THE GLEN COLLECTION OF SCOTTISH MUSIC

Presented by Lady Dorothea Ruggles-
Brise to the National Library of Scotland, in memory of her brother, Major Lord
George Stewart Murray, Black Watch, killed in action in France in 1914.

Vocal Music,
or the
Songster's Companion
being a complete Collection of SONGS, CANTATAS, &c.
with the Music prefix'd to each adapted for the
VIOLIN or GERMAN FLUTE,
Selected from the first & second Volumes of a favorite Work formerly Published under that Title:
To which is now added a variety of other New & choice Songs &c not inserted in any part of y<sup>e</sup> foregoing Work.
With an Alphabetical Index of the whole.

AS we have hitherto had the sanction of the public for a continuation of this work, which we have extended to three volumes, the last of which may be had separate, being unconnected with the foregoing, or as a third volume, to complete the set, at the choice of the buyer — we are encouraged still to make it as acceptable to the public as possible, by taking some of the choicest songs from the first and second volumes, now out of print, and incorporating them with a great variety of new ones, so as to make it one complete volume; leaving the last publication, till sold, for the purposes abovementioned.

We have been careful to keep to our original plan, namely, that of correctness as far as in our power, a decency of sentiment, and prefixing the music to each song, &c. the utility of which our purchasers cannot but be convinced of.

We can only say, as we did at the first publication, that, were we to insert the basses and symphonies, it would greatly curtail the number of songs in a small pocket-volume, and would be foreign to our design, which is only to assist the finger in time and tune, accompanied by a single instrument.

We therefore hope for, and doubt not of the continuance of, the favour of the public, to further our endeavours in this work from time to time, in the compass of a single volume, price only three shillings :

And beg leave to remain,

VOCAL MUSIC:

OR THE

Songster's Companion.

While over the mountain-brow peeps the young morn, &c.

While over the mountain-brow peeps the young morn, Our pack the dew dashing, ton ton sounds the horn; Sly Reynard unkennel'd, though cunning he lay, Brushes off; to the tally - ho we burst away! To the chace, to the chace, ye choice spirits,

CHORUS.

a--way! Tantwivy, tantwivy, tantarra, huzza!

huzza !

While through the thick brake all his shifts the fox tries,
Or, down the wind skulking, to cover he flies,
No hedge or ditch stops us, we circle the wood,
And high o'er the swinging gate dash through the flood.

CHORUS

To the chace, to the chace, ye choice spirits, away !
Tantwivy, tantwivy, tantarra, huzza !

Not a dog is at fault while the scent lies so strong,
Up hill and down hollow we rally along :
What sportsman so tame to be tempted to stay,
Or think once on safety and hear ' Hark away !'

CHORUS. To the chace, &c.

The view-holla given, the wide welkin rings !
Hark, hark ! the re-echo ! 'tis music for kings !
Men, horses, and hounds, in loud harmony share
The chorus of nature : Can nature forbear ?

CHORUS. To the chace, &c.

By exercise hunters distemper defy :
The faculty trust not, but faculties try :
And, while to the vapours pale indolents yield,
We win rosy health by the sports of the field.

CHORUS. To the chace, &c.

With broken words, and downcast eyes, &c.

With broken words, and downcast eyes, Poor

Colin spoke his passion tender; And, parting with his grizzly, cries, Ah! woe's my heart that we should funder! To others

I am cold as snow, But kindle with thine eyes like tinder: From thee with pain

I'm,

I'm forc'd to go; It breaks my heart that,

we should funder!

Chain'd to thy charms, I cannot range;
 No beauty new my love shall hinder;
 Nor time nor place shall ever change
 My vows, though we're oblig'd to funder!
 The image of thy graceful air,
 And beauties which invite our wonder,
 Thy lively wit, and prudence rare,
 Shall still be present though we funder.

Dear nymph, believe thy swain in this,
 You'll ne'er engage a heart that's kinder;
 Then seal a promise with a kiss,
 Always to love me, though we funder.
 Ye gods, take care of my dear lass,
 That as I leave her I may find her!
 When that blest time shall come to pass,
 We'll meet again, and never funder!

Transporting charmer of my heart, &c.

ANDANTE.

Transporting charmer! charm---er of my heart! Dear cause of all my joy!

Whose image, fix'd within my breast, Whose image, fix'd within my breast, Does all my thoughts em---ploy, Does all my thoughts employ. Whose image, fix'd within.

in my breast, Does all my thoughts employ, Does all my thoughts em--ploy.

Though length'ning plains between us stretch,
 Vast mountains 'twixt us rise;
 Spite of all distance, mighty love
 Presents thee to my eyes.

Whene'er I take the silent walk
 Along the lonely glade,
 Kind fancy, to my raptur'd thoughts,
 Presents my charming maid.

When, from the mountain's tow'ring height,
 Wide opening scenes I view,
 Hills, woods, and lawns, my eyes survey, —
 My soul sees only you!

The fields were green, the hills were gay, &c.

ANDANTINO AMOROSO.

The fields were green, the hills were gay, And birds were singing on each spray, When Colin met me in the grove, And told me tender tales of love! Was ever swain so blithe as he, So kind, so faithful, and so free! In spite of all my friends could say, Young Colin stole my heart heart a---way ! In spite of all my friends could say, Young Co-lin stole my heart a--way !

Whene'er he trips the meads along,
 He sweetly joins the woodlark's song ;
 And, when he dances on the green,
 'There's none so blithe as Colin seen :
 If he's but by, I nothing fear,
 For I alone am all his care ;
 Then, spite of all my friends can say,
 He's stole my tender heart away !

My mother chides whene'er I roam,
 And seems surpris'd I quit my home ;
 But she'd not wonder that I rove,
 Did she but feel how much I love :
 Full well I know the gen'rous swain
 Will never give my bosom pain ;
 Then, spite of all my friends can say,
 He's stole my tender heart away.

AMOROSO.

Ye ai-----ry warblers of the grove, Whose notes breathe har--mo--ny an-----d love, Whilst echo, from re-sound-ing hills, The enchanted soul with trans---port fills; And whose sweet fascin---a-ting spells Ne'er reach the feat where discord

cord dwells; Assist my la---ys, whilst now I si---ng, To ce----le---brate

the bloom--ing spring.

The gaudy meadows, painted green,
 And flow'rs, adorn the beauteous scene;
 Murm'ring brooks and crystal floods,
 Verdant walks and shady woods:
 Nature her gayest robe displays,
 And Phœbus darts his radiant rays,
 Whilst nymphs and swains their tributes bring,
 To celebrate the blooming spring.

MODERATO.

True blifs in retirement can on-ly be found;

In vain we shall feek it in pleasure's dull round. The truth of this maxim Phi--lander could fee, When the vot'ry of Cupid, and modishly free, When the vot'ry of Cupid, and mo-dishly free.

He often resolv'd to retire from the croud,
 Quite pall'd with its pleasures, so empty and loud ;
 As oft he relaps'd, through a whim to be free,
 But at last was reform'd by the banks of the Dee.

From noise and false pleasures he quickly withdrew,
 To taste of the solid, the lasting, and true ;
 Grew fond of retirement, nor car'd but for three, —
 A friend, and a book, and the banks of the Dee.

His fortune was easy, his manner polite,
 He read a great deal, and at times he would write ;
 Unmov'd by ambition, contented and free,
 He often sang thus on the banks of the Dee.

“ The monarch, still jealous of plots and designs,
 “ Who sighs at his heart while in splendour he shines,
 “ With pity I trace through the irksome levee,
 “ And bless my kind stars for the banks of the Dee.

