Introduction.

THE name of Stewart is derived from the high office held by the earlier members of the family—namely, that of High Stewart of Scotland—and owing to the long connection of Scotland and France several members of the family went to the latter country. In the French alphabet there is no “w,” and so “u” replaced it, the name thus becoming “Steuart,” and as the “e” was then superfluous it was dropped, and the name was shortened into “Stuart.” A branch of the family took the name of Menteth, which later became Menteith, Monteith, and Menteath.

As regards the Armorial Bearings, the principal charge is the fess chequy or bend chequy—that is, a belt across the shield composed of rows, usually three, of squares, alternately blue and silver in the case of the Stewarts, and black and silver in that of the Menteths. This charge is supposed to be derived from the chess, or chequered, board used by the Stewards in calculating their accounts.

In this book the Arms are taken from the catalogues of seals by Henry Laing and Wm. Rae Macdonald, from Nisbet's Heraldry, Sir David Lindsay's Manuscript, R. R. Stodart's Scottish Arms, Sir James Balfour Paul's Ordinary of Scottish Arms, and the different histories of the family.

The letterpress deals only with the males of the family, and the first recorded members of the race are taken from J. Horace Round's Peerage Studies. The pedigrees of the different branches are founded on the particular histories of the different lines, and other works mentioned on page 86, also on Nisbet's Heraldry, Douglas' Peerage and Baronetage, The Complete Peerage, by G. E. C., The Scot's Peerage, and for the modern portion on Burke's and Debrett's Peerages.

As it was found impossible in many cases to place the CADETS of a house in their proper order of seniority, I have in all cases placed them in alphabetical order ; but as regards the main lines, I have first traced the history of the Royal Stewarts from their first recorded ancestor down to the brother of Prince Charles Edward, and then worked backwards, tracing the next senior line, whether legitimate or illegitimate, ending with the Menteths. Then follow the Stewarts, who probably, but have not yet been proved so, belong to the principal family, and, lastly, come the families and individuals whom I cannot connect with the Royal race.

I have to express my thanks to Mr Francis J. Grant, Rothesay Herald, for the assistance he has given me in adding the crests and mottoes, as they are not given in the Ordinary; and also to Mr J. K. Stewart, the Honorary Secretary of the Stewart Society, for revising the proofs and for many valuable suggestions.

PEDIGREE I. The Royal Stewarts.

The Royal Stewarts.

BACK to the earliest recorded ancestor, the Stewarts are always found occupying a position of prominence, and the proverbial "first mean man" of this ancient race is still to be discovered. Alan the "dapifer" seneschal or steward was probably the first of the race, so far as our present knowledge extends, and his eldest son is supposed to be Alan "dapifer" at Dol, in Brittany, who took part in the Crusade of 1097, and died apparently without issue. He was succeeded by his brother Flaald (the Fleance son of Banquo of Shakespeare), who had a son Alan Fitz Flaald, who is believed to have accompanied King Henry I. to England. There he was made Sheriff of Shropshire, and founded Sporle Priory in Norfolk. His third son, Walter, accompanied King David I. from England to Scotland, being then appointed High Stewart, an office which later became hereditary in the family. The third High Stewart adopted the name of his office as his surname—"Stewart." Walter, the sixth High Stewart, commanded part of the victorious Scottish Army at Bannockburn in 1314, and the following year he married Marjorie, daughter of King Robert Bruce. Their son succeeded to the throne as King Robert II.—the first of the Stewart kings. He was followed by his son, King Robert III., from whom downwards misfortune dogged the whole race. Of his successors named James, the first was murdered, the second killed by the bursting of a cannon, the third murdered, the fourth killed at Flodden 1513, and the fifth died of a broken heart. The daughter of the last was Queen Mary, whose first husband died within a year of succeeding to the throne of France. Her second husband, Henry, Lord Darnley, was murdered, and her third husband, the Earl of Bothwell, was attainted 1569, and died in Norway six years later. Queen Mary herself was executed in England. Queen Mary's son, King James VI., was paternally a Stewart of Lennox, and his share of the family curse was borne by those who during his long minority acted as Regents, his uncle the Regent Moray being assassinated, the Regent Lennox shot, and the Regent Morton beheaded. King James VI. succeeded to the throne of England in 1603, and died peacefully, but his son, Charles I., was beheaded in 1649, and his son, Charles II., was not "restored" to the throne till 1660. Charles died without legitimate issue, and was succeeded by his brother, James VII., who, by his adherence to the Roman Catholic religion, caused a revolution, which ended in his exile in 1688. His successors on the throne were the daughters of his first marriage, Mary and Anne; the first had no children, and the last had many, only one of whom reached the age of ten. By his second marriage King James VII. had a son, James, the "chevalier de St. George," who made an unsuccessful attempt to recover the throne in 1715, and died in Rome 1766. His son Charles Edward attempted to recover the throne for his father in 1745. He landed almost alone in Scotland, and the Highlanders flocked to his support; he entered Edinburgh, defeated the Government troops at Prestonpans, marched into England as far as Derby, retreated to Scotland, defeated Hawley at Falkirk, but was himself beaten at Culloden. A reward of £30,000 was offered for his discovery, but all honour to the poor Highlanders, no traitor was found amongst them, and the Prince eventually escaped. He became dissipated in his later years, but the kindly hand of time has wiped the memory of them away, and there remains only the gallant young man, "Bonnie Prince Charlie," who, as "King of the Highland Hearts," will reign much longer than any earthly sovereign. His brother, Henry, Cardinal York, succeeded to his claims, but did not put them in force. He received an annuity of £4000 from King George III., and on his death in 1807 the following inscription in Latin was placed on his monument:—

"HENRY IX., KING OF GREAT BRITAIN, NOT BY THE WILL OF MAN, BUT BY THE GRACE OF GOD."

So ended the Royal Stewarts.

- (1) ALAN, "Dapifer" was probably the father of Alan "Dapifer" at Dol, in Brittany, who was a witness in 1086; Flaald; and Rhiwallon, a monk.
- (2) FLAALD, the second son, occurs as "Float filius Alani dapiferi" at the dedication of Monmouth Priory 1101. He is also mentioned as brother of Alan, the other "Dapifer." He left a son:—
- (3) ALAN FITZ FLAALD, Sheriff of Shropshire and founder of Sporle Priory. He married Aveline, daughter of Ernulf de Hesdin, and had three sons—Jordan Fitz Alan; William Fitz Alan, ancestor of the Fitz Alans, Earls of Arundel; and Walter Fitz Alan.
- (4) WALTER FITZ ALAN, the third son, accompanied King David I. to Scotland, and was appointed HIGH STEWART. He was founder of Paisley Abbey, and he married Eschyna de Molle, widow of Robert de Croc and daughter of Thomas de Londoniis. He died 1177, leaving two sons, Alan and Simon, the latter being claimed (without proof) as ancestor of the Boyds.
- (5) ALAN, the elder son, succeeded as SECOND HIGH STEWART. On his death, 1204, he left two sons, David and Walter.

