a furprifing call to flit from the earthly tabernacle, and have not one minute to provide another lodging ? How many are drowned by a fudden ftorm at fea? And how many killed by outward accidents at land? Some drop down fuddenly in the ftreets; fome die fitting in their chairs; fome go well to bed at night, and never fee the morning; fome die as quickly by a fit of an epileply, or apoplexy, as if thot with a gun. Thus thousands are hurried into eternity, and presented before a tribunal, without being allowed fo much time as to think one ferious thought, or fpeak one word? not one moment to confider where they are going, or to cry to God for mercy. And how know you but this may be your cafe at death ? Must it not be the greatest folly then, to delay your repentance to a dying time, when it may not be one minute

3dly, Though you may have fome time to lie on fick-beds, how know ye but your ficknefs may be fuch as thall incapacitate you for fipritual work? Some we fee are fo oppreffed with continual fumbering and fleeping, even when death is nearch, that they are in no cafe to think or fpeak of thefe things that belong to their eternal flate. Others, in high fevers, are troubled with rovings; and have no ufe of their reafon, fo that they are not capable to fettle their worldly affairs; and how much lefs are they fit to fecure their fouls eternal concerns, at that time ?- Some, again, are fo racked with extreme pains and agonies, impatient frettings, and bitter uneafinefs, that they cannot get one fettled thought about their fouls prefent or future state. Others are so filled with terror and amazement, at the view of approaching death and eternity, that they cannot compose their thoughts to exemine themfelves, confess their fins, act faith in a Saviour, or follow any direction that is given them; but go off the ftage in a confusion, being incapable to do any thing to purpole for their fouls. Some their diftemper is fuch, that they are brought to a great ftrait betwixt the word of God and the phylician. The word of God and his ministers tell them, if they do not mourn for their fins, and wrefile for mercy, they cannot be faved: but faith the phyfician, if you trouble yourfelf with fad and melancholy thoughts, you prejudice you body, and hazard your life. Oh! is this a fit time then to begin your preparation for another world?

4thly. The Spirit of God being long refifted and vexed by many in the day of health, he is provoked to leave them on death-beds to the hardnefs of their own hearts: And fo they remain like flocks and flones, dead and flopid to the laft.

sthly, The devil, that was bufy all your lives to keep you from repentance, will not be idle at this time; nay, he will be more active then than ever to ruin you, either by caufing you to fplit on the rock of prelumption or of difpair. Sometimes he will tell finners then, "You need not trouble yourfelves about your fouls: God is more merciful than to damn you; the repentance you have already, will ferve the turn." But if this will not quiet them, he will fludy to drive them to difpair, by telling them, "They have loft the feafon of repentance and clofing with Chrift; and now there is no remeany further means." O then, do not hearken' to Satan now, when he tempts you to delay your repentance.

6thly, Whatever appearance of repentance fome dying perfons may have, let that be no encouragement to put off till that time. Why, there lieth a just fuspicion upon a late repentance, that it is feldom found and fincere. It is no found work, that arifeth more from fears of hell, than from any real heatred of fin; more from love to felf, than love to God. And it is to be feared, that death-bed repentance is mollly of this fort, feeing ordinarily it confifteth more in grief and fear, prayers and promifes, than in a hearty loathing of fin. love to holinefs, or willingnefs to accept of Jelus Chrift : for have we not feen many of these penitents, who, in the view of death, have profeffed great forrow for their wicked lives, and made folemn promifes of amendment; yet when they have happened to recover, all their righteoufnefs hath vanified, and they have returned to their former fins as greedily as ever? And, O delaying finner, what ground have you to think that your death-bed repentance will be any better than theirs? Be wile then in time, for heartily about falvation-work in the day of your health, and do not leave the weighticft work to the weakeft time.

Object. I. "But hath not God promifed mercy to them that repent of their fins at any time?"

