A D D R E S S .

G. FOWLER, in ushering to the Public the Twelfth Edition of the PAISLEY and JOHNSTONE DIRECTORY, begs to return his sincere thanks for the patronage he has hitherto enjoyed, and trusts that the present Work will be found equally deserving their countenance and support.

Every person is aware that the chief value of a work of this kind, consists in the accuracy of its details, and the distinct arrangement of its several parts. In securing these essential requisites, he has in this, as in all former Editions of his DIRECTORY, spared neither labour nor expense; and as this can only be compensated by an extensive sale of the work, he trusts he will meet with his usual encouragement from a discerning Public.

From the success the Publisher has had in procuring orders during his survey, it might be construed into false pride, were he entirely to overlook the opposition he has met with this year. It is true the ground was early occupied by an individual, formerly in the Publisher's service, and numbers were led to subscribe for that work, under the impression that it was "FOWLER'S DIRECTORY."* The two Books are now before the public, they will speak for themselves; and convince all who may put themselves to the trouble of a comparison, that the compilation of a Directory cannot be achieved without great personal labour, expense, and experience.

* In proof of this, Mr. Fowler has a number of vouchers from respectable individuals in Paisley, which may be seen at any time in his office.

*The Birth Place of Alexander Wilson, the American Ornithologist.—Born 6th July, 1766; died 23d August 1813.

The Columbia Society of Fine Arts, of which he was a member, walked in procession before the hearse, and wore crape round their arms for thirty days. His remains were deposited in the cemetery of the Swedish Church, in the district of Southwark, Philadelphia. While in the enjoyment of health, he had, in a conversation with a friend on the subject of death, expressed a wish to be buried in some rural spot, sacred to peace and solitude; whither the charms of nature might invite the steps of the votary of the muses and the lover of science, and where the birds might sing over his grave. It has been matter of regret to those of his friends to whom was confided the mournful duty of ordering his funeral, that this desire had not been made known to them, otherwise it should have been piously observed. A plain marble tomb marks where his dust reposes, on which appears the following inscription:—

This Monument covers the remains of ALEXANDER WILSON, author of the American Ornithology. He was born in Renfrewshire, Scotland, on the 6th July, 1766; emigrated to the United States in the year 1794; and died in Philadelphia, of the dysentery, on the 23d August, 1813, aged 47.

APPENDIX

TO

FOWLER'S PAISLEY DIRECTORY, 1848—49.

Population of Paisley within the bounds specified in the Reform Act, according to the Census in 1841, 48,908.

The above is the amount of Population within the Parliamentary Boundary of the Town. This is the first Census that has been taken since the Boundary was fixed. The present cannot therefore be well contrasted with any prior Census. But the amount of Population, as nearly as can be computed within what is now the Parliamentary Boundary of the Town, was in 1831, 46,199, which makes an increase of Population since that period of 2,203 persons.

If, however, the number of persons absent at sea-bathing quarters and otherwise, and strangers present on the night of the 6th of June, are taken into account, the Population would stand thus:—

Persons in Paisley on the night of the 6th of June,	48,416

	48,908

JOHNSTONE DIRECTORY.

AN

HISTORICAL AND DESCRIPTIVE SKETCH

JOHNSTONE.

Few places in Britain exhibit so striking an illustration of the effect of manufactures in originating and increasing towns, in attracting, condensing, and augmenting population, as does this thriving seat of business. Sixty years ago, near that bridge over the Black Cart, which till lately gave to the place the popular appellation "Brig of Johnstone," merely a few cottages were to be seen, where now is a town, consisting of two large squares, many considerable streets, and numerous public works, with a population of about 7000 souls.

It is probable that the town of Johnstone never would have existed, or at most would have been confined to the few cottages that stuck upon the ground near to the Brig, had not the late public-spirited Laird of Johnstone, by his influence and example, excited a spirit of industry among its inhabitants, and cherished and supported it by his fatherly care and protection, and, we are happy to say, that the seed has been sown in good ground, as it continues to manifest itself by the increasing wealth and prosperity of the enlightened and enterprising merchants and traders belonging to the place.