Arms.—The Seal of the second High Stewart attached to a charter dated 1190, shows the fess chequy on the shield (Laing). [Plate I., fig. 1.]

- (6) WALTER STEWART, the younger son, succeeded as THIRD HIGH STEWART, and adopted the name of his office as his surname. He died in 1241.

Walter left three sons:—

- (a) Alexander, his successor (No. 7).
- (b) John, killed at Damietta 1249.

(c) Walter, Earl of Menteth (No. 156).

Arms.—The Seal of the third High Stewart attached to a charter dated 1200, shows the fess chequy on the shield (Laing). [Plate I., fig. 1.]

- (7) ALEXANDER, FOURTH HIGH STEWART, was born in 1214 and died 1283. He commanded the right wing of the Scots army at the battle of Largs, 1263. He had two sons:—

(a) James, his successor (No. 8).

(b) Sir John Stewart of Bonkyl (No. 78).

Arms.—The Seal of the fourth High Stewart, attached to a charter dated 1226, shows the fess chequy (Laing). [Plate I., fig. 1.]

- (8) JAMES, FIFTH HIGH STEWART. Born about 1243. He married Egidia, sister of Richard de Burgh, Earl of Ulster, and died 1309.

They had:—

(a) Andrew, died before his father.

(b) Walter, his successor (No. 9).

(c) Sir John, killed at Dundalk 1318.

(d) Sir James of Durisdeer, died without issue.

Arms.—The Seals of the fifth High Stewart of about 1270 and 1296 show the fess chequy (Laing). [Plate I., fig. 1.]

- (9) WALTER, SIXTH HIGH STEWART. Born 1292. Died 1326. He commanded part of the Scottish Army at Bannockburn in 1314, and in 1315 married Lady Marjorie Bruce, daughter of King Robert I. By her he had a son:—

(a) Robert, who succeeded to the throne of Scotland (No. 10).

The High Stewart married, secondly, Isabel, sister of Sir John Graham of Abercorn, and by her had:—

(b) Sir John of Ralston, Raliston, Railston, or Cunningham, who had two sons, who died without issue.

Arms of Stewart of Ralston.—Gold a fess chequy blue and silver, in chief a red lion passant, armed and tongued blue (Lindsay). [Plate I., fig. 2.]

(c) Sir Andrew.

Arms of the sixth High Stewart on Seal, attached to a charter dated c. 1314-18.—A fess chequy (Macdonald). [Plate I., fig. 1.]

- (10) KING ROBERT II. was born 1316; declared heir to the throne of Scotland 1318, created Earl of Atholl (S.) 1342, and Earl of Strathearn (S.) 1358, succeeded to throne in 1371 on the death of his uncle, King David II. (Bruce). He died 1390. The king married, first, Elizabeth Mure, daughter of Sir Adam Mure of Rowallan, and by her had:—

(a) John, who succeeded as King Robert III. (No. 11).

(b) Walter, who married Isabella Countess of Fife (S.), and died without issue about 1362.

Arms on the Seal of the Countess of Fife, 1369.—Two

Shields. Dexter, A lion rampant (Fife); Sinister, A fess chequy (Stewart) (Laing).

(c) Robert, Duke of Albany. (See No. 33).

(d) Alexander, Earl of Buchan. (See No. 57).

The king married, secondly, Euphemia, daughter of Hugh, Earl of Ross, and widow of John Ranulf, third Earl of Moray, and by her had :—

(e) David, Earl of Strathearn. (See No. 62).

(f) Walter, Earl of Atholl. (See No. 63).

King Robert II. had also several natural sons :—

(g) Sir John Stewart, Heritable Sheriff of Bute, ancestor of the Marquis of Bute and others. (See No. 64).

(h) Thomas Stewart, Archdeacon of St. Andrews and Dean of Dunkeld.

Arms on the Seal of Thomas Stewart, 1443.—Scotland, surmounted by a bend counter compony. SUPPORTERS: An angel supports the shield above, and two griffins sejant at the sides (Laing). [Plate I., fig. 4.]

(i) Alexander Stewart, Canon of Glasgow.

(j) Sir John Stewart of Dundonald, called "The Red Stewart," Lord of Burley, killed at Dumbarton 1425.

(k) Alexander Stewart of Inverlunan, ancestor of the Stewarts of Doually.

(l) James Stewart of Kinfauns.

(m) Sir John Stewart of Cardney or Cairny. (See No. 77).

(n) Walter Stewart.

Arms of King Robert II. on Seal when Earl of Strathearn, 1369.—A fess chequy (Laing). On Seal, 1370.—A fess chequy, with lion's head erased issuing in chief. CREST: A talbot's head, collared. SUPPORTERS: Two lions rampant (Macdonald). As King.—The Arms of Scotland, Gold, a lion rampant red, armed and tongued blue, within a double tressure flory-counter-flory red. CREST: A lion statant guardant (Stodart). [Plate I., fig. 3.]

Note.—On all the armorial seals of the Scottish kings, from the earliest to that of Queen Mary, the end of the lion's tail on the shield is turned inwards towards the back of the animal's head. From Queen Mary's second seal the tail is turned outwards or away from the head.

(11) KING ROBERT III., the eldest son, succeeded to the Throne. His baptismal name was John, but, in deference to the wish of the people, he adopted the name Robert. He was born about 1337, and was created Earl of Carrick (S.) in 1368. He died 1406. About 1367 he married Annabella, daughter of Sir John Drummond of Stobhall. They had :—

(a) David, DUKE OF ROTHESAY (S.), so created 1398, born 1378, created Earl of Carrick (S.) 1390 and Earl of Atholl (S.) 1398. He married in 1400 Marjory, daughter of Archibald, third Earl of Douglas, and died without issue in 1402. According to popular tradition he was said to have been starved to death by his uncle, Robert, Duke of Albany.

Arms on Seal of Duke of Rothesay, 1399.—Scotland, with label of three points (Macdonald). Lindsay shows the label blue. [Plate I., fig. 5.]

(b) Robert, died in infancy.

(c) James, who succeeded to the Crown (No. 12).

King Robert III. had also two natural sons:—

(d) James Stewart of Kilbride, said to be ancestor of the Stewarts of Shawtoun.

(e) Sir John Stewart of Ardgowan, ancestor of the Shaw-Stewarts (See No. 32).

Arms of King Robert III. on Seal, 1362.—A fess chequy within Royal tressure. CREST: A lion's head (Macdonald). On Seal 1369, when Lord of Kyle.—A demi lion rampant issuing from a fess chequy. CREST: A lion's head between two demi-vols. SUPPORTERS: Two savages (Laing). On Seal 1383, when Earl of Carrick.—The Arms of Scotland, with label of three points (Laing). Nisbet says the label was red. CREST as before. As King he used the Arms of Scotland, and possibly two unicorns as Supporters (Stodart). [Plate I., fig. 3.]

