CORONATION

Peep at the

At home in our village when we'd done our daily: labour

The barber every night would read the news to each good neighbour,

I heard it all & did not stay for fathers approbation But started up to Lunnun town to see the Coronation. (quite fluster'd,

Well there I got and just at first I felt myself To see all round Westminster such lots of people mustered, (station,

But howsomdever in the crowd I got myself a And there I waited anxiously to see the Ceronation

Some how a soldier's prancing horse he took fright at a dandy, (and randy' And gallop'd in among the crowd so frolicksome I was carried off my legs shoved on the elevation So I got a seat for nothing to see the Coronation.

I sat myself down very still nobody came to rout me; (me,

I slily cast my eyes upon the Ladies round about. The sun shone down so hot, they were in prespiration, It molted all their and and white at the

It melted all their red and white at the famous

Just at the moment I deciare procession it wur beginning, a grinning. I seed dukes, bishops, trumpeters, & ranky lords

I simply ax'd which wur the King, a man with irritation, Coronation.'

Says, 'you're a pretty fool to come to see a

At last the King himself did come drest up so fine oh dear me, (near me,

I never in all my life before had had a King so So graciously he made a bow to me & congregation So I war taken notice of at famous Coronation.

When this wur done I thought thinks I, I've seed all that I can see. (my fancy ? So out I got and then I found, I had paid dear for I'd lost a sovereign & my purse. & on examination My watch which ne'er did go before did go at Coronation.

Now tho'f I've lost my money by some theif my pockets fumbling (to grumbling; You maunt suppose that ever I do give my mind I lik'd the sight so well that without the least hesitation Coronation. I'd lose another Sovereign to see another
