Ship Letters.—Letters coming from on board any ship are chargeable with an additional rate for a single letter of 8d.

Letters conveyed outwards, in sealed bags, are chargeable with half packet postage, which must be paid when put into the office.

By the Ship Letter Act it is enacted, that every master of a vessel, immediately on his arrival in port, shall take the whole of his letters to the Post-office, under penalty of £200 ; and the captain must sign a declaration that every letter has been so delivered, before his vessel can be permitted to report at the Custom-house.

Vessels to and from Ireland, or Coastwise, are not allowed to convey letters, under a heavy penalty.

Bank Notes and Drafts.—Persons wishing to send bank notes or drafts by post, are advised to cut such notes or drafts in halves, and send them at two different times, waiting till the receipt of one half is acknowledged before the other is sent.

Money, Rings, or Lockets, &c.—When money, rings, or lockets, &c. are sent by the post from Edinburgh, particular care should be taken to deliver the same to the Clerk, at the window at the General Post-office; and when any such letter is to be sent from the country, it should be delivered into the hands of the Post-master; but it is to be observed, that this office does not engage to insure the party from loss.

The advantages derived by those who insure in these Offices only require to be sufficiently known to be duly appreciated. All persons insured share profits equally with the original proprietors, without incurring any responsibility whatever, a Capital exceeding ONE MILLION Sterling affording the amplest means of indemnity.

In the FIRE-OFFICE, returns of 20 and 25 per cent have been invariably paid to all who have continued insured seven years, upon annual as well as upon septennial policies, and whether they have been claimants for Losses or otherwise.

In the LIFE-OFFICE, bonuses of L.13, 8s., and L.26, 12s. together 40 per cent, have been divided during the last 14 years; and other very peculiar advantages are afforded.

The rates of premium in these Offices are uncommonly liberal. No charge is made for policies for Life Insurance, and for Fire Insurance only when the premium does not amount to 6s. When transferred from other Offices, no charge is made.

Proposals and tables of Fire and Life Insurance and Annuities may be had gratis, by applying to any of the Agents, as under.

The following may be mentioned among the advantages which attend insuring with this Company :

The assured participate in the profits or savings of the Company, to the extent of two-thirds, and without any responsibility.

The participation may be applied, in the option of the assured, either to their own immediate benefit, by a diminution of the yearly premiums, or to the benefit of their heirs, by additions being made to the sums insured.

In case the assured should wish at any time to discontinue their policies, the Directors are authorised to purchase them.

An ample capital being provided by the Proprietors, the most undoubted security is afforded for the prompt discharge of the Company's engagements.

This Society commenced at Candlemas 1825, insuring all manner of property, upon terms much more favourable than has been offered by any office in Great Britain, and will return every seven years, to those who insure with them, the WHOLE PROFITS, in exact proportion to the premiums they may pay during that period. The insured are also fully guaranteed against all risk.

Imperial

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

SUN-COURT, CORNHILL, & ST JAMES'S, LONDON.

CAPITAL £1,200,000.

ALEXANDER GIBSON and GEORGE GOOLD, of the British Linen Company Bank, Agents for Edinburgh.

The terms of the IMPERIAL are as reasonable as any in the kingdom; and in case of accident, the utmost liberality may be expected.

Policies may be removed from any other office to the Imperial, without expense to the party insured.

Alexander Gibson and George Goold, continue to transact business as agents for the Imperial Life Insurance Company,

Imperial

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,

CAPITAL £750,000.

ALEXANDER GIBSON and GEORGE GOOLD, of the British Linen Company Bank, Agents for Edinburgh.

Persons insuring at this Office will derive two important advantages.—First, The most effectual security is provided for payment of losses. Not only will the premium received upon policies be carefully invested, and accumulated for that purpose, but a capital of Seven Hundred and Fifty Thousand Pounds has been subscribed, to answer any possible deficiency.

Secondly, Upon every policy effected for the whole term of life, the insurer will participate in the profits of the Company, by having periodical additions made to the sums insured, to the amount of two-third parts of such clear gains and profits.

At the same time, they will be protected by the ample capital above mentioned from every chance of loss.

Lives insured with the IMPERIAL are allowed to pass by sea from one part of the United Kingdom to another; and also, in time of peace, to pass in King's ships and packets, or other decked vessels, between British ports and such foreign ports as lie between Ostend and Havre de Grace, both included, without extra premium, and without being subjected to the inconvenience of applying for the special leave of the Directors, as heretofore required by the usual condition of life policies.

Alexander Gibson and George Goold continue to transact business as Agents for the Imperial Fire Insurance Company.

