THE PICNIC PARTY.

*"If all the year were playing holidays,
To sport would be as tedious as to work."*—SHAKESPEARE.

PUT MONEY IN THY PURSE.

Money in purse will always be in fashion.—POPULAR SAYING.

ATTEND to your business, and never trust it to another. "A pot that belongs to many is ill stirred and worse boiled."

NEVER pronounce a man to be a wilful niggard until you have seen the contents of his purse. The distribution should be in accordance with the receipts.

In the start of life make up your mind to accomplish whatever you undertake; decide upon some particular employment, persevere in it. All difficulties are overcome by diligence and assiduity.

A DEALER who sells on credit has much to learn if he cannot refuse an application for credit when necessary in such a way as not to give offence.

It is almost every man's privilege, and it becomes his duty, to live within his means—not up to, but within them. Wealth does not make the man, and should never be taken into account in our judgment of men; but competence should always be secured when it can be by the practice of economy and self-denial to a fairly reasonable extent. It should be secured not so much for others as to secure for ourselves the consciousness of independence and the constant satisfaction which is received from its acquirement and possession.

THE art of living easily as to money is to pitch your scale of living one degree below your means. Comfort and enjoyment are more dependent upon easiness in the detail of expenditure than upon one degree's difference in the scale. Guard against false associations of pleasure with expenditure—the notion that because pleasure can be purchased with money, therefore money cannot be spent without enjoyment. What a thing costs a man is no true measure of what it is worth to him; and yet how often is his appreciation governed by no other standard, as if there were a pleasure in expenditure per se. Let yourself feel a want before you provide against it. You are more assured that it is real want; and it is worth while to feel it a little, in order to feel the relief from it. When you are undecided as to which of two courses you would like best, choose the cheapest. This rule will not only save money, but save also a good deal of trifling indecision. Too much leisure leads to expense; because when a man is in want of objects, it occurs to him that they are to be had for money, and he invents expenditures in order to pass the time.

LIFE is a great simpleton who imagines that the chief power of wealth is to supply wants. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred it creates more wants than it supplies.

THE best way to get help in this world is to help yourself. Show that you need aid, and all turn a cold shoulder; but prove that you can do without folks, and they will beg to give you a lift.

THERE is no real wealth but the labour of man. Were the mountains of gold and the valleys of silver, the world would not be one grain of corn the richer, nor could one comfort be added to the human mind.

"I LIKE it, and will make it sell," is foolish when it is the inducement to buy largely of any article when the retailer is not clear in his own mind that it will strike the fancy of his customers.

SOLICITATIONS for credit are generally most urgent at the time when the dealer should be the least favourably disposed to grant it. When it is the safest to give it, customers usually are not so solicitous, and do not often need it.

No mistakes are more sincerely mourned over in after life than a foolish waste of money in youth. The thing is altogether a matter of habit, and he who does not set his habits right in this particular, will lament it all his days. But the young man, because his real wants are few, imagines they always will be. Because he has to provide for himself alone, he has no idea that others are to be dependent upon him. He has health, youth, energy, and strength, and he forgets that they will not always last.

AN old mercantile authority says that honour is violated when a man uses information confidentially entrusted to him to anticipate the informer. A man violates the laws of honour when he takes advantage of another's unskillfulness or inexperience, or the technicalities of the law, to impose on him. A man acts dishonourably when he does not make sacrifices to pay his debts promptly; when he attempts to raise his market price on another buyer; when he sells below the market price to get away his neighbour's customers; when he is unmindful of favours; when he does not allow his clerks and dependents to share in his prosperity, and in all cases when he does acts which, if thoroughly understood, would tend to lower him in the estimation of his customers or of any good man.

A Cure for Hard Times.

Calculate your income, and be sure you do not let your expenses be quite so much—lay by some for a rainy day. Never follow fashions, but let the fashions follow you—that is, direct your business and expenses by your own judgment, not by the custom of fools, who spend more than their income. Never listen to the tales of complainers, who spend their breath in crying hard times, and do nothing to mend them. Every man may live within his income, and thereby preserve his independence. If a man is poor his taxes are small, unless he holds an estate which he cannot pay for; in such case he does not own it, and therefore ought to let the owner take it. Industry and economy will for ever triumph over hard times, and disappoint poverty—therefore, the general cry, "we cannot pay the taxes and live," is absolutely false.

THE FIRESIDE HUMOURIST.

Brevity is the soul of wit.—SHAKESPEARE.

BENDING money strengthens the memory ; borrowing money ruins it.

"WHAT is laughter?" asks a philosopher. It is the sound you hear when your hat blows off.

AN unsuccessful lover was asked by what means he lost his divinity. "Alas, I flattered her until she got too proud to speak to me."

"MARY, how is it that the chairs are all covered with dust?" "Why, ma'am, no one has been sitting on them to-day."

EVERY man thinks he is about right himself. An old Quaker once said to his wife, "All the world is queer except thee and me, and thee is a little queer."

JONES: "What did your wife say when you got home last night?" Smith: "What did she say? My good fellow, it would take me three hours to tell you half of what she said."

"BE mine!" he cried, in a voice surcharged with anguish. "If you refuse me I shall die!" That was forty years ago, and the heartless girl refused him. Yesterday he died. Girls, beware!

A BEAR attacked a farmer's cabin in the backwoods of Canada. The farmer climbed into the loft, while his wife defended the home with a poker. "Give it him, Nancy," said her husband. After the bear was killed, the farmer said, "Nancy, aint we brave!"

"AH!" exclaimed the matter-of-fact man, joyfully, as he saw the heading in the newspaper, "Trials of Authors," "so they've arrested some of those confounded poets at last, have they? Wouldn't I like to be on the jury!"

HUSBAND (on the way to the station for a brief trip): "Remember, my dear, that absence makes the heart grow fonder." Wife: "Ah yes, John; and if you knew how fondly I think of you when you are absent from home I'm sure you'd go away much oftener."

"POOR John; he was a kind and forbearing husband," sobbed John's widow on her return from the funeral. "Yes," said a sympathising neighbour; "but it is all for the best. You must try to comfort yourself, my dear, with the thought that your husband is at peace at last."

"MAMMA," said the sweet small boy before a party of admiring friends, "I knew as soon as I came in there was folks visitin' here." "Did you, darling?" said the fond mother, trying to will him with her eye; "how did you know?" "Oh, you had your company voice on."

"So you have my daughter's permission to ask me for her hand, have you, young man?" "I—I am happy to say that I have," replied the poor but worthy youth. "And I suppose," said the banker, after a pause, "you have also asked her to name the day. About what time, sir, do you expect to break into the family?"

SWEET conclusion.—"So far so good," as the boy said when he had finished the first pot of his mother's jam.

"Is all my luggage in the van?" "Yes, madam." "Have I left nothing behind?" "No, madam; not even a copper."

