EN NO EN NO EN DE EN

INIVNCTIONS¹ SET DOVVN by the L. Provest Bailzies and Counsel of Edin_ BVRGH TO BE OBSERVED BY THE STABLERS WITHIN THE famyne in time comming.

MPRIMIS, There shall be appointed by the Provest, Baillies and Counsell foure honest men Stablers, who shall be called Poast-masters, who being receaved & fworne shall ferve the Kings whole leiges within this Burgh, and reparing thereto at all times when they shall be required by any of the Kings leiges with fufficient horfe and furniture thereto, for the pryces and hyre following, To wit.

Item every person that hyres, any horse shall declare to the Poastmaster how far he is to ryde, and pennies for ilk myle of that journey out-ward, Sommer and Winter, and at his lighting fhall pay if he deliver the horfe to the awner or awners fervant to be free of further charge of the horfe for that journey: And incase he keepe or detene the horse that night, and returne back the second or third day upon the said horse paying the horfe and boyes charges, he shall be no farther astricted of paymant but the outward hyre onely: the jorney being twentie myles at leaft, and if he detene the horfe any longer, to pay fixe shillings aught pennies ilk day, with the horfe and boyes charges.

Item if any person hyre an horse for aught myles or within, if he please either to quite the horse there at his lighting or returne thereon that fame night, provyding he ftay not above halfe ane day, he shall be free paying pennies for ilk myle. But if he detene him all that day, he shall pay for that dayes jorney a marker and if he detene him all night, he shall pay a mark with the horse and mans charges, provyding he ride no furthe hor 8. myles, and ilk day that he detenes the horfelonger, he shall pay vi shillings viij d. with horse and boyes charges

Item ilk person that hyres any horse for any iourney of fourtie myies, if he returne and redeliver the horse to the awner or Poast-master or their servants upon the fourth night after the relait of the faid horse, he befree for the outward hyre of pennies for ilk myle, he paying the horfe and mans charges. And incafe he retene the horfe any longer, he shall pay vi shillings viij d. for ilk day, with the horse and mans charges. And if the jorney be threefcore myles, the perion hyrer of the horfe shall be subject to deliver the horse upon the vi day. And if the jorney be four elcore of myles, upon the eight day, and if it be five fore of myles, upon the tent day and fo foorth accordingly as the jorney shall be more or les, and shall pay onely of any of the forefaids jorneys outward, with the horse and mans charges. And if the persons hyrers detene the pennies for ilk myle horfe any longer in any jorney nor is above fet downe, shall pay for ilk day vi shillings viij d. with the horfe and mans charges ay and while the delivery of the faid horfe.

Item, if any man come to hyre an horse being unknowne or suspect of unsufficiencie; it shall be lesone to the Poast-master to crave caution for the delivery of the horse, and payment of the hyre.

Item, it shall not be lesome to no Stablers nor keepers of horse within this burgh, or sub-urbs thereof, to set their horse far or neer for hyre, but by consent of one of the Poast-masters, under the paine of tinsel of their hyre and prifonement of their perfons at the will of the Magistrats.

Item every person that hyres an horse, shall be subject to ryde jorney ryding onely, & no galloping for spoyling of mens horfe, and if any perfon shall be tryed and found to have done the samine either myle or halfe myle or above, hee shall pay an unlaw of 40 shillings to the awners of the horse; and if the horse be spoiled thereby, he Thall pay the valour and price of the faid horfe. The price of the faid horfe being tryed by the Baillies.

Item, the faids Poast-masters shall be bound to receave and observe all articles, statuts and injunctions to be fet down and given to them in any time heereafter by the Provest, Baillies and Counsell.

Item, the faids Poaft-mafters shall be obleift to furnish the King whole leiges at all times with sufficient horse and horfe geare, & fhall obferve and keep the whole injunctions given and fet down to them as faid is, under the paine of five pounds fo oft as they failzie, & farther punifhment of their perfon at the will of the Magistrats.

Item, the faids Poast-masters shall have for their paines and travels & onwaiting for ferving the Kings leiges as faid is, of ilk twenty shillings of hyre filver twelve pennies to be payed by the awners of the horse at the payment of the hyre.

EDINBVRGH Printed by IOMN WREITTOVN. 1634.