(12) KING JAMES I., born 1394, was a prisoner in England from 1406 till 1424. In 1437 he was murdered at Perth, chiefly by the contrivance of his uncle, Walter Stewart, Earl of Atholl. His wife was Joan Beaufort, daughter of John, first Earl of Somerset, whom he married about 1424. They had twin sons, born 1430, of whom:—

(a) Alexander died in infancy; and

(b) James succeeded to the Throne (No. 13).

The widowed queen afterwards married Sir James Stewart, known as "The Black Knight of Lorn." (See No. 123).

Arms of King James I. on Privy Seal, 1429.—Scotland. SUPPORTERS: Two lions rampant guardant (Laing). [Plate I., fig. 3.]

(13) KING JAMES II., known from a birthmark as "James of the Fiery Face," was born 1430. He was killed by the bursting of a cannon at the siege of Roxburgh Castle in 1460. The king married in 1449 Marie, only daughter of Arnold, Duke of Gueldres. By her he had issue:—

(a) James, who succeeded (No. 14).

(b) Alexander, Duke of Albany and Earl of March. (See No. 30).

(c) David, Earl of Moray, died a child.

(d) John, created about 1458 EARL OF MAR AND GARIOCH (S.), On a charge of treason his brother, King James III., caused him to be put in prison, where he died in 1479 unmarried.

The king had also a natural son :—

- (e) James Stewart of Sticks and Ballechin, ancestor of the Stewarts of Ballechin. (See No. 31).

Arms of King James II. on Privy Seal, 1442.—Scotland. SUPPORTERS: Two lions rampant guardant. The sinister lion has a saltire on the haunch (Laing). [Plate I., fig. 3.]

- (14) KING JAMES III., born 1451, and murdered after the battle of Sauchieburn, 1488. He married in 1469 Margaret, daughter of Christian I., King of Denmark. They had :—

- (a) James, who succeeded (No. 15).
 (b) James, Duke of Ross. (See No. 28).
 (c) John, Earl of Mar. (See No. 29).

Arms of King James III. same as his father. [Plate I., fig. 3.]

- (15) KING JAMES IV., known, from the belt he wore in expiation of his having fought against his father at Sauchieburn, as "James of the Iron Belt." He was born 1473, and was killed at the battle of Flodden, 1513. He married Margaret Tudor, eldest daughter of King Henry VII. of England. By her he had :—

- (a) James, born 1507 ; died in infancy.
 (b) Arthur, born 1509 ; died in infancy.
 (c) James, who succeeded (No. 16).
 (d) Alexander, born 1514, Duke of Ross (S.) ; died in infancy.

King James IV. had also two natural sons :—

- (e) Alexander Stewart, born about 1493. Created Archbishop of St. Andrews, 1505 ; Chancellor of Scotland, 1510. Fell at Flodden, 1513.

Arms on Seal, 1506.—Scotland, with Archi-episcopal cross behind shield. SUPPORTERS: Two unicorns. On Seal, 1512.—Same Arms. SUPPORTERS: Dexter, A male figure with nimbus and book. Sinister, A female figure crowned and with nimbus and book (Laing) (Macdonald).

- (f) James Stewart, EARL OF MORAY (No. 27).

The widow of King James IV. married, 1514, Archibald Douglas, Earl of Angus, whom she divorced, 1526. By him she had a daughter, Margaret Douglas, who married Matthew Stuart, fourth Earl of Lennox, and by him was mother of Henry, Lord Darnley (No. 91), husband of Mary Queen of Scots. Queen Margaret married, thirdly, Henry Stewart, created Lord Methven. (See No. 45).

Albany.

KING Robert II. died in 1390, but in 1388, owing to his weakness of body and mind, it was decided to appoint a Regent. As the King's eldest son and heir was little stronger than himself, the choice fell on the third son, Robert, Earl of Fife, and he continued as Regent when King Robert III. succeeded; but in 1398 the King appointed his eldest son David as Regent, and in the same year the first Dukes were created in Scotland—David the heir was made Duke of Rothesay, a hamlet in the Island of Bute, and Robert, Earl of Fife, was made Duke of Albany, practically of all Scotland. In 1402 Rothesay attempted to seize St. Andrews Castle, but was captured by Albany, taken to Falkland Tower, where he is said to have been starved to death. After the Prince's death Albany regained his power. King Robert III. died in April 1406, and his eldest son James having been captured by the English about a month before, Robert, Duke of Albany, was once more appointed Regent. At this time his son Murdoch was also a prisoner in England, but in 1416 the Regent exchanged the Earl of Northumberland for him, and dying in 1420 was succeeded in the Regency by this son Murdoch, second Duke of Albany. In 1424 King James I. returned to Scotland, and was not long in wreaking vengeance on the House of Albany, which had so long ruled in his place. In 1425 Murdoch,

PEDIGREE II.

The Royal Stewarts.

Duke of Albany, his sons Walter and Alexander, and his father-in-law, Duncan, Earl of Lennox, were attainted and executed at Stirling.

- (33) ROBERT STEWART, third son of King Robert II. (No. 10). Born about 1340. In 1361 became Earl of Menteth (S.) in right of his wife. Became Earl of Fife (S.) 1371. In 1398 he was created DUKE OF ALBANY (S.). On the death of his brother (No. 57), probably in 1406, he appears to have succeeded to the Earldom of Buchan (S.), but resigned it to his second son John (No. 54). He died 1420. By his first wife he had:—

(a) Murdoch (No. 34).

And by his second wife:—

(b) John, Earl of Buchan (No. 54).

(c) Andrew (No. 55).

(d) Robert (No. 56).

Arms of Robert, Duke of Albany, on Seal, 1374.—A fess chequy, and in dexter chief a mullet (Laing). On Seal, 1389.—A fess chequy surmounted by a lion rampant. CREST: A boar's head and neck between two trees. SUPPORTERS: Two lions sejant guardant (Laing). On Seal 1403.—1 and 4. A lion rampant (Fife). 2 and 3. A fess chequy, in chief a label of five points. CREST and SUPPORTERS as last (Laing).

Nisbet describes the last two as.—(1) Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, surmounted by a red lion rampant. SUPPORTERS: Two red lions sejant guardant. (2) 1 and 4. Gold, a red lion rampant, in chief a blue label of three points. 2 and 3. Stewart, with blue label of three points. [Plate II., fig. 27].

- (34) MURDOCH STEWART, DUKE OF ALBANY and Earl of Fife, also Earl of Menteth (S.) in right of his mother Margaret, Countess of Menteth. (See No. 161). The Duke left the following sons:—

(a) Robert of Fife, died without issue 1421.

(b) Walter of Fife, executed 1425 (No. 35).

(c) Alexander, executed 1425.

(d) James had a natural son James Beg, whose descendants are the Stuarts of Annat, Stewarts of Ardvorlich, Baldoran, Ballachallan, Craigtoun, Duchlash, Gartnafuaroe, Glassingall, Glenbucky, Hyndfield, Ledcreich.