AN old lady who was in a carriage when the horses were running away, said she had perfect trust in Providence till the harness broke, and then she gave right up.

A CELEBRATED wit was asked why he did not marry a young lady to whom he was much attached. "I know not," replied he, "except the regard we have for one another."

THIS is to be the style of the courtship of the future: She: "Charlie, I can no longer conceal my passion for you. Do you love me in return?"

He: "You must ask pa. He knows more about such things than I do."

BUSINESS MAN (to young man who has applied for a situation): "Can you keep books?" Young Man (sadly): "No, sir. I used to think that I could, but the book borrower was too much for me."

SIX-YEAR-OLD to grandfather: "Grandpa, dear, we have come to wish you many happy returns of your birthday; and mamma says, if you give us each half-a-crown we are to take great care not to lose it on our way home."

MR. WHITTIER tells a good story of a Connecticut farmer to whom he lent a work of Plato. "I like him first rate," said the farmer on returning the volume; "I see he's got hold of some of my ideas."

THE last resource to raise the wind is that of a shrewd and unscrupulous Yankee, who bought a bushel of shoe pegs, and on discovering they were made of rotten wood, sharpened the other end, and sold them for oats!

AT one of the schools in Cornwall the inspector asked the children if they could quote any text of Scripture which forbade a man having two wives. One of the children sagely quoted in reply the text, "No man can serve two masters."

MABEL: "The man who marries me must have a good big bank account." Ethel: "You don't mean to say you will marry solely for money?" Mabel: "No, not exactly; but if anyone swears he loves me I shall require a deposit merely as an evidence of good faith."

"GOOD morning, Cicely, dear; I was just going by, and I couldn't help dropping in to ask you about the new feather trimming." "Isn't it lovely?" "Well, yes, I rather like it; but I'm afraid it will soon be as common as sealskin sacques." "That would be a pity. Only think, I haven't worn my sealskin since you had yours." There were a few dagger-like glances, and that morning call was ended.

Nature and Art.

*I saw a classic head,
With many a flowing curl,
A sweetly pretty face
And figure of a girl;
I stood and pondered long,
In meditation lost,
And tried to reckon up,
How much the fixings cost.*

The First Month.

The name of January is derived from the Roman god Janus, who was represented with two faces looking in opposite directions. According to one writer the month is dedicated to him "because from its situation it might be considered to be retrospective to the past and prospective to the opening year."

January was not the first month of the year in the British Isles till the calendar was reformed in 1752. The Legislature then by an Act passed in 1751 altered the mode of reckoning time from the Julian to the Gregorian style. At this period it was directed that the legal year, which had commenced in some parts of the country on the 25th of March and in others with January, should for the future begin always on the 1st of January.

January is represented in ancient art by the figure of a man clad in white, as the type of the snow usually on the ground at this season, and blowing on his fingers to indicate the cold; under his left arm he holds a billet of wood, and near him stands the figure of the sign Aquarius, into which watery emblem in the zodiac the sun enters a few days after the middle of the month.

Sun rising and setting are here given in Greenwich time. For local time at Dublin subtract 25 m.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow and place in pots hardy annuals such as sweet peas and lupins. In open weather plant bulbous roots; in houses cinerarias, primulas, camellias, hyacinths, etc., will now be in flower. If the weather be favourable, all vacant pieces of ground should at this time be either trenched or deeply dug. In open weather sow Bath, black-seeded cos, and cabbage lettuce; horn carrots, radishes, and Flanders spinach may also be sown, but must be covered with straw if the weather be severe; also mazagan and long-pod beans. Plant out early York cabbages to succeed those of the October planting. Cauliflower plants must be carefully looked to in the frames, and have abundance of air. Peas and beans must be earthed up as a protection against frost and to forward their early maturity. All snails should be destroyed, for one killed at this time will prevent the breeding of many dozens later on in the year. This is a bad time for pruning.

THE PICTURE GALLERY.

SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY.

*S*HE walks in beauty, like the night
Of cloudless climes and starry skies;
And all that's best of dark and bright
Meet in her aspect and her eyes:
Thus mellowed to that tender light
Which heaven to gaudy day denies.

*One shade the more, one ray the less,
Had half impaired the nameless grace*

*Which waves in every raven tress,
Or softly lightens o'er her face,
Where thoughts serenely sweet express
How pure, how dear, their dwelling-place.*

*And on that cheek, and o'er that brow,
So soft, so calm, yet eloquent,
The smiles that win, the tints that glow,
But tell of days in goodness spent,
A mind at peace with all below,
A heart whose love is innocent.*

The Duke of Clarence.

THE influenza epidemic of the winter of 1891-2 among its many victims claimed none more highly placed and more universally lamented than the eldest son of the Prince of Wales, who died at Sandringham after a brief attack on the 14th of January, 1892, at the age of 28. The Duke of Clarence and Avondale, to give "Prince Eddie" his formal title, was to have been married before Lent to Princess May of Teck, and the sudden blow which substituted a funeral for a wedding came home to the common heart. There had been a marked improvement in the early part of the night of January 14th, and the symptoms of his Royal Highness were such that those who were watching deemed themselves justified in sending a message to the Queen and embodying their hopes in that message. Unfortunately, two hours after midnight the suffering Prince was awake, and evidently much worse. Soon it became obvious that his end was very near, and at last, after the domestic chaplain to the Prince of Wales and rector of Sandringham had been called into the room in order to read the prayer for the dying, the end came. It was as near as may be a quarter past nine when the Prince died, in the presence of his father and mother.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

IN the flower garden sow anemones, hardy annuals in borders if the weather opens, and hardy biennials. Put in all remaining bulbs. Sow dahlias, and place the tubers in hot-beds or under glass in a border to break buds for slipping. Sow hardy perennials, plant suckers, slips, and partings of roots. By the end of the month complete the planting of flowering shrubs; sow also polyantheses, balsams, and cockscombs; and other tender annuals may now be sown by affording protection when requisite. In the kitchen garden sow a full crop of peas of the ordinary kind about the beginning, and of marrowfats and other larger sorts about the end of the month, in the open quarters of the garden. Transplant early sugar-loaf cabbage and other cabbage plants to where they are intended to remain. About the middle or end of the month sow carrot for an early crop on a light border or other sheltered situation, but the beginning of April is soon enough for sowing the principal crop. Plant early potatoes in open weather. About the middle of the month sow the first crop of savoys, leeks, onions, and lettuce; a small sowing of early turnips may be made in a very warm situation. Plant strawberries about the end of the month. Before the buds are much swelled, prune apricots, peaches, nectarines, and plums, and also apples, pears, cherries, gooseberries, currants, and raspberries before the end of the month.

DEATH OF THE DUKE OF CLARENCE AND AVONDALE.

They Don't Speak.

