PETITION by Hew Lord Montgomerie to the Committee of Estates, 1648.

Wnto the honorabill Comitte of Estaittes, the Petitioune of Hew Lord Montgomerie,

Humble schaweth,

226. THAT albeit zour petitioner was appoyntit be the Estaittes of Parliament to be a Collonell in the laitt ingadgement to England, zit I never did accept of that chairge; onlie, at my Lord Callanderis west euning, I was induced sua far as to nominat wnder officieaires; but was so loath to appeir any wayes (against the Covenant) that befor I did declair that I wald not joyne in that ingadgement if any malignantis, aither Ingleishe or Scotteis, sould eoneure in armes with that armie; whiehe did appeir by my not goeing to England with the foirsaid armie; whairwpon my chairge was disposing of by the Duike and Callander. Naither did I ever subseryve any band or take any oath for mantinanee of the said ingadgement: and when George Monroe did returne from England and joyned with Lanerke for opposeing of the wasterne forees, I did so far dislyk thair proeedinges that I never eountinaneed thame, but stayed at Dalkeith and Bathanes till I receaved ane letter from my Lord my father, in his awine name and my Lord Chaneellaris (from Lawdoune hill), dessayreing me to returne home; geiveing assuranee I sould not be troubled heirefter in persone nor fortune: Qubairwpon I geave obeddianee, which if the Committee of Air had knowein, they had not proeeded against me, nor used me as on who had bein aetive in the foirsaid ingadgement, by imposeing ane extraordinare burding of the present levie wpon me;

and that I and my tennentis hes almost beine ruinatted with quartereingis and exaictiounes extraordinar. Heirfor I beseike your Lordships to haue consideratioun of the premissis; and that I may be looket vpon at the leist as one of those who haue signifiet thair acceptatioune of the lait traittie at Stirling and Edinburgh: I conceaving my self nawayes obleisched to intimat my acceptatioun thairof, as is thairby prescryved, in regaird I did not accept my said charge, naither did I countenance Lanerke, nor Mouroe, as said is: thairfor your Lordships wald be pleased to geive ordour that I may be repayed for my outrigue of 3 hors and 9 foote; and that I may not heirefter suffer as on disaffected to the guid caus: seeing I sall be reddie with lyfe and forrtoune to haizard for the samyne, and obey your Lordships' commandis.

(Endorsed)

My Lord Moutgomeres Bill, gevin in to the Committe of Estaites, 1648.

Act in favour of Hew Lord Montgomerie, conceuring the part he took in the Duke of Hamilton's Engagement, 2nd January 1649.

Edinburgh, the second of Januar 1649.

227. FORSAMEIKILL as Hew Lord Montgomerie, who wes a Colouell of the armie that went into England for prosecuting the late vnlauffull engagement, vpon ane letter from the Earle of Eglington, his father, be the advyse of the Lord Chaucellor, daited from Lowdownhill, the tyme of the ryseing of the westerne shyres agaiust the prosecutors of the forsaid engagement, desyreing the said Lord, his sonne, to leave the forces that were in armes for prosecuting that ingagement, geiving him assurance that hee should not bee troubled in his persone and estate, for anie thing done bee him relating to the same, did accordinglie leave the said forces that were prosecuting the said engagement, and by a letter signifie so much to his father (quhich the Lord Chancellour declared wes communicated to him) befoir the conclusiou and signing of the late treatie at Edinburgh and Stirling, and that hee did thairefter repaire home, and hes lived peaceable ever sensyne: Thairfoir the Committee of Estates, in consideration thairof, doth heirby grant to the said Hew Lord Montgomerie, the benefite of the said lait treatie in all pointes; and declares that hee is to bee in no worse condition then anie of these who were accessorie to the forsaid engagement, and have iutimated thair acceptation of the said treatie. within the tyme thairby prescryved: And remittes to the Committee of Warr of the sherreffdome of Air, to cause the said Lord Montgomerie be effectualle refounded and repayed of what hee hes advanced for outputting of horse or foot in the present levie, over and above that just proportion thairof quhairvnto hee will bee lyable, as in all other publict burdens imposed vpon the whole kiugdome: and for that effect to impose the samiu vpon these in the said shyre who were accessorie to the forsaid engagement, and have uot signified thair acceptation of the forsaid treatie according thairto, proportionallie effeiring to thair estates, and according to thair PETITION of Alexander sixth Earl of Eglintoun to the General Assembly, against the transportation of Mr. James Fergusson, Minister of Kilwinning, to Edinburgh [1649].