Arms of Stuart of Annat, same as Ardvorlich, but with black mullet in the centre of the quarters (Burke).

Arms of Stewart of Ardvorlich, recorded 1802.—1 and 4. Scotland. 2. Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, in chief a red mullet. 3. Silver an engrailed saltire between four roses red. All within an engrailed bordure compony, blue and silver. MOTTO: "Deo juvante vinco" (Lyon Register). [Plate II., fig. 28.]

Arms of Stewart of Baldoran, on Seal, 1524.—1. A lion rampant (Fife). 2. A cinquefoil (Lennox?). 3. A fess chequy. 4. A galley (Lorn) (Laing).

Arms of Murdoch, Duke of Albany, quarterly, as his father.

Avondale.

AS shown below, the Stewarts of Avondale descend from the House of Albany. Walter, the second son of Duke Murdoch, had three sons, all of whom were legitimated in 1479. It is not doubted that two of these were illegitimate, but as regards the third son, Walter of Morphie, an effort is made in the Sketch of the Stuarts of Castle Stuart, Ireland, to prove his legitimacy. If we admit this view the Earl of Castle Stewart is the male representative of the Stewarts. Against the legitimacy of Walter, it must be pointed out that his son Alexander (who, if his father had been legitimate, would have represented Isabel, Duchess of Albany, and suo jure Countess of Lennox, and so entitled to the great estates of the Earldom) made no claim to the Lennox estates, but supported the claim of Elizabeth Menteth, a descendant of a younger sister of Countess Isabel.

(35) WALTER OF FIFE, the second son of No. 34, had three natural sons:—

(a) Andrew, Lord Avondale (No. 36).

(b) Arthur.

(c) Walter Stewart of Morphie. (See No. 37).

(36) ANDREW STEWART, son of Walter Stewart (No. 35), was in 1459 created LORD AVONDALE (S.). He died without issue 1488.

Arms of Lord Avondale on Seal, 1482.—1. Scotland. 2. A fess chequy with label of four points in chief. 3. A saltire between four roses (Lennox). 4. A lion rampant (Fife). CREST: A demi figure holding a wheel (Laing).

(37) WALTER STEWART OF MORPHIE, son of Walter Stewart (No. 35), had four sons:—

(a) Alexander.

(b) Andrew. (See No. 38).

(c) John, ancestor of the Stewarts of Culbeg and Garchoile.

(d) ———, ancestor of the Stuarts of Inchbrek and Johnston.

Arms of Stewart of Inchbrek, recorded 1676.—Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, between a lion passant in chief and a rose in base red, all within an engrailed bordure compony blue and silver. CREST: A civet cat couchant proper. MOTTO: "Semper paratus" (Lyon Register). [Plate II., fig. 29.]

- (38) ANDREW STEWART appears to have succeeded his elder brother in the Barony of Avondale in 1489, but in any case he was created LORD AVONDALE (S.) in that year. He fell at Flodden 1513, leaving three sons :—

- (a) Andrew (No. 39).
- (b) Henry, Lord Methven (No. 45).
- (c) Sir James of Beith (No. 48).

Arms of Lord of Avondale.—1. Scotland. 2. Stewart. 3. Lennox. 4. Fife. All within bordure compony blue and silver (Lindsay). [Plate II., fig. 30.]

Major-General Robert Stuart, H.E.I.C.S., recorded Arms 1802.—1 and 4. Scotland. 2. Stewart, with red mullet in chief. 3. Lennox. In centre of shield a black mullet, and all within an engrailed bordure compony blue and silver. CREST: A right arm issuing, grasping a sword in bend sinister proper, hilted and pommelled gold. MOTTO: "Deo juvante vinco." (Lyon Register).

Ochiltree.

- (39) ANDREW, THIRD LORD AVONDALE (S.). In 1543 he obtained an Act of Parliament to exchange his title for that of LORD STEWART OF OCHILTREE (S.), and died 1548.

Arms of Lord Avondale and Ochiltree as above. CREST: A civet cat (Nisbet). SUPPORTERS: Two green dragons. MOTTO: "Forward" (Burke).

His son :—

- (40) ANDREW, SECOND LORD OCHILTREE, had five sons :—

- (a) Andrew, Master of Ochiltree, who died in his father's lifetime, leaving :—
 - (1) Andrew (No. 41).
 - (2) Josias of Bonnytoun, who died without issue.
- (b) James (No. 42).
- (c) William of Monkton, killed 1588.
- (d) Henry of Barbowie, Braidwood, Dunregan and Nether Gogar.
- (e) Robert of Wester Braco.

Castle Stewart.

- (41) ANDREW, THIRD LORD OCHILTREE, son of Andrew, Master of Ochiltree, who died in his father's lifetime. He ruined himself and resigned his Scotch estates and title to his cousin (see No. 43). He received grants of land in Tyrone, Ireland, and was given a Peerage in Ireland, 1619—LORD CASTLE STEWART (I.) He died 1629, leaving three sons :—

- (a) Andrew, second Lord, father of—
 (1) Andrew, third Lord, died 1650.
 (2) Robert, died young.
 (3) Josias, fourth Lord, died without issue 1662.
- (b) John, fifth Lord.
- (c) Robert, from whom descended the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth Lords. The last was created Viscount Castle Stewart in 1793, and EARL OF CASTLE STEWART (I.) 1800, and from him the present Earl descends.

Arms of present Earl of Castle Stewart.—1 and 4. Gold, a fess per saltire red and ermine, between in chief a bull's head coupé and in base a galley black (Richardson). 2 and 3. Quarterly; first, Scotland; second, Stewart with red label of three points in chief. 3. Lennox. 4. Fife. These quarters within a bordure compony silver and blue. CRESTS: 1. A silver lion rampant holding a wreath of oak leaves fructed proper, and charged on the shoulder with a red cross formy (Richardson). 2. A silver unicorn's head, horned gold (Stewart). SUPPORTERS: Two green dragons (Debrett has sanguine or blood colour). MOTTO: "Forward." [Plate II., fig. 31].

Arran.

- (42) JAMES STEWART OF BOTHWELLMUIR, second son of Andrew, second Lord Ochiltree (No. 40), was created EARL OF ARRAN, Lord of Arane and Hamilton (S.) in 1581, and was attainted 1585. He was killed 1596.

Arms of Earl of Arran.—1 and 4. Grand Quarters: first, Scotland; second, Stewart, with red label of three points in chief; third, Lennox; fourth, Fife. (No bordure). 2 and 3. Grand Quarters: first and fourth, Red, three ermine cinquefoils pierced (Hamilton); third and fourth, Silver, a black galley (Arran). CREST: A red lion's head erased. SUPPORTERS: Dexter, A green dragon; Sinister, A silver antelope, horned gold. MOTTO: "Dat incrementum" (Burke).