“ The miser how wretched amidst all his store !
 “ What he has he can't taste, yet he sighs to have more ;
 “ While I with a little am happy and free,
 “ In a pleasing retreat, on the banks of the Dee.

“ Let Tom, without passion, still sigh for the fair,
 “ Affect their soft manner, and mimic their air, —
 “ Supply them with scandal o'er green and bohea, —
 “ Give me a retreat on the banks of the Dee.

“ No duns to molest me, my temper to cross,
 “ In a pleasing succession the moments will pass ;
 “ At peace with the world, contented and free,
 “ I'll live and I'll die on the banks of the Dee.”

In airy dreams soft fancy flies, &c.

SLOW.

In ai-----ry dreams so--ft fancy flies

My ab--sent love to see; And I

at ear--ly dawn arise, Dear youth, to think of thee! How swiftly flew the ro--sy hours, Whilst love and hope were now: Sweet was the time as o--pen--ing flow'rs,

flow'rs, But, ah! as tranfient too! How fwiftly flew the rofy hours, Whilst love and hope were new : Sweet was the time a-

-s opening flow'rs, But, ah! as tran-fient too!

The moments now move slowly on Until thy wish'd return ;
 I count them oft, as, all alone,
 In pensive shades I mourn !
 Return, return, my love ! and charm
 Each anxious care to rest ;
 Thy smiles shall ev'ry doubt disarm,
 And soothe my troubled breast !

Where the bee sucks there lurk I, &c.

ANDANTE.

Where the bee sucks there lurk I, In a cowslip's bell I lie; There I couch when owls do cry, when owls do cry, when owls do cry: On the bat's back do I fl- - - - -

-y, After sunfet, merrily, merrily, After sunfet, mer-ri-ly.

Merrily,
merrily,

merrily, shall I live now, Under the blossom that hangs on the bough. Merrily, merrily, shall I live now, Under the blossom that hangs on the bough, Under the blossom that hangs on the bough.

When sable night, each drooping plant restoring, &c.

MODERATO.

When sable night, each drooping plant restoring,

Wept o'er the flow'rs her breath did chear ;

As some sad widow, o'er her babe deploring,

Wakes its beauties with a tear :

When all did sleep, whose weary hearts could borrow.

One hour, from love and care, to rest :

Lo ! as I press'd my couch in silent sorrow,

My lover caught me to his breast.

He vow'd he came to save me From those who would would enslave me: Then kneeling, Kisses stealing,

Endless faith he swore. But soon I chid him thence; For, had his fond pretence Found favour then, And he had press'd again, I fear'd in my heart I might grant him more.

When

When Jove had resolv'd to create the round earth, &c.

ALLEGRETTO.

When Jove had resolv'd to create the round earth,

He subpœna'd the virtues, the virtues divine ;

Young Bacchus he sat præcedentum of mirth, And the toast was, Wit, women, wit, women, and wine.

Young Bacchus he sat præcedentum of mirth, And the toast was, Wit, women, wit, women, and wine,

wine, And the toast was, Wit, women, wit, women, and wine.

The sentiment tickled the ear of each God ;
 Apollo he wink'd to the nine,
 And Venus gave Mars too a sly wanton nod
 When she drank to Wit, women, and wine,

Old Jove shook his sides, and the cup put around,
 While Juno, for once, look'd divine :
 These blessings, says he, shall on earth now abound,
 And the toast is, Wit, women, and wine.

These are joys worthy gods which to mortals are giv'n,
 Says Momus, who will not repine ?
 For what's worth our notice, pray tell me, in heav'n,
 If men have Wit, women, and wine ?

This joke you'll repent, I'll lay fifty to seven;
 Such attractions no pow'r can decline ;
 Old Jove, by yourself you'll soon keep house in heav'n,
 For we'll follow Wit, women, and wine.

Thou'rt right, says old Jove, let us hence to the earth,
 Men and Gods think variety fine :
 Who'd stay in the clouds, when good-nature and mirth
 Are below, with Wit, women, and wine !

THE SENSES.

Seated at Aminta's table, With rich wines in plenty grac'd, One to fix on

I'm not able, Pleas'd with all I do but TASTE. While the nymphs attendant viewing, My eyes sparkle with de-light, By each glance

my joy re---new-ing With so ravishing

a SIGHT ! With so ravishing a SIGHT !

All adorn'd with fragrant flowers
 Was the bosom of each belle ;
 And you'd think Arabian bowers
 There, to gratify the SMELL.
 But, should they with songs regale us,
 And the listening audience cheer,
 Palate, eyes, and nose, then fail us,
 We can nothing do but HEAR !

Though these pleasures may the soul move,
 And you'll say there are none such,
 Yet, I vow, when near my true love,
 There's none equal to the TOUCH !
 Yes, I own, my dearest treasure !
 When encircled in your arms,
 Mortal can't enjoy more pleasure
 Than to feel such heav'nly charms !

Trust

Trust not man, for he'll deceive you, &c.

ALLEGRETTO.

Trust not man, for he'll deceive you,

Treach'ry is his sole in-----tent;

First he'll court you, then he'll leave you,

Poor de-----lu--ded! to lament!

Listen to a kind ad-vi-fer; Men pur---sue but to perplex:

plex : Would you hap-py be, grow wi-fer, And a---void the faith---less sex.

Form'd by nature to undo us,
 They escape our utmost heed :
 Ah ! how humble while they woo us,
 But how vain if they succeed !
 So the bird, whene'er deluded
 By the artful fowler's snare,
 Mourns out life, in cage secluded.
 Fair ones, while you're young beware !

'Twas

'Twas on the morn of sweet May-day, &c.

'Twas on the morn of sweet May-day, When nature painted all things gay, Taught birds to sing and lambs to play, And gild the meadows fair: Young Jockey early in the morn A--rose and tript it o'er.

the lawn: His Sunday coat the youth put on; For Jenny

Jenny had vow'd away to run With Jockey to the fair, For Jenny had vow'd a--way to run With Jockey to the fair.

The cheerful parish-bells had rung ;
With eager steps he trudg'd along,
Sweet flow'ry garlands round him hung,
Which shepherds us'd to wear :

He tap'd the window, — " Haste, my dear ;"
Jenny, impatient, cry'd, " Whose there ?"

" 'Tis I, my love, and no one near,

" Step gently down, you've nought to fear,
" With Jockey at the fair."

" Step gently down, &c."

• My dad and mammy're fast asleep,

• My brother's up, and with the sheep :

• And will you still your promise keep

• Which I have heard you swear ?

• And will you ever constant prove ?

" I will, by all the pow'rs above,

" And ne'er deceive my charming dove !

" Dispel these doubts, and haste, my love,

" With Jockey to the fair."

" Dispel these doubts, &c."

“ Behold the ring,” the shepherd cry’d,
 “ Will Jenny be my charming bride ?
 “ Let Cupid be our happy guide,
 “ And Hymen meet us there !”

Then Jockey did his vows renew;
 He would be constant, would be true;
 His word was pledg’d : away she flew,
 With cowslips sparkling with the dew,
 With Jockey to the fair.
 With cowslips, &c.

Soon did they meet a joyful train,
 Their gay companions, blithe and young,
 Each joins the dance, each joins the throng,
 To hail the happy pair.
 What two were e’er so fond as they !
 All blest the kind propitious day,
 The smiling morn of blooming May,
 When lovely Jenny ran away
 With Jockey to the fair.
 When lovely Jenny, &c.

Shepherds, I have lost my love! &c.

AFFETTUOSO.

Shepherds, I have lost my love! Have you seen my Anna? Pride of ev'ry shady

dy grove, Up-----on the banks of Banna!

I for her my home forsook, Near yon misty mountain, Left my flock, my pipe, my crook, Greenwood shade, and fountain!