Unto the Right Reverend and Honourable the Moderator and remanent members of this Generall Assemblie, the humble petition of the Earle of Eglintonn

Hnmblic sheweth,

228. THAT wheras I, your wisdomes petitioner, have not beine amongst the last in contributing my wttermost for the cause of God these ten years bypast, an maine motive to quhilk hath beine the faithfull warning and wpstearing quhilk I receaved both in publict and private from my ministers; I cannot bot now regrate that in the tyme of my old age, and when tentations ar also growing, I am so hardlie served by the commission of the church as to be depryved of both my ministers at once; to witt, Mr. Hew M^cKaile, late minister at Irwin, and Mr. James Fergusson, minister at Kilwinning; and this notwithstanding that within thir six years both these places, to my great greife, wer emptyed by the transportation of Mr. David Dickson and Mr. Robert Baillie. Your wisdoms may easilie conceive that I cannot bot be much greived with such ane way of dealing; wherby my sufferings through transportation goeth far beyond anie example that can be produced within this whole kingdome. I most professe it is one of the greatestt discouragements I have mett with in prosecuting of the publict worke, as I have expressed my selfe further to this purpose wnto some of your number; and more nor I think fitt hear to express, except I be pntt to itt.

My humble petition therefore is, that your wisdoms wold spare my present minister, Mr. James Fergusson, to me; especiallie considering that one maine reason moving the most part of the reverend Commission to voyce unto Mr. Hew M^cKaile his transportation, was the certaine expectation they had that the towne of Edinburgh would passe from Mr. James Fergusson, as I conceive some of them heir present ar readie to declare. As also my minister is so litle satisfied with the whole bussiness, both in itselfe and the way of carrying it one, that he cannot be convinced of ane cleare call to remove from the plaee wher he is to Edinburgh: and I am confident that he will rather venture upon anie hazard, nor without full clearing to undergoe such ane charge. In all quhilk considerations I am veri hopfull ye will take my earnest desyre to your wisdoms consideration. The granting wherof will be ane singular encouragement to

Your Wisdoms supplicant,

EGLINTOUN.

FINDING by the Committee of the General Assembly, that Mr. James Ferguson, minister of Kilwinning, should not be transported to Edinburgh, 10th July 1649.

229. WE, the committe appointed for satisfying the Earle off Eglintoun his bill, sa farr as possiblie can be without any publik hearing of it befor the Assemblie, do find it equitable, that for the speciall good service that my Lord hath done in this cause, that his lordship shall enioy his minister, Mr. James Fergusin: and we do herby declare, that we haue warrand from them that ar cheiffie interest in pursuing the said Mr. James his transportation, to promise to my Lord that the said transportation shall be as if it neuer had been decyded or wakned; and Mr. James shall be in the same eondition as other ministers who were neuer summounded in reference to any transportation to Edinburgh. In faith wheroff we haue subscribed thir presentis with our handis, at Edinburgh, the tent off July 1649 yeirs.

ACT in favour of Hugh Lord Montgomerie.

Pearth, the 26 of October 1650.

