

verses written on the
WONDERFUL MIRACLE THAT HAS LATELY HAPEN'D IN THE NORTH OF IRELAND

Good people pay attention with me now sympathise,
 I'm shure this dreadful miracle will strike you with surpris
 Concerning a gentleman by satan led astray,
 And at the end I afraid he became the dragon,

Its in the North of Ireland near to the ho'y well,
 In the county of Fermanah this gentleman did dwell
 For beguile young maidens he studdy'd day & night
 And bring them to distruction it was his whole delight,

There was a girl in this place most beautiful to see
 She did resign her fortune in to the Nunnery,
 To go in this holy Convet this fair one did prepare
 But oh this cruel villian for oer he laid a snare,

It was on a sunday eveing returning to her home,
 This wicket perpetrator he met her all alone,
 Its with a pistol in his hand he unto her did say,
 If you make the least alarm I'll take your life away,

This fair maid she was horrifide to hear what he did say
 But from her heart in secred she did pray,
 O may the Blessed Virg'n with mercy look on me,
 As I am now in danger may you set me free,

This villian was determind no mercy for to show,
 He seize'd this fair one by the breast & would not let her go
 Our Blessed Lady with her Son beside them did appear,
 She took this fair one by the hand which maid him shake

This villian fell unto the ground quite lifeless he lay
 This fair one giving teanks to God his homeshe went straitway
 The lady like a brilliant star to Heaven did asend,
 It was the Blessed Virgin that stood this fair ones freinds

This villian struggle'd to his home surprise'd at what he see
 He say's my sinful actions no longer I can screen,
 The devil being his master & him he did obey,
 Wth a double-baril-pistol his life he took avay,

Now to conclu in these fevv lines good people hear in mind
 If vve but pray to Mary to us she'll still prove kind,
 In spite of satan & his imps she set this fair one free,
 For she has receiv'd favour from the Holy Trinity,

P. Brereton, Printer, for Exchange, St, Dublin