"WHAT'S the matter between you and Johnson?" he queried, as they dropped off the car.

"Oh, we don't speak," was the reply.

"Money matters?"

"No."

"Politics or religion?"

"No. You see we were both after the same girl. I drew off and let him marry her, and he has never forgiven me for it."

"Why, he ought to be greatly obliged to you!"

"Had he? Well, perhaps. He's had to support her family ever since, and a car-load of her relations came in only yesterday. No, I don't expect he will ever forgive me."

Not at First Sight.

WHEN Handel was once on his way to Dublin, he was detained at Chester by contrary winds. Wishing to try some of his music, he inquired if there were any choristers, or others, in the place who could sing at sight. Among others, a printer, of the name of Janson, was mentioned to him. On the trial of a chorus poor Janson could make nothing of it, and blundered so egregiously that Handel, after swearing in half a dozen languages, called out in his broken English (the effect of which was always very ludicrous), "You schau-trel, tit you not dell me dat you could sing at soite?"

"Yes, sir," said the object of his ire, "and so I can—but not at first sight."

HUMAN society rests on inscrutably deep foundations, which he is of all others the most mistaken who fancies he has explored to the bottom.—Carlyle.

Johnny Sands.

A MAN whose name was Johnny Sands Had married Betty Hague; Who, though she brought him cash and lands, Yet proved a shocking plague.

For she was quite a scolding wife,
Full of caprice and whim;
He said, that he was tired of life,
She—she was tired of him.

Said he, "Then I will drown myself,
The river runs below;"
Said she, "Pray do, you silly elf!
I wished it long ago."

Said he, "Upon the brink upright
I'll stand;—run down the hill
And push me in with all your might."
Said she, "My love, I will."

"For fear that courage I should lack,
And try to save my life;
Pray tie my hands behind my back."
"I will," replied his wife.

She tied them fast, as you may think,
And when securely done,
"Now go," she cried, "upon the brink,
And I'll prepare to run."

All down the hill his tender bride
Now ran with all her force,
To push him in—he stepped aside,
And she fell in, of course.

There splashing, struggling, like a fish,
"Oh, help me, Johnny Sands!"
"I can't, my dear, tho' much I wish,
For you have tied my hands."

Londonderry.

THIS well-known Irish city is situated on the river Foyle, just before it flows into the Lough of the same name. Derry, the original name of Londonderry, is derived from Doire, the "place of oaks." For the origin of the city we must go back to 546, when a monastery was founded here by St. Columba. In 1311 Derry was granted by Edward II. to Richard de Burgo. After the Irish Society of London obtained possession of it, it was in 1613 incorporated under the name of Londonderry. Its charter was confirmed by Charles II. in 1662. The most famous event in connection with Londonderry is its siege, when the Protestants of the North defended themselves within its walls against James II. The siege lasted one hundred and five days, and it is calculated that during its course two thousand three hundred of the citizens died of famine or by violence. Londonderry is still surrounded by an ancient rampart about a mile in circumference and having seven gates, but the buildings now extend considerably beyond this limit. The cathedral is in the Later English style. The bishop's palace, erected in 1716, occupies the site of the abbey founded by Columba. The river is crossed by an iron bridge twelve hundred feet in length. George Farquhar, the dramatist, one of the best of our comic writers, was born in Londonderry in 1678.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow tender annuals in pots and borders to remain; sow biennials, carnations, polyanthus, and annuals generally. If the weather be dry and mild, attend diligently to the various branches of cropping in the kitchen garden. Lose no time in committing to the soil the various seeds and roots of plants. Plant beans of all sorts for principal crops. Sow marrowfat peas once a fortnight, or three weeks at farthest. Remove cauliflower plants that have been in frames or in warm borders during the winter. Sow broccoli towards the middle or end of the month; if sown earlier, the plants are apt to start or button. Sow white and red celery seed, and water the bed frequently in dry weather. Transplant cabbage-plants of all kinds to the places where they are to remain to cabbage. Sow turnips for a first early full crop about the middle or end of the month in an open situation, and where the ground is light.

VIEW OF LONDONDERRY.

Folk-lore of the Ash.

IN the Highlands of Scotland at the birth of an infant the nurse used to take a green stick of ash, one end of which she put into the fire, and, while it was burning, received in a spoon the sap that oozed from the other, which she administered to the child as its first food.

Near Kenney Church, in the King's County, used to be an ash, the trunk of which was twenty-one feet ten inches round, and seventeen feet high before the branches broke out, which were of enormous bulk. When a funeral of the lower class passed by, they laid the body down a few minutes, said a prayer, and then threw a stone to increase the heap which had been accumulating round the roots.

There is an ancient saying, that a serpent will rather creep into the fire than over a twig of the ash-tree. "This is an old imposture of Pliny's," says Evelyn, "who either took it upon trust or we mistake the tree."—Cowley, enumerating various prodigies, says:—

*"On the wild ashes tops the bats and owls,
With all night, ominous, and baleful fowls,
Sate brooding, while the screeching of these droves
Profaned and violated all the groves."*

Gentle Words.

*USE gentle words, for who can tell
The blessings they impart?
How oft they fall (as manna fell)
On some nigh fainting heart!*

*In lonely wilds by light-wing'd birds
Rare seeds have oft been sown;
And hope has sprung from gentle words
Where only griejs had grown.*

The Dishonest Lawyer.

A FLORENTINE notary who had little employment bethought himself of the following expedient to raise money. Having called on a young man whose father was lately dead, he asked him whether he had received payment of a sum which his father had lent to another person who had also died shortly before. The son told him he had not found any such debt among his father's papers.

"I drew the obligation," said the notary, "and have it in my possession; you have only to make me a reasonable allowance for it."

The young man purchased the forged deed, and cited the son of the alleged debtor. The defendant maintained that it appeared by his father's books that he had never borrowed a farthing; and immediately called on the notary to tax him with the forgery.

"Young man," said the notary, "you were not born when this sum was borrowed; but your father paid it back at the end of six months, and I am in possession of the discharge. You have nothing to do but to make me a reasonable allowance for it."

The young man did so, and thus the notary cheated both plaintiff and defendant.

In April.

In the old Roman reckoning this was the second month of the year, but in the Julian calendar it is counted as the fourth. The three preceding months received their names from causes totally unconnected with the particular character of that portion of the year to which they were assigned, but the name of April, according to many authorities, was meant to be expressive of the season in which it has been placed, the word April being said to be derived from "Aprilis," of "aperire, to open," in allusion to the buds then beginning to open, and to the earth generally shooting forth fresh vegetation.

Our forefathers represented April as a young man, winged, and clad in green, crowned with a garland of myrtle and hawthorn buds, holding in one hand primroses and violets, and in the other the sign Taurus, the Bull, which the sun enters a few days after the middle of the month.