Never shall I see them more Until her returning;
 All the joys of life are o'er,
 From gladness chang'd to mourning!

Whither is my charmer flown?
 Shepherds, tell me whither!
 Ah! woe for me! perhaps she's gone
 For ever and for ever!

'Twas in a village near Castlebury, &c.

ALLEGRETTO.

'Twas in a village near Castlebury A cobbler and his wife did dwell : And, for a time, no

two so merry, Their happiness no tongue can tell, Their happiness no tongue can tell.

But to this couple, the neighbours tell us, Did something happen which caus'd much strife ; For, going to

to a neighb'ring alehouse, The man got drunk and beat his wife! The man got drunk and beat his wife!

But, though he treated her so vilely,

What did his wife, good creature, do!

Kept snug, and found a method slyly

To wring his heart quite through and through :

For Dick, the tapster, and his master,

By the report, that then was rife,

Were both in hopes, by this disaster,

To gain the cobbler's pretty wife.

While things went on to wreck and ruin,

And all their furniture was sold,

She seem'd t'approve of all was doing,

And got from each a purle of gold :

So, when the cobbler's cares were over,

He swore to lead an alter'd life,

To mind his work, ne'er be a rover,

And love no other but his wife.

Come tell me, dear Phillis, come tell me, I pray, &c.

ALLEGRO.

Come tell me, dear Phillis, come tell me,

I pray, Must Damon ne'er hope for your love? The truth of my passion my sighs do betray, Will nothing your coldness remove? Ah! call to your mind the last Sunday in May, When Thyrsis his passion prefer'd:

You

You seem'd all attention to what he did say, With pleasure his sonnet you heard.

Oh! let not dire jealousy torture your breast,
 Said Phillis, and feigned a smile;
 A prudent reserve I ever held best,
 Since men are so prone to beguile:
 Now let not that odium extend to us all
 Which only belongs to a few;
 True love pleads my suit, pray attend to the call,
 I ne'er can prove faithless to you.

How blest the day, when on yon hill, &c.

ANDANTE.

How blest the day, when on yon hill We pass'd the hap---py hours a-way; On by the verge of yon---der rill We view'd the spor--tive lambkins play! While down the dale the riv'lets flow'd, And flow--ly murr'd through through the grove, We cull'd the sweet.

est flow'rs that blow'd, And told soft tales of mu---tual love!

Of all the nymphs that trip the plain,
Or breathe the gentle rural air, —
Of all that tune the vocal strain,
None ever was so sweet, so fair!

Much greater then my blifs would be,
Should fortune towards me incline,
And give so fair a nymph to me,
To call her ever only mine!

Yes,

Yes, these are the scenes where with Daphne I stray'd, &c.

ANDANTE SICILIANI.

Yes, these are the scenes where with Daphne I stray'd: But short was her sway for so lovely a maid! But short was her sway for so lovely a maid! In the bloom of her youth to a cloister she ran, In the bloom of her grace, too fair for a nun! Ill grounded, no doubt, a devotion

de--votion must prove, So fatal to beauty,

so killing to love! So fatal to beauty,

so killing to love!

Yes, these are the meadows, the shrubs, and the plains,
Once the scene of my pleasures, the scene of my pains!
How many soft moments I spent in this grove!
How fair was my nymph! and how fervent my love!
Be still though, my heart! thine emotion give o'er;
Remember, the season of love is no more!

With her how I stray'd amid fountains and bow'rs,
Or loiter'd behind and collected the flow'rs!
Then, breathless with ardour, my fair-one pursu'd!
And to think with what kindness my garland she view'd!
But be still, my fond heart! thine emotion give o'er;
Fain would'st thou forget thou must love her no more!

ALLEGRO.

To the voice of a friend, Ye Con--vi-vials, attend, And in chorus the subject prolong: Mirth, freedom, and ease, Must certainly please, And such to Convivials be----- long, And such to Convivials belong.

Joy

Joy and friendship's our plan, —
 Deny it who can, —
 To be happy and cheerful each night,
 All wrangling, or noise,
 Which true pleasure destroys,
 We banish, as foe to delight.

Let the Bucks of the age
 Double meanings engage,
 Let Masons their wisdom display;
 Without any offence,
 We wish to commence
 An order as happy as they.

A fine starry night's
 The Choice Spirits delight,
 While, jocund, they raise up their songs;
 If goodness of heart
 Reigns when they depart,
 The same to Convivials belongs.

Then, come, let us join
 In a theme so divine,
 And jovially make the room ring!
 Mirth, freedom, and ease,
 Must certainly please,
 And friendship's a feast for a king!

My time passes on ever cheerful and gay, &c.

VIVACE CON SPIRITO.

My time passes on ever cheerful and gay, For I've learnt the true art to drive sorrow

a---way, For I've learnt the true art to drive sorrow away : And the remedy, sure, you'll allow of good sort, When I tell you it lies in a hoghead of Port! And the remedy, sure, you'll you'll al-low of good fort, When I tell you it lies in a hogthead of Port!

Though I can't say I'm rich, yet I'm not very poor ;
 I look without envy on those that have more :
 Unenvy'd, to pleasure's gay sound they resort ;
 Greater joys I derive from a hogthead of Port !

For Phillis I sigh'd, till I found with surprise
 That a brimmer could sparkle as well as her eyes :
 Then I left the fair charmer for others to court,
 And extinguish my flame in a hogthead of Port !

When age after pleasure forbids me to roam,
 With my bottle and friend I shall find it at home ;
 For I'll not lose a moment, since life is but short,
 Ever blest with my friend, and a hogthead of Port !

Hither come, then, my friends, that are pleas'd with such fare ;

In full flowing bumpers we'll drown all our care !
 Hither come, from the plains, from the city, or court,
 Here's plenty for all ! — here's a hogthead of Port !

My banks they are furnish'd with bees, &c.

AFFETTUOSO.

My banks they are furnish'd with bees,

Whose murmur in---vites one to sleep; My grottos are shaded with trees, And my hills are white, over with sheep. I seldom have met with a loss, Such health do my mountains be-flow! My fountains all border'd with

with mofs, Where the harebels and vi--o--lets gr- - - -ow, Where the harebels and

vi-----o-lets grow.

I've found out a gift for my fair,
 I've found where the wood-pigeons breed ;
 But let me that plunder forbear,
 She'll say 'twas a barbarous deed !
 He ne'er could be true, she averr'd,
 Who could rob a poor bird of its young !
 And I lov'd her the more, when I heard
 Such tenderness fall from her tongue.

But where does my Phillida stray ?
 And where are her grots and her bow'rs ?
 Are the groves and the vallies as gay,
 And the shepherds as gentle as ours ?
 The groves may perhaps be as fair, —
 The face of the vallies as fine, —
 The swains may in manners compare ; —
 But their love is not equal to mine !

Gentle Love, this hour befriend me, &c.

LARGHETTO EXPRESSIVE.

Gentle Love, this hour befriend me,

To my eyes re--sign thy dart:

Notes of melting mu--sic lend me, To

Though I ten- - - -der language u--se;
'Tis

'Tis by cold indifference frozen To my ar- - ms and to my muse !

See, my dying eyes are pleading,
 Where a broken heart appears,
 For thy pity interceding
 With the eloquence of tears !
 While the lamp of life is fading,
 And beneath thy coldness dies,
 (Death my ebbing pulse invading,)
 Take my soul into thy eyes !

ANDANTE.

Let others Damon's praise rehearse,

Or Colin's, at their will; I mean to sing, in rustic verse, Young Strephon, young Stréphon, young Strephon, of the hill.

