two excepute for toom are still denizens of Greenock. Mr Galbraith and Mr Macara have long retired from business, and are enjoying in the evening of their days the repose which a well-spent life ensures. Mr M'Clure still follows his professional avocations, although he has in a large measure left them to younger hands. Mr Robertson, who was a banker in Greenock in 1836, and resided at Bagatelle, which he built, ultimately took a medical degree, and practised first in Canada and afterwards in Cheshire, where, in the enjoyment of a green old age, he still resides. Mr M'Ilwraith. whose eye is undimmed and whose natural force is unabated, appears to wear a charmed life and to defy the darts of Time. Mr Lusk in 1836 had probably not heard the Bells of Bow, as his predecessor Whittington did centuries before, and probably had not contemplated migration to the mighty wen on the Thames, but he is now Sir Andrew, a Baronet of the United Kingdom, has passed the Lord Mayor's chair, and still discharges efficiently his manifold duties, public and private, in the great city of London, where, in a striking measure, he illustrates in his own person the reality of Scotch perseverance and grit. These six names form a link, a living link, and long may it endure, between the present generation and the generation whose names appear in the Directory of 1836. Their recollections, if they could but be recorded and preserved, would form delightful "abstracts and chronicles of the times" through which they have passed, and it is to be hoped that some, if not all of them, have taken means to preserve a record of events which their younger contemporaries and those who come after them would read with profit. Mr M'Ilwraith writes pleasure and currente calamo, and has, it is whispered, contributed to the local press sketches of some of the men in his own profession sixty years since. But we believe he has a great reserve of reminiscences, local and personal, which would be invaluable to lovers of domestic and local history, and they should not be lost.

The citizens we have named and many others whose names do not appear in the Directory, who can recall the Greenock of 1836, must be able to note many changes which have taken place in the condition of the town since then.

Between 1826 and 1841 the population of Greenock had increased from 27,000 to 36,000, an increase in fifteen years of 9000, or thirty-three per cent. Assuming that the increase was on an average about 600 a year, the population in 1836 must have been about 33,000—more than half, what it is at present—and the ratio of increase, hetween 1826 and 1836, seems to have been as great as at any

GREENOCK IN 1836.

In these columns a few weeks ago we noticed a copy of the Greenock Directory for 1826-27, which, through the kindness of a townsman, we had an opportunity of examining. Another townsman, whose courtesy we desire to acknowledge has permitted us to examine a Directory for Greenock for the year 1836-37, and the two publications, which are a decade apart, afford material for a comparison and a contrast.

The Directory for 1826 was compiled when George the Fourth was King, by Mr W. Hutchison, of Greenock, the grandfather, we believe, of the present respected Chairman of the School Board.

The Directory for 1836 was the work not of a Greenock citizen, but of Mr George Fowler, a bookseller in Paisley, and it appeared during "the hindmost year but ane" of the reign of William the Fourth, and immediately before her present Gracious Majesty, then agirl in her seventeenth year, had assumed the sceptre which she has wielded with unequalled benignity for five-and-fifty years. To those who have lived under that rule no better guage could be applied to measure the progress, moral and material, which has been made during the Victorian era than a comparison between 1836 and 1891.

The Directory for 1836 is described as "Fowler's Commercial Directory of the Lower Ward of Renfrewshire, containing an alphabetical list of the merchants, traders, and manufacturers, shipmasters, pilots, mariners, and principal inhabitants, including the sea-bathing quarters of Fairley, Gareloch, Gourock, Helensburgh, Inverkip, Largs, and Rothesay." It is dedicated to Sir Michael Shaw Stewart of Greenock and Blackhall, Baronet, M.P. for the County, and Robert Wallace, Esq., M.P. for Greenock, and the Magistrates and Town Council of Greenock and Port-Glasgow. Bound along with it is a Directory of the Upper Ward of Renfrey shire, and it is altogether a considerable volume consisting of 252 pages, of which 148 are occupied with the names, numbering about 3371, of the residenters of Greenock.

It was melancholy to observe that in the Directory of 1826 the name of a living person could not be found. It is happily different in the Directory of 1836. In the later list a remnant have been left of those who, eleven lustres ago, had already become, or were beginning to be responsible citizens of the capital of the Lower Ward. Their names—and we trust it is no breach of the privileges of private life to mention them—are John Galbraith, Andrew Lusk, Renton Macara, William M'Clure, Hew M'Ilwraith, and James H. Robertson—With

REGULATIONS FOR STEAM VESSELS.