The Romans dedicated April to Venus, though among the moderns May has usually been dedicated to this goddess.

Our ancestors held that the month of April was most propitious when wet, which indeed it usually is, and they expressed this idea in many of their proverbs; for example—

"March winds and April showers
Bring forth May flowers."

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow hollyhocks, pinks, and all remaining annuals or biennials; in mild weather, prick out those sown in February. Let all the coverings which may have been used to protect either winter or early spring crops be now cleared away. Rough-dig all vacant ground in the kitchen garden, and rake all the small borders. Use the hoe freely among crops of winter onions, spinach, etc. Destroy all weeds as they appear. Have all roots of docks, dandelions, and similar weeds dug up with a fork and immediately removed from the garden. Be careful to destroy all snails and slugs. Cauliflowers for a succession crop may be sown any time in this month on a sheltered border. Sow and plant all sorts of cabbages, and earth and clear from weeds the crops already planted. Sow full crops of savoys both at the beginning and end of the month. Peas should be sown twice this month, and beans likewise. Rhubarb must be sown or planted. Carrots should now be sown. In the fruit garden disbudding is now to be attended to. Wall trees must be protected from the keen east wind. Give plenty of water to fruit trees in pots.

The Late Mr. Spurgeon.

THE funeral of the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, the famous Baptist preacher, took place at Norwood Cemetery on the 11th of February, 1892. Enormous crowds witnessed the procession through the streets—indeed, the whole of South London appeared to be observing a day of mourning. A portion of the carriages were admitted within the cemetery, and the procession was joined by the Anglican chaplain and assistant-chaplain and the Non-conformist chaplain. At the head walked the students from the Pastors' College. They were followed by the coffin, with the open Bible lying upon it and the touching tributes of affection which had accompanied the wreaths and flowers sent for the burial. The undulation of the ground makes Norwood Cemetery one of the most picturesque in the neighbourhood of London, and the mourners had to make their way to the most elevated point, just beyond the space which the Greek aspect of the tombs and the Greek architecture of a chapel mark as appropriated to the members of the Orthodox Church. The tomb is on a gentle slope forming part of a plateau, from which an extensive prospect opens over and beyond the whole cemetery. The funeral service itself was of a simple but impressive character—a hymn, a prayer, a few words of commendation of the dead, and the benediction.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

GREENHOUSE plants may now be removed into the open border; take up and store bulbous roots generally when the leaves decay; if the weather in this month prove dry, the growth of many esculent plants will be considerably retarded, particularly the peas and beans which are in flower, the blossoms of which fall off before arriving at maturity, and consequently are not succeeded by fruit. A certain degree of attention is therefore necessary to give a regular supply of water to the growing crops. There is no work in the kitchen garden which at this time requires greater attention than the eradication of weeds. Every part of the kitchen garden should now be kept in a neat and well-regulated condition, and a constant attention should be paid to the condition of all seeds committed to the ground. Those that vegetate freely should be forwarded by hoeing, thinning, and watering. The depredations of insects should be guarded against.

THE FUNERAL OF MR. SPURGEON.

A Profitable Market.

NOTHING is lost in a good market, as the following story shows:—A young man, brought up in the city of London to the business of an undertaker, went to Jamaica. Business flourished, and he wrote to his father to send him, with a quantity of black and grey cloth, twenty gross of black Tacks. Unfortunately, he had omitted the top to his T, and the order stood twenty gross of black Jacks.

His correspondent, on receiving the letter, re-collected a man, near Fleet Market, who made quart and pint tin pots, ornamented with painting, and which were called black Jacks, and to him he gave the order for the twenty gross.

The undertaker received them with other consignments, and was astonished at the mistake. A friend offered consolation by purchasing the whole at the invoice price. His friend immediately advertised for sale a number of fashionable punch vases just arrived from England, and sold the jacks, gaining 200 per cent.!

The young undertaker, afterwards discoursing upon his father's blunder, was told by his friend in a jocose strain, to order a gross of warming-pans, and see whether the well-informed correspondents in London would have the sagacity to consider such articles necessary in the latitude of nine degrees north.

The young man put the joke in practice. He desired his father in his next letter to send a gross of warming-pans, which actually, and to the great surprise of the son, reached the island of Jamaica. What to do with his cargo he knew not. His friend again became a purchaser at prime cost, and having knocked off the covers, informed the planters that he had just imported a number of newly constructed sugar lads. The article under that name sold rapidly, and returned a large profit.

Good and Bad Wives.

BETTER to have a fortune in your wife than with her. "My wife made my fortune," said a wealthy man, "by her thrift, prudence, and cheerfulness, when I was just beginning." "And mine lost my fortune," answered his companion, bitterly, "by useless extravagance, and repining when I was doing well." The girl who brings to her husband a large dowry may also bring habits of luxury learned in a rich home. She may be almost as incapable of understanding straitened circumstances as was the lady of the Court of Louis XVI., who, on hearing of people starving, exclaimed, "Poor creatures! No bread to eat! Then let them eat cakes!"

Doubt and Faith.

*WE keep the watch together,
Doubt and I.
In stress of midnight weather
Doubt and I
Stand peering into darkness,
Foreboding rock and shoal,
Or shrinking in our weakness
From waves that o'er us roll.*

*We pace the deck together,
Faith and I,
And catch in darkest weather
The far-off eastern sky,
Where, robed in dazzling splendour,
Shine planet, star, and sun;
Where, lost in truth eternal,
Doubt, Faith, and I are one.*

Lough Foyle.

LOUGH FOYLE is a triangular arm of the sea about fifteen miles long by ten miles broad, with extensive sand-banks on the sides and a large sandy island, Shell Island, in its centre. A very pleasant excursion is to be enjoyed by driving from Londonderry along the side of the lough to Inishowen Head, on the way passing the clean pleasant town of Moville, the landing-place of which is shown in our engraving. A great object of interest on the journey is the numerous wading and swimming birds which are constantly disporting themselves in the shallow sand-banks of the lough. Beyond Moville we pass Green Castle, the ruined fortress of the O'Doherty's, and Dunagree lighthouse. From Inishowen Head, and still better from the hill behind it, is obtained an extensive panoramic view of the coasts of Londonderry and Antrim, embracing Port Stewart, Portrush, the Skerries, the Giant's Causeway, and Bengore Head. The traveller on the journey we have named will see that it is no exaggeration to call Lough Foyle a noble sheet of water. It is unfortunately shallow and dry at ebb tide, contracted at its entrance, and encumbered with shoals. A great deal of land has been reclaimed from Lough Foyle, as well as from the neighbouring and well-known Lough Swilly.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow biennials and perennials for next year if omitted last month. Take up bulbs and prick out seedlings. In the kitchen garden thin all crops as they advance; keep the hoe in full employment in every part of the garden. Support with stakes the crops that may require it, and water, as far as practicable, everything that stands in need of it. Sowing may be principally confined to peas and turnips. Plant out for winter use celery, cauliflower, savoys, cabbages, lettuces, broccoli, leeks, and beet. All sorts of small salads should be sown: sugar-loaf cabbage for autumn and winter at the beginning of this month. The crop of onions should be thoroughly cleaned, and in those places where the bulbs appear to stand too close they should be regularly thinned. A successional crop of kidney beans should be planted at this time. Watering out-of-doors is more or less necessary for newly-planted vegetables and flowers, and to counteract the effect of drought. After watering, loosen the ground with the hoe. Train and prune the summer shoots of all descriptions of wall and trellis trees. Net-over cherry trees.