His son:—

- (43) SIR JAMES STEWART OF KILLEITH acquired the estates and title of LORD OCHILTREE (S.) 1615 from his cousin (No. 41), and died about 1660.
 His son:—

- (44) WILLIAM, FIFTH LORD OCHILTREE (S.), died unmarried 1675.

By his third wife, Jonet, daughter of John Stewart, Earl of Atholl, he had a son:—

- (46) HENRY, SECOND LORD METHVEN (S.), who was killed 1572, leaving a son:—
(47) HENRY, THIRD LORD METHVEN (S.), who died without issue about 1580.

Doune and Moray.

JAMES, son and heir of the first Lord Doune, married in 1580 the eldest daughter of the assassinated Regent, Earl of Moray, and became in her right Earl of Moray. Their descendants, the eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth Earls, it is curious to note, were all brothers or half brothers of each other.

- (48) SIR JAMES STEWART OF BEITH, third son of Andrew, Lord Avondale (No. 38), was killed 1544, and had three sons:—
 (a) James, his successor (No. 49).
 (b) Archibald Stewart of Burray, died without issue.
 (c) Henry had a son, James of Burray, whose daughter Barbara married William Stewart of Mains (No. 189 b).
- (49) SIR JAMES STEWART OF DOUNE. In 1581 he was created LORD DOUNE (S.), and died 1590. He had two sons (Nos. 50 and 51).
- (50) JAMES married Elizabeth, eldest daughter of James Stewart, Earl of Moray (No. 24), and became in her right EARL OF MORAY (S.), being known as "the bonny Earl of Moray." He was killed 1592, leaving two sons:—
 (a) James (No. 52).
 (b) Francis.
- (51) HENRY STEWART, younger brother of James, Earl of Moray (No. 50), was created LORD SAINT COLME (S.) in 1611. He died 1612, leaving a son:—
 (a) James, second Lord Saint Colme, who died without issue.

Arms of Lord Saint Colme.—1 and 4. Gold, a red lion rampant. 2 and 3. Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver within a red double tressure flory-counter-flory; a red label in chief. En surtout, Silver, on a green mount a red hart horned silver, in front of a green tree. CREST: A red lion's head erased. SUPPORTERS: Dexter, A red lion; Sinister, a greyhound proper, with red collar (Burke).

- (52) JAMES STEWART, THIRD EARL OF MORAY (S.), son of No. 50, succeeded his cousin (No. 51 a) as Lord St. Colme. Died 1638, leaving:—

(a) James, his successor (No. 53).

- (53) JAMES STEWART, FOURTH EARL OF MORAY (S.). Died 1653. He had four sons:—

- (a) James, Lord Doune, died unmarried in his father's lifetime.
- (b) Alexander Stuart, fifth Earl, from whom all the later Earls, including the sixteenth and present Earl, descend.
- (c) Francis of Culalay, died without issue.
- (d) Archibald of Dunearn, ancestor of the Stuarts of Dunearn.

Arms of present Earl of Moray, recorded 1672-77.—1 and 4. Scotland, within a bordure compony blue and silver. 2. Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver. 3. Gold, three cushions within a double tressure flory-counter-flory, red. CREST: A pelican in her nest feeding her young proper. SUPPORTERS: Two silver greyhounds with red collars. MOTTO: "Salus per Christum redemptorem" (Lyon Register). [Plate III., fig. 34.]

Arms of Stuart of Dunearn, as Earl of Moray, with black crescent in centre of quarters. Same CREST and MOTTO, but no SUPPORTERS (Burke).

Buchan.

ROBERT, Duke of Albany, resigned the Earldom of Buchan in 1406 to John, his second son (i.e., eldest son by second marriage) with remainder to Andrew and Robert, his third and fourth sons. The last was not acknowledged as Earl probably because King James I. considered the Regent had exceeded his powers in conferring the Earldom on his younger sons (G. E. C.).

- (54) JOHN STEWART, eldest son by second wife of Robert, Duke of Albany (No. 33). Born about 1380, succeeded his father as EARL OF BUCHAN (S.), and was killed, without male issue, at Verneuil, 1424. He was succeeded by his youngest brother Robert (No. 56).

Arms of John, Earl of Buchan.—1 and 4. Scotland. 2 and 3. Buchan.
 CREST: A garb or wheat sheaf (Nisbet). [Plate III., fig. 35.]

- (56) ROBERT STEWART, fourth son of No. 33 and brother of Nos. 54 and 55, de jure EARL OF BUCHAN (S.) but was never so acknowledged.

Buchan.

ALEXANDER, Earl of Buchan, was named "The Wolf of Badenoch" on account of his ferocity. He seized the Bishop of Moray's lands and was excommunicated. In revenge he burned the towns of Forres and Elgin, including the Cathedral and houses of the Canons, and for this was made to do penance at Perth.

- (57) SIR ALEXANDER STEWART, fourth son of King Robert II. (No. 10), was recognised as EARL OF BUCHAN (S.) in 1382. He was known as "The Wolf of Badenoch," and died without legitimate issue probably in 1406. He left several natural sons:—

- (a) Alexander, Earl of Mar (No. 58).
- (b) Sir Andrew (No. 59).
- (c) Duncan.
- (d) James (No. 60).
- (e) Walter (No. 61).

Nisbet, however, gives the Arms as.—1 and 4. Stewart. 2 and 3. Buchan.
 CREST: A Garb. [Plate III., fig. 36].

Mar.

THIS Earl of Mar inherited his father's high-handed ways, he besieged the Castle of Kildrummie, belonging to Isabel, Countess of Mar, and forced that lady to make a charter in 1404 settling the Earldom, failing the heirs of her body, on him and his heirs. He surrendered this charter five weeks later and married the lady instead.

- (58) ALEXANDER STEWART, son of No. 57, married 1404 Isabel, Countess of Mar and Garioch. He was in command of the Royal forces at the battle of Harlaw in 1411. In 1426 he was created EARL OF MAR (S.), with remainder to his natural son, Sir Thomas Stewart, who died in his father's lifetime. The Earl died 1435.

Arms of Stewart of Strathaven or Strathdown (Burke), recorded by John Stuart, King of France's Bodyguard, 1776.—1 and 4. Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver between two red antique crowns in chief, and a black boar's head couped in base. 2 and 3. Blue, a bend between six cross crosslets fitchy gold. CREST: A demi lion rampant proper. MOTTO: "Nobilis ira" (Lyon Register). [Plate III., fig. 47.]

Strathearn and Caithness.

- (62) DAVID STEWART, eldest son of King Robert II. (No. 10), by his second wife. He was born about 1358, and was EARL OF STRATHEARN in 1371, and shortly after this date was created Earl of Caithness. He died before 1389, leaving a daughter:—

- (a) Euphemia, Countess of Strathearn and Caithness. After 1390 she resigned the latter Earldom to her uncle, Walter, Earl of Atholl (No. 63). She afterwards married Patrick Graham, who in her right became Earl of Strathearn.