The Magistrates and Town Council of Greenock, Trustees for the Improvement of the Harbours of Greenock, and for establi hing, supporting, and regulating the Police thereof, in virtue of the powers committed to them by the acts of Parliament, 50 Geo. III. Cap. 167 and 57, Geo. III. Cap. 32. hereby enact and ordain the following Regulations, to be strictly observed and enforced from and after the first day of June 1826, until expressly altered, viz:

Ist. That every Steam-Vessel for the conveyance of Passengers only, shall be brought alongside of that portion of the outside of the Custom House Quay betwixt the Watch-house and Light-house, provided the same is not previously occupied; and Steam Vessels for the Conveyance of Goods and Luggage shall take their stations alongside the other portion of the said Quay, and that under a penalty not exceeding Five Pounds for each offence.

2d. That all Masters or other persons in charge of Steam Vessels, shall depart and sail from the said Harbour punctually at the hours of sailing announced on the boards put up for the said Vessels within the town of Greenock, and that under a penalty not exceeding Five Pounds for each offence. And the time of the day shall be regulated and determined by the Public Clock at the Square. And on no account shall the period which has been announced be altered by the Masters, or by others under their directions or acting under their authority, under a penalty not exceeding Five Pounds for each offence. But it is hereby provided and declared, that if, from the state of the weather, or any unforeseen occurrence, the Vessel cannot sail at the time announced on the boards, she shall depart as soon thereafter as the Master or other in command shall be required by the person appointed as after-mentioned, and that under a penalty not exceeding Five Pounds for each offence.

3d. That the Bugle or Horn, used as a call for the sailing of any Steam-Vessel, shall not be blown or sounded for such purpose until within five minutes of the time appointed for sailing, and it shall be done not on the Quays, or through the streets, but by a person stationed on board the said Vessel, and that under a penalty not exceeding Five Pounds for each offence.

4th. That masters and Crews of all Steam-Vessels, lying nearest the Quay, shall have a sufficient gang-way board, with a hand rail affixed to it, placed betwixt their Vessel and the Quay, and shall give free access over the decks of their Vessels to passengers, to and from the Vessels lying in the outside berths or stations; as also free access for the conveyance of luggage and coals, to and from said vessels—under a penalty not exceeding five pounds for each offence.

5th. That when it is dark, every Steam Vessel, for passengers, shall, under a penalty not exceeding Five Pounds for each offence, have and use sufficient lights at the time of their arrival at, or departure from the Harbour, so as to enable passengers to get on board or to land with safety.

6th. That the Masters and Crews of all Steam-Vessels, shall take special care to exclude all persons under pretence of selling fruit or other eatables, or persons pretending to be porters, from coming and remaining on board within ten minutes of the hour of sailing, and shall, when called upon, assist the officer on the station and the Licensed Porters in keeping on shore boys or other idlers—under a penalty not exceeding Five Pounds for each offence.

7th. That in order to defray the expence of removing and carting away the dross, ashes, and rubbish discharged from Steam-Boats and laid down upon the Quay, there shall be paid annually as follows, viz. For each Steam-Vessel plying on the River, and resorting to Greenock Quays daily, at the rate of 1s. 6d. for every horse power.

Steam Boats plying on the line, that only call at Greenock

Once in 2 days, 1s. 4d. per each horse-power.

Once in 3 days, 1s. 2d. do.
Once in 4 days, 1s. 0d. do.
Once in 5 days, 10d. do.
Once a week. 8d. do.

8th. That a person shall be appointed by the Magistrates and Council, to see these regulations carried into execution and strictly enforced; and the Masters and Crews of Steam-Vessels shall obey the orders and instructions given by that person.

9th. That the penalties incurred under the preceding Regulations may be sued for before the Magistrates of Greenock, and recovered at the instance of the Procurators Fiscal of the Harbour Police of Greenock, and such proportion of these penalties to be awarded to the informer as the Court may in its discretion direct.

10th. That a printed copy of these Regulations shall, by its owners be placed in the Cabin and in the Steerage of each Steam-Vessel, and which shall at all times be open and patent to the passengers on board of said Vessel—under a penalty not exceeding Five Pounds for each offence.

D. Kennedy, Superintendant for berthing Steamers.

DIRECTIONS

For the Recovery of the apparently Drowned or Dead, BY THE PAISLEY HUMANE SOCIETY.

IN APPARENT DEATH three objects are constantly to be kept in view; 1st, to remove every hurtful cause; 2d, to regulate the temperature of the body; 3d, to restore breathing. For these purposes the following directions may be usefully employed, till medical assistance arrive, which ought instantly to be sent for in every case.

In a Case of Drowning.