LANDING-PLACE AT MOVILLE, LOUGH FOYLE.

On Different Sides.

WHEN the first coinage of Oliver Cromwell was issued, an old Cavalier, looking upon one of the new pieces, read this inscription on one side—"God with us;" on the other, "The Commonwealth of England." "I see," said he, "God and the Commonwealth are on different sides."

Fools by Comparison.

A MAGISTRATE in a provincial town in France had to compliment Louis XIV., and, accordingly, he concocted a long speech. On the approach of the king he began as follows: "Sire! Cæsar and Alexander —" all of an instant his memory failed him, the king's majesty having greatly confounded the orator.

He commenced again: "Cæsar and Alexander —" again he stopped short.

Louis XIV. at last said, with much benevolence, "Well, Cæsar and Alexander—proceed."

"Well, sire, they were fools compared to your majesty."

The king laughed heartily, and was highly amused at the profound wisdom of the worthy magistrate.

Building a Poem.

SWEETHEART, your tender eyes
 Are heaven's realities;
 (Prize...hies...pies...lies)
 What hope within them lies!
 Love grew in their love-light
 As stars grow on the night,
 (Slight...fight...tight...bright)
 And all my life grew bright.
 To you my spirit leans,
 I know what worship means,
 (Queens...greens...beans...scenes)
 What cheers these earthly scenes.
 When on my ear first broke
 Your voice, an angel spoke,
 (Joke...broke...poke...yoke)
 Then fell on me the yoke.
 I would that you were near
 My beating heart to hear,
 (Jeer...hier...sincere)
 And know my love sincere.

THERE are two things which the more I contemplate them the more they fill my mind with admiration—the starry heaven above and the moral law within me.—Goethe.

Climb not too high, lest the fall be the greater.

A STIFF BREEZE.

*"The hollow oak our palace is—
Our heritage the sea."—CUNNINGHAM.*

Borrowed garments never fit well.

SPRINGTIME.

*"To one who has been long in city pent
'Tis very sweet to look into the fair
And open face of heaven, to breathe a prayer
Full in the smile of the blue firmament."*

The Wreck of the Eider.

DURING a dense fog which came over the English Channel on the night of Sunday, the 29th of February, 1892, the North German Lloyd steamer Eider, bound from New York for Bremen with mails and 226 passengers on board, stranded at Atherfield Ledge, Isle of Wight. It seems that she lost her way in attempting to pass the Needles lighthouse and the rocks at the Western extremity of the island. When she struck it was high tide, and the captain and officers hoped that as the vessel was under slow steam she would right herself and return to deep water with the first of the ebb. Attempts were made to lighten her, but she remained fast on the rock, settling down by her own weight as the sea passed away. When they found how matters stood the passengers rushed on deck, but the confident assurance of the captain that there was no immediate danger prevented anything like a panic. The night, however, passed in deep suspense, the greatest fears prevailing amongst the officers lest the huge vessel should break her back as she lay across the peaks of the rock and thus bring about a terrible disaster. Help came at last from the shore, and by the efforts of the lifeboat-men the passengers were safely landed, the last of the men being brought off about ten o'clock on the night of the 1st of March.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

PLANT heartsease slips, transplant perennials and biennials, lay down carnations. In the kitchen garden the attention of the gardener is principally directed to the crops of the ensuing year. As a preparatory step, let all useless and decaying leaves and stems of vegetables be removed and carried to any piece of ground that is immediately to be dug, so as to have every vacant space ready for the reception of a crop to remain. Pay strict attention to watering, clearing the ground of weeds, and hoeing and earthing up all crops as they advance. Cauliflowers which were sown in May, and intended for a late crop, will now be of a proper age to plant out permanently. Good lettuce plants should now be sown for winter and spring. Spinach of the prickly kind should be sown for a full winter crop, late in the month. Take advantage of rainy weather for planting, otherwise it will be found necessary to employ a very free hand in watering. In dry weather it does considerable good to dip the roots in puddle before planting.

THE WRECK OF THE "EIDER" OFF THE ISLE OF WIGHT.

In Proper Terms.

THE generally accepted terms for various groups of living creatures are as follows:—
A herd of swine, a skulk of foxes, a pack of wolves, a drove of oxen or cattle, a sounder of hogs, a troop of monkeys, a pride of lions, a sleuth of bears, a band of horses, a herd of ponies, a covey of partridges, a hide of pheasants, a wisp of snipe, a school of whales, a shoal of herrings, a run of fish, a flight of doves, a muster of peacocks, a siege of herons, a building of rooks, a brood of grouse, a swarm of bees, gnats, flies, etc., a stand of plovers, a cast of hawks, a flock of geese, sheep, goats, etc., a bevy of girls, a galaxy of stars, and a crowd of men or boys.

Marvels of Compound Interest.

A SUM of money invested at five per cent. compound interest is doubled in fourteen years and some months, quadrupled in less than thirty years, octupled in less than forty-five years, and so on. From this it would appear that if a centime had been placed out at such interest, pro bono publico, in the year 800, when Charlemagne was crowned Emperor of the West, the 30,000,000 Frenchmen living in France at the Revolution in 1830 would have enjoyed an income of 100,000,000,000 francs.

Such arithmetically true, but economically impossible results of old deposits, are made the groundwork of some works of fiction; but writers of another class are obliged to attend to the obvious fact, that in order to effect such accumulation of capital the business of the bankers and the wealth of the community would require to increase in the same proportion. Money does not breed spontaneously. The party to whom it is entrusted must use his funds in such a way as to enable him not only to pay the interest, but to derive a profit from the transaction.

Hodge and the Fiddler.