230. THE Committee of Estates haueing heard and considered the petition of Hugh Lord Montgomerie, beareing that he had satisfied the Church for his faillure in the matter of the late vnlawfull engadgement against England, in being so farr ensnared as to permitt some officeris to goe about the leauicing of an regiment of horse, though he never embraeed charge therein, neither wes he at Sterline with the now Duke of Hammiltoun and Georg Monro; and that the Commission of the Generall Assemble had declared their acceptance of his satisfaction; and that his accession to the said engadgement should be no further hinder to him of any publict employment; and therefore desireing that he might be declared eapable of publict trust, and freed of any restraint lyeing vpon him by publict acts: And haueing also considered the Act of the Commission of the Generall Assemble in behalf of the said Lord to the effect aforesaid; Therefore, and in regard he hes satisfied the Church for his accession to the said engadgement, the Committee of Estates doeth heerby declare the said Lord Montgomerie to be eapable of publict trust, and free of any restraint lyeing vpon him theirfrae by publict acts, notwithstanding his accession to the said engadgement. 231. THE King's Majesty and Committee of Estates being informed that some persons misunderstanding the true sense, meaneing, and end of the Aet of Leauie, do make such interpretations thereof as will frustrat and disappoynt the seruice ; as if the enjoyneing of the heretors to come out with all their horses fitt for seruice did import no more then their comeing out with their owne proper horses ; and, if they wanted of their owne, that they were not to buy nor prouide them : whereby such as had most to loose, and owe the greatest obligatioun to king and kingdome, should be at the smalest charge, and subject to the least duety, contrarie to all equitie and justice, to the ordor observed in all former leauies, and to the true sense and meaneing of the said act ; which is, that all horse fitt for seruice should come out with men and armes, and that those who had the greatest rents should be the outputters of the said horses, according to the proportion of their estates : Therefore the King's Majesty and Committee of Estates, for removeing any mistake arriseing from the said Act of Leauie, do hereby declare and ordaine — that non pretend ignorance or make any subterfuge wpon the said act — that the proportion of horse to be putt furth to the present leauie is to be at least one trooper, weill mounted and armed, for each thousand merk of yearlie valued rent : and that by and attour the heretors and yong men within burghs who are able to mount themselues. ALEXANDER sixth EARL of EGLINTOUN to the Moderator of the Synod of Glasgow and Ayr, [1660].

240. RIGHT REVEREND MODERATOUR — I must intreat yow and the rest of your reverend brethrine of the synod, that now, when I am neir to the grave, yow wold not depryue me of the means of eomfort I have by my minister Mr. James Fergusone. Yow know I have hazarded both lyfe and fortune to serve the judieatories of this ehureh ; which made the General Assemblie, out of the seuse they had of my affectione for them, eontinue him to me after he was transported by vote befor them. And seing thei did so, I eannot exspeet bot yea will much more befreind me, especialie against the towne of Glasgowe, who have alreadie robed me of fyve of my ministers ; so as it seems to me it is now rather my prejudiee then ther owen good they are seekinge : for they know weal enugh they can never get him ; they may weal opin a doore to Edinbrugh : and what should be the eause of this ther maliee against me who have ever lived as a neighbour, readie to doe them all the eourtesies I eould, I know not : bot what ever it be, I hope your wisdom will not be aecessorie to my prejudiee, bot will eontinue him to me, and so ingage me and myne to be ever your MEMORIAL by Alexander sixth Earl of Eglinton, and Hew Lord Montgomerie, to the Synod of Glasgow and Ayr against the transportation to Glasgow of Mr. James Ferguson, minister of Kilwinning [1660].

241. Unto the Richt Reverend the Moderatour and remanent brethren of the provincial of Glasgow and Air, the earnest supplication of Hew Lord Montgomrie, in his oune name and in the name of his aged father, the Earle of Eglintone.

SHOWETH, That wheras the magistrats and ehureh session of Glasgow doe yet eontinue to seik the transportation of their minister, Mr. James Fergusson, to Glasgow, notwithstanding that the presbiterie of Irwin hath unanimously fixed him where he is; and doe therby, if so your wisdom should grant their desire, not onlie wrong this familie, who have deserved no such thing at their hands, but also take the neirest and most effectuall way to send their minister out of the bounds of the sinod, considering that the towne of Edinburgh pretendeth a right to him by vertue of ane act of the Commission of the church transporting him there; the execution of which act was delayed by the General Assemblie onlie from respect to the petitioners familie: so that if this Reverend Judicatorie who, may be conceived, should be as tender of the weal of that familie as anie church judicatorie in this national church, shal ordaine him to transport from them, it cannot be wel expected but the Generall Assemblie — to which this processe will, without doubt, be caryed by appeale — will, upon the earnest desyre of the towne of Edinburgh, thinke that argument which formerlie did prevail with them for the not-execution of the forementioned act much weakned, if not whollie enervatted by the prior determination of this judicatorie, if so your wisdoms who know the case of your petitioners familie, and wil be presumed in reason to pay al due respect to it, shal, notwithstanding of all the arguments used by them to the contrari, ordaine their minister to transport from them.