An/w. Yes, to them that repent truly and fincerely: but do not think that it is in your power to repent fo, at any time you pleafe; no. it is impossible you can do it without the influence and affiltance of the Spirit of God. And God hath no where promifed this to thefe who put off their repentance to a death-bed. There is a great difference betwixt a fick man's howling upon his bed, and fincere gofpel repenting. I grant, true repentance is never too late: but Oh! late repentance is feldom true. True repentance is that which hath a care to walk holily, or bath works meet for repentance joined with it. Hence repentance is not only called METANOIA, a change of mind; but alfo META-MELEIA, an after care. Now for a death-bed repentance, that hath no fuch holy care or good works, I know no promife in the Bible that annexeth falvation unto it.

Object 11.  $^{co}$  Do not we read in Chrift's parable of the labourers, Matth, xx that forme were hired and brought into the vineyard at the eleventh hour, and got the fame reward with thofe that were hired at the third and fixth hour i''

An/w 1. Theie that were brought in fo late, could fay for the miclows verf.6. '' that no man had bired them,'' or had effered to hire them before; they did no fooner hear the golpt-leall, and offers of falvation through Chrift tendered to them. But Oh! this will fland you in no flead, who have had many a call and offer made you at the third fixth, and ninth hour, and have refifted and refuted them; you will not have it to fay at the eleventh hour, as thefe had, '' No man hath bired us.''

2d/y, Thefe men, though they came in but at the eleventh hour, and not being fooner hired, yet they were labourers in the vineyard, and wrought one hour therein faithfully, in obedience to their Lord's command; and fo brought forth fome fruits meet for repentance, and were accepted. But this is no encouragement to any to expect to be brought in at the twelfth hour, when there is no time to work, nor bring forth any fruits toteflify the fincerity of their repentance; we have no promife of acceptance made to luch.

Anfiv. That is a fingular inftance, and gives no encouragement to delaying finners. The feriptures contain a hiftory of more than four thouland years, and yet during all the time we have but one example of a man that truly and fincerely repented when he came to die. And in this man's cafe there was fuch an extaordinary conjunction of cirumflances, as never happened before, and can never fall out again to the end of the world. This man had the happinefs to die clofe by the newly pierced and bleeding wounds of a crucified Jefus, when he was lifted up from the earth in the height of his "love, drawing finners to falvation; which was a iuncture that can never have a parallel. Again. the man never had any offer of Chrift, nor day of grace before now: he furrendered himfelf upon the very first call: and his faith in Chrift at this time was truly fingular and miraculous. He was defigned by Heaven to be made a rare monument of the power of Chrift's grace, and a special trophy of his victory over the devils and wicked men, at a time when they feemed to triumph over him, as one crucified through weaknefs.

From all which we may fee, that this example was extraordinary, and affords no ground for the prefumption of delaying finners. You may as well caft yourfelves into the fea, in hopes of prefervation by a whale, from the example of Jonah, as defer repentance now, in hopes of repenting on a death-bed, from the example of the thief on the crofs. Befides, your way of finning differs vaftly from his. He was not guilty of prefumption, as you are; he did not flight Chrift's calls and offers in the day of his health, and delay his repenting and clofing with Chrift, in hopes of an opportunity for them at the hour of death, as you do. Do you know what God determines concerning prefumptuous finning? You may fee it, Numb. xv. 28, 30, 31. " And the priefts fhall make an atonement for the foul that finne h ignorantly,  $\mathcal{C}c$ . But the foul that doth ought prefumptuoufly, (whether he be born in the land, or a ftranger), the fame repreacheth the Lord: and that foul that be cut off from among his people; becaufe he hath defpifed the word of the Lord." O prefumptuous delaying finner, let this word of the Lord awaken you to a fpeedy and prefert refolation to obey his voice. "Return ye now every one from his evil way, and make your ways and your doings good," Jer. xviii. 11. Now is the accepted time: if ye will hear his voice, it mult be to-day. Lord, fave us from hardening our hearts. Amen.