Arms of Earl of Strathearn on his Seal, 1374.—A fess chequy between two chevrons, all within a double tressure flory-counter-flory (Laing). Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver between two red chevrons. All within a red double tressure flory-counter-flory (Burke). [Plate III., fig. 48].

Atholl, Strathearn and Caithness.

WALTER STEWART, Earl of Atholl, became on the death of his elder brother David (No. 62) the representative of the second marriage of King Robert II., and he believed that he had a better right to the throne than the doubtfully legitimate issue of that king's first marriage, an opinion shared by many at the time. Accordingly the Earl, with his grandson Robert, Sir Robert Graham and others, conspired to get rid of the King (James I.). In 1437 the King went to Perth and gave the conspirators their opportunity. The Earl's grandson was the King's Chamberlain and admitted the murderers, who not only killed the King, but wounded the Queen also. From their point of view they made a great mistake in sparing her, as she took a terrible vengeance. The Earl, his grandson, Sir Robert Graham and others were shortly afterwards captured and put to death "with a refinement of cruelty which excited horror even in that age" (Hume Brown). Their flesh is said to have been torn from their bodies with pincers, and before execution the Earl was crowned with a red hot iron crown—surely an improvement on the crown of thorns.

- (63) WALTER STEWART OF BRECHIN, second son of King Robert II. (No. 10) by his second wife. He was created Earl of Caithness after 1390, on the resignation of his niece Euphemia (No. 62 a). About 1409 he was created EARL OF ATHOLL, and in 1427 Earl of Strathearn for life. He obtained the Lordship of Brechin with his wife Margaret Barclay. He was executed in 1437. He had two sons:—

- (a) David, who had a son Sir Robert de Atholia executed 1437.
(b) Alan Stewart received the Earldom of Caithness about 1428, on his father's resignation, but being killed at Inverlochy, unmarried, in 1431, the Earldom reverted to his father.

Bute.

THE Stuarts of Bute are a very old branch of the family, which still flourishes to-day, the Marquis of Bute and the Earl of Wharnccliffe being the titled representatives. Cadets of the family have also had the peerages of Stuart de Decies and Stuart de Rothesay conferred on them. John Stuart, third Earl of Bute, was Prime Minister, and not being popular owing to the people's belief that he and the dowager Princess of Wales controlled the King, a jack-boot (Bute) and a petticoat were burned at some of the meetings.

(64) SIR JOHN STEWART, "The Black Stewart," HERITABLE SHERIFF OF BUTE, natural son of King Robert II. (No. 10 g). He left issue:—

PEDIGREE IV.

Stewarts of Bonkyl.

Stewarts of Bonkyl.

UNDER this head are grouped all the Stewarts who came off the main stem prior to its attaining the Crown, with the exception of the Menteths afterwards dealt with. They include the Earls of Angus, Earls and Dukes of Lennox, Earls of Galloway, Atholl, Buchan, and Traquair, Lords Lorn, Innermeath, Pittenweem, and Blantyre, the Stewarts of Appin, Grantully, Rosyth, Minto, etc. The distinguishing emblems in addition to the fess chequy are a "bend" or a "buckle" or "buckles."

(78) SIR JOHN STEWART, CALLED OF BONKYL, second son of Alexander, fourth High Stewart (No. 7, b), was killed at the battle of Falkirk, 1298. He married Margaret, daughter and heiress of Sir Alexander de Bonkyl, in Berwickshire. Sir Alexander's Arms, as shown on his Seal attached to the Ragman Roll, were three buckles, and several of his grandsons and their descendants accordingly carried "buckles" in their Arms also. By Margaret de Bonkyl Sir John Stewart had five sons and one daughter, the last married the son of the famous Randolph, Earl of Moray. The sons were:—

(a) Sir Alexander (No. 79).

(b) Sir Alan (No. 82).

(c) Sir Walter (No. 107).

(d) Sir James (No. 110).

(e) Sir John of Daldar or Daldon. Died s.p.

Arms.—His Seal, attached to a charter dated 1296, shows.—Fess chequy surmounted by bend (Laing). [Plate IV., fig. 58.]

(79) SIR ALEXANDER STEWART OF BONKYL OR BONCLE, son of No. 78, died about 1319.

Arms.—Lindsay shows the Arms as: Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, surmounted by a red bend charged with three gold buckles, and Nisbet agrees. He left a son:—

Angus.

(80) SIR JOHN, who was created EARL OF ANGUS (S.), and died 1331. He was succeeded by his son:—

(81) THOMAS, SECOND EARL OF ANGUS (S.), who died 1361, left two daughters:—

- (a) Margaret, married Thomas, thirteenth Earl of Mar, and, later, described herself as Countess of Angus and Mar. By her brother-in-law, William, Earl of Douglas, she had a son, George Douglas, to whom she assigned the Earldom of Angus, and who was ancestor of the Dukes of Douglas and Dukes of Hamilton.

Arms on her Seal, 1378.—Two shields, the one showing a bend between six cross crosslets fitchy (Mar), the other a fess chequy surmounted by a bend charged with three buckles (Stewart and Bonkyl) (Laing).

- (b) Elizabeth, married Sir Alexander Hamilton, and from this marriage descend the Hamiltons of Innerwick and the Earls of Haddington.

Arms of Thomas, Earl of Angus, on Seal, 1357.—A fess chequy surmounted by a bend charged with three buckles. SUPPORTERS: Two winged lions sejant guardant (Laing). [Plate IV., fig. 59.] 1 and 4. Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, surmounted by a red bend charged with three gold buckles. 2 and 3. Gold, a red lion rampant debruised by a black ribbon (Abernethy) (Nisbet).

Stuarts of Darnley, Aubigny, and Lennox.

THIS important branch of the Stewarts rose to the highest honours in Scotland and England. Sir John Stuart of Darnley (No. 85), was Constable of the Scottish Army in France, and distinguished himself there at the victory over the English at Beaugé, 1421. He then entered the French service, and in 1423 King Charles VII. of France conferred on him the Seigneurie of Aubigny in Berry. He was afterwards slain near Orleans in 1429. The title of Lord of Aubigny continued in his descendants, but was generally held, as shown in the text, by the younger sons. The grandson of the first Lord of Aubigny was created Lord Darnley, and he assumed the title of Earl of Lennox, as he had been served heir to his great-grandfather, Duncan, Earl of Lennox. His right to this title was acknowledged by the King. His son Matthew, the second Earl, fell at Flodden with his King, along with nine other Earls, two eldest sons of Earls, ten Barons, and four eldest sons of Barons. The eldest son of the fourth Earl was the unhappy Lord Darnley, husband of Queen Mary, father of King James VI. of Scotland and I. of England. As the Earldom then merged in the Crown it was conferred on other members of this family. Esme Stuart, sixth Lord of Aubigny, rose to be Duke of Lennox, and his son added the Dukedom of Richmond to the family honours.

(82) SIR ALAN STEWART OF DREGHORN, son of No. 78, was killed at Halidon Hill 1333, and left three sons:—

- (a) Sir John, died without issue.