May it therefore please your wisdoms to take all the reasons given in by the petitioners and the parosh of Kilwinning to your grave consideration: and they doe not doubt but your wisdoms wil be loath to passe anie sentence for their ministers transportation which wil be so far from gratifying the towne of Glasgow, that in al probabilitie it would make faire way for the removal of their minister, not onlie from the parosh of Kilwinning and presbitric of Irwin, but also out of the whole bounds of this sinod: To which that your wisdoms be not in anie measure accessorie, is both the expectation and earnest desyre of

Your wisdoms' humble petitioners.

REASONS OF APPEAL to the General Assembly by Alexander sixth Earl of Eglintone, and Hugh Lord Montgomerie, against the sentence of the Synod of Glasgow and Ayr, for the translation of Mr. James Ferguson from Kilwinning to Glasgow, October 3rd 1660.

242. The reasons of the appellation given in by me Hew Lord Montgomrie, in his owne name and in the name of his honourable father, the Earl of Eglintone, and the whole parish-ioners of Kilwinning, against the sentence of the Sinod of Glasgow, October 3, 1660, wherby they transported Mr. James Fergusson to Glasgow, from the saids provinciale to the nixt insuing Generall Assemblie.

First. THE said sentence, as wil appear from the reasons given in by us, is prejudicial to the good of the church of Christ in these bounds.

2. The sinod did uot seriouslie weigh the strength of those reasons given in by ws, the parish-ioners, and our minister, against the saids transportation; otherwyse it cannot be conceived they would have passed such ane unjust sentence.

3. This sentence was onlie caryed by foure or fyve voyces; there being a great number present who were not cleare to voyce anie thing: so that the sentence can hardlie be looked upon other wyse then as a non-liquet of the whole sinod; and therefore should not have beine judged by the synod as ane authoritative act ordaining our saids minister to be transported.

For these and such other reasons as shal be given in by me, in duc time and place, I doe appeal from the formentioned sentence as unjust; and doe protest that the saids sinod, with al parties interested, are hereby obleiged to sist themselves before the nixt General Assemblie, when or wheresoever it shal happen to be, to receive their sentence from the Assemblie for the saids injustice; and that they bring alongs with them ane extract of the forementioned unjust sentence, together with al the reasons which were produced and heard before them, pro and con. in this bussines. In witnes whereof I have subscribed these presents with my hand, at Glasgow, October 3.

TESTAMENT of Alexander sixth Earl of Eglintoun, 19th May 1660.

243. WE, Alexander Earle of Eglintoune, Lord Montgomerie and Kilwyning, being now for the present both in health of bodie and sound in spirit and judgment (praise be to God), knowing nothing to be more certane then death, and more vncertane nor the tyme and houre thairof; recommending my soull and my spirit vnto the great Lord, my Creator, and to the Lord Jesus Chryst, my most blessed Saviour and Redeimer, hoping assuredlie to be saved onlie by the merits of Jesus; ordaineing my corpes (quhen it sall please the Lord to call vpon me out of this mortall lyfe) to be buried in our avne ordinar buriall place in the Church of Kilwyning; haveing now thought good to mak and sett doune this our testament and letter will as followes: And we taking to our consideratioune that be vertew of ane contract made betuixt us, on the ane part, and Hew Lord Montgomerie, our eldest lawfull sone, on the vther part, of the dait the eight day of December, 1st VI: fytie eight yeires, we did for the reasons and causses thairin specifeit, and more speciallie, in regard of the said Hew Lord Montgomerie, our eldest lawfull sone abonenameit, his oblidging of himselfe and his aires thairby to pay to our haill severall respective creditours of all and sundrie thair haill severall soumes of money, principalls and bygaine annualrents thairof, awand for the tyme efter our deceis, particularlie specifiet and containeit in the inventar of our debts then dravne vp and mutuallie subseryvit be us both; and which be the said contract are ordaineit to be holdin as speciallie ingrossed and sett doune thairintill; at the leist, to mak payment to our saids severall respectiue creditours, efter the tyme of our said deceis, of so many of the saids debts and soumes of money as sould then happin to be restand awand vnpayit to them for the tyme; bind and obleis us, and the said Hew Lord Montgomery, our eldest sone abone nameit, that we sould conferr the benefeit of our executrie of all and sundrie our guids, geire, cornes, cattell, insight plenishing, debts, soumes of money, maills, fermes, proffeits and dewties of land and vthirs belonging to us the tyme of our said deceis, in the persoun and favours of the said Hew

MEMORIAL by Sir Alexander Maxwell of Monreith, Baronet (husband of Lady Jean Montgomerie, daughter of Alexander ninth Earl of Eglinton), for the Gentlemen he has named to bee tutors and overseers of his children. [Circa 1728.]