*A COUNTRY swain one evening read
 (To wile away the hours)
 A book relating Orpheus' deeds,
 Performed by music's powers.*

*The astonished bumpkin rolled his eyes,
 And scratched his flaming head;
 His mouth oped wide, with woe'er struck,
 Still as the book he read.*

*When finished quite, to bed he goes,
 Revolves each sentence o'er;
 At length bethinks him to cut down
 Of trees there's yet a score.*

*With glee Hodge Homespun hails the thought,
 And thinks it monstrous fine;
 Exclaims, "It shall be done at morn
 With loss of little time.*

*"If oaks to music's charms will stoop
 As I'll to-morrow prove,
 Its kind assistance it shall lend
 In felling yonder grove."*

*Next morn he took, soon as 'twas light,
 A Fiddler blind, to play,
 And when the trees old Boreas shook,
 Cried, "Fiddle, Will, away!"*

*The Fiddler did as he was told,
 But played and scraped in vain,
 For tho' he played loud as he could,
 The trees their ground maintain.*

*Now, up starts Ralph from 'mong the trees,
 And at the booby jokes;
 "Why, Will may here for ever play,
 These trees are Ash, not Oaks"*

Greenock.

THE illustration on the opposite page represents a scene on the shore near the important Scottish seaport of Greenock. It presents a marked contrast to the bustle and crowded industry of the town.

Greenock is a place of comparatively modern origin. In the beginning of the 17th century it consisted merely of a single row of thatched-covered huts; and it was not till the commencement of the 18th century that the first harbour was begun. The enterprise of the inhabitants, however, has been such that up to the present time over £800,000 has been spent on docks and harbours. In itself Greenock is not an inviting place, but it has a charming and convenient situation. The view from the shore embraces the mountains of Argyllshire and Dumbartonshire, and from the high ground at the back of the town a still more extensive prospect is obtained. Amongst the notable buildings of Greenock may be mentioned the Custom-house and the Watt monument, a building erected to the memory of the celebrated James Watt. All the leading Clyde passenger steamers call at or sail from Greenock. An extensive sand-bank, starting from near Dumbarton, ends a little below Greenock in what is known as the "Tail of the Bank," which affords the best anchoring-ground in the Firth of Clyde.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow anemones, ten-weeks stocks, tulips, and other bulbous-rooted flower-seeds; carnations may still be laid. In the kitchen garden hoe, weed, thin, and stir the surface amongst all crops. Water, shade, and attend to neatness and order. Clear off all crops as soon as they are exhausted. Those seeds which are ripening should be gathered when dry, and after being properly hardened laid by for use in a dry airy seed-room. Watering in dry weather is required for all young new pricked-out plants and others lately planted, and for seed-beds in particular. In rainy or showery weather take the opportunity to sow, prick, and plant all necessary crops of the season, and to plant slips, off-sets, etc., of aromatic and other pot-herbs. As slugs and other vermin will be now making deplorable ravages, constant attention is required to subdue them. Examine bulbs, in case they should become mouldy and injured by damp.

AT GREENOCK, ON THE CLYDE.

A Strange Contest.

BETWEEN Nose and Eyes a strange contest arose, the spectacles set them unhappily wrong; the point in dispute was, as all the world knows, to which the said spectacles ought to belong. So Tongue was the lawyer, and argued the cause with a great deal of skill, and a wig full of learning; while chief-baron Ear sat to balance the laws, who famed for his talent in nicely discerning.

"In behalf of the Nose, it will quickly appear, and your Lordship," he said, "will undoubtedly find, that the nose has had spectacles always in wear, which amounts to possession time out of mind." Then, holding the spectacles up to the court—"Your Lordship observes they are made with a straddle, as wide as the ridge of the nose is; in short, designed to sit close to it, just like a saddle. Again, would your Lordship a moment suppose 'tis a case that has happened, and may be again, that the visage or countenance had not a nose, pray who would, or who could, wear spectacles then? On the whole it appears, and my argument shows, with a reasoning the Court will never condemn, that the spectacles plainly were made for the nose, and the nose was—as plainly intended for them."

Then shifting his side, as a lawyer knows how, he pleaded again in behalf of the Eyes; but what were his arguments few people know, for the Court did not think they were equally wise. So his Lordship decreed, with a grave, solemn tone, decisive and clear, without one if or but, that—"Whenever the Nose put his spectacles on, by daylight or candle-light—Eyes should be shut."
—Cowper.

Notes on Coaches.

CARRIAGES were used very early in France. Under Francis the First, or rather about 1550, there were at Paris only three coaches, one of which belonged to the Queen, another to Diana of Poitiers, and the third to Rue de Carvil, lord of Bois Dauphine, a corpulent nobleman, who was unable to ride on horseback. Henry the Fourth was assassinated in a coach; for himself and his queen he had only one, as appears by a letter still preserved, in which he writes to a friend: "I cannot wait upon you to-day, because my wife is using my coach."—Hackney coaches were first established in London in 1625, when there were only twenty. In Edinburgh they made their first appearance in 1673.

Host and Guest.

THE praise of inns has been sung by the poet Shenstone in the well-known lines:—

*"Who'er has travelled life's dull round,
Where'er his stages may have been,
May sigh to think he still has found
The warmest welcome at an inn."*

It is almost cruel to parody so touching a eulogy, but it is said a wsg who once saw these lines appropriately displayed at a hotel wrote the following lines:—

*"Who'er has travelled much about
Must very often sigh to think
That every host will turn you out
Unless you've plenty of the chink."*

The Khedive of Egypt.

THE Khedive of Egypt, Tewfik the Amiable, died of influenza on the 7th of January, 1892. He was succeeded by his eldest son Abbas, a youth of seventeen, who was on the Continent when his father's sudden death summoned him to Cairo. He landed at Alexandria on the 16th of January, and his reception was such as befitted his rank and the great part he will have to play in Egyptian affairs. The more important ceremonial, however, was reserved for Cairo, to which the Khedive at once proceeded. The streets at Cairo were lined with troops, and his Highness was accompanied by a field military escort. In the great square in front of the Palace a large force of British and Egyptian troops presented arms and lowered the colours when the Khedive arrived. Before he entered the Palace the Sultan's telegram recognising him as Khedive was read, and the English bands, as a mark of respect for his Majesty, played the Turkish national anthem. Then the troops saluted the Khedive and the Khedivial hymn was played, followed by the customary shout of "Effendimiz chok yasha!"—"long live our master!"—from the Egyptian soldiers. This simple ceremony, in which the British force very properly played a prominent part, was practically the installation of Prince Abbas as ruler of Egypt.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow hardy annuals for next year, and also bulbous roots for early blooming. In this month several principal crops in the kitchen garden are to have the finishing sowing and planting, some for succession in the present autumn and following winter; others to stand the winter in young growth, to come in for early crops next spring and summer. The ground must now be prepared in proper time, by manuring and digging, for succeeding crops. Give all spare time to watering, which, if the weather be without rain, is essential, and attend to clearing off all decayed crops and to fallowing spare ground. The chief sowing crops this month are spinach, lettuce, onions, radishes, turnips, cabbage, coleworts, and successions of small salading, as cresses, mustard, etc. The chief planting crops are included under celery, endive, coleworts, cabbages, savoy, broccoli, lettuce, and leeks, and the several sorts of perennial, aromatic, and pot herbs. This is universally considered the chief month for the formation of mushroom beds. Hoe and thin the ground about turnips, and prick out the August-sown cabbage plants early in the month.