London Union

ASSURANCE SOCIETY FOR FIRE, LIVES, AND ANNUITIES.

(INSTITUTED IN THE REIGN OF QUEEN ANNE.)

This is one of the oldest offices in London, (1714). Of the profits, which are divided, the Proprietors can never draw more than one third, and the Insured are entitled to two thirds, which are added, once in seven years, to the sums in the policies. Notwithstanding this small share of Profits divided among the Stock Proprietors, an opportunity of purchasing the Stock rarely occurs, and then it is so much sought after in London, that upwards of L.200 per cent is readily given for it, which is the best evidence of the public confidence in the stability and success of the Office. This office has never appeared in a Court of Law. From the large share of Profits divided among the Insured, every L.100 insured by a policy for the whole period of life, may become worth L.150 at the death of the person insured. The insured for limited periods do not participate in the profits, but the rates for such insurances are reduced 20 per cent below the usual rates. The rates for the whole period of life are equally low with those for short insurances, when the share of the profits, to which the insured are entitled, is taken into computation. The Assured for the whole period of life may, by the rules of the Society, pay off the whole annual premiums in one year, or any limited number of years:—for which purpose the Society have had Tables calculated on the most equitable principles. This will be found to be of great advantage to many who cannot, with certainty, calculate on its being convenient to make an annual payment during life.

FIRE INSURANCE.—Those insuring against Loss by Fire, for seven years, are entitled to share in the profits in the same proportion as in the Life department, which generally amount to upwards of one-fourth of the total premium paid; while only six years premium and duty are required, payable when the insurance is effected. The terms for Septennial Insurance are therefore highly advantageous to the public. Annual Fire Insurances are done on the usual terms.

The business of this Society is extended, not only throughout Britain and Ireland but also widely on the Continent of Europe—in the profits of all which the Assured in Scotland are entitled to participate as above, without any risk whatever. Besides the rates of Insurance, the other conditions, particularly of Life Insurance, will be found extremely liberal—such as subject the Assured to the least possible inconvenience.

The system adopted by this Institution combines security with economy—considers every insurance as a transaction for the mutual advantage of the contracting parties, and gives the assured an interest in the prosperity of the Office, without incurring any responsibility.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

Persons insuring with the North British Fire Office may either secure a precise sum at the lowest rate of premium, at which the risk can be safely undertaken, or, on paying an equivalent premium, may participate in the profits without sharing in the responsibility.

The following extract from the Company's Table of Rates shows, that the terms, as compared with those of other offices, are favourable to the assured.

Annuities, or sums corresponding thereto, may be assured at the North British Office, either by single or annual payments, under the following forms, to suit different objects :

1. Deferred annuities, to commence at any given time, whereby the savings of the more active period of life is made more effectually to contribute to the comfort of declining years.

2. Annuities on survivorships, whereby provision is made for widows, or others.

3. Endowments to children, to commence at any period, and to continue for the remainder of the life, or for any number of years.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Property of every description is insured against loss or damage by fire, at the usual rates of premium, corresponding to the risk. Loss or damage by lightning is made good. Farm-stocking is insured, without the average clause, on a plan which saves the farmer from 20 to 25 per cent.

Persons who have made seven successive annual payments on their policy, previous to each division of the profits, or who, by one payment of the premium for seven years, have had their property assured at this Office for not less than the above period, are entitled to participate in the profits, and are guaranteed from all responsibility by the capital of the Company.

LIFE AND FIRE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

OFFICE, 34, ST. ANDREW SQUARE.

CAPITAL L.2,000,000.

It has been the object of this Institution to combine the advantages and to remedy the defects of other Establishments; and greater benefits are secured to the Public, both in the Life and Fire Departments, than have been offered by any other Society.

In the Life Department, four-fifths (or 80 per cent.) of the estimated profits will be added every seventh year, by way of bonus, to the Policies effected for the whole term of life, on lives insured under the age of fifty, or will be applied in reduction of future annual premiums, at the option of the Assured.

In the Fire Department, an equal apportionment of four-fifths (or 80 per cent.) of the profits on Policies continued for seven years, will be septennially allowed to persons who have paid seven years' premium in a single sum, or by annual payments. The remaining profits in both Departments will be transferred to the Subscribed Capital, and preserved untouched, to form a continually-increasing guarantee to the Assured.