257. THE making or undoing of young gentlemen depends soe much on a right turn of education, there cannot be great enough care taken to have my sons in good hands, will notice there behaviour, and guard them against receiving bad impressions in their principles or manners. For this end, a person of prudence, probity, and good understanding would be found out to take the charge of my sons, bee constantly with them, and make it his cheif studie to have them right brought up; keep them from evill and mean company; not to suffer them to be idle, mispend time, or doe any thing is base or dishonourable: one that is capable to give them right notions and impressions of things, and to form there minds to virtue. Noe mony should bee spared to engadge a right man for this charge, who would discharge this trust faithfullie.

When my son has passed thorough the schools and colledges at home, cause him read the Scots Law: At the age of twenty, and noe sooner, let him bee sent over to Leyden, to read law, history, philosophy, or any thing else is taught there; where he is to stay close two years reading, or longer if he inclines to it. Tho' he should not profit much by his reading then, yet it will put him into a method of reading will afterwards doe him a great dcall of good when ever he intends to apply himself. I speak of Law as of the cheif studie; for tho' he doe not incline to follou the profession of the law, yet it is soe necessar to know for self preservation, a man is at the greatest losse to be ignorant of it; being exposed to the catches of his neighbours, and will occasion him to spend a great deall of mony in getting advice about his affairs even in small matters; or, if he acts without advice, will run him into many snares. Noe man can make any considerable figure without understanding both our municipall laws and the civill law. After having employed his time well at Leyden or Utrecht, — tho' Leydeu is the place where they profit most, and the best professors are, few or noe diversions to take them off there studies, which there is enough of at Utrecht. Let him goe travell a year thorou France and Flaunders. I have made ane allowance for all my sons to be educated abroad; if the tutors think them fit for it, the modell mentioued here may serve for them all. If they incliue not to bee seholars, but to the military or merchant trade, it is lost mony to keep them at books; only give them such ane education as may fit them for the trade they incliue most to follow, and may be usefull in any station of life.

For my daughters, any of them has not been educated at Edinburgh before my death are to be sent there to stay two years to learn what is thought proper for them by there freinds. Because that will be more then ane ordinar echarge, I have made ane allowance for it far above the interest of there portions: It is absolutly necessar to have a discreet servant about them, who will take authority over them to restrain them from doing what they have a mind, and to bee watchfull they keep noe bad company, uor allou them to converse with any bodie but those that are suitable company for them. More young women are ruied by being under noe restraint and getting all there freedom as any other way. While there aunt Jean lives at Ediuburgh, they may bee sent to live with her; and a house taken for them to stay together untill they be educated and come to have some discretion. I make noe question but there aunt will be most carefull to have them bred up right if they follou her advice. I doe alsoe earnestly reeomeud them to the care and oversight of my Lady Galloway and my Lady Effy Lockheart, who oulie can make up to them the unspeakable losse of there dear mother; — they being persons soe capable to direct and advise them as to there conduct and behaviour; who I hope will use the freedom of a parent to tell them of and reprove their faults, and use the same authority over them as I would doe; having ordered it soe, that none of my daughters can marry without there expresse consent, else they are under a forfeiture. Besides, of hou great advantadge will these persons freindship and countenance bee to them in every respect, seing they cannot bee in soe good company, would intreat, as the greatest favour and kindnesse can be done me or them, to allou my echildren to bee with them as often as possible without being troublesom.

Having a great many parks in my oun hand, which cau never be manadged by servants with auy advantadge to a minor, who are more ready to make there oun profit as to mind there master's interest, nor have they judgement or capacity for soe great' a trust, doe think it most proper that my parks, with all the stock is in them, be put to a roup and sold to the best advantadge; and that the highest offerer, who is a responsible man, should have a lease of them till my sou be of age. You will find them in the rent roll book with the rest of my estate. There rent is a 1000 merks yearly,—under what I used to make of them in ordinar years. Nor did I reekon on what I made out of my eorns, or the beef and mutton was made use of in my family; all was eharged on the oxen and eoues were sold. This, with the hay and horses, will make a very great differenee. Whoever is the taeksman of the grounds must be strietly bound, under a penaltie, to leave all the houses he possesses, such as barns, byers, kilns, or any houses where herds and servants lives, in good and suffieient eondition: as alsoe the park dikes, gates, and ditehes must be viened, at his entry, by four men of skill in those matters, to make a written report of there eondition, to be signed by them and given in to the tutors; and the same men must alsoe vien them at the end of the taek, to consider if they be in a worse eaiee, and to estimat them.

