

To the KING'S Most Excellent MAJESTY.

The bumble Address of the Magistrats and Council of His Majesties City of Edinburgh, for themselves, and in name of the whole Inhabitants sbercof.

May it please Your Majesty,

Hen we reflect on the joyful Acclamations with which the News of Your Majesties Succession to the Crown, were received in this Capital City of Your Majesties Ancient Kingdom, notwithstanding of the fad Lois which made way for it; And with what profound Peace and Quiet these Acclamations are still followed here . We cannot but bless the Almighty God by whom Kings Reign, and by whom that Royal Line under which we have been to long happy, is now lengthened to one degree further by your Glorious Addition, Your Majesty being now the 3d Monarch of that Royal Race; Having also reason to expect from Your Justice and Clemency which we our felves were fo happy as to fee when we were Governed by your Majesties immediat Influence. That your Majesties Inclinations are as good as your Title, and that Your great Prudence is able to forefee, and Your great Courage able to overcome all these desperate Designs which tend to make us Atheists, under the pretext of Religion, and Slaves under the pretext of Liberty. We do therefore from joyful hearts Congratulate Your Majesties happy Ascent to the Throne of Your Ancient and Royal Anceftors ; And as this City had from their Bounty their large Priviledges, So we hope from Your Majesties Juffice and Kindness the free Exercise and happy Continuation of them. In Recognizance whereof we shall be alwayes ready to imploy our Lives and Fortunes in Your Majesties Service, and to pray the Almighty God to preferve You from the Malice of Your Enemies, and to make you a Bleffing to Your Dutiful Subjects.