Remove as quickly as possible all wet clothes from the body, dry it well, wrap it in any warm woollen covering, and convey it with the head and breast moderately raised, to the nearest house, where none but useful assistants ought to be admitted. Let the body now be laid in a warm bed or upon a warm blanket near a fire, but not exposed to a strong heat. Let the lost heat be restored by rubbing the surface with warm cloths or hands, by wrapping a piece of warm flannel or blanketing round the waist, and by applying warm substances, first and chiefly to the trunk and head, next to the limbs. most convenient for this purpose are bottles or flasks filled with warm water, and bags or stockings filled with hot grains, chaff, bran, salt, or sand. Large glysters of warm water should also be exhibited. To restore the breathing, let a person firmly compress the nostrils with the fingers of one hand, then apply his mouth across the mouth of the body, and blow forcibly: let him now lift his head and the This operation is to be commenced as soon as posair will escape. sible, and continued till natural breathing return, or till the case appear hopeless. If water in the mouth and nostrils prevent inflation of the lungs, it ought to be discharged by blowing into the mouth while the nostrils are left open.

In a Case of Strangling.

Remove every thing tight from the neck and breast, then proceed to inflate the lungs and restore heat, as directed above.

In a Case of Suffocation from Impure Air.

Admit fresh air, inflate the lungs, and, if the body be cold, restore heat as directed above; if, as sometimes happens, it be warmer than naturally, reduce the heat by dashing the head, neck, and breast smartly with cold water.

In a Case of apparent Death from Lightning.

Besides using the same means as for suffocation, give large glysters of salt and water, and use friction over the whole body.

In a Case of Apparent Death from Intense Cold.

Avoid placing the body at first near the fire, use friction rather than apply heat for a time; in other respects, act as for drowning.

In a Case of Excessive Intoxication.

If the breathing be suspended, act as for drowning, give large glysters of salt and water, endeavour to bring up the contents of the stomach by tickling the throat with feathers; for the same purpose. when the power of swallowing is restored, give copious draughts of warm water.

To prevent Death from Loss of Blood.

If from a wound, apply firm pressure to the wound by the finger, or a small pad, till medical assistance can be procured.—If from a limb, twist the handkerchief tightly round the limb, nearer to the heart than the wound. If fainting has taken place, lay the patient in the recumbent position, and apply hartshorn to the nostrils. - If the bleeding is from an internal part, apply cold wet clothes, and avoid all stimulants.

FOWLER'S Gourock and Neighbourhood DIRECTORY.

The Publisher feels much pleasure in calling the attention of his readers, particularly those of them who are in the habit of passing some part of the summer season on the coast, to this beautifully situated, and easily accessible village. The names of the streets have recently been painted on conspicuous places, and the houses numbered, so that letters and parcels may now be so explicitly directed, that all chances of delay are removed. The town is rapidly on the increase, a number of handsome, comfortable, and commodious houses having recently been erected along the Western Bay, which, like the other parts have been sectioned off into streets, places, &c., and numbered. One hundred and forty five new sites have lately been laid off upon a regular plan for feuing, by the spirited proprietor. General Darroch; these sites are laid off upon the rising ground back of the town, so that they will command a wide extent of prospect of the Firth and the opposite shore. And as the place will now have the advantage of a good substantial Harbour, (the new Harbour being nearly finished) to which vessels may enter at any state of the tide, so that the most timid may now land in perfect safety. From the list of Furnished Lodgings subjoined, showing the number of Apartments and Beds, strangers can accommodate themselves with Lodgings to the required extent, with almost no trouble; to many of the Lodgings are also attached coach houses, stabling, garden, &c.

HELENSBURGH & NEIGHBOURHOOD,

DUMBARTONSHIRE.

HELENSBURGH.

This well and increasingly frequented bathing place is situated on the verge of the Western Highlands of Scotland, and is about eight miles distant from Dumbarton, the County Town. It is of very recent origin, having been founded about the year 1779, by the late Sir James Colquhoun of Luss, Bart., by whom it was named after his lady, Lady Helen Sutherland Colquhoun, of the house of Sutherland. Although of so recent a date it is rapidly on the increase, numerous handsome villas and houses being erected in and around it every season, which the numerous visitors frequenting it in the bathing season render necessary.

The town was erected into a free Burgh of Barony in favour of Sir James Colquhoun of Luss, by Royal Charter, granted 28th July, 1802, and is governed by a Provost, two Bailies, four Councillors, Treasurer, and Dean of Guild. The town is built on a regular plan, according to which every new edifice is or ought to be erected. Few towns have a finer appearance when viewed from the sea, or opposite shore, than this, were there but a spire to adorn the prospect; and, for the benefit of the inhabitants and those visiting the town, a public clock, which the place stands greatly in need of.