The taeksman must alsoe bee bound up not to plough above fifty bolls souing of the parks during the last four years of his taek, and not to take more as three eropts following out of any one ground. The pricc of the stoek of my grounds, when sold, is to be payed in to John Binning, my agent, for clearing off any debts I may be ouing, and the rest to bee lent out on security, for paying the children's portions: as alsoe, what mony is made out of the estate after all annual ineunbrancees are cleared, such as the maintenaneé of my son and the rest of the ehildren, my mother's jointure, or any other that is to be payed as ane annual charge on the estate, the surplus to be payed in to John Binning, that he may lend it out by the eurators' adviee, and receive in the annual-rents, to be put to such uses as the manadgers shall direct.

As the stoek to be disposed on at my death will be of a considerable value, it is worthy of eonsideration that it may be done to the best advantadge: whoever has a mind to take the parks will probably desire to buy the sale stoek is in them. The rule for this is the priccies they were bought in at, with the expenees and interest of the money, and a proportion of the rent for the time they have been in the grounds: If this cannot bee got, they must stay in the grounds till they bee fat, and sold at home, if merehants will buy them; or send them up to England with William Dun, to be sold there. As for the milk stoek of eoues, and the breeding stoek, a person of skill must be joynd to William Dun to see this stoek disposed of at a right value, and to have the most made of it; whieh must be done by a publiek roup. What eoues are old and cannot be got sold for breeding, must stay on the ground till they be made fat, and sold at the Mertimasse time: for those that are young, there is noe doubt of there selling to good advantadge: for horses, sheep, corn and barley, there will be noe such difficultie—the last two being alwaies in great request, and goes off at good priccies. The first two must be disposed off at such priccies as can be got; only horses of value would sell much better at publiek fairs and mereats as in such a retired eorner as this, where they are all provyded. Grasse must be reserved from the taeksman for any part of the stoek is undisposed, for the spaece of half a year or longer, till they bee got sold: alsoe it would bee considered, if he possesse the mansion house and gardens with the furniture, hou he is to keep them in eondition; and to oblidge him to furnish house room. corn and hay when the manadgers shall come on my son's aeeounts.

A person of knowledge and discretion should be wyld out to be chamberlain to the estate, eapable to keep courts, adjust and setle all differences amongst the tenants, to keep them from going to other courts to spend there time and mony ; who has integrity not to accept of bribes from them, but to doe justice impartially ; who has skill and consideration to put out tenants when they fall weak, and bring in others of substance in there place. The greatest part of my estate being in tacks—onlie a few touns are not soe—it may happen these who have tacks may fall low, he must be oblidge to find baile, and to keep up my jurisdiction, particularly that of Admirall in my own bounds. As there will be noe use for the service and casualties payable by the tenants till my son is of age and going to keep family, there service may be rentalled at twenty merks the plough, which they gave me when they were to pay noe service : alsoe they pay for the stone of butter four pund ; for a goose a merk ; for a capon half a merk ; a groat for a hen ; two pence for a chicken ; eight pound for a swine : These are the prices they pay me when they doe not pay them in kind.

When the tacks of the miln of Apilbea and miln of Mochrum are out, and neu tacks to be given, it would be necessar to oblidge the millers to uphold these milns in stones, timber, iron, and all other necessaries, during there possessions ; to leave them in good and sufficient eondition in all those materialls : this they will rather doe as pay entry for them. The milns of Monreith and Aries are already set in that manner. A factor will then have noe opportunity of charging of accounts for repair of milns. The entries payed by the tenants are marked on the baek of there tacks, and in the rent roll. The gardens to be let to a gardiner, who will engadge to keep them and the planting in as good a state as at my death.

These hints are onlie offered to the Honourable Gentlemen not by way of rule, but with submission to there better judgement, to make use of as far as they find convenient.