As once I sat beneath a shade,
Beside a purling rill,
Who should my solitude invade,
But Strephon of the hill!

He tapp'd my shoulder, snatch'd a kiss, —
 I could not take it ill; —
 For nothing, sure, is done amiss
 By Strephon of the hill.

Consent, O lovely maid ! he cry'd,
 Nor aim thy swain to kill ;
 Consent this day to be the bride
 Of Strephon of the hill !

Observe the doves on yonder spray,
 See how they fit and bill :
 So sweet your time shall pass away
 With Strephon of the hill.

We went to church with hearty glee :—
 O Love ! propitious still !
 May every nymph be blest ! like me
 With Strephon of the hill.

If she'd drink but her ain things I wud na much care ;
 She drinks my claiths I canna weel spare !
 To th' kirk and the market l'se gang fu' barely !
 Oh ! g'in my wife wud drink hoolly and fairly !

If there be ony filler, she maun keep the purse ;
 If I seek but a baubie, she'll scauld and she'll curse !
 She gangs like a queen ! — I, scrimp and sparely ! —
 Oh ! g'in my wife wud drink hoolly and fairly !

I never was guven to wrangling or strife,
 Nor e'er did refuse her the comforts of life :
 E'er it come to a war I am ay for a parly :
 Oh ! g'in my wife wud drink hoolly and fairly !

A pint wi' the cummers I wud her allow ;
 But, when she sits down, she fills hersal fu' !
 And, when she is fu', she's unco cumstarie !
 Oh ! g'in my wife wud drink hoolly and fairly !

She rins out to the casy, she raves, and she rants !
 Has na dread of neighbours, nor minds the house-wants.
 Roars some foolish lilt, ' Tike up thy heart, Charlie !'
 Oh ! g'in my wife wud drink hoolly and fairly !

And, when she comes hame, she lays on the lads,
 She caws the lasses baith limmers and jads,
 And I my ainsal a poor auld cuckold carly !
 Oh ! g'in my wife wud drink hoolly and fairly !

To vi- - - fit Bagnigge - Wells.

The lovely prospect all around
 In rich abundance swells;
 Each plant in new apparel's found
 To decorate Bagnigge-Wells.

There nature view in all her pride,
 With all her fragrant smells,
 Engag'd to charm the annual tribe
 Who meet at Bagnigge-Wells.

Sweet music bids us hasten there,
 Where sportive pleasure dwells:
 Come, Betsy, partner of my care,
 Come haste to Bagnigge-Wells.

From noise and hurry, strife and grief,
 And solitude in cells,
 Confin'd no more, we gain relief
 At charming Bagnigge-Wells.

From scene to scene around you rove,
 Which moody care dispels;
 Then drink fine tea with your dear love
 At pleasant Bagnigge-Wells.

Come, haste, my rural partners, haste,
 Enjoy the summer's smells;
 See nymphs of beauty, beaus of taste,
 All pleas'd at Bagnigge-Wells.

The FRIER'S ADDRESS to his young brothers.

TEMPO MODERATO & CON SPIRITO.

To the rules of our order attend, brother friers, With enlarg'd philanthropic sensations

they're fill'd, With enlarg'd philanthropic senfa-tions they're fill'd : To gather life's roses,

unfung by the briers, Is the true summun

Not with cynical founness do we hear confession,
 But freely a kind absolution bestow
 On the sweet-temper'd fair, whose sins and transgression
 From charity, love, and good-nature, shall flow.

While lib'ral our minds, free from envy, from pride,
 From all superstition's dark train of false fear,
 With the Author of nature our thanks shall abide,
 And his blessings we'll freely enjoy while we're here.

Young Jockey sought my heart to win, &c.

ALLEGRETTO.

Young Jockey fought my heart to win,

And wooed as lovers woo--e; I, vers'd in all our fe---x's arts, Did just as maidens do: How--e'er he'd figh, what-e'er he'd vow, I'd flu --dy to be shy at:

And, when he press'd his fate to know, And, when he

he prefs'd his fate to know, 'Twas, Prythee, fool, be quiet, Prythee, fool, be quiet, 'Twas, Prythee, fool, prythee, fool, 'Twas, Prythee, fool, be quiet.

Month after month of am'rous pain,
 He made a mighty fuss!
 Why, if (you know) one loves a swain,
 'Tis wrong to say one does.
 He told me, Passion could not live
 Without more pleasing diet:
 And, pray, what answer could I give,
 But, Prythee, fool, be quiet?

At length he made a bold essay,
 And, like a man, he cry'd,
 'Thy hand, my dear! This very day
 'Shall Celia be my bride!
 Convinc'd he would have teas'd me still,
 I could not well deny it:
 And now, believe me, when I will,
 I make the fool be quiet!

waste the day A-----mong the birks of En-----der-- may.

Soon wears the summer of the year,
And love like winter will appear ;
Like this your lively bloom will fade,
And that will strip the verdant shade :
Our taste for pleasure then is o'er,
The feather'd songsters charm no more ;
And, when they droop and we decay,
Adieu the birks of Endermay !

Behold, the hills and vales around
With lowing herds and flocks abound ;
The wanton kids and frisking lambs
Gambol and dance about their dams ;
The busy bees, with humming noise,
And all the reptile kind, rejoice :
Let us, like them, then, sing and play
About the birks of Endermay.

Hark, how the waters, as they fall,
Loudly my love to gladness call ;
The wanton waves sport in the beams,
And fishes play throughout the streams ;
The circling sun does now advance,
And all the planets round him dance :
Let us as jovial be as they,
Among the birks of Endermay !

Friendship, with thy pow'r divine
 Brighten all our features !
 What but friendship, love, and wine,
 Can make us happy creatures ?
 Bring the flask, &c.

Love, thy godhead I adore,
 Source of gen'rous passions !
 But will ne'er bow down before
 Those idols, wealth and fashions.
 Bring the flask, &c.

Why the plague should we be sad
 Whilst on earth we moulder ?
 Whether we're merry, grave, or mad,
 We ev'ry day grow older.
 Bring the flask, &c.

Then, since time will steal away
 Spite of all our sorrow,
 Heighten ev'ry joy to-day,
 And never mind tomorrow !
 Bring the flask, &c.

How rapid, how fleeting, yet full of delight, &c.

AFFETTUOSO.

How rapid, how fleeting, yet full of delight, Were the hours I have spent in my

Phillida's fight! Ah! say, if thou canst, gentle shepherd, say when I may hope to be blest with her presence a--gain! For Phillida's gone, and left Damon to mourn, To sigh without ceasing till

Ah! cease, cruel echo, to mock at my pain,
By resounding fair Phillida's name back again;
Her name, thou canst witness, I've sung o'er and o'er,
But, alas! 'tis her absence that now I deplore!
For Phillida's gone, &c.

How oft, gentle gales, have ye harmony brought,
As it pour'd in soft numbers from Philomel's throat!
Yet her song was then useless to soothe me to rest,
Whilst my head lay so easy on Phillida's breast!
But Phillida's gone, &c.

What comfort, alas! can for Damon remain!
Can he longer delight in the sports of the plain?
Ah! no: his pipe broken, and stray'd all his sheep,
Poor Damon has nothing to do but to weep!
For Phillida's gone, &c.

Farewel, my sad strain! 'tis in vain that I sing!
No sighs back again can my shepherdes bring!
Nor ere shall poor Damon's unfortunate head
Be pillow'd in peace — till he sleeps with the dead!
For Phillida's gone, &c.

Her stockings were of keesly green,

As tight as ony silk ;

Oh ! sic a leg was never seen !

Her skin was white as milk !

Her hair was black as ane could wish,

And sweet, sweet, was her mou !