Such is the beauty of this town, such a union too, of the agreeable and convenient does its situation present, as to render it not in the least surprising the resort of company hither in the sea-bathing season is so great. Readily accessible by land and water—close to a fine beach—open to the soft and salubrious marine breeze—celebrated for its fresh water springs-sheltered by hill and wood from the keen blasts of the north and east-plentifully furnished by the sea with wholesome, palatable, and nutritious food-at a short distance from a complete depot of every necessary, and almost even every luxury of civilised life-in the immediate neighbourhood of charming and varied scenery-of the safe and pleasant ride-of the romantic walk, -what can be wanting to render Helensburgh a most attractive spot to all who resort to the sea-shore in quest of health, or with a view to seclude themselves for a short period from the noise and turbulence of a busy life? Of the private lodgings all are well, and many even elegantly, fitted up and furnished. The Tontine Inn. Clyde Street, (Mr Robert Glen, proprietor), is fitted up on a very extensive scale, containing great extent of accommodation to visitors, with hot, shower, and cold baths; also gigs, noddies, and post chaises, at moderate rates. The spirited proprietor has lately commenced running a stage coach from Helensburgh to Luss, for the accommodation principally of those who intend visiting the scenery of Lochlomond, arriving at Luss in time for the steamer plying on the Loch; and returns again from Luss in time for the latest boat leaving Helensburgh for Glasgow. The baths, built by the late Mr Henry Bell, engineer, in 1806, of which there are both hot and cold, with every necessary convenience, are in a handsome and commodious building, situated in East Clyde Street, and at present possessed by Mrs. Henry Bell. To the baths is attached an Inn, with superior accommodation. The place has also a Post Office, from which the arrival and departure of Mails to Glasgow take place twice daily. It is also well supplied with shops of every description. What they do not afford can be easily procured from Greenock (a town provided with every necessary, every convenience, and almost every luxury of life) by the steam-boats, which call nearly every hour in going to Rosneath or Garelochead. A small harbour for steam, coasting, and pleasure vessels, is an agreeable appendage to the place. There are also two places of worship in the town, one for the original Burghers, the other Congregational Independents,-the Parish Church at Row, is between two or three miles distant. Helensburgh is twenty-three miles N. W. of Glasgow, five N. E. of Greenock, and nineteen N. W. of Paisley,—places these, whence, and from their vicinities, most of the summer company at Heleusburgh will as yet be found to come.

One great desideratum in Helensburgh is the want of the names of the streets being painted on the corners, and the houses numbered in the same manner, as Gourock, Greenock, and other towns and villages in Renfrewshire, and Largs in Ayrshire, the whole of which were done at the suggestion of the compiler of this work, and finished according to his arrangement, and under his immediate superintendence; which arrangements have been approved of by the several authorities, and given general satisfaction. It would certainly be very beneficial, were every City, Town, and Village arranged in the same manner, but particularly sea-bathing quarters, the want of which has been a just ground of complaint by strangers visiting the place, and even by the inhabitants themselves. length, however, a subscription for the above purpose has been set a-moving, which there is little doubt the spirited magistrates of Helensburgh will speedily carry into effect, as they appear to see the utility of having it presently done, and will thus at once enable correspondents to address letters and parcels to their proper destination, and also enable the visitors (being only temporary residents) to give a direct reference to their lodgings, and thus all chance of delay will be removed, and place the town upon a level with other towns and villages.

The first Steam-boat trip made in Britain was from Port-Glasgow to Helensburgh in the year 1812 by the Comet, Mr William M'Kenzie, master. The Comet was the first Steam vessel brought to utility, or to be of general use built in Britain, by the late Mr Henry Bell, architect, mill-wright, and engineer, Helensburgh, to whom the town is greatly indebted for the many improvements he made in it, whilst he was Provost of the Burgh.

Mr Henry Bell was born 7th April, 1767, at Torpichen mill, in the parish of same name, Linlithgowshire, Scotland, and departed this life, 14th November, 1830, at the Baths, Helensburgh. The mortal remains of this illustrious individual are interred in Row Church-yard, Dumbartonshire, where, on my lately visiting the spot