Towards the end of October 1782, nine houses of the New Town of Johnstone had been built, two others were building, and ground on which forty-two more were to be built had been feued. In 1792, the inhabitants were 1434 in number; in 1811, 3,647; in 1818, by computation, 5,000. As the introduction of the manufacture of cotton yarn by mill-machinery led to the founding of Johnstone, so has the extension of the same manufacture caused its rapid increase and present prosperity. There are now within the precincts of the place 15 cotton mills of varied extent, some propelled by water, others by steam, besides a flax mill and a carpet factory; also, Elderslie and Linwood mills, in the neighbourhood of Johnstone, making in all 20 mills.

There are also in the town two brass foundries, and two extensive iron foundries; five machine manufactories, and a public gas work.

Johnstone is very regularly laid out. Besides Houstoun square, in the centre of the town, which is now built on every side, there is to the southward a large area, meant for a second square, as well as a market place, and which is also now beginning to be built round with neat houses. High street, extending from the Bridge of Johnstone on the west, to Dick's Bridge (or Canal Bridge) on the east, is closely built; as are several other streets branching at right angles from both its sides. It is in length 3 furlongs, 36 poles. The houses are for the most part two stories high, substantially constructed, and roofed with slates, and all of them have gardens. The shops are numerous, and well stocked with cheap, various, and excellent commodities.

Besides the Chapel of Ease, (an octagonal fabric, to which, about 22 years ago, a neat spire, after a design of Sir Christopher Wren, was added,) Johnstone contains two places of worship belonging to the United Presbyterian Church, and a Methodist Chapel; also, one of the Free Churches of Scotland, and Sir William Wallace's Church at Elderslie in connection with the Establishment.

In Johnstone are also two News Rooms, a Mechanics' Institution and Library, sundry Religious and Friendly Societies, various Sabbath Schools, &c. The Ardrossan Canal from Glasgow, terminates in a basin at the east end of the town, to the advantage of which it greatly contributes; and the Glasgow and Ayr Railway passes immediately to the south of the town, having a station immediately to the east of it.

The names of the streets of Johnstone, and the numbers of the houses in each, were formerly distinctly marked; but at present, these are in a great measure obliterated, which is not to be wondered at, the original markings having been made so long ago as the year 1828. This was done at the suggestion and under the superintendence of the present compiler, as were also those of Pollockshaws, Port-Glasgow, Greenock, Gowrock, and Largs; and even those of Paisley on its present improved plan. There can be little doubt that the spirited inhabitants of Johnstone will see the propriety, not to say the necessity, of having this defect speedily supplied—an arrangement so very useful, not only in guiding strangers to the different parts of the town, but also for enabling traders and correspondents to direct letters and parcels to their proper destinations. Indeed it would be well if every town and village in the kingdom had similar arrangements.

The southern neighbourhood of this place is greatly beautified by Johnstone Castle, a stately mansion, after the antique, situated among extensive pleasure grounds and valuable plantations. A similarly ornamental effect is produced by the house and pleasure grounds of Milliken to the westward of the town. The former is the seat of Ludovic Houstoun, Esq. of Johnstone; the latter that of Sir William Milliken Napier, Bart.

The appearance of the east end of the town is not a little enriched by the house of Thornhill and its appendages, lately built by Campbell Snodgrass, Esq., on a pleasant eminence which commands an advantageous view not only of the town and the surrounding country, but also of several distant counties.

At Elderslie, 2 miles, 4 furlongs, 17 poles distant from Paisley, and 1 mile, 1 furlong, 17 poles from Johnstone, stands Wallace's Tree, a venerable and scathed oak, which, by tradition, is said once to have been the hiding place of our truly chivalrous Scottish patriot, when closely pursued by bands of Southrons. A short distance from the tree, upon an eminence, the house that gave birth to Sir William Wallace is affirmed by the same authority once to have stood; and various names still given to some circumjacent places certainly corroborate the tradition.