Oh ! Jenny daintily can kifs ! —

But what is that to you ?

The rose and lily baith combine
 To make my Jeany fair ;
 There is nae bennison like mine,
 I have amaisht no care :
 But, when another swain, my dear,
 Shall say you're fair to view,
 Let Jeany whisper in his ear,
 Pray what is that to you !

 Be such as reason, pleas'd, allows;
 Be such as smiling virtue knows; —
 To Love I'll pay my virgin vows.

And such there are: — for loose desires
 But ill deserve the tender name;
 They blast like lightning's transient fires;
 But love's a pure and constant flame.

Love scorns a sordid selfish bliss,
 And only for its object lives;
 Feels mutual truth endear the kiss,
 And tastes no joys but those it gives.

Love's more than language can reveal,

Soon as I had lost my lover,

Fool! I fate me down and cry'd;

Rail'd at fate, and curs'd the rover,

Sigh'd and sobb'd, and sobb'd and sigh'd.

I no breakfast ate nor dinner,

Supperless I went to bed;

I a loser, he no winner,

A lucky thought came in my head:

Why should I, my bloom destroying,

Vex and tease my soul away?

No, the sweets of life enjoying,

I will taste the sweets of May.

Just as the rose, the bee flying from her,

Blushes and bustles at every wind,

So Chloe resolves to laugh through the summer,

To ev'ry new swain be gentle and kind.

Tell me, ye maids, tell me, ye maids,

Could you do so? would you do so?

From silent shades, and the Elysian groves

Where sad departed spirits mourn their loves !

kept her re-vels late, While Mab, the fairy queen, did dance; And O-be-ron did sit in state, When

Mars at Venus ran his lance. In yonder

cowslip lies my dear, Intomb'd in liquid tear, Its fading blossom to re--new. For, since my love is dead, And all my joys are gone, Poor

L 3 Bess,

Befs, for his fake, A garland will make, My music

by you ? His two flaming eyes, if he come nigh you,

They will scorch up your hearts. Ladies, beware ye,

Lest he should dart a glance that may en--snare ye.

Hark ! hark ! I hear old Charon bawl, His boat he will no longer stay : The furies lash their whips and call, Come, come away, Come, come away. Poor

Befs will return to the place whence she came, Since the world is so mad she can hope for no cure; For love's grown a bubble, a shadow, a name, Which fools do admire,

admire, and wife men endure. Cold and hungry am I grown, Am-bro-sia will I feed upon,

Drink nectar still and sing. Who is content Does

Our sugar-kisses, honey-words,
 We never thought too much ;

 E'er gave their ladies such.
 To plow went I, to spin went she,
 And all the parish tells,
 How Ralph and Fan
 Their loves began
 With joys, that none can greater be,
 When ding-dong went the bells.

Rare times were these — but, ah ! how soon
 Do wedlock's comforts fall !
 The days, that were the honey-moon,
 Are wormwood now, and gall.
 Whate'er of furies they invent,
 Broke out from flaming cells,
 You now may see

When to the pale moon the soft nightingales moan
 In accents so piercing and clear—
 You sing not so sweetly, I cry with a groan,

 Ah ! could I but again, said I,
 Hear the sweet voice of blue-eyed Patty !

Love'taught me how : I work'd, I sang,
 My anvil glow'd, my hammer rang,
 Till I had form'd, from out the fire,

 Gay youth sat blooming on his face;
 She no less shone with ev'ry grace;
 Yet neither thought of love,
 Yet neither thought of love.

With equal joy each morn they meet;
 At mid-day, seek the same retreat,
 And shelter in one grove;
 At ev'ning haunt the self-same walk,
 Together innocently talk,
 But not a word of love.

Hence mutual friendship firmly grew,
 Till heart to heart spontaneous flew,
 Like bill to bill of dove:
 Both feel the flame which both conceal;
 Both wish the other would reveal;
 Yet neither speaks of love.

She hung with rapture o'er his sense;
 He doated on her innocence:
 Thus each did each approve.

is hers if she will. Nay the all of my pastoral flock, Believe me, is hers if she will.

DAPHNE. Good shepherd, be artless and wise ;
 Can ambition with meekness agree ?
 Contentment's the charter I prize,
 No wealth has a virtue for me :
 'Tis enough to be Corydon's wife,
 And duties domestic fulfil ;
 I am sure I can love you for life,
 So, I thank you, I think that I will.

CORYDON. The miser his plumb may possess,
 The statesman his title and star,
 Our cares and our crimes will be less,
 And sha'n't we be happier far ?
 From fortune we'll brave each rebuff,
 Your smiles can adversity kill,
 Your heart will be treasure enough,
 And I'll keep it, dear Daphne, I will.

DAPHNE. My candour coquets may despise,
 And prudes may my passion gainsay,
 But innocence scorns a disguise,
 And I hope I'm as modest as they ;
 And I think, if there's faith in the brook,
 I'm as fair as the maid of the mill ;
 So, Corydon, give me your crook,
 For in truth 'tis determin'd, — I will.

He, who a virgin's heart would win, &c.

HE, who a virgin's heart would win,
 By soft approaches must begin,
 Must gently sigh, must gently sigh,
 And each endearing art must try.
 If Cupid's favour'd golden dart
 Should then transfix her yielding heart,
 Each gentle look, each gentle sigh,
 Shall echo back with sympathy,
 Shall echo back with sympathy.

But what avails a heart to gain,
 Unless the conquest we maintain?
 Implore we, then, the heav'nly pow'rs,
 How still to keep the conquest ours.
 List, list! what murmurs here incline! —
 'Tis Hymen! — Mark the voice divine! —
 ' Know, mortals, I alone can prove
 ' The strong attractive charms of love!

The silver moon's enamour'd beam, &c.

ANDANTE.

THE

THE silver moon's enamour'd beam
 Steals softly through the night,
 To wanton with the winding stream,
 And kifs reflected light.
 To beds of state go, balmy sleep,
 ('Tis where you've seldom been,) Whilst I May's wakeful vigil keep
 With Kate of Aberdeen,
 With Kate of Aberdeen,
 With Kate of Aberdeen.

The nymphs and swains expectant wait,
 In primrose-chaplets gay,
 Till morn unbar her golden gate,
 And give the promis'd May.
 The nymphs and swains shall all declare,
 The promis'd May, when seen,
 Not half so fragrant, half so fair,
 As Kate of Aberdeen.

I'll tune my pipe to playful notes,
 And rouse the nodding grove,
 Till new-wak'd birds distend their throats,
 And hail the maid I love !
 At her approach the lark mistakes,
 And quits the new-dress'd green :
 Fond bird ! 'tis not the morning breaks,
 'Tis Kate of Aberdeen !

Now, blithesome o'er the dewy mead,
 Where elves disportive play,
 The festal dance young shepherds lead,
 Or sing their love-tun'd lay ;
 Till May in morning-robe draws nigh,
 And claims a virgin queen ;
 The nymphs and swains exulting cry,
 Here's Kate of Aberdeen !

One summer's eve, as Nancy fair, &c.

ALLEGRO, MA NON TROPPO.

ONE

ONE summer's eve, as Nancy fair
 Sat spinning in the shade,
 While soaring larks did shake the air
 In warbling o'er her head :
 In tender coos the pigeons woo'd ;
 Love's impulse all must feel ;
 She sang, but still her work pursu'd,
 And turn'd her spinning wheel,
 And turn'd her spinning-wheel.

' While thus I work with rock and reel,
 ' So life by time is spun,
 ' And, as turns round my spinning-wheel,
 ' The world turns up and down ;
 ' Some rich to-day, tomorrow low,
 ' While I no changes feel,
 ' But get my bread by sweat of brow,
 ' And turn my spinning wheel.