The Assured have all the advantages of a Subscribed Capital, with the efficient management and influence of a wealthy Proprietary; and they are secured an effectual protection against an improvident application of the Funds and Capital of the Society, by having that controul over the Management of its affairs which their important interests demand. The holder of a Policy for the whole term of life for

£1000, will, after two annual payments, be entitled to	One Vote.
£3000, - - - - -	Two Votes.
£5000, - - - - -	Three Votes.

A prompt payment of six year's premium entitles the Assured to the benefit of a seven years' insurance.

All claims on the Society paid without deduction or discount; and the Assured have the option of settling disputed claims by Arbitration.

Parties by obtaining the settlement of a loss, do not lose their right to participate in the profits.

Persons Assuring their lives in this Office may cross the sea in decked vessels between the Elbe and Brest, without any extra premium being required.

As objections have sometimes been stated to the publicity which is given to Insurances effected upon Lives, arrangements have been made, by the Directors of this Establishment, which will entirely obviate this difficulty.

Scottish

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

(Founded on the original model of the Equitable Society of London,)

2, SOUTH ST. DAVID STREET, EDINBURGH.

This is the oldest Scottish Establishment for effecting assurances on lives and survivorships. From the nature of its constitution, (which is formed on the original model of the Equitable of London,) it presents advantages which no institution with which a body of proprietors is connected can possibly offer. The rates of premiums are lower than those of the Equitable, and most of the other London offices, and THE WHOLE PROFITS belong to and are divided periodically among the assured. From this, it is evident, that assurances are effected at this office on the lowest possible terms; any surplus funds, above what is required to answer the actual demands against the Society from losses, and the expense of an economical management, being returned to the members. The rules of distribution of the surplus funds, have been formed upon the most equitable principles, by individuals of great skill and experience in such matters. At the first periodical investigation of the affairs of the Society, which took place at 1st January last, in terms of the articles of constitution, there remained, after setting apart one-third of the free surplus ascertained at that date, as a guarantee fund, a divisible surplus “sufficient for making additions of TWENTY-SIX PER CENT, to the whole benefits assured by policies issued prior to 1st January 1820, and entitled to additions, in terms of the articles of constitution.” In this way, a policy opened prior to 1st January 1820, for £1000, is already increased to the sum of £1260, which will be paid on the decease of the party assured; and there is reason to think, that the future additions will be in proportion. Less considerable contingent prospective additions, in the event of a member dying between any two periods of investigation, have likewise been provided for. The office-bearers are chosen by the members of the Society, and must themselves be members, and of course personally interested in the Society.

Copies of the prospectus, containing an ample exposition of the principles and rules of the Society, together with tables of rates, may be had gratis at the Society's Office, No. 2, South St David Street, where every information may be obtained.—JOHN M'KEAN, Manager.

The unexampled support which this Company has received from all classes of the community, is a sufficiently convincing proof that the Public do now fully appreciate the value and importance of insurance business.

This Company, by the magnitude of its capital, by its numerous proprietary, (comprising the principal influence in Scotland,) and by the broad and solid basis on which it is established, is enabled to commence its operations on so large a scale, as at once to present a National Institution, capable of affording the most unlimited security to the Public, combined with absolute safety to the Partnership itself.

IN THE FIRE DEPARTMENT,

Property of every description may be insured, and the rates required will be as low as experience proves to be compatible with safety, according to the nature and extent of the risk in each particular case.

The public may confidently rely on the liberality of the Directors, not only in regard to the moderation of the Rates of Premium, but on their uniform promptitude and honour in the settlement of losses.

IN THE LIFE DEPARTMENT,

The various risks to be removed by Life Insurance are so obviously indicated in the Tables, and the contract is now so extensively resorted to, that the only point to which it is material to advert, relates to the comparative merits of the different principles and schemes upon which business of this kind is transacted.

Societies for transacting the business of Life Insurance are of the three following general descriptions:—

I. Societies upon the principle of Mutual Insurance to the extent of the contributions of the members, and in which, consequently, the members divide, exclusively and in common, the eventual profit or loss upon the scheme.

II. Societies, in which a capital stock, subscribed by a separate body of proprietors, is pledged to guarantee the insurances, and where the insured are at the same time admitted to a participation with the proprietors in the eventual profit upon the scheme.

III. Societies in which, as in the second case, a capital stock, subscribed by a separate body of proprietors, is pledged to guarantee the insurances, but where those proprietors take upon themselves exclusively the eventual profit or loss upon the scheme.