FAIRS.

Johnstone Cross, nearly opposite to the Black Bull Head Inn, is distant from the Cross of Paisley, 3 miles, 5 furlongs 34 poles.

Fairs are held on the Thursday following the second Monday of July and the last Thursday of October, for cattle; also, on the Monday preceding the First Tuesday of December (OLD STYLE)* for Horses.

Although this market is not generally known, being but lately established, yet, from the excellent supply of cattle brought forward, it promises to be one of the most numerously attended Fairs in the West of Scotland. The market-place is spacious and very extensive, affording accommodation rarely to be met with.

* Old Style is too antiquated to be understood now, and we would recommend to the inhabitants of those villages who regulate their Fairs by it, to join in "the progressive march of intellect." The Russians who are in the rear of European civilisation, have lately adopted New Style, and surely we will not allow ourselves to droop behind.

CALEDONIAN INSURANCE COMPANY.

INCORPORATED BY ROYAL CHARTER AND ACT OF PARLIAMENT.

ESTABLISHED IN 1805.

Head-Office—19 George Street, Edinburgh.

This successful Institution, the first Proprietary Office in Scotland, begs to call the attention of all parties connected with Friendly and other Societies to the importance of Life Insurance, and to the benefits to be derived from joining an Established Company like this, in preference to connecting themselves with societies whose rates of contribution, in many instances, are inadequate to meet the claims which ultimately come upon them.

Policies, for instance, insuring £20 on a life of thirty next birthday, may be obtained from this Company by an annual payment of 8s. 10d., and so on in proportion. If a share of the Profits of the Company is desired, the Premium is 10s.

Policies on Single Lives effected to the extent of £5000.

At the last investigation a Bonus of from Six to Eleven per Cent. on the Sum Insured on all Policies of Five Years' standing and upwards was declared.

Premiums are payable Yearly, Half-yearly, or Quarterly.

Five-sixths of the Profits (a larger proportion than most Offices allow) are ultimately divided among the Participating Policy Holders. No Entrance-Money is charged.

One-third of the whole Life Premiums is allowed to remain as a Debt against the Policy.

Bonuses are added to Policies, or paid in present Money, or Annual Premiums are reduced.

Liberal allowances given for Surrenders.

These and other advantages given by the Company, cannot be warrantably exceeded by any other Insurance Institution whatever.

Tables of Rates will be obtained at this Office.

FIRE INSURANCE.

FIRE INSURANCES of every description are effected at very moderate terms.

No expense in transferring Policies from other Offices.

H. D. DICKIE, Manager.

JOHN MOLNET, Secretary.

GLASGOW WRITING INK AND INK-POWDER
MANUFACTORY,

137, GEORGE STREET, GLASGOW.

THERE is always on hand a Stock of JOHNSTON'S Fine Common Ink, from 1s. to 2s. a Gallon—superior Writing Ink, in Bottles from 1d. to 2s. each. (Johnston's Penny Bottles are larger than the Penny Bottles of any other Inkmakers.) Black, Red, and Blue Ink-Powders, for Home Sale and Exportation, with large allowance to Exporters, Merchants, and Ship Captains for whom these Powders are very suitable for their private adventures, being very portable, and will realise large profits abroad. A fine thin Office Ink for Steel and other Pens, in Choppin Bottles, at 1s. each; a Mid kind, very Black at 9d.; a strong Black, for general use, at 6d. per Bottle, with empty Bottles.

JOHNSTON'S INK has given general satisfaction for forty years; yet, if required, Samples will be sent gratis to Export Merchants, Counting-houses, Shopkeepers, and Teachers, in Town and Country.