' From me let men and women too
 ' This home-spun lesson learn ;
 ' Not mind what other people do,
 ' But eat the bread they earn.
 ' If none were fed (were that to me)
 ' But what deserv'd a meal,
 ' Some ladies then, we soon should see,
 ' Must turn the spinning-wheel.'

The rural toast, with sweetest tone,
 Thus sang her witless strain,
 When o'er the lawn limp'd gammer Joan,
 And brought home Nancy's swain.
 ' Come, (cries the dame,) Nance, here's thy spouse,
 ' Away throw rock and reel !'
 Blithe Nanny, at the bonny news,
 O'er-set the spinning-wheel.

When

CON SPIRITO.

WHEN

WHEN lately I offer'd miss Charlotte to kiss,
 She flew'd, and she flouted, and took it amiss,
 She flew'd, and she flouted, and took it amiss.
 ' Begone, you great booby ! (she cry'd, with a frown,)
 ' Do you think that I want to be kiss'd by a clown ?'
 ' Begone, you great booby ! (she cry'd, with a frown,)
 ' Do you think that I want to be kiss'd by a clown ?'

Thus spoke the pert huffy, and view'd me all round
 With an eye of disdain, and then spit on the ground ;
 Look'd proud of her charms, with an insolent sneer,
 And sent me away, with a flea in my ear.

My blood quickly boil'd, in a violent pique,
 And, red as a rose, passion glow'd on my cheek ;
 For it nettled me sore, that this flirt of the town
 Should despise a young shepherd, and call him a clown.

The girls of the country, if they had their wills,
 Would kiss me, and press me, to stay on the hills ;
 Thus they lik'd me, no doubt ; but this flirt of the town
 Refus'd my fond kisses, and call'd me a clown.

May she never encounter with shepherds again,
 On the hills, in the vale, in the city, or plain ;
 And may the proud minx, for her crime to atone,
 If she can, sleep contented ; — but always alone.

ALLEGRO.

PLEASURE,

PLEASURE, goddess all divine !
 Come, O come, my soul is thine ;
 Come, O come, with graceful air,
 Come, and drive away dull care,
 Come, and drive away dull care.
 Care, that suits with sordid minds,
 Such as fear or av'rice binds ;
 Selfish, fullen, human, brutes,
 Those alone dull care best suits,
 Those alone dull care best suits.

Bring with thee sweet dimpled Love,
 Cupid will with Pleasure rove ;
 Bacchus too must join the train,
 Bacchus prompts the jocund strain.
 Merry Momus, too, appear,
 Momus is a foe to care ;
 Let me, let me, join the choir,
 Pleasure is my soul's desire.

I'll with Bacchus toss the glass,
 And with Cupid toast my lass ;
 Or with waggish Momus laugh ;
 Thus I'll love, and thus I'll quaff.
 Hence with all your sober rules,
 Wretched pedants, prating fools ;
 Musty morals I despise,
 Love and mirth can make us wise.

Dear Chloe, how blubber'd is thy pretty face, &c.

DEAR

DEAR Chloe, how blubber'd is thy pretty face !
 Thy cheek all on fire, and thy hair all uncurl'd !
 Prithee quit this caprice, and, as old Falstaff says,
 Let's e'en talk a little like folks of this world.
 How canst thou presume thou hast leave to destroy
 The beauties which Venus but lent to thy keeping ?
 Those looks were design'd to inspire love and joy ;
 More ordinary eyes may serve people for weeping.

To be vex'd at a trifle or two that I write,
 Your judgement, at once, and my passion you wrong ;
 You take that for a fact, which will scarce be found wit ;
 Od's-life ! must one swear to the truth of a song ?
 The god of us verse-men you know, child,—the Sun,—
 How after his journey he sets up his rest ;
 If, at morning, o'er earth 'tis his fancy to run,
 At night, he reclines on his Thetis's breast.

So, when I, weary'd with wand'ring all day,
 To thee, my delight ! in the ev'ning am come ;
 No matter what beauties I met in my way,
 They were but my visits, but thou art my home !
 Then finish, dear Chloe, this pastoral war,
 And let us, like Horace and Lydia, agree ;
 For thou art than Lydia much brighter by far,
 As he was a poet superior to me !

 In a point, that's so critical, what shall I say ?
 Ye matrons experienc'd, inform me, I pray,
 In a point, that's so critical, what shall I say ?

Soft sonnets he makes on my beauty and wit,
 Such praises a bosom that's tender must hit ;
 He vows that he'll love me for ever and aye ;
 In a point, that's so critical, what can I say ?

He brought me a garland, the sweetest e'er seen,
 And, saluting me, call'd me his heart's little queen ;
 In my breast, like a bird, I found something play ;
 Instruct a young virgin then what she must say.

But vain my petition, you heed not my call,
 But leave me, unguarded, to stand or to fall ;
 No more I'll solicit, no longer I'll pray ;
 Let Prudence inform me in what I shall say.

When next he approaches, with care in his eye,
 If he asks me to wed, I vow I'll comply ;
 At church he may take me for ever and aye,
 And, I warrant you, then I shall know what to say.

Now the hill-tops are burnish'd with azure and gold, &c.

VIVACE.

CHORUS.

NOW

NOW the hill-tops are burnish'd with azure and gold,
 And the prospect around us most bright to behold;
 The hounds are all trying the mazes to trace,
 The steeds are all neighing, and pant for the chace.

CHORUS.

Then rouse, each true sportsman, and join, at the dawn,
 The song of the hunters, and sound of the horn,
                                     And sound of the horn,
 The song of the hunters, and sound of the horn.

Health braces the nerves and gives joy to the face,
 Whilst over the heath we pursue the fleet chace;
 See, the downs now we leave, and the coverts appear,
 As eager we follow the fox or the hare.

Then rouse, &c.

Wherever we go, pleasure waits on us still,
 If we sink in the valley, or rise on the hill;
 O'er hedges and rivers we valiantly fly,
 For, fearless of death, we ne'er think we shall die.

Then rouse, &c.

From ages long past, by the poets we're told,
 That hunting was lov'd by the sages of old;
 That the soldier and huntsman were both on a par,
 And the health-giving chace made them bold in the war.

Then rouse, &c.

When the chace is once over, away to the bowl,
 The full flowing bumpers shall cheer up the soul;
 Whilst, jocund, our songs shall with choruses ring,
 And toasts to our lasses, our country, and king.

Then rouse, &c.

YOUNG Thyrsis (sure the blithest swain
 That ever tripp'd the sylvan plain,
 Or sigh'd for virgin fair,
 Or sigh'd for virgin fair,)

Woo'd Delia; but the cruel dame
 With cold neglect return'd his flame,
 Nor would, nor would, the shepherd hear,
 Nor would, nor would, the shepherd hear.

For her he danc'd, for her did sing,
 For her his tuneful lyre did string
 To ev'ry pleasing air;
 By each engaging art he strove
 To gain attention to his love;
 But, lo, she would not hear.

Then, by her scorn provok'd, he said,
 ' Since thus my tender vows are paid,
 ' Know, thou relentless fair,
 ' Some other nymph I'll strive to find,
 ' Who to my passion will be kind,
 ' And lend a pitying ear.'

By feigning change, her heart he try'd;
 A rival piqu'd her female pride;
 The thought she could not bear:
 ' Why, Thyrsis, with such haste away?
 ' Oh! stay, (she cry'd,) kind shepherd, stay,
 ' And I thy suit will hear!'

I do as I will with my swain, &c.

ANDANTE.