(b) Walter, died without issue.

(c) Alexander (No. 83).

(83) SIR ALEXANDER STEWART OF DERNELEY AND CRUCKISTOUN. His son :—

(a) Sir John (No. 85).

(b) William, an "Escuyer," who fell with his brother, Sir John, near Orleans in 1429.

Note.—The Stuarts of Castlemilk and their cadets of Arthurley, Craigs, Fettercairn, Finnart, and Torrence claimed to be descended from him, but the descent cannot be proved. As the male line is extinct, I mention the family here. Archibald Stuart of Castlemilk was created a Baronet 1668, but the title became extinct on the death of the fifth Baronet, 1797. Daniel Stuart, younger son of the first Baronet, was father of Sir Wm. Stuart, who succeeded to the Wishart Baronetcy, but died without issue.

Arms of Matthew Stuart of Castlemilk on detached Seal.—

A bend charged with a star in chief and surmounted by a fess chequy (Macdonald). Arms recorded 1672-77.—Gold, a red bend surmounted by a fess chequy blue and silver. CREST: A right hand holding a sword proper. MOTTO: "Avant" (Lyon Register). [Plate IV., fig. 60.] (See No. 279).

Arms of Stuart of Torrence as recorded 1673.—As Castlemilk, but with red crescent in sinister chief (Lyon Register). [Plate IV., fig. 61.]

In 1879 Harrington-Stuart of Torrence, Lanarkshire, recorded: 1 and 4. Stuart of Torrence as above. 2 and 3. Black, a silver fret. CREST: A right hand grasping a sword proper. MOTTO: "Avant" (Lyon Register).

(c) Alexander, of Torbane and Galleston, ancestor of the Stuarts of Drumlay, Halrig, Raiss, and Shawood.

Arms of Stewart of Halrig.—Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, in base a black bangle (Burke).

(d) Robert, ancestor of the Stuarts of Barscube, Binnie, and Milton.

Arms of Stewart of Binnie, recorded 1880.—Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver between a red mullet in chief, and a black hunting horn in base garnished and stringed red. CREST: A right hand holding a dagger, point downwards, proper. MOTTO: "Candide" (Lyon Register). [Plate IV., fig. 62.]

These Arms were recorded in the Lyon Office in 1863 by Lady Louisa Stuart. They were also recorded, but within red bordure, in 1876, as the first grand quarter by Constable-Maxwell-Stuart of Traquair (Lyon Office).

Grantully.

THE Steuarts of Grantully, an ancient branch, survived until recently. In the eighteenth century they were the centre of a dispute which divided the whole country. Sir John Steuart, third Baronet of Grantully, on 4th August 1746 married as his second wife Lady Jane Douglas, sister of Archibald, Duke of Douglas, and it was said she gave birth to twin boys in Paris on 10th July 1748, when she was in her fifty-first year. The Duke of Douglas died in 1761, some of his titles became extinct, the others devolved on his kinsman, the Duke of Hamilton, while the succession to the immense estates devolved on his sister's elder son, Archibald James Edward Steuart, who then adopted the name of Douglas in lieu of Steuart. As there were grave doubts about his legitimacy the guardians of the young Duke of Hamilton took the matter up, and the "Douglas Cause" began. The case was tried in Edinburgh 1767, seven judges decided for legitimacy and seven against, so the President decided the matter in favour of illegitimacy. The case then went to the House of Lords and was heard in 1771, and their Lordships reversed the decision of the Scottish Court, and so Mr Douglas succeeded to the estates and was created a Peer as stated in the text.

(142) ALEXANDER STEUART, son of No. 112, was father of:—

(143) THOMAS OF GRANTULLY, who died 1453. His son, Alexander, was father of:—

(144) JOHN, who had two sons:—

(a) Thomas, who left a daughter, Elizabeth.

House of Menteth.

THE Stewarts of Menteth are the earliest cadets of the family, and they soon adopted the name of their Earldom as a surname. One of the family, Sir John Menteth, gets the credit of turning the loaf upside down, which was the signal for the arrest of William Wallace the patriot. The truth, however, appears to be that Menteth did not betray Wallace, but as Captain of Dumbarton Castle he transmitted him to England.

- (156) WALTER STEWART, EARL OF MENTETH (S.), third son of No. 6. He was known as "Bailloch" or "the freckled." Married Mary, sister of Isabella, Countess of Menteth. He had the title adjudged to him 1258, and was confirmed in it 1285. Died about 1295 leaving two sons:—

(a) Alexander (No. 157).

(b) Sir John (No. 162).

Arms.—His Seal shows fess chequy, with label of five points in chief. (Laing). [Plate VI., fig. 84.] These Arms are also on his monument in the Priory of Inchmahome, Lake of Menteith.

According to Nisbet the label was blue when these Arms were quartered by Robert, Duke of Albany (No. 33).

- (157) ALEXANDER DE MENTETH or STEWART, SECOND EARL OF MENTETH (S.), died about 1304.

Arms on Seal 1296.—A fess invecked, surmounted by another chequy. A label of five points in chief (Laing). Mr Macdonald describes the Arms on the Seal as: Three bars wavy, surmounted by a fess chequy, with label of five points in chief.

Note.—Barry wavy was apparently the Arms of the old Earls of Menteth, and their vassals the Drummonds, adopted Gold, three red wavy bars as their Arms.

He left:—

- (158) ALAN, THIRD EARL OF MENTETH (S.), died about 1309.

Arms on Seal.—A fess chequy, with label of five points in chief (Macdonald). [Plate VI., fig. 84.]

He was succeeded by his brother:—

- (159) MURDOCH DE MENTETH or STEWART, FOURTH EARL, was killed 1333, and was succeeded by his niece:—

- (160) MARY, COUNTESS OF MENTETH (S.), daughter of No. 158, married Sir John Graham, who in her right became Earl of Menteth, their daughter:—

- (161) MARGARET, COUNTESS OF MENTETH (S.), married Robert Stewart, Duke of Albany. (See No. 33).

PEDIGREE VI. House of Menteth.

(162) SIR JOHN MENTETH, second son of No. 156, had two sons:—

(a) Sir John, Lord of Arran and Knapdale, had a son Sir John, who died without issue, and a daughter Christian, from whom descended the Erskines, Earls of Mar.

(b) Sir Walter (No. 163).

Arms on Seal, c. 1305.—A fess chequy surmounted by a bend, a label of five points in chief (Laing).

(163) SIR WALTER MENTEITH OF RUSKY had four sons:—

(a) Sir Alexander, father of Robert, who was father of Murdoch, who was father of Patrick, who died without issue. All of Rusky.

Arms of Menteith of Rusky as recorded for fourth quarter by Haldane-Oswald of Auchencruive in 1861.—Gold, a bend chequy black and silver (Lyon Register). [Plate VI., fig. 85].

(b) John (No. 164).

(c) Walter, who left issue.