A Waterproof Ink for marking Casks, Boxes, Bales, &c., in Bottles at 6d. each.

A newly-invented Ink for Shoemakers, in Bottles at 2d., 4d., 6d., and 1s. each.—Sold by the Booksellers in Paisley.

Ask for "JOHNSTON'S WRITING INK."

N. B.—We understand that Mr. JOHNSTON has not been able to leave his house, nor much out of bed, for the last seven years and six months; and during all that time he has been suffering from the most painful disease that afflicts mankind, and every five hours he requires a surgeon to take away his urine to keep him alive; and therefore he is justly deserving the support of the benevolent, and of the public, to be customers for his Ink. At present he is much in want of assistance in both these ways, owing to the great expense required for surgeons, &c., to keep him in life—which is more than the profits of the business will now pay; and when money cannot be got to pay a surgeon, that day he must die, by the bursting of his bladder, (the death his father died.) The thought of this fearful death is like to put the poor man out of his reason. Now, when want is approaching him, making public his sad sufferings, he hopes it will induce all those who have escaped this fearful disease, to give thanks to God for his goodness to them.—From Glasgow Courier.

The SCOTTISH EQUITABLE being a MUTUAL ASSURANCE SOCIETY, their Profits are not, as in Proprietary Companies, divided between the Partners of the Companies and the Assured. The WHOLE belong to the Policy-Holders, among whom they are ALLOCATED every THREE YEARS. It is, therefore, impossible for any Assurance Office to give greater advantages to Assurers than are given by this Society.

The PROFITS or BONUSES may, in the Option of the Assured, be applied thus:—

- 1st, They may be ADDED TO THE SUM ASSURED, payable at Death ; or,
- 2d, They may be COMMUTED INTO A PRESENT PAYMENT to the Policy-Holders ; or,
- 3d, They may be APPLIED IN REDUCTION OF THE FUTURE ANNUAL PREMIUMS.

The ANNUAL REVENUE of the SCOTTISH EQUITABLE now (June 1848) exceeds

One Hundred and Twelve Thousand Pounds.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Where merchants live, and wholesale dealers,
 And various kinds of small retailers ;
 Surgeons, midwives, and innkeepers,
 Blacksmiths, painters, and chimney-sweepers.
 Who have to let well-furnished rooms,
 Who curl hair and sell perfumes,
 Who strive from drowning you to save,
 Who make your coffins, dig your graves,
 Who guard your merits when you're gone,
 By gravng them on your tomb-stone,
 Who for misdeeds bestow rebukes,
 Who bind, buy, sell, or lend out books ;
 Bellmen, door-keepers, and precentors,
 Number who vote for parliamenters,
 The members of incorporations,
 And all who fill our public stations ;
 Town-criers, agents, auctioneers,
 And who at funerals furnish tears.
 Ministers, teachers, police rules,
 Sabbath and week-day evening schools,
 Those men who vigorous efforts join,
 To circulate the word divine,
 When banks are open, and when shut,
 And where all carriers put up ;
 The places whence all our coaches start,
 When they arrive, and when depart,
 The time of starting of the post,
 Where stamps are sold, and what they cost,
 The savings bank, fire engines' stations,
 The newest tables of taxation,
 About the boats which will convey
 Yourself or goods the cheapest way ;
 Tables by which you'll quickly see
 How days of weeks and months agree,
 Letter writers, money lenders,
 Fish, bacon, egg, and other venders.
 Cattle shows, and ploughing matches,
 The regattas, and steam coaches,
 Porters, barrowmen, and their fares
 For to convey your goods or wares,
 Sailing vessels, large and small,
 Agents, masters, trade and all,
 Where you may have the cheapest reading,
 Also steam vessels and cowfeeding ;
 I these and other things will show,
 Which 'tis desirable to know,

Knowledge like this there's little doubt,
 Few prudent men will go without.
 You'll have it all, you soon will see,
 If you become possess'd of me.