I Do as I will with my swain,
 He never once thinks I am wrong,
 He likes none so well on the plain,
 I please him so much with my song.
 A song is my shepherd's delight,
 He hears me with joy all the day,
 He's sorry when comes the dull night,
 That hastens the end of my lay.

With spleen and with care once oppress'd,
 He ask'd me to soothe him the while;
 My voice set his mind all at rest,
 And the shepherd did instantly smile.
 Since when, or in mead, or in grove,
 By his flocks, or the clear river's side,
 I sing my best songs to my love,
 And to charm him is grown all my pride.

No beauty had I to endear,
 No treasures of nature or art,
 But my voice, that had gain'd on his ear,
 Soon found out the way to his heart.
 To try if that voice would not please,
 He took me to join the gay throng;
 I won the rich prize with all ease,
 And my fame's gone abroad with my song.

But, let me not jealousy raise,
 I wish to enchant but my swain;
 Enough, then, for me is his praise,
 I sing but for him the lov'd strain.
 When youth, wealth, and beauty, may fail,
 And your shepherds elude all your skill,
 Your sweetness of song may prevail,
 And gain all your swains to your will.

In the yard when the cattle are fodder'd with straw,
 And they send forth their breath like a stream;
 And the neat-looking dairy-maid sees she must thaw
 Flakes of ice that she finds in her cream:
 When the lads and the lasses, in company join'd,
 In a crowd round the embers are met, —
 Talk of fairies and witches that ride on the wind,
 And of ghosts, till they're all in a sweat:

Heav'n grant, in this season, it may be my lot,
 With the nymph whom I love and admire,
 Whilst the icicles hang from the eaves of my cot,
 I may thither in safety retire!

Mog the brunette.

They pannell'd their dobbins, and rode to the fair,
 Still kissing and fondling until they came there;
 They call'd at the church, and in wedlock were join'd,
 And Jockey was happy, for Moggy was kind.
 'Twas now honey-moon, time expir'd too soon,
 They revell'd in pleasure, night, morning, and noon;
 He call'd her his charmer, his joy, and his pet,
 And the lasses all envy'd sweet Mog the brunette.

Then home they return'd; but return'd most unkind;
 For Jockey rode on, and left Moggy behind;
 Surpris'd at this treatment, she call'd to her mate,
 "Why, Jockey! you're alter'd most strangely of late!"
 "Come on, fool, (he cry'd,) thou now art my bride,
 "And, when folks are wed, they set fooling aside."
 Hard names and foul words were the best she could get;
 Strange usage this, sure, for sweet Mog the brunette!

He took home poor Moggy new conduct to learn;
 She brush'd up the house, while he thatch'd the old barn;
 They laid in a stock for the cares that ensue,
 And now live as man and wife usually do;
 As their humours excite, they kiss and they fight,
 'Twixt kindness and feuds pass the morn, noon, and night;
 To his sorrow, he finds with his match he has met,
 And wishes the devil had Mog the brunette!

 Worth and manhood are the fashion,
 Favour'd by the British fair.

Once the gods of the Greeks, at ambrosial feast, &c.

CON SPIRITO.

ONCE

ONCE the gods of the Grecks, at ambrosial feast,
 Large bowls of rich nectar were quaffing ;
 Merry Momus among them was set as a guest ;
 Homer says the celestials lov'd laughing.
 On each in the synod the humorist droll'd,
 So none could his jokes disapprove ;
 He sang, reparteed, and some smart stories told,
 And at last thus began upon Jove,
 And at last thus began upon Jove.

“ Sire ! Atlas, who long has the universe borne, “ Grows grievously tired of late ;
 “ He says that mankind are much worse than before,
 “ So he begs to be eas'd of their weight.”
 Jove, knowing the earth on poor Atlas was hurl'd,
 From his shoulders commanded the ball ;
 Gave his daughter Attraction the charge of the world,
 And she hung it up high in his hall.

Miss, pleas'd with the present, review'd the globe round,
 To see what each climate was worth ;
 Like a di'mond, the whole with an atmosphere bound,
 And she variously planted the earth.
 With silver, gold, jewels, she India endow'd ;
 France and Spain she taught vineyards to rear ;
 What suited each clime on each clime she bestow'd,
 And FREEDOM she found flourish HERE.

Four cardinal virtues she left in this isle,
 As guardians to cherish the root :
 The blossoms of LIBERTY 'gan here to smile,
 And Englishmen fed on the fruit.
 Thus fed, and thus bred, from a bounty so rare,
 Oh ! preserve it as free as 'twas giv'n !
 We will while we've breath,—nay, we'll grasp it in death,
 Then return it untainted to heav'n.

Sweetest of pretty maids, let Cupid incline thee
 T'accept of a faithful heart which now I resign thee;
 Scorning all selfish ends, regardless of money,
 It yields only to the girl that's gen'rous and bonny.

Take me, Jenny,
 Let me win you,
 While I'm in the humour;
 I implore you,
 I adore you,

What mortal can do more?

Kiss upon't, kiss upon't, turn not so shyly;
 There's my hand, there's my hand, 'twill never beguile thee.

Bright are thy lovely eyes, thy sweet lips delighting,
 Well polish'd thy iv'ry neck, thy round arms inviting;
 Oft at the milk-white churn with rapture I've seen them,
 But oh! how I've sigh'd, and wish'd my own arms between them.

Take me, Jenny, &c.

I've store of sheep, my love, and goats on the mountain,
 And water to brew good ale from yon crystal fountain;
 I've too a pretty cot, with garden and land to't;
 But all will be doubly sweet if you put a hand to't.

Take me Jenny, &c.

Thus, in a secret friendly shade,
 The pensive Cælia mourn'd,
 While courteous Echo lent her aid,
 And sigh for sigh return'd.

When, sudden, Damon's well known face
 Each rising fear disarms ;
 He, eager, springs to her embrace,
 She sinks into his arms !

ALLEGRO MODERATO.

The musical score is written on seven staves, each beginning with a treble clef and a 6/8 time signature. The notation includes various musical symbols such as asterisks (*), trills (tr), and dynamic markings (tt). The melody is composed of eighth and sixteenth notes, with some staves featuring triplets and trills. The piece concludes with a double bar line on the seventh staff.

 The lark is exalted in air,
 The linnet sings perch'd on the spray,
 Our lambs stand in need of our care,
 Then let us not lengthen delay.

What pleasures I feel with my dear,
 While gamesome young lambs are at sport,
 Exceed the delights of a peer,
 That shines with such grandeur at court.
 When Colin and Strephon go by,
 They form a disguise for a while ;
 They see how I'm blest, with a sigh,
 But envy forbids them to smile.

Let courtiers of liberty prate,
 T' enjoy it take infinite pains ;
 But liberty's primitive state
 Is only enjoy'd on the plains :
 With Phillis I rove to and fro,
 With her my gay minutes are spent ;
 'Twas Phillis first taught me to know
 That happiness flows from content.

For nought Golconda's gems avail
 In this sequester'd humble dale ;
 Nor joys can crowded cities yield
 Like those of hill or daïsied field :
 Calm, as the summer ev'ning's sun,
 May here my glass of life be run ;
 And bright, as is his parting ray,
 My prospect of a future day !

Mean while the lab'ring hind to cheer,
 To wipe the widow's falling tear,
 Are pleasures which such scenes bestow,
 And riot's sons can never know !

 The poor shall say, ' Here lies our friend.'

It was summer ; so softly the breezes were blowing, &c.

ANDANTE.

It was summer ; so softly the breezes were blowing, And sweetly the nightingale sang from a tree ;

At the foot of a rock, where the river was flowing, I set myself down on the banks of the Dee.