(August 1834) how was I surprised, nay, will it be believed?-that not a single mark of respect has been erected to the memory of the illustrious dead, to tell the stranger where his remains are deposited!! Not in this manner did he treat worth and merit, as evidence of which the same church yard contains a confirmation of it; a large metal tablet 6 feet 81 inches in length; 3 feet 7 inches in breadth; and 51 inches thick; supported by six pillasters of 2 feet in height; the tablet contains the following inscription:-" To the memory of CAPTAIN ROBERT BAIN, born May 1788, departed this life at Fort William, December 1827-aged 39 years.-C. R. Bain, was appointed by H. Bell to the command of the Comet Steam-boat in 1814, by which vessel a communication was opened up between the Western Islands of Scotland and Glasgow, through the Crinan Canal in July 1819. He was the first captain who commanded a vessel from sea to sea, through the great Caledonian Canal, in 1822. This was erected as a tribute of honour for 16 years' faithful service, by Henry Bell, engineer, Helensburgh." -His widow, Mrs Bell, would ere this have erected a tribute of respect to his memory, had she not (which I can positively state) been given to understand that certain individuals wished to have the honour of doing so; but shame to our country, shame to our merchants and mechanics, for whom he has done so much; it will remain for ever an indelible mark of disgrace; the finger of scorn will be pointed at them, and they themselves held up to derision, if they allow any longer the remains of this illustrious individual to remain unhonoured. The fortunate, the wealthy, and the titled dunces too frequently get buried beneath a splendid monument; and a false table of virtues is emblazoned thereon. The sculptor is called in to display the resources of his art in decking their tomb. stone, while the wisest and the best of men, are too often left to run down the stream, forgotten or uncared for; and the humble artizan is left to tell on that of the other, that he was "born on one day, and that he died upon the next." With what feelings of inwrought emotion does the traveller tread the ground where the bard of Mantua drew his infant breath? - and how intensely do we listen to the stories of Alexander, of Cæsar, of Pompey, and of Scipio; and eye

the footsteps of "Macedonia's madman," and the hair-brained Swede? These have taken up many a precious hour of our time. But, after all, what have these men done for the real welfare of mankind? They have sung of gods and goddesses-of bloody fieldsof smoking cities, and desolated homes; they have "marched unmoved amidst the agonies of slaughtered thousands"-the victims of ambitious madness," and they still pass for heroes, by those who think it more glorious to kill than to save mankind! But let us turn our thoughts to a man of another mould—to that illustrious individual whose arm was the philosophy of utility, and whose actions were those of patriotism and humanity.- To a man whose mechanical inventions and improvements have given a new and nobler tone to society-opened up new channels of national happiness and universal benefits. To contemplate the life of such a man, tends to expand the understanding and purify the soul; tends to link man with his fellow men, and to exalt his contemplations towards the Divine source of all wisdom and goodness, and that man to whom we owe "floating bridges" upon the ocean, is well worthy to be ranked amongst the highest benefactors of his race, and has claims on his countrymen, which ought to be met with a liberal hand from that world in which his name will be perpetuated through the ages to come, where his "floating bridges" and magnificent palaces, which, "over the mountain waves," and amid the roaring tempests, march "like giants rejoicing in their course," will bear testimony to his merits on "rivers yet unknown to song;" through lands yet uncheered by the voice of liberty; through climes vet unvisited by the mildbeams of christianity.

FOWLER'S COMMERCIAL DIRECTORY

LARGS.

A neat pleasant village on the coast of the Clyde, containing some good Inns, and environed by many agreeable Villas; occupying nearly a mile in length of the seashore of Cunningham, the northern division of Ayrshire; its distance, south-west from Greenock being 14 miles; from Paisley 22; from Ardrossan, north-west 13; and from Ayr, also north-west 32. Although pretty closely hemmed in by hills, the shore over which the buildings of the town are spread, is flat; and the beach is particularly favourable for bathing, screened by the hills in question from the keen blasts of the north, and from the raw breezes of the east. Largs boasts of a peculiarly mild genial temperature, and as the air, while qualified with a healthful impregnation of saline particles, is rarely loaded with fog, allowed salubrity of climate has occasionally procured for the place the appellation-" Montpellier of Scotland." From these and other causes, the town has of late years become a fashionable resort for bathing in the summer; during the season there are from 1,500 to 2,000 Independent of the beach, a handsome building is erected near the sea for Hot, Cold, Vapour, and Shower Baths, to which is attached a large Coffee Room, Billiard Room, and Library; strangers are admitted to become subscribers by the week, month, or whole This erection cost nearly £2,000, and is managed by a com-Provisions of all kinds are readily procured. Fish in particular, are plentiful and good. Indeed, the Largs fishermen contribute greatly to the supply of Greenock, Glasgow, and Paisley, with this article. By the numerous steam-boats almost hourly calling at the place, whatever is wanted for family use, and not furnished by the place, may be easily obtained. There are also in the town, various well-stocked retail-shops, in which grocery goods, liquors, haberdashery, hardware, &c. are sold.