ARRIVAL OF THE NEW KHEDIVE AT CAIRO.

Having the Answers Ready.

WHILE on business in the office of a printing-house the other day a thin-faced looking man entered, and approaching the proprietor, said, "I want to have a list printed. Suppose you write it down as I tell you."

The proprietor made ready, and the man said, "Yes; I'm sure I locked the front door. Have you got that?"

"Yes; but I don't understand."

"Never mind; don't interrupt me till I have finished. Are you ready?" "Yes." "I turned out the light in the bath-room." "All right; I've got it." "The kitchen windows are fastened."

"Yes." "The dog is in the cellar." "Yes."

"I did not forget to put ashes on the furnace-fire." "Yes." "The servants are all in."

"Yes." "The stable door is locked." "Yes."

"No, the water is not running in the bath-room."

"Yes." "The kitten is out-doors." "Yes."

"I turned off the draughts of the range." "Yes."

"No, I do not smell smoke." "Yes." "I do not think I hear anyone trying to get into the house."

"Yes." "No, that is not our dog barking; it's the one next door." "Yes." "It's not necessary to go down and see if the cellar-door is fastened; I know it is." "Yes." "That is nobody—only the wind rattling the shutters."

"Yes."

"Well, I think that's about all. You see, my wife asks me those questions every night just as I am getting into bed, and if I had a printed list I could show to her it would save lots of trouble, and besides that it injures my lungs to answer them. Have the list printed as soon as possible, please."

To love all mankind, from the greatest to the lowest (or meanest) a cheerful state of being is required; but in order to see into mankind, into life, and still more into ourselves, suffering is requisite.—Richter.

What is Fame?

A CHINAMAN, who had long studied the works of Confucius, who knew the characters of fourteen thousand words, and could read a great part of every book that came into his way, once took it into his head to travel into Europe, and observe the customs of a people which he thought not very much inferior even to his own countrymen.

Upon his arrival at Amsterdam his passion for letters naturally led him to a bookseller's shop; and as he could speak a little Dutch, he civilly asked the bookseller of the works of the immortal Xixofou. The bookseller assured him he had never heard the book mentioned before.

"Alas!" cries our traveller, "to what purpose, then, has he fasted to death, to gain a renown which has never travelled beyond the precincts of China!"

Room at the Top.

*NEVER you mind the crowd, lad,
Or fancy your life won't tell;
The work is the work for a' that
To him that doeth it well.
Fancy the world a hill, lad,
Look where the millions stop;
You'll find the crowd at the base, lad—
There's always room at the top.*

*Courage and faith and patience,
There's space in the old world yet;
The better the chance you stand, lad,
The farther along you get.
Keep your eyes on the goal, lad;
Never despair or drop;
Be sure that your path leads upward—

In October.

THIS is the eighth month of the old Roman year. By the Julian arrangement of the calendar it became the tenth month, but it still keeps its own name. By the Slavs it gets the name of "Yellow Month," from the fading of the leaf. Our Anglo-Saxon ancestors called it "Wine Moon" and also "Winter-fylleth," because at this full moon (fylleth) winter was supposed to begin.

Some of the very old Saxon calendars have marked the character of this month by the figure of a husbandman carrying a sack on his shoulders and sowing of corn, as expressive that October was a proper time for that important part of agriculture, when the weather was cool and dry. In others, less ancient, hawking is the emblem of the month, and in yet more modern times October has been depicted as a man clothed in a garment of the colour of decaying leaves, with a garland of oak branches and acorns on his head, holding in his left hand a basket of chestnuts, medlars, &c., and in his right Scorpio, being the sign of the zodiac the sun enters towards the close of the month. The scorpion is alleged to have been allusive to the growing power of the cold over the previous equal influence of the heat. By the Romans October was placed, though for what reason is doubtful, under the protection of Mars.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Sow hardy annuals, plant anemones and bulbs; cut carnation layers to be planted in pots; begin to take up dahlias as the flowers cease. In the kitchen garden all sowing and principal planting should be finished for the year; some plants necessary for winter, others to remain for next spring and summer. At this season many crops will be consumed or past perfection. The ground should be cleared away from the refuse and weeds, hoed down, or the ground digged; and all advancing crops should have a thorough clearing from autumnal seed-weeds, etc. Some want earthing up, and several esculent roots want digging up to preserve for winter eating. Take up all carrots and parsnips to be packed in sand in a dry place, or in pits like potatoes; and pare off the crowns clean to prevent them from shooting in spring. Plant cauliflowers under hand-glasses to flower. Gather and store apples and pears. The best criterion for gathering late fruit of any kind is the ease with which they leave the tree.

General Boulanger.

GENERAL BOULANGER committed suicide on the tomb of Madame Bonnemain at the cemetery of Ixelles in a suburb of Brussels on the 30th of September, 1891. It was a curious career that thus reached its somewhat belated close. When General Boulanger was appointed, little more than six years ago, Minister of War in one of M. de Freycinet's Administrations, he was wholly unknown save to his military superiors. For at least a year before his death he was almost as completely forgotten, and was certainly as completely ignored, as if he had never attained any wider notoriety. Yet in the brief intervening period he had been the darling of the French mob, had filled the minds of patriotic men with gloomy misgivings, had triumphed at the polls in spite of the utmost exertions of the French Government, and had even fluttered the councils of great Continental Powers. When, at the zenith of his singular popularity, he was returned for Paris by an overwhelming majority, it seemed to many observers that the ball was at his foot, and that he had only to strike one daring blow to make himself master of the destinies of France. Happily for France, Boulanger had no element of real greatness. He had no policy, no ideas, and no courage in the largest and widest sense.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

PLANT anemones, if not done last month, finish planting bulbous roots, and take up dahlias after the first frost; plant ranunculuses, if omitted last month. The business now in the kitchen garden is to sow seeds, plant some few articles for early crops next year and some to force in hot-beds for winter consumption, and to give occasional weeding and sometimes hoeing for the purpose of advancing late young crops; also to manure and dig vacant ground. The business of sowing and planting is but inconsiderable at this season, but is necessary in a few articles both in the open ground and in hot-beds. The articles for sowing are early peas and beans and small salading; the two former in warm borders, the latter under glasses or in hot-beds. Winter onions and spinach should be carefully hand-hoed; hoe between advancing young crops of coleworts, cabbages, broccoli, savoys, celery, leeks, lettuce, endive, etc., loosening the surface of the earth about the plants, which will beneficially encourage their growth. Plant deciduous trees and shrubs as long as the weather continues favourable. Stocks of the wild rose should now be obtained from the hedges. Choose those that have straight stems.