Flow on, lovely Dee, flow on, thou sweet river ! Thy banks purest streams shall be dear to me ever, Where

I first gain'd th'affection & favour of Jemmy, The glory and pride of the banks of the Dee !

But now he's gone from me, and left me thus mourning,
 To fight for his country, for valiant is he !
 And yet there's no hope of his speedy returning
 To wander again on the banks of the Dee :
 He's gone, hapless youth ! o'er the loud-roaring billows,
 The sweetest and kindest of all his brave fellows !
 And has left me to mourn amongst these lov'd willows,
 The loneliest maid on the banks of the Dee !

But time and my pray'rs may perhaps yet restore him !
 Blest peace may restore my dear shepherd to me !
 And, when he comes home, with such care I'll watch
 o'er him,

He never shall quit the sweet banks of the Dee.
 The Dee then shall flow, all its beauties displaying,
 The lambs on the banks shall again be seen playing,
 Whilst I with my Jemmy am carelessly straying,
 And tasting again all the sweets of the Dee !

Jockey's away ! Forlorn, I sit fingering, and this is my strain, Haste, haste, my dear Jockey, haste, haste, my dear Jockey, haste, haste, my dear Jockey, to me back again.

When lads and their lasses are on the green met,
They dance and they sing, they laugh and they chat ;
Contented and happy, with hearts full of glee,
I can't without envy their merriment see ;
These pastimes offend me ; my shepherd's not there ;
No pleasure I relish that Jockey can't share :
It makes me to sigh, I from tears scarce refrain, —
I wish my dear Jockey were come back again !

But hope shall sustain me, nor will I despair,
He promis'd he would in a fortnight be here ;
On fond expectation my wishes I'll feast,
For love my dear Jockey to Jenny will haste.
Then farewell, each care, and be gone, each vain sigh,
Who'll then be so blest or so happy as I !
I'll sing on the meadows, and alter my strain,
When Jockey returns to my arms back again !

Yet praises are pleasing to most of the fair,
And I was attentive to hear him declare,
The milk in my pail, and the ev'ning's rich skies,
Were emblems but faint of my neck, cheeks, and eyes.

Such astonishing similes made me amaz'd,
But wonder absconded when on him I gaz'd;
The beauties he spoke of in him you will find,
And those are but trifles compar'd to his mind!

With soothing intreaties he won my fond heart!
Three Sundays expir'd, and we vow'd ne'er to part:

Ye bards, who extol the gay valleys and glades, &c.

Ye bards, who extol the gay valleys and glades,

The jef-famine bow'rs and a-mo-rous shades,

Who prospects so rural can boast at your will,

You've never once mention'd sweet Robinhood's hill, You've ne-ver once mention'd sweet Robinhood's hill.

This spot, which of nature displays all the smiles,
 From fam'd Gloster's city's but distant two miles ;
 Of which you a view may obtain at your will
 From the sweet rural summit of Robinhood's hill.

Where clear crystal springs do incessantly flow,
 To supply and refresh the green valleys below ;
 No dog-star's brisk heat does diminish the rill,
 Which sweetly doth prattle on Robinhood's hill.

Here, gazing around, you find objects still new ;
 Of Severn's sweet windings how pleasing the view !
 Whose stream with the fruits of bless'd commerce doth fill
 The sweet swelling vale beneath Robinhood's hill.

This hill, though so lofty, is fertile and rare,
 Few valleys with it can for herbage compare :
 Some far greater bard should his lyre and his quill
 Direct to the praise of sweet Robinhood's hill.

Here lads and gay lasses in couples resort,
 For sweet rural pastime and innocent sport :
 Sure pleasure ne'er flow'd from gay nature or skill,
 Like that which is found on sweet Robinhood's hill.

Had I all the riches of wealthy Peru,
 To revel in splendour, as emperors do,
 I'd forfeit the whole, with a hearty good will,
 To dwell in a cottage on Robinhood's hill.

Then, poets, record my lov'd theme in your lays ;
 First view, then you'll own that 'tis worthy of praise ;
 Nay, envy herself must acknowledge it still,
 That no spot's so delightful as Robinhood's hill.

 His course he still must run :
 Now mounted on the top-mast,

Proud France, again insulting,
 Does British valour dare !
 Our flag we must support now,
 And thunder in the war :
 To humble them, come on, lads,
 And lay their lilies low ;
 Clear the way for the fray,
 Though the stormy winds do blow !

Old Neptune shakes his trident,
 The billows mount on high !
 Their shells the Tritons sounding,
 The flashing lightnings fly :
 The wat'ry grave now opens,
 All dreadful, from below,
 When the waves move the seas,
 And the stormy winds do blow !

But, when the danger's over,
 And safe we come on-shore,
 The horrors of the tempest
 We think of then no more :
 The flowing bowl invites us,
 And joyfully we go ;
 All the day drink away,
 Though the stormy winds do blow !

In the midst of our merriment, who do you think Unsuspected had seated him there ?
 But one Care, in disguise ! who tipp'd us the wink,
 And warn'd us of Time to beware,
 Who, in spite of his age or the weight of his years,
 We should find but a slippery blade !
 He's known by the lock on his forehead he wears,
 And carries the signs of his trade.

We gratefully ply'd him with bottle and pot,
 Which fill'd up his wrinkles apace ;
 The cynic grew blithe and his precepts forgot,
 And soon fell asleep in his place :
 Regardless of Time then, we threw off restraint,
 Nor fear'd we to wake the old spark ;
 Our songs were select and our stories were quaint,
 And each was as gay as a lark.

When, all on a sudden, so awful and tall,
 One appear'd, who spoil'd a good song !
 Father Time ! moving round, by the side of the wall,
 Behind us, slow stealing along !
 We rose to his rev'rence, and offer'd a chair ;
 He said, for no man would he stay :
 Then Bacchus up started, and caught at his hair,
 And swore all the score he should pay.

But Time, well aware of the god of the grape,
 Evaded his efforts, and flew ;
 We seiz'd on his glass, ere he made his escape,
 And instantly broke it in two :
 Then we fill'd each with wine, instead of his sand,
 And drank double toasts to the fair !
 Each member, in turn, with a glass in each hand,
 Then parted, and went home with Care.

Come, brother Crotchets, let us sing
A song, catch, or a glee;
One that will make the room to ring,
And please the company.

But first send round the jolly pot,
Let it not stand to die!
I ne'er can sing till I'm half drunk,
So all your healths, say I.

Farewell,

But 'tis too short a blessing, And love's too long a pain ! But 'tis too short a blessing, And a pain ! But 'tis too short a blessing, And

love's too long a pain !

'Tis easy to deceive us,
 In pity of your pain ;
 But when we love, ye leave us
 To rail at you in vain !
 Before we have descry'd it,
 There is no bliss beside it ;
 But she, that once has try'd it,
 Will never love again !

The passion you pretended
 Was only to obtain ;
 But, when the charm is ended,
 The charmer you disdain !
 Your love by ours we measure,
 Till we have lost our treasure ;
 But dying is a pleasure,
 When living is a pain !

The lawyer will rise with the first of the morn
 To hunt for a mortgage or deed ;
 The husband gets up at the sound of the horn,
 And rides to the commons full speed ;
 The statesman is thrown in pursuit of his game,
 The poet too often lies low,
 Who, mounted on Pegasus, flies after fame,
 With Hark forward ! Huzza ! Tally-ho !

While, fearless, o'er hills and o'er woodlands we sweep,
 Though prudes on our pastime may frown,
 How oft do they decency's bounds overleap,
 And the fences of virtue break down !

Thus,

Thus, public or private, for pension, for place,
 For amusement, for passion, for show,
 All ranks and degrees are engag'd in the chace,
 With Hark forward! Huzza! Tally-ho!