(d) Malcolm.

(e) William.

(164) JOHN MENTETH married in 1357 Mary, daughter and heiress of Sir John Stirling of Kerse and Alva, and was father of Sir William of Kerse or Carse.

Arms.—His Seal used by his descendant in 1496 shows 1 and 4. Menteith. 2 and 3. On an engrailed bend three buckles (Stirling of Cadder). CREST: A swan's head and neck between two wings (Laing).

Nisbet and Lindsay give the Arms of Menteith of Carse as: 1 and 4. Gold, a bend chequy black and silver. 2 and 3. Gold, a black galley, in chief three blue buckles. [Plate VI., fig. 86].

Nisbet also gives 1 and 4. Gold, a bend chequy black and silver; 2 and 3. Blue, three gold buckles; and describes these Arms as Menteith of Rusky, but as the buckles represent Stirling they must belong to this branch. [Plate VI., fig. 87].

Sir William left a son:—

(165) WILLIAM OF KERSE, father of four sons:—

(a) William (No. 166).

(b) Archibald.

(c) Alexander.

The Stewarts of Galloway.

THE origin of this family has been the subject of much discussion, and through the destruction by fire of the family mansion and papers about 150 years ago, it is not now possible to prove the pedigree further back than is shown below. The present descendants of Sir William Stewart of Jedworth assert that he was a son of Sir Alexander Stewart of Darnley (No. 84 above) and brother of Sir John (No. 85). In corroboration they point out that the Earl of Lennox, a descendant of Sir John, styles Sir Alexander of Garlies his "near kinsman." King James VI., also a descendant of Sir John, styles the Earl of Galloway a descendant of the Stewarts of Darnley. Turning to the armorial side of the question, Sir John of Darnley has on his Seal a shield showing the fess chequy surmounted by a bend; a bull's head for a Crest; and two men wreathed about the middle as Supporters. The Stewarts of Garlies have the same Arms, except for the slight difference of the bend being engrailed. The Darnley Crest of a bull's head may have been derived from the Arms of the Turnbulls, and it is curious that in 1390 Sir John Turnbull of Minto calls Sir William Stewart of Jedworth (Lord Galloway's ancestor) "nepos" (grandson). One of Lord Galloway's Supporters is a man wreathed about the head and middle, holding a club.

PEDIGREE VII.
Stewarts of Galloway.

Andrew Stuart and others maintained that Sir William of Jedworth was a son of John de Foresta, said to be son of Sir John of Daldar, fifth son of Sir John, called of Bonkyl (No. 78). Joseph Bain, in the Genealogist, suggested that John Stewart of Easter Softlawe might take the place of the above John de Foresta.

Lord Hailes destroys both the last two suggestions by stating that Sir John Stewart of Daldar or Daldon died without issue. It will be noted that the son of Sir William of Jedworth married the great-granddaughter of Sir Walter Stewart of Dalswinton, third son of Sir John Stewart, called of Bonkyl.

(182) SIR WILLIAM STEWART OF JEDWORTH was taken prisoner at the battle of Homildon, 1402, by "Hotspur" Percy, and was put to death by him. He was father of:—

(183) SIR JOHN, who married Marion, daughter of Sir Walter Stewart of Dalswinton (No. 109). They had two sons:—

- (a) William (No. 184).
- (b) John, Provost of Glasgow.

(184) SIR WILLIAM OF DALSWINTON, GARLIES AND MINTO, had three sons:—

- (a) Sir Alexander (No. 185).
- (b) Sir Thomas (No. 198).
- (c) Walter (No. 209).

Arms of Stewart of Garlies.—Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, surmounted by a red engrailed bend (Lindsay). [Plate VI., fig. 91.]

(185) SIR ALEXANDER had three sons:—

- (a) Alexander (No. 186).
- (b) John, died without issue.
- (c) Archibald of Fintalloch.

(186) ALEXANDER, died 1501, was father of:—

(187) SIR ALEXANDER, killed at Flodden 1513. By his wife he had:—

(188) SIR ALEXANDER, who was thrice married, by his second wife he had:—

- (a) Alexander, younger of Garlies, father of Alexander (No. 189).

- (b) John, ancestor of the Stewarts of Ballymorran, Balliquhair, Balsmith, Larg, Livingston, Physgill and Stewartfield.

Note.—The last of the Physgill family is buried at Prestonpans, and the following is the inscription on his monument: "Here lyeth the Remains of John Stuart of Phisgill a Galloway gentleman and Cap. in Lassels Regt. a man of true bravery, who died honourably in defence of his King and Country, and of sacred and civil liberty, being barbarously murdered by four highlanders near the end of the Battle fought in the field of Preston on the 21st Sept. 1745."

His granddaughter married Mr Hawthorn, and one of their descendants is Sir Mark John M'Taggart-Stewart, created a Baronet in 1892, who recorded Arms in 1891 as Physgill below, but with three gold salmon on the bend. In 1895 he again recorded, with these Arms in the first and fourth quarters, and those of M'Taggart in second and third. CREST and MOTTO as next below (Lyon Register).

Arms of Stewart of Ballymorran as recorded 1773.—Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, surmounted by a red engrailed bend, between a red buckle in sinister chief, and a black escallop in dexter base. All within a red double tressure flory-counter-flory. CREST: A demi lion rampant guardant proper, holding in his right paw a gold buckle. MOTTO: "Suffibulatis majores sequor" (Lyon Register). [Plate VI., fig. 92.]

Arms of Stewart of Physgill, Phisgill, or Phisgill, as recorded 1725.—Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, surmounted by an engrailed bend, in sinister chief a buckle, all within a double tressure flory-counter-flory, and all red. CREST and MOTTO as Ballymorran above (Lyon Register). [Plate VI., fig. 93.]

By his third marriage he had:—

- (c) Antony, from whom descended the Stewarts of Clary.
- (d) Robert, married Mary Stewart, heiress of Cardonald.
- (e) William of Bargrenan.

Arms on Seal, 1563.—A fess chequy surmounted by an engrailed bend. CREST: A (unicorn's?) head (Macdonald).

(189) SIR ALEXANDER, who had two sons:—

- (a) Alexander (No. 190).
- (b) William Stewart of Mains, married Barbara, only daughter and heiress of James Stewart of Burray, son of Henry Stewart. (See No. 48 c).

Arms of Stewart of Mains.—Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver, surmounted by an engrailed bend between two lions' heads erased, and all within a double tressure flory-counter-flory, red (Nisbet). [Plate VI., fig. 94.]

Their fourth son, Archibald, was created a Baronet in 1687, but the direct line ended with his grandson, the third Baronet, in 1746.

Arms of Stewart of Burray of this line, as recorded 1672-77.
—Gold, a fess chequy blue and silver surmounted by an engrailed bend, and all within an indented bordure, red.
CREST: A pelican feeding her young proper. MOTTO: "Virescit vulnere" (Lyon Register). [Plate VI., fig. 95.]