Close by the town, in the year 1263, was fought the celebrated battle of Largs, betwixt the Scots, and a powerful army of Norwegians or Norsemen, when the latter were defeated with immense slaughter, an event which put an end to their predatory expeditions, and caused their rapid expulsion from every settlement which they forcibly held in the Scottish dominions. The issue of this battle was no less important to the nation than the overthrow of other intruders was at a subsequent period; for, had the Norwegians been successful at Largs, and the English at Bannockburn, it is probable that the very name of Scotland would have been annihilated. Numerous monumental tumuli, cairns, and stone coffins, in which have been found ancient warlike implements, axes, and spears, are to be met with over the whole face of this part of the country.

It gives the compiler of this work great pleasure to announce, that the houses in this beautiful sea-bathing quarter are all numbered, which will at once enable correspondents to address letters and parcels to their proper destination, and also enable the visitors, (being only temporary residents) to give a direct reference to their lodgings, and thus all chance of delay will be removed. It would certainly be very beneficial, were every City, Town, and Village arranged in the same manner, but particularly Sea-bathing quarters, the want of which has been a just ground of complaint by strangers visiting the place, and even by the inhabitants themselves.

ROTHESAY,

A thriving and populous town on the Island of Bute, beautifully situated at the head of a fine Bay of the same name. The town of Rothesay was erected into a Royal Burgh by King Robert the II. who granted the Charter on the 12th January, 1400-1. It is governed by a Provost, two Bailies, twelve Councillors, and a Dean of Guild, of which the Marquis of Bute is present Provost. Here, also, the Courts of Justice are held; and a very handsome edifice has been lately erected for that purpose, containing an excellent Court Hall, Sheriff, Justice of Peace, and Town Clerk's Offices, &c., at the back of the whole is erected a County Jail, the whole of which is surmounted by a Tower, containing a public clock and bell, both of these the town stood greatly in need of. The clock was presented by the Marquis of Bute to the Town of Rothesay in 1835. - Messrs Arnold and Dent, makers, Strand, London. of the dials are illuminated, the one fronting to the Harbour, the other Castle Street, which renders the gift of the Noble Donor more beneficial. The bell, which is an exceedingly good one, was cast at Messrs Stephen Miller, and Co's works, Glasgow, in 1834.

The town contains a number of well stocked, neatly fitted up shops, of every description. Several excellent Inns, with superior accommodation; also two Coffee and News-rooms. It is likewise provided with an excellent Harbour, with numerous pleasure conveyances both by land and water, to be had at a very moderate rate.

Few towns have arisen so rapidly as this, from adverse to prosperous circumstances, greatly owing to its extensive herring trade-for a sea-faring life the people appear greatly to love, although the fisherman's life may be accounted one of the most incessant peril -for daily bread he must brave daily dangers. In that season when the tiller of the ground rest from his labours-when the artizan and mechanic are warmly housed-when the dormouse and the squirrel sleep in their soft woolly nests-and the little birds find shelter in hollow trees and banks, or migrate to milder regions, the poor Fisherman must encounter all the fury of the combined elements, for his children's bread is scattered on the waters. It is this perpetually enforced familiarity with danger that interests our feelings so powerfully in their behalf, together with its concomitant effects on their character—undaunted hardihood—insurmountable perseverance -almost heroic daring, and, generally speaking, a simplicity of heart and tenderness of deportment towards the females and little ones of their families, finely contrasting their rugged exterior. With men such as these, no wonder than the herring trade has arrived to such an extent as it is in this place.

There are registered at the present time no less than 56 vessels from the Custom-house of Rothesay, rating from 12 to 280 tons burthen, giving in all a total of 2,692 Tons from the town alone, besides numerous other vessels registered from other ports, engaged in the same trade, belonging to ship-owners and merchants in the place.

Rothesay has likewise been long celebrated, and justly, for the mildness and salubrity of its climate, so much so indeed, as to have acquired, on that account, the appellation of the 'Italy of the North.' Landlocked as it is almost on every side—its beautiful bay—and sheltered as is the town itself by the high range of hills, which, as it were, wall it in behind; the angry tempest seeks in vain to disturb the tranquillity of the favoured spot—while its insular situation prevents it from experiencing those extremes of cold and heat to which the rest of the country is subjected, by the changes of the season. No wonder, then, that merchants and others, retired from the busy turmoils of a commercial life, are induced to take up their abode in its pleasant retreat, where numbers of 'them have erected handsome and splendid seats and villas, and thus once more assisted in bringing one of the ancient Royal residences of the Kings of Scotland into view as a place of note.