SUICIDE OF GENERAL BOULANGER.

An Extraordinary Wager.

IN the year 1634 the parliament of Dôle, in France, was required to decide upon an extraordinary wager between two inhabitants of Pâsmes. One of the two had agreed that if the other would pay him twenty-four francs in hand, he would furnish him with a certain quantity of grains of millet, in a proportion to the number of children who should be born within a certain extent of country, and be baptised, during one year. For the first child he was to furnish one grain; two for the second, four for the third, and so on, always doubling the number of grains for each successive birth.

The number of children born was sixty-six, and the proportion of grains to be supplied was so enormous that the party bound by the bet demanded the cancelling of the contract, as being founded upon an impracticable condition.

The court, in effect, decided, after having made the necessary calculation, that the wager was naturally impossible to be fulfilled; and it consequently decreed that the party who had received the twenty-four francs on condition of an event which he declared himself not able to meet, should return that sum to his opponent, and should pay an additional sum of twenty-four francs, which was the only chance of loss incurred by the gainer, if, the millet having been furnished, he had lost the bet.

This judgment does not appear at all equitable; for there was a physical impossibility that the gainer could have lost; he had made his calculations beforehand, and knew that his adversary, of whose ignorance he took advantage, could not possibly perform the condition he had undertaken. It was, therefore, to give it its proper name, a wager based upon bad faith, and should have been quashed altogether.

"Punch of the Republic."

DURING the French Revolution, when a frantic rabble, on slight provocation, hung any man they encountered on the nearest lamp-post, Michau, the comic actor, fell into the hands of a street-parading banditti, who doomed him to die in honour of the Cap of Liberty. His gallows was selected, his coat taken off, and the rope about to be put round his neck, when a butcher's boy, who had seen him perform, came to his assistance, exclaiming to the intended murderers,

"Madmen! you know not what you do. You are going to hang Punch of the Republic!" (the Comédie Française was at that time called the Théâtre de la République).

Thanks to his title of Punch, bestowed by the butcher, Michau found himself at liberty, and is said to have accepted the apologies which two hundred ruffians offered as coolly, for their design of hanging him, as if they had simply trodden on his toes.

A Happy Change.

TEN thousand changes, ay, and more,
Of men and maids, in days of yore,
Hath Cupid made: and now should he
But kindly ask me what I'd be,
"Make me, sweet god of earth and sky!
The air my Julia breathes," I'd cry;
"For then (thrice bless'd, thrice happy day!)
She could not live were I away!"

MONEY-MAKING.—When old Zachariah Fox, the great merchant of Liverpool, was asked by what means he contrived to realise so large a fortune as he possessed, his reply was, "Friend, by one article alone, in which thou mayst deal too if thou pleasest—civility."

Perth.

THE "fair city" of Perth can boast of a great antiquity. From about 1200 till the 15th century, in the close of which the Parliament and Courts of Justice were removed to Edinburgh, Perth was the chief residence of the Scottish monarchs, and here many important Parliaments and national Church Councils were held. A famous incident with which Perth will ever be associated was the combat on the North Inch between the Clans Chattan and Quhele in 1396, which has been described with such vigour by Sir Walter Scott in his "Fair Maid of Perth." It was at Perth also that James I. was murdered by three of his nobles in 1437. Though rich, however, in historical associations, Perth has now few really ancient monuments to show.

The situation of Perth is very beautiful. To the north and south of the town along the banks of the Tay are the extensive meadows of the North and South Inches. The Tay is crossed by a stone bridge for carriage traffic and by a stone and iron railway bridge with a footway. Some of the most extensive bleach-works in the kingdom are in the immediate neighbourhood of Perth, on the banks of the Tay and the Almond. The Tay has valuable salmon fisheries. The navigation of the river is considerably obstructed by sand. Perth was made an independent port in 1840. The chief imports are Baltic timber, coal, salt, &c.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

DEFEND anemones, auriculas, and carnations in severe weather; tulips should also be defended in bad weather. Fibrous-rooted perennials and biennials to be divided and planted; bulbs may still be planted in mild weather. This being the month in the entire year in which the least is to be done in the way of sowing and planting, the active gardener is particularly called upon to prepare to the best advantage the soil for succeeding operations. Everything likely to suffer from the frost, such as young cabbages sown late for spring planting, ought to be well protected with mats, straw, dry fern, or long dry manure. If the weather be frosty and the ground hard and unfit for the spade, let the manure be carried to the plots which are to receive it. If the weather be open, let every hour be occupied by the spade; the ground to be laid out in ridges to enrich for spring sowing and planting. Dig round old fruit-trees. If any trees grow too luxuriantly to bear well, root-prune them. Nail and prune wall trees.

VIEW OF PERTH.

The First Guineas.

GUINEAS were first introduced in the reign of Charles II.; other denominations of gold coin had long before been current, but those pieces, the more distinctly to mark them as a new description of money, and in compliment to Sir Robert Holmes, received this appellation, from their having been made of the gold-dust brought from the coast of Guinea by that commander.

Bent on Slaughter.

DURING the troublous times in 1798 a watchword was required of every passenger after a certain hour, with liberty for the sentinel to interrogate at will. A poor harmless Irishman, travelling from Kilmainey to Kilmore, being asked concerning his place of departure and place of destination, answered, to the no small alarm of the inquirer, "I had been to Kill-many, and am going to Kill-more."

"That you sha'n't," cried the sentinel, and immediately took the man prisoner.

Superstitions about Eggs.

MANY queer superstitions are held in various parts of the world about eggs. In some places people are afraid to gather eggs and bring them into the house after dark; in others eggs must not be brought in on a Sunday. In France certain folks preserve all the year eggs laid on a Good Friday, as it is thought they are valuable for extinguishing fires. An old writer said that if the owners of houses eat eggs they must take care to eat an even number, otherwise mischief will betide the houses.

Study and Exercise.

THERE are many stupid students who when they go for a walk keep their subjects of study still in mind, and pay no attention to the beauties of Nature, seeing nothing and hearing nothing, no more than if they had been born blind and deaf. To such we commend the following extract from a well-known writer:—

"O deluded and misguided individuals! the walking powers are meant to carry yourselves—not only your corporeal bodies—into other scenes, to give a fresh current to your thoughts, and to give your brains an airing as well as your noses. The mind requires variety in its food, as does the body, and to obtain that change of nutriment is the proper object of taking a walk. That a rational being can condemn himself to walk three miles along a turnpike road and three miles back again, at one uniform pace, his eyes directed straight ahead, and his thoughts at home with his books, seems incredible to ordinary personages. Yet such British fakirs may be seen daily in all weathers, going at the rate of four miles per hour, their hats tilted towards the back of their heads, their bodies inclining forward at an angle of 80 degrees, their lips muttering polysyllabic language, and their eyes as beaming as those of a boiled codfish."