It is to be observed, that what are called the profits of a Life Assurance Society, from time to time, stand in a very peculiar situation. They are not profits actually realized to the society at the time, but are dependent upon a long train of future contingencies. To estimate them aright, at different successive stages in the progress of the society, and to distribute them, or a portion of them, among the subsisting policies, with a due regard to incidental and contingent circumstances, including, perhaps, the precise effect of a guarantee in such a question, is a problem which requires much cautious and difficult investigation, and as to the solution of which the most experienced judgments may be divided. Considerations of this kind appear to go deeply into the merits of the different plans of insurance above-mentioned.

Societies of the first description are in principle just and equal. If judiciously and impartially conducted, the principal objections to which they seem to be liable, are the sort of speculative enterprise in which they embark the members, contrary to the genuine and proper object of the contract of Life Insurance; the fluctuation and uncertainty thus attaching to the policies, and the extravagant expectations which are somewhat apt to be engendered—the increased rates of contribution, which a view to security requires, beyond the special necessity and convenience of each particular case—and at the same time the want of a separate collateral fund to render the security absolute and independent of unfavourable events.

Those of the second description appear to combine the most of those disadvantages, with one of a very serious nature, peculiar to themselves, namely, that of containing the seeds of jealousy, discord, and contention, between the proprietors on the one hand, and insured parties, or their representatives, on the other, in regard to successive questions of profits, with which, in such societies, the insured are connected, by a relation which, at the same time that it is excrescent, and perhaps ambiguous, involves considerations of the most complicated nature.

Societies of the third description undertake the whole essence of Life Assurance, to the exclusion of every thing extraneous. If constituted in regard to premiums, upon a fair and liberal basis, as between the insurers and insured, they are free from all the objections above referred to, and appear to be the best adapted to answer the specific and definite purpose proposed. By reducing the rate of premium, they give, in truth, to the insured, upon the best and most equitable footing, that very share of the profits which is often delusively held out by those societies which act under the second description.

To persons desirous of effecting Life Insurance, it is of much importance to consider attentively the nature and entire legal effect of the contract by which their claims are to be regulated or affected. It is, in general, desirable that it should be simple and determinate, unencumbered with superfluous qualities and conditions. The object, in most cases, it may be presumed, will be to secure effectually, and at the least practicable expense, the specific benefits proposed; and to keep the insured and their representatives quite without the sphere of those difficulties and contentions which are incident, in a very especial manner, to the determination and distribution, from time to time, of the profits or losses of a Life Assurance Society. It is foreign to the views and intentions with which insurances on lives are generally effected, and indeed repugnant to them, that an interest should be thereby created in the contingent and doubtful profits of a speculative concern, by which the party or his representatives may eventually be embroiled in litigation, and that there should be any degree of suspense or uncertainty in regard either to the extent of the claim, or to its perfect security.

The proper object of Life Insurance is satisfied when a specific benefit is secured absolutely, in an office entitled in all respects to perfect confidence, and at the lowest premium which is consistent with the probability of a moderate and reasonable return to those who pledge an ample capital, at all hazards, to guarantee it. It would not probably be too much to predict, that, to this point, societies for Life Insurance, now vibrating around it in a way which marks the immaturity of the system, will be ultimately determined, by the convenience, security, and general advantage of all parties.

These are the considerations which have induced the Directors of the SCOTTISH UNION INSURANCE COMPANY to adopt the plan of the third description.

The construction of the tables has been superintended by an eminent professional Accountant, experienced in such investigations; and they involve, in a high proportion, the observations of mortality at Carlisle, according to which the probabilities of life are represented as materially greater, and consequently, the rates of assurance as materially less, than those deduced from the well-known Northampton observations, which have been adopted by most Assurance Offices.

The Directors feel confident that the moderation of their rates, the freedom of the insured from risk, and the other favourable circumstances above-mentioned, will be the means of procuring for this Company a large share of public support.

Tables showing the Rates of Premium for assurances on Single lives, Joint lives, and Survivorships, and also for Endowments to Children, may be had on application at the Head Office (corner house of North Bridge and Prince's Street,) in Edinburgh, or from any of the Company's Agents at the principal towns in Scotland: they are all constructed upon the most liberal principles applicable to the several contingencies. On application at the Office, the rates may be ascertained of any other description of assurance or benefit depending on the probability of life.

Although, by the Conditions, the policies of persons assured on their own lives become void if the assured die by their own hands, by duelling, or by the hands of justice, the Directors are empowered in such cases to take circumstances of peculiar hardship into consideration, and to allow the representatives of the party, the whole of the sum assured, or such part of it as they may think proper.

After three annual payments have been made upon policies for the whole term of life, the Directors are empowered to give a fair price for policies which the holders wish to surrender.

No charge will be made for entrance money or admission fees.