Besides all these, another great cause of its growing prosperity, is the extensive Cotton Works carried on by Messrs. Thom and Struthers, giving employment to some hundreds of individuals. The extent of these works will be better known by the amount of mule spindles they contain, which we can safely state as amounting to 22,000 at least. To these works is attached a school for the benefit of the workers, supported solely by the proprietors, and at present attended by upwards of 175 scholars, who receive instruction in Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Bookkeeping, and Geography, from their talented and able teacher, Mr John M'Leod. This school has been the means of diffusing much useful knowledge to the young and also to adults, employed at the works, and reflects the greatest honour upon the spirited proprietors, who have thus set so noble an example, worthy certainly to be imitated, by all proprietors of public factories; to save those employed by them from sinking into ignorance and vice, as it is the only means by which they can attain a proper sense of their moral, intellectual, and every other good. The town of Rothesay, can boast of being the first place in which the art of cotton-spinning was commenced in Scotland. There is also a pretty extensive powerloom factory carried on by Mrs David Doig, and ably managed by Mr John Robertson, who has the superintendance of the work, which affords the means of livelihood to many of the females of the place.

As a sea-bathing quarter, few places on the shores of the Clyde can compete with it, being, as was said before, so well sheltered on all sides, from the keen blasts of the south-western winds and storms. Its lodgings are numerous, containing any extent of accommodation wanted, beautifully situated on both sides of the bay, and the other parts of the town; whilst the numerous pleasure conveyances, either by land or water, by which visitors can thus easily visit any part of the island, or any place along its shores make it at once an agreeable retreat either for the invalid or man of pleasure. And the numerous steam-boats departing from it to Glasgow, calling at the intermediate ports, ensures the man of business, who may be here for a season, an easy return. Steam packets depart for Glasgow every day.

But its fine climate and picturesque scenery, although perhaps with many the principal, are by no means the only attraction which Rothesay possesses for the intelligent visitor. The antiquities in and around the place, would alone suffice to invest it with no ordinary degree of interest. It is well known that Rothesay was, in former times, frequently honoured with the presence of royalty; and the massive ruins of its ancient castle (said to be built about the year 1100) still speaks its former grandeur, where of old the mo. narchs of Scotland, with its chieftains, were wont to array themselves, and occasionally held their court, or sought a temporary retreat from the toils and anxieties of public affairs, and even from danger. 'Too much praise, therefore, cannot be given to the present Noble Marquis, who, with a zeal worthy of his illustrious race, has spared no expense to preserve this noble relic of our country's ancient glory from falling into utter decay. Not like many of those of our countrymen who have had some such venerable relic of antiquity upon their lands, caused them, with ruthless barbarity, to be razed to their foundation, to erect a pigeon house or dog kennel with the materiel. But the time we hope is not far distant, when the enviable possessors of old edifices, must be taught that good taste, their own interest, and national glory, require the conservation of these venerable relics of olden time.

Some rustic tower,
Founded by Norman or by Saxon hands,
Beloved of old, and that delightful time
When all alone, for many a summer's day,
I wandered through your calm recesses, led
In silence by some powerful hand unseen.—AKENSIDE.

Another ancient relic, preserved likewise from utter dispoliation by the Noble Marquis, is an effigy of one of his long departed ancestors. Thomas, or the 'stout Stuart of Rothesay,' (contained in the ruins of an old Roman Catholic chapel, in Rothesay church yard) who fought so bravely for his country against the invading Norwegians, at the famous battle of Largs, fought in 1263; the figure and heraldic emblazonry around the gothic dome which contains it, are much defaced by time, but much more so by barbarous and callous-hearted visitors, who mutilate and deface it by attempting to break pieces off, either through wanton mischief or to carry away.

Notwithstanding all the advances which Rothesay has made in the scale of commercial and political importance, she still droops behind in many cases. One particular want, a want greatly felt by visitors, and even by the generality of the inhabitants themselves, is the numbering of the lands, and affixing the names of the streets upon the corners, which has already been done in various towns upon the Clyde, and found to be of the greatest benefit, as letters and parcels can now be forwarded with the utmost dispatch, and without the least danger of delay; and it certainly must be a want greatly felt by the inhabitants themselves, in the delivery and receiving of letters and parcels, where there are so many of the same name, as is the case here, unless, indeed, they have a cognomen or title affixed; and even although they had such, strangers would still be at a loss to find them out, or even address them, as long as no direct reference can be given by number to their address.

II. They shall not allow their vessels to rub on the Piers; but shall keep in use such fenders as the harbour-master may direct; and those inside shall allow free access over their vessels to those in outside births, and vessels in outside shall fend off from vessels in inside births-under a penalty of 40 shillings.

III. They shall not obstruct the free passage of other vessels, by

IV. They shall not make fast their vessels to the Piers, otherwise than to rings or palls direct to their vessels, and not round the corners or any of the Piers—under a penalty of sixty shillings.

V. All goods, ballast, or any other thing intended to be shipped by, or discharging from, any vessel, shall be laid down upon the Pier where the Harbour-master shall direct, and shall be removed therefrom at his desire, and effectual means to his satisfaction shall be used for preventing any part falling into the Harbour -under a penalty of forty shillings.

VI. No fires or lights shall be kindled or taken on board any vessel loaded or partly loaded with such combustibles as are mentioned in the Thirtieth Section of the foresaid Act. And fires in all vessels, except Steam-boats, shall be extinguished at 8 o'clock at night, and shall not be lighted sooner than 7 in the morning, and no fire-arms shall be discharged near the Harbour—under a penalty not exceeding forty shillings.

VII. No vessel shall be taken to the graving bank; no dock shall be made; and no fire shall be lighted at or near the Piers or Harbour, for any purpose, without first obtaining authority from the Harbour-master, whose directions must be obeyed—under a penalty

All Owners, Masters, and Crews of Steam boats shall, in addition to the foregoing, also comply with the following Regulations.

VIII. They shall, at all times, intimate on their respective boards their hours of sailing, and shall sail at the hour so intimated, and no alteration of the hour shall be allowed on any pretext, under a penalty not exceeding five pounds.

IX. Free access shall, at all times, be given over Steam-boats, in inside, to those in outside births, for all necessary purposes; and hatchways and coal-scuttles, when not in immediate use, shall be kept shut, under a penalty of forty shillings.

X. The engine of Steam-boats, arriving at the Piers, shall be slowed or stopped one hundred yards from the Piers, so as they may move slowly to their births; and when arriving at night, they shall have in use a sufficient number of lights, not less, in any case, than three hand lantherns, under a penalty not exceeding forty shillings.

XI. The Harbour-master, with his assistants, are empowered and required to enforce all the above Regulations, and to use every offort to promote good order and sobriety, and to suppress riot, theft, &c.; and no person shall insult or obstruct them, in any way, in the execution of their duty, under a penalty not exceeding five pounds.

XII. The above penalties shall be incurred by offending in any one particular of the above Regulations; and the expense of enforcing these Regulations, as well as any damages incurred, shall be ex-igible besides the penalties.

XIII. The Magistrates, if they see cause, may mitigate the penalties to not less than one-fourth.

The weather was very favourable, and the business went off exceedingly well. The stock shown though not so numerous as on former years, was very good in quality. In particular, the sheep and West Highland Stock of this district, in the opinion of the intelligent judges who had witnessed some previous exhibitions here, manifested most decided and growing improvement.

sow, but she well deserved a prize.

In the afternoon, a party consisting of resident members of the Highland and Agricultural Society, farmers and townsmen, assembled in the Tontine to an excellent dinner, provided by Mr Macdonald—Provost Watt in the chair—Mr Marshall, Sheriff Substitute and Mr David Crawford, croupiers. The Rev. Mr Bonar kindly acted as chaplain. Besides the usual public toasts, and due acknowledgements to the practical judges, which were replied to by Mr M'Farlane, Faslane, for himself and the rest in terms most judicious and encouraging to this district. The healths of Sir Michael Shaw Stewart and Mr Wallace were given with great animation. The party, after having been gratified with several excellent songs by gentlemen present, and after having enjoyed a very comfortable and harmonious meeting, broke up at a temperate hour.

The Show now over is the last but one on the Highland Society's present list of district exhibitions. It is to be hoped that the Show of 1836, as being the last, will surpass in the quality of animals brought forward all the preceding exhibitions.

The day being favourable, every thing went off agreeably on the ground. The exhibition was an object of great interest to many spectators of the town and neighbourhood; a great number also of the Renfrewshite Yoomanr at present quartered here attended; the drill for that day having been made two hours later to afford them the opportunity.

In the afternoon, the Committee of the Highland Society, Officers of the Yeomanry, Farmers of the District, and Gentlemen of the Town, met with the practical Judges at Dinner in the Tontine. The Chair was most ably and happily filled by Captain Houston Stewart, in the Room of Sir Michael Shaw Stewart, and of Mr Wallace, Convener, both unavoidably absent,—the Provost and Sheriff Substitute acting as Cronpiers.

NOTICE.

The names of the streets, and the numbers of the houses in Greenock, Gourock, and Largs, have recently, at the Publisher's request, been painted on conspicuous places, and he respectfully recommends to the feuars and inhabitants to preserve these names and numbers. The Magistrates of Greenock and the Publisher earnestly recommend the merchants, traders, and feuars, to obliterate the old numbers.

J. NEILSON, PRINTER.
